Manifestly there should be xylophone effects where Reid is seen playing the instrument for the orchestra leader, and if you are able to obtain such a player we would suggest some popular selection to be played during this and then carry the xylophone and the full orchestra with jazz or popular dance stuff into the scenes where the orchestra is seen playing and through the incidents at the dance.

There is another scene where the servants are seen dancing where a popular air on the phonograph could be used and then for the scenes in the restaurant the music should be largely on the strings. The theme should be used where the girl goes to Reid and again at the end of the picture. Another little laugh can be added in the scene where the restaurant proprietor tries to kiss Reid with "He's Had No Loving in a Long, Long Time."

AN all-around comedy bill again suggests itself here, with even the overture the lighter stuff with selections from some of the more tuneful comic operas, but this is the sort of picture that will fit in with any surroundings.

We would prefer to keep everything strictly American about the bill, even to the scenic. All of the settings in the picture are interiors, therefore a scenic, especially one showing snow and mountain stuff will be particularly appropriate. If you have an orchestra we would suggest an orchestra number between the feature and the straight comedy that you use to relieve the laughs, but otherwise throw the scenic or a new reel in there. Otherwise the feature itself is likely to take some of the edge off the comedy.

At the left Dorothy Gish is up to her usual tricks in "I'll Get Him Yet," Paramount-Flagg comedy. In the center is Evelyn Goswell, featured in a new Paramount picture. At the right Charles Ray is "choosing up" in "The Busher," his newest picture.

First Eminent Authors' Picture

"The Cup of Fury," by Rupert Hughes, Story of World-Moulding of Today, Premier Offering of New Concern

REX BEACH and Samuel Goldwyn announce that the first production of the Eminent Authors' Pictures, Inc. will be "The Cup of Fury" by Rupert Hughes.

As a novel "The Cup of Fury" has attracted nationwide attention through its recent publication in the Red Book magazine. It is the latest literary output of Rupert Hughes who is one of the highest paid writers in the world. It is a story absolutely abreast of the times. America is its religion. Its drama consists in mirroring the events that are to-day shaping the world and therefore of great interest.

On this first output of the new million-dollar corporation will rest the preliminary trials of the experiment to give the author the high hand in shaping the screen adaptation of his story. It is important to note the liberal attitude of Major Hughes with regard to the coining of his first individual work of screen art. He declares that he has no intention of invading the province of the director. With Rex Beach he holds that the director is entitled to all the sway that his genius commands. The expedient attitude of the Eminent Authors' Company with regard to details of this first output is to enlist the services of a director who is absolutely in spirit with the man who has originated the story for his direction.

Big Exploitation Aid for Selznick Features

THAT the producer's part does not end with the mere selling of its finished product, but should continue until the production has been properly placed before the public, is the firm belief of Selznick Pictures Corp., which is co-operating with Select Pictures Corp. distributers of Selznick pictures, to the fullest extent in helping to put Selznick pictures over the top wherever they are shown. The day of simply selling the exhibitor, Selznick feels, and then letting him get the picture over as best he can has not only past but its evil effects have always rebounded to the disadvantage of the producer.

As concrete evidence of Selznick's willingness to co-operate with the exhibitor in every way, Randolph Bartlett, head of the Selznick exploitation department, has been devoting his fullest energies during the past two weeks to the Stanley Theatre, Philadelphia, and the Palace Theatre, New Haven, where the first run showing of Olive Thomas in "Upstairs and Down" was presented during the week of June 9.

Not only is Selznick developing an exploitation department—for purely exhibitor service—on a scale never attempted before, but a staff of exploitation specialists is being organized in every branch exchange. These men will be at the exhibitor's command, going direct to the theatres and doing everything in their power to get big returns for theatres booking Selznick pictures.

Trinity of Virtues Live in Metro Production

As recently announced by Metro, Beauty, Truth and Love have been brought together in a reunion as it were, with the production of the new story for May Allison, called "Free" and published in the Saturday Evening Post from the comedy pen of the versatile writer, Wallace Irwin.

The same Beauty, Truth and Love who made such a lasting impression in Henry W. Savage's stage production "Every Woman" with May Allison as Beauty, Kathleen Kerrigan (J. Warren Kerrigan's sister) as Truth and Pel Trenton as King Love, are all together again in Metro's "Free."

Metro's Summer Schedule Engages Karger

Maxwell Karger, Metro's Director General of production, has returned from New York to the Hollywood studios, where a whole raft of midsummer productions await his attention, including one release each of five of the stars.

Viola Dana, May Allison, Emmy Wehlen, Bert Lytell and Hale Hamilton have all begun work on new productions for the summer program. Mr. Karger is giving his personal supervision to these with a view to making these offerings as near in continuity of plot and accuracy of detail to the style of the better productions which Metro is aiming at in the special features plan recently announced by Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro.

Author's Department in Vita Now Organized

Eugene Mullin, for five years with the Vitagraph and recently placed in charge of Universal's staff has so well organized the authorial division of the U studio that manuscripts are now read and decided upon within a week or ten days after receipt. Mullin has been a scenario editor, author and producing director since entering the motion picture field. "Stories are being selected with extreme care," says Mullin, "excellent material is coming in constantly and a compact department is being rapidly established."

Kinograms Gets Space in a Daily

Kinograms, the weekly news reel distributed through World Film Corporation, and of which Ray L. Hall is editor and Terry Ramsaye associate editor, was given a whole column in a recent edition of the New York Evening Mail, a daily, through a controversy which arose over the showing of a returned hero's activities on the screen.

Lucille Lee Stewart, Playing in Selznick Productions

Emile Chautard Organizes Own Company

A new company to be known as the Emile Chautard Pictures Corp. has been organized by Emile Chautard, director of all of Elsie Ferguson's recent pictures for Famous Players. He has contracted to produce at least five pictures a year, to be presented by the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation. The Paragon studio at Fort Lee, formerly used by Famous Players has been leased, and work already started on the first production, an adaptation of the Saturday Evening Post story, "A Scrap of Paper" by Alfred Somers Roche. The cast will include Lester Lonergon.

Honor Guest at Returned Soldiers' Banquet

Florence Billings, who has the feminine lead in Charles Miller's first independent production, released by Frank G. Hall, president of Independent Sales Corporation, was one of the fifteen screen stars who were guests of honor at the motion picture ball given by the city officials of Richmond, Va., in honor of the returning soldiers, encamping at Camp Lee, Va. Miss Billings received a personal invitation from the mayor of Richmond.

Airdrome Built in Exclusive Residence Section

Charleston's latest motion picture theatre is the Shamrock Terrace Airdome, which is unique in some respects. It is established on the site of what was once an ultra-fashionable hotel and stands at the entrance of the finest residential district in the city. The airdome was built by Commander Mark St. Clair Ellis, Commandant at the naval training station at the Charleston Navy Yard. The management is in the hands of W. D. Powell.

There were special added features on the opening night, May 28.

About New Pictures

One of the many enjoyable features promised in connection with "Oh Boy," Albert Capellani's "Filmusical-Comedy," co-starring Creighton Hale and June Caprice, will be the appearance of a bevy of beauties recruited by Mr. Capellani from the various Broadway cabarets and musical comedy shows.

Allen Holubar is nearing the completion of the current super-production, "The Right to Happiness," at Universal City. Dorothy Phillips, the star who has a dual role in this production, is supported by an all-star cast.

It is said that Shirley Mason does the finest work of her career in "The Final Close-Up," her Paramount picture which is released May 18. She has the role of a little department store clerk who is befriended by a newspaper reporter.

At the William Fox studios at Hollywood, Cal., Gladys Brockwell has begun work on a western picture called "Sadie," which is said to be among the strongest productions in which she has appeared. Frank Beal is the director.

Nina Wilcox Putnam, whose writings in the Saturday Evening Post have established her as one of the most popular fiction authors of the day, wrote "In Search of Arcady," featuring Billie Rhodes, which Robertson-Cole will release through Exhibitors' Mutual.

Among the most recent testimonials received by Universal praising its super-production, "The Heart of Humanity," is one of the Rev. Francis J. Finn, head of the St. Xavier College in Cincinnati, Ohio.

"Fatty" Arbuckle was busy all week on location in Glendale, making a big Western dance hall scene, etc., for his new Paramount-Arbuckle comedy, "A Desert Hero." This scene will be one of the largest and most elaborate ever shown in a comedy.

One of the direct appeals to the public in Marion Davies' latest Select picture, "Getting Mary Married," is her clothes. The public, especially the feminine public, is a close observer of an actress' clothes, and in this attraction Miss Davies is one hundred per cent perfect.

One of the entries in the Kentucky Derby, the running of which was witnessed by a record crowd at the spring meeting of the Kentucky Jockey Club at Louisville, was Eternal, the horse which Miriam Cooper, the William Fox star, rode at the filming of "Millions of Money."

Though Louis Bennison plays a hardy Westerner of crude and unconventional methods in his newest Betzwood production, "The Road Called Straight," the most exacting critic could hardly find anything crude about the acting of the smiling cowboy star.

Vitagraph announces "Beauty Proof" as its next photodrama, starring Harry T. Morey. It was written by James Oliver Curwood, the novelist, and deals with one of those strange, relentless man-hunts undertaken by the Northwest Mounted Police.

Prominent in the cast supporting Florence Reed in her forthcoming United Picture Theatres, Inc., screen feature are Florence Billings, Mathilde Brundage, Conway Tearle, and Jed Prouty. Frank H. Crane is directing.

The forthcoming Lyons-Moran comedy which has been given the title "Love Thy Neighbor," is the 250th production made by these two fun makers of the films.

World Pictures are in receipt of a telegram from Floyd St. John, San Francisco Exchange Manager of the company, stating that "The Better 'Ole" in photoplay opened to capacity business at the Curran theatre.

E. Richard Schayer, the new head of the Brentwood Scenario Department, is collaborating with King W. Vidor on the story for the next Brentwood production featuring Florence Vidor, who—for the first time before the public, at least—will be directed by her young husband.

As a recent attraction, the Stanley theatre, in Philadelphia, selected the latest Anita Stewart special attraction, "A Midnight Romance." It attracted enormous crowds at every performance.

Dan F. Whitcomb, recently added to the authors' staff at the American, has written a story for Margarita Fisher which he has tentatively titled "The Hellion." It is a dual-role subject.

Margarita Fisher Certainly Looks the Part in Her Latest American Production, "Trixie from Broadway," Distributed by Pathe

Radical Departure by Comedienne from Usual Role

Mabel Normand will have a rather different role in "Upstairs," her newest Goldwyn production, from those she was seen in "Sis Hopkins," "The Pest," and "Milly Martin." In her new character the comedienne plays a part in which drama and comedy are intermixed, rather than burlesque attitudes.

It is announced, in fact that Miss Normand has tempered her usual character part with a bit of the "straight" heroine, but that despite this her role gives her plenty of chance to portray humorous and primitive emotion.

"Upstairs" will be released in the near future.

Meighan to Play Title Role in Barrie Play

It is now definitely announced by Cecil B. DeMille, that Thomas Meighan will play the title role in Mr. DeMille's Artcraft version of Sir James M. Barrie's satirical play, "The Admirable Crichton," which, however, will probably not be released under that title.

Elliott Dexter, originally slated to play the title role of Crichton, was taken ill with a nervous breakdown a few days ago and will not be able to play the part.

Gloria Swanson will have the leading feminine characterization, while Lila Lee will also appear in it.

THE MYSTERY OF 13

An Unusually Dramatic Moment in "A Rogue's Romance," Vitagraph Production Featuring Earle Williams. The Story Is by H. H. Van Loan

Auspicious Feature Presentation

"Man Who Turned White," Robertson-Cole Offering, Praised Highly by Critics Upon New York Premier

THE New York premiere of Robertson-Cole's first Superior Picture, "The Man Who Turned White," starring H. B. Warner, which Exhibitors Mutual will release, took place June 1 at B. S. Moss' Broadway theatre. The Warner production succeeded "The Unpardonable Sin," and despite the fact that the thermometer recorded the hottest June first in many years, the premiere was a decided success.

The New York critics were almost unanimous in their opinions that "The Man Who Turned White" is an ideal screen attraction. The Evening Sun called the picture "one of the best ever shown at the Broadway." The Evening Telegram asserts that "Warner is repeating the success he won on the legitimate stage," and adds: "Go to the Broadway and see how he wins the girl. It's worth while." The Morning Sun commented that the production "has stir and color, some striking night scenes, and altogether is an agreeable improvement over the war drama that opened B. S. Moss' management there. And one is always prejudiced in favor of Mr. Warner."

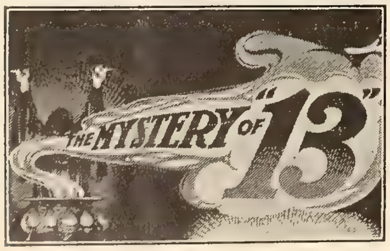
The Globe said that "Mr. Warner is fatally handsome in his Bedouin disguise and still more handsome as a smooth-shaven Englishman. The picture is well directed and acted and makes an excellent feature." "Many of the desert pictures in the photoplay and some of the town scenes are unusually well done, and in his dual role, Mr. Warner has the grace and dramatic presence for which he is well known" the New York Times said. The Tribune critic said: "We cannot deny that the picture has all the elements of success in it. The desert scenes are wonderful."

The music which accompanied the picture was much praised, while the lobby display was one of the most elaborate yet remarked.

First Gathering of the Film Social Club

The Film Social Club, the membership of which is made up of the operating forces of the various film exchanges, gave its first dance and vaudeville entertainment at Unity Hall, 341 West 47th., on Thursday evening, May 22nd.

E. Eckstein, the leader of the Club's Own Jazz band, arranged the programme of music, which included some of his own particular compositions in jazzing of the most up-to-date kind. Ben Neeberg entertained with piano selections, the Brons Royal Comedy Five got a large lot of laughs, the Erie Trio sang well and Ben Goldie pleased.



Another Big Story Is Bought by Fox

The announcement last week that "The Joyous Trouble Maker," the novel by Jackson Gregory, had been purchased for a William Farnum picture is followed by news that "The Wings of the Morning," a novel by Louis Tracy, also has been bought for Mr. Farnum, at what is stated to have been the largest price paid for a novel by William Fox in recent years.

With the hero a castaway with a young girl on an island in the China sea, the story abounds in the romance of a modern Robinson Crusoe existence, and in fierce battling with savages. This role, it will be observed, is a distinct departure from that offered in "The Joyous Trouble Maker," which is western in its atmosphere, as well as from such vehicles as "The Lone Star Ranger" and "The Rainbow Trail," other Farnum plays, and is somewhat more in line with this star's recent production, "The Jungle Trail"—although the latter is African in locale.

New South Sea Cannibal Picture Expected

Almost a year has elapsed since Martin Johnson's "Cannibals of the South Seas" was given its first showing, and pronounced a remarkable attraction by Samuel L. Rothapfel, then managing director of the Rivoli and Rialto theatres, New York. Now Robertson-Cole announce they are doing more business with this feature than at any time since they began distribution through Exhibitors' Mutual.

Letters of commendation of the feature are being received from all parts of the country, and it will be of interest to the trade to learn that Martin Johnson and his wife, are now in the South Sea islands, further photographing the cannibals. They are visiting the most remote spots, and no word has been had from them for some time.

Mutual Profit in Short Subject Selling Plan

In connection with Universal's recently announced plan to divide its selling agencies into divisions for the selling of shorter subjects—this in recognition of the increased vogue of the short picture—Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, this week said he believed the exhibitor and the company would both profit by the new plan.

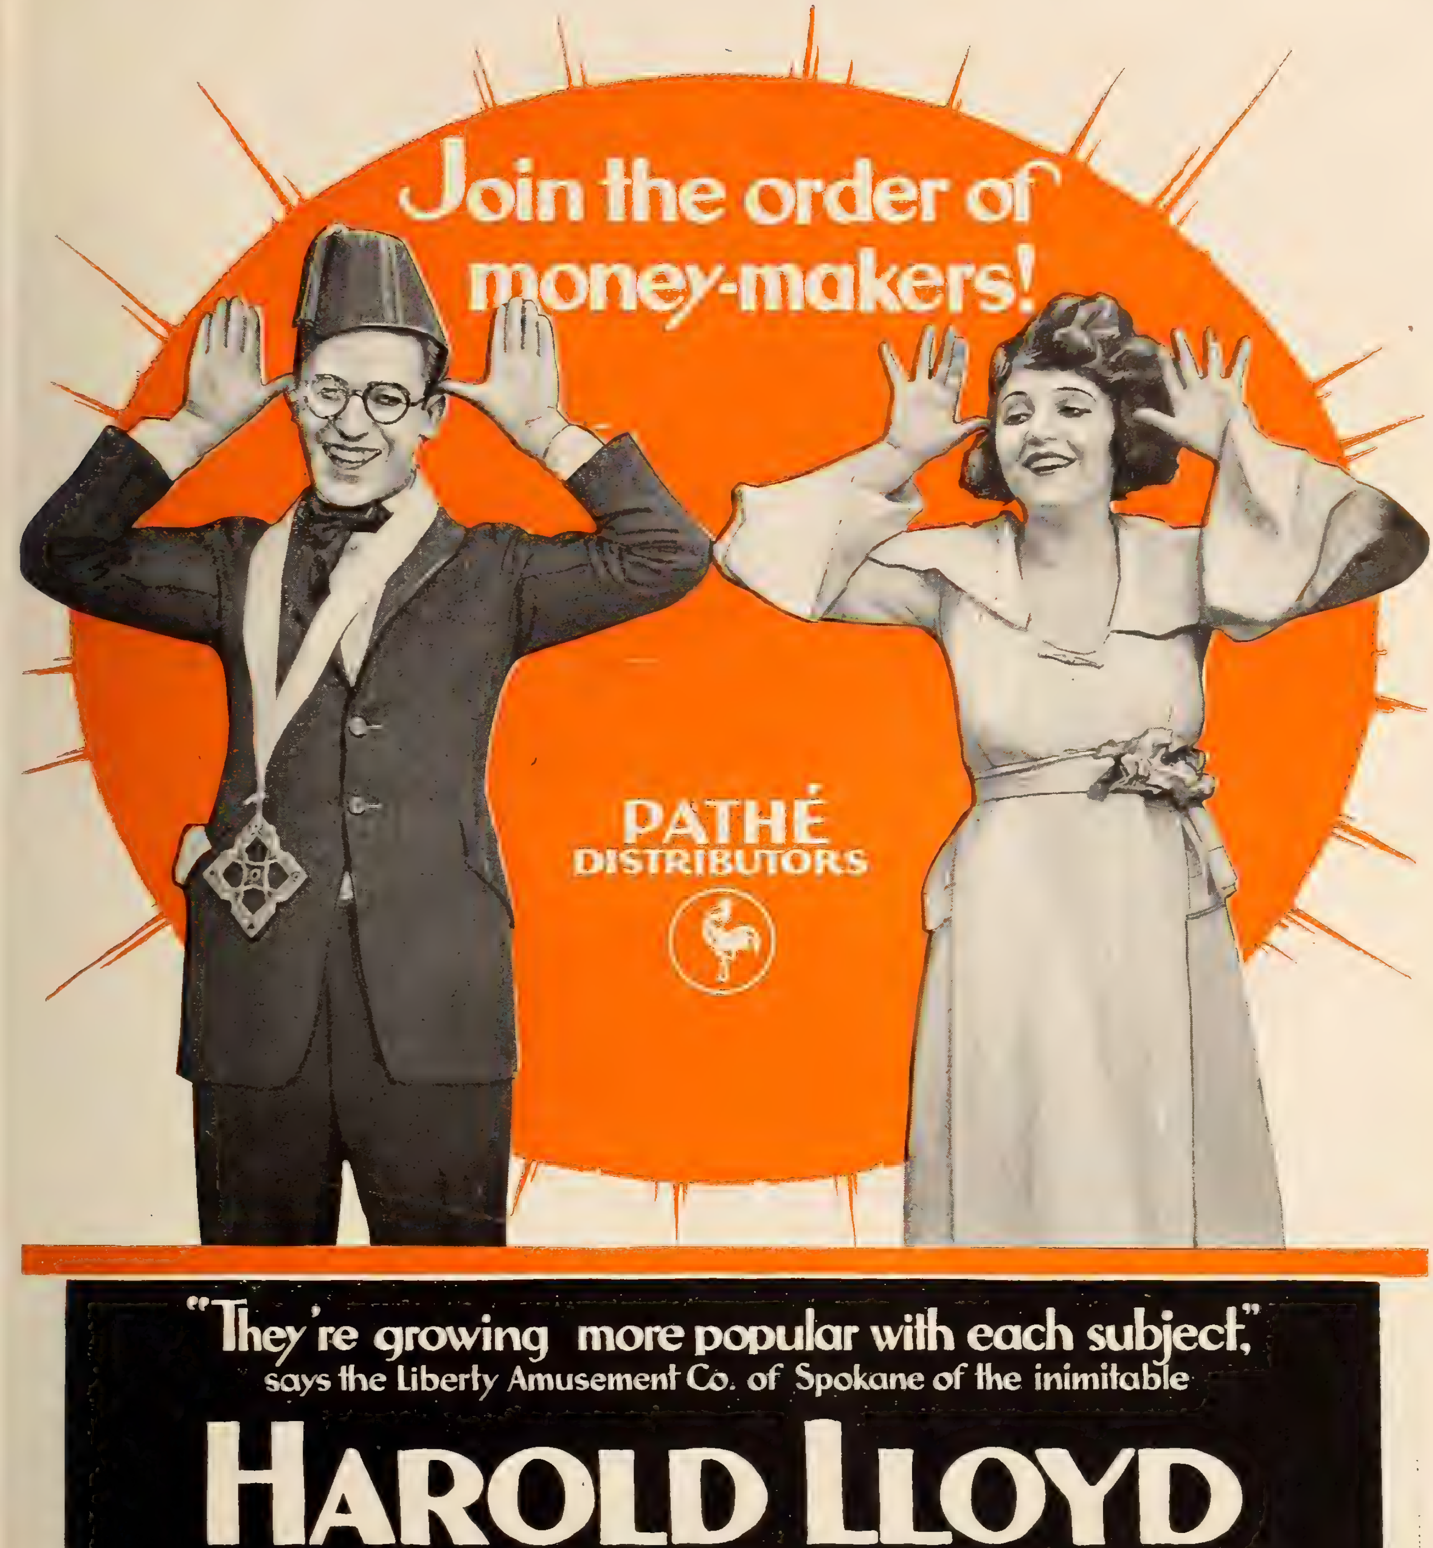
Joe Schnitzer, general sales manager of the Universal, Art Schmidt of the Cleveland office, S. J. Goldsmith of the Chicago branch, and Gus Metzger of the Portland exchange are now covering each of Universal's exchanges in the United States and are installing and perfecting the new selling plan.

The fifth of the western dramas in which Louis Bennison is seen is "High Pockets," Betzwood picture, soon to be released by Goldwyn.

Hattie Delaro is in the cast of Marion Davies' new starring vehicle, "April Folly," now being screened at the Biograph Studio. Miss Delaro has forsaken the path of grandes dames and "maternal women" to play a lady of uncertain age and temper.

Rex Beach's latest contribution to the screen is "The Crimson Gardenia." Owen Moore and Hedda Nova have the leading parts.

Zena Keefe and Hugh Dillman, in "An Amateur Widow," World picture



Join the order of money-makers!
PATHÉ
DISTRIBUTORS

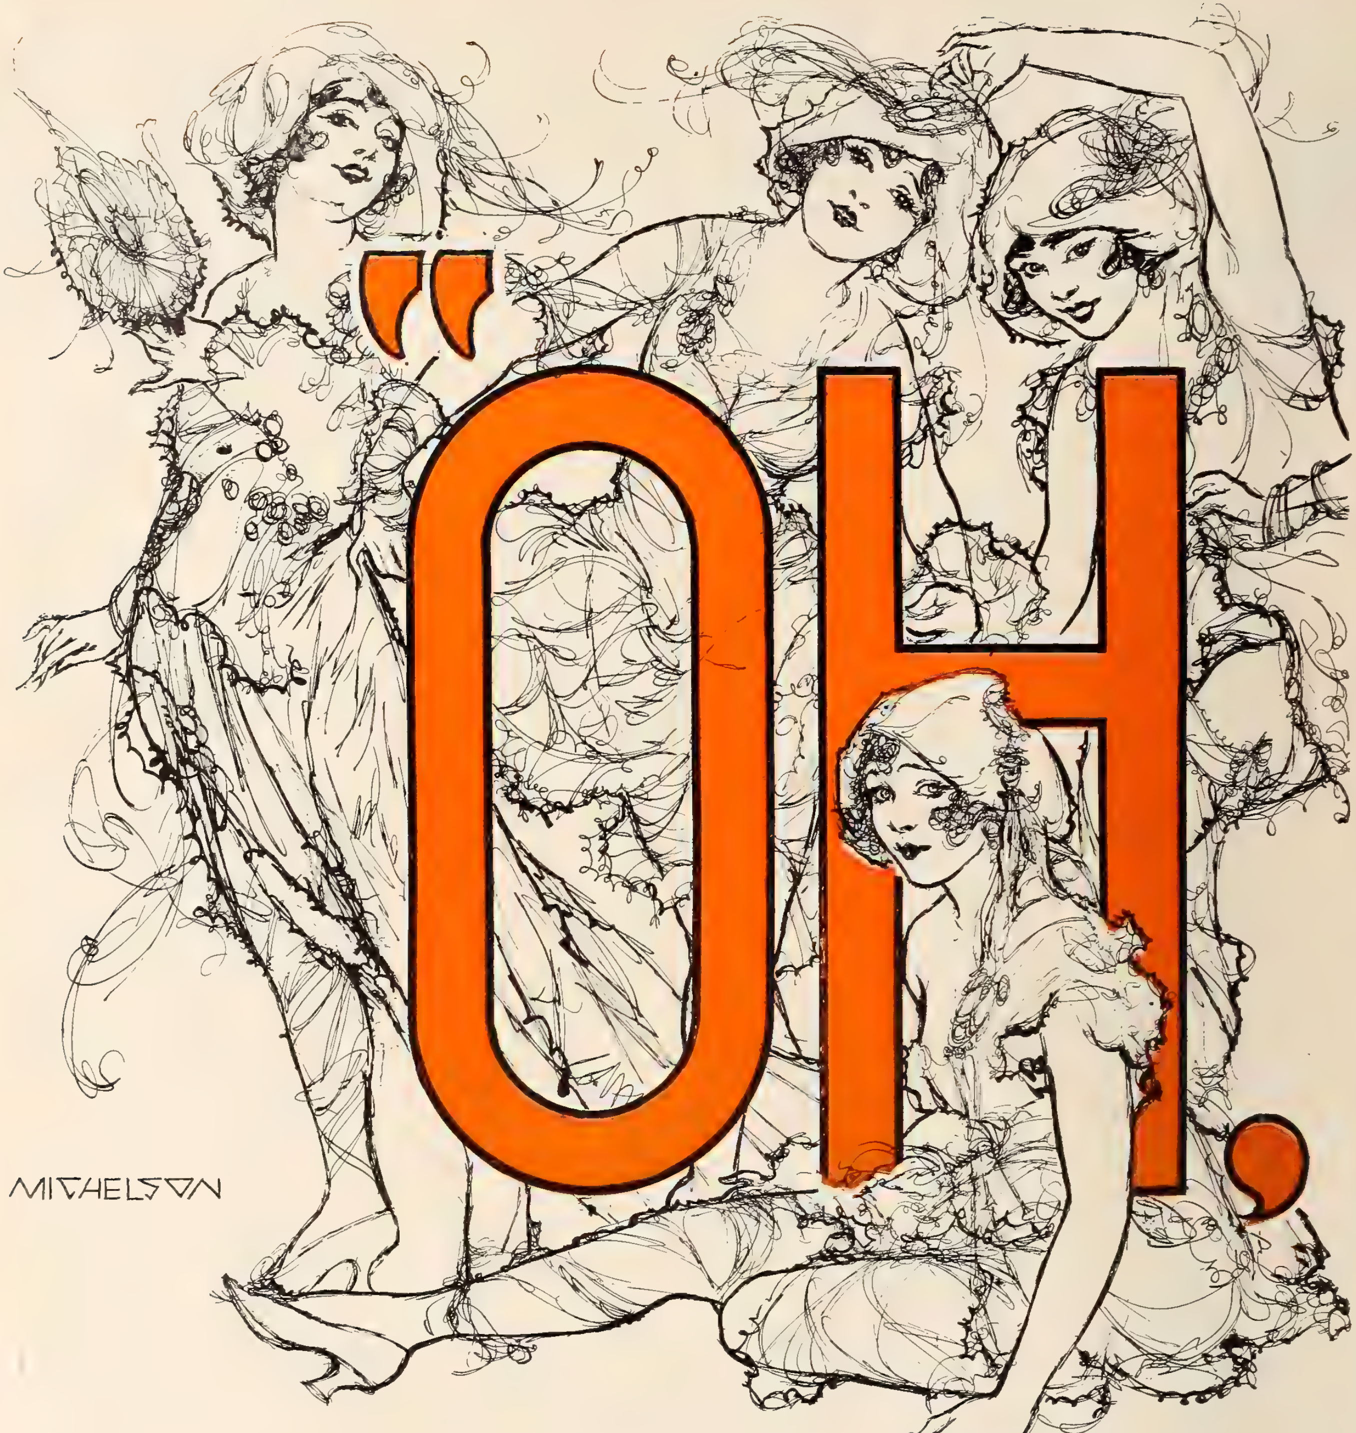
"They're growing more popular with each subject," says the Liberty Amusement Co. of Spokane of the inimitable

HAROLD LLOYD COMEDIES

These comedies are now playing the best theatres of the country. They have found their way in on one thing only—sheer merit. Every theatre that shows them agrees that they are

The Best One Reel Comedies Made

One Reel Every Week Produced by Rolin



ALBERT CAPELLANI PRODUCTIONS, INC. PRESENTS

JUNE CAPRICE AND CREIGHTON HALE

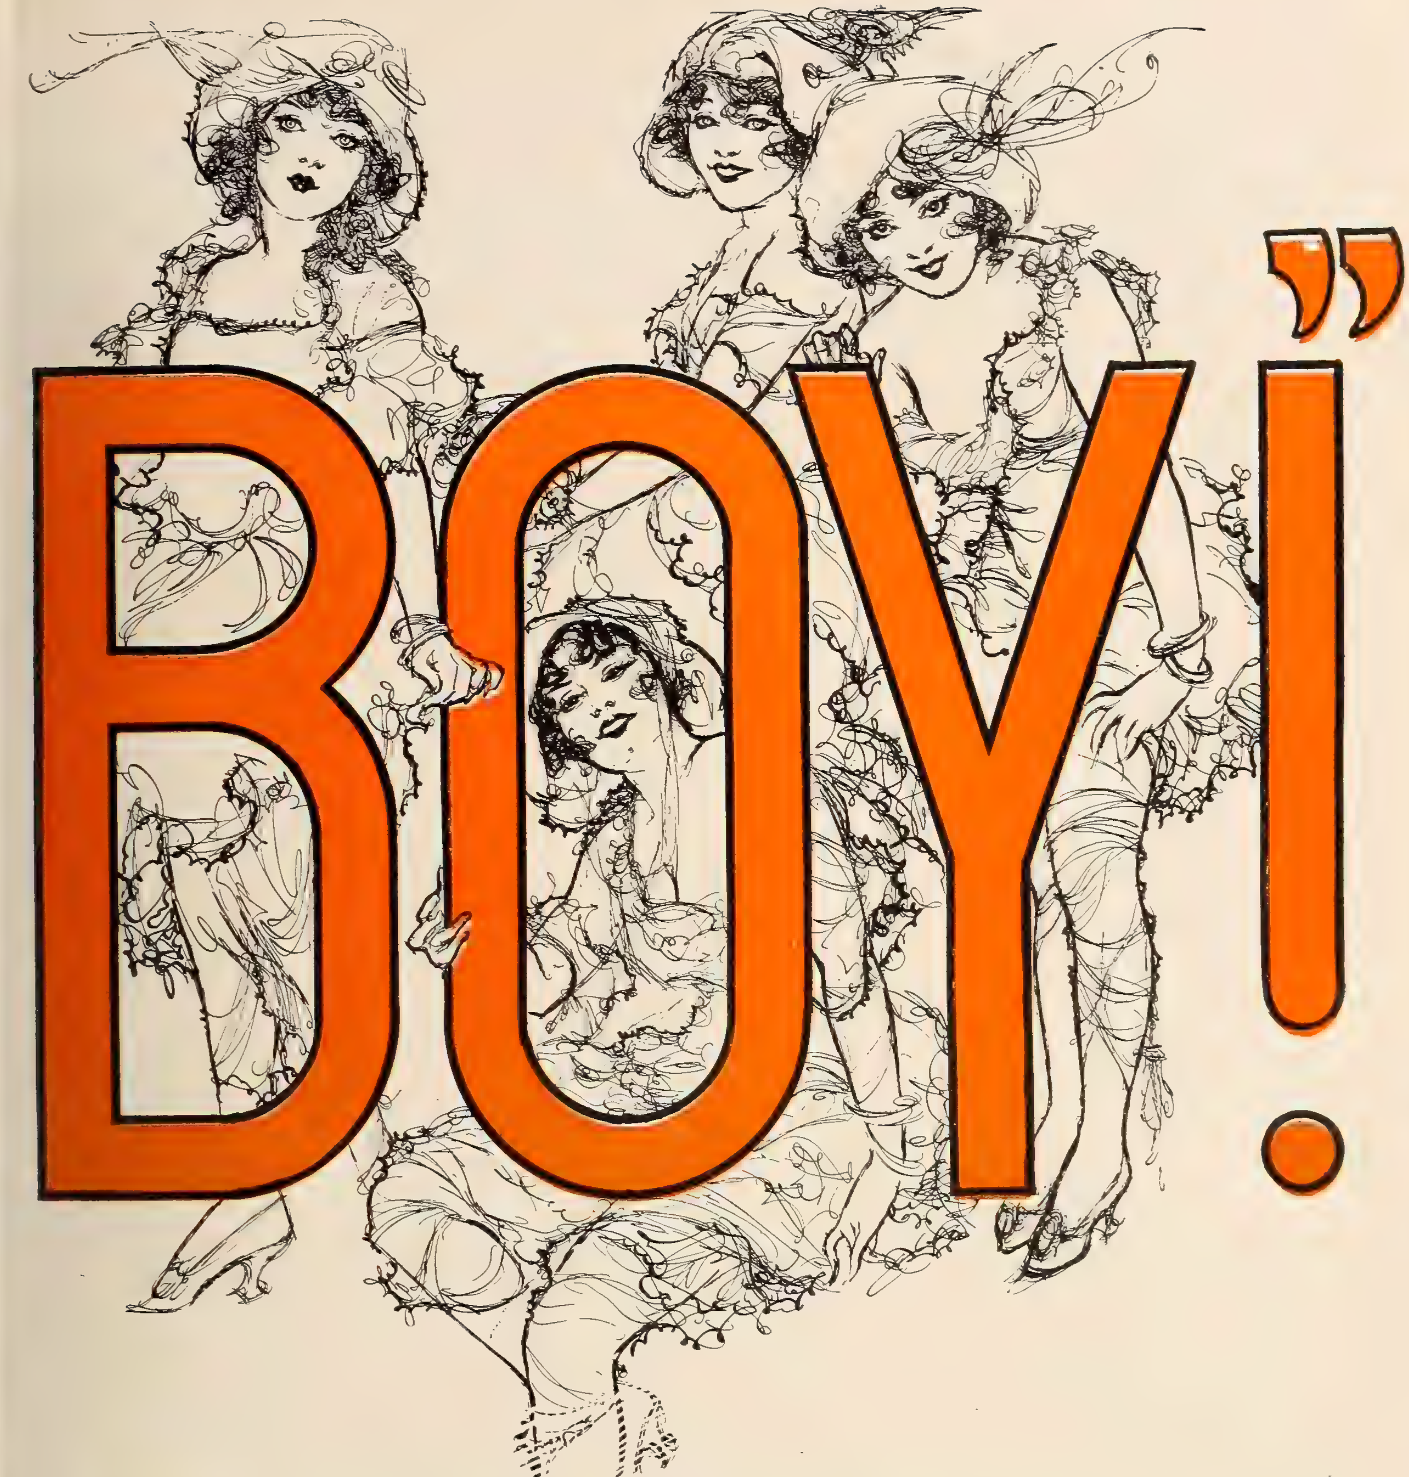
in the Filmusical-Comedy

"OH, BOY!"

Adapted to the Screen and directed by ALBERT CAPELLANI From the Musical Success of Elliott, Comstock & Gest

Written by P. J. Wodehouse and Guy Bolton

PATHÉ
DISTRIBUTORS



Produced by the man who from his accomplishments deserves the title of the Genius of the Screen, Albert Capellani himself.

A brilliant, scintillating, captivating and "peppy" comedy-drama, destined to be as sensationally successful as the stage production from which it is adapted. Full of laughs and running over with spice and ginger.

A True Special in Six Parts

PATHÉ
DISTRIBUTORS

Crowds! Crowds! Crowds!

COMMON CLAY
FANNIE WARD IN COMMON CLAY

GORDON'S OLYMPIA
Common Clay

It has played the Rialto, N. Y.; Gordon's Olympia, Boston; Reuben and Finkelstein, Minneapolis and St. Paul; Riviera, Chicago; Quinn's Rialto, Los Angeles; Turner and Dahnken's Tivoli, San Francisco; Clinton Square, Albany, N. Y.; Olympic, Pittsburgh; Alhambra, Toledo; Walnut, Cincinnati; Walnut, Louisville; Orpheum-Strand, Cleveland; Moore's Rialto, Washington; Newman, Kansas City, Mo.; Rex, Seattle; Strand, Omaha; Regent, Rochester, N. Y.; Liberty, Spokane; Merrill, Milwaukee; Rialto, Atlanta, and hundreds of other big and famous houses. They all report CROWDS!

Everywhere "Common Clay" has played (and it has played the leading theatres of the land) theatre managers report unparalleled crowds. "Common Clay" on its record must be considered the money-making sensation of the year!

A. H. Woods presents

FANNIE WARD

in Cleves Kinkead's dramatic success

COMMON CLAY

Produced by Astra · Directed by Geo. Fitzmaurice
Scenario by Ouida Bergere
PATHÉ DISTRIBUTORS

"We stood them out in the rain all evening. . . On the second night the second house was sold out at 7.30." Palace Theatre, Washington, O.

"Lobby packed with a thousand people to the street. . . 100% picture. . . Besieged with favorable comment." Merrill Theatre, Milwaukee, Wis.

"Highly successful business. . . Picture close to 100%." Strand, Iowa City, Ia.

Crescent Theatre, in the Bronx, New York City, broke all records. Stopped selling tickets five times on Sunday. . . Played to 11,000 admissions the first two days.

Gordon's Olympia, in Boston, played the picture for three weeks!

Newest Anita Stewart Film Late in June

Louis B. Mayer has announced that the next production with Anita Stewart as the star will be "The Human Desire," in six reels. It will mark a complete change in theme, atmosphere and treatment from the three big Stewart plays already released, "Virtuous Wives," "A Midnight Romance" and "Mary Regan." All of these might be called society plays, for the upper crust of humanity was always in evidence.

"The Human Desire," on the other hand, deals almost entirely with the poorer and middle class of people. Its theme is the overpowering impulse of every living being to propagate its kind, and Anita is seen as a poor Italian orphan who has been thrust into a convent at a very early age.

"The Human Desire" will be released toward the latter part of June.

Rivoli Theatre Repeats "The Red Lantern"

For the first time in the history of Broadway, it is declared, the Rivoli theatre will repeat a feature picture. The production is Nazimova's "The Red Lantern."

It will open at the Rivoli the week of June 1 and will be presented in an even more elaborate and colorful manner than it was three weeks ago. In setting aside precedence in the matter of repeating a feature production at this nationally known theatre, says Dr. Hugo Reisenfeld, managing director of the Rivoli. I am doing it in response to the thousands of letters and personal requests that have come from theatregoers asking me to show the Nazimova production again because they were unable to see it before on account of the heavy attendance.

Robertson-Cole to Hand with Film for 4th

Patriotic productions are now being advanced by distributors for Independence Day attractions. Exhibitors' Mutual offers a timely picture in "Whitewashed Walls," which Jesse D. Hampton produced for Robertson-Cole with William Desmond as the star. This picture is founded on the adventures of an American stone mason in one of those turbulent Latin-American countries, who, because of a too boisterous celebration of the Fourth of July, finds himself billed to be drawn up before the whitewashed wall and shot.

This offering is said to be a burlesque on the customary dramas founded on Latin-American escapades of Americans. It was taken from the story by James and Ethel Dorrence.

Now a Goldwyn Player

Lieut. Burnell Manly, one of the leading American aces, who is said to have four Hun planes officially to his credit in addition to several that are now being "traced," is the newest Goldwyn player. He has been signed for a prominent part in Madge Kennedy's new production.

Authors Will Not Be Quiescent

Writers Whose Works Will Be Controlled by Eminent Authors Pictures, Inc., Talk on New Affiliation

THERE is to be no quiescent, stand-by attitude adopted by the authors who have combined to form the Eminent Authors' Pictures, Inc., under direction of Rex Beach and Samuel Goldwyn. They expect to be felt, and felt strongly, in the production of creatures of their brain, and to see to it that there are no more "lost" stories, as has so often been complained of by eminent authors when their works were screened.

Mary Roberts Rinehart last week spoke of her past disappointments in picture productions, and her future bright expectations:

"While now and then my material has been fairly well presented," she said, "in the majority of instances it has been entirely ruined. I expect a great deal from the new Rex Beach-Goldwyn arrangement. I do not care about being featured on the screen, but I do want to be intelligently represented. And now I feel that I am going to have intelligent representation.

"The public also ought to gain materially. So far in many instances the production and the star have seemed to many directors to be all sufficient. But back of every successful picture there has been and must always be a story—a real story. So far the established author's influence has been wholly negligible. I look now for something real."

Rupert Hughes also had his say:

"The motion picture world has until recently reeked with plagiarism. When it grew precarious to steal ideas, the managers began to buy them. The story then has usually been whipped into shape until the blood ran, and the shape was a ruin. Mr. Beach has offered his personal guaranty that the author would be treated not merely with patience, but with respect and cordiality. He has converted a very successful manager, Samuel Goldwyn, to the belief that the author' cooperation would be an asset. This prospect has been made so inviting that it has wakened the dormant conscience in the breast of authors."

"The screen will now become a new and true medium for artistic expression that will carry something of the charm and personality of an author as well as sustain the spirit of his story," says Gouverneur Morris, while Leroy Scott declares:

"I have had previous experiences with the movies, and in every case have seen my story lost. I have great hopes for the photoplay. It is coining a new form of art. At present it is a combination of two arts, literature (the titles) and pictures. I believe the new authors' combine is the most progressive step that can be taken in the motion picture today."

Universal's New Serial Presented June 16

ON Monday, June 16,, the first episode of "Elmo the Mighty," Universal's latest serial will be released. Elmo Lincoln, the Hercules man of the screen who gained fame as the lead in "Tarzan" and "Tarzan of the Apes" is in the leading role. He also appeared in Griffith's "Intolerance" and as the "blacksmith of Louvain" in "The Kaiser the Beast of Berlin" he won many admirers for his character work.

Grace Cunard, heroine of many of Universal's serials is cast opposite Lincoln. The others in the cast include a number of screen stars who have appeared in many feathure pictures. They are: Ivor McFadden, Frederic Starr, Rex DeRosselli, Virginia Craft, Kha Hong, W. A. Orlamond, Madge Hunt and James Cole. The serial was produced by the Great Western Producing Company, and Universal has exclusive rights to the picture in the United States and Canada. Henry McRae, former production manager of Universal City, directed the entire serial which is in 18 episodes.

The production was several months in the making and according to reports contains a number of new and novel twists uncommon to serial pictures. The mystery man of the serial is the "ghost of Slumber Mountain," a motorcycle rider who usually disappears in a cloud of smoke emitted from the engine of his machine.

Frederic Starr, who plays the leading villian role in the serial first became known to the screen world when he was cast opposite Ella Hall and Priscilla Dean in "Which Woman."

The first episode is titled "The Mystery of Mad Mountain" and the succeeding episode is titled "Buried Alive."

Select Receives Print on Talmadge Film

Select Pictures announces that the print on Constance Talmadge's forthcoming Select Picture, "Happiness a la Mode," in which she is presented by Lewis J. Selznick, has been received from the coast studios and will have its first showing in the Select projection room next week. It is also reported that two more pre-release runs on this attraction have been booked. These latest pre-release dates, one of which is in Boston and the other in Indianapolis, follow the pre-release at the Ziegfeld Theatre in Chicago and the pre-release run at the Bijou Dream in Chicago, which were announced last week.

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

"Lucky Thirteen" Series Wins

Fox Sunshine Comedies Taken by Proctor's Fifth Avenue House and Is Widely Booked by Other Theatres

BOOKINGS continue to pile up in the Fox offices for "The Lucky Thirteen" comedy series, and the reason, according to a statement made by Manager W. H. Quaid, of Proctor's Fifth Avenue theatre, New York, is that the subjects are particularly suitable comedy material for summer display.

"'The Lucky Thirteen' impressed me as just the right material for the end of my bill," he said. "I had seen these two-reelers in their first edition, and knew of the hit that they made. 'Send them away laughing' is my motto and the motto on which we have built up the success of Proctor's Fifth Avenue theatre. So we are going to run one a week of these comedies in their revised second edition form, at the end of the bill.

"It doesn't take much imagination to see that these comedies will be welcome additions to the bill of exhibitors throughout the country. In the first place, to find a plentiful supply of good comedies is a very difficult task, if not an impossible one. And in the second place, these comedies are real 'laugh-getters'—and don't forget that you can't afford to miss any chance to set your audience laughing."

Not only have "The Lucky Thirteen" been booked for the Proctor circuit, but these, Sunshine Comedies are signed up, in the metropolitan district, for the Rivoli, New York, which has already run "Roaring Lions and Wedding Bells" with great success; for Riviera, and the Rialto at Rockaway Beach; for the Broadway Photoplay, at Broadway and 103d Street, New York; the Hudson theatre, on Amsterdam Avenue near 157th Street, New York; the Fulton theatre and U. S. Temple at Union Hill, New Jersey, and others.

The Exhibitors' Service Bureau says it finds that one of the strongest appeals being silently made by the issue of "The Lucky Thirteen" lies in the fact that exhibitors will get one comedy each week for thirteen weeks—thereby solving a problem which had been worrying photoplay managers. The Bureau adds:

"Exhibitors require one hundred and four comedies a year, yet they are not at present in a position to obtain anywhere near this number. Some exhibitors who have found it impossible to take care of their comedy demands have been booking two features a week and filling in with weeklies. Yet they realized that it was of primary importance to make their audiences laugh.

"The Exhibitors' Service Bureau emphasizes the point that these thirteen comedies have all been carefully re-edited and made up in brand-new prints."

"Auction of Souls" Lowers Box Office Mark

AFTER a box office record set at the Washington Theatre, Detroit, Michigan, by Annette Kellermann in "A Daughter of the Gods" had stood unscathed for two years, it remained for "Auction of Souls," the First National Exhibitors' Circuit retitled production of "Ravished Armenia," featuring Aurora Mardiganian, to knock the theatre's historic top mark sky high with the initial screening of the picture at that house Sunday, May 25. The nearest approach to ever equalling the record held untouched for the two years was made the previous week with the showing of "Daddy Long Legs," the First National Mary Pickford release, which was put in the Washington after a week's premier at the Adams Theatre, one block distant.

An intensive advertising campaign was launched immediately after Police Commissioner Inches had placed his approval on the film at a screening for his benefit, the publicity being directed by Lieut. James Anderson, who personally accompanied the film to Detroit. Added stimulus was given the advance publicity through the strong voluntary stamp of approval placed upon the production by the Detroit branch of the Armenian Benevolent Union, a world-wide organization, and by the personal appearance of Aurora Mardiganian, the Armenian girl who experienced the tragedies and thrilling excapes which followed efforts of the Turks toward the entire extermination of her race, as depicted in the film.

On the morning of the Detroit premier of "Auction of Souls" Miss Mardiganian addressed more than 2,000 Armenians assembled at the Detroit Elks' Temple.

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

Western Audience Praise New United Feature

"Playthings of Passion," the latest United Picture Theatres, Inc., feature, starring Kitty Gordon, met with approval in Los Angeles, according to press criticisms to hand from the coast cit. It opened at the Alhambra Sunday matinee and night, May 25, when capacity audiences are reported to have been present at both screenings, while the box-office line is said to have been continuous for the remainder of the week.

The unusualness of the story, the beautiful photography, and the gowns worn by Miss Gordon, are all remarked upon, and the coast critics are a unit in their statements that Miss Gordon does quite the best acting of her career.

Simplex Notes

Union Membership Interested in Simplex

In a letter written the Simplex factory, W. B. Clarke, secretary and treasurer of the Fresno, Cal., Motion Picture Machine Operators' Union, gives the statement that every member of the union in question is a Simplex enthusiast and in order to make themselves thoroughly up-to-date in matters of projection, the union members instructed Mr. Clarke to write to the Simplex factory for a set of Simplex literature for each of its members.

As an indication of the growing tendency on the part of projection unions to thoroughly acquaint themselves with the constantly improving Simplexes, Lorens Simmons, secretary and treasurer of the Motion Picture Operators' Union, Local No. 441 of Ottumwa, Ia., has written the Simplex factory asking for Simplex literature, saying that he has taken it upon himself to promote an instruction department in the union on professional projection and as most of the projectionists in that community are using the Simplex the cooperation of the factory is requested.

Dough-Boy Simplex Booster Here

Joseph S. Cifre, former president of the Boston Motion Picture Operators' Union and up to the time of America's entry in the war manager of the Boston Motion Picture Supply Company, Southern New England distributors for Simplex, and one of the best known motion picture road men in New England, has just come back from France tanned, vigorous and a mess-sergeant with a six months' service stripe on his sleeve and the insignia of the Division of Paris on his shoulder. Immediately after his arrival here on the Manchuria, Mr. Cifre came to the Simplex factory in order to satisfy what he called "an ingrown longing to see a real American projector," "a Simplex." During his factory visit Mr. Cifre spoke of the French projectors that he had occasion to examine carefully and remarked how far behind in improvements even those projectors built long before the war compared to the American product. He expressed a wish that he could take every doughboy and French citizen through the Simplex factory in order to show them some real American progressiveness.

Mr. Cifre intends again engaging in the supply business in New England, where to his previous large following and experience he can now add the benefits of his latest experience and understanding.

A great reception is in store for him when he reaches Boston, owing to his great popularity among projectionists and exhibitors alike.

Swaab Reports Big Business

Lewis M. Swaab, the hustling, good-natured Simplex distributor for Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware, Eastern Maryland and Southern New Jersey, was a welcome visitor at the home of the Simplex during the holiday week-end and had nothing but optimistic reports to give concerning his activities in the Simplex line throughout his territory.

Special Production for "The Sea Wolf"

"The Sea Wolf," Jack London's masterpiece, the novel which brought him into fame as a fictionist and proved him possessed of a unique ability for character depiction and the telling of a thrilling story, will be given a sumptuous special production at the hands of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in Hollywood, it is announced. George Melford will direct.

The subject was done in pictures once before—about four years ago by Bosworth, Inc., with Hobart Bosworth in the leading role, and the new production will serve, as did Cecil B. DeMille's recent Artcraft production of "The Squaw Man," to show what wonderful advances have been made in the motion picture art in the last few years.

Moss Empires, Ltd., Buys "Under Suspicion"

Following the private showing of the latest Broadwest production, "Under Suspicion," the film was bought by Moss Empires, Ltd. The leading characters in the film are portrayed by Horace Hunter, Hilda Bayley and Henry Latimer, with Cameron Carr and Jack Jarman also in the cast. On the completion of the film Miss Hilda Bayley was obliged to return to the stage to fulfil a theatrical engagement, but hopes to do some further film work when the show closes, which will not be in the near future it is said, judging from the reception it has received in Birmingham, England.

Kenyon to Appear on Stage and in Pictures

By an agreement entered into between Theodore C. Deitrich, president of De Luxe Pictures, Inc., and A. H. Woods, the theatrical producer, Doris Kenyon, star of De Luxe Pictures, Inc., will appear next season in a new play by Avery Hopwood, to be produced by Mr. Woods.

Miss Kenyon's appearance on the stage will in no way affect her screen work, which will be continued under the management of Mr. Deitrich. The contract with Mr. Woods provides for Miss Kenyon's appearance in New York City only, with the exception of one week during which the stage production will be tried out on the road.

Country Wide Publicity Aid to Willard Film

E. Lanning Masters, Inc., the firm which is handling the exploitation and marketing of "The Challenge of Chance," in which champion Jess Willard is to star, estimate that not less than 50,000 columns of newspaper publicity is appearing weekly about the heavyweight king. In most of it, it is found, reference is made to Willard's work in the seven-reel feature which is soon to be released, and on this is based the belief that Willard will come to the screen the most widely known personality that ever has appeared as the star of a film feature.

Big Centers for Vitagraph Service

Seattle, Denver and Utica Theatres Announce Changes in Policy and Install All Vitagraph Pictures

THREE big centers of population, Seattle, Denver and Utica, are now regularly supplied with every production turned out by Vitagraph's two plants—the original Brooklyn studio and the busy Hollywood plant.

Seattle was the first to sign, but hardly had it closed for complete Vitagraph service when Denver followed suit, with Utica a close third.

Vitagraph product always has gone well in Seattle, all units included, but it remained for Von Herberg & Jensen to put on the final stamp of approval by signing up all the Alice Joyce pictures and also the Larry Semon comedies, thus practically completing the program.

The significance of this contract may be better appreciated when it is stated that Von Herberg & Jensen practically control Seattle, so far as motion pictures are concerned, and for years have studied the wishes of a large and discriminating clientele.

Not only will announcements of Vitagraph productions be blazed forth regularly on Curtis Street, Denver's great white way, but in theaters equally popular though not located thereon.

Denver is put on the all-Vitagraph map through the enterprise of Brown & McGeehan. The contract just closed between the picture producing concern and the managerial magnates of the Rocky Mountain metropolis insure the showing of Vitagraph product, including the serious, the serial and the silly, so to speak, at the Iris, the Rivoli, the Strand and the Plaza, to mention the nucleus of their holdings.

An example of the growing popularity of Vitagraph pictures is contained in the action taken by the Majestic theater of Utica, heretofore a combination vaudeville and picture house. Hogan Bros., managers of this theatre, had ample opportunity to compare the relative merits of the various brands of pictures they exhibited during this long period. Therefore, Mr. Kendrick and the sales promotion department of Vitagraph were elated this week when one of their traveling representatives succeeded in signing up the Hogan Bros.' house as an all-Vitagraph first-run theater with their abandonment of the combination policy.

Film Version of "Oh, Boy" Widely Heralded

A PRE-LEASE run of two weeks at the Ziegfeld theatre, Chicago, beginning June 7, will introduce "Oh, Boy," Albert Capellani's screen interpretation of the musical comedy success of that name.

Forceful exploitation will be behind this six-reel special feature. Special settings have been designed, and the mirthful and pictorial feature of the original story will be supplied by a chorus of twenty selected beauties. An orchestra of 56 pieces will render the original music of the opera.

As planned, "Oh Boy" will meet the eyes of the dweller in Chicago at almost every turn, for special displays will be made in the show windows of popular stores which will utilize the title while exploiting some particular line of merchandise. These window exhibitions will be tied up with big newspaper advertising on the part of the management of the Zeigfeld theatre.

The two weeks' run of Capellani's latest achievement also will serve to fill Chicago with the catchy, familiar airs of "Oh Boy," for all of the dealers in musical records both for the phonograph, and piano will vigorously exploit these melodies. Popular dining and dancing resorts have promised to feature the music.

Big exhibitors are said to be expressing much interest over "Oh, Boy" and its pre-release, and the Pathe exchanges are receiving many inquiries concerning it. Balaban and Katz, of the Riviera and the Central Park theatres believe that in this picture Pathe has an unusually strong drawing feature, and will give to the advertising and exploitation of "Oh, Boy" all the strength of their organization.

Augustus Thomas' Story "Volcano" Filmed

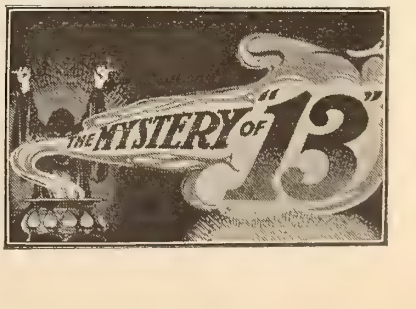
COMPLETION of "The Volcano," second of the Augustus Thomas series of Harry Raver Four Star productions for Hodkinson distribution, is announced. Leah Baird is starred.

"The Volcano" suggests in its title the theme it deals with—that of a world unrest in which the seething mass of mankind, suppressed for centuries, is struggling to escape through the crater of chaos.

Mr. Thomas has chosen the lower East Side of New York for the locale of his play, because in that district are concentrated the forces of foreign propaganda directed from abroad, whose efforts to incite discontented native and foreign born elements in the population to anarchistic outbreaks, attacks on life and property, have engaged the attention of the United States Secret Service authorities during and since the war.

The long-haired emissaries of Russian communism are displayed at their work in the heart of New York's crowded districts. A skillfully woven love episode runs through the picture.

Prominent in Miss Baird's supporting cast are Edwin Langford, Mme. Elvira Amazar, W. H. Gibson, Becky Bruce and Jacob Kingsbury.



Ajo, Arizona, Rises to a Point of Personal Privilege and Demonstrates by This Picture that It Is Not Only a Comer But Is Already Here. Its Motion Picture Theatre Draws Folks from Miles Around When It Shows United Pictures

Civic Pride of Ajo Much Aroused

"Small, But Like Pictures and Countryside Comes to Us" Is Retort of Bustling Arizona City

A REMARKABLE, and to United Pictures Theatres, Inc., a most complimentary document, signed by the leading citizens of Ajo, Ariz., has been received at the New York offices of United Pictures Theatres. The document reflects the influence of motion pictures, and is considered a striking instance of the value of publicity and advertising.

It seems that in publicity matter sent out from United there was a prideful reference to the fact that way out West in a little town of only 150 people, 40 miles from a railroad, showing United pictures. Swiftly came a correction in the shape of the document, reading in part:

"We desire to urge upon you the injustice you do our community in your statement of May 17, 1919, because, first, you refer to ours as being exclusively an agricultural community, whereas our agriculturists make up a very small portion of our population and is as nothing compared with our mineral developed and being produced. We have one of the largest copper producing plants in the world, operated by New Cornelia Copper Company and producing in round numbers 4,000,000 pounds of copper each month, and we tell you this not boastfully but for the purpose of showing you the error of your ways.

"Second, you say that our city is 75 miles from Somerton and 40 miles from the railroad," continues the good-humored rebuke, "when as a matter of fact all towns and villages are miles away from Ajo rather than Ajo being any distance from them. They come to our town for their motion pictures. We are not 40 miles from the railroad, for our city is the headquarters for the Tucson, Cornelia and Gila Bend Railroad and we connect with the Southern Pacific."

Further, in a good-humored way, the document corrected the impression of its size, claiming 1,500 population, and referred also to its 100 automobiles, rather than the dozen credited, concluding with:

"We do hope that you, after having read the foregoing, will do us the justice of correcting the error you have published, and when we remember the quality of pictures which you send to our Oasis theatre we know that you will do so, for the pictures are great and we all like them."

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

Strong Cast in Support of Geraldine Farrar

A cast, comprising a number of well known screen personalities, has been selected to support Geraldine Farrar in her new Goldwyn picture. Playing opposite the diva is her husband, Lou-Tellegen, who has just closed a stage run as the star of "Blind Youth." Others include Lawson Butt, Naomi Childers, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Arthur Carew, Alec B. Francis, Mme. Dione, May Giraci, Francis Marion, Hazel Brennon and Edward J. Connolly.

McCarthy to Handle Exploitation of Comics

In pursuance of plans for a big publicity and advertising campaign for the Paramount-Briggs Comedies, which have just been purchased by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, Alex Yokel, general manager of Briggs Pictures, Inc., has engaged Charles E. McCarthy as publicity director.

Says Exhibitor Should See His Plant

"If you are an exhibitor or in any way connected with the film game, the next time you get into Chicago journey out to my studio," says Watterson R. Rothacker, "and look over the place, then meander with the feeling of time well spent through one of the most thoroughly complete and immaculately clean film manufacturing plants in this or any other country. After beholding the evolutions of machinery that practically say 'howdy' to you; as you pass through admiring the American Beauty Chorus of young ladies with their white gloves inspecting film, etc., get into the vaults and prepare to gasp, for there you may stroke with an itching palm more millions of dollars than you ever dreamed you could rub elbows with in any other one day. There you will see the original negatives of Mary Pickford's 'Daddy Long Legs,' Charlie Chaplin's 'Shoulder Arms,' 'A Dog's Life' and 'Sunnyside,' 'The Unpardonable Sin,' 'Mary Regen,' 'Virtuous Wives,' 'A Midnight Romance,' Jack Pickford's 'Bill Apperson's Boy,' 'Whom the Gods Would Destroy,' 'Romance of Tarzan,' 'Tarzan of the Apes,' 'Martin Johnson's Cannibals,' and a host of others, the combined value of which run into millions of dollars."

Company of Fifty Travels East for Production

Billie Rhodes and an entire company of fifty players, including a complete technical organization, traveled from California to New York, and have begun work on "The Blue Bonnet," a story by E. Magnus Ingleton. The story is of the Salvation Army and "over here," and is said to be a most appropriate vehicle for Miss Rhodes, who has just been signed under the distributing management of W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

"The Blue Bonnet" will be made the subject of an all-summer-long Hodkinson advertising campaign across the country, beginning at once in the trade journals. In the local presentations in all cities and towns of size and importance this production will have the friendly co-operation of the Salvation Army, an organization destined to ride high in national affection because of the thoroughness of its work with our American Army in France.

"Huck Finn" Relives in F. P. Lasky Production

"Huckleberry Finn," Mark Twain's immortal work, is to be picturized by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a special production, with a large cast of picked players. Work is about to be started at the Lasky studio, Hollywood, under direction of William D. Taylor, who directed the Paramount pictures, "Tom Sawyer" and "Huck and Finn," as well as several Mary Pickford productions.

Julia Crawford Ivers has written the scenario of "Huckleberry Finn." The picture will of course be largely an outdoor one, and preparations for the exterior scenes have been going on for some time.

The Independent Field

Jess Willard Finishes "Challenge of Chance"

"THE CHALLENGE OF CHANCE," the seven-reel special feature in which Champion Jess Willard is being starred by the Continental Pictures Corporation, and, according to the announcement from the representatives of the company will be ready for private screening in a very short time. Also, the method of distribution that will be employed is expected to be outlined, together with a statement in detail of the amount of newspaper advertising to be done by the producers of the picture to assist exhibitors in the promotion of it.

It has already been announced that the company purposes conducting a national billboard campaign prior to the release of the picture.

An extensive advance publicity campaign, embracing hundreds of the leading newspapers of the country, has been under way for several weeks past. In addition, a system of scientific "spotting" has been employed to place special publicity stories and pictures in spots where they will attract the attention of a specific class of readers.

This campaign, together with the future exploitation and marketing of the production, is in the hands of E. Lanning Masters, Inc., specialists in motion picture advertising, publicity and marketing. This is a recently inaugurated organization made up of men who have specialized in the various branches of motion picture exploitation, with E. Lanning Masters, formerly director of Advertising and Publicity for Vitagraph, holding office as president.

Adventure and Romance Blend in Miller Film

THE first Charles Miller special, produced under the Charles Miller Productions, Inc., for release by Frank G. Hall, president of Independent Sales Corporation, and vice-president of the Miller Company, is completed and Director Miller and Albert Cowles, his assistant, are personally attending to the editing, cutting and assembling of the film which will be ready for a private review showing within the next two weeks. It will be shown in six reels and those who have seen flashes of the unassembled whole report that it is up to the standard of photodramatic art as set by Mr. Miller in his productions of "The Flame of the Yukon," starring Dorothy Dalton and "The Ghosts of Yesterday," with Norma Talmadge.

For the portrayal of the principal roles in his first production for the Hall program of independent releases, Mr. Miller had the services of Herbert Rawlinson, Stuart Holmes, Florence Billings, Charles E. Stevenson, Warren Cooke, Vinton Friedley, Regina Quinn and Ernest Torrence. Edward Earle is responsible for the photography.

Adventure and romance are said to be the predominating notes struck in this Miller production. The story encircles eight principal characters. Standing out a little from the others is the character of Torrence Redmond, a descendant of an adventurous and romantic race.

Mr. Miller will announce the title for his first special next week, and says that he hopes to have his picture ready for a private showing within two weeks.

Foy and Family Sign with National Film Corp.

EDDIE FOY and his family of "seven" will return to Denver for the summer to begin making two-reel comedy pictures, which will be known as the "Foy Fun Films." George McManus, well known New York cartoonist, has created a special cartoon character for Mr. Foy to be used in these pictures. People who have seen the cartoon claim absolutely that this character is new and original and will give Mr. Foy the widest scope and opportunity to display his well known comedy talent and acting ability. The officers of the National Film Corporation and Mr. Foy are very much elated over the arrangement, and both are looking forward to making a big success with their pictures, it is said. Albert W. Hale, who is manager of productions of the National Film Corporation, will direct Mr. Foy in his pictures, and it is stated has made arrangements with some well known New York authors of comedy stories to supply Foy with his picture plays. During the next two weeks the studio staff will be engaged in preparing the scenery and property for the Foy Fun Films, so that upon arrival of the Foy family productions will begin.

Keystones and Kay Bees Going Big

W. H. Productions Company announces that the series of single-reel Keystones and two-reel Kay Bees are meeting with tremendous success throughout the various sections of the country. More than seventy-five per cent of the territories have already been disposed of, it is said.

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

Here are two of the "characters" in the Outing-Chester subject, "Piking After Pizarro"

Many Pioneer Productions in Preparation

The Pioneer Film Corporation have laid extensive plans, it is said, to place before the exhibitor and state rights buyers as fine a selection of high class features within the next few months as any picture organization in the country.

"The Sins of the Children," Harry Rapf's production of Cosmos Hamilton's novel, and "The Girl From Nowhere," in which Cleo Madison makes her appearance as a Pioneer star, are two pictures now receiving their finishing touches from the Pioneer editorial staff.

Four other pictures are in the process of production, "Parted Curtains," in which Henry B. Walthall plays the stellar role is rapidly nearing completion and preliminaries to the production of the next Walthall picture are under way.

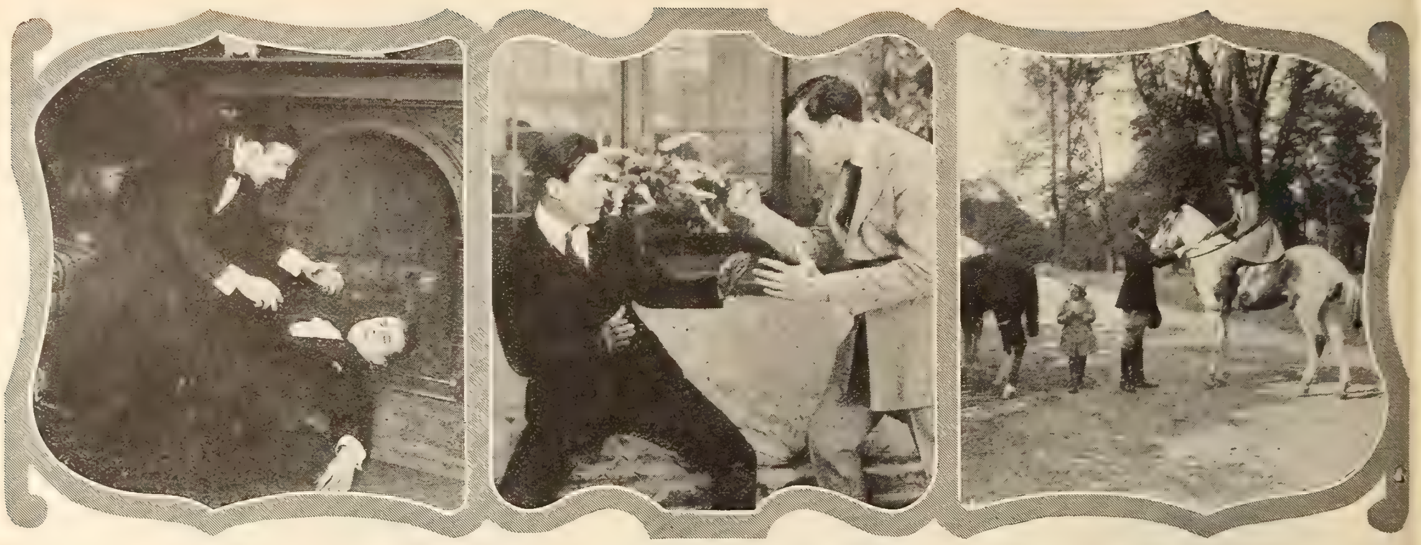
The Hidden Code is another production which will be offered on the States right market. At the Pioneer office details of "Eno Is My Husband," are also being worked out.

"Law of Nature" Opens in Washington

"The Law of Nature," the seven-reel special distributed through the Arrow Film Corporation, opened recently at Shubert's Belasco theatre, Washington, for a week's run in the Capitol city. The arrangements for the elaborate staging of this picture at the Belasco theatre was arranged for by E. K. Fox's Exchange, which has the handling of the picture for the entire south.

New Head of Pioneer's Buffalo, N. Y., Office

Howard S. Hummel, for some time with Pioneer Film Corporation, and who has made quite a record in Northern New York state with that company's subjects, has been placed in charge of the Buffalo office of Pioneer.



Moments in the First Charles Miller Production Which Is to Be Released Through Independent Sales Corporation. Herbert Rawlinson Is Among the Players in the Cast

Buys Foreign Rights to Olive Thomas Films

THE four special Triangle features starring Olive Thomas, will be distributed in the world market, exclusive of the United States by L. L. Hiller, who has offices in the Longacre Building, New York.

Joseph Friedberg has just purchased the world's rights, with the exception of the United States, to these pictures, and he has just completed arrangements whereby Mr. Hiller will handle the distribution for him.

The four pictures include "Love's Prisoner," "The Follies Girl," "Toton" and "Prudence on Broadway," and in all of them Miss Thomas has a role, the distributors say, that she is particularly suited to.

Joseph Friedberg is considered to know picture values about as well as any old timer in the industry, and recognizes the fact that Lewis J. Selznick will put Olive Thomas over in every civilized country and in consequence of this fact the four Olive Thomas pictures which he has will he believes prove immensely valuable for several years to come.

Many European buyers are sojourning in New York at the present time and freely express their confidence in the instantaneous and lasting success of the Olive Thomas pictures. All seem agreed that the charm of the actress, supplemented by the world-wide advertising campaign that is being launched in Europe, as now in the United States, will be the means of creating a one hundred per cent market instantly for her pictures.

Three Hundred Subjects Obtained by Kremer

By the terms of a deal recently completed, Victor Kremer of Victor Kremer Film Features will have the exclusive handling of approximately three hundred different subjects, including practically everything from one-reel subjects to seven-reel features, and embracing the work of Henry Walthal, Bryant Washburn, Richard Travis, Burton Holmes, Mary Charleston and other stars.

Every possible publicity aid is promised to assist the exchange man and the exhibitor to make these productions money-makers.

Mr. Kremer in addition expects shortly to contract for several hundred first-class films of varying lengths.

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

"Piking After Pizarro," Is Next Outing-Chester

"Get on the trail of all those millions the Incas paid Pizarro," were the instructions given the Outing-Chester cameraman sent into Peru, "and fifty-fifty on all the gold you uncover."

"So, as pictured in 'Piking After Pizarro,' the new Outing-Chester release, the cameraman journeyed down to the coast, up into the interior, over the Andes, and then all the way back," says Mr. Chester. "They are still getting gold down there, but it takes a lot of work to do it, and all the mines seem to be well known and tightly owned.

"But it makes a good picture, and the real purpose of a cameraman is to camera, not mine.

"Katharine Hilliker has taken excerpts from the Cameraman's letters on the trip, and incorporated them in the titles, and so the audience will follow the emotions, the hopes and fears and final disallusionment of the searcher as he cranks on his way.

"Over the Andes and along the upper reaches of the Amazon the party encountered several interesting tribes of Indians, including many who had good blowguns and weren't afraid to use them."

Educational to Release Red Cross Films

The new single-reel productions of the Bureau of Pictures of the American Red Cross are to be released and distributed by the Educational Films Corporation of America. Director W. E. Waddell, of the Bureau of Pictures, announced Thursday that the new overseas negative which has just been received in this country is now being cut and titled for distribution through Educational exchanges, and that releases would begin in the immediate future, on a releasing schedule of one reel every other week, to be followed later, when the supply of negative increases, with a regular weekly release.

The first of the pictures to be released has been made by the unit with the doughboys on the Rhine.

Among the other subjects that are to follow will be "Belgium Today." Scenes in the more interesting parts of war-torn Poland make up another release, and the Bolsheviki in Vladivostok will furnish a fourth subject.

Hall Special Booked Into Park Theatre, June 8

Following a successful two weeks' run at the Park theatre, New York, the Rothapfel Unit Program will be succeeded at that theatre by Frank G. Hall's special release, "The Other Man's Wife," commencing Sunday, June 8, according to an announcement made by Mr. Hall.

"The Other Man's Wife" is a screen version of a story by Mary Murrilo. It was produced by the Warner Bros., under the direction of Carl Harbaugh and presents in the principal roles Stuart Holmes who with Ellen Cassidy is starred; Ned Hay, Olive Trevor, Halbert Brown, Mrs. Garrison, Lesley Casey, Danny Sullivan, Regina Quinn, Laura Newman, George Jessel and Evelyn Brent.

Samuel L. Rothapfel, who was responsible for the Rothapfel Unit Program and its presentation at the Park theatre, will arrange special settings and program

Announces Third Special As Big Production

Having begun the production of the third of the Christie Specials, Al E. Christie is carrying out elaborate plans, it is said, for a two-reel comedy on a much larger scale than he employed in either "Sally's Blighted Career" or "Rowdy Ann," the first Specials which have been released.

Having introduced Fay Tincher in two widely different types of roles in these Specials, Mr. Christie announces the third as still another variety for the comedienne. Farce in a city flat, or rather flats, in which several carloads of disappearing furniture furnish the crux of the plot is the type of comedy to be employed, and introduced Fay Tincher in a society atmosphere. A special cast includes Harry Ham, Katherine Lewis, Eddie Barry and Patricia Palmer.

Ships American Pictures to Palestine

Harry Goldman, formerly a well-known merchant of St. Louis is said to be forming a new company called the "Monorah Films" of which he is to be the sole owner, for the purpose of supplying pictures to Palestine.

Mr. Goldman is said to have many interests in that country and intends to make it his permanent residence.

"I have shipped one hundered thousand feet of the best moving-picture products in America to Palistine," says Mr. Goldman, "and intend to form a chain of moving pictures theatres throughout that country. It is to a strictly legitimate undertaking and no stock will be offered for sale."

Jennings and Hart Signed for Capital Pictures

C. Eddy Eckels of Capital Film Co., whose special appears to be flying trips this week told of a few of the things accomplished on a short visit to Los Angeles.

Neal Hart was secured as one of the stars of the forthcoming Capital productions, a player with a reputation of performing daring stunts. In addition Al Jennings, "bandit," is also going to work for Capital. In support of these two stars, Eckels declares the best talent available has been engaged.

Burlesque on Bolshevism

Marguerite Clayton is now starring in special five and eight-reel features, being directed by Frank P. Donovan at the Paragon studios in Fort Lee, N. J., which have been especially lent by the Mayflower Corporation and Mr. Chautard.

The first story now nearing completion is a five-part burlesque or farce on the Bolsheviki regime and Trotsky, who is played by Edward Elkus. This picture is to be exploited as a special release on the States right basis by the Eff and Eff Productions, Inc., especially formed for the purpose.

Blackton Signs Dunn and Alexander

J. Stuart Blackton has signed Eddie Dunn and Gus Alexander, each on a year's contract, and for the next twelve months these two comedians will be at the Brooklyn studios of Blackton Productions, Inc.

Commodore Blackton has engaged the two for his current and still untitled production only. Shortly after they began work in this feature which is now well under way, however, their present work, past performances and his plans for a series of special comedies induced Commodore Blackton to tie them both to Blackton Productions for a year.

Eddie Dunn is a former Vitagrapher, a favorite in many of Commodore Blackton's productions made under that banner before he severed active connection to organize his own company.

Gus Alexander is the diminutive comedian who did such good work in Commodore Blackton's labor picture, "Life's Greatest Problem."

Acquires Nazimova Rights

As a result of a transaction said to be one of the largest in point of capital involved that has accurred in the foreign market recently, which was closed last week by Sidney Garrett, president of the J. Frank Brockliss Co., as American representative for the Mundus Film Company of Paris, that organization has acquired the rights to all of the Nazimova pictures.

Sells Foreign Rights

Argus Enterprises, Inc., producers of Robert H. McLaughlin's newest problem drama, "The House Without Children," announce the sale of the entire foreign rights of this subject to International Photoplay Distributors, Inc., with American office at 1493 Broadway, New York. The sale was made by Robert W. Priest, president of The Film Market, Inc.

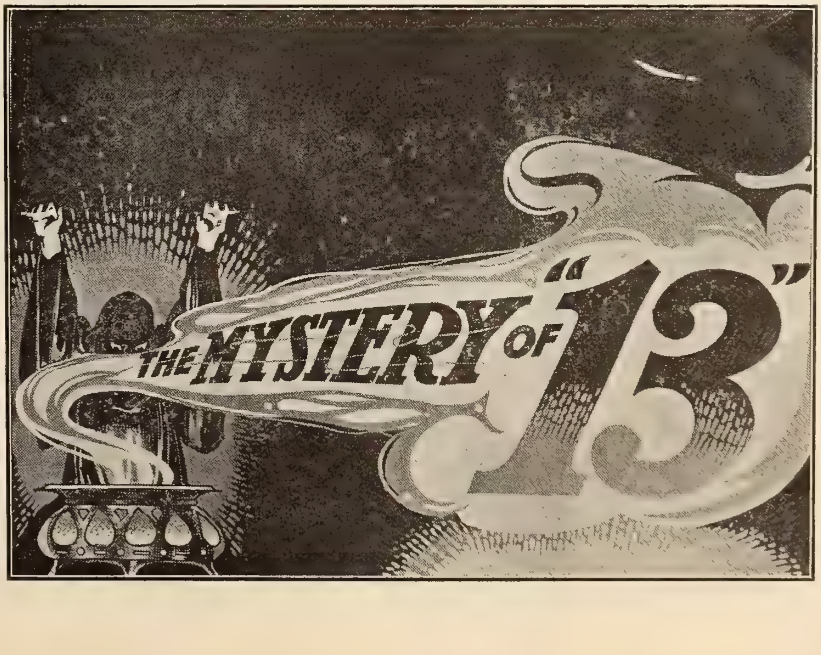
Wanda Hawley, in "Virtuous Sinners," Pioneer Film

Texas Guinan to Appear in Five-Reel Special

The Texas Guinan feature, "The She Wolf" will be released as a five-reel special. In the production of this picture it has found, says an official of the company, that of the 6,700 feet originally taken more than 4,000 feet of the scenes when joined, without the insertion of a single title, formed such a strong picture that it was impossible to cut or shave it down to the two-reel length.

New Moon Comedy Being Made by Sunshine

Sunshine Film, Inc., is at present working on a comedy, titled "Trouble Inn," featuring "Funnyface" Ascott and Jennie Edde, and also the wrestler, Pierard Collos. Emil Harder is directing the filming. This comedy will, it is claimed, be the best Moon Comedy yet produced.



Kerrigan to Star in Ten Brunton Productions

Arrangements covering ten pictures, whereby J. Warren Kerrigan will appear as a Brunton star, have been completed. Robert Brunton himself will supervise all of the productions, which will be released through W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

The initial production, the working title of which is "A White Man's Chance," has been started under the direction of Ernest C. Warde. The locale is Old Mexico, and the story is one of vivid romance, love and adventure particularly suited to the big star's personality. "A White Man's Chance" was taken from the magazine story by Johnston McCulley, and adapted to the screen by Clifford Howard.

Pioneer Acquires Another Feature Production

Morris Rose, president of Pioneer Film Corporation, has added "The Unpardonable Sin" to the list of attractions under his firm's banner.

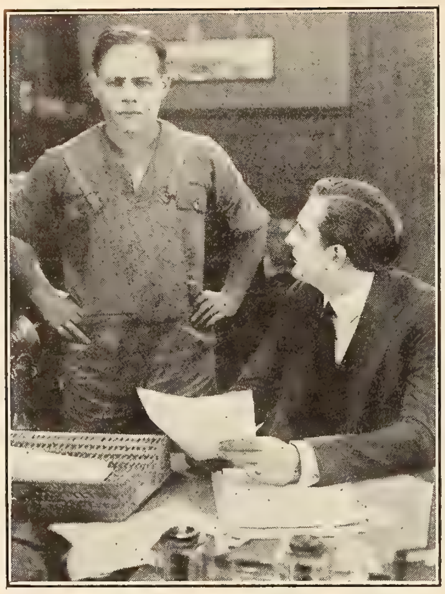
One of the first acts of the Pioneer after securing the control of the picture was to place it for a run at the Majestic theatre, Buffalo, N. Y., where it opened to good business on Sunday, June 1.

Mr. Rose in speaking of the new purchase, said that the practice of getting pictures big enough to sustain the test of theatre runs was to continue to be the settled policy of the Pioneer.

Out with the 'Vamp,' in with the Heart Tale

John W. Semler, known as the "movie scout," who travels the country and keeps his eye on the pulse of exhibitor opinion, recently returned to New York from a trip to the Coast.

"The day of the 'vamp' is over," he said. "Heart kicks are what the public wants. Prohibition has already increased attendance at least 30 per cent and business is getting better every day."



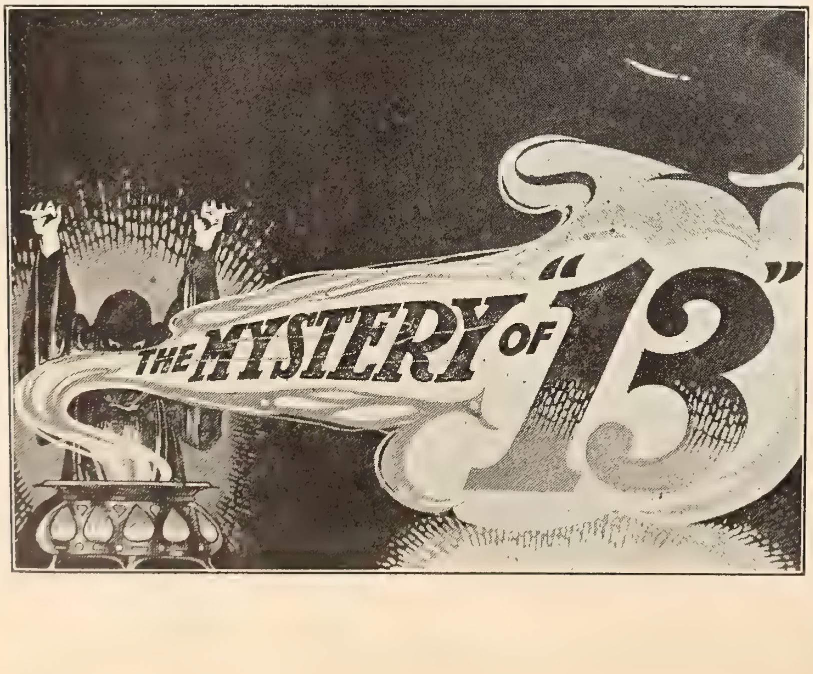
This Is Described as One of the Many Tense Moments in Arthur Guy Empey's Forthcoming Production, "Hell on Earth," for Select Distribution

Planning Cody Releases

Final arrangements for release of Cody productions starring Louis Cody, will be announced within a few days. Mr. Cody, Louis Gasner and Syd Cohn are the organizers of this new incorporation and the two former named men left for New York early this week to meet Cohn and there complete releasing negotiations. Cody has been a featured leading man and heavy of the West Coast producing colony for the past three years and plays particularly suitable for him will be purchased. The first subject to be filmed is "The Pleasant Devil."

Dooley Beauty Brigade

The Johnny Dooley Film Comedies, Inc., announce that they have completed arrangements for the employment of the twenty Broadway beauties who constitute the Johnny Dooley Beauty Brigade to appear in the entire series of two-reel pictures which Johnny Dooley is engaged to star. The third of the series is completed and the fourth is in course of production.



Peter Milne, Well-Known Reviewer, Joins Lasky

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has engaged Peter Milne, Arthur M. Brilant and H. S. Fuld as members of its publicity staff.

Mr. Milne, who comes from Motion Picture News, needs no introduction to the industry. He has been reviewing motion pictures for the News for the past five years and has acquired a large following throughout the country. Box-office receipts have almost invariably borne out his judgment of picture values and many an exhibitor has made it a regular practice of withholding bookings until his opinion has been obtained. For some months past he has been active on the Motion Picture News exhibitors' plan book.

Mr. Brilant has had much experience in the newspaper, magazine and motion picture fields, and for the past six months has been on the editorial staff of Exhibitors' Trade Review.

H. S. Fuld has also been recently associated with the Exhibitors' Trade Review.

Four More States Sold on "Stolen Orders"

William A. Brady announces two more sales of his picture, "Stolen Orders."

To the A. H. Blank Enterprises of Des Moines, Mr. Brady has sold the feature for Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas. To James M. Minter of the Minter-United Amusements of Detroit, Mr. Brady has sold Michigan. John H. Kunsky recently showed "Stolen Orders" at his Washington theatre in Detroit, where it drew business of a character so satisfactory that Mr. Minter, seeing the picture and observing that it was duplicating in Detroit the remarkable box office records it is piling up the country over, immediately arranged the purchase of the rights for Michigan.

"The Thirteenth Chair" as a Special Feature

Pathe Exchange, Inc., announces that it will distribute as a special feature Leonce Perret's screen version of Bayard Veiller's melodramatic success, "The Thirteenth Chair." It is said to be the biggest picture of the year in its class. The play, following its production in New York, ran for more than a year, it is stated, to record business and traveling companies played it in every section of the country.

"Suspicion" Sold in Two Mid-West States

Lee Herz of the Silee Film Exchange, Chicago, has closed a deal with M. H. Hoffman, general manager of the Pioneer Film Corporation, New York, for the Illinois and Indiana state rights on their production "Suspicion," featuring Grace Davison, Warren Cook and Wilmuth Merkyl, supported by an all star cast. Mr. Herz is expected to make further announcements as to his plans for releasing this picture in all trade papers.

Equipment Service

NOW IS THE TIME

There are more Motion Picture Theatres being erected to-day than at any other time in the history of the industry.

There is hardly a city of any size where a house costing up to half a million dollars is not going up or being planned.

This does not include the innumerable smaller houses seating from 500 to 900.

These houses are worth advertising to.

They are buying thousands of dollars worth of equipment, organs, chairs, screens, vacuum cleaners, curtains, heaters, interior telephones, etc., every day.

Advertised goods are the ones which should be bought. They have a reputation to be upheld

ADVERTISE NOW

Rates on Application

Projection
Music

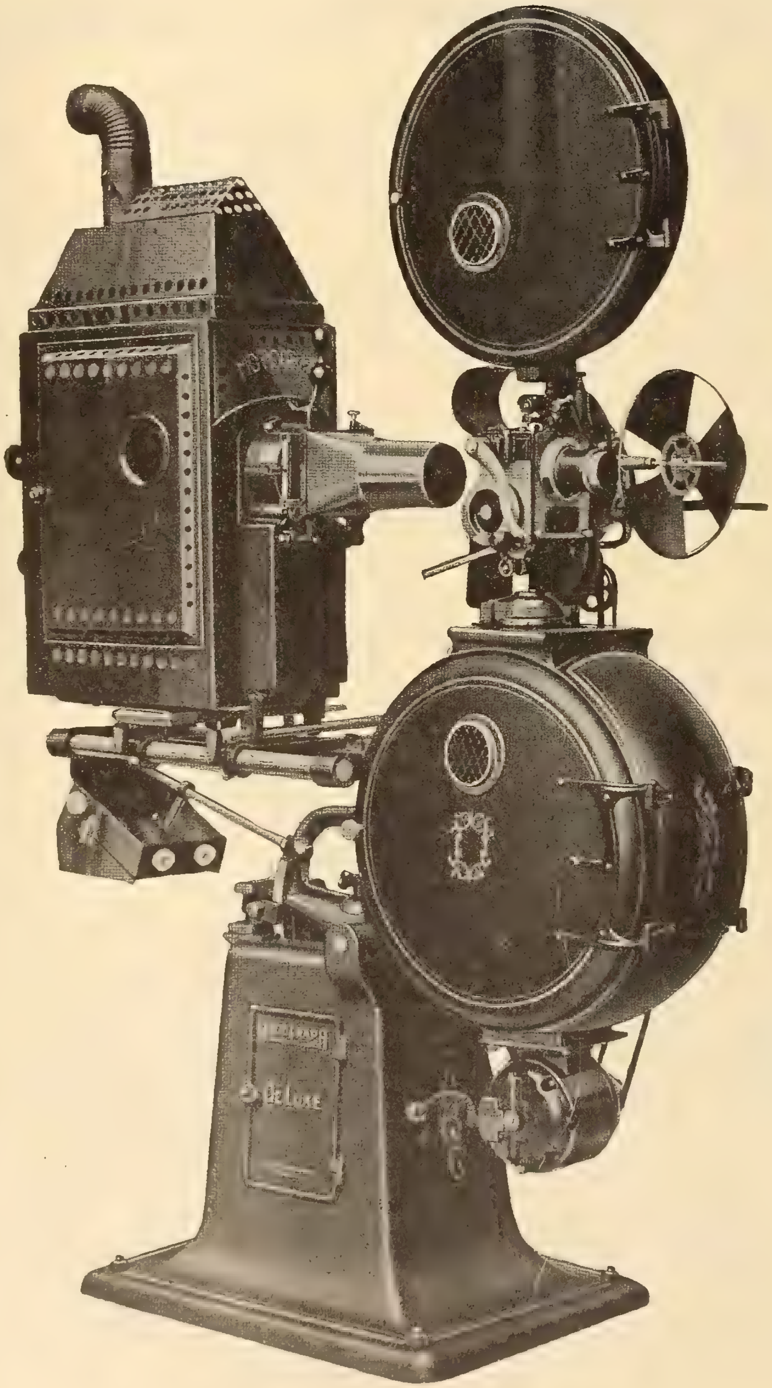
Laboratory

Studio
Theatre

ONLY TWO KINDS OF PROJECTORS

MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE

AND THE OTHERS



The MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE, the only Projector in which die castings are not used, puts it in a class by itself.

Its perfect projection and long life, which is insured by the quality of material used, and proven by the many users, who speak of its perfect projection and wearing qualities, makes it well worth your consideration.

If you don't know about it write for literature, and get acquainted with this high class projector.

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Company

564 W. Randolph Street

Chicago, Ill.

Equipment Service,

Devoted to the technical branches of the motion picture industry, containing records of the latest accomplishments in the mechanical and scientific field; projection helps, inventions and suggestions; camera devices analyzed and commented upon; musical cue sheets for important feature pictures; improvements and innovations in the building and furnishing field.

No charge is made in these departments for answering questions of any nature. Correspondence is invited.

E. L. Bragdon..................................Technical Editor

Ninth Year for Charles E. Shay of New York

TORONTO, June 2, 1919—Charles E. Shay of New York was re-elected International President of the the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators at the session of the annual convention of the alliance held on Thursday, May 29, in the Horticultural Hall at Lansdowne Park, Ottawa, Ontario. Shay was elected to the post for the ninth successive year by the unanimous choice of the convention. Other officers selected include:

First vice-president, William F. Canavan of St. Louis; second vice-president, Richard Green, Chicago; third vice-president, Steven B. Newman, Salt Lake City; fourth vice-president, Fred J. Dempsey of Boston; fifth vice-president, William Covert, business agent of the Toronto Moving Picture Operators' local; secretary-treasurer, Frank G. Lemaster, Denver; delegates to American Federation of Labor, Charles E. Shay, New York, L. G. Dolliver, San Francisco; John J. Barry, Boston, and P. J. Ryan, Montreal.

On the motion of Joseph Leahy of Chicago, seconded by Charles O'Donnell of Toronto, the convention went on record as being opposed to the prohibition of any malt or spirituous liquors and the delegates of the alliance to the American Federation of Labor and the Dominion Trades congress be instructed to vote against prohibition if the question arises.

Delegates from Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Saskatoon and Winnipeg went on record as affirming their loyalty to the alliance "in view of the present labor conditions in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia." This meant that there is solidarity between the East and West insofar as the alliance is concerned at least.

The report of the general secretary-treasurer showed that total receipts during the past year were $292,669, of which $190,642 was raised by per capita tax. On salaries, $42,368 was expended; publicity propaganda took $29,337 and the magazine of the alliance absorbed $24,277. There is a balance on hand of $6,817.

In welcoming the delegates, of whom there were three hundred from all parts of the United States and Canada, P. M. Draper of Ottawa, secretary of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, declared that he was opposed to the idea of the "one big union" and against any movement which tended to depart from the ideals of honest labor.

In his opening address, President Shay also scored the radicals and declared that he had "no use for anybody who has any red in his flag unless the white and blue are with it." He complained that some of the operators' locals were inclined to play major league sport with a nickel ball.

Greetings were brought from the Federation of Musicians by Joseph Webber, president of the Federation. A telegram of confidence and sympathy was sent to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who was recently injured by an automobile.

A lengthy discussion arose over the question of the eight-hour day. All delegates favored the subject and confidence was expressed that it must soon prevail.

One khaki-clad delegate was present at the convention, this being Lieut. Frank V. Gilson of Brooklyn. Ottawa, Ontario, delegates to the convention included R. Marcil and Joseph Thibeault. Local union officials in charge of the reception, accommodation and entertainment were: E. Gorman, Steve Waggoner, F. Gooden, G. Graham and W. Lane, the latter being the secretary of the Ottawa Moving Picture Operators.

The delegates attended local theatres, went for an outing to Aylmer Park at Lake Deschenes, Quebec, took a motor drive around the city under the auspices of the Rotary Club and enjoyed other diversions in the Canadian Capital.

Complete in Every Way

The Equipment Service Section as conducted by Motion Picture News each week is recognized as the most complete of any at the command and service of the industry and those who have occasion to use it.

But we are making it better all the time.

No better proof of this fact can be obtained than a close association with this section for the next several weeks when a marked improvement will be noted and several innovations added.

Then, as now, it will dominate the field.

Equipment Operating Projection, Questions Answered

Control Equipment for Mazda Motion Picture Lamps

By L. C. Porter
(Edison Lamp Works, Harrison, N. J.)

(Continued)

The hand control, figures 5 and 6, known as the Argus Current Regulator, consists of two coils of wire wound on an iron core (figure 6) and encased in an iron housing 8" high by 9½" wide by 10" deep and weighing complete 42 pounds. Between the two halves of the iron core is mounted an iron armature which can be rotated by means of a handle protruding through the casing. Attached to this handle is a switch which shuts the current off from the control entirely. When the iron armature is in position directly across the two halves of the core, as shown in figure 6, the maximum reactance occurs and the current in the secondary, or lamp coil, is cut down to its minimum value. This is the position marked Low on the handle of the control. Current should never be turned on unless the handle is in this position, otherwise injury to the lamp is liable to result. Having thus started the lamp low, turning the handle slowly toward the point marked High, increases the air gap between the two parts of the iron core, reduces the reactance and thus steadily increases the current in the secondary coil and through the lamp. The range of regulation on this device is 100 to 125 volts, i. e. the secondary or lamp current may be held at 30 amperes for any primary voltage between 100 or 125.

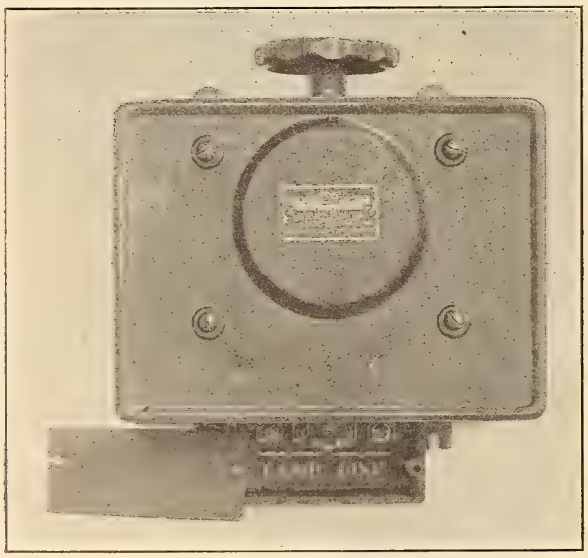


Fig. 5

An ammeter should always be used with this regulator inserted in the lamp circuit but kept at least 2 feet away from the control, otherwise the magnetic field of the device may cause inaccuracies in the ammeter indication.

In using this device the current should be shut off by turning the handle to the left, so that it will always be in the off or low position for starting. If a projectionist fails to do this and uses his line switch to throw the current on and off, short lamp life is liable to result. In practice it is necessary to watch the ammeter quite closely, especially where considerable variation in primary voltage occurs and make corresponding adjustments of the handle to keep the current constant at 30 amperes. This necessity of watching the ammeter and making adjustments, as well as making sure that the handle is in the low position before starting, is done away with if an automatic type of control is used.

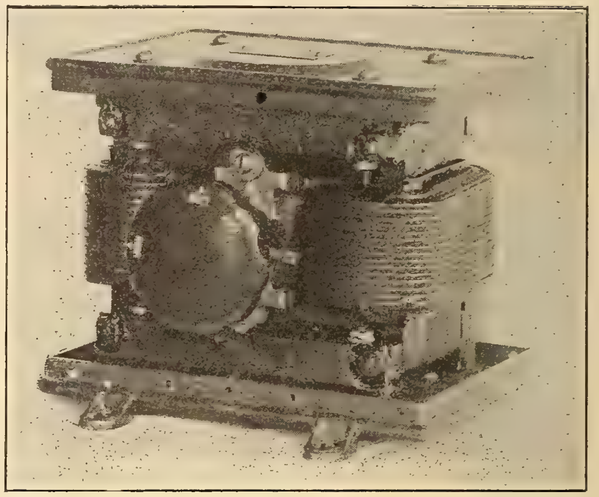

Fig. 6

The automatic device also consists of two coils of wire wound around an iron core and contained in an iron housing, figures 7 and 8. The device complete stands (exclusive of the counterweight) 12" high by 11½" (counter weight rests 4" above top of casing and 5½" from it) diameter and weighs (including counter weight) 62 pounds. One of the coils in the automatic control is movable. It is mounted on a rocker arm and is free to slide up and down along the core, increasing or decreasing the distance between it and the fixed coil. This is the means by which the current regulation is obtained. Exactly 30 amperes will be maintained in the lamp at all times, provided the primary voltage does not fall below 105 nor go above 125.

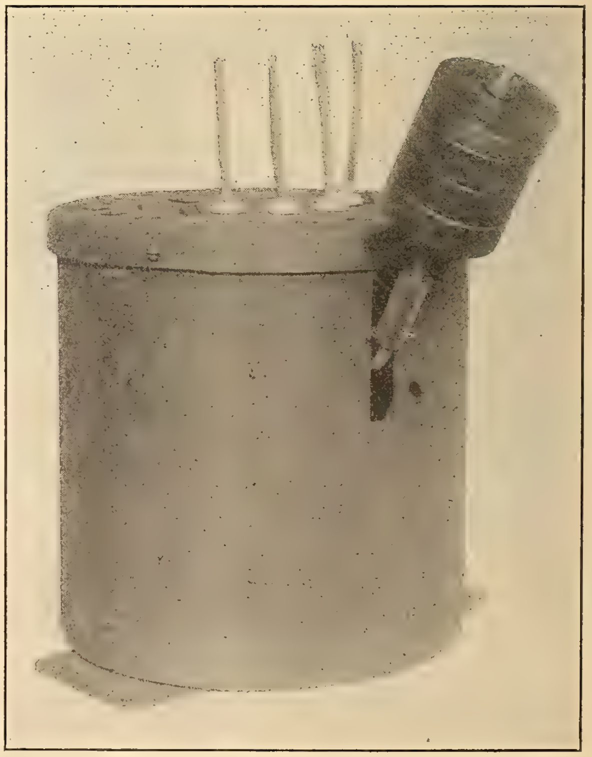

Fig. 7

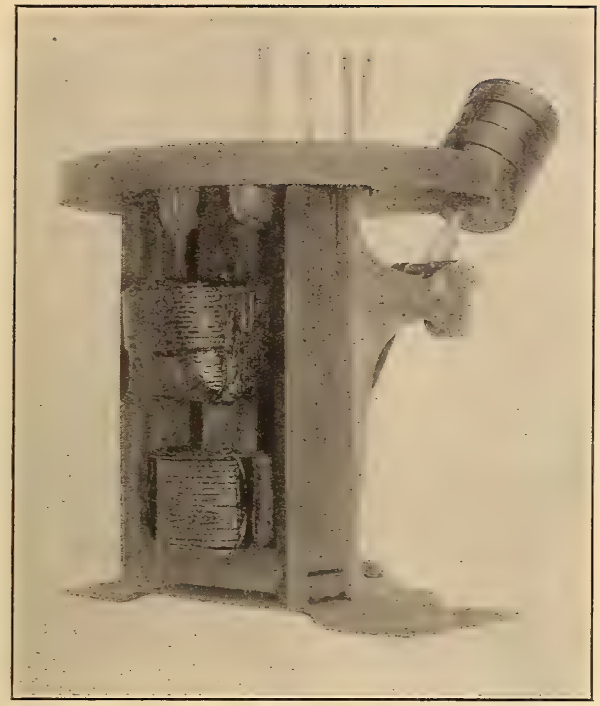

Fig. 8

The rocker arm supporting the movable coil is mounted on ball bearings and balanced by a counter weight. It is, therefore, an exceedingly good mechanical device. It is, in fact, a miniature tub street lighting transformer, a type that has proved most successful in service.

There is no handle to adjust on this device and no ammeter is required. The instant the current is thrown on, by means of the line switch, the coils jump apart, thus protecting the lamp from an abnormal inrush of current. The movable coil then settles back to a position where it will cause exactly 30 amperes to flow through the lamp. If any variation occurs in the primary voltage, the "floating" coil at once moves up or down a sufficient distance to keep the lamp current constant at 30 amperes.

Once installed, this type of control requires absolutely no further attention and the best of lamp regulation is obtained at all times. This gives the projectionist more time to attend to his machine, slides, etc., and insures constant screen illumination and maximum lamp life. The saving in lamp renewals thus obtained, together with the price of an ammeter, should soon offset the slight additional cost of this control over the hand device. It is to be highly recommended for A C motion picture installations where Mazda lamps are used as a light source.

These transformers can be obtained from the General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The hand control can be obtained from the Argus Lamp & Appliance Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

There are a few control devices on the market made for the old 750 watt lamp. These will regulate the new 900 watt lamp, provided the primary voltage is not below 115 volts. If lower than this, a new 900 watt control is necessary.

Welcome Home, and the Best of Luck!

WM. H. PHELPS of Louisville, Nebr., writes:

Have returned from the army and am operating again. I wish to know if I am required to rejoin or if I am still considered a member of the National Anti-Misframe League? My number was 722.

If I am a member, please send me a supply of N. A. M. L. labels to stick on film boxes.

I read and appreciate the projection department and gain many helpful hints from it.

Reply: Welcome home! And glad to see you are operating again. Hope you don't think your service in the army would cancel your League membership. Not by any means. Just so long as you are working up in the Projection room and upholding the pledge you signed, you are a member in good standing. How does it seem to be back again? Your labels are being sent you by parcel post.

Union Notes

Technical Editor,
Motion Picture News:

It was with great pleasure to us that the membership of the ANTI-MISFRAME LEAGUE has passed the 1,000 mark. Now let's go to it and make it pass the 5,000 mark. It can be done and should be done, for the platform of the N. A. M. L. is the stepping stone to GOOD PROJECTION and any projectionist that has pride in his work should be a member of the N. A. M. L.

In reference to the elimination of PUNCH HOLES in films I have a suggestion which I think will help our members with the co-operation of the producers. When the producers turn out a production they turn out tons of advertising, music scores, suggestions for lobby displays and other things for the assistance of the exhibitor, but strange to say they forget the Projectionist. Now why not eliminate one of the press sheets and in its place issue a Projectionists' Cue Sheet which gives the Projectionist the cue for his "fade" at the end of each reel.

Brother Clement Rizzo, our Business Representative, and myself made a motor trip to several theatres recently and to our surprise found several of the pictures in these houses were out of focus around the edges. As we knew that the outfits were of the best we interested ourselves in this fault and after several attempts and much figuring we came to the source of the trouble, which was as follows: The projectionist in his desire to give good results was cleaning his lenses by using alcohol. The black coating on the inside of the tube was being removed and the glare that was reflected was producing an out of focus effect noticeable to the trained eye of the projectionist but not to the average person. We took this matter up with the result that the trouble was eliminated.

Brother Charles Humphries has returned from the road, having been touring with "HEARTS OF THE WORLD," and is now in charge of the Projection at the NEW EMPRESS THEATRE.

Local No. 307, I. A. T. S. E., at its last meeting presented its Business Representative, Mr. Clement Rizzo, a runabout automobile in kind appreciation of his services, and as the local covers a lot of territory this will be a great asset to his efforts in getting around to the various sections of the city.

Local No. 307 will celebrate its eighth anniversary on Sunday evening, May 11, 1919, by giving a banquet in honor of their members who have been in the service and of whom they are more than proud, as they sent twenty-four of their members in answer to the call. They have all returned except three, who are all safe with only one wounded. Brother Herman Brown, the only one wounded among the boys that went over, will be the guest of honor at the affair.

Brother Tony Cristfulli, well known in Philadelphia as the projectionist at the Arcadia theatre, Philadelphia's Million Dollar Motion Picture Palace, passed away Easter Sunday night after a short illness of three days. Philadelphia Local No. 307 mourns his loss.

Brother Wm. Katz, who resigned his position with the Stanley Company to serve the GAS HOUNDS in France, has returned carrying a medal for distinguished service.

(Signed) Walter G. Murray.

Answer: The League is surely proving a disappointment to those who KNEW it wouldn't be a success. Members whose numbers are in the early hundreds are working as faithfully as those who have but recently signed up. This fact is proved by the constant demand for additional labels from those who joined back in 1917. To be sure, the time required to carry on the League as well as the space taken over in each issue is considerable, but we feel that the outlay is justified.

The Projectionists' Cue Sheet is coming and it can't be far off. The punch is being eliminated and brains substituted and the insistent demands of projectionists will force producers to see the necessity for a complete Cue Sheet for the use of the man in the projection room.

Come again with more notes from Local 307.

Let's hear from other Locals to find out how many have presented their Business Representatives with automobiles. If the custom grows we see where there will be a hot contest for the berth of B. R.

As pioneers in the manufacture of motion picture film—for it was Eastman Film that first made motion pictures practical—the Eastman Kodak Company has from the beginning been identified with the success of the motion picture industry. One could hardly have advanced to its present stage of development without the other.

Identifiable by the words "Eastman" and "Kodak" in the film margin

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Essential Requirements
for Improved Projection
are
SPEER CARBONS

SPEER Alterno Combinations
for A.C. Work
and
SPEER Hold-Ark Combinations
for D.C. Work
Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders. Read the unbiased opinions of operators

Place an order now with your Supply House

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"

Manufactured by
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

Some Angle! Yes!

A. J. BOHNE, of Houston, Texas, says:

This is my first jump into your question department, though I am a weekly reader of same.

I have a few questions that I would like to ask and I hope that you will be able to set me right on them.

I am using two Simplex Machines with Type S Lamps. I have an awful angle on my machines, say 50 or 60 degrees. Now the trouble is this: With my lamps at that angle it puts the carbons in a straight up and down position. Now, when the lamp is burning the flames from both carbons hit the crater of the top carbon centrally, which causes the light to spread in all directions. I can avoid this by setting the top carbon twice the proper distance back, but it gives me a long egg-shaped spot, which is also a great loss of light, and another bad feature about it is the lamp is hard to handle, such as sputtering and unsteady burning. The current is 35 amps. D. C. I could overcome this with a jack knife carbon set but don't you think that would be a waste of light also? I use a ⅝ cored carbon on top and a 5/16 Silvertip on the bottom.

Reply: Taken as a whole you have a difficult problem to solve and perhaps it can't be wholly solved. We wish the architect who laid out your theatre could be made to take your place for a week. At the end of that time, we firmly believe he'd never design another projection room with the angle of projection greater than 10 deg.

The Simplex people take this same attitude in your case. There is nothing they can do. Their machines are designed to meet the most important of normal demands. Anything over 25 deg. is certainly abnormal for we all know that excellent projection continuously is a practical impossibility with an angle greater than this.

As you know the angle of the "Type S" lamp is a fixed quantity so there's no help there for you. The jack-knife set (with all its reported faults) looms up as your only hope. To make this set you will need a regulation Simplex lamp which can be obtained from the makers.

Try out these suggestions and report back to us. Also, measure that angle of yours and see if it isn't nearer 30 deg. than 60 deg.

Condenser Breakage

PROJECTION EDITOR,
MOTION PICTURE NEWS:

I have been having a great deal of trouble with cracked condensers and I would thank you very much for any information on how to remedy this trouble.

I am using a.c., 110 volts, 60 amps., with White A. C. Carbons, ¾" in diameter for both upper and lower. I get a fine clear light. I have been using a 7½" and 6½" combination with the thickest one (the 6½") next to the arc. My lamp house is not full of carbon dust and my ventilation is clear. My condensers do not bind in their holders. I have even loosened the springs in the lamp house so that when I put my condensers in they will not bind. As I have been using several condensers I have noticed that some are thicker on the edge but I have weakened the spring so I am sure they have plenty of room to expand when they are heated.

I bring the lamp house as close to the machine as possible without getting a ghost. In this way I can carry my arc much further back. I have a fan in the projection room but I am sure that no draft reaches the condensers. The one next to the arc is the only one that cracks. I use Pearl White Condensers.

I have tried using two 6½" condensers in order to let me bring the arc farther back than with the 6½ and 7½ combination but even that made no difference in the breakage.

The condensers last for about a week without breaking.

PROJECTIONIST MITCHELL,
Palace Theatre, Cordele, Ga.

Reply: Your last sentence practically eliminates the chance that draughts are the cause of your condenser breakage. Your fan might blow cold air on to the condensers but in that case they would not last a week but instead would remain whole for varying lengths of time. One condenser might hold out for several weeks while another would break the first day.

It looks to us as if you would have to find a way to get your arc still further away from the condenser. A good many have tried out the meniscus bi-convex combination and the slight gain in distance often solved their troubles. It is really surprising what difference a small distance between arc and lens will make in the life of condensers. Carelessness in feeding and striking the arc is another source of condenser breakage. Under-sized carbons (this doesn't apply to your case; your carbons are the correct size) will produce flaming which will have a decided tendency to crack the condenser.

You didn't tell us in your letter if you have ever tried out any of the patented condenser mounts. If your machines are models of two or three years ago you may find that the method of holding the lens is at fault. But try out the meniscus lens first and if that doesn't put a stop to your breakage write in and we'll give you the address of several manufacturers of condenser mounts.

Local 360

LOCAL 360 send their Greetings to Motion Picture News for its grand attempt at endeavoring to bring to life a few of the Moving Picture Projectionists Locals by donating a page in the News each week. Local 360 would certainly like to see all Moving Picture Projectionists' Locals write to and encourage this department especially the locals from Canada. Up-to-date, the writer has seen very little news published in the different trade journals from this side of the border. I know Saskatoon has a live press secretary and no doubt a member of other locals are just as lucky, so why not get together boys, and all do our little bit toward making the Union Page a huge success, the same way you have and are still doing for our beloved I. A. Trade Journal. Now don't say you have no news worth sending. You are wrong; that is, in the biggest majority of cases. What might seem stale and out of date to you, might be of interest to some other Union reader. Take this for instance: your local might pass some "by-law" that you found to work extremely well and efficient. That's the stuff we all want to hear about. It might be of great benefit to your sister locals in the next town. Surely any far-seeing local who would see a very good idea in the shape of a "by-law," etc., would certainly grab at the chance too, to apply the same thing in their jurisdiction.

Our Worthy President, W. B. Allen, Local 360, who was elected as our delegate to the I. A. Convention at Ottawa left here Thursday, May 14, for that city. But listen, brothers, "he did not go alone." Nope! no chance for him to get lonely—for cupid's arrow struck its work once more and consequently Bro. Allen took along a bride. Yes, honest to goodness, Boys, it's a fact and no one was more surprised than the boys of 360. The members of the Local presented Mr. and Mrs. Allen with a beautiful carving set as a small token of the esteem in which he is held by them.

Local 360 has organized a "Lecture Society" for the general education of its members in keeping them posted on up-to-date projection and electrical matters. The Society meets once every two weeks, has its own officers and committees. So far it has proved a wonderful success and all members take a delight in attending the lectures and debates. Any Local wishing full particulars as to our system, etc., can probably be supplied by our Secretary, A. M. Malley, P. O. Box 2072, Edmonton, for a small sum to cover the cost of typing a set of the by-laws, etc.

LIEUT. KOLB, who is connected with the National Geographic Society's expedition to the Valley of the Ten Thousand Smokes, has taken along one of the new Akeley Cameras.

Another Akeley purchaser—J. Stuart Blackton. But before buying he had to be shown, and accordingly tried out the instrument at the mimic battles run off at Van Cortlandt Park, New York City.

SWAAB'S SUPERLITE SCREEN

Is a perfect Silver Screen and will not oxidize; remains bright and Silvery and can be cleaned easily and quickly. Swaab's Superlite Silver Screen now in use in the Stanley and other large representative theatres in this and other cities. Price is 75¢ per square foot. An additional charge is made for the Special Stretcher Frame, according to size, the average extra cost is $30.00. You are not obliged to buy the frame.

NEW SPEER CARBONS

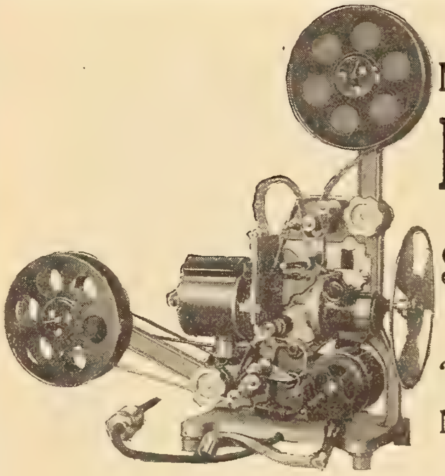
now ready and far superior in quality and screen results to any carbons thus far produced.

SWAAB'S MOTORS

for Power 6A and 6B are pleasing their users—not a single one has fallen down or been returned. They are sold for $37.50 and $40.00 respectively and are complete absolutely. Dealers do not recommend our Motor Equipments because they cannot make anything on them. We have priced them so that the Exhibitor gets the best price regardless of the Dealer. We are exclusive distributors of the SIMPLEX Machine. We repair all makes of machines and sell all supplies. Your old machines taken in trade for SIMPLEX.

LEWIS M. SWAAB

1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.



The New Premier Pathe-scope

Flickerless

"SafetyStandard"

Motion Picture Projector

Will run the "Safety Standard" narrow-width, slow-burning film, adopted by the Society of Motion Picture Engineers.

Can be used by anyone, any time and any where, without any danger, fire or insurance restrictions.

Labeled by Underwriters, "Enclosing Booth Not Required."

Weighs only 23 lbs. Fits in a small case. Operates from any light socket. Pictures up to 10 feet. Motor drive and rewind at variable speed.

We make { Pathescope Prints from any negative. Pathescope Negatives from any positive.

The Pathescope Co. of America, Inc.

Dept. N, Suite 1872

Aeolian Hall, 35 West 42nd Street, New York

Agencies and Service Stations in Principal Cities

EAGLE ROCK
FILM

"The Quality Raw Stock"

Right photographically. Will not go to pieces in the projector.

Made by

THE EAGLE ROCK
MANUFACTURING CO.

VERONA, NEW JERSEY

If Exchanges do not safe-guard their New Film by Treating and Curing it of its "Greenness," Prevent film from becoming Oil-Soaked and Renovation of Film from time to time, Removing all Corrosion, Dirt and Grime, Films are not in proper condition to Operate. There is no reason why Operators should be accused of Scratching, Ripping and Tearing Sprocket Holes when Films are not properly cared for by Exchanges.

Exchanges who neglect the life of Film trying to save a mere expense are really at fault for destruction of Film Stock.

REX FILM RENOVATOR MFG. CO.
R. D. Hanish, Mgr. Columbus, Ohio

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service

We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO. N216
80 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK Phone 3227 Chelsea
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Letters from Prize Winners

MOTION PICTURE NEWS,
Projection Department,
New York.

DEAR SIR:—Received your prize check for $10.00 for article on booth equipment. Many thanks for same. I wish to ask you to please make a correction in my name as it was printed wrong on the check, also in your paper. It should be J. Clarence Maguire.

I have quit operating and am doing electrical wiring. The theatre I was working in (The Tokyo theatre, Macomb, Ill.) has advanced by installing two motor-driven Simple Machines and have cut the operators' wages to pay the bill.

Their new operator runs both machines and steps out of the booth every 15 minutes to do the rewinding as he has no helper, for $18.00 per week. Also sweeps out theatre.

If the small town theatre wishes to put on a picture they will have to pay more to their operators or they will soon be among the missing and the managers will only have crank turners in the place of an operator that is an O. K. electrician. With best wishes for the MOTION PICTURE NEWS, I beg to remain,

Yours truly,
(Signed) J. CLARENCE MAGUIRE.

Reply: Thanks for the correction. No more must we worry how to pronounce your name. Mazuise was a stumbling block, we'll admit.

How foolish and imprudent a manager must be to think that a motor-driven machine requires less skill to operate it. We don't believe even the least scrupulous machine manufacturer ever used the item of "reduced wages" as a selling point for the motor-driven machine.

The motor-driven machine is the thing; of that there's no doubt. In combination with a sensitive speed control such a machine is far, far ahead of a hand-driven affair. When the speed should be constant it is constant and not dependent on the waning strength of a tired arm.

The more thoroughly automatic any process or action becomes the more experience is required to maintain the added apparatus in perfect condition. To think that by adding a motor and control to a projecting machine, the machine gains brains while the projectionist uses fewer is utterly foolish.

The remainder of your letter needs no comment. All CAPABLE projectionists have very definite and well-founded ideas on the duties required by their profession.

TECHNICAL EDITOR, MOTION PICTURE NEWS:

Yours of May 1st received announcing me as winner of first prize in class 1 in the recent contest. For your congratulations I wish to express my thanks.

In justice to the various machine manufacturers, I would like to apologize for not mentioning the need of selecting the best projector on the market. I have been a projectionist for seven years and have had the good luck to handle all of the standard projectors and while I have my own idea as to which one is best, of course, I could not give the name in my article.

I will be only too glad to compose an article occasionally for the NEWS if you could give me an idea on what subjects to deal with.

I realize now that my article was far from perfect as I can see now that it is in printed form.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) A. D. HOTALING, N. A. M. L. No. 25.

"WE NEVER DISAPPOINT" TELEPHONE BRYANT 5576
CROMLOW FILM LABORATORIES
INCORPORATED
220 WEST 42ND STREET
NEW YORK
ALLAN A. LOWNES
GEN. MGR.

Reply: It was best that you did not insert the name of any machine in your contribution. You might well have given considerably more space to the proper selection of a projection machine, what points to look for and to insist upon, both from the projectionists' standpoint and the manager's, whether or not an over-size magazine was best, and so on, etc.

Sometimes we think that projectionists look on a projection department as a service to use only when a thing goes wrong. If you will think a minute you will see that many "trouble questions" interest only the men asking them. On the other hand a communication from a projectionist describing in more or less detail his projection equipment, change over devices, position of instruments and equipment and saying that "everything is rosy" would interest hundreds of others. Can't you get a subject for a letter from the foregoing?

We'll receive your thanks in the name of N. A. M. L. That 2,000 mark is just around the corner.

What Do You Think?

We print the following letter without comment thus giving Mr. Smith, who wrote the original letter, "full stage" in his answer to these "Royal Theatre Operators." We are going to look forward to the receipt of a complete letter from the gentleman from Houston and then we'll comment—not before.

While awaiting Mr. Smith's reply we would like to know what other projectionists think on this subject. In other words "Are we taking the right steps toward correcting troubles with Exchanges?" What think you—Projectionist?

Mr. Charles A. S. Smith, Local 279,
Houston, Texas.

Attention Brother Smith:

I read your article in Motion Picture News of May 24, entitled AN ENTIRE CIRCUIT WORKS FOR BETTER PROJECTION. Don't you think it should have been headed UNION OPERATORS SHOULD INSPECT THEIR FILM SO AS TO DO AWAY WITH THE INSPECTORS' UNION?

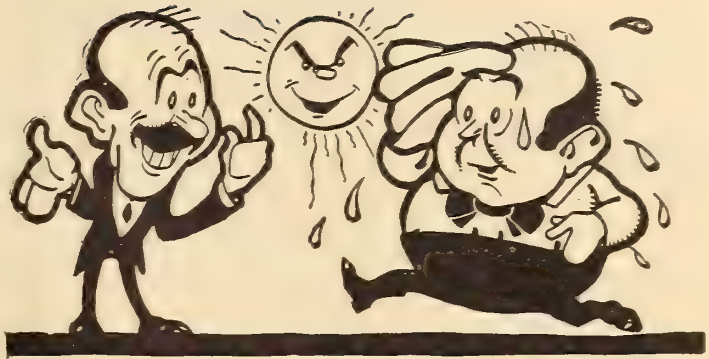
Now Brother Smith, the National Anti-Misframe League is alright as far as I can see because it doesn't cost anything to join and as I understand it, anyone is eligible to membership for life without any cost whatever. But don't you think it has a tendency to cause the exchanges (especially the small ones) to depend largely upon the operator to keep their film in O. K. condition? Only common sense tells us that any operator will cut out the bad patches or a misframe when he finds them in the film he is running. If he doesn't, he should not be allowed in a booth. That is, I mean an operator would do this, but there are a lot of fellows who call themselves operators who are not, especially in the smaller towns where they only have shows every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday at the town hall. Now if the exchanges should depend on the operators to keep their film in good condition and some day get your show the first time through, and have 18 or 20 stops caused from pins and paper clips and different things they fasten them together with—then you should look on the box and see one of the N. A. M. L. stickers on it and your manager would ask you the reason of the stops. Naturally you would tell him that you received it in that condition and then he would take it up with the exchange from which it was received. The exchange manager would say that the N. A. M. L. are supposed to keep the film in good condition and your operator endorsed them and as an active member have him take it up with the N. A. M. L. Then you would feel foolish for the part you are taking in the affair.

Anyhow I would like for you to tell me how you run your show and inspect film at the same time. Are you one of the boys who run slow the first part (while inspecting) and then overspeed the last, so as to come out on time—regardless of speed?

Yours for success,

(Signed) Operators Royal Theatre,
Kansas City, Mo.

P. S.—In what other states besides Texas do they have chief operators and how to do you get to be one?



Come in and COOL OFF!

Let TYPHOON BREEZES make your house delightfully cool and restful during the hot, sultry summer days.

And "Come to the ——— Theatre for a Cool Breeze" will be the saying in your locality.

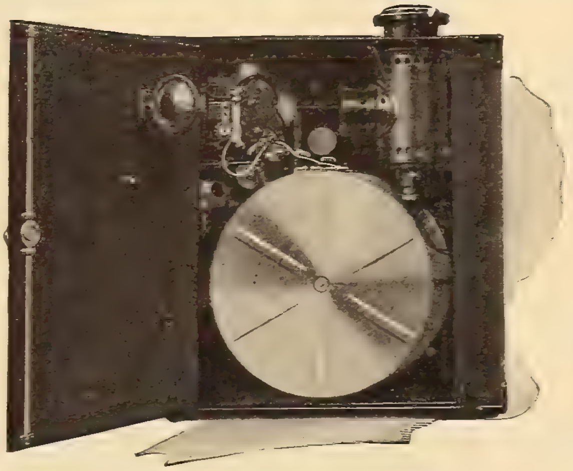
This will soon show big results at your box office—

Enough to pay for your Typhoon Cooling System before summer is over.

Write for free Typhoon Booklet—TODAY.

TYPHOON FAN COMPANY
Box 115, 281 Lexington Ave., New York



PROJECTION
WITH A PORTABLE MACHINE IS BEST ACCOMPLISHED WITH AN AMERICAN PROJECTOSCOPE

Pictures can be shown backward as well as forward, or individual pictures stopped on the screen.

ASK FOR DEMONSTRATION
MOTION PICTURE APPARATUS CO., Inc.
110 W. 32nd St. Farragut 4779 N. Y. City

Through the Republic Laboratories

ONE usually thinks of a firm using only a comparatively few square feet of floor space as a small concern doing limited business. The Republic Laboratories do not have at present all the floor space they need but this does not compel them to limit their business. At the pace they were travelling when the Editor visited them a few weeks ago their only limitations consisted of human endurance and the length of a day. If you don't believe these Laboratories are a storehouse of energy we suggest you impose on the officials and make them a visit. We did and were treated royally.

We saw the girls printing some of the daily stunt of 125,000 feet on the latest Bell & Howell printing machines. We saw exposed film placed on frames each holding about 200 feet and then dipped in the carbonate tank to remove every speck of dust and bubbles of air before they went to the developing tanks. Of course, the positive went into the positive developer tank and the negative into the tank corresponding. Within reaching distance was the " short-stop " tank.

We witnessed the developed and fixed films being shoved through from the dark room into the room where the washing tanks are located, and where, too, the various color solutions are prepared and waiting. The workman in the latter place said his daily stunt was about 640 frames.

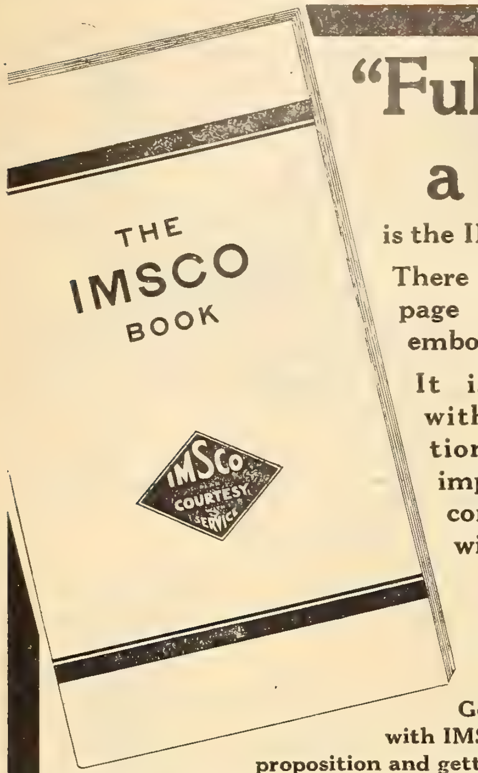
After drying the films on the huge drums they were taken to the assembly room where the sections are cemented together in logical sequence with the necessary titles intervening.

And speaking of titles, this is a little industry in itself at the Republic Laboratories. When we were there they had just finished work on some Turkish and Chinese titles and were then "cranking" some in Russian. Over 22,000 feet of direct positive titles are turned out in their plant in the course of a day, which ranks the Republic titling room with the most prolific in the business.

Such humorous and yet disgusting events as sending out a film with a title strip upside down or a section misplaced could never happen at this plant, for every film is projected on a screen before shipping. To do this means work and money but as the Republic officials work only for results these factors count for nothing.

As we mentioned in the forepart of this article the Laboratories are working at top speed. This applies to men as well as machines. The quality of the work turned out has been their best advertisement and to keep up with orders being received continually demands that everyone in the organization become a fast working expert. And it might be said here that Messrs. Wyer and Yates, President and Manager respectively, are the kind of officials that are able to obtain the best from their employees.

R. Hastings, of the Motion Picture Apparatus Company, is finding ready markets for his newcomer in the Portable Projector Field—the motor driven American Projectoscope.



"Full as a Nut"
is the IMSCO Book·
There isn't a blank page between its embossed covers.
It is crammed with information that will impel you to become intimate with
IMSCO
Getting intimate with IMSCO is a paying proposition and getting the IMSCO Book is only a start, more than worth the two cents for a postal. The Book comes free and prepaid.
INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY CO.
729 SEVENTH AVENUE NEW YORK

Phone Bryant 6808
BAY STATE FILM SALES CO., INC.
220 West 42nd Street New York City
A. G. STEEN, Special Representative
MADE IN AMERICA
FILM RAW STOCK
EQUAL TO THE BEST
Used Successfully by the Foremost Producers and Laboratories

FILM DEVELOPING CORPORATION
Phone: Union 3692
LABORATORIES
216-222 WEEHAWKEN ST. WEST HOBOKEN, N. J.
HARRY HOUDINI, Pres. ALFRED DAVIDSON, Sec. & Treas. THEO. W. HARDEEN, Vice-Pres.

For Better Music
The Fotoplayer
62 West 45th Street AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO. New York City

Cue Sheets Latest Hits — Music — Musical Equipment

Monotony, an Evil of Motion Picture Music

"UNVARYING or irksome sameness" is the correct and known interpretation of this word which inoffensive as it reads, has done more harm to the Ehibitor in general than anything else. Amongst other things Webster also gives this word another definition as "dull uniformity of tone." Has the great Webster ever listened to the music in one of our present Moving Picture shows? Assuredly not—and we should, therefore, more admire this man's modern interpretation of this little substantive. "Uniformity in tone," "dullness," in plain common English the same d——n thing every day—the same waltz—the same serenade—the same routine—nothing new—nothing to attract the same crowd the next day. That's my definition of "Monotony."

If once "Monotony" has struck root in the atmosphere of a theatre, the owner of that house may just as well close up, or he must immediately employ some radical means to dispose of this chronic sickness. He must at once absorb all his energy to find the sick joint in his organization and remove it. In ninety out of a hundred cases the Exhibitor will find that the musical atmosphere in his theatre is the producer of "Monotony." Why? Covetous managers are the cause, or musical directors guided by the spirit of the green-back, who are trying to economize by spending as little as possible for the necessary tools essential to a daily change of program. They are not buying enough music—they are trying to get away with "Orchestra Dollar Clubs," "free orchestrations," "popular one day hits" and many other money-saving devices.

Mr. Exhibitor, look at the United States Theatre map, and you will soon be convinced that the successful houses are those who have spent and are still spending money for music. I know of a twelve-hundred-seat house located in Detroit and managed by Harry I. Garson and Phil Gleichman, employing 25 musicians throughout the year. It is a well-known fact that Detroit is a great amusement center, and that its keen and legitimate competition has forced its exhibitors to develop the art of exhibiting to the highest degree of perfection. Detroit exhibitors know that the only power of attraction for their theatres is to offer something the next man has not got, and I must admit Garson and Gleichman certainly know how to develop their Broadway Strand Theatre into the brightest spot of their town. "Progressive methods," "appropriate music," "changing of stage settings" and various other enemies of "Monotony" have put Garson and Gleichman where they are today—"on the top of the hill of success." I have related such incidents to scores of exhibitors and in every instance I got the same answer "I can't compare myself to New York's Broadway," etc., etc. Correct—but no matter where you are or reside there is always a spot in your town which is called the biggest. Why can't your theatre be that certain spot? Why parallel your mental abilities with your surroundings. It takes three cents to beat two in a small town and five billions to beat four billions in New York. If the biggest musical organization in your town or vicinity consists of five amateurs give your audience something better—give them six. In brief try to raise your show a little above the average level your town-folks are used to, and you'll be the best—you will soon become the center of attraction, of being exclusive, and the result—everybody will be anxious to see you—and pay for it. Average affairs are not exceptional and therefore not attractive. It takes something extra to give you the distinction of being in a class by yourself—of making your community talk about you. Nobody is looking for common stones, they can find them in every corner. Gems are the things. It wasn't the Alaskan snow that attracted the world—there's plenty of it all over—it was the gold which gave Alaska its exclusiveness—it was something that couldn't be found in every ditch—something they had to go there to find. If you want your people to come to your theatre, you must give them something that can't be found in every corner. If you have accomplished this they are bound to flock into your house.

"Monotony" and "sameness" can be found in every corner. Mr. Exhibitor, please give them "something extra."—M. Winkler.

Review of Latest Musical Compositions

1—"Because You Said Good-By," by Sol P. Levy. The heartrendering sentiment expressed in the lyrics of this song will find instant appeal with every audience. It takes its place among the world's popular-classic ballads. Orchestrations now in press. (Belwin, Inc., N. Y.)

2 "When the Shadows Fall," a waltz from the New York Broadway hit, "Listen, Lester," now playing at the Knickerbocker theatre. (Shapiro & Bernstein.)

3 "Kisses," by J. S. Zamecnik. Famous waltz. Composer of "My Cairo Love." (Sam Fox.)

4 "Society's Shimmying Now," one of the most popular fox trots of the season. Always played for the dance of the hour, the "Shimmie." (McCarthy & Fisher.)

5 "A Wee Bit of Lace," a popular one-step of the New York Broadway hit, "Royal Vagabond," now playing at the Cohan & Harris theatre. (McCarthy & Fisher.)

6 "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," by Walter Goodwin. One of those waltz ballads that takes the crowd. (Carl Fisher-Whitmark.)

7 "Dear Old Pal of Mine," waltz by Lieut. Citz Rice. The song made famous by John McCormack. (C. Ricordi & Co.)

8 "Valse Pathetique," by M. L. Lake. A ravishing slow waltz, containing every melodic and effective qualification necessary for achieving thorough and complete popular success. (Carl Fischer.)

Free Music

THE acquisition of a big library consisting of every possible musical character, is an expense which proves too great for many musicians. Music for big photoplays, is always of a standard character, and can, therefore, not be obtained through "Orchestra Clubs," or in 25c. editions. The Dominant Publishing Company, at 20 West Thirty-fourth street, New York, has just brought my attention to the fact that they are distributing twenty-four standard compositions free of charge with their interesting paper issued monthly at a subscription rate of $2.00 per year.

I earnestly suggest that every musician avail himself of the opportunity of subscribing to this excellent monthly paper, which besides giving away two standard compositions for full orchestras each month, also offers exceptional educational value to everybody who is calling himself a musician. This paper also contains a Music Department conducted by Mr. M. Winkler, and is ready at any time to help solve the difficult problems they are daily encountering in the task of supplying appropriate music for the films.

A Western Novelty

DURING my experience of selecting music for pictures, I have always found that Western pictures are a difficult problem of correct musical interpretation. The reason of this is due to the fact that there is very little real Western music published, and that the only musical mediums available to accompany Western pictures are Galops, Common Hurries, Popular Rags, etc.

(Continued on page 4018)

(Continued from page 4017)

I recently had the pleasure of meeting the president of Belwin, Inc., music publishers, and related these facts to him. The result was that the above gentleman promised to publish a number which will, to a certain extent, relieve the situation. Mr. Berge has been engaged for the purpose of writing a number which will be different from the everyday Western clap-traps, and I must admit that he has succeeded in doing so. He wrote a "Western Rodeo," a cowboy characteristic which, in my estimation, is really the best number of its kind, and the only number being different from what has been published for these purposes up to the present date.

Motion Picture News will gladly inform those interested in this composition where to obtain it from.

LATEST MUSIC CUES

"BEATING THE ODDS"

(Harry Morey-Vitagraph)

Specially selected and compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: "Adagietto" (from Symphonette Suite), by Berge

1—"Love Theme," by Lee (2 minutes), at screening.

2—Popular Sentimental Ballad (1 minute), until—T: "One of the three and easies" (restaurant scene) (cabaret).

3—Theme (2 minutes), until—S: When Amy drops bag.

4—"Dramatic Reproach" (Andante Sentimento), by Berge (2 minutes), until—S: When Dave leaves Amy.

5—"Dramatic Tension No. 9," by Andino (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "The District Attorney is for."

6—"Mandarin Dance" (Eccentric Chinese Novelette), by Kempinski (45 seconds), until—T: "That man who would rise."

7—"Birds and Butterflies" (Intermezzo Capricioso), by Vely (3 minutes), until—T: "Doc you're wasting perfectly."

8—Theme (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Make friends and you will make."

9—"Mysterious Nights" (Valse Dramatique), by Berg (3 minutes), until—T: "I came out to show you" (auto effects).

10—Theme (1 minute), until—T: "Gail Rogers, a steel magnate."

11—"Heavy Foreboding Mysterioso" (No. 16 A. B. C. Dramatic Series) (4 minutes), until—T: "Shame, it's a tonic."

12—"Light Allegro Agitato" (No. 16 A. B. C. Dramatic Series) (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: When Dave turns out lights.

13—"Pathetic Romance" (No. 16 A. B. C. Dramatic Series) (1 minute and 45 seconds), until —T: "At the home of Gail, Rogers."

14—Theme (1 minute), until—S: When Dave talks to Rosalie.

15—"Bleeding Hearts" (Andantino Sentimento), by Levy (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Time, the magic wand which."

16—Theme (45 seconds), until—T: "Miss Rogers-Rosalie."

17—"Dramatic Tension No. 44," by Borch (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "That evening Mr. Rogers returns."

18—"Valse Divine" (Valse Lente), by Rosey (3 minutes), until—T: "Let's be married tomorrow."

19—Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Many forces may ennoble the."

20—"Allegro Agitato" (No. 17 A. B. C. Dramatic Series) (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Well, well how's the best."

21—"Plaintive" (No. 18 A. B. C. Dramatic Series) (2 minutes), until—T: "I say, no."

22—"Dramatic Agitato No. 38," by Minot (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "An unexpected turn" (telephone-bell).

23—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Rosalie I am not satisfied."

24—"Dramatic Suspense," by Winkler (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Your stepmother."

25—"Silent Sorrows" (Andante Pathetique), by Borch (2 minutes), until—T: "Three years and three long years."

26—Theme (2 minutes), until—S: When Dave sees child—until END.

"THIN ICE"

(Corinne Griffith-Vitagraph)

Specially selected and compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: "Bleeding Hearts" (And. Sentimento), by Levy

1—Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), at screening.

2—"At Twilight" (Characteristic Romance), by Golden (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Ned Winton, Alice's brother."

3—"Heavy Dr. Pathetic" (No. 10 Luz Photo-Play Edition) (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "The following evening the" (telephone-bell).

4—"Silent Sorrows" (Pathetic Andante), by Borch (2 minutes), until—T: "After a night spent in prayers."

5—"Fairy Phantoms" (Allegretto Grazioso), by Friedman (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: 'I'll keep five thousand."

6—"Heavy Desc. Ag." (No. 9 Luz Photo Play Edition) (1 minute), until—T: "The bomb explodes."

7—"Capricious Annette" (Moderato Caprice), by Borch (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Celebrating the profitable failure."

8—"Dramatic Recitative," by Levy (1 minute), until—T: "In Arizona."

9—"The Blushing Rose" (Andantino Serenade), by Johnson (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "James Miller, District Attorney."

10—Theme (45 seconds), until—T: "After the honeymoon."

11—"Turbulence" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (1 minute), until —T: "Ned Winton returns."

12—"Scherzetto" (From Symphonette Suite), by Berge (3 minutes), until—T: "On the following day Robert."

13—"Dramatic Tension No. 9," by Andino (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Upon her arrival at."

14—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "I am glad you married Bob."

15—"Frills and Furbelows" (Rondo Rococo), by Andino (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "The following morning."

16—"Perpetual Motion" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (1 minute), until—T: "Jobless, penniless, friendless."

17—"Visions" (Intermezzo Characteristic), by Buse (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: When scene fades to Graves.

18—"Dramatic Suspense" by Winkler (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: When Alice enters.

19—"Sinister Theme," by Vely (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—S: "When Alice leaves."

20—"Peacefulness" (Andante Pathetique), by Borch (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "The Web of circumstance."

21—"Misterioso No. 29," by Andino (2 minutes), until—S: When Ned turns out light" (gust of wind).

22—Theme (1 minute), until—S: When Alice recognizes Ned.

23—"Agitato No. 37," by Andino (1 minute and 30 seconds), until —S: When Alice starts to open safe.

24—"Gruesome Misterioso No. 31," by Borch (3 minutes), until—S: When Alice sees Graves' body (telephone-bell).

25—"Dramatic Reproach" (Andante Expressivo), by Berge (2 minutes), until—T: "Ned having been overtaken."

26—Theme (30 seconds), until—T: "Ned, I am sorry," until END.

"JACQUES OF THE SILVER NORTH"

(Mitchell Lewis-Select)

Specially selected and compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: "Sunrise on the Mountain (4/4 Adagio), by Borch

1—Theme (3 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T:Don Baird who has.

2—"Characteristic Barcarolle" (Allegretto), by Borch (2 minutes and 40 seconds), until—S: Jacques playing the guitar.

3—"Mountaineer's Dance" (3/4 Allegretto), by Conterno (1 minute and 5 seconds), until—T: Joseph Clyde Treffery.

4—Sinister Theme (4 minutes and 50 seconds), until—T: We know Jacques' here.

5—"Dramatic Suspense" (3 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: I hope that some day.

6—Continue pp (1 minute and 5 seconds), until—T: Days of contentment.

7—Theme (2 minutes and 5 seconds), T: A stranger arrives.

8—"May Dreams" (Moderato), by Borch (2 minutes), until—T: Lost in the wildnerness.

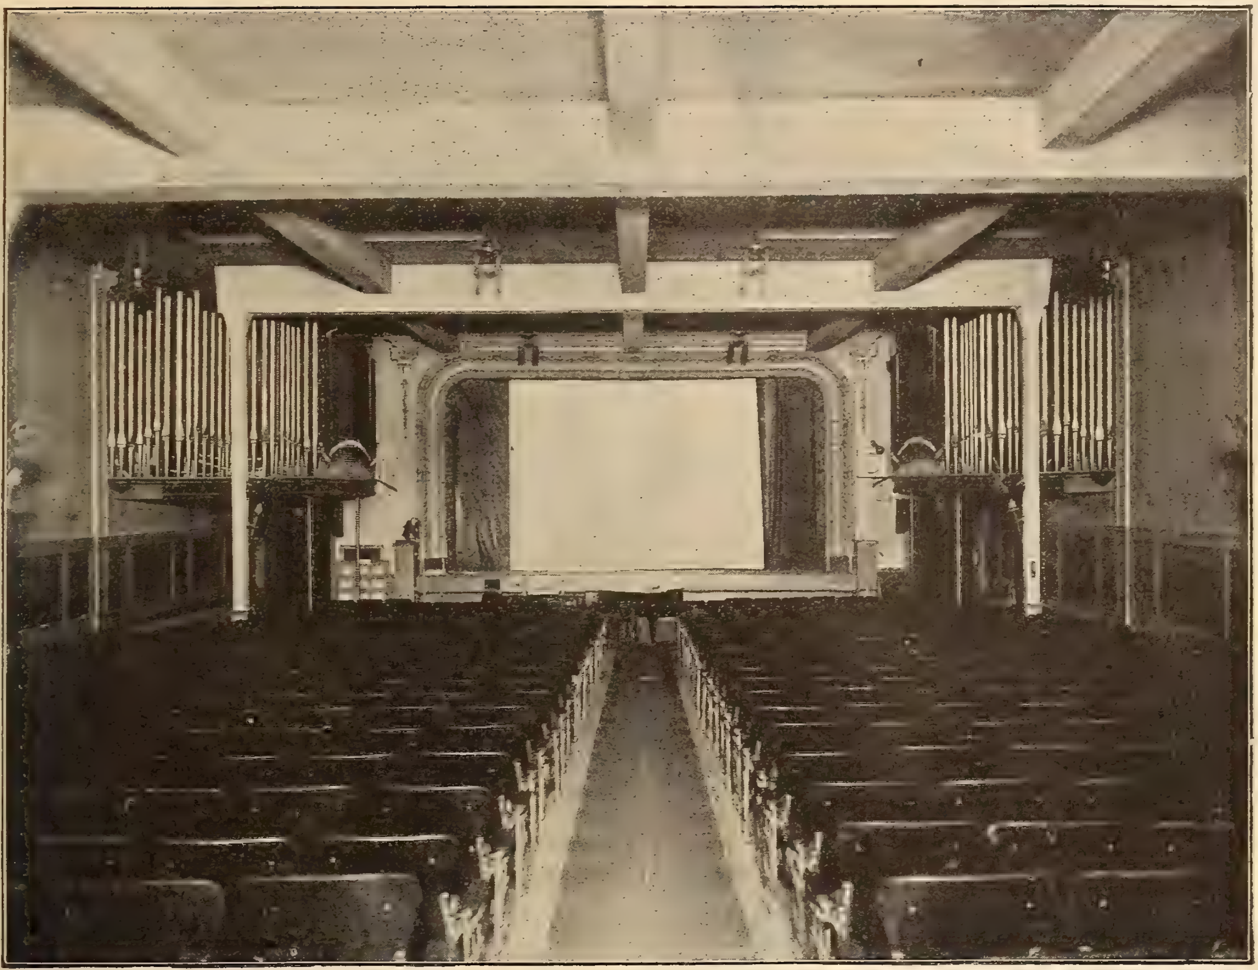
9—Continue pp (45 seconds), until—T: Raven's Roost, a new camp.

Note: Watch shot.

10—"Savannah" (One-step), by Rosey (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—S: Girl on top of big rock.

(Continued on page 4020)

PICKFORD PICKS THE BEST
Out Of Many Songs Submitted
MARY PICKFORD
Selects Albert Von Tilzer's delightful song
DEAR OLD DADDY LONG LEGS
As a musical setting to her First National Exhibitors photoplay
DADDY LONG LEGS
Professional copies, Slides, vocal and dance orchestrations now available. We can help you make "Daddy Long Legs" a 100% box office attraction. Communicate with us at once.
Movie Dept. BROADWAY MUSIC CORPORATION, 145 West 45th Street, New York City Will Von Tilzer, President
NOTE: We are no longer members of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. It costs nothing to play our numbers.



YAKIMA THEATRE
At Yakima, Washington, where the Estey Theatre Organ helps to entertain the crowds that come every night.

Give People What They Want

They have demanded better films and better theatres—and the big, successful houses are the result of giving people what they want.

Now they want better music, and many of the best theatres are installing

THE ESTEY THEATRE ORGAN

It interprets the pictures with music, and can be adapted to any musical program, popular or classical.

It is unquestionably the best music for motion picture theatres. It has been proved out in some of the best theatres in America. You ought to hear what the managers of these theatres say about the Estey Organ.

Without cost to you we will send an expert to look at your theatre, tell you what kind of an organ you could best use, and give you an estimate of the cost. We will also tell you some theatre near you that has an Estey Pipe Organ, so you can judge for yourself.

THE ESTEY ORGAN COMPANY, BRATTLEBORO, VERMONT

You can hear the Estey Organ at any of these branches:

Studios in New York, 11 West 49th Street; Philadelphia, 1701 Walnut Street; Boston, 120 Boylston Street; Los Angeles, 332 South Broadway

A Personal Word to My Brother Projectionists --

I have been through the mill and know all about the operating room troubles due to uneven and excessive film tension. You know this too, and now I want you to know that you can cut out all this trouble by using my Even Tension Reel which I have successfully used in my own operating room for nearly two years before offering it to you. Tell the Boss it will pay for itself two or three times a year in the saving in lower sprockets, besides reducing other wear and tear. I give you my word as a Brother Projectionist that this is true. You will be amazed at the light, even tension. Just try a couple. They're guaranteed.

Fraternally yours,

Gove S. Boylan.

AUTOMATIC REEL CO.

203 Evans Building Washington, D. C.

DU PONT AMERICAN INDUSTRIES

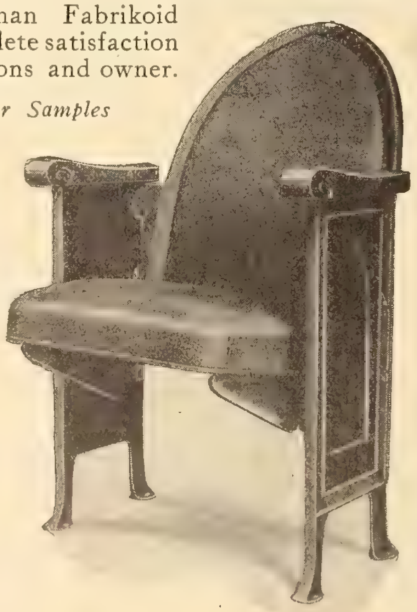
Protect Your Patrons' Health

By having your theatre seats upholstered in Craftsman Fabrikoid. Sanitary because dirt-proof, dust-proof, germ-proof and washable. As beautiful as leather—durable and economical—Craftsman Fabrikoid assures complete satisfaction to both patrons and owner.

Write for Samples

DuPont Fabrikoid Company

Wilmington Delaware



No. 275
Made by Wisconsin Cabinet & Panel Co.
105 West 40th Street New York

DU PONT

(Continued from page 4018)

11—" Dramatic Tension No. 6," by Andino (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: You're making a mistake.
12—" Dramatic Agitato," by Hough (2 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: All right, mister.
13—" Serenade Romantique " (Dramatic), by Borch (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: I reckon now we'll all kiss.
14—Theme (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: The spreading dawn.
15—Continue pp (40 seconds), until—T: Returning from their inspection.
16—" Mountain Song " (3/4 Andante), by Borch (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: 'Neather the spell of Indian summer.
17—" Silvery Brook " (Waltz), by Braham (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: Memory tells her father.
18—" Dramatic Narrative," by Pement (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: Liquor and a stacked deck.
19—" Hunkatin " (Half-tone one-step), by Levy (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: Treffery on his way.
20—" Dramatic Tension No. 9," by Andino (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: The golden green of autumn.
21—Theme (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until T: Damn your insolence.
22—" Agitato," by Minot (55 seconds), until—T: The return of Jacques.
23—Continue pp (40 seconds), until—T: Treffery, I no can find him.
24—Continue pp and slow (50 seconds), until—T: We will take this trail.
25—" Flirty Flirts " (Moderato), by Levy (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: Memory's plan.
26—" A La Mode " (One-step), by Rosey (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: at last M'seu we meet.
27—" La Bella Argentina " (Spanish Dance), by Roberts (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: I never thought you would.

Note: To be played as Piano Solo.

28—" Dramatic Reproach," by Berge (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—S: Girl begins to dance.
29—Repeat Cue No. 27 as Piano Solo (40 seconds), until—T: Boys, a kiss to the men.
30—" Hurry, No. 33," by Minot (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: We've lost him now.
31—" Furioso," by Levy (5 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: The return journey.
32—" Dramatic Andante," by Berge (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: The home coming.
33—Theme (3 minutes and 5 seconds), until the end.

THE END.

" THE SPLENDID ROMANCE "

Specially selected and compiled by M. Winkler.
The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: " Celeste Aida " (Romance), by Verdi

1—Operatic Composition (to be performed as piano solo), (50 seconds), until—At Screening.
2—" La Forza Del Destino " (Overture), by Verdi (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—S: Close-up of girl smoking.
3—Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), T: The home of Ubaldo's family.
4—" Barcarolle Italienne " (Characteristic), by Czibulka (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: May Alvin, an American.
5—Continue pp (50 seconds), until—T: Remember this is my wedding day.
6—Serenade " (Moderato), by Drdla (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: Judge Novello at whose home.
7—" Italian Night's Waltz " (Italian), by Tobani (4 minutes and 25 seocnds), until—S: Flashback to Ubaldo's home.
8—Theme (4 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: Bettina, I gave it all up.
9—" Dramatic Tension " (Dramatic), by Levy (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: Bettina. have you no welcome?
10—" Fifth Nocturne " (Moderato), by Leybach (1 minute and 40 seconds), until—T: On the Atlantic.
11—" Tacet." Just produce piano effects of boy practising (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—T: In New York.
12—" Roman Serenade " (Moderato), by Paladilhe (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: I said play the piano.
13—Continue pp (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: Still dodging pursuit.

(Continued on next page)

COMMERCIAL LABORATORY WORK

In all its branches, receives INDIVIDUAL attention. Has the QUALITY and PUNCH which SELL prints.

RELEASE WORK

Specially equipped for QUANTITY production. Uniform SUPERIOR QUALITY such as only EXPERTS with scientific supervision can produce.

SPECIALTIES

If you have work requiring EXPERT SCIENTIFIC knowledge, we are BEST qualified to do it.

Empire City Film Lab., Inc
345 West 40th St., New York City

Bryant 5437 Bet. 8th & 9th Aves.

(Continued from preceding page)

14—"Roman Serenade" (Moderato), by Paladilhe (50 seconds), until—S: Ubaldo playing piano.

15—"Dramatic Agitato" (to action), (Agitato), by Hough (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: Let me have it, Ubaldo.

16—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—S: Flashback to music studio.

17—"Roman Serenade" (Moderato), by Palahilhe (1 minute), until —T. At the musicale.

18—"Grazielle, Valse Italienne (Valse Lente), by Kretschmer (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—T: Genius never could think.

18—"Flirty Flirts" (Melodious Int.), by Levy (2 minutes and 25 seconds), until—S: Close-up of newspaper.

20—"Dramatic Recitative" (Dramatic), by Levy (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: Professor, what are you.

21—Continue pp (40 seconds), until—T: It's the impractical fools.

22—"Roman Serenade" (Romance), by Paladilhe (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: Success comes quickly.

Note: As Piano Solo.

23—"Sicilian Vespers" (Dramatic), by Verdi (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S. Ubaldo leaving piano.

24—"Babillage" (Allegretto), by Castillo (4 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: Alone at his country place.

25—"Sinister Theme" (Mysterioso), by Vely (4 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: Poor Maestro to be tied.

26—Theme (25 seconds), until—T: To think Ubaldo.

UNTIL THE END.

"THE SOCIAL PIRATE"

(June Elvidge-World)

Specially selected and compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: "Bleeding Hearts" (And. Sentimento), by Levy

1—Theme (3 minutes and 30 seconds), at screening.

2—"A La Mode" (Popular one-step), by Rosey (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—S: When scene fades to cabaret.

3—"Birds and Butterflies" (Intermezzo Allegretto), by Vely (45 seconds), until—S: At end of dance.

4—Orchestra tacet (15 seconds), until—T: "Ladies and gents, I now."

5—"Humoreske" (Direct Cue), by Dvorak (45 seconds), until—S: When Dolores plays (violin and piano only).

6—"Agitato No. 6," by Kiefert (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—S: When fight starts.

7—"Fairy Phantoms" (Intermezzo Allegretto), by Friedman (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Mrs. Norma Ridgeway."

8—"May Dreams" (Moderato Romance), by Borch (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Next morning."

9—"Dramatic Tension," by Levy (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until —T: Despite her illness Dolores."

10—"Sinister Theme," by Vely (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until —T: "After a fruitless search."

11—"Adagio Cantabile" (Excerpts Beethoven Sonata Pathetique), by Berge (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Your room will always be."

12—Theme (violin only) (2 minutes), until—T: "Senor Valrez sailed."

13—"Valse Divine" (Valse Lento), by Rosey (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "At the Locusts."

14—"Humoreske" (violin and piano only), by Dvorak (30 seconds), until—S: When Dolores starts to play.

15—Orchestra tacet (15 seconds), until—S: When audience applaud.

16—"Visions" (Intermezzo Characteristic) (violin and piano only), by Buse (15 seconds), until—S: When Dolores plays again.

17—"Constance" (Moderato Romance), by Golden (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "On the eve of departing."

18—"Rose Leaves" (Andantine Idyll), by Ashleigh (3 minutes), until—T: "At the end of a successful concert."

19—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—S: When Bruce joins Dolores.

20—"Path of Flowers" (Standard Waltz), by Waldteufel (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: "The wedding house party."

21—Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: When Dolores reads letter.

22—"The Blushing Rose" (Andantino Serenade), by Johnson (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Would you be good enough."

23—"Sorrow Theme," by Roberts (3 minutes), until—T: "You like my bracelet."

24—"Dramatic Tension No. 36," by Andino (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "I thought I heard a man's."

25—"Heavy Mysterioso," by Levy (4 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: When Dolores leaves room.

26—"Vivi Finale" (From Symphonette Suite), by Berge (3 minutes), until—T: "Next morning."

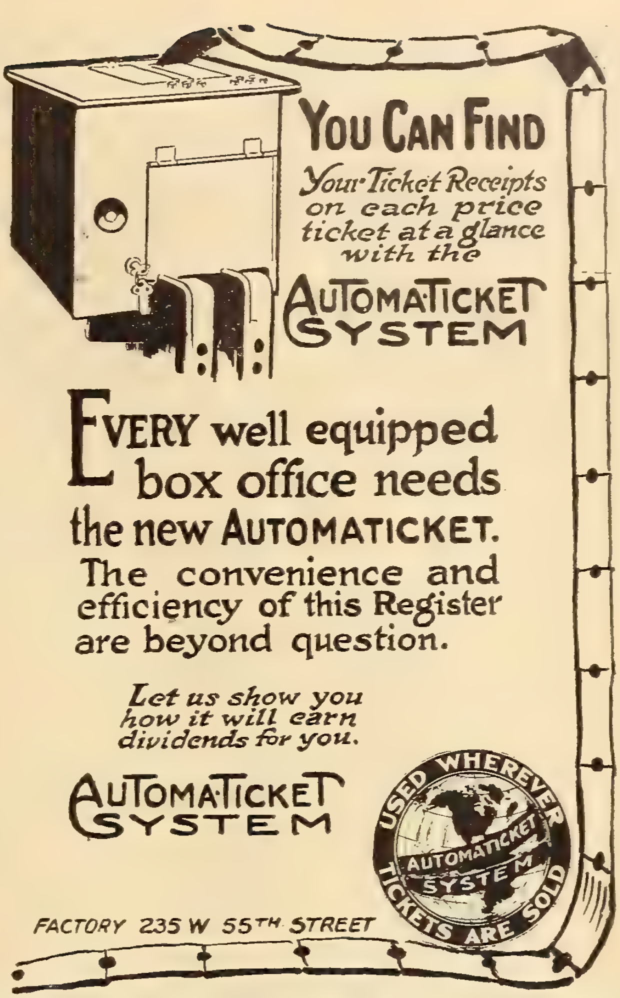
27—"Turbulence" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (3 minutes), until—T: "Miss Fernandez dismissed."

28—"Perpetual Motion" (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "Late afternoon" (watch for knocking on door).

29—"Half Reel Hurry," by Levy (5 minutes and 15 seconds), until —S: When detectives enter drug store.

30—"Agitato No. 69," by Minot (1 minute and 15 seconds), until —S: When Bruce opens door (shots).

31—Theme (1 minute), until—S: When Dolores leaves—until END.



YOU CAN FIND
Your Ticket Receipts on each price ticket at a glance with the
AUTOMATICKET SYSTEM

EVERY well equipped box office needs the new AUTOMATICKET.
The convenience and efficiency of this Register are beyond question.

Let us show you how it will earn dividends for you.

AUTOMATICKET SYSTEM

USED WHEREVER TICKETS ARE SOLD
AUTOMATICKET SYSTEM

FACTORY 235 W 55TH STREET

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILS

Read what C. A. Morrison of The Princess Theatre, Hartford, Conn., says about Newman Quality:

Gentlemen:
We have purchased quite a number of Brass Frames and Easels, together with Brass Ticket Rail and Three-Sheet Brass Poster Frames of your Company.
All of these goods reached us in perfect condition and the quality was the best. I have told several other managers in the city of your goods and in several instances orders have been sent you—all of which goes to show that your best advertiser is a satisfied customer.
PRINCESS THEATRE CO., Inc.
C. A. Morrison, Mgr. Hartford, Conn.

INSIST ON THE NAME "NEWMAN" WHEN BUYING FRAME

Write for New 1918 Catalog

The Newman Mfg. Company

ESTABLISHED 1882
Frames, Easels,
Rails, Grilles,
Signs, Choppers
Kick Plates, Door Bars

717-19 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, Ohio
68 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois
Canadian Representative—J. T. Malone, Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Canada
Pacific Coast—G. A. Metcalfe, San Francisco . Ca

We manufacture the frames in various finishes which do not require polishing.

The Accessory Department teems with Items of Interest to Operator and Exhibitor alike.

LE FILM
The Greatest Weekly Trade
Paper of
MOTION PICTURES AND THE STAGE PRINTED IN PARIS
1457 Broadway New York
Telephone Bryant 5602
26 RUE DU DELTA, PARIS
878 TALCAHUANO,
BUENOS AIRES
Subscription, One Year, $6.00

THE BARTOLA

You need Bartola music in your theatre. Easy monthly payments. Send for catalogue.

BARTOLA MUSICAL INSTRUMENT CO., Room 314 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Factory, Oshkosh, Wis.

Business Offerings

WANTED—High-class Movie Man to open first-class picture show in Phoenix, Arizona. I have a building centrally located with lease for fourteen years. Big opportunity for right man. Party must have at least Three Thousand Dollars to invest and must be capable of assuming full management. Address Benjamin Rice, 525 Main St., Joplin, Missouri.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE—A used Photo-Player. Reason for sale, is being replaced with large Kimball Pipe Organ. Communicate with W. B. Milner, Room 601, 507 Fifth Ave., New York City.

FOR SALE—400 foot camera, Ernamann Professional model. Has 2 inch lens, four magazines, masks and case. Big bargain. Flanders, 507 Fifth Ave., New York.

MOTION PICTURE THEATRE MANAGER—At present employed with one of the best known syndicate of theatres in the Middle West, desires change. Expert on exploitation and advertising, full of " Pep," " Punch " and " Go." Build my own Lobby Displays, high class Show Card and Sign Writer. Highest references as to ability to compel business and place your house in the A-1 class. Known to most every Branch Manager in the Middle West. Thorough organizer, Diplomatic and expounder of Cheerful Theatre service. Open for single house engagement or a string of theatres. Correspondence solicited and specimen stunts mailed to responsible managers or owners only. References above the ordinary. FORREST C. TEMPLIN, Personal, care F. J. Rembusch Enterprises, Shelbyville, Ind.

THE ARGUS LAMP & APPLIANCE CO.
Manufacturers of
Argus-Sheck Universal Adapters
for Mazda Lamp Projection
and
Argus Crystal Bead Screens
Write for catalog. CLEVELAND, Ohio

FOR COLOR EFFECTS USE
Reco Hoods
Colors show Beautiful and Brilliant and are Permanent.
Hoods slip over the bulb.
Way Ahead of Dip and Less Costly
For 5-10 W. and 25-40 W. Lamps
REYNOLDS ELECTRIC CO.
422 S. TALMAN AVE. CHICAGO, ILL.

Write for our list of Guaranteed Rebuilt Machines
AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY
Largest Exclusive Dealers to the
MOTION PICTURE TRADE
300-302 Mallers Building
5 So. Wabash Avenue
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
Dealers in Motiograph, Standard and Simplex Moving Picture Machines, National Carbons, Minusa Screens and Everything for the Theatre.
WE SELL ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

" BEAUTY PROOF "

1—" Scherzetto " (From Symphonette Suite), by Berge (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—At Screening.

(Sleighbells)

2—Theme (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: Inspector MacGregor of the.

3—" Dramatic Tension," by Levy (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until: T: " They say you're beauty proof."

4—" Fairy Phantoms " (Allegretto Grazioso), by Friedman (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: On the way to Le Pas with.

5—" Moderne Waltz " (Valse Moderato), by Rosey (1 minute), until —T: Le Pas a town set in the midst.

6—" Rose Leaves " (Idyl Andantino), by Ashleigh (2 minutes), until S: When dancers stop.

7—Theme (2 minutes), until—S: When Steele ignores women.

8—" Allegro Hurry (No. 2 A. B. C. Dramatic Series), (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—Steele's mind had.

9—" Heavy Dr. Desc " (No. 2 A. B. C. Dramatic Series), (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until S: When Steele is put on bed.

10—" Intermezzo " (Allegro Agitation), by Arensky (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: When box is placed on sleigh.

11—" Dramatic Recitative," by Levy (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: When Carol knocks on door.

12—" Agitato No. 6," by Kiefert (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: " You are beautiful " (shot).

13—" Heavy Mysterioso " (No. 10 A. B. C. Dramatic Series), (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: " Yes, he is dead."

14—" Agitato Mysterioso (No. 10 A. B. C. Dramatic Series), (45 seconds), until—T: " You cheated me."

15—" Plaintive " (No. 10 A. B. C. Dramatic Series) (3 minutes), until—T: " Four years ago I met Hodges.

16—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: Three days later Steel returns.

17—" Allegro Agitato No. 8," by Andino (1 minute), until—T: " I carried Hodges on " (shot).

18—" Sinister Theme," by Vely (3 minutes), until—T: The trial of Thorpe and his.

19—" Joyous Allegro," by Borch (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: " Not Guilty."

20—Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: Hodges was detained in the lock-up.

21—" Turbulence " (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: Knowing at last although he had.

22—" Dramatic Tension No. 67," by Shepherd (2 minues and 45 seconds), until—T: " This is the second time I have."

23—" Finale," from Ariele (Agitato Allegro), by Bach (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: " Steele takes this trail to Le Bac."

24—" Perpetual Motion " (Allegro Agitato), by Borch (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: When Steele reaches hut.

25—" Agitato No. 69, by Minot (3 minutes, until—S: When Hodges reaches sleigh.

26—Theme (1 minute and 30 seconds), until S: When Steele takes hat and gloves.

THE END.

Bert Lytell and Maxwell Karger, of Metro, Snapped at the West Coast Plant Following the Completion of " Blackie's Redemption "

A FACTORY devoted exclusively to making of MOVING PICTURE ACCESSORIES. PRICES are RIGHT—GOODS, the BEST.

FULCO is the BRAND Sold the world over. Ask for them. INSIST on getting them. If your dealer does not supply them, write

E. E. FULTON CO.
3204 Carroll Ave.
CHICAGO

Here's the list. Watch it for new additions—
BENCH REWINDS (2 styles)
One Piece Travelers Rewind
Fire Proof Enclosed Rewinds (Underwriters Approved)
Carbon Savers (2 kinds)
CARBON ADAPTERS (2 kinds)
Pastil Adapters
Ticket Holders (Single Coupon)
Projectionists Tool Set
ASSEMBLED ALL METAL REEL (5" Hub, Solid Steel Core)
Brass Lug, or Terminal
Copper Terminal (Coming)
Stereopticon Color Wheel
Slide Writer (Stencil)
Slide Compound, Slide Inks
FILM CEMENT, Perfumes
Perfume Disseminators
Oils (4 Grades), Exit Signs
Fire Proof Film Boxes
Humidor Film Cabinets
Safety Waste Cans
Film Carying Cases (2 styles, 5 sizes)
FILM SHIPPING CASES (I. C. C. Approved)
Stripping Flanges, or Negative Rewinds
Mechanism Carrying Cases (Metal, Fibre lined)

TransVerteR
You Need a Transverter
The Motor-Generator that produces perfect arc for Picture Projection
You can make a perfect dissolve with two-arc Transverter
The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co.
1908 West 114th St., Cleveland, O.
Exclusive Canadian Distributors
PERKINS ELECTRIC CO.
Head Offices Montreal, Can

Everything the Showman Needs on Every Picture Released

The Complete Plan Book

Compiled by Peter Milne

Pictures Reviewed in Advance

[In addition to Advance Reviews—covering pictures shown too early to be included in The Complete Plan Book—readers will also find under this heading each week the reviews of short features and serial episodes.]

"Ambrose's Day Off"

(Poppy—Two-Reel Comedy, with Mack Swain)

MACK SWAIN will hereafter be identified with Poppy Comedies after Keystoning and Sunshining and L-Koing his way for several seasons. Here is a comedian who is inimitable—a fact that has been proven since he first blossomed out with Chaplin years ago. Though his fellow funmakers (the big ones) have been imitated by a score of lesser lights, the big unctious comedian stands out conspicuously because his style and bag of tricks have not been copied in any way, shape or form.

He is unique. There is no doubt about that when one considers his peculiar makeup and business. But the thing that makes him a big funmaker is the apparent ease with which he scores his points. There is no ostentation whatsoever. Anyone who can make his comedy spontaneous is an artist. And that is just what Mr. Swain is—an artist.

The people who are back of him in his new venture have spared no expense to make his comedies comparable with the best. They have commissioned R. S. Todd, who is said to be the Chaplin editor, as the man behind the titles. And his fine Italian hand is seen in the captions which are quaint and lambent with humor. The author of "Ambrose's Day Off" is Vincent Bryan while the director is Walter S. Frederick.

But the picture is only a beginner and we feel sure that Mr. Swain will come into his own just as soon as his sponsors become acclimated to his style. He has a good-looking ensemble and a beauty in Lottie Cruze who plays opposite. She is chock full of pep and personality. Poppy Comedies are put out by the Frohman Amusement Corporation.—Laurence Reid.

"The She Wolf"

(Frohman—Five Reels)

IT has been some time since Texas Guinan graced the screen, but she lingers in the memory because of her unique characterization in a picture called "The Gun Woman," which came out several months ago. It will be remembered that she paralleled Bill Hart and seemingly stepped into his shoes with all the familiar accoutrements. And she made a good impression as the two gun good-bad woman when she invaded a field hitherto hed by the men.

Well that impression still remains in her new offering, "The She Wolf." It could be called "The He Wolf" and it would fit Hart to a dot, which leads us to say that Miss Guinan IS Bill Hart disguised in feminine clothes.

She has the same repression and the same mannerisms but she hasn't succeeded in catching the suppressed emotional fervor that characterizes his work.

The picture is regulation Western melodrama which means that all the mining camp trappings are in their accustomed places. The She Wolf is a two gun woman who conducts the saloon and when the vicious element show their ugly heads she promptly puts them where they belong. The conflict that is typical of such pieces engenders a deal of action and suspense, and the love interest comes to the surface to transform her from a wolf into a lamb.

Cliff Smith, who knows his West and its melodramas, has succeeded in turning out a picture that holds the interest all the way. His familiar long shots are as picturesque as ever. Harvey Thaw's titles speak the language of the times and they contribute splendidly in making the characters colorful and the plot atmospheric. Steve Rounds' photography is creditable. "The She Wolf" was written by John Colton and scenarioized by Raymond L. Schrock. —Laurence Reid.

INDIA AND THE EAST

We are prepared to act as Agents and Hirers of films for the Best Film Manufacturers of America and the Continent, for India, Burma, Ceylon, Straits Settlements, Federated Malay States and Dutch East Indies. Those interested in the same might send their terms and literature to:

The Businessmen Bureau, Kinematography Department

No. 119 & 120 Armenian Street, Madras, INDIA

HARRISON'S EXHIBITOR REVIEWS

"The Sleeping Lion"—with Monroe Salisbury

THE first part of this picture follows the George Beban School. It presents the hero as an Italian, moulder of Plaster of Paris statues, who finds a homeless little orphan boy whom he adopts. The remainder is staged in a Western country among farms and woods; it includes a strong fight between the hero and the villain. There is much to be commended in it! The good cast, for instance, the beautiful forest scenery, the fine photography, the excellent directing, the high suspense, etc. But there is also much to be condemned, when judged from the standpoint of a spectator who demands pictures of the cheerful sort, the kind that leave him in a happy mood; too much blood flows, and too much cruelty is shown. For instance, while a strong fight may appeal to some men, women abhor it. On the other hand, while a close up with the blood flowing from the jaw may be realistic, it can hardly be said that it entertains. To many a picture goer the sight of it is sickening. But the one feature that will cause some people to shring back with horror is the shooting of the little boy. It is not quite clear how the levelling of a gun, and then the shooting of it and killing a child can be productive of pleasure to a spectator. Neither is it clear how the details that naturally follow, such as the showing of a close-up with the little boy lying prostrate on the floor, the raising of it and placing it upon the couch, the expression of deep grief by the countenances of those that are dearest to him, can be productive of cheer. It is true that the villain, while shooting at the window shadow, does not know who the original on the other side is; but the spectator does. It is also true that the child is not killed, but only stunned and injured slightly; but that is only "sugar-coating the bitter pill," as the showing afterward that the little life is not extinct is powerless to overcome the feeling of horror implanted in the mind of a tender-hearted mother, or a loving father, or, in fact, of anybody who has a heart, because to them the child for several minutes is dead.

What makes the act more saddening is the fact that no punishment is provided for such a crime. It is true that the villain suffers in the end, but he does not pay for this particular act, as the fact that he is the one who had shot the child never becomes known to any of the other characters. Released by Universal in June. Length, 6 reels.—P. S. H.

"The Final Close-Up," with Shirley Mason

THIS is just an ordinary picture; perhaps it is not the kind that will do you much harm to run, but it is not the sort that would make anybody go out of his way to praise it. There seems to be very little good will attracted by the principal characters, because of the unsympathetic mood of the story. It is a rank exaggeration of life, and quite often a misrepresentation. People would hardly behave the way they are shown in the picture.

The theme is the usual shock cushion, employed whenever there is nothing else in sight—the milionaire's son marries the poor girl. In this instance, SHE is a clerk in a department store, working in the basement, the hottest spot in town. She faints, from the excessive heat, the same as many other girls have done, but she has no money to go to the beach. HE, however, is there in the person of a reporter, out for a story, who, upon hearing her sad circumstances, sends her $200, without disclosing the identity of the sender. She goes down to a summer resort, registers in the best hotel, and poses as a society lady. But her social standing soon becomes known among the other guests, so they one and all turn their backs to her. The hero, however, is on hand to offer his friendship. In the end everything turns out all right; they marry with the consent of the father, who made his millions from street department contracts. Released by Paramount May 18. Length, 5 reels.—P. S. H.

"Almost Married"—with May Allison

MISS ALLISON seems to have struck it wrong this time. There isn't much to the picture. To begin with, the theme is hardly of the sort that would have a strong appeal with a modern audience, because, besides having been done on the screen time and again, it could not be called modern in the strict sense of the word. On the other hand, it lacks suspense.

The first part of the picture opens in Switzerland, among the Alps, with the characters dressed in their native costume. The heroine there meets the hero, an Irish American, the son of a newly made rich father; they fall in love. As he is trying to put on airs, however, he thinks a marriage between them is unwise, owing to their different social standing; so he leaves back for the states, making the fact known to the heroine by letter.

Shortly, the heroine goes to America, where she becomes a chorus girl. She meets with the father of her former love. The father, learning of the unjust treatment his son accorded the heroine, schemes with her to bring about their union. They pretend to fall in love with each other. In a few days they tell the son they have been married. This arouses the son's jealousy. By an overheard conversation, however, the son becomes aware that their marriage is a fake, undertaken to arouse his jealousy, so he determines to arouse the heroine's jealousy by pretending he is engaged to a chorus lady. In the end, however, both schemes are disclosed, and a union between the hero and the heroine results.

The young man's role is very unsympathetic, and this fact seems to have a detrimental influence upon the heroine also; her falling in love with such a man appears to kill all sympathy for her. The bright spot of the picture, however, is the character of the old man, undertaken by Frank Currier. He succeeds in causing some laughs.

The picture is not suggestive. Released through Metro June 2. Length, 5 reels. —P. S. H.

"One of the Finest"—with Tom Moore

THE humanness of the story, combined with the pleasing personality of Tom Moore, and with the skillful handling, make this picture appealing. It should offer satisfactory entertainment to a large number of pleasure seekers.

Mr. Moore's role is that of a big-hearted policeman, who cares for his widowed mother, as well as a little girl, the daughter of a man serving a term in prison, and of a woman who has to work for a living.

While on duty in the park as a traffic man, he stops a speeding automobile. The passengers, a young lady and an escort, an aspiring suitor, resent the interference. The young lady, attracted by the fine appearance of the policeman, returns to make his acquaintance, but he is there no more, having been transferred and made a plain clothes man, through the influence of her escort.

While a wedding is taking place in the home of the young lady, the heroine, the hero is detailed to watch the wedding presents. The heroine is surprised to come across him so unexpectedly. At the same time she is glad for the opportunity of making his acquaintance. The aspirant suitor, in order to bring about an estrangement between the two lovers, accuses the hero as dividing his affection with another woman. The falseness of his statements, however, is soon disclosed. The heroine learns that the woman in question is none other than the mother of the little girl he is caring for. Their engagement is now approved by the father of the girl. Released by Goldwyn May 4. Length, 5 reels.—P. S. H.

"Red Head"—with Alice Brady

UNLESS "Red Head" is re-subtitled, it is not clear how a theatre that caters to families can show it to them without offending their sensibilities. The language of most of the subtitles, which represent expressions uttered by the heroine, are in the regular Broadway dialect, the kind used by the commonest of women in their every day conversation.

Of course the object was to produce realism, and as the heroine is a cabaret singer, such expressions should not seem out of place. This is true enough, but realism cannot be applied in all cases, without offending; and offense seems to be what is produced in this instance.

The conduct of the heroine after her marriage to the hero is, too, I am afraid, going to prove a sourse of displeasure. She marries a wealthy manufacturer's dissolute nephew, while they are both intoxicated. After the young man wakes up in the morning and is told of the marriage, he becomes angry. He scorns his wife. Nearly to the end of the picture he shows disgust for her, once even telling her right to her face that he has absolutely no use for her whatever. In the end, of course, the heroine wins his love. In the face of such conduct on her husband's part, it seems incredible that a modern woman would have gone as far as the heroine does. She begs for the hero's love, and insists on it. It is true there are women who would go as far as that, but they should expect no sympathy: and the winning of the spectator's sympathy for the heroine is the aim of this story. What is more probable the majority of girls, under similar circumstances, would have done is to kick such a man in the face and tell him to get out. Released through Select in April. Length, 5 reels. P.S.H.

"THE FINAL CLOSE-UP"—PARAMOUNT

Working Girl Beats Debutante to the Altar in Sparkling Comedy

GOOD fortune is smiling at Shirley Mason these days if one takes into account her latest success, "The Final Close-Up." It is a sparkling comedy in which Paramount has presented her—quite as effervescent with humor as her last previous offering, "The Rescuing Angel." And it surpasses the latter piece in the spontaneity of its action, since there is no labor in the composition. The wit and humor seem to spout from springs that are far beneath the surface, which leads us to state that when a comedy is conceived on such a foundation you can make up your mind it is well nigh perfect.

It satirizes the final scene of the customary picture and naturally eliminates criticism from the captious spectator. When a certain working girl breaks into society and beats the budding "debs" in leading the catch of the season to the altar, she, being a picture devotee, informs him that the time is ripe to go into the final close-up. Before this event takes place, incidents are unfolded which not only generate wholesome humor, but give forth a deal of drama in the shape of heart interest and pathos. And the entire picture is punctuated with a rich assortment of laugh-provoking subtitles.

Miss Mason's performance sparkles like the incidents of the story, and she gives evidence that she has graduated as a first class comedienne. Francis McDonald makes an excellent foil. Walter Edwards is the man at the helm and his direction is praiseworthy. The picture was reviewed on page 3847 of last week's issue.—Length, 5 reels.—Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

Nora Nolan	Shirley Mason
Jimmie Norton, a Reporter	Francis McDonald
Patrick Norton	James Gordon
Emily Westervelt-Moore	Betty Bouton
Lloyd Gregory	Eugene Burr
Maisie Smith	Mary Warren

By Royal Brown.
Scenario by Julia C. Ivers.
Directed by Walter Edwards.
Photographed by James C. Van Trees.

PRESS NOTICE

Shirley Mason, the diminutive and dainty Paramount star, will be seen in her newest picture, "The Final Close-Up," which comes to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. Miss Mason appears in the role of Nora Dolan, a department store clerk, who spends her vacation at a seaside resort. It is a fashionable place and Nora would have found it too expensive except that that gets $200 from an anonymous source. So she meets a young newspaper man who falls in love with her, but just as things are going well she is accused of theft.

To show the manager and his aristocratic patrons that she is innocent, Nora captures the real crooks in the act of robbing the hotel safe, her only weapon being a frying pan. And so she gets back her own money and the jewels of the other guests, and finds clear sailing in her love affair with her newspaper friend, Jimmy Norton, who it turns out, was the anonymous donator of the two hundred dollars.

Miss Mason has a light comedy role which generates a lot of pathos. Her characterization is particularly appealing and it may safely be said that she has never found such opportunities as are presented here to score as a resourceful and talented actress. Francis McDonald, who appears opposite the star, gives a good account of himself. The remainder of the cast includes such well known players as Mary Warren, Betty Bouton, Eugene Burr and James Gordon. The story, written by Royal Brown, appeared in the Red Book Magazine some time ago. Julia C. Ivers made the adaptation, and the picture was produced under the direction of Walter Edwards.

THE STORY

Nora Nolan works in a New York department store. Summer has arrived and on a particularly hot day she pretends to faint. The store doctor advises a vacation and the girl is unable to take it until Jimmy Norton, a cub reporter, who is covering a story in the store, sympathizes with her and anonymously sends her $200. So Nora has her wish to go to Winchester-by-the-sea and have a good time like the society people. Jimmy, in the meantime, is fired from his paper and leaves for the same resort to pitch on the hotel ball team. Now he is a millionaire's son, and is considered the catch of the season, so when Emily Westervelt-Moore, a society girl, sees that he is impressed with Nora, she becomes extremely jealous.

On learning from Jimmy that Nora works in a department store, she loses no time in letting the whole world know it. Lloyd Gregory, a thief, posing as an admirer of Emily, robs all the bathhouses on the beach, and to hide his theft, suggests to Emily that Nora must be the thief. The society bud plants some jewelry in Nora's room, but is caught by the shop girl, who locks her in the bathroom. When the manager accuses Nora, she compels Emily to take sides with her, although the shop girl has to wash dishes to pay her bill because she has been robbed by Gregory. However, she arranges a clever ruse and clears herself and eventually captures the crooks. Holding a frying pan over their heads until help arrives, she keeps them at bay. So Jimmy proposes and Nora consents. And before you know it they are enacting the final close-up.

CATCH LINES

She was only a shop girl and she wanted to live as they do in the movies. So she went to a fashionable seaside resort to have her wish come true. And before her vacation was over she took part in a final close-up just as they do on the screen. You're in for a genuine treat when Shirley Mason comes to town in "The Final Close-Up."

They scoffed at her and held themselves aloof did these society buds. And one of them tried to have her arrested as a hotel thief. But she caught the masculine prize of the season and made the debutantes look like a bunch of pikers. See "The Final Close-Up."

There is an appeal about the final close-up in the movies. And "The Final Close-Up" which comes to the ——— screen next ——— carries such an appeal because of its final close-up; but the picture doesn't wait for the end for its punch. It has a whole variety of close-ups, some of which are dramatic while others are romantic. Don't fail to see this Shirley Mason picture when it comes to town.

She wondered why things didn't happen to her as they did to people in the movies. Then she went on her vacation and things did begin to happen like they did on the screen. The picture wound up in fine shape—with "The Final Close-Up" passed by father, who acted as the Board of Censors. Come and see "The Final Close-Up" with Shirley Mason as the star.

PROGRAM READER

To look at the title of Shirley Mason's new Paramount offering, "The Final Close-Up," one would imagine that the play deals with the adventures of a moving picture actress in a studio—but such is not the case. When it comes to the ——— screen in the near future the patrons will see a story of the adventures of a little department store girl who had no wealth nor position but plenty of animation and determination. On one of New York's dog days she gets a vacation by pretending illness. She goes to a fashionable seaside resort and puts up at the leading hotel, which event stirs up all kinds of excitement with the society people who are stopping there. The hotel is robbed and when it is learned that she is a shop girl, she is suspected. However, she places the blame where it belongs by catching the crooks herself, armed with nothing more than a frying pan. So her sweetheart proposes to her and she reminds him that in the movies they have what they call "the final close-up." And he takes her in his arms.

This bare outline does not detail the humorous and dramatic points that have a big place in the picture. One must see it to appreciate it. The scenario is by Julia C. Ivers from the story of Royal Brown. Miss Mason is supported by Francis McDonald, James Gordon, Betty Bouton, Eugene Burr and Mary Warren. Walter Edwards is the director.

SUGGESTIONS

Don't overlook this title in your exploitation of the picture. As everyone knows who follows the screen, the most important part of a picture is what is known as the "the final close-up." Though this pose is practically the same in every photoplay, no fan would think a picture complete without it. Here it is, the final close-up of "The Final Close-Up." So concentrate upon it. It is going to interest a lot of your patrons. Don't tell them that it is a picture of the studios, but DO TELL them that the heroine is a shop girl who follows the movies, and when she meets the right man and accepts him for better or for worse, she

(Continued on page 4026)

Shirley Mason in "The Final Close Up"

"ONE OF THE FINEST"—GOLDWYN

Tom Moore Pleases in a Romance That Is Quite Obvious

TOM MOORE'S latest Goldwyn is a fairly diverting romance, one which will be enjoyed by an audience not expecting a great deal, but one which has nothing to distinguish it from a handful of other romances with a little comedy thrown in. The star takes the role of a traffic policeman whose first encounter with the heroine proves to be a stormy occasion, on which he takes the trouble to tell her that if she evades his signals again she will land in jail. Subsequently they meet again and this time fall in love.

Even as early as the first meeting the spectator is able to sit back in his seat and foretell the events to follow. The whole plot is mapped out after the characters have been planted. Toward the end a melodramatic bit of counter-action is introduced, but this, too, has been foretold by the spectator.

It is Mr. Moore's personality that is the distinctly pleasing thing about the picture. His work is ingratiating to a degree and he receives excellent support from Seena Owen as the girl.—Length, 5 reels. —Peter Milne.

THE CAST

Larry Hayes	Tom Moore
Frances Hudson	Seena Owen
Mary Jane	"Peaches" Jackson
Mrs. Hayes	Mollie McConnell
Nellie Andrews	Mary Warren
Teddy	Hallam Cooley
Gus Andrews	Edwin Sturgis
Robert Fulton Hudson	Frederic Vroom
Mrs. Hudson	Adelaide Elliott

By J. Clarkson Miller.
Directed by Harry Beaumont.

THE STORY

Larry Hayes is a traffic cop and a good one. His father had been police commissioner before him and Larry had studied law but the chances on the force appealed to him more than long studies among dusty volumes. One day when a certain automobile disregards his signal Larry makes the acquaintance of Frances Hudson, a society girl and, though neither of them know it, it is the beginning of a romance. Later Larry is transferred to the plain clothes squad and sent to stand guard over the presents on view at a fashionable wedding. Here again he meets Frances and here Larry incurs the enmity of Teddy, a young gentleman who believes himseelf engaged to Frances.

Later when Frances' father goes away on a trip Larry is again commissioned to guard the house. Teddy notices with chagrin the progress of the love affair and looks around for a weapon to use against Larry. He discovers that in his home is Mary Jane, a baby girl. And he also notices Larry with a strange woman. The story back of these two is that Larry and his mother had adopted the baby after her father, a crook, had been sent to prison on Larry's evidencee. The mother, grateful, comes to visit the child often. Of course, Teddy puts the wrong interpretation on all this and almost precipitates a quarrel between Frances and Larry. But the baby's father unwittingly brings things to a happy conclusion by making an attempt on Larry's life. The story of the baby and her ancestry is then told and Larry takes Frances in his arms—but not as a fine traffic policeman but a poor lawyer.

PRESS NOTICE

Tom Moore, the Goldwyn star, who rose to this position because of the demand of the public demand, will be seen at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in his latest photoplay entitled, "One of the Finest." As the title implies, this picture offers the star the role of a policeman and the actor makes good every one of the opportunities for comedy and fine sentiment offered him in this part. The story was written by J. Clarkson Miller and produced under the direction of Harry Beaumont, the man responsible for so many of the lighter pictorial offers of the day, including the last Tom Moore picture.

Mr. Moore is seen as Larry Hayes, a traffic policeman. He makes the acquaintance of Frances Hudson, a society girl, when he holds up her automobile to give the chauffeur instructions about driving. She suffers with fine scorn throughout his angry tirade against her but, strange as it may seem, this meeting is but the beginning of a romance. Its development and the manner in which all obstacles are overcome are events which crowd the body of the picture with highly colorful romantic action.

Mr. Moore is excellent in his role and receives delightful support from Seena Owen as his leading lady. Others who appear, rendering performances of a most adequate character are Hallam Cooley, "Peaches" Jackson, Mollie McConnell, Mary Warren, Edwin Sturgis and Frederick Vroom.

PROGRAM READER

He had nerve, he did! She, Frances Hudson, to be held up and lectured to by a mere traffic policeman. And the bold fellow even went so far as to suggest that she might like the inside of a prison cell when she saw it after offending the second time. The very idea! Really, Frances was all cut up about it, she was. Larry Hayes, the traffic policeman in question, didn't take it at all to heart. In fact, he rather liked the idea of lecturing pretty Frances right out in the middle of the road where all the rest of the motorists could see her in her shame. But he really never thought he'd see the girl again, much less marry her. And, of course, such an idea never entered her mind. Nevertheless a marriage resulted from this first meeting and the manner in which it is brought about is delightfully set down in Tom Moore's latest Goldwyn picture entitled, "One of the Finest," which will be seen at this theatre shortly. Mr. Moore, with his good looks and his Irish makes much out of the stellar role and is given fine support by Seena Owen who appears as Frances. The picture was written by J. Clarkson Miller and produced under the direction of Harry Beaumont.

CATCH LINES

He didn't know it, but when he put up his hand to stop the traffic he started in playing Cupid. See Tom Moore in "One of the Finest."

Tom Moore is the star of "One of the Finest," Goldwyn picture

When Larry Hayes, the traffic cop, lectured her about disregarding his signals she became very much peeved. Little did she dream that their first meeting was the beginning of a romance. See Tom Moore in his latest picture, "One of the Finest."

It's one of the finest he's done, too.

Whey they first met they fought—the second time they fell in love. See Tom Moore in "One of the Finest."

The comedy of a policeman who did not fall in love with the maid. See Tom Moore in "One of the Finest."

In which a traffic policeman plays Cupid.

He had the manners of a knight of old but he wore a blue coat with brass buttons. See Tom Moore in "One of the Finest."

Tom Moore, the star the public made, in his latest Goldwyn picture, "One of the Finest."

SUGGESTIONS

There is a popular, catchy expression as the title of this picture and you should be able to get a lot out of it in advertising. As the central character is a member of the traffic squad the advertising that you do might center about him. Use a picture of the star holding his hand up and saying "Stop," the while directing the reader to your theatre in newspaper copy. This would be different and at the same time quite effective. The same idea could be put into use in the front of your theatre. Use one of the "stop-go" signs employed by the traffic police of many cities. Place this at the edge of the sidewalk or by your box-office with a sign below pointing into the theatre. Anything similar to the "stop-go" sign will suffice if you are unable to use one of the regulation kind, or anything developing the same idea.

Don't fail to spread out on the name of Tom Moore. The public made a star of him and wants to see him now that the producers have shown the wise judgment to carry out the public's demands. Also use Seena Owen's name. She appeared in the last Tom Moore picture and has also played with practically every big male star on the screen today. Don't forget that.

"THE FINAL CLOSE-UP"

(Continued from page 4025)

reminds him to take in a final close-up just as they do on the screen. Advertise it as a rollicking comedy that carries just enough heart-interest and pathos to balance it.

You might bring out, too, that the heroine is a resourceful daughter of the poor who puts it all over the rich debutantes when it comes to ensnaring the catch of the season. The final close-up of the usual picture is a love scene—an embrace to be exact. Well, this picture uses it, but the action is zippy before it takes place. You can word your arguments around the title in the shape of catch lines and teasers. Ask your crowd if they know what a close-up is. Use the star's name in your exploitation. She is coming right up to the front as a comedienne to be reckoned with, and she has had fine success of late with her pictures. You might mention the director's name. He is Constance Talmadge's charge d'affaires. And you know that he KNOWS how to put on a comedy and make it wholly satisfying.

"A WOMAN THERE WAS"—FOX

The Only Asset in Theda Bara's Latest Is the Title

"A WOMAN THERE WAS" may strike a responsive chord in the hearts of the impressionable juveniles, but to one who is out of swaddling clothes it is a pretty big pill to swallow. But Theda Bara is daring and original and it may be that she will bring home the bacon to the Fox forces where her sisters of the screen would fail. Yet she has trespassed on juvenile domains with her present material since the subject matter resembles nothing so much as the good-night story that you tell the kiddies before you tuck them into bed.

Garbed in a shredded wheat costume, the star plays a dusky princess of a South Sea island. And being the only woman on the place she is surrounded by spear carriers and a lone missionary. The thread of the story is woven around her love for the brave disciple—a love which is not reciprocated.

But before the climax is reached the spectator is introduced to a lot of comic opera business which is ridiculous to say the least. Sacrifices, tribal rites, and all the rigmarole that accompanies such a story are there in generous display. The thing is so fantastic that one simply cannot take it seriously. And the players are not sincere enough in their work to extract an ounce of sympathy from the onlookers.

Director Edwards has not paid much attention to details since he permits Miss Bara to wear lingerie with her native dress. And the make-up box might have been used to better advantage by all the players. Another slip is found in the storm which destroys the village with its wind velocity, while the trees in the background remain perfectly calm.

The titles are not in harmony with the plot and characterization whenever Miss Bara speaks. Her language is the curbstone vernacular of Broadway. And while she talks with the wisdom of Solomon she is ignorant of such a thing as a mirror. "A Woman There Was" could be vastly improved were it reedited. Doctoring up the titles would help a lot.—Length, 5 reels.—Released June 1.—Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

Zara	Theda Bara
Winthrop Stark	Wm. B. Davidson
Pulke	Robert Elliott
High Priest	Claude Payton
Majah	John Ardizoni

By Neje Hopkins.
Scenario by Adrian Johnson.
Directed by J. Gordon Edwards.

THE STORY

Zara, who is the Princess of Kolpee, a South Sea island, has been pledged by her father, the chief of the tribe, to Pulke, a pearl diver. She is contented until Winthrop Stark, a missionary, arrives on the island, and so she transfers her affections to him. He is somewhat indifferent to her advances, since he remains faithful to his finance back home. It happens that Pulke finds Zara and the missionary together and with savage jealousy aroused, demands the life of the white man. But the native girl defends Stark so capably that her father reserves decision.

When the typhoon sweeps over the island the natives conclude that a religious sacrifice is necessary to appease the anger of the gods. So Stark is selected as the sacrifice. But again Zara defends him by volunteering herself. She jumps into the sea but Stark effects her rescue, although the difficulty attached to it has made him unconscious. Her father dies during the storm and Zara is made reigning princess. And she gets her revenge upon Pulke by casting him adrift in a canoe on the sea. And when Stark becomes delirious Zara steals the sacred black pearl to save his life. In the meantime the crew of a tramp steamer rescues Pulke and he leads them in an uprising against the natives. The battle is of small consequence for the natives are more interested in the stolen pearl. So Zara receives her death wound, but she is happy in the thought that she saved the white man. The pearl is recovered and Stark is returned to his people.

PRESS NOTICE

Assuming the role of a dusky princess of a pearl worshipping tribe of the South Sea islands, Theda Bara will appear in her newest production, "A Woman There Was," at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. The story is woven around the possession of the sacred black pearl and the appearance of an American missionary with whom the princess falls in love. But Winthrop Stark, as the missionary is known, does not reciprocate Zara's love since he has a fiancee back home. However, she remains faithful to the man who brought her a realization that her people are an inferior race. How she saves him from a jealous admirer, how she is rescued from the tempestuous sea by the minister and how she receives a death thrust at the hands of her pagan followers are situations that make this picture tense with dramatic action.

The offering is said to be one of the most picturesque and thrilling that the star has ever had. A few of the scenes calculated to excite attention show a raging typhoon which completely destroys the native village, a storm at sea, and the rescue of the princess by the missionary.

Miss Bara characterizes her work with emotional fervor and contributes a splendid piece of acting. She has played a great number of parts, but her interpretation of the South Sea princess is comparable with the best she has ever offered. In her support are Wm. B. Davidson, Robert Elliott, Claude Payton, and John Ardizoni. They contribute a brace of good performances. The story by Neje Hopkins makes an excellent out-of-doors picture. A tropical jungle and palm-studded shores serve as a fitting background. Adrian Johnson is responsible for the scenario, while J. Gordon Edwards is the director.

CATCH LINES

Suppose you were cast adrift on a tropical island, the only white man that ever had tread its soil, and you were approached by a native princess who made desperate love to you—kissed you; mothered you; and disclosed the yearning of her heart that you become the ruler of her people. Would you marry her? That is the situation which confronts the hero of Theda Bara's new picture, "A Woman There Was." See it at the ——— theatre.

See "A Woman There Was"—a drama of the Southern Seas, wherein a woman gives up her life for the man she loves.

A romance of the tropics in which a dusky princess proves again the measure of self-sacrifice that love may claim. See Theda Bara in "A Woman There Was."

She defied the creeds and traditions of her people that she might be happy with the white missionary she loved. Come to the ——— theatre next ——— and see "A Woman There Was." It is a thrilling drama of the tropics.

She stole the sacred pearl and committed the greatest sacrilege of her tribe. But she found love in the theft. To save her white missionary she presents her bosom for the spear thrust of her discarded admirer. See "A Woman There Was."

PROGRAM READER

Theda Bara, who comes to the ——— theatre in the near future in "A Woman There Was," is provided with a picture that is different from anything in which she has heretofore appeared. It is a fantastic story of the South Seas and presents the Fox star as a semi-savage tropical princess, whose passionate love is not reciprocated by a missionary. Notwithstanding this the princess thrice faces death to save her sweetheart and finally—but to relate the climax would be spoiling the picture for our patrons. Thrilling scenes follow one another in rapid succession in the action of the piece, including a typhoon in full swing and a rescue of the princess from the sea by the missionary. Many tense situations are developed amid the tropical surroundings which form the setting of this romantic drama. Miss Bara gives a wonderfully moving portrayal of the princess. Her interpretation of the role is declared to be one of the best pieces of acting she has ever contributed to the screen. In the supporting cast are such favorites as Wm. B. Davidson, Robert Elliott, and Claude Payton. The picture was produced under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards.

SUGGESTIONS

A feature which should attract patrons to your theatre is the display of the poem after which the

(Continued on page 4031)

Theda Bara as She Appears in "A Woman There Was"

"JACQUES OF THE SILVER NORTH"—SELECT

Mitchell Lewis Is His Virile Self in Picture of the Northwest

"THE BARRIER" continues to be the pattern for Mitchell Lewis' pictures whenever his sponsors take him to the North country. Once in a while the Rex Beach story isn't followed faithfully in plot and characterization. Thus the thought arises that maybe the authors are trying to be as much like Mr. Beach and still different as possible. In "Jacques of the Silver North," the authors haven't tried to be original for the picture is a little "Barrier" of its own.

Do you remember 'Poleon Doret? Surely he is an unforgetable character. Well Jacques La Rouge might be his twin brother. He, too, is a half-breed, and when his love is not returned, he, like 'Poleon, waves goodby with a song on his lips though his heart is breaking. So much for the characterization.

The plot unfolds the usual picture of virtue and villainy, and when these two contrasting elements are framed against the primitive woodlands and the trackless wastes of the Northwest, you can make up your mind that rich melodramatic action and suspense are the dominant factors.

"Jacques of the Silver North" carries as fine photography as one would want to see. And it is well contrasted. The show scenes only take up the concluding reels, while the forepart of the picture sends forth a breath of summer. But as blood flows faster in winter it stands to reason that the action is more vital and vivid in the latter part of the play. It will interest you this "Jacques of the Silver North" no matter whether it is an imitation of "The Barrier" or not.

Mr. Lewis is thoroughly at home in the lovable character of Jacques. No one approaches him in the virility and sweep he puts into the role. And he will excite your attention even though you may not care for the story. He has a following in this type of play—a fact which is known to most exhibitors.—Length, 5 reels.—Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

Jacques La Rouge	Mitchell Lewis
Memory Baird	Fritzi Brunette
Joseph Clyde Treffery	Capt. C. A. Van Auker
Jim Blake	Murdock MacQuarrie
Warren Sherman	Edward Hearne
Don Baird	James Gordon
Tennessee Jake	James McDowell
Malamute Mike	Fred Mack

By Robert North Bradbury and Frank Howard Clark.

Directed by Norval MacGregor.

THE STORY

Jacques La Rouge, a Canuck trapper, is a great favorite at the trading post of Don Baird where Memory Baird, his daughter, Tennessee Jake and Malamute Mike furnish the one bright spot in this outpost of civilization. Now Jacques loves Memory with a love that is beyond human comprehension. He asks nothing in return. All he does ask is that he might continue to love and give. One day Joseph Treffery, a fugitive in the North, seeks protection from Memory and as pity overrules the suspicion in her heart she hides him from the police. Jacques has seen Treffery enter the window, but when he is selected to search the room, he reports that no man is there—for Memory's sake. Later Jacques and the girl, on a deer hunting expedition, become separated and after miles of tramping she firds herself at the Raven Roost, a disreputable dancehall. Treffery has taken refuge there and when the proprietor offers Memory insult after insult, the former comes to her rescue by saying that she is to be his wife. The proprietor forces the marriage to take place at the point of a pistol. Finally Jacques arrives and when Treffery offers to divorce the girl at the earliest opportunity, the trapper takes her back home. He accidentally shoots Warren Sherman, a young man from the States who has gone North to make good. The latter is taken to the Baird home where he recovers his health, though during his convalescence a strong affection has developed between him and Memory. Jacques sees how things are working out and goes in search of Treffery. While he is gone Treffery returns and demands Memory as his wife. And when she refuses he kills her father. But Jacques settles his score with the fugitive husband after a chase in dogsleds. Thus Memory is free to marry Warren, while Jacques, with his face turned to the setting sun, sings with a broken heart.

PRESS NOTICE

"Jacques of the Silver North," Mitchell Lewis' new Select picture, which comes to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week, is a virile story of the Northwest where men and women live according to their own code of morals and to break them is to die. Its chief character is Jacques La Rouge, a Canuck trapper, who sacrifices everything for the girl he loves. Now he knews he cannot win Memory Baird's love in return because he is a half-breed, so he shows what a big generous heart he has by helping another man to win her. Memory loves this clean cut youth but she is unable to show her affection because she is already married to Treffery, a product of elite society, but a fugitive in the North. How Jacques frees her from the objectionable bonds to make her happy, how he accomplishes this task with everything against him; how he goes his way alone with an aching heart but with a song on his lips are situations that furnish a mighty effective climax—one in fact that is highly dramatic.

Mr. Lewis makes Jacques an unforgettable character—a character that will inspire the spectator, because it teachers a beautiful friendship and love. It is a splendid performance and the star is the typical man to play the Canuck. Fritzi Brunette appears opposite Mr. Lewis and plays with earnestness and understanding, while the remaining members of the cast include Capt. C. A. Van Auker, Edward Hearne, James Gordon, James McDowell, Murdock MacQuarrie, and Fred Mack. The story was written by Robert North Bradbury and Frank Howard Clark. Norval MacGregor was the director.

PROGRAM READER

Big of heart, with the gentleness of a baby and the ferocity of a wolf, Jacques La Rouge, the Canuck trapper, loved Memory Baird with a love that no human power could destroy. He fairly worshipped her—his devotion to her was like a dog for its master. But she was a white girl and he was a half-breed and he knew that his love would never be returned. You see there was a barrier—a blood barrier which told him that his love was doomed to failure. But he was a MAN, and all he asked was to be near her, to make her happy. He was her friend and his heart sang. This is the outline of the romance which is called "Jacques of the Silver North." It is a story of a beautiful friendship and a great love and Mitchell Lewis, that big virile actor who knows the North country and can play its characters, appears in the role of Jacques. The story is beautifully told and the director has made it delightfully human. It presents real men and women—real heart interest and suspense. It is a picture that teaches and entertains and one that will leave you something to think about. And you will be held spellbound in the magnificent scenery of the North country. An excellent cast which includes Fritzi Brunette, supports Mr. Lewis. Come to the ——— theatre next ——— and see "Jacques of the Silver North"—you won't be disappointed.

CATCH LINES

She was married to a fugitive of the law—she loved a man from the States and a Canuck worshipped her. Which one did she favor? See "Jacques of the Silver North."

Come to the ——— theatre and see Mitchell Lewis in "Jacques of the Silver North." He is the peer of them all when it comes to interpreting a story of the North country. See him in the most thrilling chase ever screened—not in trains, nor in automobiles, nor on horses, but in dogsleds.

She was white, he was a half-breed; but he loved her with a wild impassioned love. Did she reciprocate his affection? See "Jacques of the Silver North."

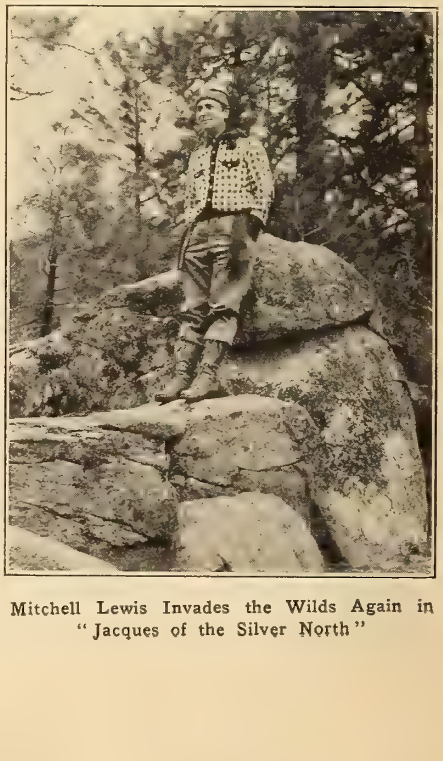
You have seen Mitchell Lewis, the big man of the outdoors, in such thrilling vital pictures as "Code of the Yukon," "Children of Banishment," and "The Barrier." In "Jacques of the Silver North" his latest Select picture, he has the greatest role of his career.

Far up in the snow country where nature rules and man obeys, was born a friendship, so beautiful, so strong that no human power could destroy it. See "Jacques of the Silver North."

SUGGESTIONS

To start off with, you musn't neglect to play up the name of Mitchell Lewis. He is noted for his big, virile pictures of the Northwest and your patrons will be glad to see him. You might mention that the role he has in this picture will stand along with his mighty 'Poleon Doret of "The

(Continued on page 4029)



Mitchell Lewis Invades the Wilds Again in "Jacques of the Silver North"

"TRUE HEART SUSIE"—GRIFFITH-ARTCRAFT

Griffith's Latest Is Real, But Suffers from Padding

IT is a see-sawing Griffith that we meet these days. Right after we have seen in "Broken Blossoms" what is probaby the highest form of the motion picture art, we find him stretching a two-reel story out to feature length in his latest Artcraft, "True Heart Susie." There is nothing else the matter with the production. It deals with human characters, characters that are delightfully interpreted by Lillian Gish, Robert Harron and Clarine Seymour; it presents them in human situations and in a story the deep reality of which can never be denied. But withal "True Heart Susie" has the most tiresome of all faults—padding.

The picture is in the way of a companion piece to "A Romance of Happy Valley," and tells the story of a girl whose sincere love for the young minister was not returned until this young man had discovered the insincerity of the affection of a sweet young thing who powdered and painted. It abounds in a number of atmospheric rural settings and the camera work of G. W. Bitzer sets these off splendidly. And too much praise cannot be awarded the principal players for their true-to-life portrayals.

But much of the beauty and simplicity and charm of the work is buried beneath superfluous footage. The heart-interest note, instead of being clear and penetrating, is only a muffled squeak.—Length, 5 reels.—Released May 25.—Peter Milne.

THE CAST

Susie May Trueheart	Lillian Gish
Her Aunt	Loyola O'Connor
William Jenkins, a Minister	Robert Harron
His Father	Walter Higby
Betty Hopkins, a Girl Wife	Clarine Seymour
Her Aunt	Kate Bruce
Sporty Malone	Raymond Cannon

By Marian Fremont.
Directed by D. W. Griffith.
Photographed by G. W. Bitzer.

THE STORY

Susie May Trueheart, an awkward, straightforward, true-hearted school girl of Hoosier county, loves with wondrous loyalty William Jenkins, a boy neighbor. She watches him adoringly at school and she suffers severely when she is compelled to go above him in the spelling class, because she is a better speller than he. One day a politician promises to give the boy a start in life, and he and Susie await the fulfillment of the promise which never comes. Susie decides that she will send William to school herself, for she wants the man she marries to be educated. The accumulated butter and eggs money is devoted to that purpose and William goes away to school, quite unaware of the sacrifices Susie is making for him. He goes through college and is ordained minister. Through the years Susie treasures his few letters to her.

Appointed to the pastorate of the village church, William returns home and falling in love with Betty Hopkins, a light-headed beautiful butterfly from the next town, he marries her. Hiding her heavy heart beneath a smile, Susie carries flowers to the happy couple at the wedding. William soon discovers that Betty is not his real helpmate and he vaguely realizes that Susie alone has roused love in his breast. Betty is a little unfaithful and contracting a cold while attending a dance with Sporty Malone, she dies before she is able to confess to William that Susie had protected her for his sake. In time, William and Susie come to an understanding and both find their long-delayed happiness.

PRESS NOTICE

Into the rural village for the setting, and into a woman's soul for the theme, David Wark Griffith has gone for the materials of his new Artcraft picture, "True Heart Susie," which will be shown at the ——— theatre next ———. He has chosen three characters, typical and definite in the domestic life of America, familiar to the residents in every small place and most large ones. One is that of a lovable, loyal girl, who never has a chance to marry but one man, and when that man passes her by, ages her soul with tears, and wearies her days with waiting. Another is a young man who goes to college, returns with comical conceit, the premier of swains, as serious to himself as the measles. And the third is a girl who considers marriage never a union of hearts, but a necessary patronage, a wife of subsidy rather than of love.

With these persons, Mr. Griffith has arranged a story of wondrous charm, piquant in the delightful subtleties of character delineation, a warm, wholesome story of love won and love denied. He devotes his deep perception of the infinite varieties of each heart, to these three young persons, each whetted by nature to realize the fullness of life's experiences, yet each held from doing just what he or she should. Lillian Gish appears as the girl who waits, a repressed role which absorbs the full power of her acting. Robert Harron, as the boy who becomes a minister, will remind the world of some it knows, and give to it a chuckle never forgotten. Clarine Seymour is introduced as a merry young milliner from Chicago.

PROGRAM READER

A plain story of plain folks—that's "True Heart Susie," the latest opus of D. W. Griffith which will shortly be seen at this theatre. In fact, simplicity is the dominating note of all Griffith's pictures. Perhaps that is the element responsible for their charm. Perhaps again it is Griffith's wonderful insight into human nature. He is able to hold the mirror up to life and cast back a reflection that is clear and effective. At any rate "True Heart Susie" is by no means the least of his many works. Some experts have adjudged it his best picture of country life. There is nothing spectacular about it, nothing grand or extravagant. But it makes a straight appeal to the heart, an appeal deep and penetrating. In the production of "True Heart Susie" Mr. Griffith was ably assisted by the best players of his stock company. Lillian Gish appears in the role of Susie, the girl who typifies the "waiting woman" of the world. Robert Harron is seen as the man whose head is turned by a little bit of fluff and silk, while Clarine Seymour, she who did such splendid work in the "The Girl Who Stayed at Home" is seen in the role of the fluff and silk.

CATCH LINES

"Susie's was a heart of hearts. Every act in her life was guided by that wonderful love, one that will bring you now a laugh, then a big gulp in the throat and finally the delight in your heart that comes when all is well in the world."

"Susie loved William better than anything else in the world—so much that she had denied herself that he might have an education. But now this 'flapper' beside her had stolen him from her, and at this moment Susie was protecting her after her escapade. Tomorrow she was to go to William and lie for her—lie because she loved this man so much."

"She gave her choicest treasures that the man she loved might have an education and hid the deed from him, little knowing that she was making of him a man that another woman would win. And then she lied for this other one, now his wife, that he might be spared—her's a true heart, a wonderful love—and a love that won."

"Her love never wavered through the happy days in the village, through the sacrifices she made for him—even when he married another. Her heart was too true to ever be shaken. He was stolen away from her and yet above everything she wanted him to be happy, it's an amazing story of smiles and heart throbs with the ending you'll like."

"JACQUES OF THE SILVER NORTH"

(Continued from page 4028)

Barrier." He is supreme in playing the half-breed of the snow country and mention this fact. Spread his name about and also photographs of him in his wintry garb. The people who like big, virile men (and who doesn't) will be attracted to them. If you are running the picture during the hot days hang an announcement card next to your thermometer with such alluring phrases as—"Come in and cool off"—"See a picture of the North with ice and snow all around"—"You'll forget the hot weather when you see the snow country and Mitchell Lewis with his dogteam." Then feature the story as something that will excite the attention. It treats of three men and a woman. She was married to one of them—another she loved and the third worshipped her without asking for any love in return. Use this idea, but don't give the plot away. Tell them that the picture is vivid, alive, stirring, and that it is typical of the North. If you go in for stunts you have all sorts of advertising leads. But if you present pictures in a dignified way mention the star and the character of the story. Both are big enough to interest the passerby.

Lillian Gish and Robert Harron in "True Heart Susie"

"TRIXIE FROM BROADWAY"—AMERICAN

Margarita Fisher Stars in Fairly Interesting Picture of a Chorus Girl

AGNES C. JOHNSTON hasn't tapped any virgin soil when it comes to analyzing Margarita Fisher's new picture, "Trixie from Broadway." The seeds of this story were planted years ago and they have sprouted season after season on the screen. But if she has not been original she at least has worked with authority, the result of which the piece is made fairly diverting.

Though Miss Johnston has gone over familiar ground, nevertheless it is something to her credit when she can make an ancient pattern spontaneous with action. The only flaw in her work is found in the climax which soars beyond a reasonable point. But even there she is only following the old fashioned formula—a formula that is perhaps as dramatically effective as anything that could be substituted.

This climax presents itself in an indignation meeting which is held by the community to rid a fellow ranchman of his chorus girl wife. She had cut up a few didoes and a jealous admirer of her husband had sown the seeds of distrust. Ad interim the usual scenes take place which show the heroic Westerner applying cave man methods in taming his Broadway spouse. A suggestion of suspense is found in the burning barn where the indignation meeting is holding forth. The chorus girl wife rescues her rival from the flames and the good folk pour out their blessings for the brave deed.

The theatrical part of the story is confined to the first reel. It suffices in presenting Miss Fisher as a personable figure in tights. She fulfils the demands of her role in spirited fashion. Emory Johnson plays the husband in vigorous style. George Periolat and Olga Grey contribute good support. The picture suffers from poor photography and lighting. Otherwise Director Neill's responsibilities are capably realized.—Length, 5 reels.—Released June 15. —Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

Trixie Darling	Margarita Fisher
John Collins	Emory Johnson
Broadway Benham	George Periolat
Jim Brown	Frank Clark
Gertie Brown	Olga Grey
"Slim" Hayes	J. Farrell MacDonald

By Agnes C. Johnston.
Scenario by Frank Howard Clark.
Directed by R. William Neill.

THE STORY

Trixie Darling is a chorus girl in a Broadway show and despite the luxuries that Broadway Benham, a rounder, can bestow on her, she marries John Collins, a breezy Westerner when he comes a wooing. She hasn't married for money but she is happily surprised to discover on the honeymoon that her husband is a rich ranchman. But Trixie is no more than settled in the California homestead than she becomes disillusioned with farm life and longs to be back on Broadway. She positively refuses to do any cooking and stirs up such a fuss that Collins starts out to tame her in typical Western style. He locks her up and refuses to even see her. But his big tender heart is touched after a time and he permits her some freedom.

Trixie takes advantage of him when her old show comes to town for she appears in her former role for the evening. The villagers are shocked and when John learns of her capers, he rushes in and lugs her back to the home. In the meantime the natives hold an indignation meeting for the purpose of sending the chorus girl away. They have been urged to do this through the jealousy of Collins' former sweetheart. When the barn burns in which the meeting is taking place, Trixie shows her courage by rescuing her defamer from the flames. The result is the villagers offer her their blessings. And John and Trixie are completely happy.

PRESS NOTICE

A human tale of a chorus girl is offered in Margarita Fisher's new picture, "Trixie from Broadway," which comes to the ——— theatre next ———. It is calculated to send shivers of laughter up and down your spine, and when you are exhausted in watching the resourceful Westerner tame his wife, you can sympathize with her when his fellow villagers hold an indignation meeting to rid her from the community. It happens that her former show comes to town and the manager requests that she perform for old time's sake. She is very glad to do it as she knows that it will pique her husband, but she doesn't realize at the time that the natives are going to be shocked. Well the upshot of it all is the husband comes tearing into the theatre and taking her by the waist he carries her out bodily and locks her up at home.

The picture becomes melodramatic at this point. A jealous admirer of the Westerner sows seeds of distrust and the villagers take her side. To relate the climax would be spoiling the picture, but rest assured that it offers a big surprise. Miss Fisher is thoroughly captivating as the chorus girl wife and she plays the part with her customary vivacity and good nature. Emory Johnson makes an excellent foil as the Westerner, while others in the cast include George Periolat, Olga Grey, Frank Clark, and J. Farrell MacDonald. R. William Neill is the director.

PROGRAM READER

Margarita Fisher as a chorus girl! Well it had to happen some time and the star is perfectly capable of playing the part because she is endowed with a breezy personality. She is piquant enough to impersonate the chorus girl to the life and when you see her in this bright and bracing picture you will admit that she has the ability to send you away in a happy frame of mind. The management doesn't think that Miss Fisher has ever had a more congenial role than Trixie Darling and you will agree with us when you see her for yourself at the ——— theatre on ———. A rich ranchman comes out of the West to pay homage to her and being a man who has his way, he succeeds in marrying her and carrying her away to his boundless country. Of course she becomes disillusioned at the quietness of the ranch and she gives more than one thought to Broadway and how she would like to be back there on the busy street. But hubby has his way again, although it takes considerable time before she is thoroughly tamed. Before she emerges a meek and trusting bride, a number of melodramatic situations are unfolded. "Trixie from Broadway" is replete with incident and there is a large measure of wholesome fun which is also generated. Don't miss it.

CATCH LINES

Margarita Fisher comes to the ——— screen next ——— in a picture of a chorus girl who gives up Broadway for a quiet life on a California ranch. You will like the delightful star in this bright little play, "Trixie from Broadway."

Suppose you were in the chorus of a Broadway show and a rich Westerner came and conquered your heart. Would you be satisfied to give up the bright lights and go out to his big glorious West? Margarita Fisher settles this question for you in "Trixie from Broadway." It is a lively picture and thoroughly enjoyable.

She married the Westerner and gave up the stage, but when she arrived on his ranch she was disillusioned. She refused to work for him and she constantly taunted him. Did he turn cave man and teach her a few lessons in good behavior? See "Trixie from Broadway."

The country folks taunted her because she was once a chorus girl. They held an indignation meeting to make her husband give up. What came of it all? Margarita Fisher will show you in "Trixie from Broadway."

SUGGESTIONS

Here is another picture of a chorus girl and it carries enough points of interest to make good advertising copy. Take the title for instance. It suggests the metropolis and the life behind the footlights. Play it up for it is a winner. Tell your patrons that Margarita Fisher is back again in another breezy picture—only this time she appears as a chorus girl who is wooed and won by a resourceful Westerner. The catch lines have been written for your teaser campaign and you can think up some good ones around the title or from the program reader. Tell your crowd that Miss Fisher has never appeared in a better offering. As for the points of the story, acquaint them with the fact that it is a romantic comedy of a chorus girl who gives up the bright lights to settle down on a farm. But don't make your arguments serious, even though the play develops seriously at times. That would be taking Miss Fisher's popularity as a comedienne away from her. Use stills of the stage scenes. And don't neglect the photographs of the star. Bring out the spirit of the piece which the title suggests and yet at the same time strive to get some melodramatic touches in your copy.

"Lady Windemere's Fan" Is a British Made Production Released by Triangle

"THE SLEEPING LION"—UNIVERSAL

Monroe Salisbury Contributes Italian Characterization

IN "The Sleeping Lion" Monroe Salisbury contributes a characterization of an Italian and manages to get a good lot of comedy and a nice portion of sentiment from the role. The characterization is realistically drawn and Mr. Salisbury, running true to form, never permits himself to lapse out of the part and be anything but the dusky son of Italy.

The plot provides a novel setting for this type of part as it sets Tony down in the West and puts him through a gamut of strong situations that even a Hart would find difficulty in handling. The action is dominated by the elements of heart interest and thrill and is laid against superb backgrounds, backgrounds that are not to be recalled as having appeared in twenty other pictures.

Mr. Salisbury receives fine assistance from little Pat Moore as his adopted son and from Rhea Mitchell as the girl. "The Sleeping Lion" was reviewed at length on page 2847 of last week's issue.—Length, 5 reels.—Peter Milne.

THE CAST

Tony	Monroe Salisbury
Little Tony	Pat Moore
Kate Billings	Rhea Mitchell
Durant	Herschel Mayall
Colonel Doharney	Alfred Allen
Carlotta	Alice Elliot
Her mother	Marion Skinner
Her father	Sydney Franklin

By Bernard McConville.
Scenario by Elliott J. Clawson.
Directed by Rupert Julian.

THE STORY

Tony models in clay and peddles his work through the streets of New York. His ambition is to collect enough money to enable him to buy a ranch out West. Finally he bids his friends, including Carlotta, the girl he intends to marry, goodbye and sets out for the West with little Tony, a newsie he adopted. In the West the cowboys and ranchmen are inclined to "kid" him at first, a thing which Tony can not understand and it makes him unhappy. However, in time they accept him as one of themselves, that is, all but Durant, the gambler. Before Tony has skilled himself in the use of fists and guns Durant gives him a vicious punch and Tony remembers this and vows to get even some day.

After a year he and the boy are living happily on the ranch. Tony has constantly ignored Kate Billings, the flirt of the camp who admires him but doesn't know which she likes better, Tony or Durant. After Tony fights and defeats Durant, Kate again attempts to win him but he tells her that it is only strength she admires. This piques her to the extent that she consents to elope with Durant. The villainy in the man shortly asserts itself and Kate flees from him, taking refuge in Tony's cabin. Her shoulder wounded through a fall, Tony places her in bed and then sleeps beneath the trees.

In the morning Durant incenses the cowboys and they come to lynch Tony. After wounding him they strap him to a wild horse and send him off to his death. Little Tony rides for assistance to the friendly Doharney men. They succeed in rescuing Tony. Later he receives word that Carlotta has married his rival in the East. Tony then accepts Kate's love and marries her.

PRESS NOTICE

Monroe Salisbury, Universal star, will be seen at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in his latest photodramatic production entitled "The Sleeping Lion." In this picture Mr. Salisbury is awarded the role of Tony, an Italian, who, after working years at clay modeling and peddling his wares in the streets of New York finally accumulates enough money to enable him to go West and buy a small ranch. He takes with him Little Tony, a newsie he had adopted some time before and also a promise from Carlotta that she will wait for him until he has the funds for her travelling expenses.

His experiences with the inhabitants of the none-too-friendly West constitute the major part of the action and there are many dramatic moments before Tony is able to prove that he is a man not to be trifled with and before he finds the love and happiness that he desires. Mr. Salisbury, without doubt one of the best portrayers of character on the screen today makes his Tony a particular appealing and graceful man, deriving the utmost from the role and the situations of the story in the way of heart interest and comedy.

In his work he is ably assisted by little Pat Moore as the boy, by Rhea Mitchell as the girl he meets in the West and by Herschel Mayall as his sworn enemy. The picture is set in a series of magnificent backgrounds, fitting indeed to bring out the vital action of the story. Bernard McConville is the author of "The Sleeping Lion" while it was produced under the direction of Rupert Julian.

PROGRAM READER

Monroe Salisbury is an actor who always puts his whole self into the roles he portrays on the screen. There is no player more sincere, more thoughtful in his work than Mr. Salisbury and it is always a pleasure to watch a character unfold under his capable interpretation. His latest creation is an Italian, Tony by name, who buys a ranch in the West and has all sorts of dramatic experiences there before respect, love and happiness come to him. Mr. Salisbury delineates this character with a strong show of feeling and derives the most from it and the situations in which it is the pivot in the way of heart interest and comedy. In his work he is ably assisted by little Pat Moore, Rhea Mitchell and Herschel Mayall. The picture in which Mr. Salisbury is presented this time is entitled "The Sleeping Lion" and it was produced under the direction of Rupert Julian from a story supplied by Bernard McConville. The five reels disclose a number of magnificent western scenes, scenes that in their freshness and unfamiliarity go a long way toward establishing the dramatic highlights of the play. "The Sleeping Lion" is booked for a run at this theatre shortly and certainly none of the admirers of Mr. Salisbury's work, or in fact none of the admirers of the artistic picture can afford to miss it.

CATCH LINES

Tony had saved his pennies until he had enough to buy a long coveted ranch in the great western country. He set forth with a happy heart and accompanied by the well wishes of all his friends and Little Tony, the newsie he had adopted. But how did the great West treat this dusky son of Italy? Did it receive him the way he thought it would? See Monroe Salisbury in his latest Universal picture, "The Sleeping Lion."

Kate was the flirt of the little western camp and trifled with the heart of Tony to whom a shy glance and a shake of curls meant all the world. See the results in "The Sleeping Lion."

He entered the western bar-room, dusty, begrimmed from his long trip on the train and utterly amazed at the bigness of the country he had passed through. And as he entered the door the prettiest girl he had ever seen came up to him and planted a kiss full on his lips! Then he saw Durant's face darken with a scowl that meant more than a hundred words! See "The Sleeping Lion," Monroe Salisbury's latest and best picture.

Monroe Salisbury in an Italian characterization —as fine a thing as he has ever contributed to the annals of the screen. Don't miss "The Sleeping Lion."

SUGGESTIONS

Lay stress on the strong character study of an Italian created by Monroe Salisbury in this picture. If you have been showing his pictures right along your patrons certainly know and appreciate him as a wonderful character actor. You might mention some of the characters he has been seen as heretofore and wind up with the announcement that this time he appears as an Italian and creates one of the strongest and most appealing characters of his career.

Also state that the story shows an Italian immigrant in the wild and woolly West. This contrast has not been furnished many times before on the screen and the statement of fact will do much to arouse the reader's curiosity regarding the content of the five reels. The catch lines elsewhere on this page have been written with an eye to make your copy forcefully dramatic. Look them over and see whether they will not suit for your newspaper advertising or for any other means of exploitation that you may employ.

"A WOMAN THERE WAS"

(Continued from page 4027)

picture is named. It is said to be written by Miss Bara, and this fact should be made known to your patrons. Everyone is acquainted with Kipling's poem, "A Fool There Was" and Miss Bara's composition is a reply to it. Blotters, cards, or teasers, distributed with "A Woman There Was" will excite a lot of curiosity. Your lobby display should come in for consideration and stills of Miss Bara and the picture are entitled to conspicuous positions. The star appears as a South Sea princess—something new under the sun for her—and naturally she is dressed in the native style. So take advantage of this opportunity to show her in native costume. Don't concentrate on the idea that Miss Bara is a vampire here. She emerges from her customary character and plays a dusky maiden who falls in love with a missionary. And she is faithful to the end.

Monroe Salisbury is featured in the Universal production, "The Sleeping Lion"

"TANGLED THREADS"—ROBERTSON-COLE

Bessie Barriscale Appears Again in Domestic Triangle Play

BESSIE BARRISCALE'S emotional capabilities are still finding expression in subjects based upon the eternal triangle, and since she does so well in the role of the neglected wife it is best that she continue to play it. Indeed the star gets more out of such stories as "Tangled Threads" than any actress we can think of just now, so she can go on and play the character without exciting critical comment that she is only able to do one thing.

Miss Barriscale has made a study of the role she has here with the result that there isn't a false note sounded in her performance. She can be depended upon to appear human always, without applying the methods of the "sob sisters." Consequently her offerings are usually interesting.

In the role of Margaret Wayne her husband neglects her for a cabaret dancer. She interests a so-called friend of the family in her scheme to make her gay spouse jealous. But the plan doesn't work and he sues for divorce and obtains the custody of their child. After Mr. Husband finds the dancer a poor companion for himself and a vicious step-mother for the child, he goes through a process of redemption and the end discloses him reconciled to his first wife. For the convenience of the principal characters, the evil associates are eliminated through the accidental death route. And so you have it.

It is a compact picture—compact with spontaneous action. The dramatic elements are appreciated by Director Hickman with the result that the play unfolds the requisite amount of heart interest, pathos, contrast and conflict. Indeed "Tangled Threads" is absorbing every foot of the way. The players who deserve mention for capable work are Nigel Barrie, Rosemary Theby, Thomas Holding and Ben Alexander.—Length, 5 reels.—Released in June.—Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

Margaret Wayne	Bessie Barriscale
Rita Kosloff	Rosemary Theby
John Rutherford Wayne	Nigel Barrie
Doctor MacGregor	Henry Kolker
Philip Northrop	Thomas Holding
"Sonny Boy" Wayne	Ben Alexander
Little Barbara	Mary Jane Irving

By M. B. Havey.
Scenario by Fred Myton.
Directed by Howard C. Hickman.
Photographed by L. Guy Wilky.

THE STORY

John Rutherford Wayne and his wife, Margaret, have nearly come to the parting of the ways. She is neglected by her husband who finds a greater attraction in the company of Rita Kosloff, a cabaret dancer. So she becomes wrapped up in their little boy. But Margaret is of the opinion that two can play a game as well as one, so she connives with Philip Northrop, a friend of the family, to make her husband jealous by being seen a great deal in the former's company. Philip proves false, however, for he loses no time to compromise her, with the result that Wayne sues her for a divorce. And he wins the case and obtains the custody of the child, and we next see him as the husband of the dancer.

Margaret, now broken hearted, and deprived of the little boy, becomes a nurse in a children's hospital in order to find expression for her mother love. A pestilence breaks out in the city and word comes that her own boy is dangerously ill. So she loses no time in hastening to his bed side. Wayne in the meantime is in misery over the disillusionment he has suffered with his second wife, and fortunately for him, she meets her death in an automobile accident. As Margaret still loves John she forgives him. And eventually the little family is reunited.

PRESS NOTICE

"Tangled Threads," which is offered at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week, is one of the most delightful stories the screen has shown in some time. It is rich in heart interest and it carries a powerful theme based upon the eternal triangle. But aside from its strong dramatic plot it offers a tremendous appeal in the love of a mother for her child. She goes through everything for him and suffers the misery of losing her husband's affection. To keep John Wayne's love, Margaret attempts to play the same game. But whereas he is interested in the other woman, the wife only uses her admirer to arouse her husband's jealousy. And Margaret fails because her friend proves false and places her in a compromising position. So Wayne obtains a divorce and wins the custody of the boy. The broken-hearted wife and mother seeks solace as a nurse in a children's hospital so as to give expression for her maternal love.

But the mills of the gods grind slowly and they grind exceedingly fine. Wayne pays for his brief hour of pleasure when he discovers that his new wife is absolutely devoid of character. Margaret on the other hand still loves her former husband and a time comes when the little family are united again. The evil associates are eliminated in an automobile accident.

The dramatic elements of the picture are rich in contrast and conflict. And the mother-heart is revealed to you with considerable pathos. "Tangled Threads" is throbbing and absorbing and when you leave the ——— theatre you will say that it is a big picture. Miss Barriscale gives a fine performance and she is capably supported and directed.

PROGRAM READER

A story of a neglected wife who thought she could play the same game as her husband and found out to her sorrow that it was impossible, is the theme of Bessie Barriscale's new picture, "Tangled Threads," which comes to the ——— theatre next ———. His love had grown cold, for he found a cabaret dancer more attractive, and the wife, to hold him for the sake of the child, condescends to play his game with one of her admirers and thus arouse his jealousy. But her admirer proves to be a false friend and she is compromised with the result that the husband obtains a divorce and wins the custody of the little boy. He doesn't realize that he was responsible for the turn of affairs. The broken-hearted wife and mother, deprived of her child, becomes a nurse in a children's hospital so as to give her pent-up maternal love full expression. The husband in the meantime has found nothing but misery in his marriage with the dancer. So things go from bad to worse with him until he finds his freedom when his second wife meets her death in an automobile accident. Time heals every wound and eventually the father and mother are reunited with their little boy. And happiness is restored. Patrons of the ——— theatre are sure to be entertained when they see "Tangled Threads."

Bessie Barriscale with Ben Alexander in a Scene from "Tangled Threads"

CATCH LINES

He neglected his wife shamefully, but she had supreme faith in him. And she practised the ancient art of reviving his love by arousing his jealousy. A friend of the family helped to compromise her. Did the plan work to her advantage?

She requested her friend to call frequently so as to arouse her erring husband's jealousy. But he took advantage to compromise her. Her scheme didn't work because her husband's love had died out. What happened? You must find out for yourself when "Tangled Threads" comes to the ——— theatre next ———.

See the emotional star, Bessie Barriscale, in her greatest triumph, "Tangled Threads." A treat is in store for you.

He divorced his wife and the Court awarded him the custody of their little boy. So the mother love cried out for expression and she found it in a children's hospital where she became a nurse. Did the devoted mother ever see her own boy again? See "Tangled Threads."

Bessie Barriscale, the emotional actress who is supreme in the interpretation of domestic plays, will appear at the ——— theatre on ———.

Did you ever play the game of holding your husband's love by making him jealous? See how Margaret Wayne played it in "Tangled Threads."

SUGGESTIONS

Tell your patrons that Bessie Barriscale is seen in another of her highly emotional roles in her newest picture. She can play the wronged wife to perfection and she has played it long enough for your patrons to be acquainted with the character and be interested in it whenever the star appears at your theatre. Tell them that the picture is an absorbing drama of the eternal triangle. And when the triangle is well done as it is here it never fails to score. Bring out the heart interest which the picture carries. A divorce is granted the husband and he wins the custody of the boy. Naturally such an event breaks the mother's heart. Bring out this point. Also use the suggestions of the catch lines. You have a good lead in the fact that the wife endeavors to play the same game as her husband and fails. Emphasize this point. Then suggest that the wife and mother becomes a nurse in a children's hos-

(Continued on page 4033)

"TOO MANY CROOKS"—VITAGRAPH

Comedy and Mystery Unite to Make Enjoyable Picture

VITAGRAPH'S screen version of E. J. Rath's magazine story proves to be a picture full of comedy, surprise and suspense, and leaves such a good impression on the mind that one can not but help stating that it is the best from this company in quite some time. The story which begins when a girl gives a house party for a collection of crooks to better study them that she may incorporate them in a play, has many complications and keeps the observer ever on the alert. Nor can he, due to the fine handling of the story, fortell its conclusion.

The picture has as its named star Gladys Leslie and she makes a pert figure of the baby vamp, Boston Fanny. Stellar position, however, goes to Jean Paige whose work as the playwright is enthusiastic, well-keyed and effective. It is probably the biggest part that Miss Paige has had and she shows by her acting here that she merits more like it in the future.

The supporting cast includes a number of Vitagraph favorites, such as Huntley Gordon and Anders Randolph. The picture was produced under the direction of Ralph Ince. All in all "Too Many Crooks" may be set down as a fine piece of work. Its comedy and suspensive values make it a thing to be enjoyed from first to last.—Length, 5 reels.—Released June 16.—Peter Milne.

THE CAST

Boston Fanny	Gladys Leslie
Charlotte Browning	Jean Paige
Erastus Browning	T. J. McGrane
Marshall Blackstone	James Dent
Bidwell Wright	Huntley Gordon
Benny Chipmunk	Cecil Chichester
Frisco Jimmy	Anders Randlof
Walrus	George O'Donnell
Percy	John T. Wade
Thomas	James Gaylore

By E. J. Rath.
Directed by Ralph Ince.

THE STORY

Charlotte Browning doesn't take much stock in the crook plays that she and her father see and declares herself to begin work on one that will be real. How to get in touch with the crook characters, however, is another matter but Charlotte solves it by going to her lawyer and putting the case in his hands. The first man that the lawyer introduces to Charlotte is Bidwell Wright, a gentleman who knows all the crooks by their first names and who is suspected of being one himself. Wright manages to bring a variety of thugs, safe-crackers and light-fingered gentlemen, to Charlotte's house and there is also Boston Fanny who has a gay time with all the society males, in particular Charlotte's father.

But Fanny's conduct as well as the deportment of her companions rather disgust Charlotte with her crooks. The only one that she finds at all interesting as she writes her play is Wright and she gradually finds that the love interest in the drama is dominating with herself and Wright as the principals.

In time, the activities of the crooks attract the attention of detectives and it is all that Wright can do to get his hirelings away before the coming of the coppers. Charlotte is dead afraid that they will take Wright himself but receives the surprise of her life when the detective introduces him to her as one of the greatest criminologists in the country. And so he decides to stay along and give Charlotte a little expert advice on crooks —and other things, the while Fanny and the rest of the bunch make good their getaway.

PRESS NOTICE

"Too Many Crooks," a Vitagraph screen version of E. J. Rath's novel in the All-Story Weekly, with Gladys Leslie named as star, will be the main attraction at the ———— theatre on ———— of ———— week. This is a story of a girl who doesn't believe that there is much truth in the various crook plays that crowd the boards of the speaking stage and who determines to right a play of her own that will present the crooks in their true light. In order to round out this plan she commissions her lawyer and friend to get hold of a collection of crooks and invite them to spend a time at her father's summer home.

Naturally this step of hers precipitates a situation of a most unusual character and when it's all over the girl confesses that she knows her people thoroughly. The action is crowded with surprises and not alone does the picture possess a strong vein of dramatic suspense but also some clever comedy situations which the players handle capably.

Vitagraph has provided a cast of unusual excellence to assume the leading roles in "Too Many Crooks." Miss Leslie herself takes the part of Boston Fanny, the baby vamp of the crooks. Jean Paige is seen as the ambitious young lady who would write a play and makes the most from this rich role. Huntley Gordon, Cecil Chichester, Anders Randolph and T. J. McGrane are others who appear. "Too Many Crooks" was produced under the exceedingly capable direction of Ralph Ince.

PROGRAM READER

Charlotte Browning has distinct ideas about playwriting. With her father she had attended just about six crook plays and never a one of them rang true according to her ideas of crooks. She wanted to write a crook play of her own, she did and her idea was to gain personal introductions to all the yeggmen, light-finger Louies and Lizzies about town so as to be able to write realistically! Then, without consulting her father, she bethought herself of giving a house party to this queer collection of individuals! Well, then things started to happen and they happened so fast that little Charlotte hardly knew which way to turn. She found herself rapidly falling in love with the leader of the crooks, Bidwell Wright and hating Boston Fanny, the baby vamp, because she liked Wright and flirted with old Mr. Browning something outrageously! In fact, the complications started to pile up as they do in any well regulated crook play. Charlotte was by turns amazed, amused and distressed. The manner in which it all comes out in the wash is delightfully pictured in Vitagraph's "Too Many Crooks," a picturization of the magazine story by E. J. Rath. Gladys Leslie is seen as Boston Fanny while the important role of Charlotte is entrusted to capable Jean Paige. The picture was produced under the direction of Ralph Ince while a large supporting cast of Vitagraph favorites appears.

"Too Many Crooks," Vitagraph film, stars Gladys Leslie

CATCH LINES

Two of the prettiest of Vitagraph players, Gladys Leslie and Jean Paige, are seen in "Too Many Crooks." Don't miss it.

She wanted to write a crook play so she gave a house-party to a bunch from the underworld! Mystery—Laughs—Surprises—Thrills. See them all in "Too Many Crooks."

Too Many Crooks spoil the play, so Charlotte Browning thought so to get a line on them for her drama she invited them all to a house party! See "Too Many Crooks."

She gave a house party to half a dozen crooks and—see "Too Many Crooks."

SUGGESTIONS

Here is another title that you can play with interestingly in the advertising. A picture of a dark house, the windows all showing silhouettes of crooks, would be carrying out the suggestion made in the title. The same trick might be employed as a special lobby display. Dwell on the fact that the central character gives a house party to a number of crooks in order to learn about them for her play and hint at the tangle that follows, the tangle in which mystery, comedy and exciting action create.

Play up the star and also if your patrons have come to know her, talk some about Jean Paige. Miss Paige really takes the fatter part of the two girls and her spirited playing will cause many favorable comments. Dwell on the fact that she appeared in some of the O. Henry pictures and that she has been seen in support of Harry Morey.

The rest of the cast is made up of a number of names long favored ones with Vitagraph fans. If you cater to the kind of audience that follows picture after picture be sure to mention the more prominent of these.

"TANGLED THREADS"

(Continued from page 4032

pital because the maternal love must simply find expression.

The title is attractive and you can bring it out to advantage in your teasers and ad copy. Miss Barriscale is worthy of special featuring since she is one of the few emotional actresses on the screen. Then there is Ben Alexander—the child-actor who made such a hit in Griffith's "Hearts of the World." His name will attract the mothers. Howard Hickman's name carries advertising value since he is a well known actor and director.

"ALMOST MARRIED"—METRO

May Allison in Pleasing Comedy-Drama with Good Farcical Windup

"ALMOST MARRIED" is a rather slow-moving, yet enjoyable, comedy-drama, whereas it should have been a farce, and a fine one, if it had received the proper sort of treatment. E. V. Durling's main farcical situation, that of an old Irishman pretending to be married to the girl his son really loves in order to bring the young man to his senses, seems to have in it possibilities manifold. That these are touched upon but lightly toward the end of the picture and without the genuine spirit of farce, is one of those errors of omission that asserts itself very plainly.

But glancing at "Almost Married" from the angle drawn by its contained merits, it presents a story of considerable heart interest and scenic and decorative beauty what with its picturesque shots on the high mountains and its well managed theatre and cabaret scenes, while the farcical situation at the conclusion suffices to send the spectator away in a good frame of mind.

May Allison takes the stellar role and plays it with enthusiasm and charm. Walter I. Percival is not the type for a popular leading man and his makeup is quite poor. Frank Currier as the father and Hugh Fay as a vaudeville agent render appropriate performances, but they, too, are to be criticized for obvious facial makeups.—Length, 5 reels.—Released June 2.—Peter Milne.

THE CAST

Adrienne Le Blanc	May Allison
Carrington O'Connell	Walter I. Percival
Michael O'Connell	Frank Currier
Papa Le Blanc	Harry Rattenbury
Hastings	James Wharton James
Manny Morrison	Hugh Fay

By E. V. Durling.
Scenario by June Mathis and Luther A. Reed.
Directed by Charles Swickard.
Photographed by William Fildew.
Supervised by Maxwell Karger.

THE STORY

Adrienne Le Blanc sings in a little cafe high in the Swiss Alps and the charm of her voice draws tourists from every quarter of the globe. Among her admirers is Carrington O'Connell, son of a wealthy American contractor. He is much under the influence of an adviser from a family of autocrats and, though he loves Adrienne, he is persuaded to leave the inn without even saying goodbye. The upshot of it is that Adrienne, heart-broken, accepts the offer of an American vaudeville agent and travels across the ocean there to make a glorious hit with her voice at one of the roof shows, but not after severe trials and tribulations.

Michael O'Connell, Carrington's father, sees Adrienne and manages to secure an introduction to her through his son. He discovers that they have met before and learns Adrienne's side of the story. Seeing the worth of the girl he determines to wake his foolish son to his senses and before many days have gone he announces his engagement to Adrienne and follows this with a statement that he is married. Carrington is furious and doesn't want to see the girl he loves as his step-mother. In time, however, he discovers the plot and decides to teach the plotters a lesson themselves. He invites his friend's wife to the house and introduces her to them as his fiancee.

After this the complications are manifold and the dismay on both sides as they continue to ignore each other grows. In time Michael believes that his son has dropped his foolish airs and the game is stopped. Then there is a real wedding between Adrienne and Carrington.

PRESS NOTICE

May Allison will be seen at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week in her latest Metro comedy entitled "Almost Married." This is considered one of the very best of Miss Allison's pictures. The action in the opening reels takes place high in the Swiss Alps and there are many beautiful scenes as backgrounds. Later it shifts to New York and there are many extravagant scenes at a New York roof garden that contrast strongly with the natural beauty of the first part of the story. The action of the latter reels centers around a farcical situation of unusual possibilities and the realization of these by author, star and supporting cast makes "Almost Married" a picture of unusual worth.

Miss Allison is seen in the role of Adrienne Le Blanc, niece of a Swiss inn-keeper. After Carrington O'Connell jilts her she accepts the offer of an American vaudeville agent and goes to the states where, soon after, she is a great success singing on one of the roof shows. Here she again meets Carrington and his father, Michael, a self-made man, who is not the snob that his son pretends to be. After he has heard Adrienne's story he evolves a plot to bring his son to his senses, which takes shape in his pretending to marry Adrienne. From here on the action is fast and furious and the comedy of a most spontaneous nature.

Miss Allison's supporting cast includes Walter Percival and Frank Currier. The author of the story is E. V. Durling while it was produced under the direction of Charles Swickard.

PROGRAM READER

Carrington O'Connell was a decent fellow. His father was Irish and had worked himself up from the ditches until he became one of the most powerful contractors in the city. But Carrington's human sympathies were buried beneath a veneer of pretended "high-brow stuff." That was why he broke Adrienne's heart by refusing to marry her after he had talked love for several days. Adrienne he first saw high in the Swiss Alps, dressed in the picturesque garb of her native land and singing to the assembled mountaineers and tourists. The next time he saw her she was singing on one of New York's cabaret roof gardens. This time O'Connell senior was along too and the youth, beauty and freshness of the girl attracted him. When he found out about his son, the two put their heads together and evolved a plan to make the young fellow come to his senses. Briefly, it was for old Michael O'Connell and the girl to pretend to be married! How this scheme worked is delightfully and humorously pictured in May Allison's latest picture, "Almost Married," which is one of the features shortly to be seen at this theatre. It was written by E. V. Durling and produced under the direction of Charles Swickard.

CATCH LINES

He fell in love with his step-mother and father was jealous! See "Almost Married," the real laughing success.

She came from the Swiss Alps to startle Broadway!

He didn't want her for a step-mother but for his wife even though he didn't know it! See "Almost Married," May Allison's laughing hit.

The story of a joke that caused a marriage.

May Allison's comedy hit.

FILE THESE PAGES

HOW often have you, Mr. Exhibitor, found yourself with your show all booked and no press matter or advertising matter on hand regarding the feature of that show?

He thought she was his step-mother and that she could never be his wife! But—see "Almost Married," a Metro comedy with May Allison.

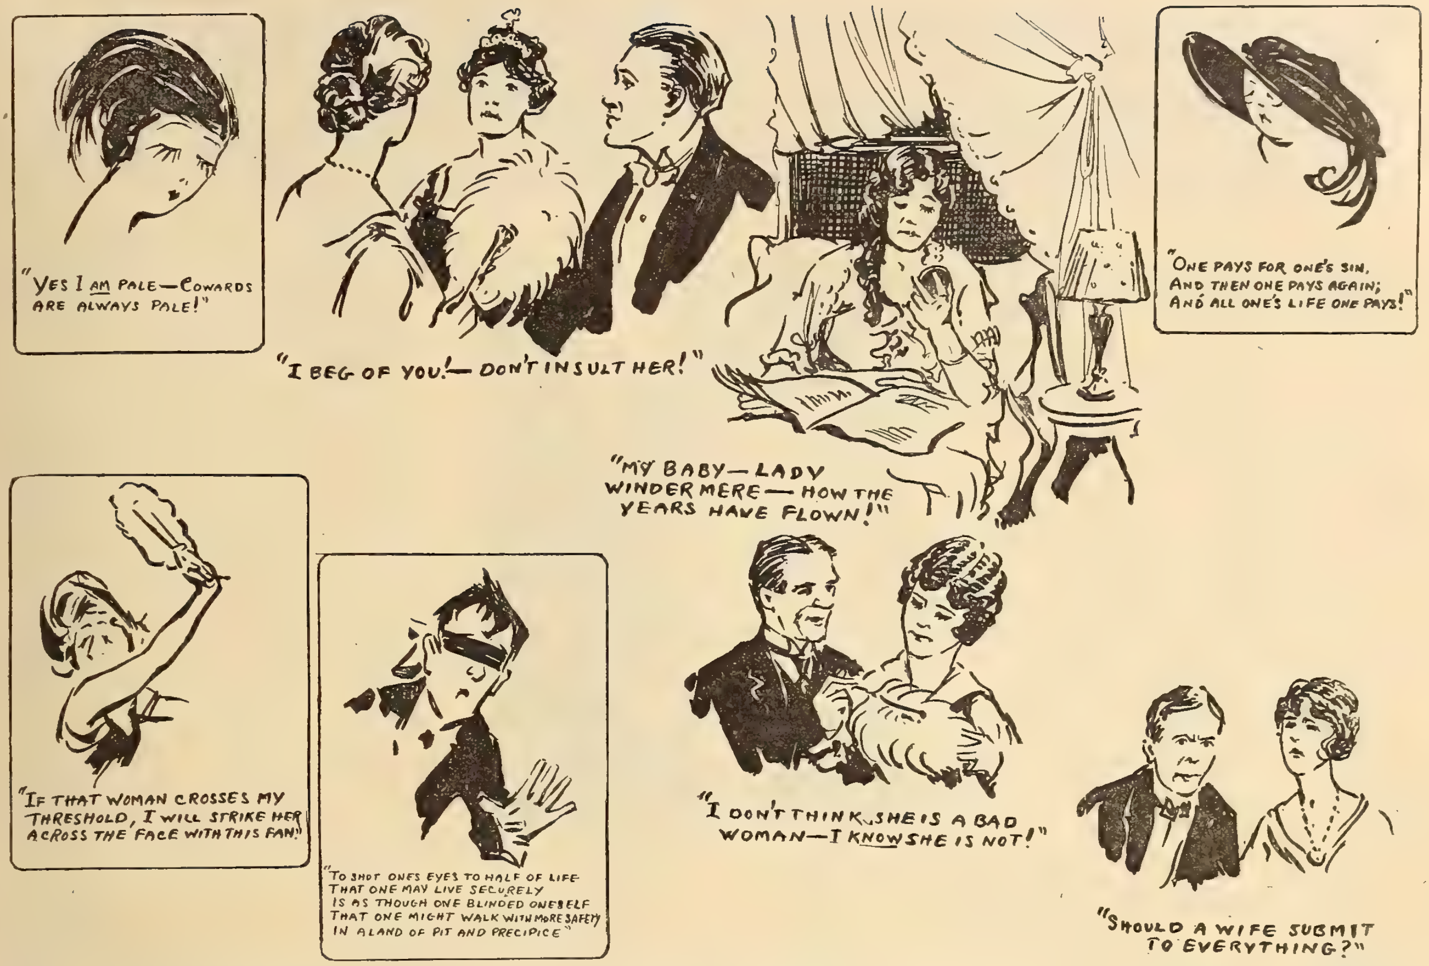
SUGGESTIONS

Here is a title that will lend itself to comedy advertising and at the same time attract attention to itself. A good drawing could be arranged with the star and an old man (Frank Currier) being interrupted in the marriage ceremony by a younger man. He is agitated and unable to see the smiles of satisfaction on their faces. This would bring out the central farcical situation of the picture and at the same time awaken the reader's curiosity.

A May Allison picture should stand for light comedy. Her past pictures have had much of this element and exhibitors should tie her name up with this type of picture until the two words "May Allison" immediately suggest something light and frothy in the minds of those who see them.

With the case of "Almost Married," you can lay special stress on the extragavant roof garden scenes. Important action transpires in these and they are elaborate enough to use as backgrounds for advertising or special drawings as well as to be mentioned themselves in the exploitation matter.

May Allison Invades a Roof Garden in "Almost Married"



"YES I AM PALE—COWARDS ARE ALWAYS PALE!"
"I BEG OF YOU!—DON'T INSULT HER!"
"MY BABY—LADY WINDERMERE—HOW THE YEARS HAVE FLOWN!"
"ONE PAYS FOR ONE'S SIN, AND THEN ONE PAYS AGAIN; AND ALL ONE'S LIFE ONE PAYS!"
"IF THAT WOMAN CROSSES MY THRESHOLD, I WILL STRIKE HER ACROSS THE FACE WITH THIS FAN!"
"TO SHUT ONES EYES TO HALF OF LIFE THAT ONE MAY LIVE SECURELY IS AS THOUGH ONE BLINDED ONESELF THAT ONE MIGHT WALK WITH MORE SAFETY IN A LAND OF PIT AND PRECIPICE"
"I DON'T THINK SHE IS A BAD WOMAN—I KNOW SHE IS NOT!"
"SHOULD A WIFE SUBMIT TO EVERYTHING?"

Some of the characters and one or two of the more important scenes in "Lady Windemere's Fan," the British made production of Oscar Wilde's play, released by Triangle

New Eastern Studios Are Planned by Goldwyn

Coincident with the announcement of the formation of Eminent Authors' Pictures, Inc., of which Rex Beach is president and Samuel Goldwyn chairman of the board, comes the information that plans for a studio to be situated in the East for the production of pictures by the corporation have already been drawn and action only waits on the selection of the site for the studios. They will probably be somewhere in the vicinity of New York.

Meanwhile the scope of work which has been outlined for the recently purchased studios by Goldwyn, purchased from the Triangle Company, have necessitated the increasing of various portions of the extensive outfit already in use. Additional stages and new ones to take the place of the old are being built.

Freidberg Buys Rights to Thomas Features

Joseph Freidberg announces the purchase of the world rights, exclusive of the United States, to four of Triangle's special productions featuring Olive Thomas. The features are: "Love's Prisoner," "The Follies Girl," "Toton" and "Prudence on Broadway." They will be distributed through the L. L. Hiller, Longacre Building, Forty-second and Broadway.

George Irving Directs Olive Thomas Picture

Myron Selznick announces that he has engaged George Irving to direct Olive Thomas in her third Selznick production. Mr. Irving already has the script for the play and is at the Selznick studio getting things under way. Production of the film will begin immediately. The title or subject of the story has not yet been announced but it is said to be something entirely different than Miss Thomas has ever done before.

A long list of screen stars have been under Mr. Irving's direction, among whom are included Mme. Petrova, Mable Normand, Mae Marsh, Jack Barrymore, William Faversham, Henry B. Warner, and many others.

New Theatre Scheduled for Niagara Falls

The Arcade theatre interests have acquired a site on Falls street adjoining the Arcade block on the west and announces that a new modern theatre will be erected to seat 3,000 persons.

A. C. Hayman, president of the Cataract theatre, operated by the Arcade Company, declared that a 1,000-room hotel will also be erected on the site and that work will start upon his return from New York City.

Gilbert Parker Tale Produced for Hodkinson

Announcement of the purchase and production by Sunset Pictures Corporation of Sir Gilbert Parker's story, "You Never Know Your Luck" is made by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, which will be the distributor of the Sunset company productions.

"You Never Know Your Luck" is one of Sir Gilbert Parker's best known stories of Western Canada and is being produced in San Antonio under the direction of Frank Powell.

House Peters is the star of this production now rapidly nearing completion and scheduled for release during the summer months.

Golf Comedy Begun By Mrs. Sidney Drew

Mrs. Sidney Drew has begun the production of "Bunkered," a new two-reel comedy for the V. B. K. Film Corporation. This comedy is a golf story written by Emma Anderson Whitman, who also wrote "Romance and Rings," the first two-reel comedy made by the Drews for Paramount release. Most of the action of "Bunkered" takes place on the links. Mrs. Drew is playing her familiar role of "Polly," and Donald McBride as her frivolous bachelor brother, heads the supporting cast.

In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. C. Jessen

Vitagraph News Bits

Accompanied by the Earle Williams supporting cast, Director James Young this week left the Los Angeles studios for Lake Tahoe, there to meet Williams and start work on the production of a screen version of Eugene Walters' stage success, "The Wolf." Jane Novak appears opposite Williams with a supporting cast including Brinsley Shaw, George Nichols, Robert McKim and Billy Mason. The company expects to make practically the entire picture at the mountain lake and will remain away from the studios until the latter part of July.

The William Duncan company also left the studios this week for location at Huntington Lake in the northern part of California where they are to make exterior scenes for their present Cyrus Townsend Brady serial. Duncan is directing and playing the leading role with Edith Johnson, Joe Ryan and Walter Rodgers supporting.

Fox Studio Doings

After a short stay at the Los Angeles studios following the completion of "The Lone Star Ranger," the William Farnum company under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards, has again left the city for the desert near Palm Springs, Cal., where they are at work on the exterior scenes of another of the Zane Grey stories, "The Last of the Duanes," Farnum appearing in the role of Buck Duane. Louise Lovely appears opposite him and the two are supported by a cast including Orra Gardner, Genevieve Blinn, G. Raymond Nye, Charles Clary, Clarence Burton, Harry De Vere, Henry J. Herbert, C. Edward Hatton and Frederick Herzog. The story was adapted for screen purposes by Charles Kenyon. John W. Boyle is photographer.

Jay Belasco Making Money Talk to Patricia Palmer as the Wife in "Tell Your Wife Everything," a Christie Comedy Feature

Paying Homage to Emmy Wehlen in "Fools and Their Money," Her Latest Metro Offering

David Morrissey, who for the past year has been officiating as publicity chief at the Western Wm. Fox studios, left Los Angeles May 28 for New York where he is to take up similar work for the company's eastern office, and will in all probability be sent to London to direct publicity matters there. Ed Rosenbaum, Jr., special representative for the Tom Mix company, has been put in charge of the western press office in his stead pending the arrival of the permanent department head who is being sent west from New York.

About Metro Players

Viola Dana is at work on the production of a screen version of Henry Altimus' story, "The Microbe," senarized by June Mathis. Kenneth Harlan appears in the role opposite her with a supporting cast including Arthur Maude, Bonnie Hill, Lucy Donahue and Ned Norworth. Henry Otto is directing.

Under the direction of Edwin Carewe, the Bert Lytell company is at work on the production of a screen adaptation of John H. Blackwood's story, "It's Easy to Make Money." Frank Currier and Bull Montana appear in the supporting cast. The story was put into screen form by Finis Fox.

Hale Hamilton, under the direction of Harry L. Franklin, is screening a story written by himself under the title, "In His Brother's Place." The story was arranged for the screen by A. S. Le Vino and the cast thus far chosen includes Emmett C. King and Ruby La Fayette.

"A Favor for a Friend" is the title of the latest Emmy Wehlen vehicle, prepared for the company by Lieut. Luther A. Reed of the Metro scenario staff. The production is rapidly nearing completion under the direction of John E. Ince. Jack Mulhall, Hugh Faye, Joseph Kilgour and Effie Conley appear in the supporting cast.

At the Ince Plant

"What's Your Husband Doing?" from the pen of George V. Hobart, has been chosen by Thomas H. Ince as the first vehicle for the newly organized Douglas MacLean company. Doris May appears opposite MacLean in this production with a supporting cast including Walter Hiers, Alice Wilson, Norris Johnson, Alice Elliot, William Buckley, Margaret Livingston and J. P. Lockney. Lloyd Ingraham is to direct production.

Niles Welch, who supported Enid Bennett in her latest completed Ince production, has been held over by that company to appear opposite her in the next subject to be staged at that studio.

Charles Ray has just completed the production of a picture entitled "Whistling Jim." The supporting cast included Colleen Moore, J. P. Lockney, Otto Hoffman, George Williams, Jack Connolly, Fred Moore and Ed Johnston. The big punch of this subject is a fight scene in which Ray battles local amateur champion boxers.

William Farnum, presented by William Fox in "The Lone Star Ranger"

Demure Elsie Ferguson in "The Avalanche," an Artcraft

Here and There

An official announcement of the organization of the Hobart Henley Picture Corporation was this week made public.

According to the terms of the contract, Henley will direct the production of screen versions of a number of well known books and dramas of the legitimate stage, and will also appear in the leading roles of these. Studios have been secured for the new company in New York and work is to start immediately.

The subjects will be handled by the Film Clearing House.

Henry B. Walthall this week began the production of his fifth subject for the National Film Corporation. It is a film version of the stage production, "The Confession." The working script was prepared by William Clifford and is being staged under the direction of Willliam Bracken.

Howard Gaye has been engaged by the Metro Corporation to appear opposite May Allison in her next production.

At the Jesse D. Hampton studios, the William Desmond company has completed the production of "Bare Fisted Gallagher," a five-reel western story, exteriors for which have been made in the upper San Gabriel Canyon. Agnes Vernon appears in the leading role opposite Desmond.

The company has already started production on another western subject, "A Sagebrush Hamlet." Marguerite De La Motte, who appeared with H. B. Warner in the F. McGrew Willis story, "The Pagan God," has been retained by the company to appear opposite Desmond in this later production.

Universal Newsettes

Dorothy Phillips, under the direction of Alan Holubar, this week completed the production of her five-reel feature, "The Right to Happiness." The story was written by Holubar in collaboration with Olga Linek School and was produced with a supporting cast comprised of William Stowell, Robert Anderson, Hector Sarno, Winter Hall, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Alma Bennett and Henry Barrows.

Lynn Reynolds this week completed his six-reel screen version of Joseph Medill Patterson's novel, "The Little Brother of the Rich." Frank Mayo, J. Barney Sherry and Kathryn Adams appear in the principal roles.

Under the direction of George Seigman, Hedda Nova this week completed the production of "The Spitfire of Seville." No announcement has thus far been made as to her next vehicle. Priscilla Dean, who was originally cast for the title role of this production, and who was forced to give up the part through an attack of double pneumonia, is recovering rapidly and is expected back at the studio shortly to resume her work before the camera.

Pete Morrison this week began another of his two-reel western dramas, entitled, "A Fortune at Stake." The production is being staged under the direction of George Holt, from the story by William Pigott. Magda Lane appears opposite Morrison.

Jack Ford is rapidly nearing the completion of the latest of the Harry Carey westerns, a six-reel story adapted by George Hively from the novel written by Frederick Jackson under the title of "A Man of Peace." The majority of the exteriors in this production were made outside of Tucson, Ariz.

Hollywood Hokum

JUNE 14, 1919 NEWS MORE NEWS

Fair and warmer.

Max Karger is back.

Millicent Fisher is here.

Fred Stone is in our midst.

Gertie Selby is back from New York.

Irene Rich has gone east to Little Old N' Yark.

Frank Keenan has been fishing at Catalina.

Dave Smith is teaching the Vitagraph beauties how to be farmerettes.

Tom Gibson is doing comedy scenarios for Flanagan and Edwards.

Bert Lytell has been playing with a couple of pigs, for "It's Easy to Make Money."

B. B. Features has a general manager named Frothingham, it that means anything.

Chappie Chapman, the Brunton plant publicity department director, has adopted a Ford.

Hob. Henley has gone to New York and we hear of a corporation that carries his name.

Dean Fifield postcards Hookum from Base Hospital 55 somewhere over there, reports Paris some village.

Bessie Barriscale discovered a sign on a Los Angeles shop window, "The home of short vamps," and then kept on going.

Gild Star is the name of the last addition to the colony and we guess that she has red hair or why such a name.

Marjorie Daw, of Doug. F. Company, and Sarah Mason, K. Vidor's secretary, took an aeroplane ride this week.

Wm. Christy Cabanne was this week seen passing over the Alexandria Magic Rug with his moustache securely waxed.

Howard Hickman makes the claim that he once had a chance to saw wood for a railroad, but he didn't take the job.

Our town was all cluttered up this week when Tony Moreno and Carol Holloway smashed up a taxi for legitimate purposes.

Harry Sherman sends his regards to Broadway and wishes us to say that he finds fishing fine at Catalina Islands.

May Allison has been working with 200 Bolsheviki extras for in "Free," which explains why she went on an anti-smelling strike.

June Mathis' grandma in New York writes "keep your sunshine and flowers, granddaughter — I hav the bright lights of Broadway."

Lois Wilson claims she is not married, thereby denying all the rumors, reports and gossip which has linked her name with a certain actor.

Dave Morrissey has shrunk away from our climate of sunshine and flowers to put Bill Fox productions on the map in the fogs around London.

Niles Welch has moved his makeup box and suitcase to the Ince Studios, for Tom liked Niles as leading man for Enid Bennett and just said, "you're hired."

Al Christie sent two of his beauties, Dorothy De Vore and Marjorie Payne, to the Venice bathing parade and they romped away with the first two prizes.

Bill Desmond has a new leading woman named Marguerite De La Motte, and we are surprised that some sub-title writer don't reduce the size of the name.

H. B. Warner has gone back to civilized clothes after playing in a Chinese subject. He liked the costume so well he is going to make a trip to China—going to.

Jack Callicott has left the Grauman theatre where he was first assistant to Sid Grauman, and contemplates catching all the fish in the Columbia River.

The first thing Captain Wm. Desmond Taylor, late of the English Army, did after putting on the civies was to have a barber remove that English moustache.

Charley Giegerich, the Vitagraph Studio publicity director, put in a strenuous week supervising the making of still pictures of the Bathing Girls. An oculist was called on Saturday.

Speaking of the Jeweled Palace, Tom Ince has a chandelier in one of his sets that has 2,000 electric lights and in a few weeks you can see them on the screen and count them yourself.

We quote verbatim ad liberatim from P. A. copy of Mr. A. L. Selig, of Fox: "On the way more than a dozen rattlesnakes were killed by William Farnum?" all of which indicates a conscience.

Charley Ray is still alive and in perfect condition after five fistic contests, therefore we recommend him to Jack Doyle that Jack may stop his loving contests in the squared circle.

Pete Gerald had a birthday and his playmates of the Francis Ford Company gave him a surprise. All wore black robes and presented him with a black eye and a handsome watch and chain, then everybody danced. A good time was had by all.

H. H. Van Loan, the story writer, publicity promotionist and scenarioist, celebrated his fourth wedding anniversary the other day and congratulated Mrs. Van Loan that she had found it possible to live with him that long. Van is not one of those fellows that hates himself.

Tom Mix wants to make a challenge of some kind, but having won the championship of everything wild and woolly he is now daring anybody to a spitting contest. The target will be the hole in the door of the stove of the country store of the supposed town of Mosquito Gulch.

Montgomery and Rock, a carbon copy before us explains, have a new convulsion almost ready which will be two reels of pure unadulterated "Hookum," therefore we thank you for the advertising, but request that in the future you use the full name "Hollywood Hookum," for we wish our town advertised as well.

Francis Ford has invitations out for a house warmin' at his new studio on Sunset Blvd. The number is 6040, which leads us to say that Francis must have picked the spot, thinking he was making a road show booking contract as in days of yore. Anyway Francis, why give them the best of it, or do you get the 60 end?

Sol Wurtzel is the only man to say Motion Picture News Studio Directory is not correct, for Sol claims he has only been manager of Fox Studio fifteen months and the book says fifteen years, besides he avers that he is still young and handsome and why tack fifteen years on a young fellow's life?

Molly Malone has had her picture in the paper several times lately because she is the mascot of Fatty Arbuckle's Pacific Coast League Vernon Team. Roscoe is said to be competing with Bill Wrigley, the chewing gum trust, in the collection of souvenirs. Bill has a ball team and Catalina Islands, Roscoe is paging the Pacific for a quiet sweet smelling island or two.

May Allison's bolshevehicle, "Free," built in the Will Irwin factory, first exhibited in the Saturday Evening Post, filled with the proper movie gas and oil by George D. Baker, and now being chauffed by Herbert Blache, is according to Ted Taylor running smoothly along on its five reels, casting a red gleam from its headlights, and with the Bolshevik license 77340 (upside down and backwards) jangling from the rear axle.

NOW THAT THE SUMMER SEASON IS UPON US WE LEARN:

That Madlaine Traverse, Fox Company, has gone to Huntington Lake for "Until Eternity" exteriors.

Jim Young, Earle Williams and Company are at Lake Tahoe for trout fishing scenes or something like that.

Bill Duncan and Serial Aggregation find Huntington Lake, up in the mountains, an ideal spot for the first eight episodes, thereby insuring a stay of eight or nine weeks.

CURLEY'S CHATTER, being the mutterings of our elevator man boiled down.

"Knowing very little of the motion picture business makes me think the best way to keep it on a paying business basis is to make good pictures, I tried to get in several theatres last week, but the waiting throng crowded me out. People are funny—they don't want to go to a show unless they think it is good."

Index to Complete Plan Book and EXHIBITORS' BOX OFFICE REPORTS

EDITOR'S NOTE—Exhibitors will find here a complete list of all feature pictures for the current quarter arranged alphabetically as an index to The Complete Plan Book for this period, naming the picture, the producer, the star, the release date, and designating the issue of MOTION PICTURE NEWS which contained the original review.

The following also contains our reviewer's opinion encompassed in a brief single line and gives the comments of exhibitors who have shown the picture and forwarded their opinions. And we also publish a final line fairly summarizing a consensus of all opinions received on each picture. As many of the exhibitors do not comment on every picture (merely checking it Big, Average or Poor), we arrive at the consensus not only by the actual comments made and published, but are also guided by the reports from exhibitors who have made no actual comments but have merely checked the box office value of the picture.

All the pictures mentioned are five-reel features, unless marked otherwise. Serials are reviewed also. At the conclusion of this department will be found the “Flash-Backs,” being comments on films released prior to March 23, 1919.

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

AFTER HIS OWN HEART (METRO) HALE HAMILTON (APR. 28) ....MAY 10
“Good farce idea is basis of star's latest picture.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Average business.”

ALL WRONG (PATHE) BRYANT WASHBURN (JUNE 1)...MAY 24
“Star in a picture of platonic love.”—M. P. News.

AMATEUR ADVENTURESS, THE (METRO) EMMY WEHLEN (MAY 5) ....MAY 17
“Excellent comedy marks star's return to screen.”—M. P. News.

AMAZING WIFE, THE (UNIVERSAL) MARY MACLAREN (APR. 7) ....(Six Parts)............MAR. 29
“Here's one on which you can go the limit.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Picture A1 but hard to get star over in this town. Not liked. Poor business three days.” “Average business.” Didn't draw. Average picture.”
Consensus—“Good picture, average puller.”

AN AMATEUR WIDOW (WORLD) ZENA KEEFE (MAY 26).MAY 24
“World offers an exceedingly pleasant comedy.”—M. P. News.

AS A MAN THINKS (RAVER-HODKINSON) LEAH BAIRD (APR. 27) ....MAY 3
“New four-star combination steps over the line with a winner.”—M. P. News.

BACHELOR'S WIFE, A (AMERICAN) MARY MILES MINTER (MAY 11) ....MAY 24
“Star assumes an Irish role in her latest picture.”—M. P. News.

BARE FISTS (UNIVERSAL) HARRY CAREY (MAY 4) .... APR. 26
(Six Parts)
“As satisfactory as all the Harry Carey pictures.”—M. P. News.

BEATING THE ODDS (VITAGRAPH) HARRY T. MOREY (MAY 12) ....MAY 10
“Star continues his forceful way in a romantic drama.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Good story but poor puller.”

BEAUTY PROOF (VITAGRAPH) H. T. MOREY (JUNE 23).. JUNE 7
“Old-fashioned melodrama of the far north.”—M. P. News.

BEST MAN, THE (HAMPTON-HODKINSON) J. WARREN KERRIGAN (MAY 4) ....MAY 10
“Star appears in mystery story flavored with romance.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Good picture and enjoyed by everyone. Average business three days.”

BISHOP'S EMERALDS, THE (PATHE) PEARSON (JUNE 8) JUNE 7
“Star presents herself in good melodrama.”—M. P. News.

BLACKIE'S REDEMPTION (METRO) BERT LYTELL (APR. 14) .... APR. 26
“Melodrama with power and pathos, and Bert Lytell.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitors Comment—“Very good crook play to average business.” “Excellent preduction to big business.”
Consensus—“Fine picture, good puller.”

BLINDING TRAIL, THE (UNIVERSAL) MONROE SALISBURY (MAY 19) ....(Six Parts)............MAY 3
“Predominant element is suspense; a trifle uncheery.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Average business.”

BOLSHEVISM ON TRIAL (SELECT SPECIAL) SPECIAL CAST (APR. 20)............(Six Parts)............APR. 19
“Picture as good as its title; square deal.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Five day run, all came. Big and little, blind and armless. I removed most the rudeness from the film. Picture pleased.”

BOOMERANG, THE (PIONEER) HENRY B. WALTHALL (MAY 26) ....(Seven Parts)............MAY 17
“Star and competent players in capital versus labor picture.”—M. P. News.

BRASS BUTTONS (AMERICAN) WM. RUSSELL (MAR. 30) MAR. 22
“A lot of snap and zest to this comedy drama.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“The Greatest Russell picture yet. Big business.” “Big business two days.”
Consensus—“Fine picture, big puller.”

BREAK THE NEWS TO MOTHER (SELECT) SPECIAL CAST (JUNE 8) ....JUNE 7
“Rather poorly done picture with mother love theme.”—M. P. News.

BUSHER, THE (PARAMOUNT) CHARLES RAY (MAY 18)...JUNE 7
“The star excels all his past works.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Oh Boy! And on the holiday too. Great. Made a big hit with everyone. One of the most satisfactory we've played. Another success for Ray. Hope we get another like it. Big and average business.”

CALEB PIPER'S GIRL (PATHE) HELENE CHADWICK (MAY 18) ....MAY 24
“Nothing big but will appeal to the tender emotions.”—M. P. News.

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

CALIBRE 38 (EDGAR LEWIS-SHERRY) MITCHELL LEWIS (APR. 13) ....(Six Parts)............APR. 5
“Melodrama based on murder mystery; story well constructed.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Average business.”

CAMBRIC MASK, THE (VITAGRAPH) ALICE JOYCE (APR. 7) ....APR. 5
“Star in version of unusual Chambers story.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Fair picture, average business.”

CAPTAIN KIDD, JR. (ARTCRAFT) MARY PICKFORD (APR. 6) ....MAY 3
“Mary Pickford in brittle comedy drama, fairly diverting.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Average business seven days.” “Picture below Pickford standard. Average business.” “Here's your hat Mary. What's your hurry.” “Average, poor to average businness.”
Consensus—“Good picture, average puller.”

CASTLES IN THE AIR (METRO) MAY ALLISON (MAY 12).MAY 24
“Star in a pleasing sentimental picture.”— M. P. News.

CHARGE IT TO ME (AMERICAN) MARGARITA FISHER (MAY 5) ....MAY 3
“Star continues her frolicsome career in slender comedy.”—M. P. News.

COME OUT OF THE KITCHEN (PARAMOUNT) MARGUERITE CLARK (MAY 11) ....MAY 24
“Beranger continuity good; Acting high class.”—M. P. News.

COMING OF THE LAW, THE (FOX) TOM MIX (MAY 11)..MAY 24
“Unusually satisfying Western with Tom Mix starred.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Good. Regular type for this star. Average business.” “Not as good as previous Mix offerings. Big and average business.” “Good snappy Western. Tom is coming along fine and if he gets the right stories should be a big winner very soon. Big and average business.”
Consensus—“Fine picture, good puller.”

COURAGEOUS COWARD, THE (ROBERTSON-COLE) SESSUE HAYAKAWA (APR. 14) .... APR. 26
“Story of great interest; Japanese lovers united.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Not quite up to standard by reason of the story. American people don't like to see a ‘Jap’ as District Attorney, and then ‘Anti-Jap’ sentiment weakened same considerably.”

CRY OF THE WEAK, THE (PATHE) FANNIE WARD (MAY 4) .... APR. 26
“Fannie Ward in an absorbing play of crime and punishment.”—M. P. News.

DADDY LONG LEGS (FIRST NATIONAL) MARY PICKFORD (MAY 11) ....MAY 24
“Star's initial First National has much comedy and sentiment.”—M. P. News.

DAUGHTER OF MINE (GOLDWYN) MADGE KENNEDY (MAR. 30) ....MAY 17
“Human interest story that hits the mark.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Ordinary feature. Nearly as bad as ‘Day Dreams.’ With the same star. They like Madge Kennedy here but NOT in the kind of stuff Goldwyn is handing out lately. Poor business.” “A good picture if audience is in the right mood to enjoy it. Opened big business but fell down second day.” “Not up to Goldwyn standard. Very ordinary.” “My, but this was awful! Our patrons said so and we say so.” “This picture did not draw well and it's no wonder. Madge Kennedy deserves a better fate.”
Consensus—“Good picture, average puller.”

DELICIOUS LITTLE DEVIL, THE (UNIVERSAL) MAE MURRAY (MAY 11)............MAY 3
“A highly pleasing comedy with Mae Murray starred.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“Average business.”

DESTINY (JEWEL-UNIVERSAL) DOROTHY PHILLIPS (MAY 25) ....MAY 24
“Big in every sense of the word; Frenzied finance the theme.”—M. P. News.

DIVORCE TRAP (FOX) GLADYS BROCKWELL (MAY 25)..JUNE 7
“Dramatic exposition of the divorce problem.”—M. P. News.

END OF THE GAME, THE (HODKINSON) J. WARREN KERRIGAN (MAR. 23)............MAR. 29
“Too much footage in this Western of '49 days.”—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—“This was the worst of any of the late Kerrigan pictures. Average to poor business.” “Not up to Kerrigan standard. Average business.” “Good program picture. Up to the standard. Average business ten days.”
Consensus—“Average picture, average puller.”

Exhibitors' Own Box Office Reports

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

ETERNAL MAGDALENE, THE (GOLDWYN) SPECIAL CAST (APR. 20) ....MAY 3

"Long heralded picture largely an allegory."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Opened to big business in spite of heavy rair early in afternoon. People satisfied."

EXQUISITE THIEF, THE (UNIVERSAL) PRISCILLA DEAN (APR. 28)........(Six Parts)........APR. 19

"Star shows unusual talent; highly artistic."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Average business."

EYES OF THE SOUL (ARTCRAFT) ELSIE FERGUSON (APR. 20) ....MAY 3

"A beautiful story presented in a beautiful way."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"The public does like a happy ending. However, this would not be a good picture if it ended any other way. Elsie Ferguson is well liked here." "People didn't like it at all. Story weak. Poor business." "Ferguson getting better here."

Consensus—"Fair picture, average puller."

FALLEN IDOL, A (FOX) EVELYN NESBIT (MAY 18)......MAY 31

"Star appears in a new version of East versus West theme."—M. P. News."

FALSE EVIDENCE (METRO) VIOLA DANA (APR. 21)......MAY 3

"Rebellious heroine finds expression in the woods."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Average picture, average business."

FIGHT FOR LOVE, A (UNIVERSAL) HARRY CAREY (MAR. 24) ....MAR. 22

"Star in strong story backed by beautiful scenes."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Big business." "Average business."

Consensus—"Satisfactory picture, good puller."

FIGHTING DESTINY (VITAGRAPH) HARRY T. MOREY (MAR. 31) ....MAR. 29

"Star in another fine fighting picture with mystery touch."—M. P. News.

FIGHTING FOR GOLD (FOX), TOM MIX (MAR. 30).......APR. 12

"Clean picture with star unusually entertaining."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"A good picture but opposition pulled the business away." "Tom Mix draws 100 per cent. in my city." "Mix always there. Big business." "Very good. Mix sure is climbing fast as a money getter. Extra big business." "Not liked in this feature. Fox will have to do better or Mix will lose out. Average to poor business." "Big business two days."

Consensus—"Fine picture, big puller."

FIRE FLINGERS, THE (UNIVERSAL) RUPERT JULIAN (APR. 21) (Seven Parts)........APR. 12

"Hold interest from first to last; dual role story."—M. P. News.

FIRES OF FAITH (FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY) SPECIAL CAST (MAY 18) ....(Six Parts)........MAY 17

"Salvation Army picture should prove profitable."—M. P. News.

FOLLIES GIRL, THE (TRIANGLE) OLIVE THOMAS (APR. 27) .... APR. 26

"Sweet and homely tale of the chorus girl."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Fair picture to poor business."

FOOLS' GOLD (ARROW) MITCHELL LEWIS (MAY 26) MAY 17
(Six Parts)

"Mitchell Lewis the star in a disconnected story. Locations good."—M. P. News.

FOR BETTER, FOR WORSE (ARTCRAFT) DE MILLE'S APR. 27) ....(Six Parts)........MAY 10

"De Mille scores with a tremendous heart theme."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"The title of this picture helped put it over big and also the fact that it followed right after 'Don't Change Your Husband' which gave exhibitors some very good advertising business. Big and extra big business. "Big business seven days."

Consensus—"Excellent picture, big puller."

FULL OF PEP (METRO) HALE HAMILTON (MAY 26).....JUNE 7

"Breezy American cuts down rebellion in lively farce comedy."—M.P.News.

GETTING MARY MARRIED (SELECT) MARION DAVIES (APR. 13)........APR. 19

"Marion Davies gets good story; excellent picture."—M. P. News.

GINGER (WORLD) VIOLET PALMER (MAY 5)........MAY 3

"Story of boy and girl love excellently performed."—M. P. News.

GIRL WHO STAYED AT HOME, THE (ARTCRAFT) D. W. GRIFFITH'S (MAR. 23) ....APR. 5

"Hardly a flaw from production angle."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Very fine picture but we are unable to get the money that we should get with Griffith subjects." "Proved a very satisfactory picture. Opened extra big and two following days were average business. "Conditions bad. Average business seven days."

Consensus—"Fine picture, good puller."

GO GET 'EM GARRINGER (PATHE) FRANKLIN FARNUM-HELENE CHADWICK (MAR. 23)........MAR. 22

"A true wild and woolly one with two popular players."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Average business."

GREASED LIGHTNING (PARAMOUNT) CHARLES RAY (APR. 20) ....MAY 10

"Star in a comedy with abundant small town atmosphere."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"He is one star that men and women both like. Extra big and big business four days and average three days." A typical Ray story with the star in just the sort of role to suit him. Certainly pleased our patrons. Big business." "Went big just like the title. Big business."

Consensus—"Excellent picture, big puller."

HEARTS ASLEEP (ROBERTSON-COLE) BESSIE BARRISCALE (MAR. 31) ....APR. 5

"Joy for Barriscale fans; many find fault with story."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"A splendid picture. One that pleased our patrons. Business big and average."

HEARTS OF MEN (HIRAM ABRAMS) GEORGE BEBAN (APR. 27). (5½ Reels)........APR. 19

"Beban wins your sympathy; good film results."—M. P. News.

HELP! HELP! POLICE! (FOX) GEORGE WALSH (APR. 27) MAY 10

"Rollicking story with George Walsh cutting up capers."—M. P. News.

Exhibitors Comment—"Well liked. Extra big business on double bill." "Walsh losing ground. A good picture of his type. Average business." "Good, fast and furious to big business."

Consensus—"Fine picture, good puller."

HIS DEBT (ROBERTSON-COLE) SESSUE HAYAKAWA (MAY 25) ....MAY 31

"Japanese star in a picture of real dramatic worth."—M. P. News.

HOME BREAKER, THE (PARAMOUNT) DOROTHY DALTON (APR. 20) ....MAY 17

"Highly satisfying comedy drama starring Dorothy Dalton.—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Fellers, they ate this one up, you bet. Big business."

HOME TOWN GIRL (PARAMOUNT) V. MARTIN (MAY 11).JUNE 7

"Star's latest sparkles with charm and sentiment."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Average business two days."

HOUSE DIVIDED, A (BLACKTON-IND. SALES) SYLVIA BREAMER (APR. 27)........(Six Parts)........MAY 3

"Entertaining with pronounced love interest capitally played."—M. P. News.

I'LL GET HIM YET (PARAMOUNT) DOROTHY GISH (MAY 25) ....MAY 31

"A splendid farce comedy from every angle."—M. P. News.

INTRUSION OF ISABEL (AMERICAN-PATHE) MARY MILES MINTER (APR. 13) ....APR. 12

"Should satisfy all; clean romance well produced."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Very good picture to big business."

ISLAND OF INTRIGUE, THE (METRO) MAY ALLISON (APR. 7)........APR. 19

"May Allison's latest is a good mystery picture."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Not as good as other Allison Pictures. Didn't draw."

JOSSELYN'S WIFE (ROBERTSON-COLE) BESSIE BARRISCALE (MAY 5) ....MAY 17

"Drama of love quadrangle made effective through surprise finish."—M. P. News.

JUNGLE TRAIL, THE (FOX) WILLIAM FARNUM (APR. 20) APR. 26

"William Farnum traverses the jungle wilds."—M. P. News.

JUST SQUAW (ROBERTSON-COLE) BEATRIZ MICHELENA (MAY 11) ....MAY 10

"Star returns to the screen in Western melodrama."—M. P. News.

KHAVAH (ZION FILMS) ALICE HASTINGS (MAY 26)......MAY 24
(Seven Parts.)

"Too long and poorly titled but may find appeal before Jews."—M. P. News.

KNICKERBOCKER BUCKAROO, THE (ARTCRAFT) DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS (MAY 18) ....JUNE 7

"Pleasant but somewhat disappointing for Fairbanks."—M. P. News.

LADY OF RED BUTTE, THE (PARAMOUNT) DOROTHY DALTON (MAY 11) ....JUNE 7

"Western melodrama gets tangled up in a tissue of absurdities."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Heaven help us if we get any more like this. Average business. Ran a borrowed picture second day."

LAMB AND THE LION, THE (ROBERTSON-COLE) (MAR. 24) ....MAR. 22

"Human story that appeals. Acting good."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Exceptionally good. Opened big to average business." "A very light farce, did not hold interest. Star very weak. Poor business two days." "Billie Rhodes surely a winner." "Fair Rhodes picture. Opened extra big and dropped to average, with big business seventh day."

Consensus—"Good picture, average puller."

LAW OF MEN, THE (PARAMOUNT) ENID BENNETT (APR. 27) ....MAY 24

"Star in ordinary melodrama of love and law."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Title killed it. Poor business."

LEAVE IT TO SUSAN (GOLDWYN) M. KENNEDY (MAY 11) JUNE 7

"Star's indomitable and undeniable humor scores again."—M. P. News.

LION'S DEN, THE (METRO) BERT LYTELL (MAY 19)......MAY 31

"Star is in a faithful picture of small town life."—M. P. News.

LITTLE COMRADE (PARAMOUNT) VIVIAN MARTIN (MAR. 30) .... APR. 26

"Pleases without showing anything sensational."—M. P. News.

Exihibitor Comment—"Little in name, little in star, and little in value. Poor business."

LITTLE DIPLOMAT, THE (PATHE) BABY MARIE OSBORNE (JUNE 15) ....MAY 31

"Little star's pranks are subordinated for Crook melodrama."—M. P. News.

LITTLE INTRUDER, THE (WORLD) LOUISE HUFF (APR. 7) ....APR. 5

"A most satisfactory comedy drama."—M. P. News.

LITTLE ROWDY, THE (TRIANGLE) HAZEL DALY (MAR. 23) ....MAR. 22

"Comedy drama of the lighter type; heroine pleasing."—M. P. News.

LOVE CALL, THE (ROBERTSON-COLE) BILLIE RHODES (APR. 20) ....MAY [illegible]

"Simple Western story colored with star's personality."—M. P. News.

LOVE DEFENDER, THE (WORLD) JUNE ELVIDGE (MAR. 31) ....MAR. 29

"Eternal Triangle told in simplest form."—M. P. News.

LOVE'S PRISONER (TRIANGLE) OLIVE THOMAS (JUNE 8) JUNE 7

"Star appears in a society-crook picture."—M. P. News.

LOVE THAT DARES, THE (FOX) MADLAINE TRAVERSE (APR. 20) ....MAY 3

"Star in new version of eternal triangle, effectively produced."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Well liked. Extra big business on double bill." "Good program picture to big business." "A good picture well received. Star like. Average business."

Consensus—"Good icture, good puller."

MAN OF HONOR, A. (SCREEN CLASSICS) HAROLD LOCKWOOD (MAY 3) .... APR. 26

"Star in characteristic role; a colorful picture."—M. P. News.

The Index to The Complete Plan Book

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

MAN WHO TURNED WHITE, THE (ROBERTSON-COLE) H. B. WARNER (MAY 4) .... MAY 24
" Star returns to screen in a colorful melodrama."—M. P. News.

MARIE, LTD. (SELECT) ALICE BRADY (MAR. 23) .... APR. 12
" Has a selling point to the woman."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Fine picture to average business."

MARRIED IN HASTE (FOX) ALBERT RAY-ELINOR FAIR (APR. 6) .... APR. 19
" Subtitles boost entertaining qualities; easy to see."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" New stars, fair picture, just fair business." " Picture made in the same way—Haste! Poor business two days." " Good average picture to average business."
Consensus—" Fair picture, fair puller."

MARY REGAN (FIRST NATIONAL) ANITA STEWART (MAY 18) .... MAY 17
" Third Anita Stewart picture should prove another success."—M. P. News."

MASTER MAN, THE (PATHE) FRANK KEENAN (MAY 25) .. MAY 17
" Star in a forceful play of love and politics."—M. P. News.

MAYOR OF FILBERT, THE (TRIANGLE) JACK RICHARDSON (MAY 25) .... (Seven Parts) .... MAY 24
" Plea for prohibition offered in fast and furious melodrama."—M. P. News.

MINTS OF HELL, THE (HAMPTON-ROBERTSON-COLE) WILLIAM DESMOND (MAY 5) .... MAY 31
" Star is splendid in vivid picture of the Yukon."—M. P. News.

MISS ADVENTURE (FOX) PEGGY HYLAND (MAY 4) ..... MAY 10
" Highly adventurous tale of the sea and fisher folk."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Big business on double bill."

MISS DULCIE FROM DIXIE (VITAGRAPH) GLADYS LESLIE (MAR. 24) .... MAR. 22
" Reviewer pronounces this one a peach."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Pleasing star and story to average business."

MODERN HUSBAND'S (ROBERTSON-COLE) HENRY B. WALTHALL (APRIL 28) .... JUNE 7
" Star in plausible story of busy husband and neglected wife."—M.P.News.

MONEY CORRAL, THE (ARTCRAFT) WM. S. HART (APR. 20) .... MAY 3
" Wm. S. Hart in moving story with Eastern setting."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"A good Hart picture. They are waiting for a real whole-length Western picture. Photography and acting good. Hart surely does play up the hero stuff in this one. Big and average business."

NEW MOON, THE (SELECT) NORMA TALMADGE (MAY 11) .... MAY 24
" Russian Soviet meet a courageous enemy in star."—M. P. News.

OH YOU WOMEN (PARAMOUNT) EMERSON-LOOS (MAY 4) .... MAY 24
" An artistic production as well as entertainment."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Took off. Had booked for four days but too many kicks. Poor business."

ONE WEEK OF LIFE (GOLDWYN) PAULINE FREDERICK (APR. 13) .... MAY 31
" Star in a tyical Cosmo Hamilton story."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Big business for two days. Gave excellent satisfaction." " Fans do not like dual roles. Poor business." " Did not draw here. Average picture. Pleased her fants. Good average business." " They liked and came to see it."
Consensus—" Good picture, average puller."

PARISIAN TIGRESS, THE (METRO) VIOLA DANA (MAR. 31) .... APR. 12
" Viola Dana's personality wins again."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Very good. Dana better all the time. Big business." " Viola Dana always pleases."
Consensus—" Fine picture, big puller."

PARTNERS THREE (PARAMOUNT) ENID BENNETT (MAR. 23)....
Exhibitor Comment—" Very good. Big business two days." " Fine picture to average business." " Good interesting picture to big business."
Consensus—" Good picture, good puller."

PEPPY POLLY (PARAMOUNT, DOROTHY GISH (MAR. 30). APR. 19
" Tears and laughs and under it all, good propaganda."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" They like Gish here but didn't like the story. It is all right to reform reform schools but not as entertainment in pictures." " Opened big and then average business."
Consensus—" Good picture, average puller."

PEST, THE (GOLDWYN) MABEL NORMAND (APR. 20) ...... MAY 3
" The eccentric Mabel of olden days in a good comedy."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Typical Mabel Normand type of picture. Not overstrong as to plot. Pleased. Good story would help a lot. Average business." " One of Normand's best. Pleased. Good business for hot weather."
Consensus—" Pleasing picture, good puller."

PETTIGREW'S GIRL (PARAMOUNT) ETHEL CLAYTON (MAR. 23) .... APR. 19
" Heart interest is exceptional; war romance."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Very good picture and one of many with war background to get away to even average business." " A crackerjack pleasing play." " Average business three days."
Consensus—" Fine picture, big puller."

PHIL FOR SHORT (WORLD) EVELYN GREELEY (JUNE 2) JUNE 7
" Star in her first starring vehicle."—M. P. News.

PITFALLS OF A BIG CITY (FOX) GLADYS BROCKWELL (APR. 13) .... APR. 19
" If you're looking for big melodrama, here it is."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Extra big business with this and other feature. People like William Scott, the leading man for Brockwell." " Some 'meller.' First day poor business, second day average and third day big business." " Splendid picture that holds all through. Well received and spoken of for days after. Big and average business."
Consensus—" Splendid picture, big puller."

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

PLACE IN THE SUN, A (TRIANGLE) MARGARET BLANCHE (MAY 4) .... MAY 10
" Cyril Harcourt's comedy drama screened as a melodrama."—M. P. News.

PLAYTHINGS OF PASSION (UNITED) GORDON (JUNE 8) JUNE 7
" Star is in a rather artificial society picture."—M. P. News.

PRETTY SMOOTH (UNIV.) PRISCILLA DEAN (JUNE 2) JUNE 7
" Bayard Veiller writes another crook story for Miss Dean."—M.P.News.

PRICE OF INNOCENCE, THE (BUFFALO M. P. CORP.) STELLA K. TALBOT (MAY 11) .... MAY 3
" Story of a woman's supreme sacrifice. Artificial but picturesque.—M. P. News.

PROBATION WIFE, THE (SELECT) NORMA TALMADGE (MAR. 24) .... MAR. 22
" Norma Talmadge delightful as the probation wife."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Always good. Average business." " Not so tragic as some of Norma's most recent productions. Some delightful comedy makes this a most enjoyable offering. Great cast. Big business."
Consensus—" Fine picture, big puller."

QUICKENING FLAME, THE (WORLD) MONTAGU LOVE (APR. 21) .... APR. 26
" Vivid story of marital unhappiness in melodrama."—M. P. News.

REBELLIOUS BRIDE, THE (FOX) PEGGY HYLAND (MAR. 23) .... MAR. 29
" Star gives best performance in fairly amusing picture."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Extra big business."

REDHEAD (SELECT) ALICE BRADY (APR. 27) .... MAY 31
" Star appears in a thoroughly human picture."—M. P. News.

RED LANTERN, THE (METRO) (SEVEN PARTS) NAZIMOVA (MAY 4) .... (Seven Parts) .... MAY 10
" Star superb in impressive and spectacular play of the far east."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Broke record at advanced prices all week. Opposition was Norma Talmadge, Constance Talmadge, Marguerite Clark, at all first-run down-town houses. Crowds waiting at 9:15 a. m. to get in show starting at 9:30. Rain several times during week but crowds held up. All attendance records broken for seven straight days. Regular stampede.

REGULAR FELLOW, A (TRIANGLE) TAYLOR HOLMES (APR. 13) .... APR. 19
" Clean and delightful comedy; thrills toward the end."—M. P. News.

RESCUING ANGEL, THE (PARAMOUNT) SHIRLEY MASON (APR. 6.) .... MAY
" Light and airy; should capture any audience."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Average business." " Fair only to average business."
Consensus—" Fair picture, average puller."

RIDERS OF VENGEANCE (UNIVERSAL) HARRY CAREY (JUNE 9) .... MAY 31
" Star in a fine 'Good-Bad' man Western."—M. P. News.

ROAD CALLED STRAIGHT, THE (BETZWOOD-GOLDWYN) LOUIS BENNISON (APR. 20) .... MAY 10
" Bennison's tricks and personality show to good advantage."—M. P. News.

ROARING ROAD, THE (PARAMOUNT) WALLACE REID (APR. 27) .... APR. 26
" Fast and exciting picture with hair-raising climax."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Had special page in newspaper paid for by Hudson Auto concern. Extra big and bigger than average business."

ROGUE'S ROMANCE, A (VITAGRAPH) EARLE WILLIAMS (JUNE 9) .... MAY 31
" This Earle William's picture below his regular average."—M. P. News.

RUSTLING A BRIDE (PARAMOUNT) LILA LEE (APR. 27) .. MAY 24
" Star has a suitable subject in Western photoplay."—M. P. News.

SAWDUST DOLL, THE (PATHE) BABY MARY OSBORNE (APR. 20) .... APR. 5
" One of best Marie Osborne pictures; heart appeal."—M. P. News.

SHERIFF'S SON, THE (PARAMOUNT) CHARLES RAY (MAR. 30) .... APR. 12
" Best picture of type in which Ray appears."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Drew big on double bill and they liked it."

SILK LINED BURGLAR, THE (UNIVERSAL) PRISCILLA DEAN (MAR. 31) .... (Six Parts) .... APR. 5
" Entertaining version of 'Boston Blackie' story."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Picture only fair. Big business."

SILVER GIRL, THE (PATHE) FRANK KEENAN (APR. 6) .. MAR. 22
" Frank Keenan in a dominating characterization."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Average business."

SIREN'S SONG, THE (FOX) THEDA BARA (MAY 4) .... MAY 17
" Star in story of love and intolerance; fairly convincing."—M. P. News.

SOME LIAR (AMERICAN) WILLIAM RUSSELL (MAY 19) .. MAY 17
" Star breezes through in extravagant farce comedy."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" The best yet. Big business."

SOMETHING TO DO (PARAMOUNT) BRYANT WASHBURN (APR. 13) .... MAY 10
" Entertaining comedy drama starring Bryant Washburn."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Dandy picture to extra big business." " Not up to Washburn standard. Average business."
Consensus—" Good picture, good puller."

SPEEDY MEADE (GOLDWYN) LOUIS BENNISON (MAR. 23) .... APR. 19
" Story of pleasing sort; player's personality helps."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Star not known here but coming fast. Splendid new type of Western picture. Opened average business first day and last day to big business." " Our patrons are not so strong for Westerns but they like Bennison. Average business." " They like Bennison here. Business gets bigger with each feature released and played with this star. Extra big business."
Consensus—" Excellent picture, big puller."

Index and Reports Concluded and "Flashbacks"

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

SPOTLIGHT SADIE (GOLDWYN) MAE MARSH (APR. 6)..MAY 3
"Star shines in role of a pious chorus girl."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Average business two days." "As good as the usual Mae Marsh picture. Average business." "Just fair only. Poor business." "Big business two days."
Consensus—"Pleasing picture, average puller."

STITCH IN TIME, A (VITAGRAPH) GLADYS LESLIE (MAY 5) ....MAY 3
"Star simulates gladness in an appealing story."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"A very nice little story to average business."

STRONGER VOW, THE (GOLDWYN) GERALDINE FARRAR (APR. 27) ....MAY 10
"Star in picture with Spanish background."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Big business on double bill." "Good picture. Big business."
Consensus—"Fine picture, big puller."

TAXI (TRIANGLE) TAYLOR HOLMES (MAY 11).........MAY 17
"Starts slowly but gathers speed towards the middle."—M. P. News.

TEST OF HONOR, THE (PARAMOUNT) JOHN BARRYMORE (APR. 6)..APR. 19
"John Barrymore—enough said, even in dramatic role."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Fine picture to poor business." "Good picture, good business."
Consensus—"Good picture, average fuller."

THAT'S GOOD (METRO) HALE HAMILTON (MAR. 24)......APR. 5
"This comedy drama a trifle slow, but mildly amusing."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Just fair. Average business." "That's good to average business." "Not as good as his other pictures. Didn't draw."
Consensus—"Good picture, average puller."

THIN ICE (VITAGRAPH) CORINNE GRIFFITH (MAY 26)..MAY 24
"Star in splendid sustaining melodrams."—M. P. News.

THIRD DEGREE, THE (VITAGRAPH) ALICE JOYCE (MAY 19) ....(Seven Parts)..................MAY 17
"Star in a fine screen version of stage success."—M. P. News.

THOU SHALT NOT (FOX) EVELYN NESBIT (MAR. 23)....APR. 5
(Six Parts)
"Should satisfy fans who patronize this type."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"The best picture Nesbit has made. Good business puller." "Nesbit is a goner." "Her best picture, but failed to get normal trade." "Average business." "Average business two days in downtown house."
Consensus—"Good picture, good puller."

THREE GREEN EYES (WORLD) CARLYLE BLACKWELL (APR. 28) .... APR. 26
"All-star cast in best World release in six months."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"All star. Blackwell, Eldridge and Greeley, a very pleasing picture. Excellent. The best the World has done for many months. Extra big to big and average business third day."

THUNDERBOLTS OF FATE (EDWARD WARREN-HODKINSON) HOUSE PETERS (APR. 6)..............................APR. 19
"Strong melodrama with political setting."—M. P. News.

TOTON (TRIANGLE) OLIVE THOMAS (MAR. 30)..........MAR. 29
"Looks like star's best bet on Triangle program."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Average business." "Has fair comedy appeal. Star's work good. Average business."
Consensus—"Satisfactory picture, average puller."

TURN IN THE ROAD, THE (ROBERTSON-COLE) SPECIAL CAST (MAR. 24)..MAR. 29
"This one should make patrons happy; will cause talk'.'—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Exceptionally good. Well produced. Patrons well pleased. Opened average business and following three days showed big business." "Well liked. Big business."
Consensus—"Excellent production, strong puller."

UNKNOWN LOVE, THE (PATHE) DOLORES CASSINELLI (APR. 27)................(Six Parts)......................APR. 19
"War and Love twined in Perret's production."—M. P. News.

UNKNOWN QUANTITY, THE (VITAGRAPH) CORINNE GRIFFITH (APR. 14) ....APR. 12
"Exceedingly pleasant O. Henry story with Corinne Griffith."—M. P. News.

UNPAINTED WOMAN, THE (UNIVERSAL) MARY MAC LAREN (MAY 11) ....(Six Parts)..................MAY 17
"Faithful study of rural life that is rich in characterization."—M. P. News."

UNPARDONABLE SIN, THE (GARSON-NEILAN) BLANCHE SWEET (APR. 6)...........(Eight Parts)................MAY 17
"Particularly fine combination of talent produces wonderful results."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"A splendid picture. Miss Sweet at her best. Perfectly directed, good photography, action intense, and a picture that every 'Honest to God' American should see. Extra big business seven days."

UNWRITTEN CODE, THE (WORLD) SHIRLEY MASON (MAY 19) ....MAY 17
"In which Kidu-San and Dick Tower meet, marry and part."—M. P. News.

USURPER, THE (VITAGRAPH) EARLE WILLIAMS (APR. 28) .... APR. 26
"Earle Williams in adaptation of Nat Goodwin's play."—M. P. News.

VIRTUOUS SINNERS (PIONEER) NORMAN KERRY-WANDE HAWLEY (MAY 25) ....MAY 24
"Story of the slums marred by poor photography."—M. P. News.

VEILED ADVENTURE, THE (SELECT) CONSTANCE TALMADGE (MAY 11) ....MAY 24
"A reasonably good comedy with Constance Talmadge."—M. P. News.

WHAT AM I BID? (UNIVERSAL) MAE MURRAY (APR. 14)..APR. 5
(Six Parts)
"Holds interest all the way; discriminating fans may find fault."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Murray well liked. Picture plot impossible. Settings excellent. Average business." "Pleased all. Big business."
Consensus—"Good picture, good puller."

WHEN A GIRL LOVES (JEWEL) MILDRED HARRIS (APR. 7) ....(Six Parts)......................MAR. 29
"Immense both from the box-office and the screen."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"A Western play with Wm. Stowell taking a more leading part than the star. Well received and showed good direction." "Does not draw any more. Picture not liked. No story." "A very ordinary picture. Opened extra big and dropped to poor business."
Consensus—"Fair picture, average puller."

WHEN FATE DECIDES (FOX) M. TRAVERSE (JUNE 1)....JUNE 7
"Butterfly husband has innings again in domestic melodrama."—M. P. News.

WHEN MY SHIP COMES IN (INDEPENDENT SALES) JANE GREY (APR. 7)..APR. 5
"A melodrama of the stage with Jane Grey featured.'—M. P. News.

WHITE HEATHER, THE (MAURICE TOURNEUR) SPECIAL CAST (MAY 18)..MAY 17
"Another artistic and unusual melodrama from Tourneur."—M. P. News.

WHITEWASHED WALLS (ROBERTSON-COLE) WILLIAM DESMOND (APR. 14) ....APR. 12
"Of the light, pleasant variety; should please all."—M. P. News.

WOMAN NEXT DOOR, THE (PARAMOUNT) ETHEL CLAYTON (May 4) ....MAY 31
"Star has an excellent number in this picture."—M. P. News.

WORDS AND MUSIC BY (FOX) ALBERT RAY (MAY 18)...MAY 31
"Good representation of small town ambition and talent."—M. P. News.

YANKEE PRINCESS, A (VITAGRAPH) BESSIE LOVE (APR. 21)..APR. 19
"Bessie Love in Irish play of simple charm."—M. P. News.

"FLASHBACKS" ON EARLIER RELEASES

"Never Say Quit" (Fox)—"Average business."

"Girl of My Dreams" (Robertson-Cole)—"Very good. Pleased all. Business poor, no fault of picture."

"The Burden of Proof" (Select)—"Very good scenes and settings but Marion Davies is certainly not an actress. Poor business."

"The Light of Victory" (Universal)—"Good picture to average business."

"The Wicked Darling" (Universal)—"A good picture but somehow or other Miss Dean does not draw here."

"A Man and His Money" (Goldwyn)—"Not a good picture and did not draw. Will have to make more pictures like 'Thirty a Week.'"

"Out of the Fog" (Nazimova-Metro)—"Fine picture and good draw."

"The Road Through the Dark" (Select)—"Clara Kimball Young draws well in my house but the picture was not what patrons wanted to see her in. Average business."

"Danger—Go Slow" (Universal)—"A comedy strain that puts it over with most patrons."

"The Still Alarm" (State Rights)—"Melodrama that goes over with a rough crowd, but not with so-called better patronage. Big business three days."

"Silent Strength" (Vitagraph)—"Average business."

"Her Great Chance" (Select)—"Average business two days."

"Shadows" (Goldwyn)—"Average business."

"The Lion and the Mouse" (Vitagraph)—"Average business two days."

"Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots" (Select)—"Average business."

"Day Dreams" (Goldwyn)—"Average business one day."

"Her Code of Honor" (United)—"Big business."

"Code of the Yukon" (Select)—"Average business two days."

"The Man Who Wouldn't Tell" (Vitagraph)—"Average business."

"Social Ambition" (Goldwyn)—"Average business."

"Put Up Your Hands" (American)—"Average business for one day."

"The Girl Problem" (Vitagraph)—"Average business for two days."

"The Road Through the Dark" (Select)—"Average business two days."

"The Light" (Fox)—"Bara does good work in this one and should please. Hot weather has hurt business, also change of time has raised 'H' with the show business. Should try and repeal this law."

"The Forbidden City" (Select)—"Some picture. Go the limit on it. Extra big business."

"What Every Woman Wants" (Robertson-Cole)—"Fair picture to big and average business."

"From Headquarters" (Vitagraph)—"Fair picture to big business."

"Mother I Need You" (State Right)—"Problem play well handled. Average business."

"Heart of Wetona" (Select)—"Second run. Good picture and story but very poor work of director in not portraying Talmadge as an Indian. He didn't even darken her skin. The only weak point in picture. Average business."

"Sauce For The Goose" (Select)—"Second run. Poor business."

The Box Office Reports Have A Value That Stands Alone

New Theatres Building Throughout Country

ARIZONA

Phoenix—Rickards and Nace announce that a new thoroughly up to date and modern picture theatre will be built on Washington street, with a possible seating capacity of 2,000.

ARKANSAS

Russellville—According to announcement by J. G. McFadden a new airdrome will be erected on the corner of Jefferson and McDavid streets. Construction will begin at once.

CALIFORNIA

Richmond—General Manager E. R. Johnson of the Turner and Dahnken Circuit announces plans nearly completed for the erection of a $175,000 theatre here.

Stockton—Two local Japanese business men announce the erection of a new motion picture theatre at cost of $10,000 with a seating capacity of 600.

Whittier—Work on the construction of a new picture house is expected to begin this month. It will cost about $65,000 and seat about 1,400. It will be erected by Messrs. Siler, Gwin and Berry, owners of the Gale theatre.

Long Beach—It is announced that Sid Grauman, Los Angeles theatre owner, will shortly erect a theatre which will cost about $250,000. Its seating capacity will be 2,500.

Bakersfield—A new theatre will be built on the site of the old Scribner Opera House, with a seating capacity of 1,250. The Grogg Amusement Company has taken a ten-year lease on the property.

Santa Cruz—Mrs. Minnie Hihn and her son Fred Hihn are to build a new theatre at the corner of Pacific and Walnut avenue.

Merced—C. H. Douglass is to erect a new theatre on the corner of Seventeenth and N streets. It will seat 1,200. Work will start within thirty days.

Los Angeles—Final announcement of the location of a new theatre is expected within a few days. It is to be built by Sid Grauman.

Pasadena—Sid Grauman is said to have secured a fine site in Pasadena where work will begin on the new $250,000 house within thirty days.

CONNECTICUT

Waterbury—S. Z. Poli will erect a new theatre on Main and Brooks streets this summer. The plans call for a seating capacity of 3,000.

Hartford—The new Capitol theatre will be erected on the site of the old Poli theatre. Work is said to be progressing very rapidly.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Washington—It is announced that the Moore Theatre Corporation has secured the former playgrounds property at Fourteenth street and Park Road northwest and will start work immediately upon a new theatre.

ILLINOIS

Englewood—Excavation has begun for the new theatre building on Sixty-third street and Union avenue.

Taylorville—Peter Eric and Peter Perino announce that their new Airdrome for motion pictures is almost completed and practically ready for the grand opening at Bulpitt.

Chicago—Balaban and Katz, owners of two of the largest theatres in this city, announce that they will erect a building for a theatre at Cottage Grove and Sixty-third street to seat 4,500. The cost of theatre and business building is expected to be about one million dollars.

INDIANA

Odon—Local business men have subscribed for the erection of a motion picture show here.

Indianapolis—David A. Coulter, of the Ohio Building Company, announces that the site secured for his proposed new theatre in which Frank Rembusch is interested, is located at 42 and 44 West Ohio street. The incorporation is for $100,000. The seating capacity to be provided will take care of 1,300 persons it is reported.

Gary—A motion picture theatre will be erected here on the east side of Broadway just north of Twenty-second avenue. The building will cost $25,000.

MISSOURI

St. Louis—A new photoplay theatre is assured at Grand and Florissant avenues by the purchase yesterday of the site of the incomplete theatre at that corner. The Maxwellton Amusement Company secured the property from the Water Tower Realty and Amusement Company.

MASSACHUSETTS

Holyoke—Prominent business men will begin shortly the construction of a new $200,000 playhouse. The new theatre will have a seating capacity of 3,000.

Springfield—Charles W. Rackliffe and George E. Hammond have bought the property at the corner of Appleton and Chestnut streets and plan to erect a new theatre to cost about $200,000.

Roxbury—A new theatre to cost $150,000, which will seat 1,500, will be erected on Humbolt avenue near Waumbeck street, by the Star Photo Company of Boston.

North Adams—Sheesley and Riley are said to be planning the erection of a new theatre.

MONTANA

Plentywood—Amongst the improvements being made at the Bush Lake summer resort is a new moving picture house.

Scobey—A new theatre will be built on the site of the old postoffice formerly owned by the Scobey Drug Company.

Browning—S. E. Tweedy has begun the structure of a modern moving picture theatre. It will be known as the "Alcazar."

NEW YORK

Flatbush—The new Albemarle theatre will be erected at the corner of Flatbush avenue and Albemarle Road by the Albemarle Theatre, Inc. The firm is incorporated for $400,000.

Binghamton—Ground for the new Strand theatre in Chenango street was broken recently according to announcement made by Manager David Cohen of the Symphony Theatre Company. It will seat 2,000 and will cost about $250,000.

Sharon Springs—A new theatre is now in operation with a seating capacity of 800.

Albany—Plans have been approved by the superintendent of buildings for the erection of a one-story brick moving picture theatre on South Pearl street. It is estimated that the theatre will cost $40,000.

OHIO

Dayton—Plans for the new Victoria theatre are said to be on file at the office of the Builders' Exchange. Contracts for the construction of the theatre may be awarded shortly.

Plans have also been filed with the Builders' Exchange for another new moving picture theatre on Valley street, it is said. The theatre will be built by the Polish White Eagle Building Company.

PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia—Plans are being made for the erection of a new theatre with a seating capacity of 3,000. Fifty-second and Chestnut streets is the location.

SOUTH CAROLINA

Charleston—Announcement is made by Albert Sottile, president of the Pastime Amusement Company, that a new theatre will be erected with a seating capacity of 3,554. It will cost, it is said, about $250,000.

VIRGINIA

Newport News—A contract has been awarded R. V. Richardson for the construction of the new Lyric theatre for colored people which will be erected in West Queen street. It will cost about $50,000.

Advance Information on All Film Releases

All forthcoming film, also current and earlier releases, made by both the independent and the regular producers, in short subjects as well as features, are arranged alphabetically with all the later releases at the top of each respective list instead of at the bottom.

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC.

(See Pathe Exchanges)

BEAR STATE FILM COMPANY

(At State Right Exchanges)

The Vigilantes

CHRISTIE FILM COMPANY COMEDIES

(At State Right Exchange)

CHRISTIE TWO REELERS

May 12—Rowdy Ann	2
April 28—Sally's Blighted Career	2

SINGLE REEL COMEDIES

June 30—Anybody's Widow	1
June 23—Oh! My Dear	1
June 16—A Full House	1
June 9—Can Wives be Trusted	1
June 2—Tell Your Wife Everything	1
May 26—Kiss the Bride	1
May 19—Oh Susie, Be Careful	1
May 12—A Rustic Romeo	1
May 5—Too Many Wives	1
Apr. 28—Sea Sirens	1
Apr. 21—Stop-Look-Listen	1
Apr. 14—Lost—A Bridegroom	1
Apr. 7—Apartment 23	1
Mar. 31—Marrying Molly	1
Mar. 24—Brides for Two	1

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORP. OF AMERICA

(Through State Right and Educational Exchanges)

Photoplay Magazine Screen Supplement Released Once Every Month Showing Leading Stars at work and play	1
Mar. 24—The Passing of the Crow	1
Mar. 17—The Eagle and the Fawn	1
Mar. 3—The Washington Air Patrol	1
Feb. 24—What Is a Mexican?	1
Feb. 17—A Day with Carranza	1

BLACK AND WHITE COMEDIES (International)

May 5—Rubbing It In	1
Apr. 28—Knocking the H— Out of Heinie	1
Apr. 21—A Sweet Pickle	1
Apr. 14—Twinkle, Twinkle	1
Apr. 7—It Beats the Dutch	1
Mar. 31—Where Are the Papers?	1
Mar. 24—Snappy Cheese	1

BRUCE SCENICS

18—Scenic Succotash	1
17—The Lonesome Pup	1
16—Frozen Thrills	1
15—Men Met in the Mountains	1
14—Nature—Hot and Cold	1
13—Horizon Hunters	1
12—Sundown	1
11—The Pale Pack Train	1
10—The Tides of Yesterday	1

EXHIBITORS MUTUAL EXCHANGES

(Robertson-Cole Productions)

June —Bare Fisted Gallagher (William Desmond)	5
June —Broken Threads (Bessie Barriscale)	5
June —The Man Who Turned White (H. B. Warner)	5
June —In Search of Arcady (Billie Rhodes)	5
May —His Debt (Sessue Hayakawa)	5
May —Just Squaw (Beatriz Michelena)	5
May —The Mint of Hell (William Desmond)	5
May —Josselyn's Wife (Bessie Barriscale)	5
Apr. —Modern Husbands (Henry B. Walthall)	5
Apr. —The Love Call (Billie Rhodes)	5
Apr. —The Courageous Coward (Sessue Hayakawa)	5
Apr. —Diane of the Green Van (Alma Rubens)	5
Mar. —Hearts Asleep (Bessie Barriscale)	5
Mar. —The Turn in the Road (Special Cast)	5
Mar. —A Heart in Pawn (Sessue Hayakawa)	5
Mar. —The Lamb and the Lion (Billie Rhodes)	5

STRAND COMEDIES

June 1—Hearts and Hats (Elinor Field)	1
May 25—For Love of Betty (Elinor Field)	1
May 18—Three in a Row (Elinor Field)	1
May 11—Nobody's Baby (Elinor Field)	1
May 4—His Scarlet Past (Elinor Field)	1
Mar. 23—The Way of a Maid	1
Mar. 16—His Wife's Birthday	1
Mar. 9—The Door Between	1
Mar. 2—The Wig-Wag System (Elinor Field)	1

ROTHACKER OUTDOORS

Apr. 6—A Palestine Pilgrimage	1
Mar. 30—Glimpsing the Gondolas	1
Mar. 23—'Mid Sahara's Sands	1
Mar. 16—In Pyramid Land	1
Mar. 9—An Eyeful of Egypt	1
Mar. 2—Columbia Highway	1
Feb. 23—A Peek at Paradise	1
Feb. 16—Out Wyoming Way	1
Feb. 9—A Bit of God's Country	1
Feb. 2—Doing the Dells	1

FAMOUS PLAYERS—LASKY EXCHANGES

ARTCRAFT

June 22—The Avalanche (Elsie Ferguson)	5
June 15—Square Deal Sanderson (Wm. S. Hart)	5
June 1—The Splendid Romance (Enrico Caruso)	5
June 1—True Heart Susie (D. W. Griffith's)	5

PARAMOUNT

June 29—The Rose of Granada (Lina Cavalieri)	5
June 29—Girls (Marguerite Clark)	5
June 22—A Daughter of the Wolf (Lila Lee)	5
June 22—Hay Foot Straw Foot (Charles Ray)	5
June 15—Other Men's Wives (Dorothy Dalton)	5
June 8—An Innocent Adventuress (Vivian Martin)	5
June 8—Men, Women and Money (Ethel Clayton)	5
June 8—You're Fired (Wallace Reid)	5
June 1—Putting It Over (Bryant Washburn)	5

PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT SPECIALS

June 29—The White Heather (Maurice Tourneur's)	5
June 15—Secret Service (Robert Warwick)	5

SUCCESS SERIES (Re-Issues)

June 29—Warrens of Virginia (Special Cast)	5
June 22—Redemption of David Carson (Wm. Farnum)	5
June 15—Behind the Scenes (Mary Pickford)	5
June 8—Still Waters (Marguerite Clark)	5
June 1—Great Expectations (Louise Huff-Jack Picktord)	5

TWO REEL COMEDIES

June 29—The "Con" in Economy (Jas. Mont. Flagg)	2
June 22—Hearts and Flowers (Mack Sennett's)	2
June 15—A Desert Hero ("Fatty" Arbuckle)	2
June 8—No Mother To Guide Him (Mack Sennett's)	2
June 1—Squared (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew)	2

SINGLE REELS

June 29—Plant Growth (Bray Pictograph)	1
June 29—Chateau Thierry and Beyond (Burton Holmes)	1
June 22—Mysteries of Snow (Bray Pictograph)	1
June 22—Frocks and Frills of the Filipinos (Burton Holmes)	1
June 15—Beans (Bray Pictographs)	1
June 15—From the Timber of the Piave (Burton Holmes)	1
June 8—Bird of Commerce (Bray Pictograph)	1
June 8—The Silken Cities of Suwa-ko (Burton Holmes)	1
June 1—American in the Making (Bray Pictographs)	1
June 1—With Uncle Sam's Sumbarine Chasers (Burton Holmes)	1

FILM CLEARING HOUSE EXCHANGES

INDEPENDENT SALES CORPORATION

Mar. —The Littlest Scout (Blackton Production)	5
Dec. —Wanted for Murder (Elaine Hammerstein)	6
Dec. —A Romance in the Air (Bert Hall-Edith Day)	6

TEN-TWENTY-THIRTY SERIES

Apr. —When a Woman Strikes (Ben Wilson-Rosemary Theby)	5
Apr. —When My Ship Comes In (aJne Grey)	5
Mar. —Suspense (Mollie King)	5
Dec. —Her Mistake (Julius Steger Production)	5
Dec. —Life's Greatest Problem (Blackton Production)	6
Dec. —A Woman's Experience (Bacon-Backer Production)	6

SHERRY SERVICE, WILLIAM L.

Mar. 9—Marriage for Convenience (Catherine Calvert)	6
Mar. 2—Love and the Law (Edgar Lewis Production)	6
Feb. 23—Twilight (Doris Kenyon)	6
Feb. 16—Calibre 38 (Edgar Lewis Production)	6
Feb. 2—The Son of a Gun (G. M. Anderson)	5
Jan. 5—Wild Honey (Doris Kenyon)	6

BURLINGHAM TRAVEL PICTURES (Sherry Service)

The Gornergrat Railway	1
Lovely Lucerne	1
The Riviera of Lake Leman	1
Scrambles in the High Alps	1
Allied War Heroes Arrive in Switzerland	1
The Pilatus Railway	1
Unknown Switzerland (The Lotschenthal)	1
Facing Death on the Blumlisalp	1

FIRST NATIONAL EXCHANGES

Mar. 10—A Midnight Romance (Anita Stewart)	5
Feb. 3—Our Teddy (Roosevelt Pictures)	5
Jan. 5—Virtuous Wives (Anita Stewart)	5
The Romance of Tarzan (Elmo Lincoln)
Shoulder Arms (Charlie Chaplin)	3
Italy's Flaming Front (Italian Official War Pictures)
Pershing's Crusaders (Official Government Feature)
My Four Years in Germany (Ambassador Gerard's)

Advance Information on All Film Releases

(Continued from preceding page)

FLORIDA FILM CORPORATION

(At State Right Exchanges)

June —Hot Sands and Cold Feet	2
June —His Muzzled Career	2
May —With the Moonshine on the Wabash	2
May —His Concrete Dome	2
Apr. —Fred's Fictitious Foundling	2
Apr. —Fabulous Fortune Fumblers	2

FOX FILM EXCHANGES

STANDARD PICTURES

June 29—The Lone Star Ranger (William Farnum)	5
June 15—My Little Sister (Evelyn Nesbit)	5
June 1—A Woman There Was (Theda Bara)	5
May 18—A Fallen Idol (Evelyn Nesbit)	5
May 4—The Siren's Song (Theda Bara)	5
Apr. 20—The Jungle Trail (William Farnum)	5
Mar. 23—Thou Shalt Not (Evelyn Nesbit)	5
Mar. 9—When Men Desire (Theda Bara)	5

VICTORY PICTURES

Aug. 3—The Seventh Person (George Walsh)	5
July 20—The Sneak (Gladys Brockwell)	5
July 6—The Wilderness Trail (Tom Mix)	5
June 22—Putting One Over (George Walsh)	5
May 25—The Divorce Trap (Gladys Brockwell)	5
May 11—The Coming of the Law (Tom Mix)	5
Apr. 27—Help! Help! Police! (George Walsh)	5
Apr. 13—Pitfalls of a Big City (Gladys Brockwell)	5
Mar. 30—Fighting for Gold (Tom Mix)	5
Mch. 16—Never Say Quit (George Walsh)	5
Mch. 2—The Forbidden Room (Gladys Brockwell)	5

EXCEL PICTURES

June 29—Be a Little Sport (Albert Ray)	5
June 15—Cowardice Court (Peggy Hyland)	5
June 6—When Fate Decides (Madlaine Traverse)	5
May 18—Words and Music By—(Albert Ray)	5
May 4—Miss Adventure (Peggy Hyland)	5
Apr. 20—The Love that Dares (Madlaine Traverse)	5
Apr. 6—Married in Haste (Albert Ray)	5
Mar. 23—The Rebellious Bride (Peggy Hyland)	5
Mar. 9—Gambling in Souls (Madlaine Traverse)	5

PRODUCTIONS EXTRAORDINARY

Salome (Theda Bara)	8
Cleopatra (Theda Bara)	8
Les Miserables (William Farnum)	8

SUNSHINE AND TOM MIX COMEDIES

July 6—The Merry Jailbirds	2
June 15—Dabbling in Society	2
May 25—Virtuous Husbands	2
May 11—A Soft Tenderfoot (Tom Mix)	2
Apr. 20—The House of Terrible Scandals	2
Apr. 6—Tom and Jerry Mix	2
Mch. 23—Money Talks	2
Mch. 9—Six-Cylinder Love (Tom Mix)	2

MUTT AND JEFF CARTOONS

July 13—Down Stairs and Up	½
July 6—Look Pleasant, Please	½
June 29—A Prize Fight	½
June 22—Pets and Pests	½
June 15—Sweet Papa	½
June 8—Hands Up	½
June 1—Oh Teacher	½
May 25—The Shell Game	½
May 18—Left at the Post	½
May 11—Sir Sidney	½
May 4—The Cave Man's Bride	½
Apr. 27—Seeing Things	½
Apr. 20—Pigtails and Peaches	½

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

(At State Right Exchanges)

Once to Every Man (Jack Sherrill)
My Own United States (Special Cast)	Through Metro
God's Man (H. B. Warner)	9

GARSON-NEILAN PRODUCTIONS

(Producing for Open Market)

The Unpardonable Sin (Blanche Sweet)	9
The Hushed Hour (Blanche Sweet)

GAUMONT COMPANY

(At State Right Exchanges)

Tuesdays—Gaumont News	1
Fridays—Gaumont Graphic	1
The Real Roosevelt	2
Satan on Earth	2
The Hand of Vengeance (Serial of ten two-reel episodes)	2

GOLDWYN EXCHANGES

STAR SERIES

June 22—The City of Comrades (Tom Moore)	5
June 8—The Fear Woman (Pauline Frederick)	5
May 25—When Doctors Disagree (Mabel Normand)	5
May 18—The Crimson Gardenia (Rex Beach's)	6
May 11—Leave It to Suson (Madge Kennedy)	5
May 4—One of the Finest (Tom Moore)	5
Apr. 27—The Stronger Vow (Geraldine Farrar)	6
Apr. 20—The Pest (Mabel Normand)	5
Apr. 13—One Week of Life (Pauline Frederick)	5
Apr. 6—Spotlight Sadie (Mae Marsh)	5

BENNISON SERIES

May 11—The Road Called Straight (Louis Bennison)	5
Mar. 23—Speedy Meade (Louis Bennison)	5
Jan. 5—Oh, Johnny (Louis Bennison)	5

SPECIALS

The Eternal Magdalene	6
The Border Legion (Blanche Bates-Hobart Bosworth)	6
For the Freedom of the World	7
The Manx-Man	7
Social Ambition	7
Honor's Cross	7

CAPITOL COMEDIES

June 15—A Wonderful Night ("Smiling Bill" Parsons)	2
June 1—In a Pinch (Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven)	2
May 18—Circumstantial Evidence ("Smiling Bill" Parsons)	2
May 4—The Sea Wolf ("Smiling Bill" Parsons)	2
Apr. 20—Wanted—A Baby ("Smiling Bill" Parsons)	2

FORD EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY

June 8—The Only Way	1
June 1—The Land of the Ukulele	1
May 25—From Mud Dog	1
May 18—A Wild Goose Chase	1
May 11—Can the Poor Fish	1
May 4—Going Up	1
Apr. 27—A Visit to New Orleans	1
Apr. 20—Good Roads	1
Apr. 13—Northern Sports Under Southern Skies	1

HILLER AND WILK, INC.

(Pictures Handled in the Open Market)'

The Silent Mystery (Francis Ford Serial)

Twenty-eight Triangle re-issues starring William S. Hart, Norma Talmadge, Douglas Fairbanks and Frank Keenan to state right buyers.

The Wrath of the Gods
The Battle of Gettysburg
Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman

MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS

Sporting Life (Paramount-Artcraft Special)
Woman
The White Heather
My Lady's Garter
Broken Butterfly
Romany Rye

HODKINSON CORPORATION, W. W.

(See Pathe Exchanges)

May 4—The Best Man (J. Warren Kerrigan)	5
Apr. 20—As a Man Thinks (Leah Baird)	5
Apr. 6—Thunderbolts of Fate (House Peters-Anna Lehr)	5
Mar. 24—The End of the Game (J. Warren Kerrigan)	5
Mar. 10—The Forfeit (House Peters)	5

INDEPENDENT SALES CORPORATION

(See Film Clearing House Exchanges)

IVAN FEATURE PRODUCTIONS

(At State Right Exchanges)

Life or Honor (Leah Baird-James Morrison)	7
Human Clay (Mollie King)	5

KLEINE SYSTEM, GEORGE

(See World Film Exchanges)

KREMER FILM FEATURES, VICTOR

(Released on States Rights Basis)

Denny From Ireland (Shorty Hamilton)	9
The Snail (Shorty Hamilton)	5
The Ranger (Shorty Hamilton)
The Pen Vultur (Shorty Hamilton)	5

METRO EXCHANGES

June 23—One Thing at a Time O'Day (Bert Lytell)	5
June 16—Fools and Their Money (Emmy Wehlen)	5
June 9—Some Bride (Viola Dana)	5
June 2—Almost Married (May Allison)	5
May 26—Full of Pep (Hale Hamilton)	5
May 19—The Lion's Den (Bert Lytell)	5
May 12—Castles in the Air (May Allison)	5
May 5—The Amateur Adventuress (Emmy Wehlen)	5
Apr. 28—After His Own Heart (Hale Hamilton)	5
Apr. 21—False Evidence (Viola Dana)	5
Apr. 14—Blackie's Redemption (Bert Lytell)	5
Apr. 7—The Island of Intrigue (May Allison)	5
Mar. 31—The Parisian Tigress (Viola Dana)	5
Mar. 24—That's Good (Hale Hamilton)	5

NAZIMOVA PRODUCTIONS

The Red Lantern (Nazimova)	7
Out of the Fog (Nazimova)	7
Eye for Eye (Nazimova)	7
Toys of Fate (Nazimova)	7
Revelation (Nazimova)	7

SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS

A Man of Honor (Harold Lockwood)	5
Shadow's of Suspicion (Harold Lockwood)	5
The Great Romance (Harold Lockwood)	6
Why Germany Must Pay (Special Cast)	6
The Great Victory (Special Cast)	6
Pals First (Harold Lockwood)	6

Advance Information on All Film Releases

(Continued from preceding page)

OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES

(At State Right Exchanges)
18—Mr. Outing Climbs Aboard......1
17—Picking After Pizarro......1
16—Here Comes the Groom......1
15—Wrangling Dudes......1
14—Where the Screen Tree Grows......1
13—Getting Gay with Neptune......1
12—Out-Columbusing Columbus......1
11—Itasca Makes Her Bow......1
10—Cameraring Through Africa (Thrill 2)......1
9—Cameraring Through Africa (Thrill 1)......1
8—Mr. Outing Floats a Dream......1
7—Up in the Air After Alligators......1

PATHE EXCHANGES

June 22—Oh Boy (Creighton Hale-June Caprice)......6
June 15—The Little Diplomat (Baby Marie Osborne)......5
June 8—The Bishop's Emeralds (Virginia Pearson)......6
June 1—All Wrong (Bryant Washburn)......5
May 25—The Master Man (Frank Keenan)......5
May 18—Caleb Piper's Girl (Helene Chadwick)......5
May 4—The Cry of the Weak (Fannie Ward-Frank Elliott)......5
Apr. 27—The Unknown Love (Dolores Cassinelli-E. K. Lincoln)......6
Apr. 20—The Sawdust Doll (Baby Marie Osborne)......5
Apr. 6—The Silver Girl (Frank Keenan)......5

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC.

June 15—Trixie from Broadway (Margarita Fisher)......5
June 1—A Bachelor's Wife (Mary Miles Minter)......5
May 18—Some Liar (William Russell)......5
May 4—Charge It to Me (Margarita Fisher)......5
Apr. 13—The Intrusion of Isabel (Mary Miles Minter)......5
Mar. 30—Brass Buttons (William Russell)......5
Mar. 16—Put Up Your Hands (Margarita Fisher)......5
Mar. 2—Where the West Begins (William Russell)......5

ROLIN COMEDIES

June 22—Off the Trolley (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)......1
June 15—Swat, the Crook (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)......1
June 8—Pistols for Breakfast (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)......1
June 1—Back to the Woods (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)......1
May 25—The Marathon (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)......1
May 18—Before Breakfast (Lloyd, Pollard, Daniels)......1
May 11—Si, Senor (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)......1
May 4—Young Mr. Jazz (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)......1
Apr. 27—Ring up the Curtain (Lloyd-Daniels-Polard)......1
Apr. 20—Crack Your Heels (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)......1
Apr. 13—Just Dropped In (Harold Lloyd)......1
Apr. 6—A Sammy in Siberia (Harold Lloyd)......1

TWO-REEL SPECIALS

May 11—His Vampy Ways (Walter Hall Comedy)......2
Jan. 19—Corinne, Come Here (Gloria Joy)......2

THE TIGER'S TRAIL (Serial)

(Starring Ruth Roland and George Larkin; Astra)
June 22—Tenth, Bringing in the Law......2
June 15—Ninth, the Missing Heir......2
June 8—Eighth, Danger Ahead......2
June 1—Seventh, The Flaming Waters......2
May 25—Sixth, The Secret Assassin......2
May 18—Fifth, The Tiger Trap......2
May 11—Fourth, Danger Signals......2
May 4—Third, The Human Chain......2
Apr. 27—Second, The Glowing Eyes......2
Apr. 20—First, The Tiger Worshippers......3

THE LIGHTNING RAIDER (Serial)

(Fifteen Two-Reel Episodes Astra Serial Starring Pearl White, Warner Oland, Henry Gsell)
Apr. 13—Fifteenth, Wu Fang Atones......2
Apr. 6—Fourteenth, Cleared of Guilt......2
Mar. 30—Thirteenth, the White Roses......2
Mar. 23—Twelfth, Hurled Into Space......2
Mar. 16—Eleventh, The Bars of Death......2
Mar. 9—Tenth, The Baited Trap......2
Mar. 2—Ninth, Falsely Accused......2

THE TERROR OF THE RANGE (Serial)

(Seven Two-Reel Episodes Starring George Larkin and Bessie Compson; Produced by Diando)
Mch. 16—Seventh, Run to Earth......2
Mch. 9—Sixth, Tangled Tales......2
Mch. 2—Fifth, A Threat from the Past......2
Feb. 23—Fourth, The Midnight Raid......2
Feb. 16—Third, The Chasm of Fear......2
Feb. 9—Second, The Hidden Chart......2
Feb. 2—First, Prowlers of the Night......2

NEWS REELS

Sundays—Topics of the Day......
Wednesdays—Pathe News......1
Saturdays—Pathe News......1

PIONEER FILM CORPORATION

(At State Right Exchanges)
The Boomerang (Henry B. Walthall)......
Virtuous Sinners (Wanda Hawley & Norman Kerry)......
Sins of the Children (Alma Hanlon and Stuart Holmes)......
Wives of Men (Florence Reed)......

RAVER PRODUCTIONS, HARRY

(At State Right Exchanges)
—The Liberator (Maciste Serial)......

SELECT EXCHANGES

June —His Bridal Night (Alice Brady)......5
June —Happiness a la Mode (Constance Talmadge)......5
June —Upstairs and Down (Olive Thomas)......5
May —Jacques of the Silver North (Mitchell Lewis)......5
May —The New Moon (Norma Talmadge)......6
Apr. —Red Head (Alice Brady)......5
Apr. —The Veiled Adventure (Constance Talmadge)......5
Apr. —Marrying Mary (Marion Davies)......5
Mar. —The Probation Wife (Norma Talmadge)......
Mar. —Marie Ltd. (Alice Brady)......5
Mar. —Experimental Marriage (Constance Talmadge)......5
Feb. —The World to Live In (Alice Brady)......5
Feb. —Children of Banishment (Mitchell Lewis)......5

SPECIALS

Break the News to Mother (Special Cast)......6
The Hidden Truth (Anna Case)......5
Ruling Passions (Julia Dean-Edwin Arden)......5
The Midnight Patrol (Ince Production)......5
The Cavell Case (Julia Arthur)......5
The One Woman (Special Cast)......6

S-L PICTURES

(At State Right Exchanges)
Virtuous Men (E. K. Lincoln) Ralph Ince Attraction......

SHERRY SERVICE, WILLIAM L.

(See Film Clearing House Exchanges)

SOUTHERN FEATURE FILM COMPANY

(At State Rights Exchanges)
Beyond the Law (Emmett Dalton)......

STATE RIGHT EXCHANGES

DOLL VAN FILM CORPORATION (CHICAGO)

(In Illinois, Indiana and Southern Wisconsin)
The Mad Lover......
Public Defender......
Carmen of the Klondike......
The Grain of Dust......
Hearts of the World......
The Crucible of Life......
Nine-tenths of the Law......
The Belgian......
The Zeppelin's Last Raid......
Those Who Pay......
Just a Woman......

DOO LEE FILM COMPANY, INC. (NEW YORK STATE)

May 1—The Window Opposite (Leah Baird)......7
Apr. 15—His Daughter Pays (Gertrude McCoy)......6
The Woman Who Dared......7
The Libertine......6
Babbling Tongues......7
Married in Name Only......6
Her Bargain......6
A Man's Law......5
Human Clay......5
One Law for Both......8
Sins of Ambition......7
A Slacker's Heart......7
Cleopatra......5
The Lonesome Trail......5
Mothers of Liberty......6
Jester Comedies (Twede Dan), one a week......2
The Silent Mystery (Serial in Fifteen Two-Reel Episodes (Francis Ford, Mae Gaston and Rosemary Theby......
Two-Reel Western Dramas (Ann Little-Jack Richardson),one a week......
June 8—The Winning Loser......2
June 1—The Recognition......2
May 25—The Law of Hate......2
May 18—The Range Rider......2
May 11—The Fatal Return......2
May 4—A Canyon Romance......2
Apr. 27—Western Honor......2
Apr. 20—Prodigal Love......2
Apr. 13—Luxury's Lure......2

TRIANGLE EXCHANGES

June 29—Dombey and Son (Special Cast)......6
June 22—Upside Down (Taylor Holmes Special)......5
June 15—Lady Windemere's Fan (Oscar Wilde Play)......5
June 8—Love's Prisoner (Olive Thomas Special)......6
June 1—The Root of Evil (Frances Mann-Philip Yale Drew)......5
May 25—Mayor of Filbert (Belle Bennett-Special)......8
May 18—The Water Lily (Alice Mann)......5
May 11—Taxi (Taylor Holmes Special)......5
May 4—A Place in the Sun (Margaret Blanche and English Cast)......5
Apr. 27—The Follies Girl (Olive Thomas Special)......5
Apr. 20—Devil M'Care (Crane Wilbur)......5
Apr. 13—A Regular Fellow (Taylor Holmes Special)......5
Apr. 6—Democracy (Jack Conway-Marguerite Marsh)......5

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES

(See World Film Exchanges)

Advance Information on All Film Releases

(Continued from preceding page)

UNIVERSAL EXCHANGES

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

The Sleeping Lion (Monroe Salisbury).... 6
Pretty Smooth (Priscilla Dean).... 6
Riders of Vengeance (Harry Carey).... 6
The Big Little Person (Mae Murray).... 6
The Unpainted Woman (Mary McLaren).... 6
The Blinding Trail (Monroe Salisbury).... 6
The Delicious Little Devil (Mae Murray).... 6
Bare Fists (Harry Carey).... 6
The Exquisite Thief (Priscilla Dean).... 6
Fire Flingers (Rupert Julian).... 6
What Am I Bid (Mae Murray).... 6

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.

June 16—A Star Over Night (David Belasco-S. W. W. R.).... 2
June 2—Destiny (Dorothy Phillips).... 6
Feb. 10—The Heart of Humanity (Dorothy Phillips).... 9

I-KO COMEDIES

June 18—Beauty and the Boob (Alice Howell).... 2
June 11—Nellie's Naughty Border (Dot Farley).... 2
May 21—His Wicked Eyes (Dan Russell).... 2
May 14—In Bad All Around (Eva Novak-Hughie Mack).... 2
May 7—Good Night Turk (Charlie of the Orient).... 2
Apr. 30—Sambo's Wedding Day.... 2
Apr. 16—Let Fido Do It.... 2
Apr. 9—A Movie Riot (Charlie of the Orient).... 2
Apr. 2—A Skate at Sea (Dorety-Novak-Reynolds).... 2

CENTURY COMEDIES

June 25—Howling Lions and Circus Queens (Dot Farley).... 2
May 28—Frisky Lions and Wicked Husbands.... 2
Apr. 23—Looney Lions and Monkey Business (Animal Comedy).... 2

STAR COMEDIES

June 23—A Model Husband (Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran).... 1
June 16—Stop, Cease, Hesitate (Neal Burns).... 1
June 9—All in the Swim.... 1
June 2—Miss Wives.... 1
May 26—Taking Things Easy.... 1
May 19—Three in a Closet.... 1
May 12—The Bullshiviks.... 1
May 5—Fun in a Flat.... 1
Apr. 28—The Expert Eloper.... 1
Apr. 21—Scared Stiff.... 1
Apr. 14—Skidding Thrones.... 1
Apr. 7—State Room Secrets.... 1

EDDIE POLO SERIES

June 23—The Missing Bullet.... 2
June 16—Cyclone Smith Plays Trump.... 2
June 9—A Pistol Point Proposal.... 2
June 2—Cyclone Smith's Come-back.... 2
May 26—The Wild Rider.... 2
May 19—A Phantom Fugitive.... 2
May 12—A Prisoner For Life.... 2

WESTERN AND RAILROAD DRAMAS

June 28—The Captive Bride (Pete Morrison).... 2
June 21—Kingdom Come (Morrison-Sedgewick).... 2
June 14—The Last Outlaw (Ed. Jones-Billie Hutton).... 2
June 7—Ace High (Pete Morrison).... 2
May 31—Two Men of Tinted Butte (Walt Whitman).... 2
May 24—The Gun Packer (Pete Morrison).... 2
May 17—Lone Larry (Benedict Sedgwick).... 2
May 10—Gun Law (Pete Morrison).... 2
May 3—The Raid (Neal Hart).... 2
Apr. 26—The Rustlers (Pete Morrison).... 2
Apr. 19—The Honor of Men (Neal Hart).... 2
Apr. 12—By Indian Post (Pete Morrison).... 2
Apr 5—Bill Brennan's Claim (Neal Hart).... 2

ELMO THE MIGHTY (Serial)

(Fifteen Two-Reel Episodes Starring Elmo Lincoln)
June 23—Second, Buried Alive.... 2
June 16—First, The Mystery of Mad Mountain.... 2

THE RED GLOVE (Serial)

(Eighteen Two-Reel Episodes Starring Marie Walcamp)
June 23—Fifteenth, In Deadly Peril.... 2
June 16—Fourteenth, The Lost Millions.... 2
June 9—Thirteenth, Trapped.... 2
June 2—Twelfth, In Death's Grip.... 2
May 26—Eleventh, Through Fire and Water.... 2
May 19—Tenth, Out of Death's Shadow.... 2
May 12—Ninth, A Leap for Life.... 2
May 5—Eighth, Facing Death.... 2
Apr. 28—Seventh, A Desperate Chance.... 2
Apr. 21—Sixth, The Flames of Death.... 2
Apr. 14—Fifth, At the Mercy of the Monster.... 2
Apr. 7—Fourth, The Passing of Gentleman Yeoff.... 2
Mar. 31—Third, The Vulture's Vengeance.... 2
Mar. 24—Second, The Claws of the Vulture.... 2
Mch. 17—First, The Pool of Mystery.... 2

NEWS AND MAGAZINE REELS

Mondays —Hearst News (International).... 1
Wednesdays—International News.... 1
Fridays —Current Events (International).... 1
Fridays —New Screen Magazine (Universal).... 1

VITAGRAPH EXCHANGES

June 30—The Spark Divine (Alice Joyce).... 5
June 23—Beauty Proof (Harry T. Morey).... 5
June 16—Too Many Crooks (Gladys Leslie).... 5
June 9—A Rogue's Romance (Earle Williams).... 5
June 2—The Little Boss (Bessie Love).... 5
May 26—Thin Ice (Corinne Griffith).... 5
May 12—Beating the Odds (Harry Morey).... 5
May 5—A Stitch in Time (Gladys Leslie).... 5
Apr. 28—The Usurper (Earle Williams).... 5
Apr. 21—A Yankee Princess (Bessie Love).... 5

VITAGRAPH SPECIALS

June 16—The Painted World (Anita Stewart).... 5
May 19—The Third Degree (Alice Joyce).... 7
Apr. 28—Two Women (Anita Stewart).... 5
Mch. 10—From Headquarters (Special—Anita Stewart).... 5
Feb. 24—The Lion and the Mouse (Special-Alice Joyce).... 6
Jan. 5—The Common Cause (Rawlinson-Breamer).... 7

BIG V SPECIAL COMEDIES

June 2—Healthy and Happy (James Aubrey).... 2
May 19—Tootsies and Tomales.... 2
May 5—Fares and Fair Ones (Montgomery and Rock).... 2

LARRY SEMON COMEDIES

July 7—His Home, Sweet Home.... 2
June 9—The Star Boarder.... 2
May 12—Passing the Buck.... 2

PERILS OF THUNDER MOUNTAIN

(Fifteen Two-Reel Episodes Starring Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway)
Sept. 1—Fifteenth, Fate's Verdict.... 2
Aug. 25—Fourteenth, The Hut of Disaster.... 2
Aug. 18—Thirteenth, The River of Dread.... 2
Aug. 11—Twelfth, The Rushing Horror.... 2
Aug. 4—Eleventh, In the Ocean's Grip.... 2
July 28—Tenth, The Flaming Sacrifice.... 2
July 21—Ninth, Prisoner of the Deep.... 2
July 14—Eighth, The Iron Clutch.... 2
July 7—Seventh, The Lightning Lure.... 2
June 30—Sixth, The Tree of Torture.... 2
June 23—Fifth, The Cliff of Treachery.... 2
June 16—Fourth, Cave of Terror.... 2
June 9—Third, The Teeth of Steel.... 2
June 2—Second, The Bridge Trap.... 2

THE MAN OF MIGHT (Serial)

(Fifteen Two-Reel Episodes Starring William Duncan)
May 5—Fifteenth, The Rescue.... 2
Apr. 28—Fourteenth, The Living Catapult.... 2
Apr. 21—Thirteenth, The Flood of Despair.... 2
Apr. 14—Twelfth, The Volcano's Prey.... 2
Apr. 7—Eleventh, The Ship of Dread.... 2
Mar. 31—Tenth, Double Crossed.... 2
Mar. 24—Ninth, The Crashing Horror.... 2
Mar. 17—Eighth, The One Chance.... 2
Mar. 10—Seventh, Into the Trap.... 2
Mar. 3—Sixth, The Height of Torment.... 2
Feb. 24—Fifth, The Human Shield.... 2
Feb. 17—Fourth, The Gripping Hand.... 2
Feb. 10—Third, The Creeping Death.... 2
Feb. 3—Second, The Leap Through Space.... 2
Jan. 27—First, The Riven Flag.... 2

WARREN, EDWARD, PRODUCTIONS, INC.

(At State Right Exchanges)
Weavers of Life....
Souls Redeemed....

WESTERN IMPORT COMPANY

(At State Right Exchanges)
Mickey (Mabel Normand)....

WORLD FILM EXCHANGES

June 30—Home Wanted (Madge Evans).... 5
June 23—Love and the Woman (June Elvidge).... 5
June 16—The Devil's Trail (Betty Compson-George Larkin).... 5
June 9—Through the Toils (Montagu Love).... 5
June 2—Phil for Short (Evelyn Greeley).... 5
May 26—The Amateur Widow (Zena Keefe).... 5
May 19—The Unwritten Code (Shirley Mason).... 5
May 12—The Social Pirate (June Elvidge).... 5
May 5—Ginger (Violet Palmer).... 5
Apr. 28—Three Green Eyes (All Star Cast).... 5
Apr. 21—The Quickening Flame (Montagu Love-June Elvidge).... 5
Apr. 14—The Scar (Kitty Gordon-Irving Cummings).... 5
Apr. 7—The Little Intruder (Louise Huff-Johnny Hines).... 5

SPECIALS

Mar. 16—The Better 'Ole.... 7
Feb. 10—What Shall We Do With Him?.... 5
Jan. 6—Under Four Flags (Official Government Picture).... 5

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES

—The Woman Under Oath (Florence Reed).... 5
—A Man's Fight (Dustin Farnum).... 5
June 8—Playthings of Passion (Kitty Gordon).... 5
Apr. 13—Her Code of Honor (Florence Reed).... 5
Feb. 23—A Man in the Open (Dustin Farnum).... 6
Jan. 26—Adele (Kitty Gordon).... 6
Jan. 5—The Light of Western Stars (Dustin Farnum).... 6

NEW REELS

Tuesdays—Kinograms.... 1
Saturdays—Kinograms.... 1

KLEINE SYSTEM, GEORGE

Triple Trouble (Charley Chaplin)....
Behind the Lines in Italy....
Conquered Hearts....

Simplex

EXHIBITORS—PROJECTIONISTS

HERE ARE A FEW POINTS TO BEAR IN MIND WHEN BUYING YOUR NEXT PROJECTOR

JUST REMEMBER

THAT——

THE WORLD'S LARGEST AND FINEST THEATRES USE SIMPLEX——

88% OF THE LEADING FILM STUDIOS RUN THEIR FILM ON SIMPLEX——

THE WORLD'S GREATEST PRODUCERS PROJECT THEIR MASTERPIECES ONLY ON SIMPLEX——

BECAUSE

☞ THE SIMPLEX CONTAINS THE FINEST MATERIAL FOUND IN ANY COMMERCIAL PROJECTOR.

☞ THERE IS MORE TIME SPENT IN THE BUILDING OF THE SIMPLEX THAN IN ANY OTHER PROJECTOR.

☞ One hour and ten minutes is spent on the making of one Simplex gear alone, while the builders of some projectors are content to use die-cast gears that are moulded all ready for use.

☞ SIMPLEX CONTAINS MORE PRACTICAL ADVANTAGES THAN ANY OTHER PROJECTOR.

ALL OF WHICH IS WHY MOST EVERY DAY—MEN WHO HAVE RUN SIMPLEXES EVERY DAY AND NIGHT FOR FIVE YEARS AT A MAXIMUM COST OF LESS THAN $25.00 FOR UPKEEP WRITE US UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS TELLING US ABOUT IT.

AND DON'T FORGET THAT WITH ALL OF THESE ADVANTAGES THE SIMPLEX COSTS NO MORE THAN ANY OTHER PROJECTORS.

IF YOUR PROJECTION ROOM IS THE HEART OF YOUR THEATRE, IT WILL PAY YOU TO TALK TO A SIMPLEX USER BEFORE YOU BUY YOUR PROJECTOR.

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th: St— New York

Before you place your developing and printing contract, investigate carefully the statements made by all who solicit your business.

Don't be misled by unsubstantiated claims which may be simply assertions—

Distinguish between one who really has and those who merely hope—

Make every man prove his proposition and submit evidence of established ability and actual accomplishment—

Determine definitely whether you are asked to believe facts or fancies—

Then, make the proper comparisons!

By virtue of our superior ability, record, and power we merit the privilege of serving you.

Ask First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.

TRADE MARK

PERFECT DEVELOPING & PRINTING

There are reasons—
Come and see them.

JUNE 21, 1919

Motion Picture News

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

DOMINATES THE FIELD

In the News next week—

THE complete announcement of the new policy of production, distribution and exploitation of Paramount-Artcraft Pictures.

After months of detailed preparation the new plan has been fully formulated—a plan that only the biggest motion picture company in the business could attempt.

It is a plan with a definite idea back of it—an idea based on fairness to the exhibitor. It carries out even further the policy of co-operative fair dealing that has made exhibitors of Paramount-Artcraft Pictures the most successful in the field today.

It is Good News for every showman in the business.

TRADE MARK Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

TRADE MARK ARTCRAFT PICTURES

VOL. XIX-NO. 25 Entered as Second Class Matter October 13, 1913, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3rd, 1879 PRICE 15 CENTS
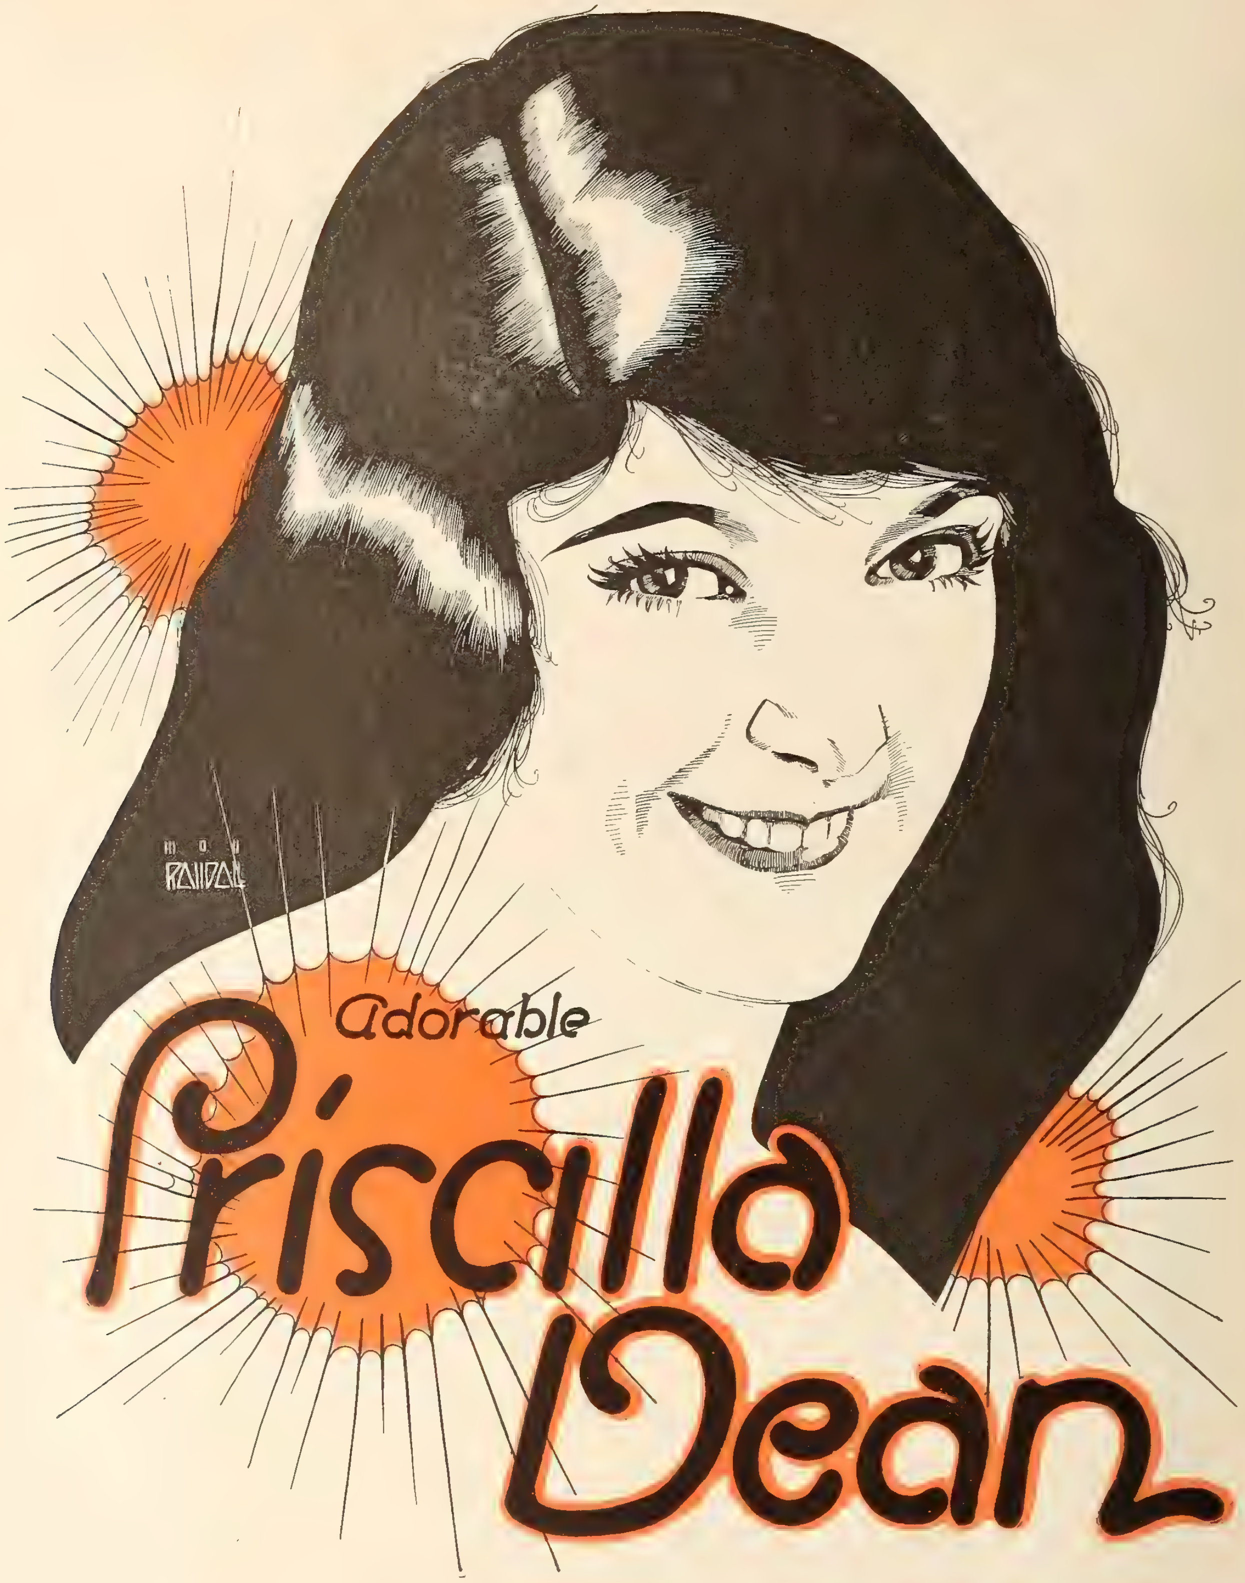
Published Weekly—$2.00 a year
Chicago — 729 Seventh Avenue, New York — Los Angeles



Adorable
Priscilla
Dean

in

"PRETTY SMOOTH"

An Artistic Triumph and A Universal Special Attraction

DOUGLAS
FAIRBANKS
in "The Knickerbocker Buckaroo"
An ARTCRAFT Picture
Directed by ALBERT PARKER.

LOOK 'EM OVER

"SURE fire stuff. Certain of a crowd and deserves it." . . . . Variety.

"No Fairbanks' picture ever has had more amusing titles. Sequences showing Doug going west are good enough to make the Spinx crack a smile." . . . . Wid's.

"One of the most entertaining features it has been our good fortune to see. No reason why it should not score heavily. Offers a 'clean-up' for exhibitors." . . . . Exhibitor's Trade Review.

"Fairbanks has found some new stunts. Elaborately staged where elaborateness would count" . . . . N. Y. Times.

"Proves himself the Samson of the movies. Gave the audience the maximum of enjoyment" . . . . N. Y. Sun.

"The S. R. O. sign will be working overtime. Worth waiting for. Fairbanks never better" . . . . N. Y. Telegraph.

"Pep, adventure, mystery, romance.—A sure antidote for spring fever" . . . . Chicago Journal.

"The picture was well worth waiting for. Biggest thing Doug has done. A 100 per cent production" . . . Shea Hippodrome, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Extremely well done. Titles excellent. Audiences delighted with it" . . . . N. Y. Tribune.

"Adds more thrills to his long list" . Evening Sun.

"Far above the average of the usual screen production" . . . . N. Y. Globe.

Booked for a quick repeat at Rialto, New York.

TRADE MARK Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

TRADE MARK ARTCRAFT PICTURES

What would you do with motion pictures if you were master of the world?

IF all the millions of the world's wealth were stored in the next room; if all the natural scenery of five continents were within your reach—and the seven seas and all the ships that plough their waves?

You could then make motion pictures exactly as a superman would make them, difficulties vanishing at your touch, romance taking shape at your merest beckon.

Dramatists, directors, stars, technicians, scenery, oceans, forests, mountains, each fulfilling perfectly a function in your plan, would contribute to a photoplay that would be a masterpiece.

If you wanted an active volcano in your picture you would ask your geographers and geologists which was the most suitable one on the crust of the planet, and you would despatch an expedition across continents to "shoot" it.

If you wanted to show in one picture for a few moments an actual scene on the banks of the great, grey Ganges, you would cable your European representatives to journey to India and do the job.

The leasing of a tropic island, the renting of a railroad, the transplanting of ten thousand palm trees, would be trifles in your eyes. Always you would be offered the cream of the dramatic genius of the world first. That would be a foregone conclusion!

This is the sort of thing you might do if you were master of the world.

What will you say when we tell you that now—

after seven years—

Paramount-Artcraft has mobilized all the great geniuses of production; dramatists, directors, artists, technicians; and is equipped with world-wide facilities and unlimited resources to make for you, to be shown in your theatre, exactly the kind of motion pictures you would make if you were master of the world.

Great power carries with it great responsibility. We owe it to you and to all humanity to make this great influence contribute solely to the good and the harmony and the entertainment of the world.

Wholesome American families and their neighbors on all Continents may place implicit trust in the character of any picture marked Paramount-Artcraft.

Tremendous Changes are Impending in the Art of the Screen

So far you have noted in all the better theatres that Paramount-Artcraft has produced the best pictures of all kinds. You have noted in the great national magazines and newspapers, that Paramount-Artcraft has focussed the attention of people everywhere upon those better pictures.

These two facts have created a world-appreciation of the sheer importance of motion pictures in enriching the life of the community.

The broadening of this appreciation of motion pictures, with the natural result of finer theatres, more comfortable seating, better music and better presentation generally—not alone in fifty cities but in more than five thousand centres—is the direct result of Paramount-Artcraft policy.

All this Makes Possible the Next Great Step in the Industry

You are about to become the deciding factor in the success of a new and audacious producing and distributing policy.

You are to decide by your presence at the showing of every one of these new Paramount-Artcraft Pictures that you want a big picture not just three or four times a year, but a big picture twice or three times a week!

Every Paramount-Artcraft Picture will be a big picture and each one will prosper on its own merit, quite apart from what is called program or series booking.

You may not understand fully the nature of this development by the written explanation. You surely will WHEN YOU SEE IT ON THE SCREEN.

The progress of the motion picture industry is measured by the progress of FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION.

Its resources are unlimited.

Its relationships, like the screen itself, are international.

There is not a single difficulty in the making of any kind of motion picture that Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has not the mental resource and material resources to overcome.

But all this concentration of dramatic skill; directing talent, star-genius, costly equipment and producing audacity would avail nothing without the immense administrative and distributing organization behind it, built up by years of earnest and tenacious effort.

You—if you only knew it—ARE master of the motion picture world.

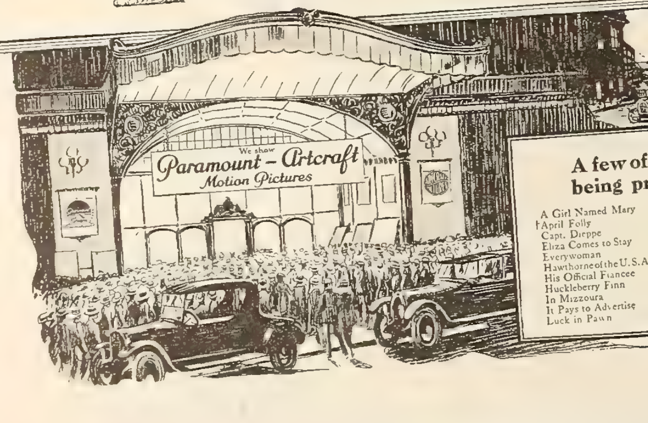
And being master, enjoy the fruits of mastery, as visible in every one of the coming season's Paramount-Artcraft Pictures.

Paramount-Artcraft Motion Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

Paramount-Artcraft Exchange



A few of the Paramount-Artcraft Pictures that are being produced for release under this new plan

A Girl Named Mary
†April Folly
Capt. Dieppe
Eliza Comes to Stay
Everywoman
Hawthorne of the U.S.A.
His Official Fiancee
Huckleberry Finn
In Mizzoura
It Pays to Advertise
Luck in Pawn
*Mary's Ankle
Miss Hobbs
Mother
Peg O' My Heart
Sadie Love
Sick-A-Bed
Speed Carr
*Stepping Out
The Black Bag
†The Cinema Murder
The Fear Market
The Female of the Species
The Lottery Man
The Market of Souls
¶The Miracle Man
The Misleading Widow
*The Other Woman
†The Restless Sex
The Sea Wolf
The Teeth of the Tiger
The Third Kiss
The Thirteenth Commandment
The Valley of the Giants
The Witness for the Defense
The Young Mrs. Winthrop
Told in the Hills
Too Much Johnson
*What's Your Husband Doing?
*Whistling Jim
Why Smith Left Home
Widow by Proxy

* Thomas H. Ince Production
† Cosmopolitan Production
¶ Mayflower Production

"YOU" in this case means your patrons

IT isn't only the exhibitor who is interested in the new plans of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation for the production and distribution of better pictures than have ever been made before. The public wants to know about it.

Through its national advertising, Famous Players-Lasky has taught the public to go to the theatre that shows Paramount-Artcraft Pictures —and says so! It has educated millions of picture goers, new and old. This successful advertising policy is based on the evident fact that these best pictures must be sold to the public as well as to the exhibitor.

So the announcement of this great step forward in motion picture production comes with interest already aroused on the part of the great picture public.

The full page advertisement, reproduced on the opposite page, will appear in the biggest newspapers in the United States. It is addressed to the public—your public—and it tells the story of this great new step.

It does more—it brings that great public to your theatre, if you are an exhibitor of Paramount-Artcraft Pictures. It gives you a chance to say, " Here is the place where these greatest pictures will be shown." It enforces the fact that the public is a partner in the success of this great project. It shows your patrons that responsibility rests on them to make their finest entertainment a continued success, by patronizing your theatre.

It paves the way for your greater prestige and greater success as an exhibitor of the best pictures made.

The biggest cities in your territory are in this list:

CITY	PUBLICATION	CIRCULATION	CITY	PUBLICATION	CIRCULATION
Atlanta	Georgian American	95,480	New Haven	Register	21,693
Boston	Post	354,725	New Orleans	Item	84,673
Buffalo	Courier	105,556	New York	Times	434,157
Chicago	Tribune	633,315	New York	Journal	657,912
Cincinnati	Post	217,449	Pittsburgh	Press	127,364
Cleveland	Plain Dealer	199,681	Philadelphia	Inquirer	335,776
Dallas	News	97,726	Portland, Ore.	Oregonian	97,049
Denver	Post	140,294	Portland, Me.	Express & Advertiser	20,232
Des Moines	Register & Tribune	128,871	Salt Lake City	Tribune	62,839
Detroit	News	171,014	San Francisco	Examiner	257,456
Kansas City	Star	219,664	St. Louis	Post Dispatch	329,208
Los Angeles	Sunday Examiner	162,334	Seattle	Times	88,560
Minneapolis	Tribune	153,400	Washington	Star	75,228

Total......................................5,271,656

TRADE MARK Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
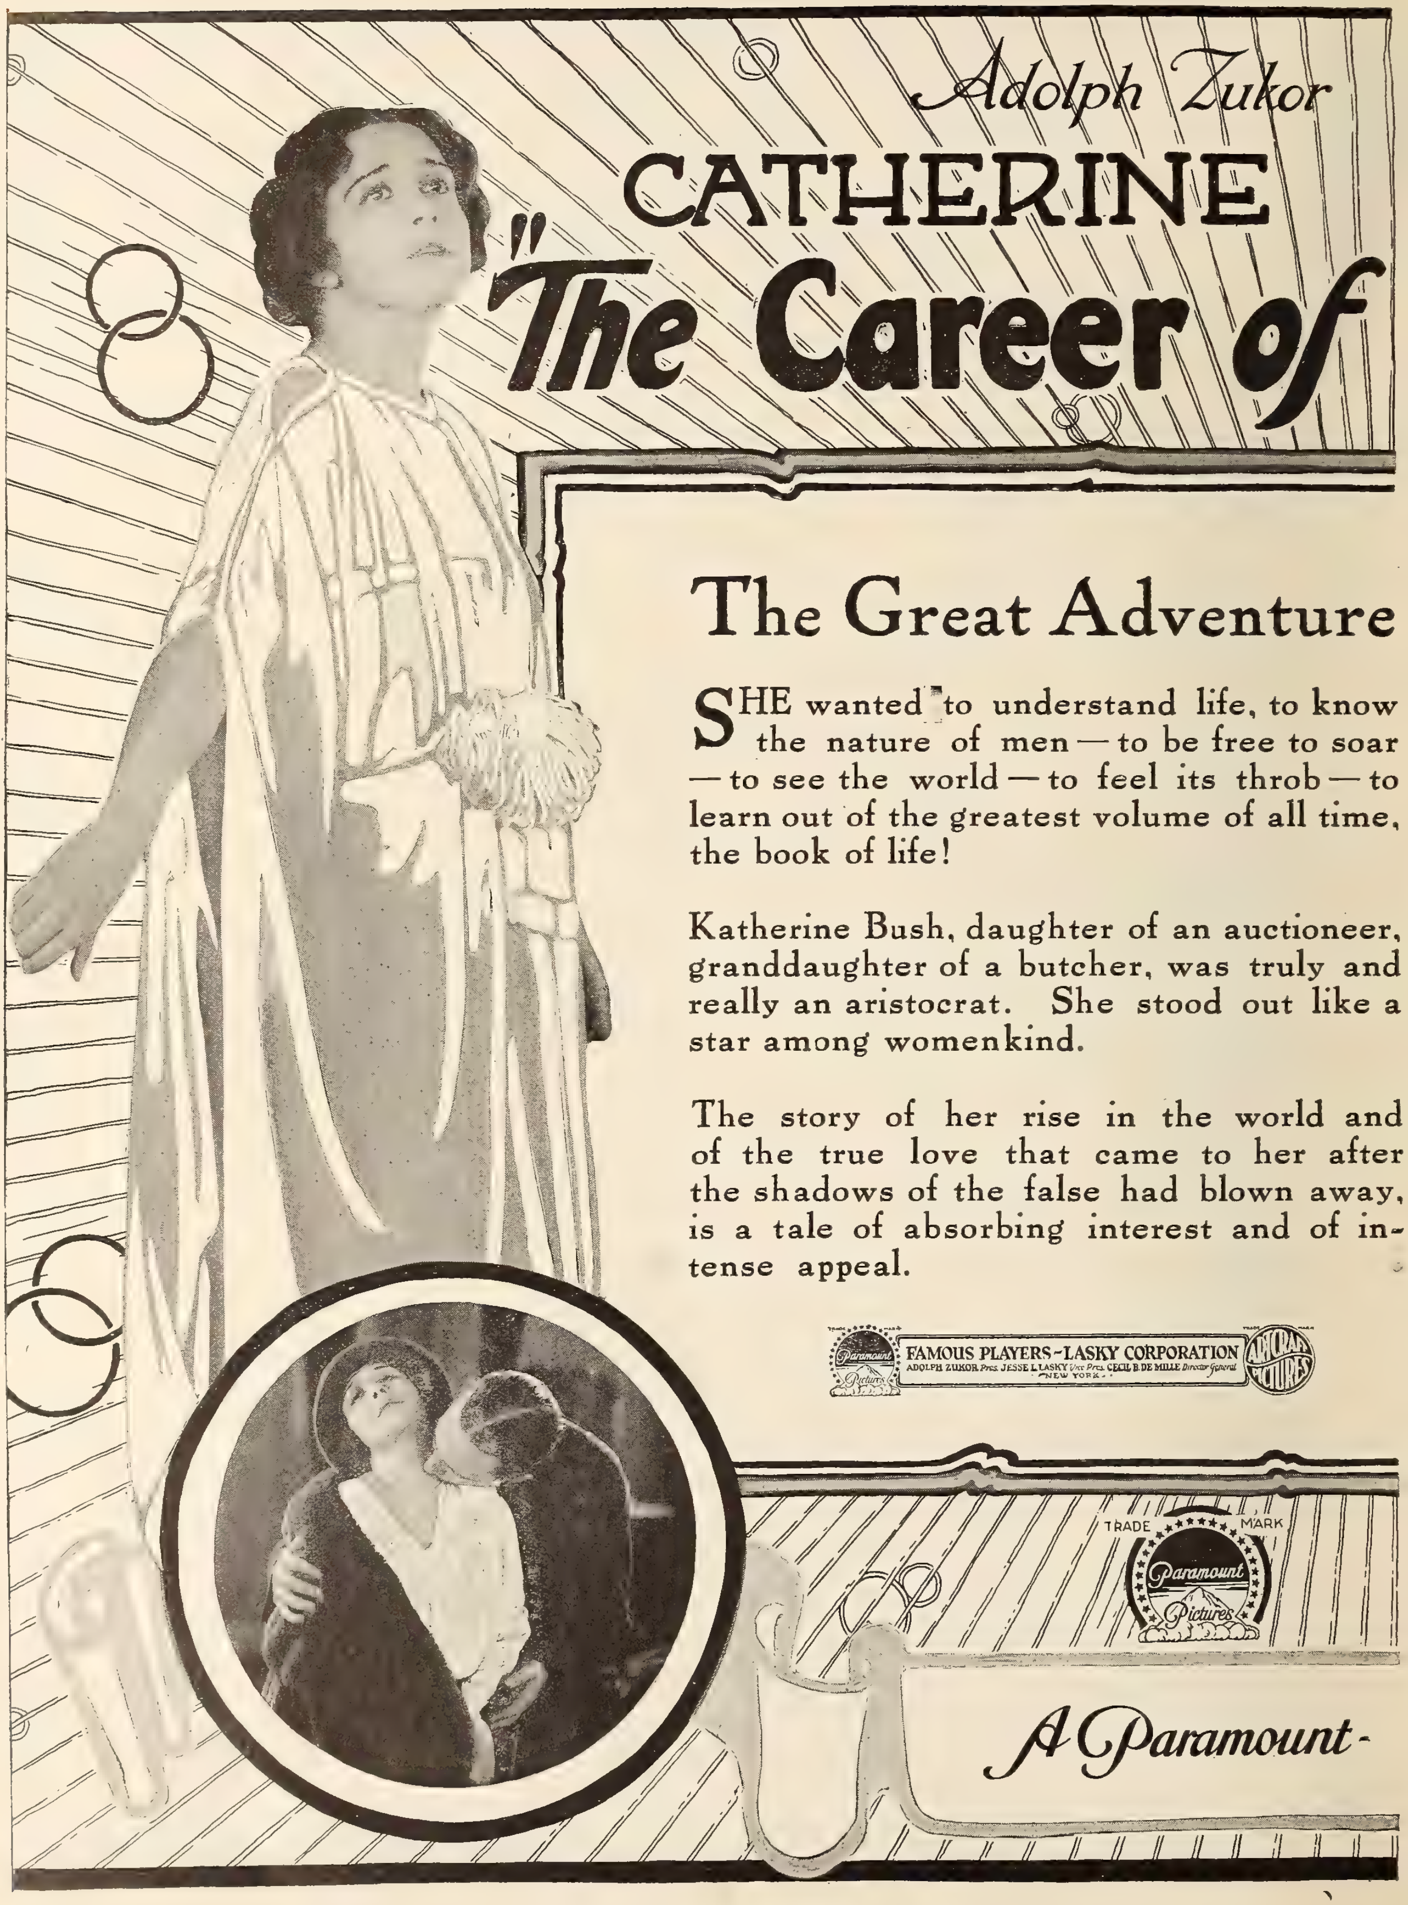
NEW YORK

TRADE MARK ARTCRAFT PICTURES



Adolph Zukor

CATHERINE

"The Career of

The Great Adventure

SHE wanted to understand life, to know the nature of men — to be free to soar — to see the world — to feel its throb — to learn out of the greatest volume of all time, the book of life!

Katherine Bush, daughter of an auctioneer, granddaughter of a butcher, was truly and really an aristocrat. She stood out like a star among womenkind.

The story of her rise in the world and of the true love that came to her after the shadows of the false had blown away, is a tale of absorbing interest and of intense appeal.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

TRADE MARK Paramount Pictures

A Paramount

Presents

CALVERT in

"Katherine Bush"

A Money Picture

"THE Career of Katherine Bush" is a box-office winner.

The story by Elinor Glyn is known to thousands who have read the serial and the novel. The production has been made with a splendor of settings and gowns that such a subject demands. The players are popular artists of recognized talent.

Exhibitors will find in "The Career of Katherine Bush" a subject worthy of big exploitation and an extended run.

The scenario is by Kathryn Stuart, the direction by Roy W. Neill.

Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

TRADE MARK
ARTCRAFT PICTURES

Artcraft Special

JESSE L. LASKY presents
WALLACE

REID

in

"YOU'RE FIRED"

A Paramount Picture

A COMEDY CAST

Wallace Reid is supported by Theodore Roberts, Wanda Hawley, Raymond Hatton, Henry Woodward, Guy Oliver and other noted artists in the O. Henry comedy "You're Fired."

Press books, a full line of accessories and complete service section in the Motion Picture News last week (issue of June 14) will enable exhibitors to put this over big.

By O. Henry Scenario by Clara Genevieve Kennedy
Directed by James Cruze

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

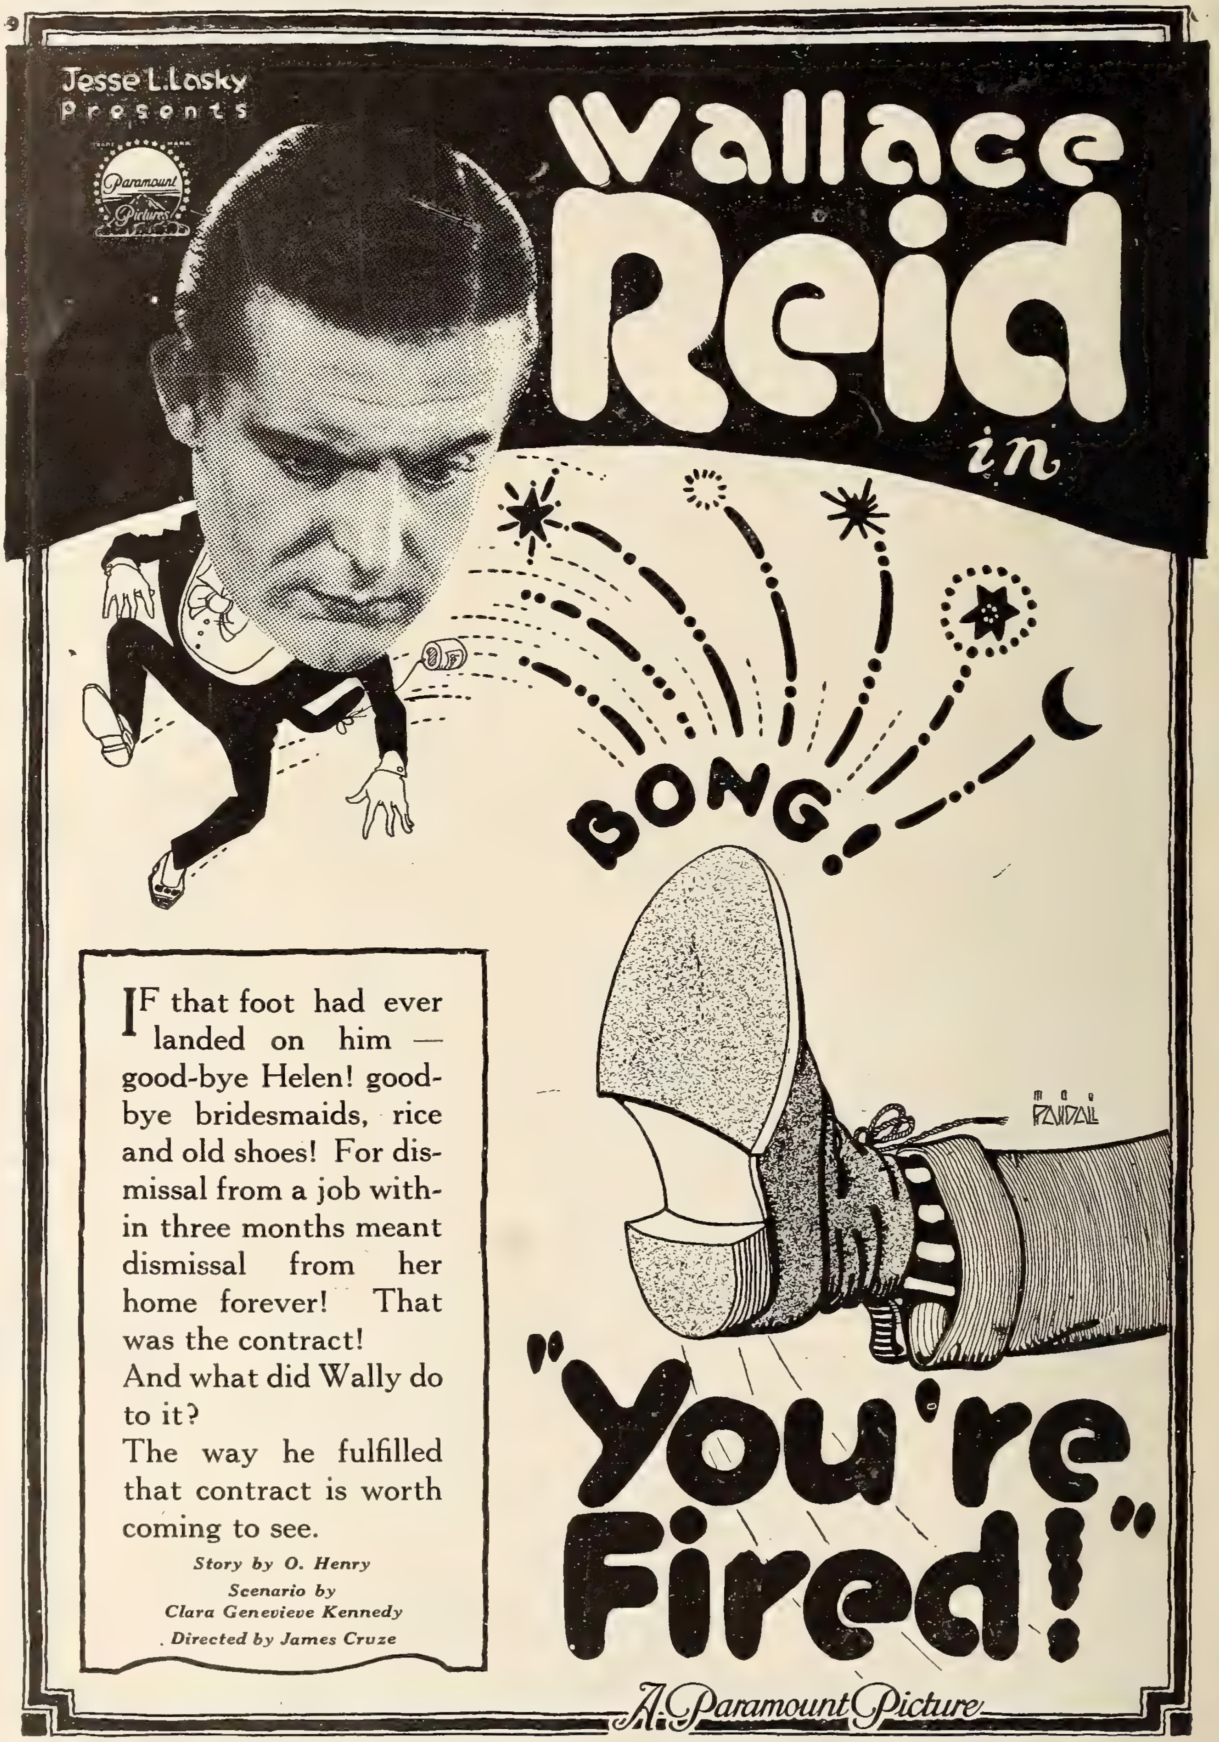
This is the 3 column ad-layout for the Paramount picture, "You're Fired," starring Wallace Reid.

You can get it at your Exchange in cut or mat form.

Use it.

It works!

It has the comedy idea that is necessary for your summer program.



Jesse L. Lasky
Presents
Paramount Pictures
Wallace
Reid
in
BONG!
RANDALL
"You're Fired!"
A Paramount Picture

IF that foot had ever landed on him — good-bye Helen! good-bye bridesmaids, rice and old shoes! For dismissal from a job within three months meant dismissal from her home forever! That was the contract!

And what did Wally do to it?

The way he fulfilled that contract is worth coming to see.

Story by O. Henry Scenario by Clara Genevieve Kennedy
Directed by James Cruze

TRADE MARK Paramount Pictures

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
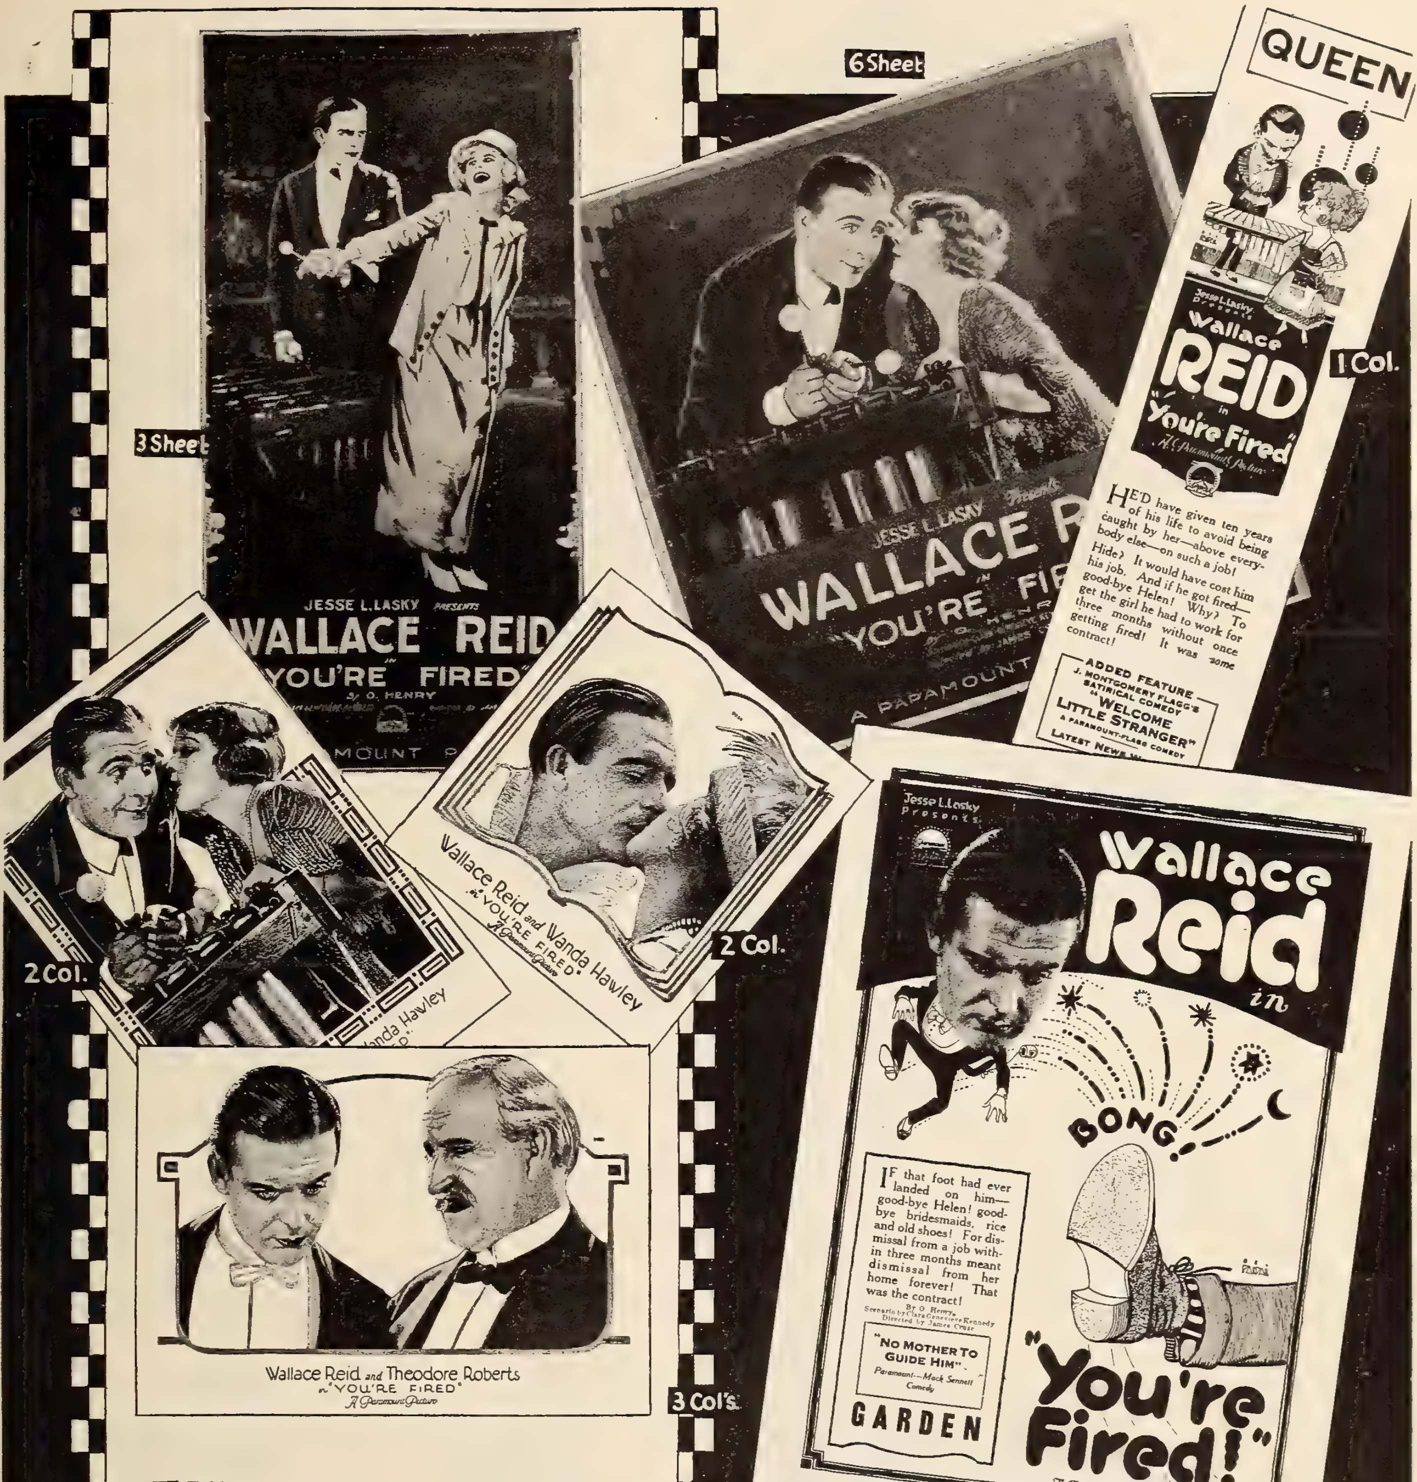
NEW YORK

TRADE MARK ARTCRAFT PICTURES



6 Sheet
3 Sheet
JESSE L. LASKY PRESENTS
WALLACE REID
IN "YOU'RE FIRED"
BY O. HENRY
A PARAMOUNT PICTURE
JESSE L. LASKY Presents
WALLACE REID
"YOU'RE FIRED"
A PARAMOUNT
QUEEN
Jesse L. Lasky Presents
Wallace REID
in "You're Fired"
A Paramount Picture
1 Col.
2 Col.
Wallace Reid and Wanda Hawley
in "YOU'RE FIRED"
A Paramount Picture
2 Col.
Wallace Reid and Theodore Roberts
in "YOU'RE FIRED"
A Paramount Picture
3 Col's.
Jesse L. Lasky Presents
Wallace Reid
in
BONG!
"You're Fired!"
A Paramount Picture

HE'D have given ten years of his life to avoid being caught by her—above everybody else—on such a job! Hide? It would have cost him his job. And if he got fired—good-bye Helen! Why? To get the girl he had to work for three months without once getting fired! It was some contract!

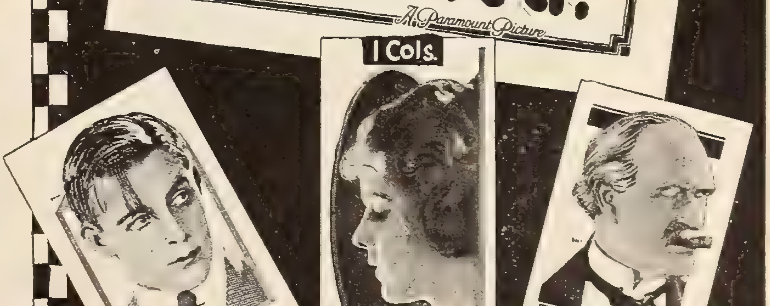
ADDED FEATURE
J. MONTGOMERY FLAGG'S SATIRICAL COMEDY
"WELCOME LITTLE STRANGER"
A PARAMOUNT-FLAGG COMEDY
LATEST NEWS W

IF that foot had ever landed on him—good-bye Helen! good-bye bridesmaids, rice and old shoes! For dismissal from a job within three months meant dismissal from her home forever! That was the contract!

By O. Henry
Scenario by Clara Genevieve Kennedy
Directed by James Cruze

"NO MOTHER TO GUIDE HIM"
Paramount—Mack Sennett Comedy

GARDEN



1 Cols.
WALLACE REID
in "You're Fired"
A Paramount Picture
9058
WANDA HAWLEY
Supporting
WALLACE REID
in "You're Fired"
A Paramount Picture
THEODORE ROBERTS
Supporting
WALLACE REID
in "You're Fired"
A Paramount Picture

THESE posters and ad-layouts are the comedy kind, in keeping with the fun in "You're Fired." Get them from your exchange, splash them all over town and you will cash in on this corking fun-picture.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK

ADOLPH ZUKOR
PRESENTS
IRENE

CASTLE

in

"The Firing Line"

By Robert W. Chambers
Scenario by Clara Beranger
Directed by Charles Maigne,

Paramount - Artcraft Special

IRENE CASTLE, whose name has come to be a synonym for grace, beauty and the charm of wonderful gowns, will appear in the society motion picture de-luxe of the present season, to be released in July as a Paramount-Artcraft special.

Paramount Pictures
FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK
ARTCRAFT PICTURES

Jesse L. Lasky
presents
VIVIAN MARTIN

IN

"AN INNOCENT ADVENTURESS"

A Paramount Picture

Here's the Very Note

THE note to play on for "An Innocent Adventuress" is the decided charm of Vivian Martin in appealing stories, simple heart-interest, human stories of love and adventure.

"An Innocent Adventuress" is one of them. You'll like it and your patrons will too.

by Clara Genevieve Kennedy directed by Robert Vignola

Paramount Pictures
FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. DE MILLE Director General
NEW YORK
ARTCRAFT PICTURES

C. L. CHESTER PRODUCTIONS

Outing-Chester Pictures

120 West 41st St., New York

"They are undoubtedly the most interesting short subjects we have ever presented to an audience. Give us more short subjects of this caliber and we will be delighted."—Mr. H. J. Schad, Carr & Schad, Inc., Reading, Pa.

□

"We have had more favorable comments on these pictures than on any other short subjects, and, in fact, they bring us steady business on the nights they are shown.

"For consistently excellent photography, apt titles, and interesting subjects they cannot be equalled."—Mr. E. L. Franck, Oasis Theatre, Ajo, Ariz.

□

"These are easily the most wonderful one-reelers or featurettes I have ever run."—Mr. Theodore Hayes, New Garrick, St. Paul.

□

"They are by all odds the best scenics I have ever shown, in fact are more than scenics because of the human interest introduced. I have had many inquiries and words of praise regarding them from my patrons."—Mr. D. H. Schuhmann, Florence Theatre, Pasadena, Cal.

□

"Your Outing-Chester Pictures are certainly great from every standpoint. Personally I thought them wonderful and was most pleased to find that they are a splendid box office attraction.

"They are growing in popularity every week. This little note will doubtless surprise you, for I so seldom enthuse."—Harriette Ohming, Starland Theatre, Michigan City, Ind.

□

"I have yet to see a single reel which, in the estimation of both myself and my patrons, can compare with the Outing-Chester series of pictures. They are just great." — Mr. Reeves, Strand Theatre, Portland, Me.

□

"Would not be without an Outing-Chester while they are in the market. It is the biggest single reel that I ever saw."—Mr. Stanley Sumner, Mgr. Allston Theatre, Allston, Mass.

□

"I attribute much of the success of the theatre to the surrounding show, and therefor devote really more time to the selecting of short subjects than I do to my feature productions, and for consistently good short subject attractions I feel that Outing-Chester is the best buy in the film market.'—Mr. Harry H. Rush, 56th Street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

June 14, 1919.

To Exhibitors:

You are offered here the opportunity so often desired--to talk to brother exhibitors about an important release.

These are voluntary statements from managers of theatres large and small, in big cities and in villages.

Such far-sighted exhibitors are abreast of the times. They are adding to the attendance - producing power of their programs by increasing the feature element. They are working toward an all-feature program.

They say that each Outing-Chester Picture is a one-reel feature, which makes hosts of friends, and brings them back every week.

Yours for results,

C L Chester

THE AUDITORIUM
Saginaw, Michigan

May 29th, 1919.

Your last Outing-Chester we showed here was one of the big features of our show. Our patrons commented as much on that particular subject as they did on the main feature, if not more. I am pleased to say that as long as we can get those features every week I will boost them in my advertising, as I think they are bringing money into the box office.

J. P. WALTERS.

"The most interesting short subject we know of."—Mr. J. P. Cox, Cox Theatres, Cape May, N. J.

□

"I don't know of a single reel being put out that can even compare with the Outing-Chesters." —Mr. Thos. P. Ronan, Palace Theatre, Danville, Ill.

□

"I have used all of your Outing-Chester Pictures in all my theatres, starting with number one, and have just finished number nine, and wish to congratulate you on the class of release that you are giving us. To my mind Outing-Chesters are the best single reel pictures on the market today of their kind, and we want you to continue supplying us each and every week for as long as you get them."—Mr. Spyros P. Skouras, Pageant, Olympia, Lyric Theatres, St. Louis, Mo.

□

"They certainly are a beautiful clean subject. It is refreshing to know that an exhibitor can secure this kind of a picture for his patrons each week."—Mr. James J. McGuinness, Gen. Mgr., Gordon Olympia Theatres, New England.

□

"Don't forget my Outing-Chester. My patrons certainly enjoy them."—Mr. Frank Campbell, Rex Theatre, Waltham, Mass.

□

"I have had more favorable comment from my patrons regarding the above subjects than anything that I have ever had in the house."—Mr. Rollins, Star Theatre, Boston, Mass.

□

"I can't say too much about your series of Outing-Chester Travel Pictures. They are just wonderful. Would not be without them."—Mr. Jos. Coyle, Codman Sq. Theatre, Dorchester, Mass.

□

"Each time I run one, they want to know when they can see the next."—Mr. Rosen, Lyric Theatre, Minneapolis.

□

"Your pictures unmistakingly possess quality, and give satisfaction—quite above the average of any other similar feature—and they have so impressed our patrons that even the hardest to please have commented upon them to us."—Mr. Charles H. Braun, Miller Theatre, Milwaukee.

Take Fairbanks for example—

How often have you said to yourself,

"If I could only take the real big things like these Douglas Fairbanks pictures, get them by themselves, picture for picture, and run them until I had gotten all there was out of them, I'd be doing something.

"Promises of what is going to happen in the future don't interest me. Stars who are going to be great 'some day' mean nothing to me to-day.

"I know the kind of picture that makes money for me now. I know the artists who are positive box-office attractions, and if I ever get the chance to play those pictures without being obliged to give time to films that only trail along, I'll be able to call my theatre a real business."

That chance—that opportunity to make your theatre a real business—is here.

On September first, United Artists Corporation will release its initial production—A DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS PICTURE.

You can book this picture now. In booking it, you can drop every other consideration from your mind. The picture will be rented to you free and clear of any tie-up with any other production. You can get this one hundred per cent attraction on a basis that allows you to realize its full opportunities of profit for yourself.

You can come into the open market, get the best that the field offers—and yet—

Run your own business your own way.

The productions of

MARY PICKFORD
CHARLIE CHAPLIN
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS
and D. W. GRIFFITH

to be released by United Artists Corporation will all be rented on the same open, single picture basis.

Concentrated here is the very height of artistry and popular appeal, made available to Exhibitors by a rental policy that insures greater profits for the picture theatres of the country than have ever before been possible.

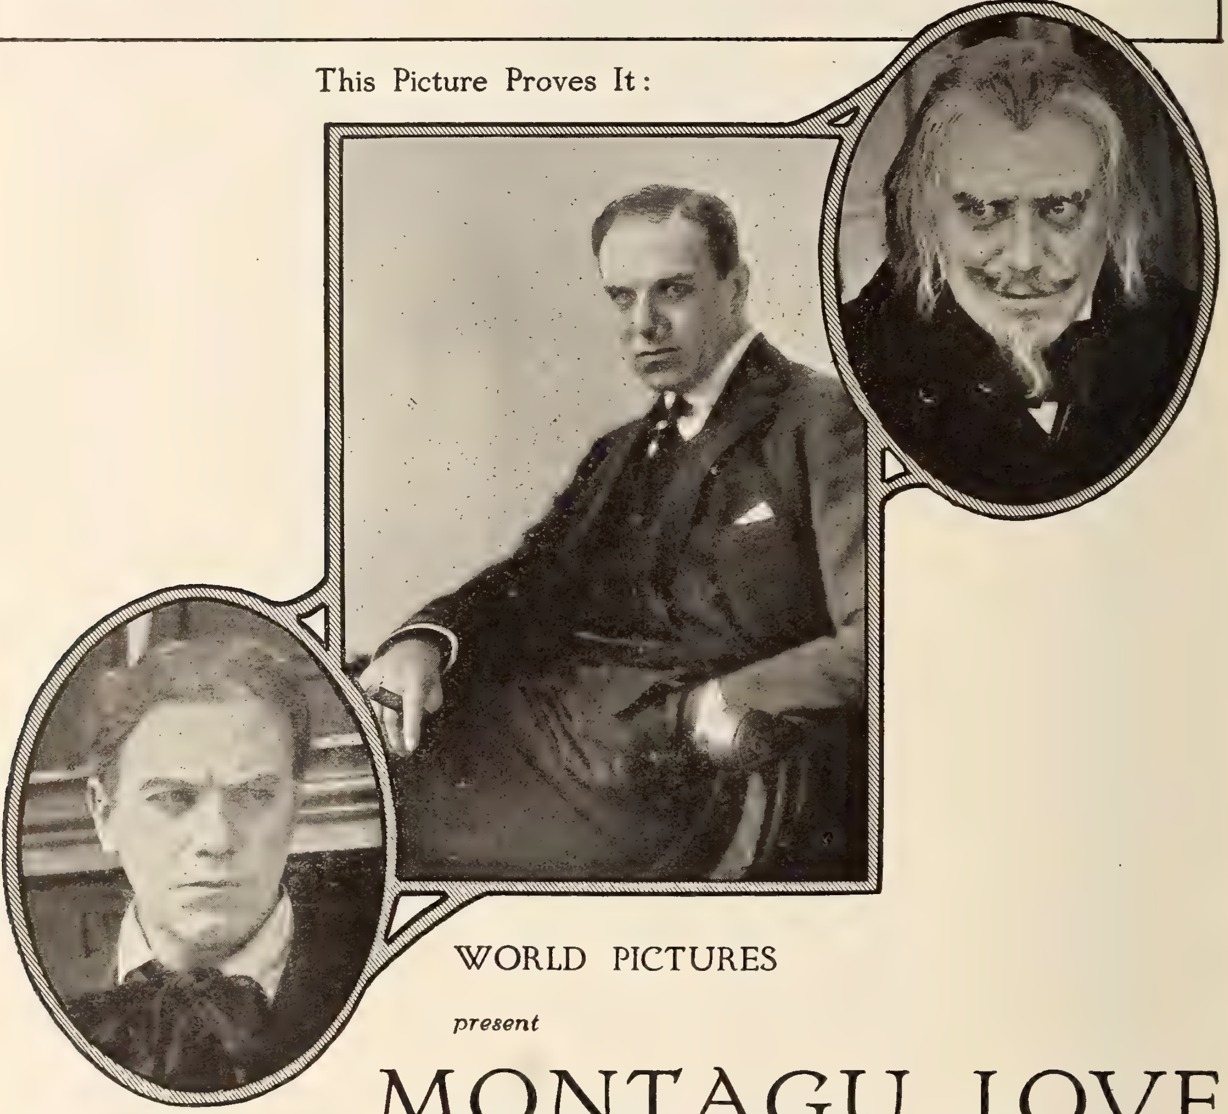
And these profits are assured by the tangible, known values of the United Artists, not by promises of future possibilities.

UNITED ARTISTS CORPORATION
729 Seventh Avenue
NEW YORK CITY
OSCAR A. PRICE, President.
HIRAM ABRAMS, General Manager.

WORLD PICTURES

THE MANSFIELD OF THE SCREEN

This Picture Proves It:



WORLD PICTURES

present

MONTAGU LOVE

in

"THROUGH THE TOILS"

With Ellen Cassity By Koby Kohn Directed by Harry O. Hoyt

NOT WHAT WE SAY——

ASK YOUR PUBLIC

SELECT SP PICTURES

presents

"BOLSHEVISM ON TRIAL"

Here are a few of the representative houses of highest standing, in all parts of the country, selected at random from the long list of those which have shown this timely Special Attraction, and shown it with the greatest success.

STRAND THEATRE
Portland, Maine

COLONIAL THEATRE
Richmond, Virginia

EMPIRE THEATRE
New London, Connecticut

MOUNT MORRIS THEATRE
New York City

ALHAMBRA THEATRE
Cincinnati, Ohio

HIPPODROME
Baltimore, Maryland

WOODLAWN THEATRE
Chicago, Illinois

LUBLINER AND TRINZ CIRCUIT
Chicago, Illinois

GRAND THEATRE
Gary, Indiana

PRINCESS THEATRE
Dubuque, Iowa

CASINO THEATRE
Spokane, Washington

MARCUS LOEW CIRCUIT
Manhattan, Brooklyn, Bronx and
New Rochelle, New York
Hoboken, New Jersey

WELLS THEATRE
Norfolk, Virginia

PROCTOR'S THEATRE
Schenectady, New York

ALHAMBRA THEATRE
Brooklyn, New York

STRAND THEATRE
Canton, Ohio

IMPERIAL THEATRE
Newport News, Virginia

TWENTIETH CENTURY THEATRE
Chicago, Illinois

COLONIAL THEATRE
La Salle, Illinois

PRINCESS THEATRE
Sioux City, Iowa

AMERICA THEATRE
Denver, Colorado

VICTORY THEATRE
Tacoma, Washington

TURNER AND DAHNKEN CIRCUIT
Oakland, Sacramento, Stockton and San Jose, California

These houses play pictures that pay. Are you booked?

From the novel
"COMRADES."
By Thomas Dixon

Produced by
MAYFLOWER PHOTOPLAY CORP.
Isaac Wolper, Pres.

SELECT SP PICTURES

presents

ALICE BRADY

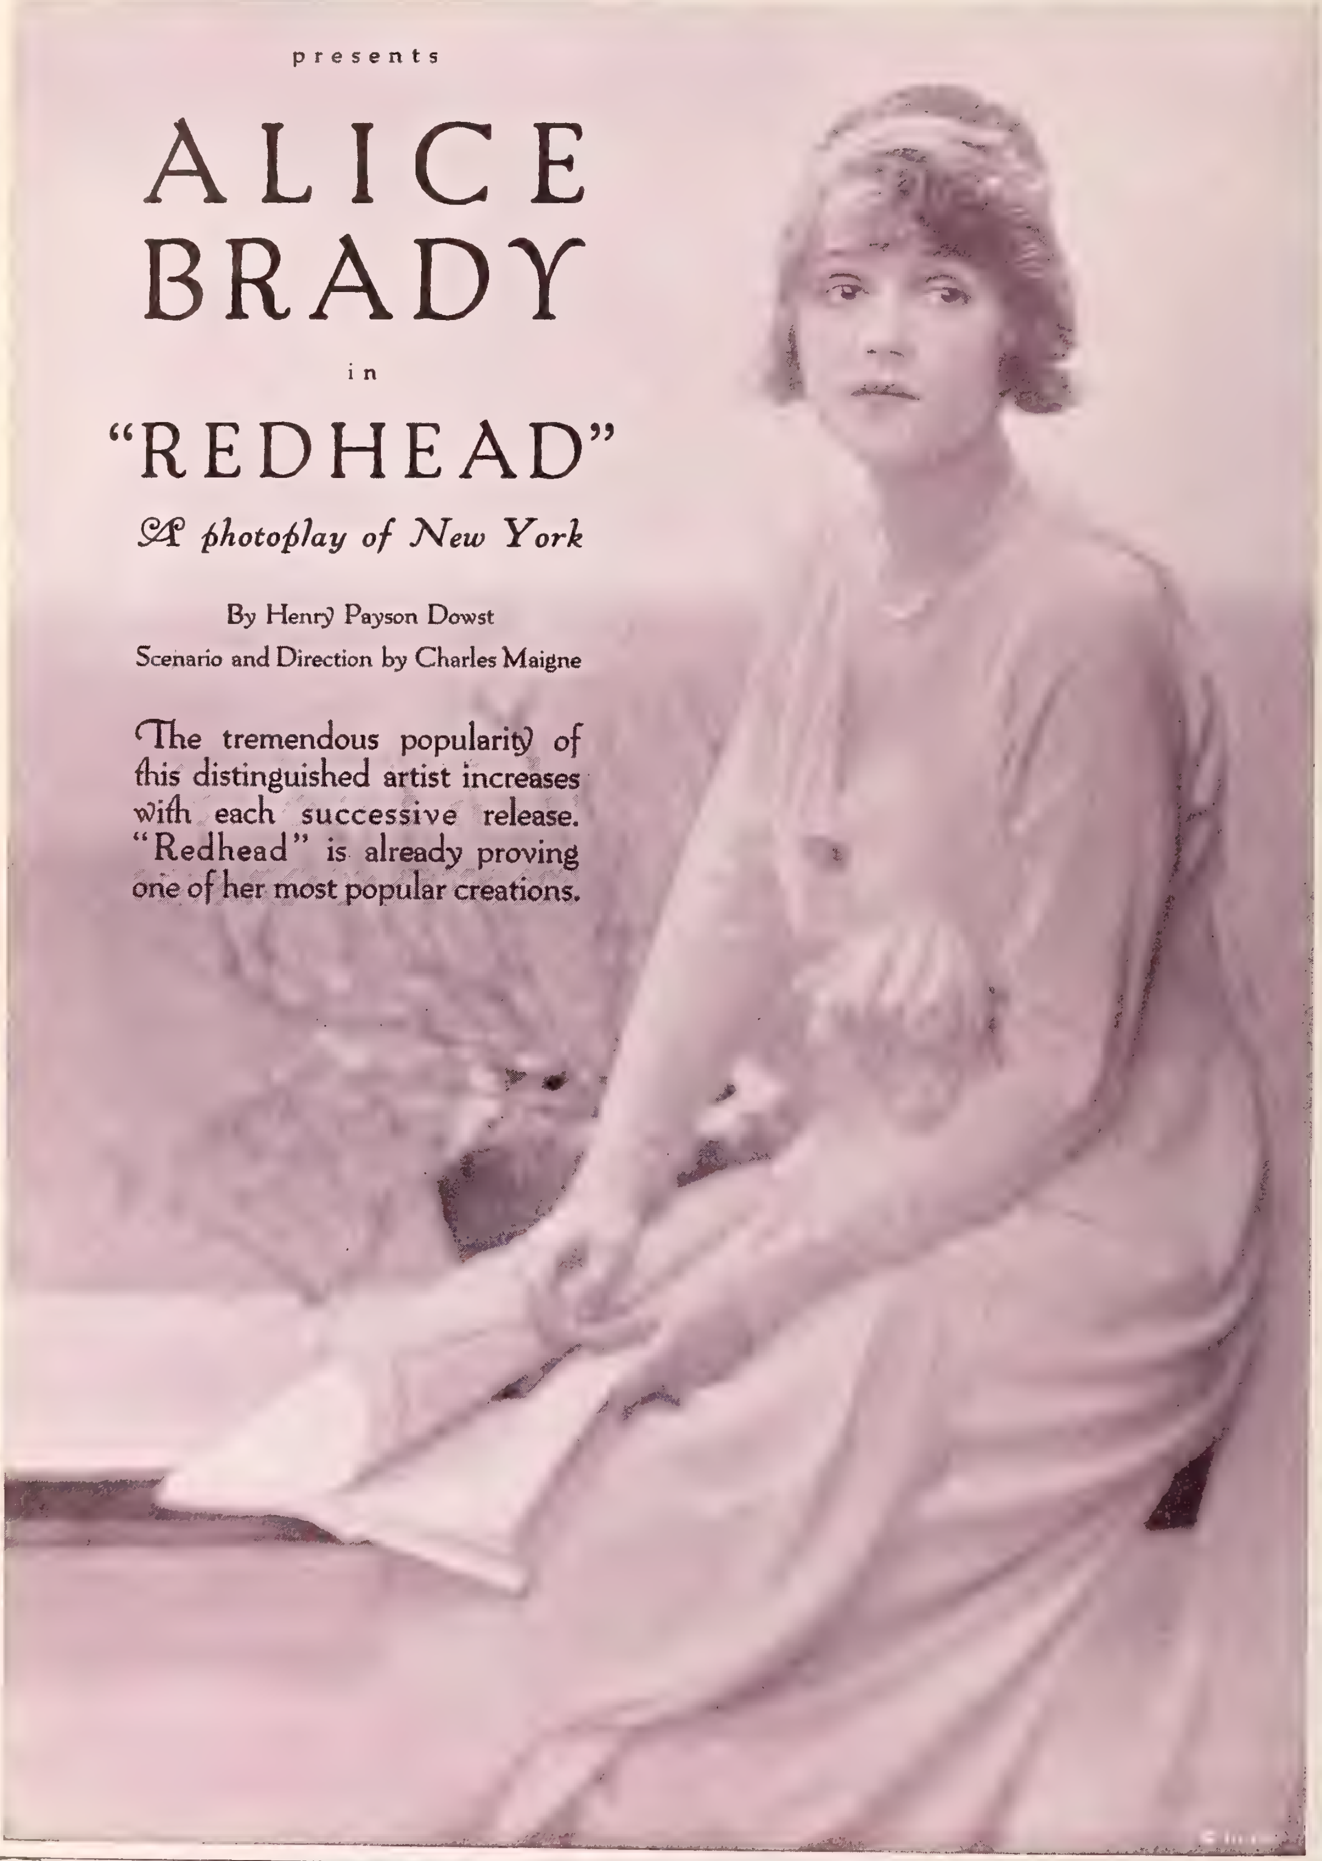
in

"REDHEAD"

A photoplay of New York

By Henry Payson Dowst
Scenario and Direction by Charles Maigne

The tremendous popularity of this distinguished artist increases with each successive release. "Redhead" is already proving one of her most popular creations.



SELZNICK
PICTURES

He married her for spite!

SELZNICK PICTURES

OLIVE THOMAS

The famous "baby vamp" of "Upstairs and Down" in a startlingly different role,——————in

SELZNICK
PICTURES

"THE SPITE BRIDE"

By Louise Winter

A drama of youthful impulse.

Distributed by
SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION

SELZNICK PICTURES

ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN
EIGHT PICTURES YEARLY
DISTRIBUTED BY SELECT

SELZNICK PICTURES

EUGENE O'BRIEN
IN
"THE PERFECT LOVER"
A RALPH INCE PRODUCTION
DISTRIBUTED BY SELECT

SELZNICK
PICTURES

WE TOLD YOU SO.

NOW LISTEN TO MR. JOS. L. PLUNKETT, MANAGER STRAND THEATRE, NEW YORK:

"OLIVE THOMAS IN 'UPSTAIRS AND DOWN' IS A CLEAN-UP AT THE STRAND THIS WEEK.

"THIS STAR HAS BEEN MADE ONE OF THE BIGGEST BETS IN PICTURES, BY SELZNICK EXPLOITATION."

Distributed by
SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION

American Film Company Inc.
Presents

MARGARITA FISHER
IN
"TRIXIE FROM BROADWAY"

By Agnes C. Johnston
Directed by Roy W. Neill

A story of stageland and the chorus girl who thought she could leave it for a home and husband.

A snappy, fast moving, melodramatic comedy-drama with a surprise finish. One of Fisher's best.

Exhibitor Comment on Recent Fisher Releases:

"Elegant entertainment."—"Big business two days."—"Splendid picture to big business."—"Good picture, good puller."—"Delighted our patrons." "Three days to capacity business"—"Fisher productions very popular."

Produced by
AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, Inc.
Samuel S. Hutchinson, President

AMERICAN FLYING "A" PICTURES

Distributed by
PATHÉ

The Woman Who Feared Love

SAMUEL GOLDWYN
PRESENTS

PAULINE FREDERICK

IN

THE FEAR WOMAN

by Izola Forrester
Directed by John A. Barry

Black mists of dread rose between her eyes and the eyes of her lover—dread of the living past and the ghosts of yesterday. And fear that her love might perpetuate the terrible thing she had seen in the dead eyes of her father.

The story of how this fine sensitive passionate woman rose from the depths of that fear, fighting and conquering, makes a gripping drama peculiarly suited to the wide emotional range of Pauline Frederick.

"The Fear Woman" gives the great emotional star every opportunity to exert to the full her power, her beauty, her magnificent appeal.

GOLDWYN PICTURES
CORPORATION
SAMUEL GOLDWYN President

Betzwood Film Company
presents

LOUIS BENNISON

in

The ROAD CALLED STRAIGHT

by Wilson Bayley; Directed by Ira M. Lowry

These are the days when Americans want true American entertainment.

They want stories filled with the strength and kindliness of our common life.

They want stories that handle the problems we meet every day, and handle them with splendid optimism.

They want American idealism and American punch.

No star of the screen has so epitomized the finest and most appealing qualities of genuine Americanism as Louis Bennison.

In no production has Louis Bennison had such full opportunity to demonstrate those qualities as in "The Road Called Straight"—the story of a strong, simple, kindly American who didn't know the meaning of a marriage of convenience.

That is why Louis Bennison, through "The Road Called Straight," has made a quicker conquest of the first run houses than any new star in the screen's history.

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING
CORPORATION
SAMUEL GOLDWYN President

Start

building your business for the future. Put in the screen magazine of vision—the Ford Educational Weekly. It thinks ahead with the Patrons that pay—the people whose word of judgment sends friends to your theatre. It shows them the triumphs of industrial America in which they hope to share. It carries them to lands they expect to visit. It has the quality these people appreciate—the solid perfection of the thing with a future. Make it a part of your program today.

FITZPATRICK and McELROY
Chicago
Sole Representatives
FORD MOTOR CO.
Motion Picture
Laboratories

FORD EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY

Clip, Fill Out and Mail

Goldwyn Distributing Corporation,
469 Fifth Ave.,
New York City.

Send me, free of rental, one issue of the Ford Educational Weekly. I will pay expressage from and to nearest Goldwyn office.

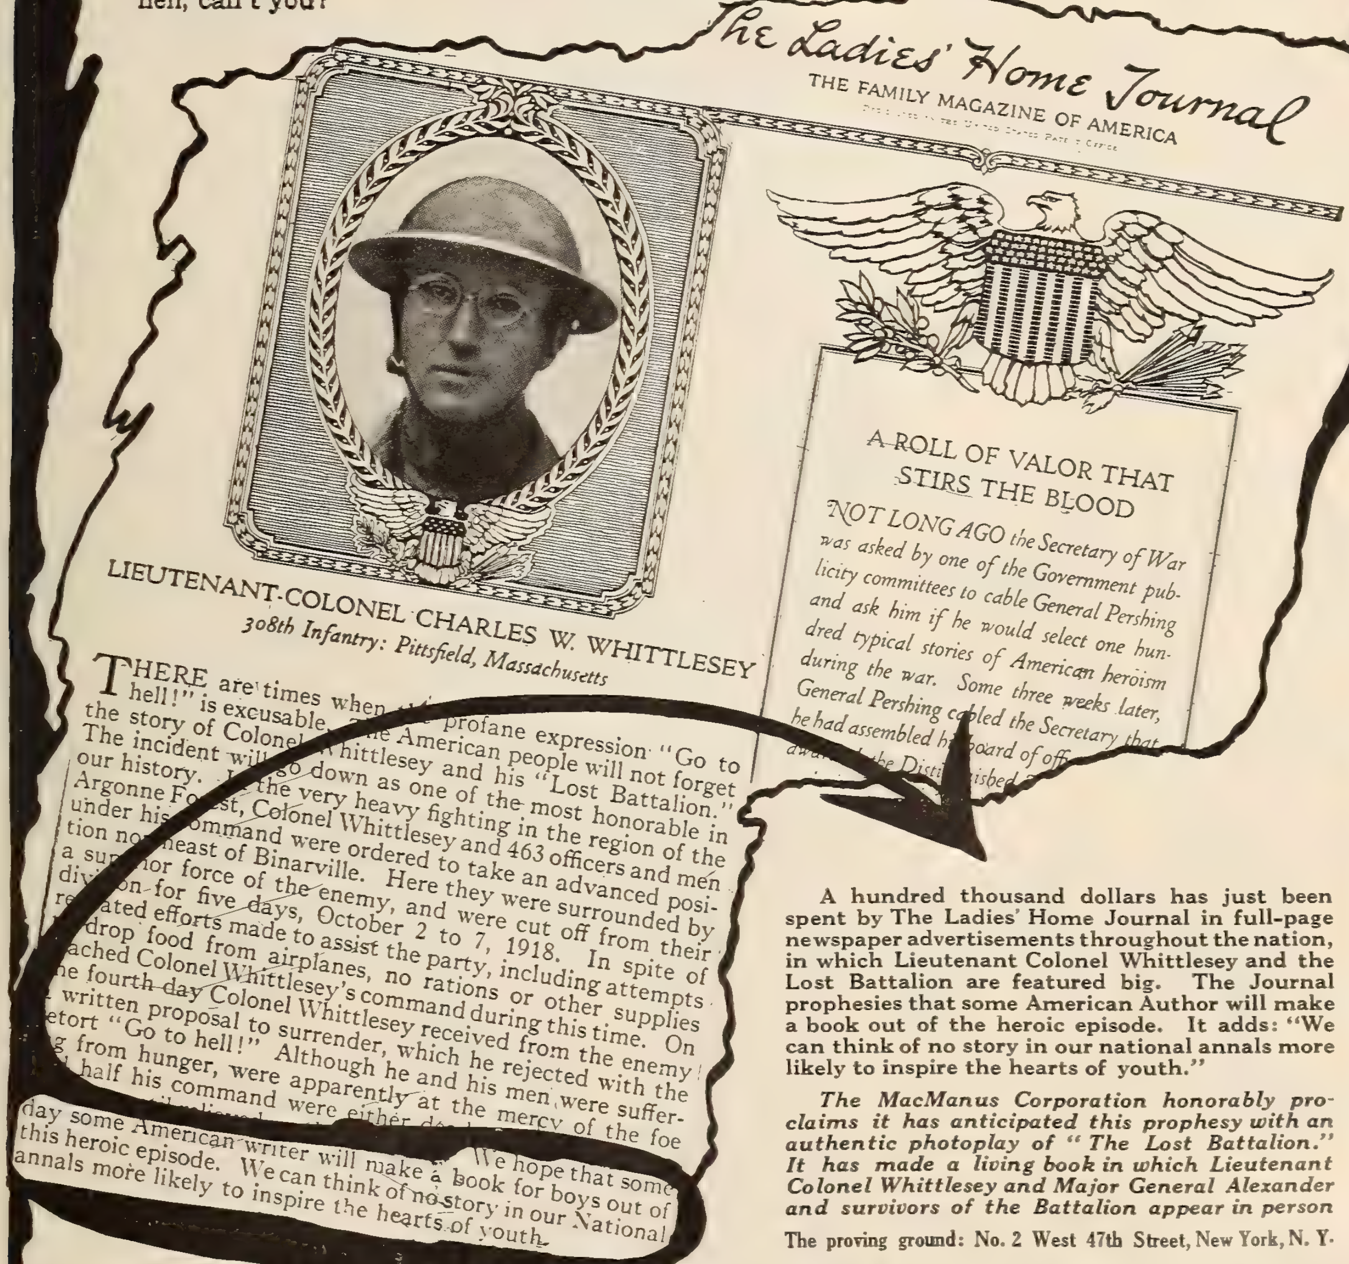
____________________ Manager,
____________________ Theatre,
____________________ City, State.

H

"The Real Show All Right"

"You've Got Us to the Life," Said "The Lost Battalion" Private

"That's the Argonne, all right," he said, as he looked at THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL's great "Lost Battalion" picture. "Say, you can almost hear Whittlesey telling the Hun to go to hell, can't you?"



The Ladies' Home Journal
THE FAMILY MAGAZINE OF AMERICA

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL CHARLES W. WHITTLESEY
308th Infantry: Pittsfield, Massachusetts

THERE are times when [illegible] profane expression "Go to hell!" is excusable. [illegible]e American people will not forget the story of Colonel [illegible]hittlesey and his "Lost Battalion." The incident will go down as one of the most honorable in our history. In the very heavy fighting in the region of the Argonne Forest, Colonel Whittlesey and 463 officers and men under his command were ordered to take an advanced position northeast of Binarville. Here they were surrounded by a superior force of the enemy, and were cut off from their division for five days, October 2 to 7, 1918. In spite of repeated efforts made to assist the party, including attempts [illegible] drop food from airplanes, no rations or other supplies [illegible]ached Colonel Whittlesey's command during this time. On [illegible]he fourth day Colonel Whittlesey received from the enemy [illegible] written proposal to surrender, which he rejected with the [illegible]etort "Go to hell!" Although he and his men were suffer[illegible]g from hunger, were apparently at the mercy of the foe [illegible] half his command were either [illegible] … We hope that some day some American writer will make a book for boys out of this heroic episode. We can think of no story in our National annals more likely to inspire the hearts of youth.

A ROLL OF VALOR THAT STIRS THE BLOOD

NOT LONG AGO the Secretary of War was asked by one of the Government publicity committees to cable General Pershing and ask him if he would select one hundred typical stories of American heroism during the war. Some three weeks later, General Pershing cabled the Secretary that he had assembled his board of off[illegible] awa[illegible] the Disti[illegible]ished

A hundred thousand dollars has just been spent by The Ladies' Home Journal in full-page newspaper advertisements throughout the nation, in which Lieutenant Colonel Whittlesey and the Lost Battalion are featured big. The Journal prophesies that some American Author will make a book out of the heroic episode. It adds: "We can think of no story in our national annals more likely to inspire the hearts of youth."

The MacManus Corporation honorably proclaims it has anticipated this prophesy with an authentic photoplay of "The Lost Battalion." It has made a living book in which Lieutenant Colonel Whittlesey and Major General Alexander and survivors of the Battalion appear in person

The proving ground: No. 2 West 47th Street, New York, N. Y.

See the June Ladies' Home Journal

TWO MILLION COPIES

BOOKED BY THE STRAND

New York City

The color, the drama, the remarkable atmosphere of "Sahara" made a tremendous and instant appeal to the great New York institution.

With six more big productions bought under contract than its directors can play between now and September, the owners and Managing Director of The Strand have booked for an immediate playing date

J. Parker Read Jr.'s presentation of

LOUISE GLAUM

in Sahara

By C. Gardner Sullivan Personally supervised by Allan Dwan

This booking proves more than anything else we could tell you the Mark-Strand Company's estimation of "Sahara's" value and power. For, to make room for it, some other picture valuable enough to have caused the Strand to book it, goes on the shelf.

Joseph L. Plunkett, managing director of The Strand says: " 'Sahara' is one of the finest special productions of the past year."

See the announcements of other big first run and circuit bookings on "Sahara" in the various trade journals this week.

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION
527 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Distributing through PATHÉ Exchange, Incorporated

KINEMA — LOS ANGELES

at a record-breaking rental has booked for its first run American pre-release and for an immediate playing date in one of the greatest theatres of the Pacific Coast the first

Benjamin B. Hampton Production of Great Authors Pictures Inc.

The WESTERNERS

The photoplay of the novel by
STEWART EDWARD WHITE

Directed by Edward Sloman

with an all star cast:

ROY STEWART
MILDRED MANNING
ROBERT McKIM
WILFRED LUCAS
MARY JANE IRVING
GRAHAM PETTIE
FRANKIE LEE

Here is a production of tremendous virility, the first of the new kind of great screen achievements made under the direct supervision of the author; a production that exhibitors at once will recognize as being of mid-winter dimension and audience power.

Available now for pre-release showing in the large American cities.

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION
527 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Distributing through PATHÉ Exchange, Incorporated
Foreign Distributor, J. Frank Brockliss, Inc. 729-7th Ave.

He Rode Into Hell In Defense Of A Woman

Millions of Americans know daredevil, loyal Fighting Dick Gale as well as if he were a member of their own families.

Millions know Nell, the fair-haired sweetheart, and Mercedes, the beautiful, persecuted Spanish girl.

Millions remember villainous revengeful Rojas, the bandit leader.

Millions remember Blanco Sol, Diablo and the famous Belding white horses.

The several million copies of the famous novel have made you, the exhibitors, that many millions of additional patrons for the

Benjamin B. Hampton & Eltinge F. Warner's presentation of

ZANE GREY'S

most powerful picture

DESERT GOLD

Directed by
T. HAYES HUNTER

With an all-star cast:
E. K. LINCOLN

MARGERY WILSON	EILEEN PERCY
W. LAWSON BUTT	ARTHUR MORRISON
WALTER LONG	FRANK LANNING
EDWARD COXEN	FRANK BROWNLEE
RUSSELL SIMPSON	WILLIAM BAINBRIDGE

Just produced and shortly ready for pre-release in the larger cities as the first of the Zane Grey Pictures, Inc., made under the personal supervision of the author.

You can throw out four or five average pictures to make room for this remarkable production.

W. W. HODKINSON CORPORATION
527 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Distributing through PATHÉ Exchange, Incorporated
Foreign Distributor, J. Frank Brockliss, Inc. 729-7th Ave.

For what The Salvation Army did in France it will be loved forever by millions of Americans. One of the outstanding events of a life-time will be the growth in public affection of a meek and humble organization that reached the peaks of greatness.

Never again will the street bands of singers or the heroic women who make their way into lowly places be regarded with anything but increasing love and respect.

For the reason that it is a wonderful drama of laughter and tears, a story of the human heart, and to reach with it through your theatre the affections of America's millions, you will want to save an open spot in your house schedule for

Billie Rhodes
in The BLUE BONNET

By E. Magnus Ingleton
Directed by Louis Wm. Chaudet

A STORY OF "OVER HERE"

Produced and presented by the NATIONAL FILM CORP. of AMERICA William Parsons, Pres.

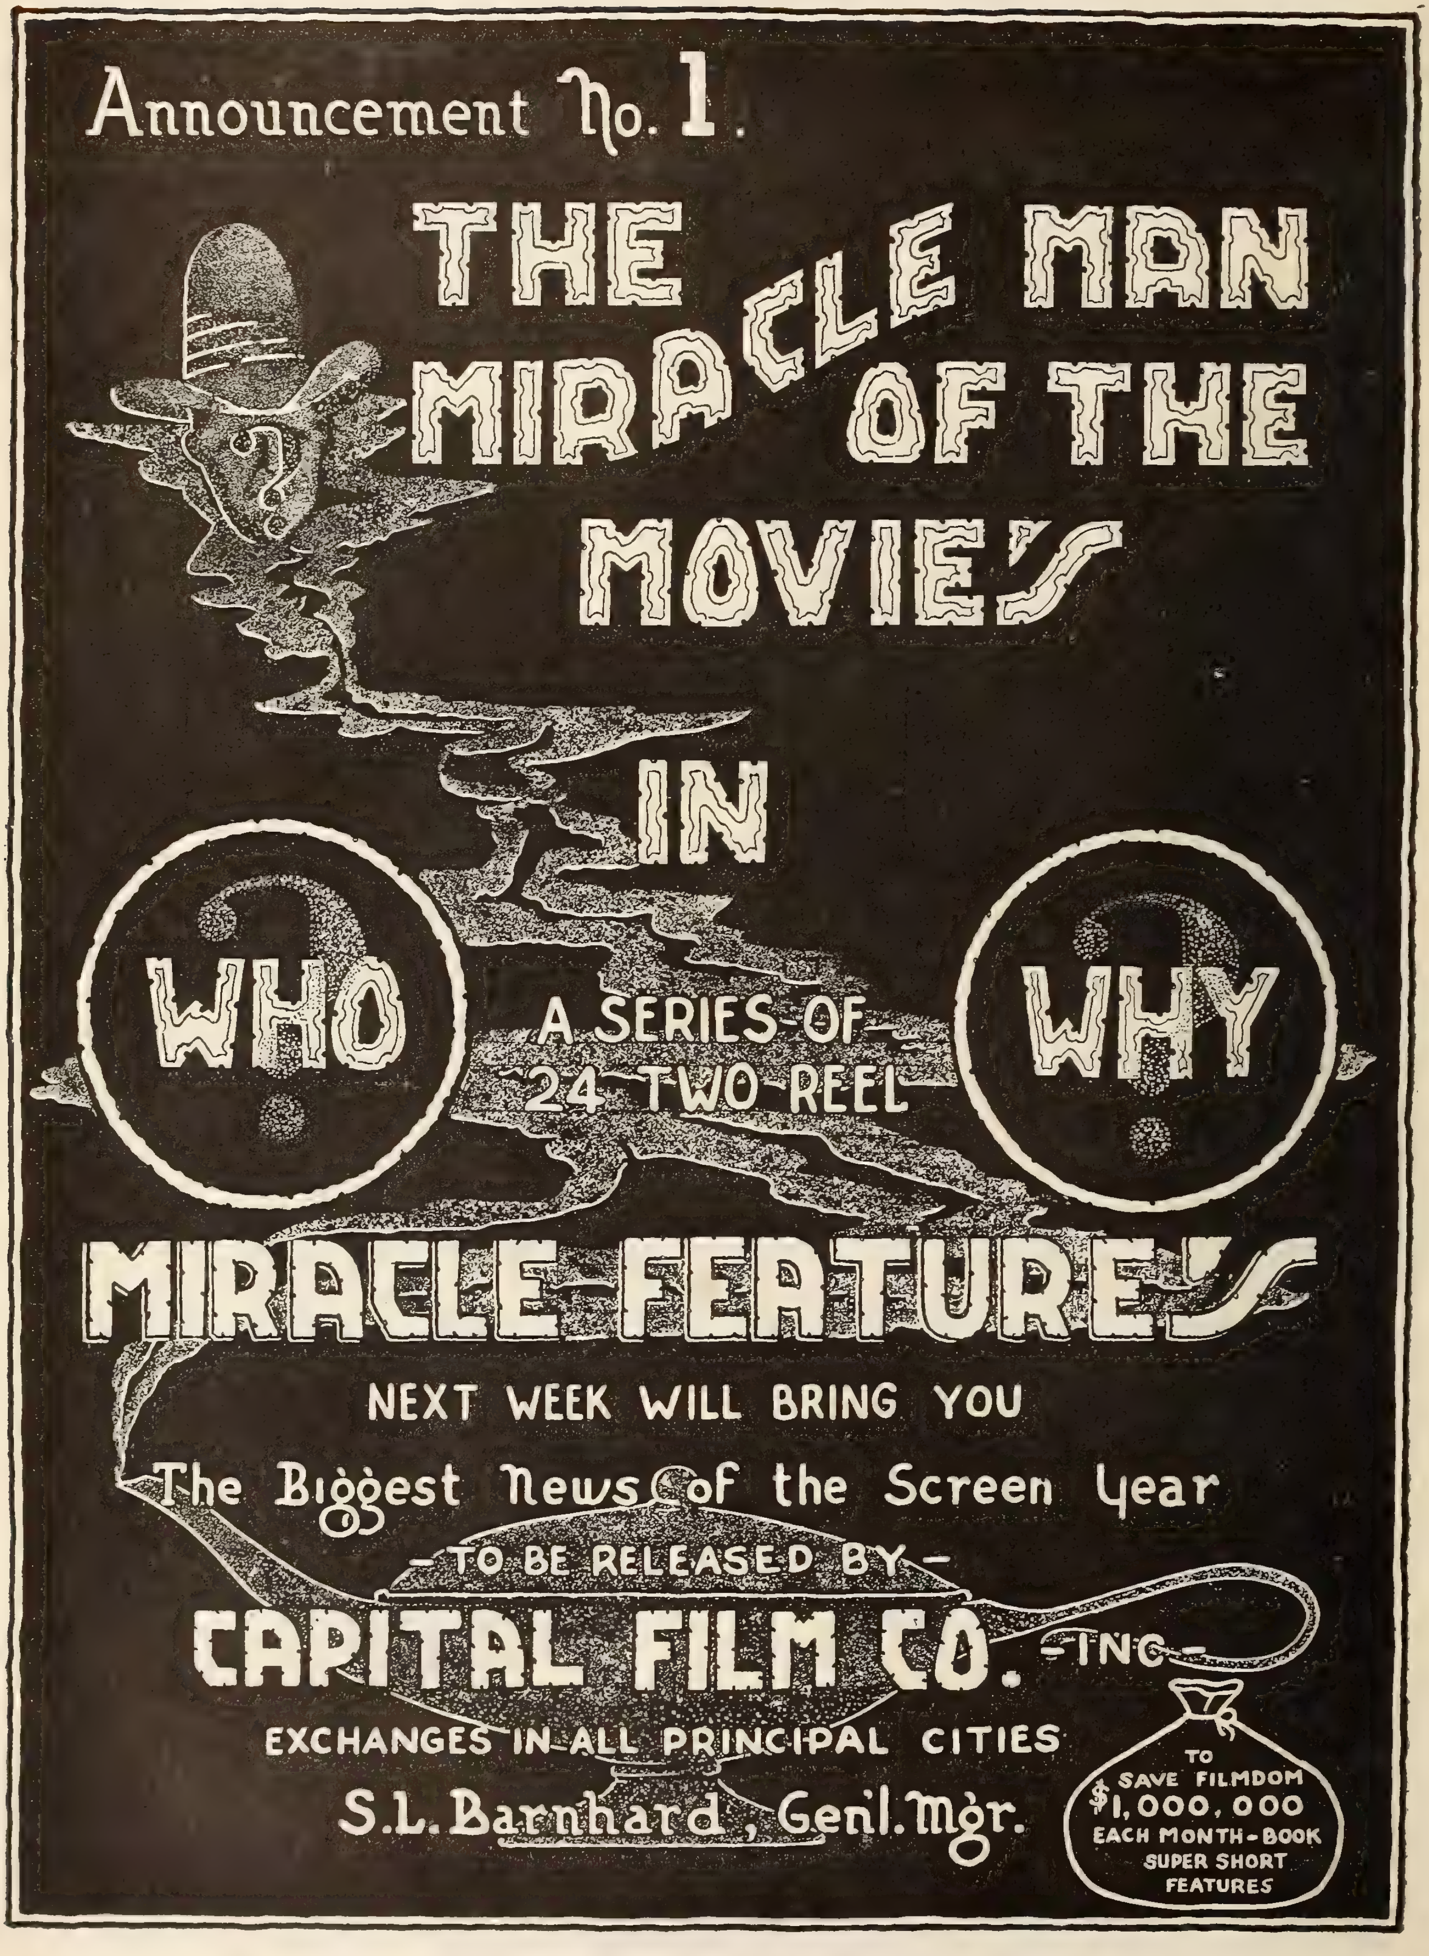
We are pleased to announce to the exhibitors of America that all future Billie Rhodes productions will be distributed exclusively through the Hodkinson organization.

W.W. HODKINSON CORPORATION
527 Fifth Avenue, New York City
Distributing through PATHÉ Exchange, Incorporated



Announcement No. 1.

THE MIRACLE MAN OF THE MOVIES

IN

WHO? A SERIES OF 24 TWO REEL WHY?

MIRACLE FEATURES

NEXT WEEK WILL BRING YOU

The Biggest News of the Screen Year

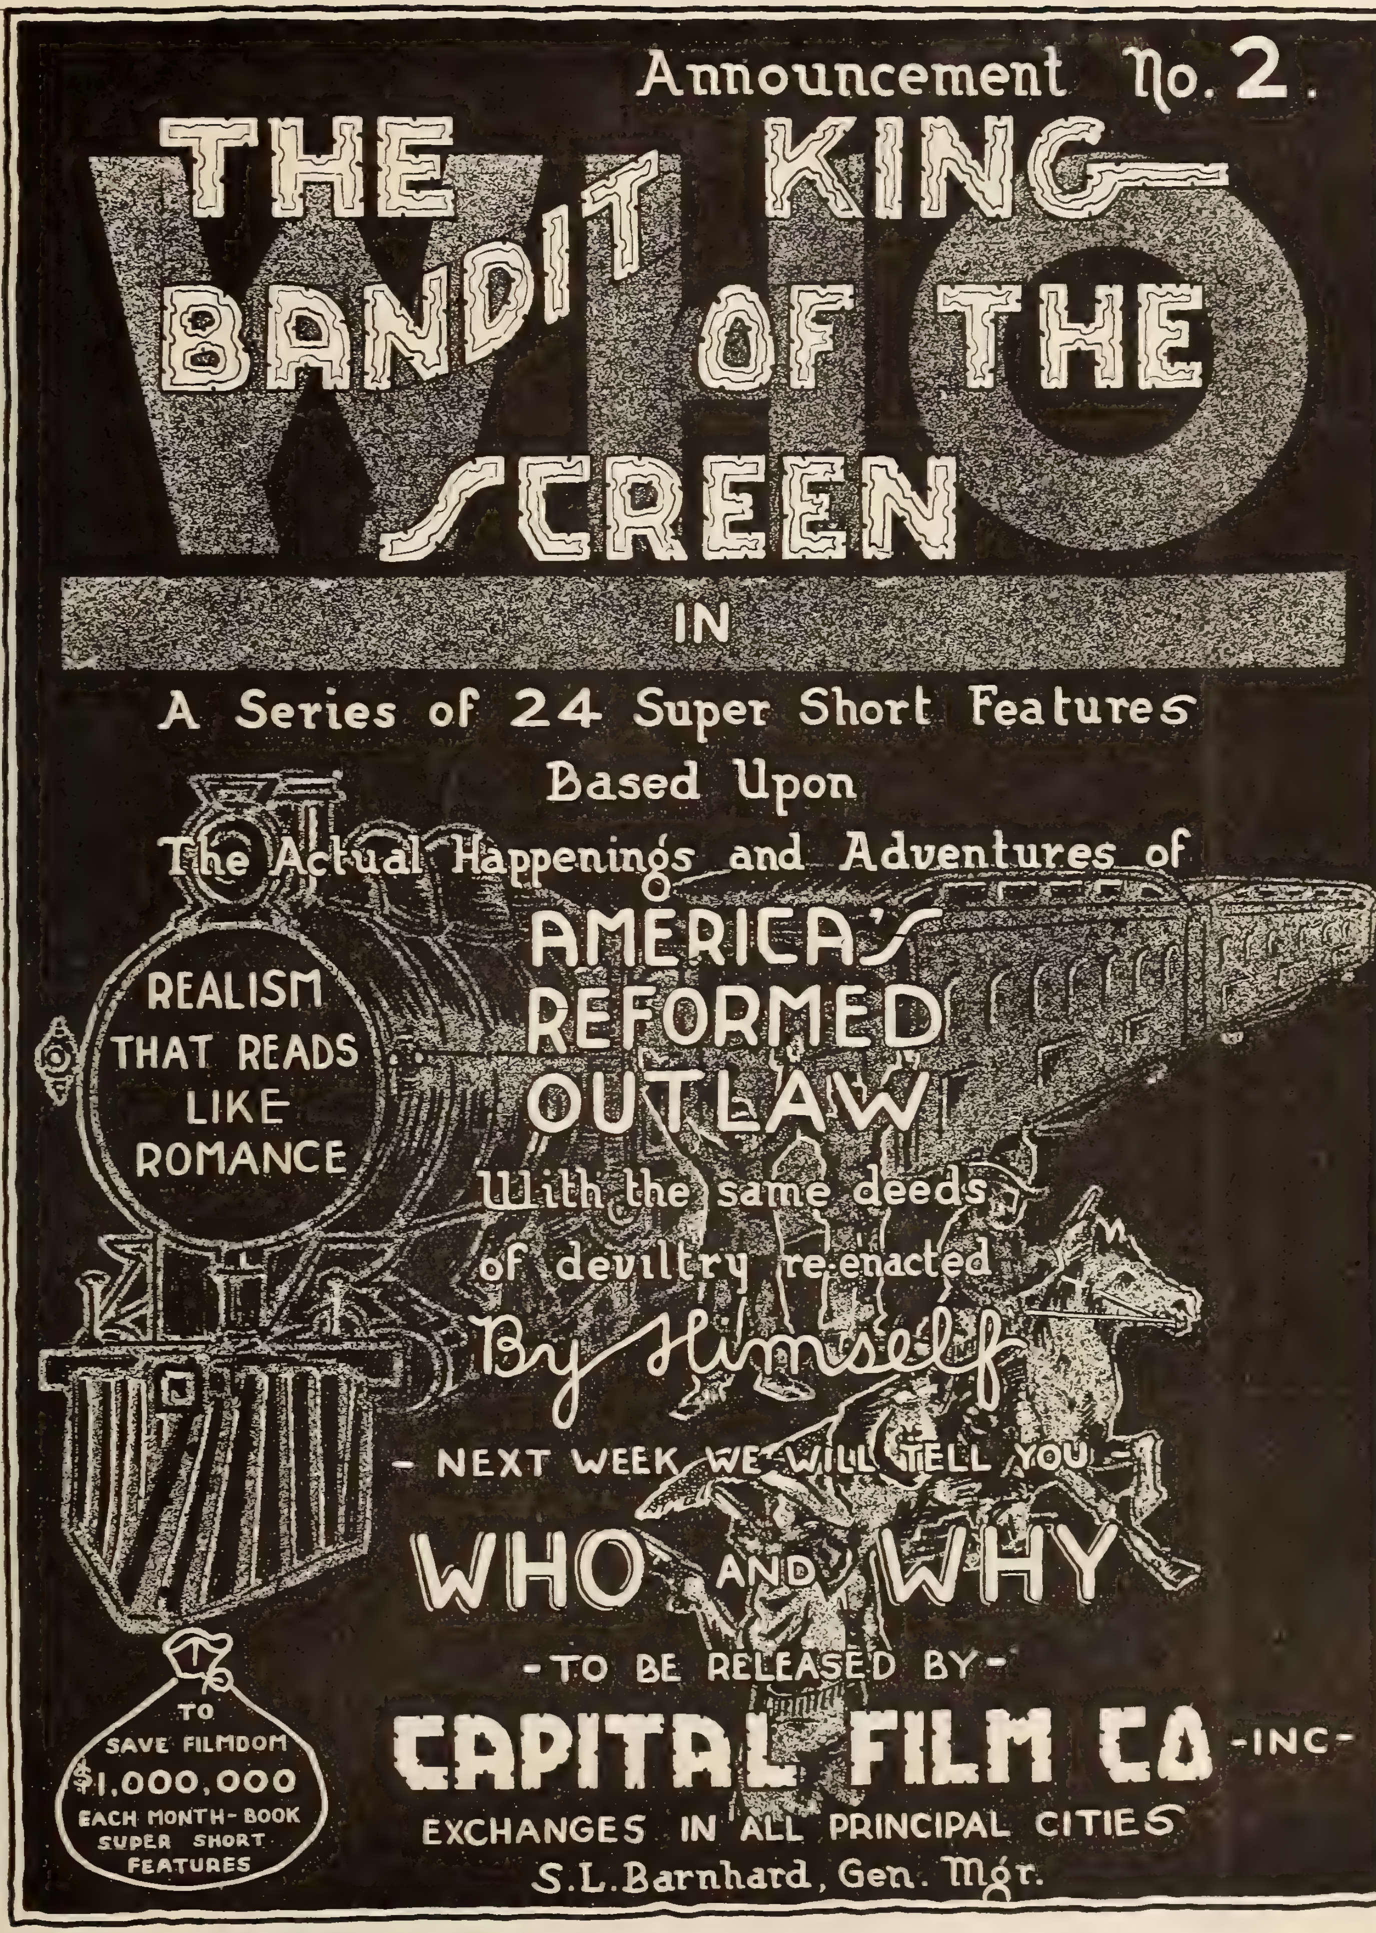
-TO BE RELEASED BY-

CAPITAL FILM CO. -INC-

EXCHANGES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

S. L. Barnhard, Gen'l. Mgr.

TO SAVE FILMDOM $1,000,000 EACH MONTH - BOOK SUPER SHORT FEATURES



Announcement No. 2.

THE BANDIT KING OF THE SCREEN

WHO

IN

A Series of 24 Super Short Features

Based Upon

The Actual Happenings and Adventures of

AMERICA'S REFORMED OUTLAW

With the same deeds of deviltry re-enacted
By Himself

REALISM THAT READS LIKE ROMANCE

- NEXT WEEK WE WILL TELL YOU -

WHO AND WHY

- TO BE RELEASED BY -

CAPITAL FILM CO -INC-

EXCHANGES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

S. L. Barnhard, Gen. Mgr.

TO SAVE FILMDOM $1,000,000 EACH MONTH - BOOK SUPER SHORT FEATURES

San Francisco. June 1st. Tonight Completes a Very Successful Week's Run for Playthings of Passion At Our Tivoli Theatre, San Francisco. We Consider This the Best Kitty Gordon Picture Ever Released.

Turner & Dahnken Circuit

It will make the women gasp. Whenever you have a picture that makes the women talk you have a Picture That Brings More Women to See It.

Wid's Daily

The atmosphere throughout is convincing. Exceptionally good character types add immeasurably to its realness.

Morning Telegraph

Playthings Of Passion is a "different" type of photo-drama. You Will Like It.

Los Angeles Herald

Kitty Gordon

IN HER LATEST STUNNING
UNITED SUPERPICTURE

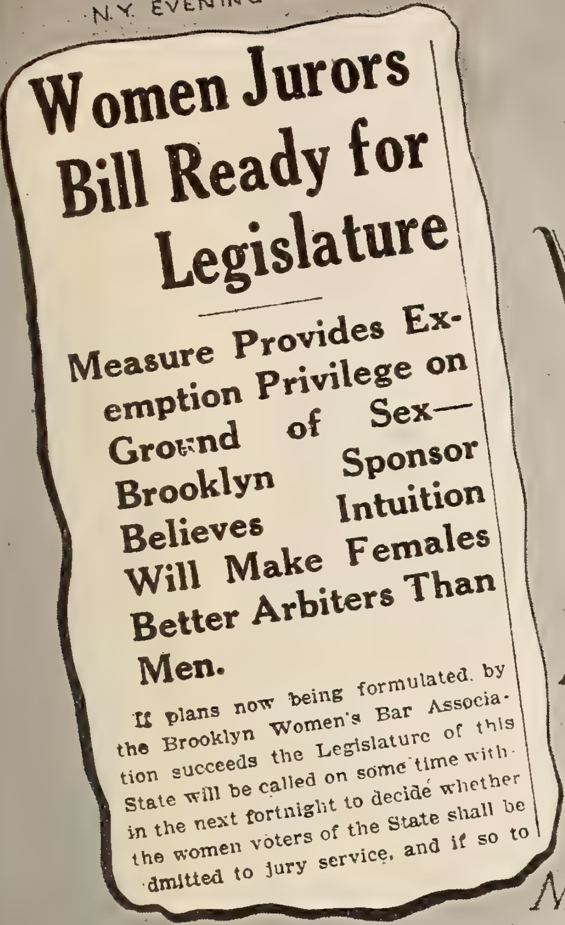
PLAYTHINGS of PASSION

By Wm Anthony McGuire
Directed by Wellace Worsley
Supervised by Robert Brunton.

United Picture Theatres of America Inc
J. A. Berst pres
1600 Broadway New York

2600 United Theatres

N.Y. EVENING SUN 2.10.1919.



Women Jurors Bill Ready for Legislature

Measure Provides Exemption Privilege on Ground of Sex—Brooklyn Sponsor Believes Intuition Will Make Females Better Arbiters Than Men.

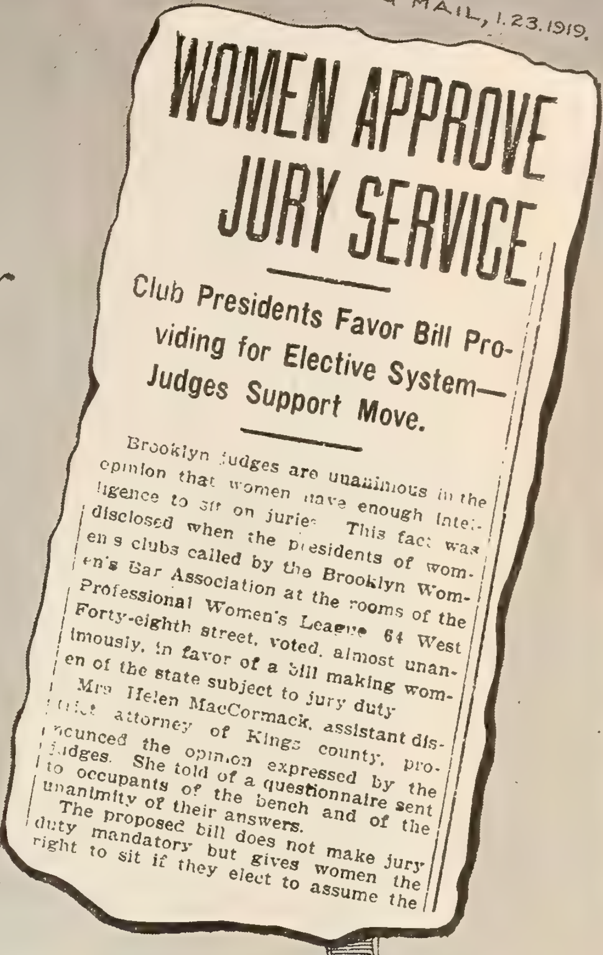
If plans now being formulated by the Brooklyn Women's Bar Association succeeds the Legislature of this State will be called on some time within the next fortnight to decide whether the women voters of the State shall be dmitted to jury service, and if so to

-SOON-

The Woman Under Oath

HER THRILLING EXPERIENCE -ON A- NEW YORK JURY

N.Y. EVENING MAIL, 1.23.1919.



WOMEN APPROVE JURY SERVICE

Club Presidents Favor Bill Providing for Elective System—Judges Support Move.

Brooklyn judges are unanimous in the opinion that women have enough intelligence to sit on juries. This fact was disclosed when the presidents of women's clubs called by the Brooklyn Women's Bar Association at the rooms of the Professional Women's League 64 West Forty-eighth street, voted, almost unanimously, in favor of a bill making women of the state subject to jury duty.

Mrs Helen MacCormack, assistant district attorney of Kings county, pronounced the opinion expressed by the judges. She told of a questionnaire sent to occupants of the bench and of the unanimity of their answers.

The proposed bill does not make jury duty mandatory but gives women the right to sit if they elect to assume the

Produced by TRIBUNE PRODUCTIONS INC.

Starring

Florence Reed

United Picture Theatres of America INC.
J.A. Berst pres.
1600 Broadway New York.

JOHN M. STAHL

Director of

FLORENCE REED

IN

"THE WOMAN UNDER OATH"

"WIVES OF MEN" and "HER CODE OF HONOR"

NOW DIRECTING

MOLLIE KING

IN

"GREATER THAN LOVE"

FOR

AMERICAN CINEMA CORPORATION

Bessie Barriscale's Screen Successes

"ALL OF A SUDDEN NORMA"—in which a quick witted girl shows 'em how to make money.

"A TRICK OF FATE"—a startling contrast between a modest dancing teacher and a Parisian dancer.

"HEARTS ASLEEP"—in which it is proven that blood and not environment makes a lady.

"JOSSELYN'S WIFE"—adapted from Kathleen Norris' popular novel and based on a love quadrangle.

Released by
Robertson-Cole Company
Division of Films
through
Exhibitors Mutual

Directed by
HOWARD HICKMAN

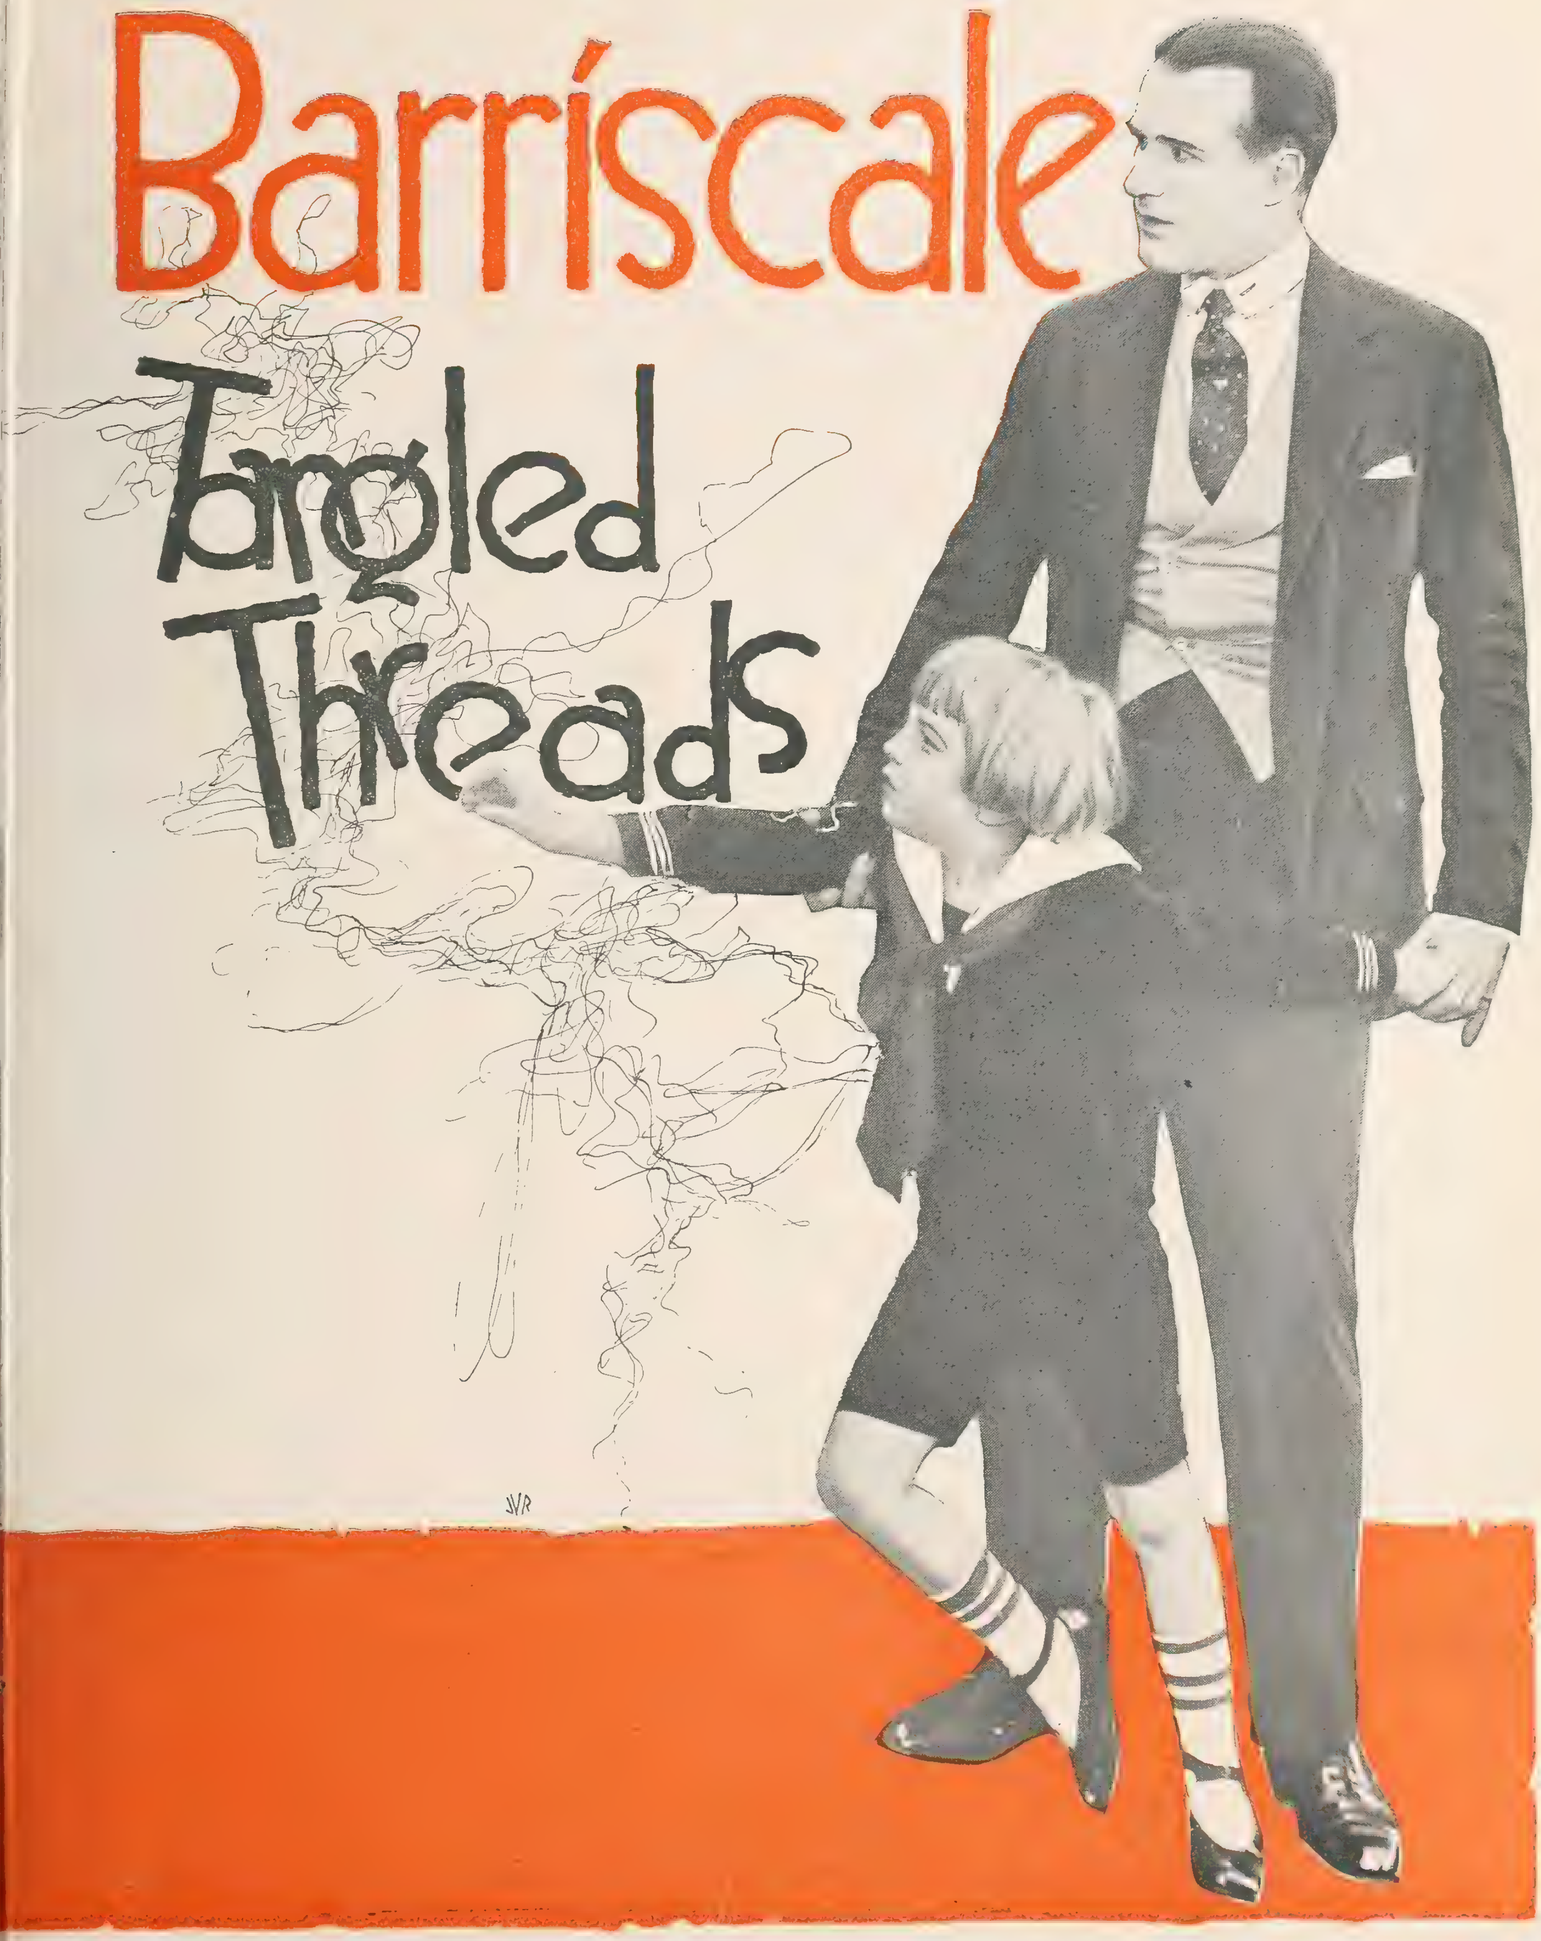
Produced by
B. B. FEATURES

Miss

MISS Barriscale's admirers will immediately recognize "Tangled Threads" as a play which gives this actress an exceptional opportunity to exercise her peculiar talent for mingling tears and laughter in one picture. It is a film which touches all the emotions and still leaves one with a happy feeling of satisfaction.

It represents the powerful alliance of a great actress in a big play, a happy combination that registers its value in pleased patrons and Box-Office results. It is an opportunity the keen exhibitor will utilize to the fullest extent.

Supporting Miss Barriscale are Rosemary Theby, Nigel Barrie, Henry Kolker, Thomas Holding and little Ben Alexander. It is a B. B. Feature, directed by Howard Hickman.



Barriscale
Tangled Threads
JVR

"Splendid Pictures Big Business" consensus of exhibitors' opinions on

BARRISCALE
PRODUCTIONS

WITH a record of steadily consistent successes in which she appeared as a different type in every picture, Bessie Barriscale in the productions released by Robertson-Cole through Exhibitors Mutual, has achieved the reputation of being America's most versatile screen actress and because of this has built up a tremendous following. She is a star who gives to exhibitors that certain patronage which must form the backbone of their business.

"A splendid picture—Big Business," is the consensus of exhibitors' opinions reported in the various trade journals on all the Barriscale productions. The public is the great final judge, the audience, and the exhibitor is the man who knows the public. Such praise as is quoted above is the highest possible tribute to an actor or actress of the screen.

By bringing Miss Barriscale to your house you are not only securing success for the moment in a financial way, but you are gaining patronage which will return with every Barriscale feature. Be one of those who are in the position to report "Big Business."

Released by
Robertson-Cole Company
Division of Films
through
Exhibitors Mutual

A Dramatic Close-up of the Mother Heart

Of all the dramas of mother-love, ever so powerful, so appealing, here is one that strikes a new chord.

Alice Joyce, more wonderful with each succeeding picture, portrays an entirely new type of role in "The Spark Divine," written especially for her by Alicia Ramsey and directed by Tom Terriss.

Mother-love—at first the mere spark, then the full fierce flame of awakened motherhood! Here is a subject that is close to the heart of the woman, the man and the child. It is a drama of universal sympathy and understanding.

Not once is the beauty of this picture interrupted. The titles, themselves, are pictorial as they gleam against a fleecy background of rolling golden clouds.

A glittering, brilliant icicle! Such is Alice Joyce as the girl without a heart in "The Spark Divine."

A radiant, glowing orchid! But she is artificially reared to care for nothing but fashion, frivolity and the extravagant vanities of life.

Perfectly gowned, perfectly poised, Alice Joyce is the girl who fascinates admirers, just as does an exquisitely carved, color-glowing diamond.

To preserve her setting of luxury, "the girl without a heart" marries. It is a marriage of cool, calculating purpose. Unlike many other women who have married for money or position, however, this girl frankly tells the man that there is no love, only a desire to keep her position in the world of show and pretense.

Vainly he endeavors to awaken the love that he believes is glowing beneath the cold exterior.

Motherhood comes. Surely the spark divine will be awakened. The woman still remains a lovely image, without a single tender, warm impulse. She seems a sculptured work of beauty without the warmth of feeling that responds to the touch of baby fingers.

Desperate, the husband watches for the first flush of mother love. It is in vain. He resorts to a mad scheme.

The denouement of the story is startling, surprising, thrilling. It sweeps to a breath-taking climax.

"The Spark Divine" is a story of elemental love in a setting of luxury, fashion, beautiful artifice.

Alice Joyce has never developed a more striking, heart-compelling work of art.

"The Spark Divine" is one picture worth seeing.

ALBERT E. SMITH
presents
ALICE JOYCE in
"THE SPARK DIVINE"
By Alicia Ramsey
Directed by Tom Terriss

A Trio of Scenes from "The Spark Divine," Vitagraph's unusual drama of Mother-love

Advt.

What

Mary Pickford

in her greatest picture

"Daddy Long Legs"

Directed by Marshal Neilan
Photographed by Charles Rosher is doing for exhibitors

From "Wid's Daily" June 5th

each one ope n-Cole film, five or using "The Turn in the Road."

Swaps "Daddy" for 10 Acts

Lansing, Mich.—"Daddy Long Legs" was booked to replace 10 acts of vaudeville at the Bijou, by Manager W. DeWald.

"A Damsel in Distr

CHA
LENC

That shows it's caliber

And that's not the only one. Read this

"Despite first hot weather of the season and strong competition including Red Lantern and Mickey, Rialto played more people last week than any other picture ever did in one week."

This comes from H. M. THOMAS, manager of one of Omaha's largest and finest theatres and it speaks for itself.

Here's another, from

F. ZARTMAN, Manager of the Strand Theatre. Dayton. Ohio

"I do not believe that there has ever been a picture shown in the Strand which has given the universal satisfaction as that given by Mary Pickford in "Daddy Long Legs," which closed a four days' engagement last night. "Daddy Long Legs" was produced during our run by a Stock Company at a local house. Really there could be no comparison in the matter of where the best show was offered."

Mary Pickford will produce Two More For US

A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT

This great combination is now at work on their first picture

Joseph M. Schenck presents

Constance Talmadge

in her first

John Emerson—Anita Loos Production

"A Temperamental Wife"

Directed by Capt. David Kirkland

Surely this aggregation of beauty, talent and technical skill marks a great step toward bigger and better pictures.

A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS CIRCUIT

CHEER UP! HERE IT IS!

A TORNADO OF PROFITS

GEORGE WALSH

IN

PUTTING ONE OVER

DIRECTION BY EDWARD DILLON

STUNTS THAT WILL MAKE YOU GASP

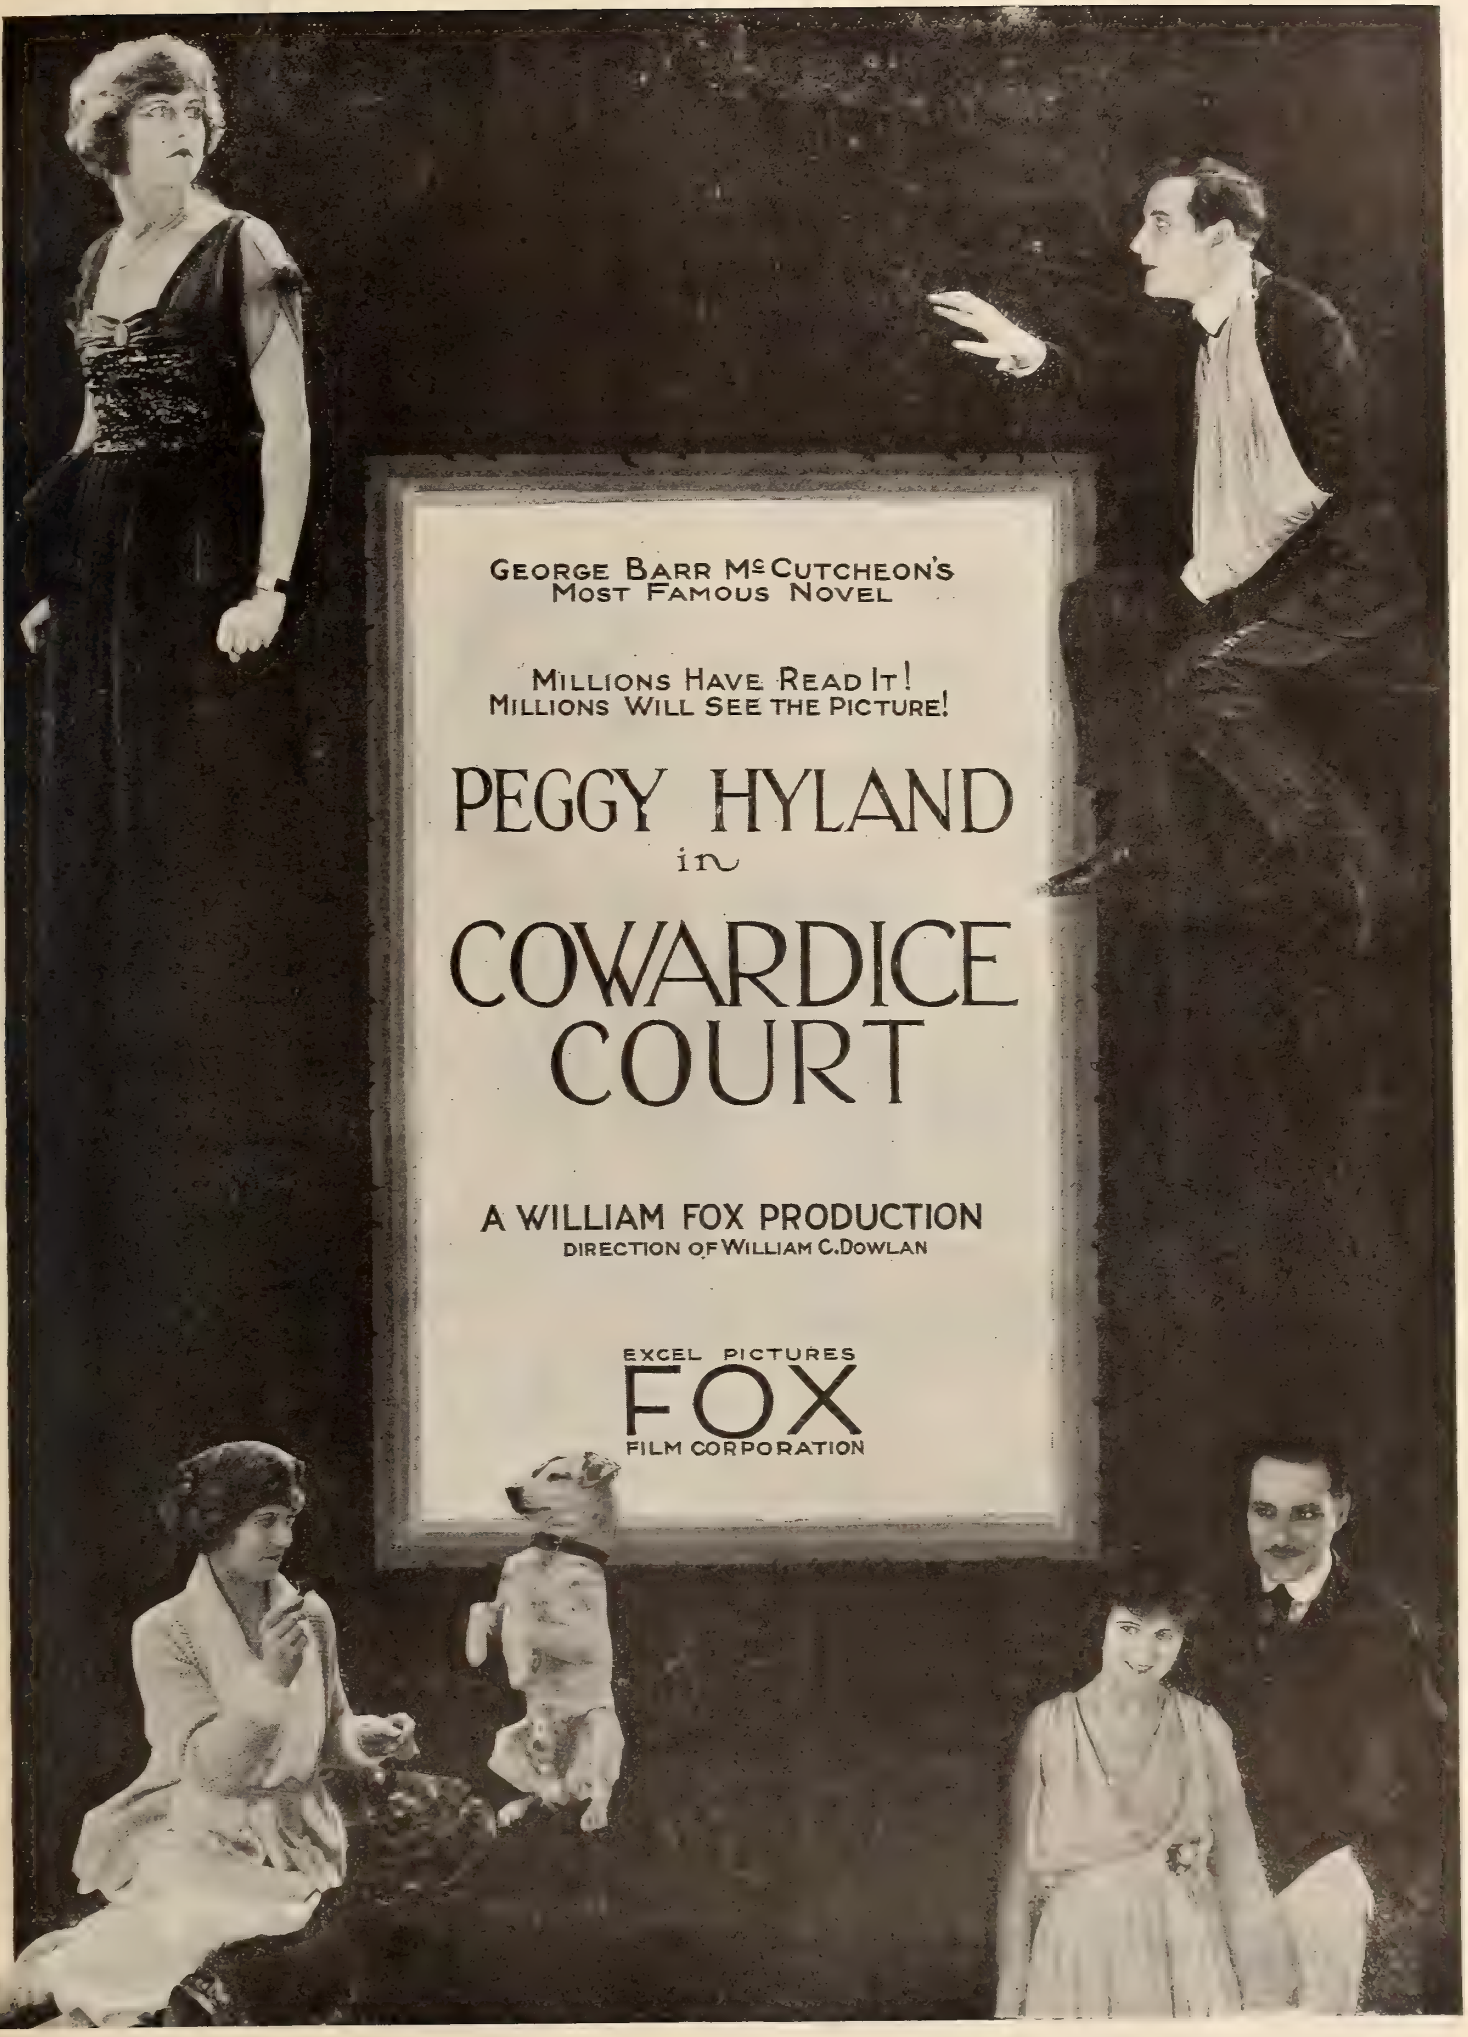
A DOUBLE—AN ACCIDENT
A MILLIONAIRE—A GIRL

WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

VICTORY PICTURES
FOX
FILM CORPORATION



GEORGE BARR M^c CUTCHEON'S
MOST FAMOUS NOVEL

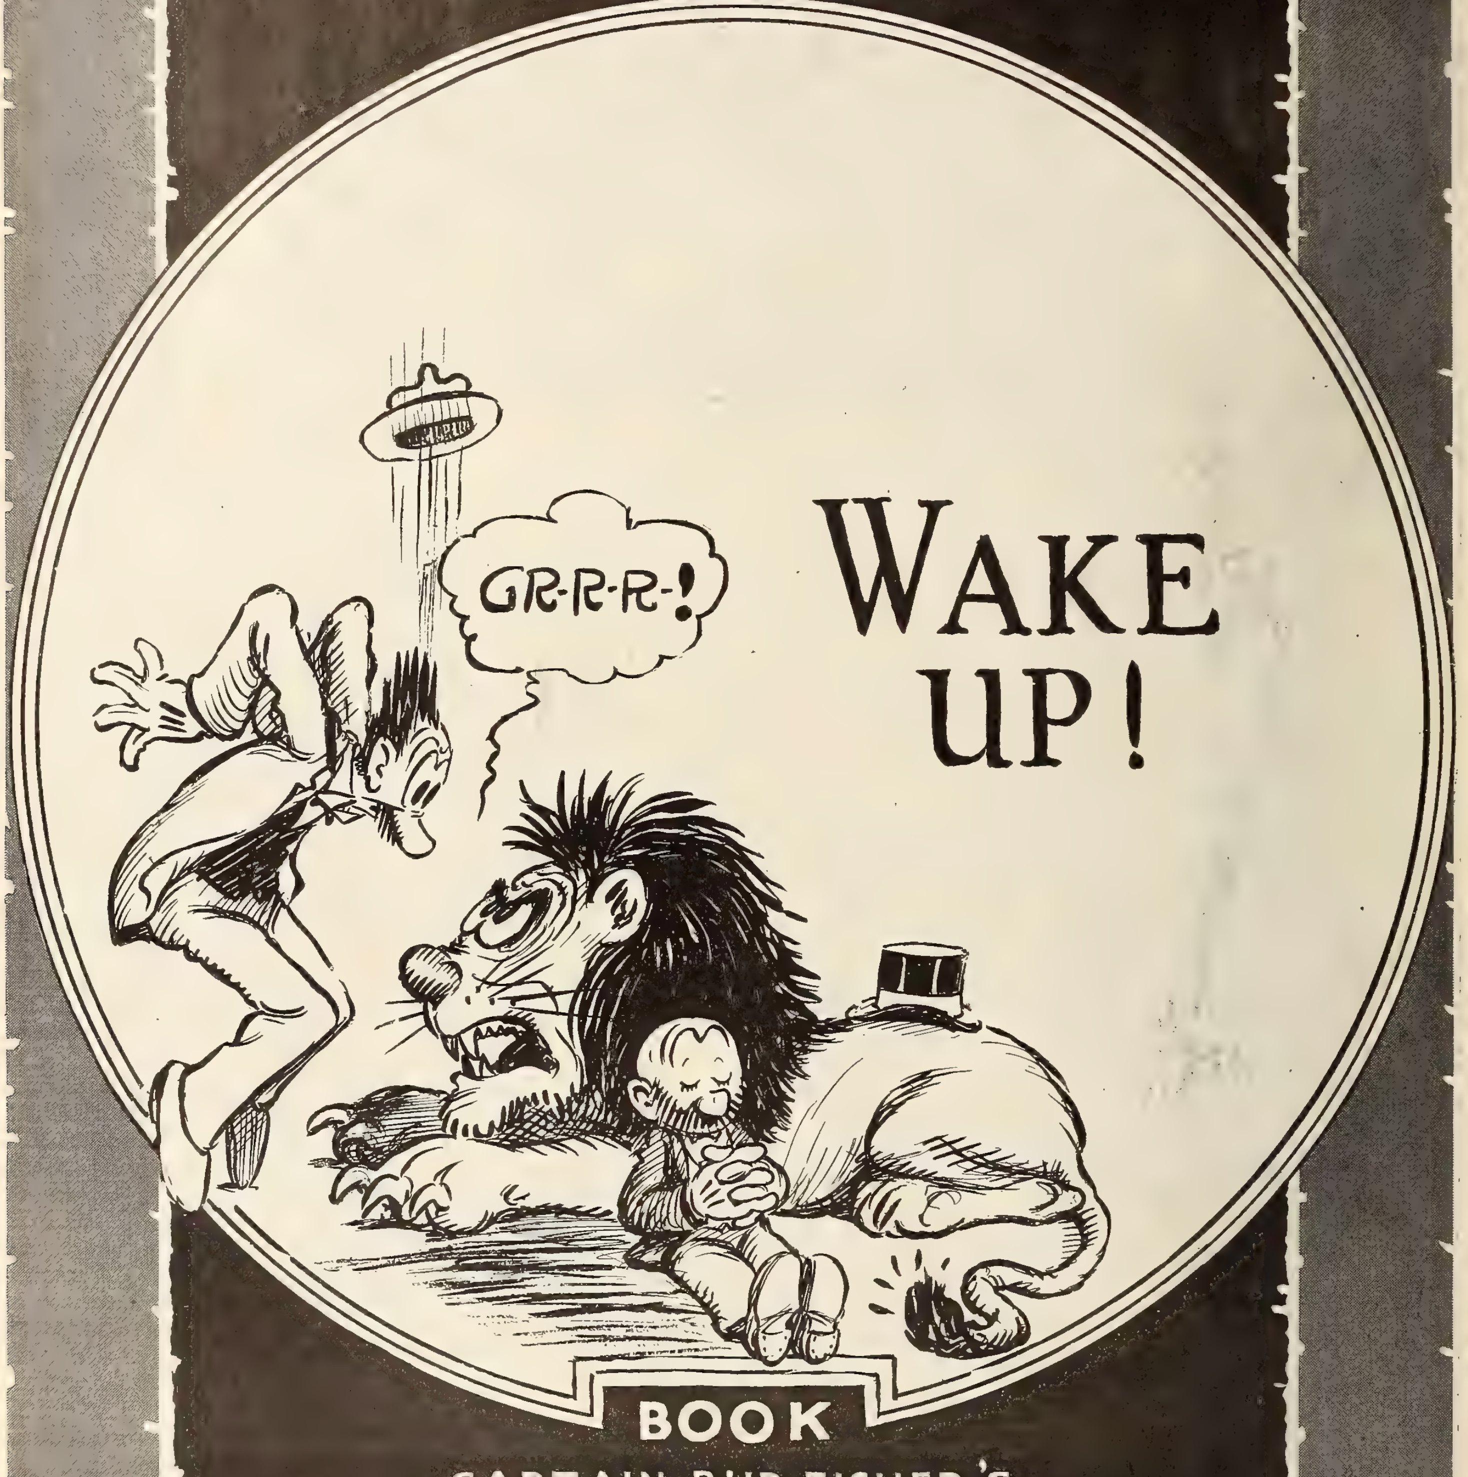
MILLIONS HAVE READ IT!
MILLIONS WILL SEE THE PICTURE!

PEGGY HYLAND
in

COWARDICE COURT

A WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION
DIRECTION OF WILLIAM C. DOWLAN

EXCEL PICTURES
FOX
FILM CORPORATION



GR-R-R-!
WAKE UP!

BOOK

CAPTAIN BUD FISHER'S

MUTT AND JEFF

ANIMATED CARTOONS

LATEST OFFERING

"PETS AND PESTS"

RELEASED BY WILLIAM FOX

FOX
FILM CORPORATION

The Adolf Philipp Film Corporation

OFFICES AND STUDIOS
Eleven East Fourteenth Street
New York City

TELEPHONE
STUYVESANT 6787

ANNOUNCE THE PRODUCTION OF

TWO REEL COMEDIES

PHOTO-PLAYS

FIVE REEL FEATURES

Under the Personal Direction of

ADOLF PHILIPP

THE AUTHOR, COMPOSER, ACTOR AND PRODUCER OF THE WELL KNOWN BROADWAY SUCCESSES

Adolf Philipp in "Auction Pinochle"

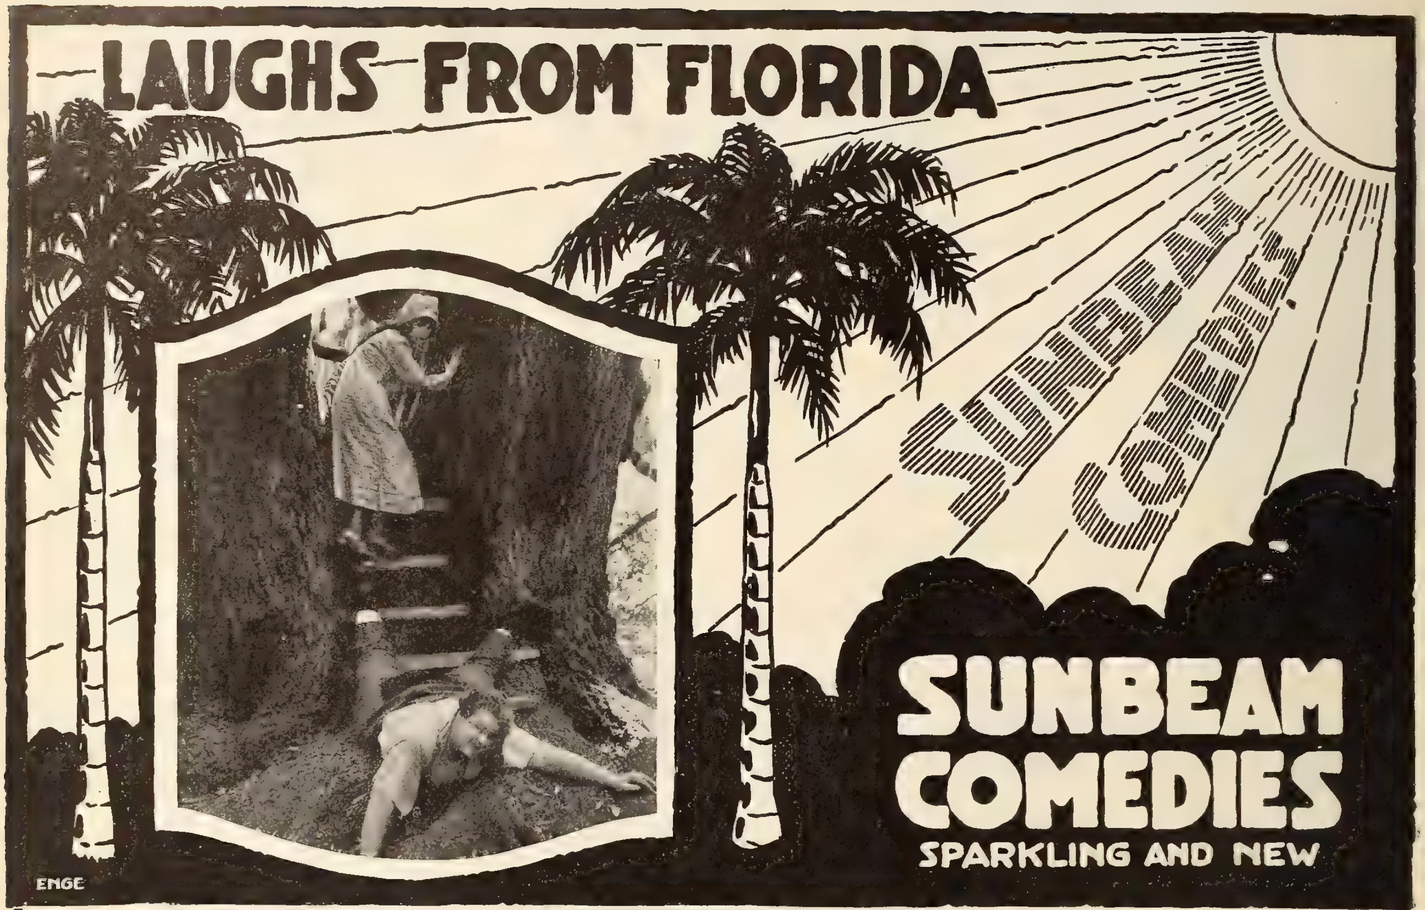
"ALMA, WHERE DO YOU LIVE?"
"ADELE"
"THE MIDNIGHT GIRL"
"THE GIRL WHO SMILES"
"AUCTION PINOCHLE"

AND NUMEROUS OTHER STAGE SUCCESSES

WITH AN EXCELLENT CAST OF PLAYERS

See Further Announcements.

Address all communications to PAUL PHILIPP, Business Representative.



LAUGHS FROM FLORIDA
SUNBEAM COMEDIES
SUNBEAM COMEDIES
SPARKLING AND NEW
ENGE

The FLORIDA FILM CORPORATION

OFFERS FOR

STATES RIGHTS

A series of two reel Comedies, which are different.
Pretty Girls in sparkling, snappy comedy.
Produced among the beautiful natural settings of Florida
They combine two reels of laughter with some of the most beautiful scenics ever shown.

One every two weeks Five are ready now

For particulars, address

The KLUTHO STUDIOS
22 WEST 9th STREET JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

A BOLD STATEMENT PROCLAIMED HONESTLY FOR WHAT IT IS

The Screen's Biggest Western Drama

THERE has just been completed and brought to New York one of the most notable film triumphs ever executed.

It features a personality destined to become one of the screen's formost figures, one who at the present time is receiving the greatest avalanche of publicity ever accorded any individual appearing in a motion picture attraction.

Beyond the unparalleled drawing power of this personality, however, this production possesses picture value never excelled by any attraction of this type.

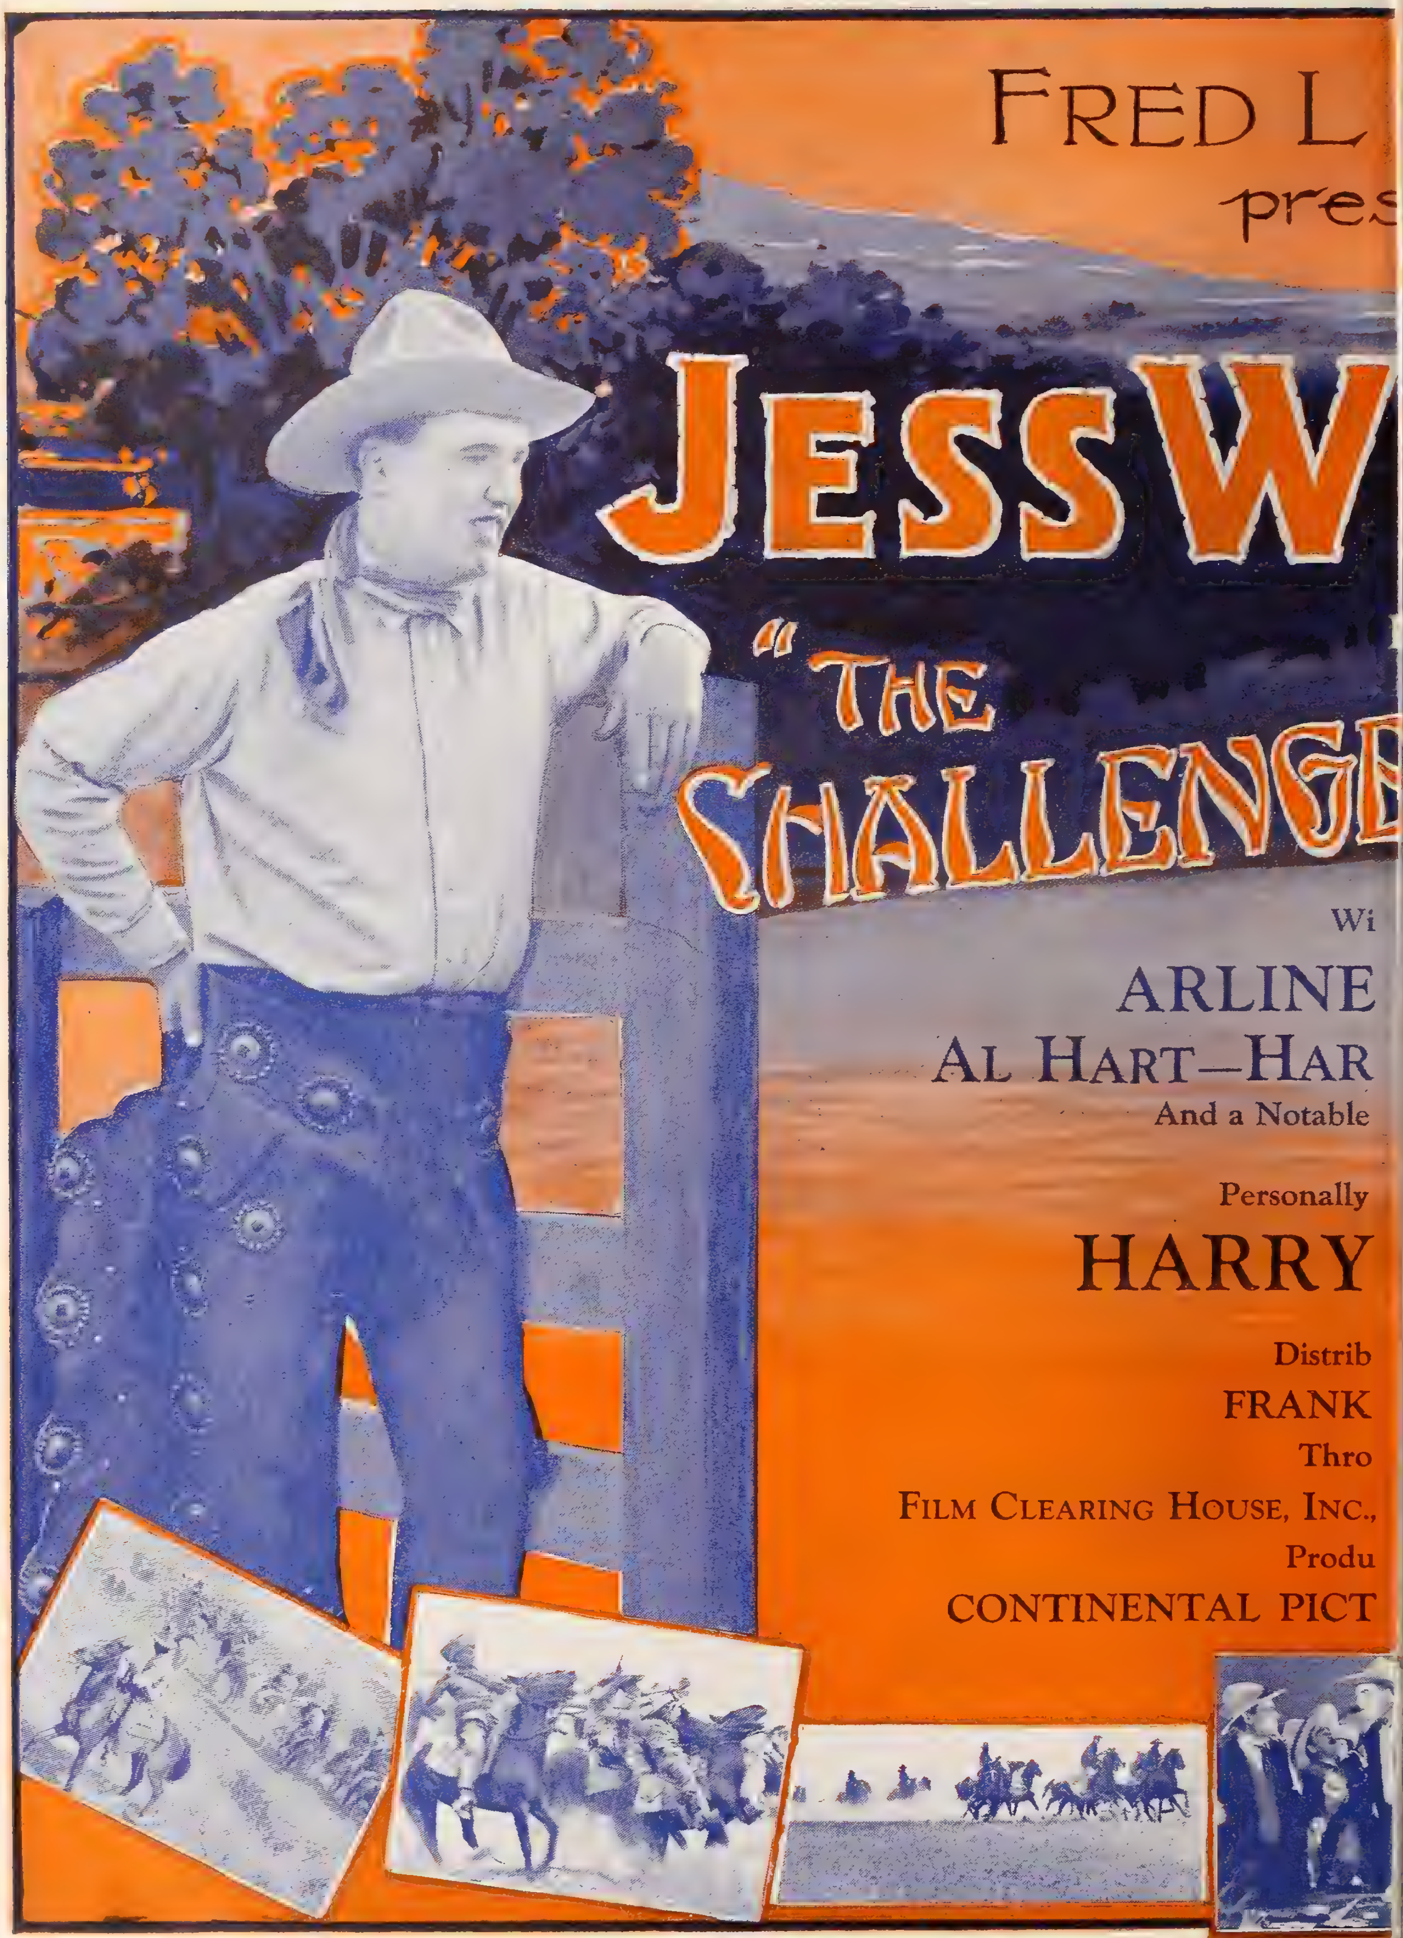
It has scenes equally as big as those of the biggest pictures the screen has shown. It has drama—intense, fast, dynamic—full to overflowing. It has love interest—adventure, hard riding and desperate fighting—all the elements which make for absolute certain box office appeal of the first magnitude—and all done on a massive scale and with masterful brilliance. It is crowded with punch, punch, punch, and then a big surprise at the finish.

The name of the production is "The Challenge of Chance." Its star is Jess Willard.

It is a challenge to the showmanship of American exhibitors.

JESS WILLARD
in
"The Challenge of Chance"

Released Before the Fight in all the Big Cities



FRED L
pres

JESS W

"THE CHALLENGE

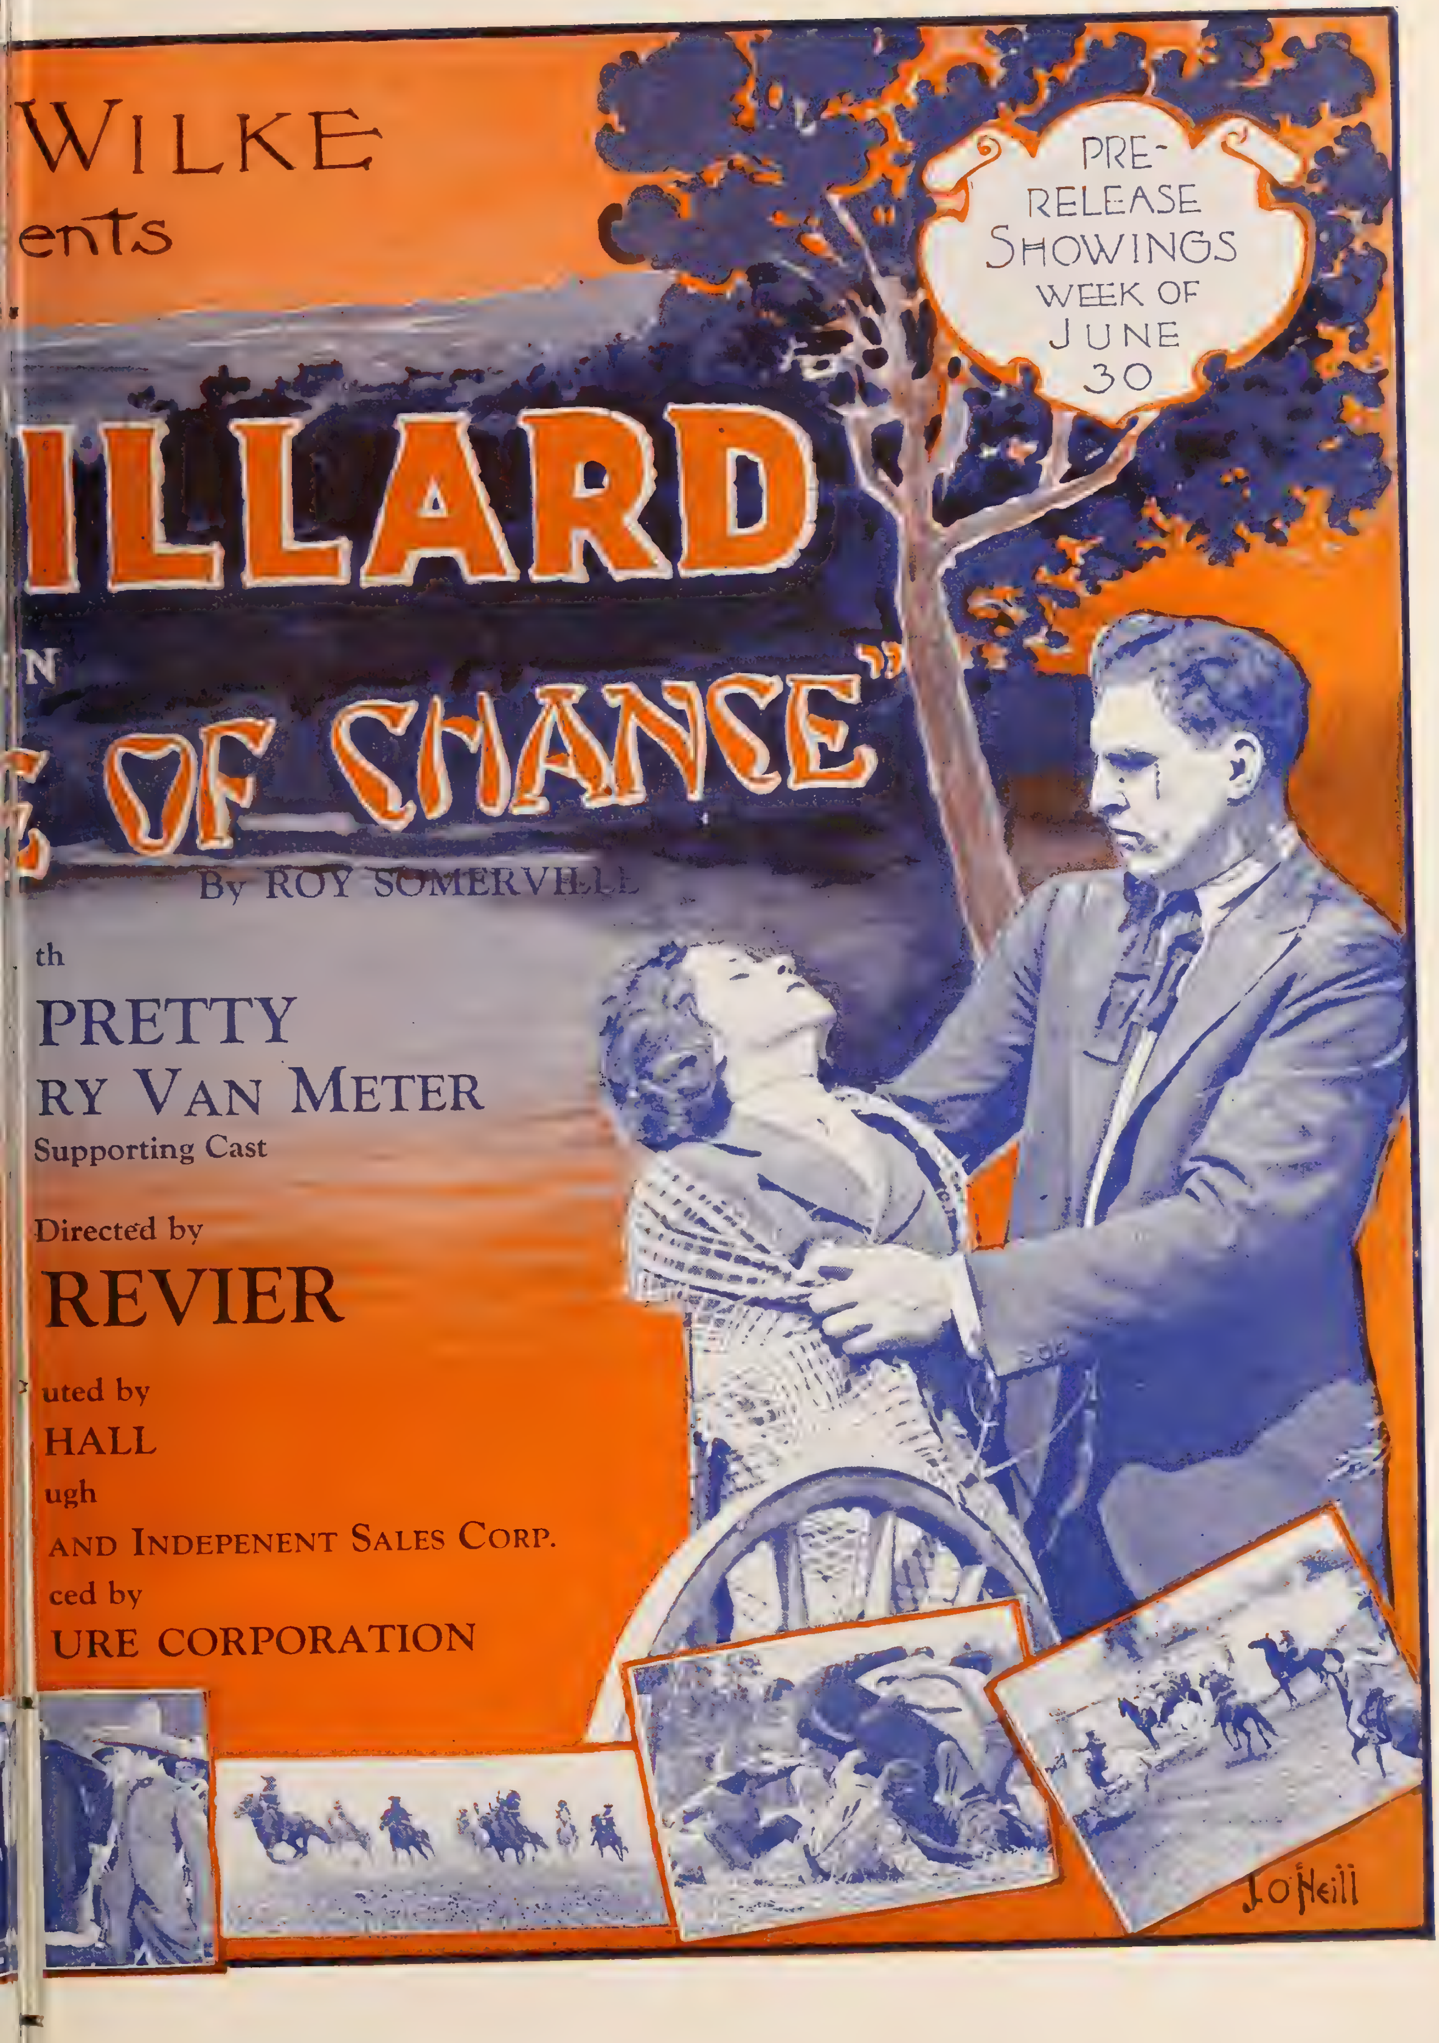
Wi

ARLINE
AL HART—HAR
And a Notable

Personally
HARRY

Distrib
FRANK
Thro
FILM CLEARING HOUSE, INC.,
Produ
CONTINENTAL PICT



WILKE
ents

ILLARD

N

OF CHANCE"

By ROY SOMERVILLE

th

PRETTY
RY VAN METER
Supporting Cast

Directed by REVIER

uted by HALL
ugh
AND INDEPENENT SALES CORP.
ced by
URE CORPORATION

PRE-RELEASE SHOWINGS WEEK OF
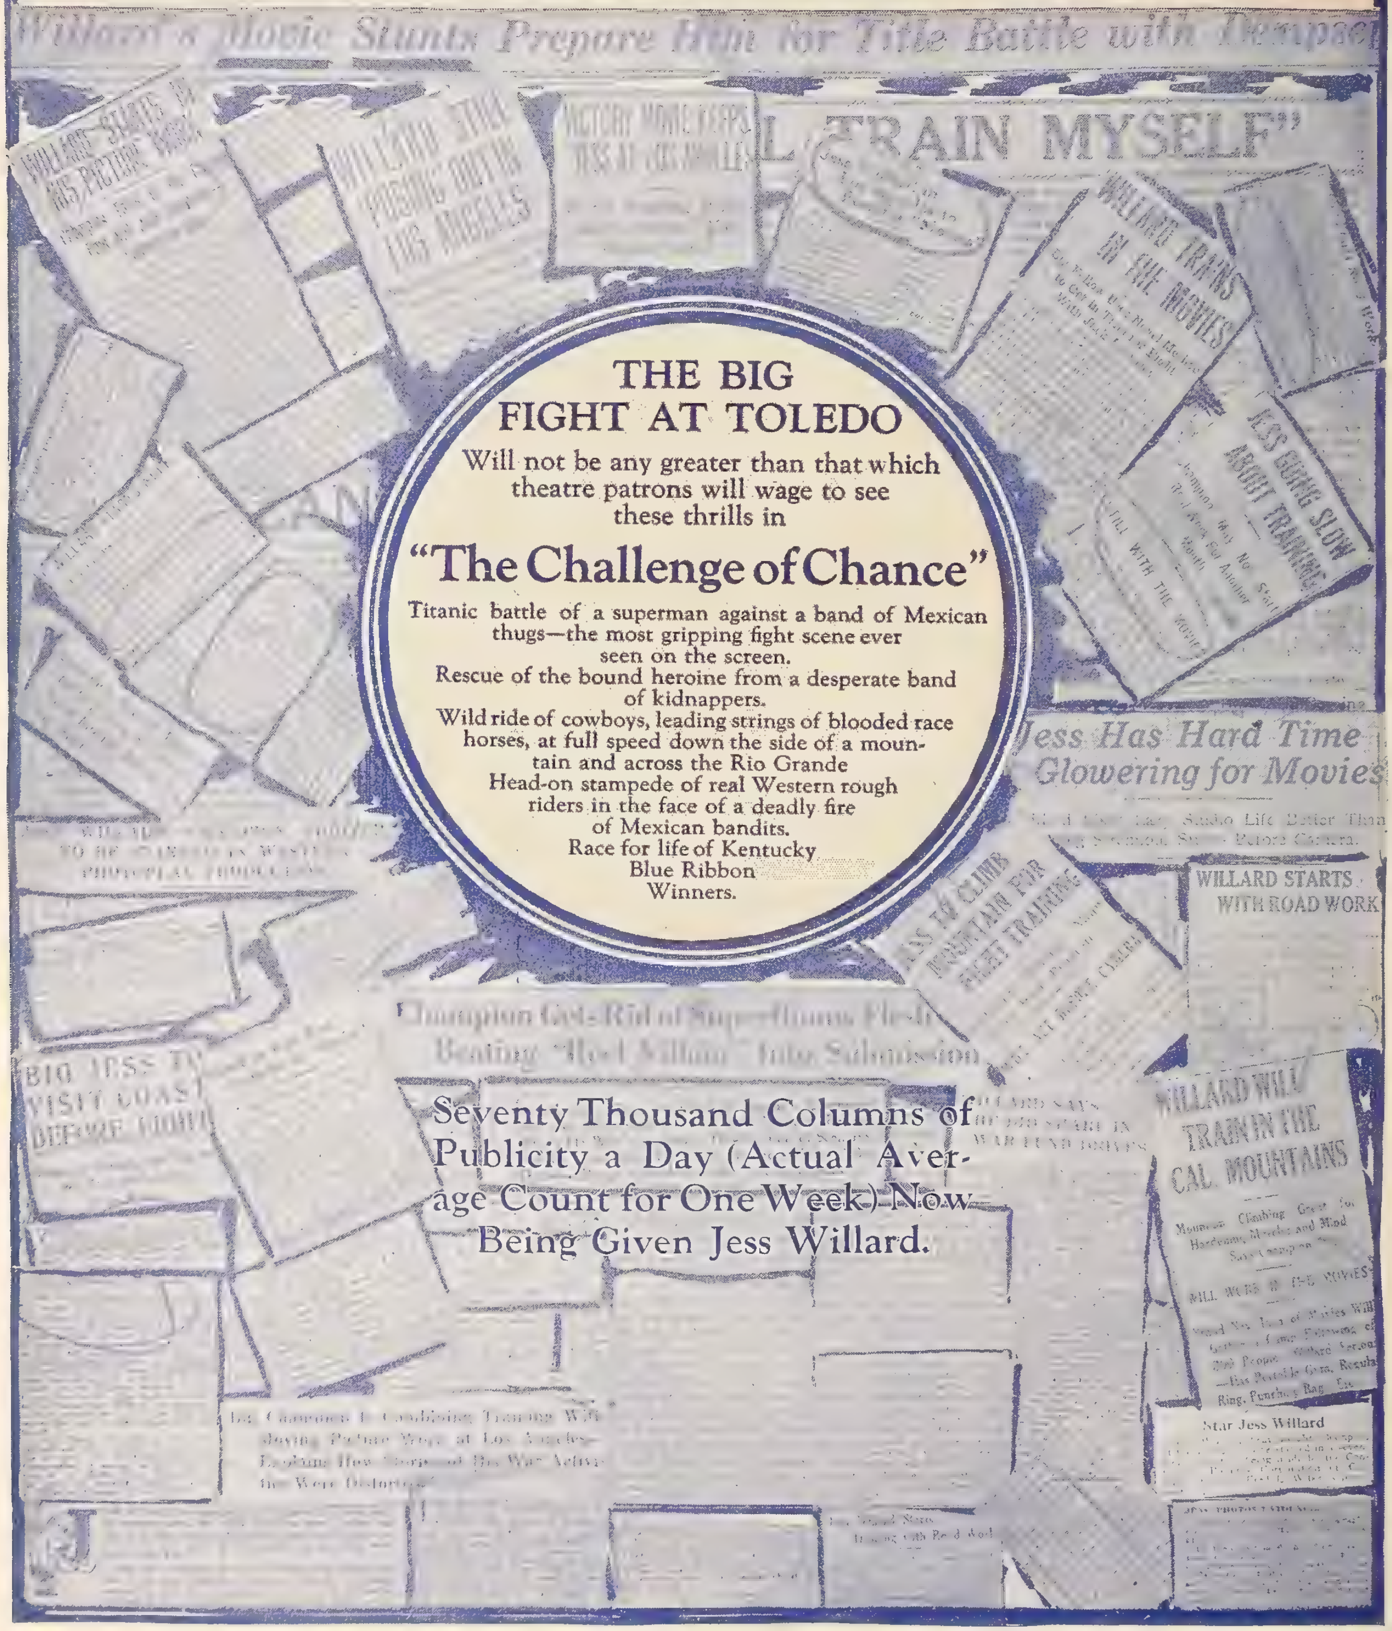
JUNE
30

EVERY NEWSPAPER IN THE COUNTRY A ONE SHEET FOR THIS GREAT SUPER ATTRACTION



Willard's Movie Stunts Prepare Him for Title Battle with Dempsey
WILLARD STARTS IN HIS PICTURE WORK
WILLARD STILL POSING OUT IN LOS ANGELES
"I'LL TRAIN MYSELF"
WILLARD TRAINS IN THE MOVIES
JESS GOING SLOW ABOUT TRAINING
Jess Has Hard Time Glowering for Movies
WILLARD STARTS WITH ROAD WORK
JESS TO CLIMB MOUNTAIN FOR FIGHT TRAINING
Champion Gets Rid of Superfluous Flesh Beating "Reel Villain" Into Submission
BIG JESS TO VISIT COAST BEFORE FIGHT
WILLARD WILL TRAIN IN THE CAL. MOUNTAINS
Star Jess Willard

THE BIG FIGHT AT TOLEDO

Will not be any greater than that which theatre patrons will wage to see these thrills in

"The Challenge of Chance"

Titanic battle of a superman against a band of Mexican thugs—the most gripping fight scene ever seen on the screen.

Rescue of the bound heroine from a desperate band of kidnappers.

Wild ride of cowboys, leading strings of blooded race horses, at full speed down the side of a mountain and across the Rio Grande

Head-on stampede of real Western rough riders in the face of a deadly fire of Mexican bandits.

Race for life of Kentucky Blue Ribbon Winners.

Seventy Thousand Columns of Publicity a Day (Actual Average Count for One Week) Now Being Given Jess Willard.

GREATER BRAY Pictographs

After September 1st, the Bray Pictographs will no longer be produced and marketed as a filler on the Paramount program.

The Bray Studios, Inc., is being enlarged to a million dollar corporation, and will produce short reel specials.

The Bray organization, always the pioneer and leader in animated work, has developed and patented new processes for cartoon comedies and also a means of presenting spectacular effects in popular science.

The use of these and other original novelties will be made possible in the Bray Pictographs, by a new distributing alignment, to be announced shortly.

Make no fall contracts for short reel subjects, until the Greater Bray Pictographs are announced.

THE BRAY STUDIOS, INC.

Animated Cartoon Comedies	Educational Motion Pictures
Industrial Motion Pictures	Animated Technical Drawings

1. The Bray Studios originated the animated cartoon comedy, opening a great new field of entertainment for millions.

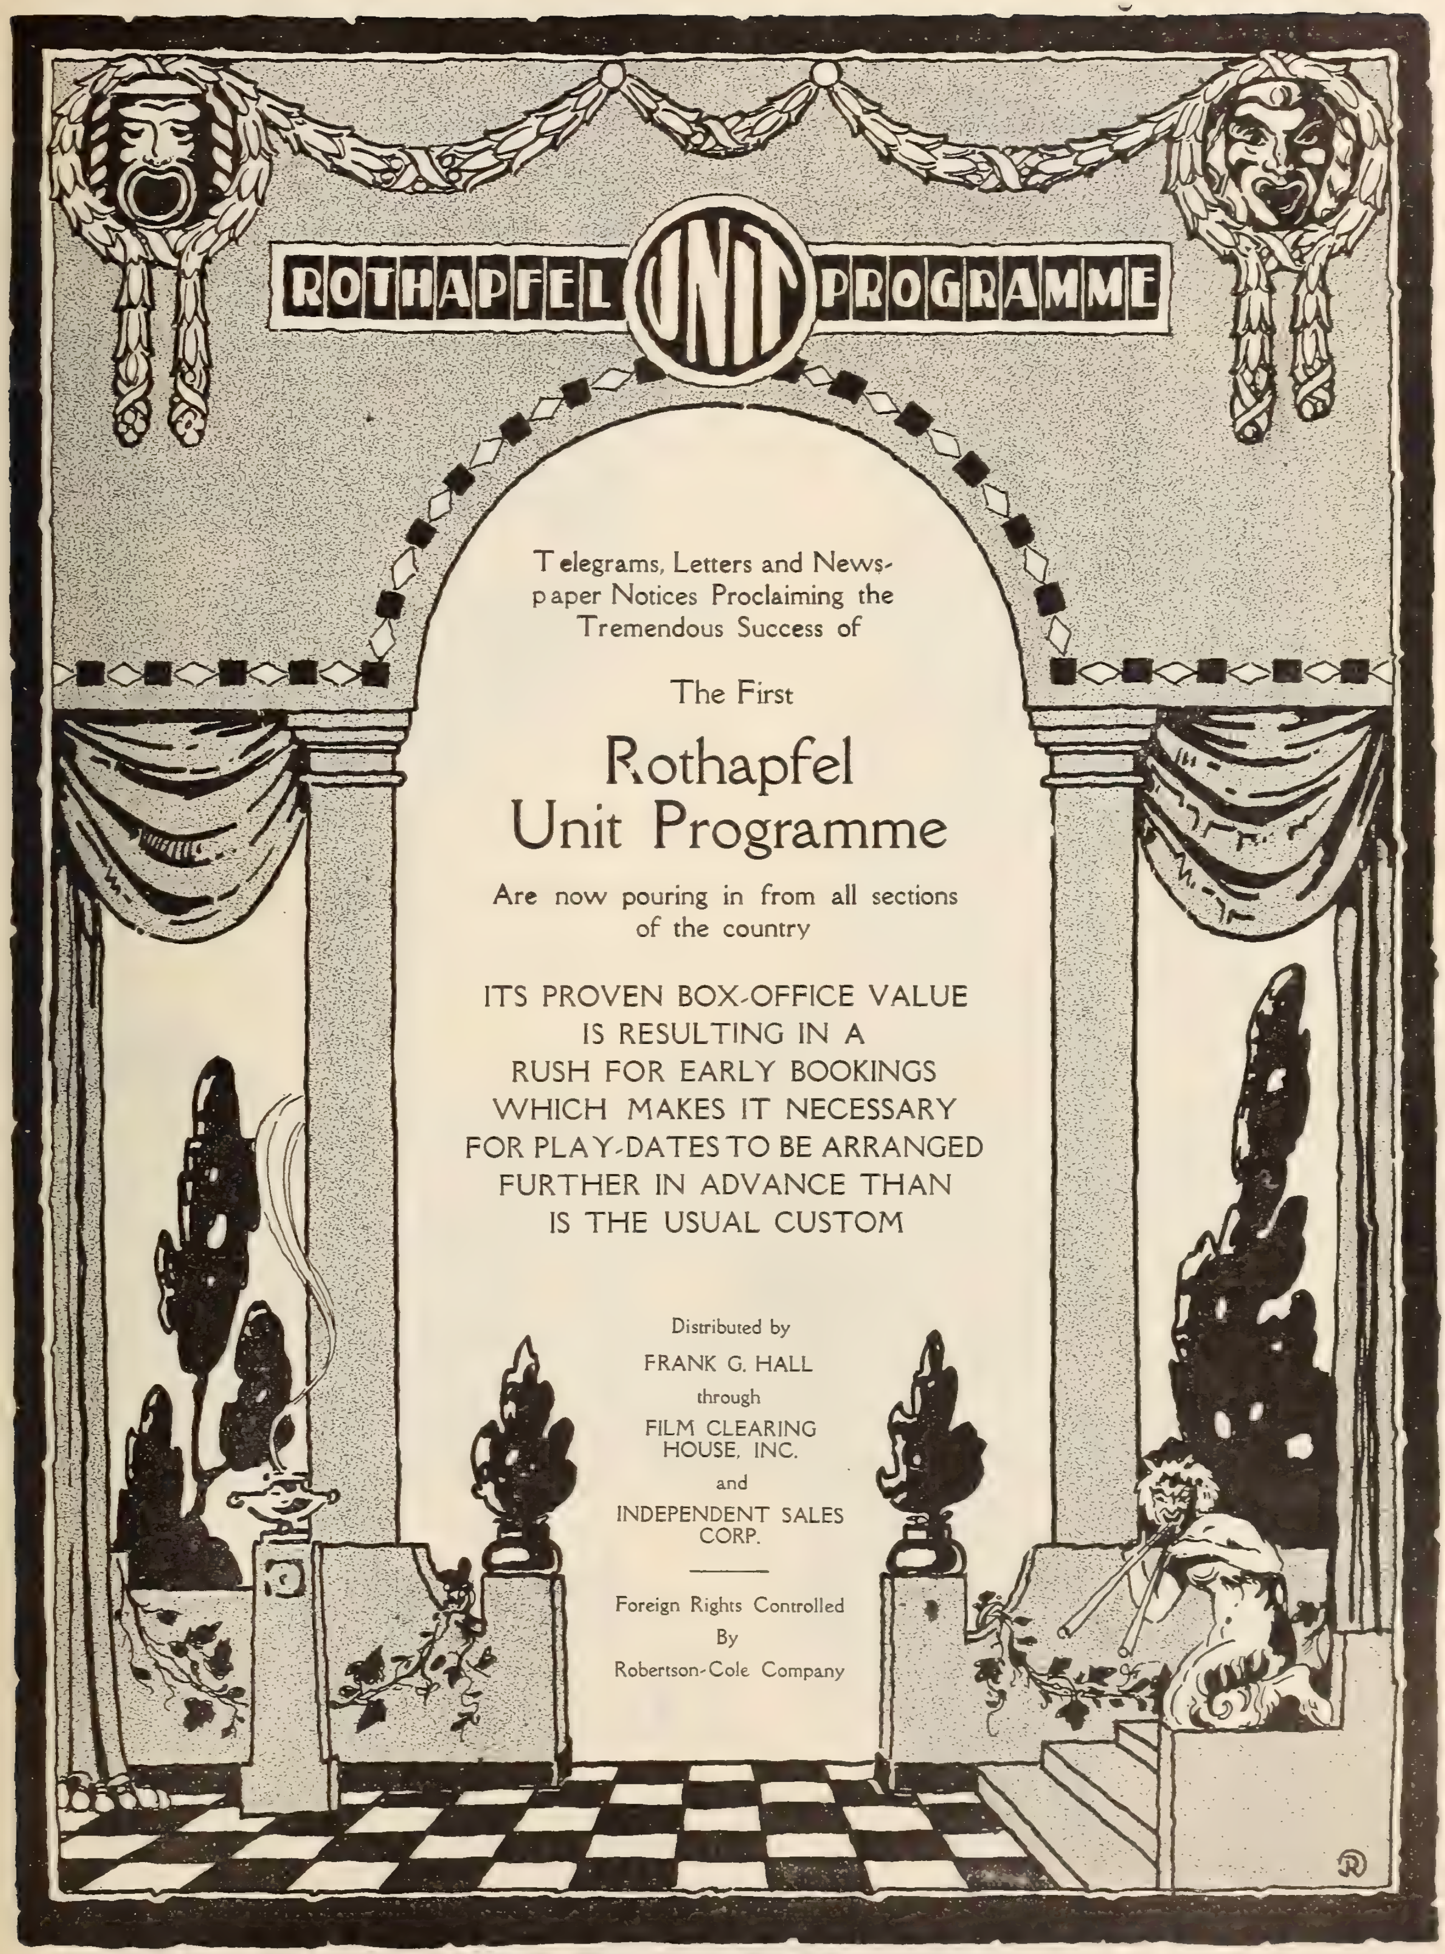
2. The Bray Studios invented the animated technical drawings which helped to win the war by explaining complex mechanisms to the draft army. Thousands of lives were saved by shortening the training period.

3. These and other processes which the Bray Studios developed in secret for national service and placed at the disposal of our country, will now be devoted to entertaining and surprising theater audiences.

4. The Bray Studios has always led in the development of improved processes for superior animation.

5. The Bray Studios will continue to be first to invent and first to apply new processes in animation and new qualities in cartoon humor.

6. All these developments will be spectacular features of the Greater Bray Pictographs, made possible in the new distributing alignment.



Telegrams, Letters and Newspaper Notices Proclaiming the Tremendous Success of

The First

Rothapfel Unit Programme

Are now pouring in from all sections of the country

ITS PROVEN BOX-OFFICE VALUE IS RESULTING IN A
RUSH FOR EARLY BOOKINGS
WHICH MAKES IT NECESSARY
FOR PLAY-DATES TO BE ARRANGED
FURTHER IN ADVANCE THAN IS THE USUAL CUSTOM

Distributed by FRANK G. HALL
through
FILM CLEARING HOUSE, INC.
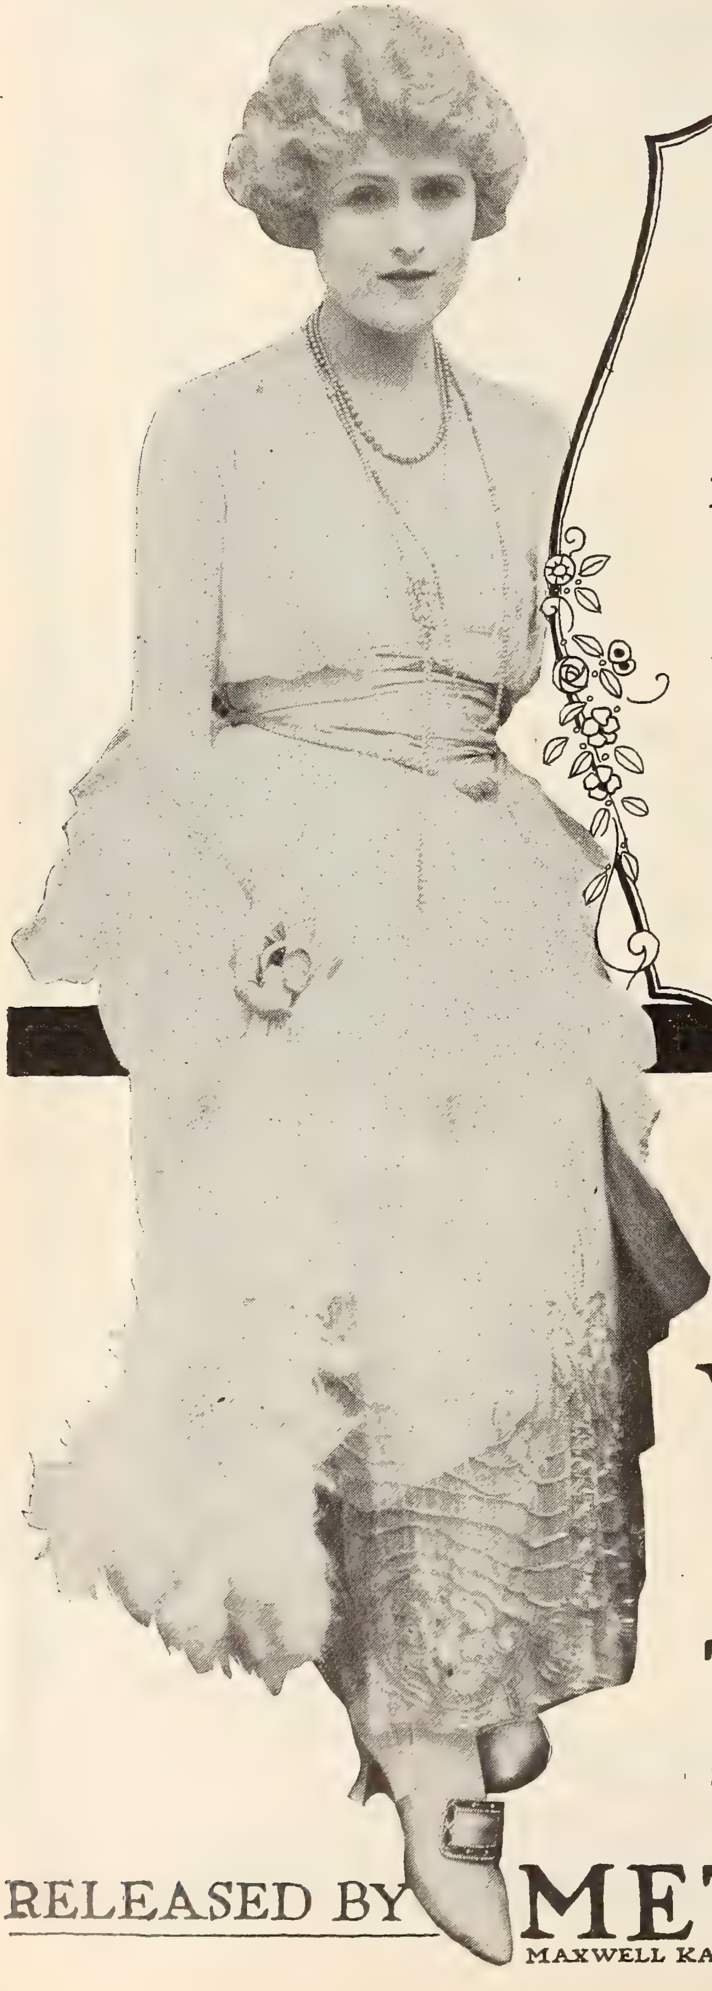
and
INDEPENDENT SALES
CORP.

Foreign Rights Controlled
By
Robertson-Cole Company



Its title to begin with, its charm and its satisfying drama will justify you treating this as a special although it is a Metro All Star Series Production. Advertise it, get back of it and make extra money with it.

Metro presents

EMMY WEHLEN

in E. Forst's

FOOLS and THEIR MONEY

Scenario by Finis Fox 5 acts Directed by Herbert Blache

RELEASED BY METRO JUNE 16*th*

MAXWELL KARGER, Director General.

Fewer and better pictures

BEGINNING SEPTEMBER 1st
Metro will present only fine attraction productions from Big Broadway Successes made by the best picture brains in America –

You know Metro can make them –

Big theatres keep your houses open for runs of a week, two weeks and more-

METRO

MAXWELL KARGER
Director General

Sign no contracts till you see
METRO'S ANNOUNCEMENT·

VICTOR KREMER
FILM FEATURES

Five Reel Western Money Getter

STATE RIGHT PICTURES

NEW YORK
CHICAGO
LOS ANGELES
SAN DIEGO

Release date
Aug. 1, 1919

Featuring Te Inimitable

SHORTY HAMILTON

IN

WHEN ARIZONA WON

Photos 8 x 10
" 11 x 14
Lithos 1 sheet
" 3 "
" 6 "
" 24 "
Heralds
Press Sheets

ALSO

"DENNY FROM IRELAND" "THE SNAIL"
"THE PEN VULTURE" "THE RANGER"

They Are Moving Better Than Ever. Why?

READ THIS LETTER

Mr. ....

Dear Mr. ....

Mr. Victor Kremer, who has the Shorty Hamilton pictures, told me that he had taken up the matter of these pictures for your territory and knowing that they are a good proposition I hasten to tell you just what they have done for us.

In the heart of the City of Pittsburgh we have four runs, Columbia Theatre, first run, three days. We are represented in every district in and about Pittsburgh.

They are pleasing pictures and have made quite a hit with the Exhibitors here. In fact, our success with this series has been the talk of Film Row. We have had numerous requests for repeat dates, and the Exhibitors seem to be very much satisfied. If they were not they would readily let us know otherwise.

We are geting fairly good rentals and the pictures have paid for themselves in thirty days.

If you are interested and wish any further information, I will be only too glad to communicate with you.

With best wishes, I remain,

Yours very truly,
GLOBE FILM ATTRACTIONS.
Pittsburgh, Pa., May 22, 1919. (Signed) Wm. Finkel, Manager.

In Preparation

"Stripped for a Million" featuring Crane Wilbur
"Strife" " George LeGuere

VICTOR KREMER FILM FEATURES

105 West 40th Street Bryant 8352 New York City

You Can Have Lots of Fun Making Money

Why not? Even the Exhibitors laugh at the Taylor Holmes Comedies. His humor is contagious.

Think of the Exhibitors who in addition to pocketing profits—are laughing with their audiences.

Wise is the showman who compels his audiences to leave his house with that feeling of good humored content.

They'll surely come back for more.

Screen

TAYLOR HOLMES

in

"Upside Down"

Then if you haven't already shown "It's a Bear," "A Regular Fellow" and "Taxi," you'll be compelled to do so by popular demand.

Lose no time. Start at once to create the Holmes Habit of Happy Patronage.

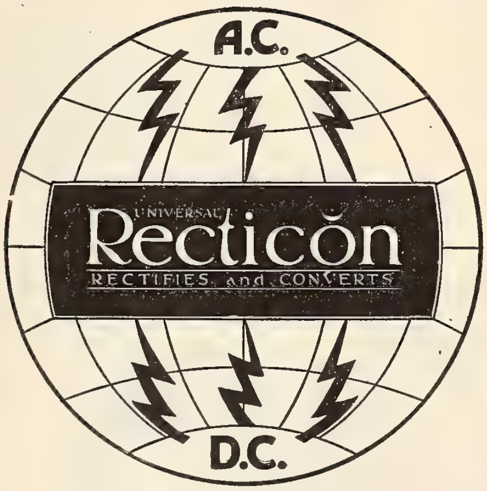
Each Holmes comedy teems with laughable but logical situations. They grip because they're human.

Released by

Triangle Distributing
Corporation
1457 Broadway New York

UNIVERSAL Recticon

RECTIFIES and CONVERTS



THIS new name "Recticon", coined from the words rectify and convert, has been assigned to the products which we will soon be able to supply in large quantities.

To more clearly "couple-up" the name with the functions performed by the machines, and make it most suggestive of the type of service rendered, the name has been incorporated in the "world" design at the left, which will be the universal trade-mark for all our products.

The "Recticon" is designed on an entirely new principle. It operates mechanically, converting Alternating to Direct Current or Direct to Alternating Current—and rectifies the current to the desired voltage and amperage.

This important invention will insure high-efficiency service, and is much more compact, simple, fool-proof, and less costly than present types of equipment.

If you will send us your name and address, we will see that literature describing the "Recticon" is mailed you as soon as completed. Watch this publication for future developments.

The A. R. Bullock Electric Products Co.

GENERAL OFFICES; 45 WEST 34th ST., MONOLITH BLDG., NEW YORK CITY FACTORIES AND LABORATORIES AT CLEVELAND, OHIO

"EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS!"

An Extraordinary Six
Reel Photo-Play with An Advertising Campaign as unique in idea and tremendous in scope as the
"Mickey" exploitation.

W. H. PRODUCTIONS CO.

71 WEST 23rd STREET. NEW YORK

As Usual—18 Pages of Exploitation Aids in the Service Bureau This Week—See page 4129

Motion Picture News

Vol. 19 No. 25. June 21, 1919

The Week in the Film World at a Glance

FEATURES

IN AN EDITORIAL VEIN ... 4117
DEALING IN PERSONALITIES ... 4118
OF INTEREST TO EVERYONE ... 4126
IT'S WONDERFUL—JUST THINK ... 4129
PLAYING FOR LONGER RUNS ... 4131
YOUR IDEAS AND OURS ... 4132
WHAT LIVE WIRES ARE DOING ... 4133
MECHANICAL EFFECTS USED IN LOBBY ... 4141
HOW NEW YORK STAGES THE SHOW ... 4143
SERVICE SECTION ... 4163
HARRISON REVIEWS ... 4212
REVIEWS IN COMPLETE PLAN BOOK ... 4213
BOX OFFICE REPORTS ... 4226
NEW THEATRES BUILDING ... 4230
RELEASE DATES ON ALL PICTURES ... 4231

NEWS OF THE WEEK

New York Censor Bill Defeated ... 4119
Arthur James Goes to Fox from Metro ... 4120
Something New in Film Is Made ... 4120
American Organization Dines Chas. Pathe ... 4121
Dedication of New Fox Building ... 4122
Fox Managers See Prosperity Ahead ... 4123
Famous Players-Lasky District Convention ... 4124
How He Met the Opposition ... 4125
Repeal of Admission Tax Urged ... 4125
The Reader Has His Say ... 4128
Fight Against Sunday Closing ... 4128
Live News of the Producers ... 4147
Glances at the Program ... 4186
In the Independent Field ... 4188
Complete Plan Book ... 4211
In and Out West Coast Studios ... 4193
Hollywood Hookum ... 4194

OF SERVICE TO EXHIBITORS

Exhibitors' Service Bureau ... 4129
What the Producers Have to Say ... 4147
Special Service Sections ... 4163
News of the Independent Producers ... 4188
Equipment Service Section ... 4195
Music Department ... 4205
Advance Reviews ... 4211
Reviews in Complete Plan Book ... 4214
Box Office Reports and Plan Book Index ... 4226
Releases, Current and Coming ... 4231

COMPLETE PLAN BOOK

Pictures Reviewed in Advance ... 4211
Harrison's Exhibitor Reviews ... 4212
"The Haunted Bedroom" (Paramount) ... 4214
"The Other Man's Wife" (Independent Sales) ... 4215
"The Spark Divine" (Vitagraph) ... 4216
"The Devil's Trail" (World) ... 4217
"The Woman Thou Gavest Me" (P.-A. Special) ... 4218
"The Sneak" (Fox) ... 4219
"Some Bride" (Metro) ... 4220
"Oh, Boy" (Pathe-Capellani) ... 4221
"The She Wolf" (Frohman) ... 4222
"Upstairs and Down" (Selznick) ... 4223
"Better Times" (Robertson-Cole) ... 4224
Index to Complete Plan Book and Box Office Reports ... 4226
Index and Reports Concluded, and Flashbacks ... 4229
Release Dates ... 4231

Newsy Announcements of the Week Found in the Ad-Pages

Harry Cary Is Coming Fast, Says Universal, and His Next Feature, "Bare Fists," Has a Story Which Contains Action and Is a High Character Photoplay ... 4050
Famous Players-Lasky Cite the Reviews from Various Papers as an Instance of the Popularity of "The Knickerbocker Buckaroo" ... 4051
Famous Players-Lasky Also Has an Interesting One Entitled, "What Would You Do With Motion Pictures If You Were Master of the World?" ... 4052
Famous Players-Lasky Has Another on the Big Advertising Policy Which It Is About to Carry Out ... 4053
"The Career of Katherine Bush," a Famous Players-Lasky Production, Tells of the Daughter of an Auctioneer, Who Wanted to Understand Life and to Learn Out of the Greatest Volume of All Time, "The Book of Life" ... 4054
Catherine Calvert Is the Star in "The Career of Katherine Bush" and This Feature Is Said to Be a Box-Office Winner ... 4055
The Famous Players-Lasky Have a Very Funny One on Wallace Reid's Next Production, "You're Fired" ... 4056-7
And Still Another Big One Shows Cuts and Ad Layouts of the Comedy Kind, in Keeping with the Fun in "You're Fired" ... 4058-9
Irene Castle Is Shown in Two Beautiful Cuts, One in Particular Showing the Charm of Her Wonderful Gowns to Be Worn in the Paramount-Artcraft Special, "The Firing Line" ... 4060-1
Vivian Martin Has a Page to Herself in a Paramount Picture, "An Innocent Adventuress" ... 4062
Vitagraph Company Has Something New to Say ... 4095
Here's One That Tells About Douglas Fairbanks ... 4064
And Another With the Three United Artists' Corporation's Stars, Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin and D. W. Griffith ... 4065
Adolf Philip Has Something to Tell You ... 4102
Select Pictures and Selznick Pictures Have Some Interesting Announcements ... 4067-8-9-70-1-2-3-4
"Trixie from Broadway," Featuring Margarita Fisher Is a Story of Stageland and the Chorus Girl, Says the American Film Company ... 4075
Goldwyn Will Interest All Exhibitors Who Take a Look at These Pages ... 4076-7
Louis Bennison Will Have Something to Attract You ... 4078-9
The Ford Weekly Will Show You Something Educationally ... 4080
The McManus Corporation Features "The Lost Battalion" ... 4081
The Hodkinson Corporation Calls Your Attention to Four Big Ones:
"Sahara" ... 4082
"The Westerners" ... 4083
"Desert Gold" ... 4084
"Billie Rhodes" ... 4085
The Capital Film Company Has Two Pages, One Entitled "The Miracle Man of the Movies," a Series of 24 Two-Reel Features ... 4086
And the Other, "The Bandit King of the Screen" in a Series of 24 Super-Short Feature ... 4087
The United Picture Theatres Is Giving Kitty Gordon Two Pages to Play Up Her Latest Super Picture, "Playthings of Passion" ... 4088-89
John Stall, Director of Florence Reid's, "The Woman Under Oath," Has a Page to Himself ... 4090
Robertson-Cole Has Four Pages Describing Their Successes ... 4091-2-3-4
C. L. Chester Has a Few Things to Say on Page ... 4063
First National Features Constance Talmadge and Anita Stewart on Pages ... 4096-7
Klutho Studios Announces "Sunbeam Comedies" ... 4101
Metro's Latest Are Named on Pages ... 4108-9
Continental Pictures Announce "His Challenge of Chance" ... 4103-4-5-6
William Fox's Latest on Pages ... 4098-9-4100
Victor Kremer Features ... 4110
World Film ... 4066
Rothapfel Pictures ... 4107
Triangle ... 4111
W. H. Productions Announce "Everybody's Business" ... 4113
Educational Films Announce Their Releases on Page ... 4115
Essanay-Chaplin Revivals ... 4116
Universal Has Many Things to Say About Joe Martin Soliloquizes for Universal on Page ... 4159
Elmo the Mighty Is Played Up on Pages ... 4160-1
And James J. Corbett Has a Smashing Winner, Says Universal, on Page ... 4162
Latest Monroe Salisbury Universal Feature ... 4155-6-7-8
Pathe Exchange Has Capellani's "Oh, Boy!" ... 4175-6-7-8

Wm. A. Johnston, Pres. and Editor.
Robert E. Welsh, Managing Editor
Henry F. Sewall, Vice-Pres.
E. Kendall Gillett, Sec. and Treas.
Fred. J. Beecroft, Adv. Manager.

Published on Friday every week by MOTION PICTURE NEWS, Inc., 729 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 'Phone 9360 Bryant. Chicago Representative, W. M. Hight, 220 So. State St.; 'Phone Harrison 7667. Los Angeles Representative, J. C. Jessen, 618 Wright and Callander Building (Hill at Fourth St.); 'Phone Pico 780. Subscription $2 a year, postpaid, in United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands. Canada, $3. N. B.—No agent is authorized to take subscriptions for Motion Picture News at less than these rates. Have the agent who takes your subscription show his credentials and coupon book. Western Union registered cable address is "Picknews," New York.

Copyright, 1919, by Motion Picture News, Inc.

"Sundown"

Robert C. Bruce Scenic

Said Peter Milne, in the "Motion Picture News"—"Never to my recollection has Mr. Bruce compiled a more beautiful subject * * * The views recorded—mountains, lakes, streams and forest—have been photographed into the setting sun * * * With all this beauty, the effect is more like one uninterrupted dream than a mere picture." Showing from coast to coast, this week in San Francisco's new "California" Theatre, next week on Broadway, at the Rivoli, with especially written music score, by Director Hugo Riesenfeld.

"War Spruce"

Educational Special Release

The great spruce woods of the North West—towering giants of the virgin forest—cool, green depths of foliage—the primary interest in a scenic picture of unusual beauty. And, in addition, the unique inventions that enabled our boys to rush this aeroplane timber along on its quick trip to the Rhine. Another of the "Educational" scenic subjects that are made doubly interesting by a liberal sprinkling of timeliness, story value and good humor.

Other Educational Releases:

"International" Black-and-White Comedies
Photoplay Magazine Screen Supplement

Booking at Seventeen Exchanges

BOSTON, MASS.
Federal Feature Film Corp.,
48 Piedmont Street,
CLEVELAND, OHIO.
Standard Film Service Co.,
Sloan Bldg.,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Electric Theatre Supply Co.,
S. E. Cor. 13th & Vine Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.
Bee-Hive Exchange,
207 So. Wabash Avenue,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
First National Exhibitors' Exchange,
712 Poydras Street,
LOS ANGELES, CAL.
Consolidated Film Corporation,
738 So. Olive St.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
Consolidated Film Corporation,
90 Golden Gate Avenue,
DETROIT, MICH.
Standard Film Service Co.,
602 Jos. Mack Building,

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
Standard Film Corporation,
406 Film Exchange Building
SEATTLE, WASH.
Greater Feature Co.,
2020 Third Avenue,
KANSAS CITY, MO.
Standard Film Corporation,
Boley Building,
ST. LOUIS, MO.
Standard Film Corporation,
3317 Olive Street,

MILWAUKEE, WIS.
Bee-Hive Exchange,
Toy Building,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.
Bee-Hive Exchange,
109 West Maryland Street,
BALTIMORE, MD.
Baltimore Booking Co.,
412 E. Lexington Street,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
Standard Film Service Co.,
Film Exchange Bldg.,

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORPORATION

OF AMERICA

729 7th AVENUE NEW YORK, N.Y.

We Can Help You Lose Money ——— and Make You Like It!

¶ Dr. Hugo Reisenfeld, managing director of the Rialto Theatre, New York City, when asked by a reporter of the New York Morning Telegraph, how the Essanay-Chaplin revivals were going in his theatre, replied: ¶ "ALAS! WE HAVE LOST MONEY—BECAUSE THE RIALTO HAS NOT A THOUSAND MORE SEATS." ¶ That has been the experience of exhibitors all over the United States, in large houses and small. ¶ Do you want to lose money in this way? Then book the four Essanay-Chaplin revivals, "A NIGHT IN THE SHOW," "THE BANK," "POLICE" and "SHANGHAIED." ¶ They are the funniest of all the Charlie Chaplin comedies and new prints are now offered for the first time. Try to get them at once at any World Film Exchange.

Essanay
GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT

George Kleine System
Distributors

©Cl.B432637
JUN 17 1919

"When you see it in 'The News' It's News"

Motion Picture News

HAS THE QUALITY CIRCULATION OF THE TRADE

"The Exhibitors' Medium of Communication"

Volume 19, No. 25 June 21 1919

In An Editorial Vein

THE report of the New York Aldermanic committee in rejecting the proposal for arbitrary one-man censorship places its thumb on the crux of the argument against all restrictive legislation.

"Present police powers," says the committee, "are in every way as capable of handling the situation as the proposed legislation."

There is the kernel of the matter. It is pleasing, of course, to read further on in the report the defense of free speech, and the timely warning against the possible future abuses of power arbitrarily delegated.

But from a practical and legal viewpoint the answer to proposed censorship legislation in every community of the country is given in the reference to police powers already held by all constituted authorities.

So we must mix our congratulations to the great city of New York on its escape from the censorship peril with a hint to our readers to preserve the words of the report so that they may be always handy to refute the advocates of censorship. Here's the story, in the committee's own language:

"The provisions of the Penal Law invest the Courts with authority to determine when pictures tend to the corruption of morals, and if we cannot depend upon our courts to enforce a penal law drawn with such broad and comprehensive scope then it is time to consider the whole structure upon which our Government rests."

* * * * *

A "Newcomer" in the Field

ARTHUR KANE, gentleman and film man, announces his new plans this week. With the announcement comes the opportunity to congratulate Mr. Kane on the realization of his ambitions to direct an organization of his own.

No film man will begrudge a word of admiration for Arthur Kane; few film men can boast of a personal popularity and square dealing reputation such as he bears.

Now that he has taken the first step in the development of an independent organization the best wishes of the industry—and that includes the vast army of exhibitors who know and trust him—go with Arthur Kane.

In the era of healthy competition that is nearing our only wish for Arthur Kane is that he continue to gain friends as fast and hold them as well as he has made and held them in the past.

The Biggest—And Best—Year

AN exhibitor writes us: "I am very much interested in the discussion regarding distribution methods going on in your columns and have tried to read through all the lengthy letters and articles. But what I would really like to know is—what is your own opinion? What do you think of what is being said in favor of the different systems of booking?"

What is our opinion?

An easy question to ask; a difficult one to answer.

Because, unlike those who are partisans in the discussion, we find it impossible to become heated over mere words and phrases. We pin but nominal faith in the mere slogans—"open booking," "series booking," "program booking," "single picture booking."

For, when all is said and done, the value in the words rests solely on the sincerity and good intentions of the man using them; and on the adaptability of the product he is offering.

There have been—and there are—virtues in program booking; there have been—and there are—abuses of program booking. Film history has probably shown that in practice the abuses have outweighed the virtues.

And, likewise, counts may be placed against any other form of booking, if we wish to seek for them or create hypothetical conditions. But any method tending towards the choice of stars or subjects on merit alone offers less opportunity for abuse than program booking.

On one point exhibitors may be assured this year. Producers and distributors without exception realize that we are on the eve of the greatest competitive market the business has seen. They are forming their plans with stiff competition the only thing in mind.

No distributor is in a position this year to give a moment's thought to methods of "gypping" the exhibitor, to means of placing him in shackles.

The market is wide open; competition is free and clear. And there isn't a single distributor whose entire thoughts are not bent to the questions of quality of product, good will of the exhibitor, faith of the exhibitor and sincerity of business dealings.

Necessity may be the father of miracles—but the age of miracles is here.

Dealing in Personalities

Next Wednesday! June 18. That dinner to Sydney S. Cohen, Samuel I. Berman and Charles L. O'Reilly. If you are in New York that night you are going to be there. You know it. Because you can't afford to miss a motion picture event that will be big enough to draw an attendance of a thousand. A thousand of the real worthwhile people of the game. And you are one in the thousand? Aren't you?

It may not sound like news to the exhibitor reader, but to the boys in New York the big event of the week is the jump by Arthur James from the Metro to Fox.

It is so far back to the old Mutual days that we had begun to think of Arthur James and Metro as inseparable.

After hearing some of the details of the tremendous responsibilities that are to be Arthur's—and we suppose we may take for granted the juicy emolument—we'd like to use forty-eight point here to say "Congratulations, Jimmy!" And if we did that we'd use seventy-two point to say, "Good luck, old scout!"

Aside from the above-mentioned event there wasn't much doing in a news way during the week. Seemed to be sort of a lull before the storm. The next few weeks should bring a flood of happenings. And the nearer we get to the Fall season the less reason trade paper hounds will have to complain. But in this in-between period it would do an exhibitor from the sticks a lot of good to see the producers and distributors in New York worrying, ferring and stewing over Fall plans. Most of these exhibitors think they are the only ones who shed perspiration.

The first big news event that the next few weeks will bring will probably be the Clara Kimball Young announcement. Concerning the absolutely square and honest."

Frank ought to have that speech printed. The Amalgamated Independent and Long-Suffering Producers would nominate him for President on such a platform.

Oh, yes, we had a very good time at the Pathe affair. How could we help it with such regular fellows as Fred Quimby, George Ames, P. A. Parson. and Frank Bruner among the two hundred regular fellows at the party.

Dave Horsley blew into town last week and paid a visit to Motion Picture News office. Has a big one up his sleeve. A railroad picture with the backing and interest of every union man in the country. Sounds sure-fire.

In company with Dave was Ben Malcolm Lyon, secretary and treasurer of the new organization.

F. R. Williams, managing director of London's National Electric Theaters, Ltd., was another visitor to the News office. Here to look over the big Broadway houses and their presentation methods.

There's interest in the note we read in the Wall Street column to the effect that Famous Players-Lasky had declared a regular quarterly dividend of two dollars, payable July 1st. On April 1st last a dividend of $1.50 a share was paid.

Famous Players shares are now listed on the Stock Exchange and distribution on the new pictures. Probably an entirely new distributing organization. We hope to have the details by next week. It will be real big news.

Turn Your Attention to
Page 4126

Be Sure to See
Page 4126
It's Important

Then the next week or so should bring the names of the stars who will have the good fortune of being piloted through distribution channels by Arthur Kane. Also real news. Real stars. That's the answer.

Then there will be the Paramount plans announced next week; the Fox statement should be coming soon; and any amount of real news.

Cheer up, boys, there are lively days coming.

The funniest story we can think of at the moment is the man we met some five years ago just after Pathe had quit General Film. "Well," he said, "that's the beginning of the end for Pathe. Where can they distribute without General? They'll just pass right out now." And then, last Tuesday we sat in an Astor banquet room as one of two hundred honoring Charles Pathe. And General Film is distributing in Limbo. We are sure this must be a funny story—at least to Charles Pathe.

That was a mighty nice affair that the boys of the American organization tendered to Mr. Pathe. And the best part of it all was that the affair and the speeches were meant—from the heart.

Frank Keenan, speaking from the producers angle, made the hit of the evening when he said, "I've spent too many years at the mercy of the American public and I have too much gray in my hair now to want to lay awake nights worrying about the honesty of the organization distributing my pictures. If there were no other reason for my distrbuting through Pathe that would be enough—the Pathe organization is going up—going up—every day.

Wid Dannenburg was vacationing this week in the Catskills. Meaning that Ben Grimm had to work.

Jim Beecroft now issues an emphatic denial that the stork ever left pouncing twins at his Westchester home. Jim, it seems, was gently "spoofing" the boys. When pressed for details he will confess, however, that a ten-pound boy arrived this week.

William H. Jobelmann, publicity manager for the Turner and Dahnken Circuit, is back at his San Francisco desk after eighteen months in Uncle Sam's well known navy.

"The Lost Battalion" will be found within the next week or so.

And now, just a closing word. Have you made your reservations for next Wednesday night? That dinner to the boys who gave Sunday shows to New York State? Thus making a neat little sum for you producers every seventh day. It's at the Waldorf-Astoria. You can get reservations from Charles Haring, 1587 Broadway, secretary of the committee. Ten dollars per plate. And you can't afford to miss it. Enough said.

P. A. Parsons, of Pathe, has embarked upon his two weeks' vacation, with trout fishing as the main attraction.

Billy Yearsley, coincidentally, is taking a fourteen-day rest. It is understood that for the second week of the vacations the pair will team up.

New York City Censor Bill Is Defeated

Manhattan's Board of Aldermen Flatly Turn Down Measure Which Would Give Commissioner of Licenses Censor's Powers—Powers of Court Sufficient to Curb Bad Productions

A FLAT turn-down was given by the New York City Board of Aldermen on June 10 to the proposed ordinance which would make the Commissioner of Licenses the censor of all pictures before their presentation to the public. This measure came up for a public hearing two weeks ago, and was spoken against by many motion picture men. It was pointed out the power of the courts was sufficient to make it unwise for any one to show a picture which passed the moral dead line.

Collins Chairman

The recommendation which resulted in the defeat of the ordinance was made by the committee on general welfare, of which Alderman William C. Collins is chairman. Mr. Collins, in making his report, filed an opinion explaining the action of the committee. In this connection Mr. Collins said the Commissioner of Licenses already had sufficient power to stop the exhibition of improper pictures and to punish persons who present such pictures.

Mr. Collins said the committee sympathizes with the good intentions of the persons at whose request the ordinance was introduced and who appeared before the committee in favor of it. He said, however, that he believes it is unwise to make one man a censor with such wide powers.

Court's Power Strong

He asserted also that the adoption of the ordinance would be giving the Commissioner of Licenses power now held by the courts under Section 1140-A of the Penal Code and would be transferring to an individual the power now vested in the courts. The opinion, which quotes Section 1140-A, of the Penal law, follows in part:

"Sec. 1140-A, says: 'Immoral plays or exhibitions—Any person who as owner, manager, director or agent or in any other capacity prepares, advertises, gives, presents or participates in any obscene, indecent, immoral or impure drama, play, exhibition, show or entertainment, which would tend to the corruption of the morals of youth or others, and every person aiding or abetting such act, and every owner or lessee or manager of any garden, building, room, place or structure, who leases or lets the same or permits the same to be used for the purposes of any such drama, play, exhibition, show or entertainment, knowingly, or who assents to the use of the same for any such purpose, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.'

"Surely if the above provision of law is invoked there is a sufficient remedy already in existence to punish violators of this class.

"The provision above cited invests the Courts with authority to determine when pictures even 'tend to the corruption of morals' and, if we cannot depend upon our Courts of Justice to enforce a penal law drawn with such a broad and comprehensive scope and to inflict the punishment already prescribed by the statue, then it is time to consider the whole structure upon which our Government rests.

Would Create Bad Precedent

"Your committee does not believe that the administration of the criminal law has broken down, nor that our courts are unable to cope with the evil sought to be remedied by this ordinance.

"The advocates of the proposed ordinance suggests an abandonment of a court proceeding and the substitution of a censorship by the Commissioner of Licenses to determine in advance what pictures may or may not be exhibited. If such legislation as this may be enacted, it can be followed by the censorship of plays, and the author compelled to submit his manuscript or the censorship of the press, and the news items and editorials in our daily papers subjected to the censor's O. K. before publication be allowed.

"Your committee believes that the broadest liberty of the citizen should be preserved in the matter of free speech and in whatever manner this freedom be manifested; be it in speaking, printing, painting or pictures, subject always of course, to prosecution for violation either of the penal or libel laws.

"If this ordinance became operative and the time should ever come when the censor should through caprice or favoritism, pass unfit and indecent pictures and permit their exhibition, would we not be driven to invoke the courts and call upon them to enforce the penal law already on the statute books, and which we are now asked to put aside as too cumbersome and slow?

"Your committee is opposed to any individual being invested with such power."

Deal in Re-Issues Involves Large Amount

T. R. Gardiner, president of the Gardiner Syndicate, Buffalo, New York, in a flying trip to New York City this week, closed with W. H. Productions Company for New York State, one of the biggest single deals for re-issues yet made. It involves the sum of Sixty Thousand Dollars.

The surprising feature of this proposition is that under former contracts, Mr. Gardiner has been re-issuing W. H. Productions Company's subjects for the past year and under the new deal he is taking new prints of all subjects for both his Buffalo offices and his newly opened Albany office. The fact that Mr. Gardiner has decided to re-issue W. H. re-issues for a second time, is considered conclusive proof that there is both merit and stability to the W. H. product.

Allens Get Schuberg's Canadian Interests

The most important deal consumated in the Canadian field for many years occurred last week when negotiations were completed between Jule and J. J. Allen, who operate the Famous-Players Film Service, Limited, The Monarch Film Company, Limited, and the Allen Theatre Enterprises; and John A. Schuberg of Western Canada, whereby Mr. Schuberg disposed of his interests in his large chain of theatres in Western Canada, and all of his interests in the First National franchise for Western Canada.

Mr. Schuberg and his associates owned and operated three first run theatres in the City of Winnipeg,—The Province, Bijou and Gayety, as well as being interested in eleven of the leading theatres in the Province of British Columbia, which includes three first run theatres in the city of Vancouver,—the Rex, Dominion and Globe, as well as two first run theatres in Victoria, and his theatre interests in Nanaimo and elsewhere.

In Winnipeg, the Allens will now control four first run theatres, as they now operate the Dominion as one of their large chain of theatres.

The acquisition of this string of theatres, more firmly secures the Allens in their present predominant position in the West, and gives them a strong list of first class theatres from Coast to Coast.

Big Theatre Planned for Oklahoma City

A quarter million dollar moving picture theatre with a $100,000 equipment will be built on Main Street, in Oklahoma City, Okla., within the next year, it was announced this week by J. N. Cooper, president of the United Theaters Company. A ninety-nine year lease was obtained from the owners of the ground on which the theatre will be located. The theatre will be the finest in the southwest and will contain innovations that have never been used in any theatre. It will be completed by October 1st, 1920. The theatre will be strictly fireproof, modern, up-to-date and named "Oklahoma."

Exchanges Adopt Rules

In an effort to protect the responsible from the irresponsible exhibitor, the Associated Film Exchanges of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce have established six trade rules, dealing with transportation charges, payments, contracts, changes in booking, holding film and playing dates, and these must be observed by all members of the organization.

"The rules were prompted by the spirit of the Golden Rule," says C. V. Zimmerman, secretary and general counsel of the Associated Film Exchanges. "We are trying to get the exhibitor to co-operate with the film exchange for the good of the industry and to the mutual advantage of all concerned."

A. James Leaves Metro for Fox

Widely Known Publicity Man and Editor to Exploit Fox Product Throughout the Entire World

ARTHUR JAMES, for four years associated with Metro Pictures Corporation, latterly as publicity and advertising director, will on June 23 take over the general direction of publicity and advertising of the Fox Film Corporation. He will make his headquarters in New York.

Under the new arrangement Mr. James will reorganize the publicity forces, which now extend around the world. In addition to representatives in London and continental cities, there will be staff members in the principal centers of the United States who will be in direct contact with local publicity conditions, giving the Fox exhibitors the advantage of expert-on-the-ground service. The publicity policy in its entirety will not be announced until July first.

Before entering the motion picture field Mr. James was a newspaperman with a long experience in New York and other cities. He was or seven years City Editor o the New York Morning Telegraph and also was Sunday Editor of that paper, and prior to this connection was in charge of the publicity department of the Hampton Advertising Agency, directing the publicity for the American Tobacco Company, the DuPont Powder Company and other large businesses.

He left the Morning Telegraph to reorganize the publicity department of the Mutual Film Corporation, and after fourteen months joined Metro where he attracted attention with a series of successful campaigns. He is said to have been the first to utilize the color insert in the field and has been instrumental in raising advertising standards in the industry.

Arthur James

"We welcome Mr. James in the Fox organization and regard him as the leading exponent of motion picture advertising and publicity," said Winifield R. Sheehan, General Manager of Fox Film Corporation.

"Mr. James will direct the general advertising campaigns of the Fox Film Corporation in America, as well as throughout all foreign countries in which we have branches."

Something New in Film is Made

Willis H. O'Brien of "Mannikin" Fame Has Prepared Novel Subjects for Watterson R. Rothacker

WORK has been quietly going on in the Rothacker plant on a number of novelty pictures, upon which Willis H. O'Brien, who produced the novelty effects in "The Ghost of Slumber Mountain" is reported to have exceeded any former effort. W. R. Rothacker revealed last week that Mr. O'Brien has for some time been with the concern, and said:

It was in San Francisco in 1914 that I first heard of Mr. O'Brien's work. At that time Mr. O'Brien was working on a roof in San Francisco making his first plastic pictures, the result being a picture seventy-five feet in length featuring a Brontosamus and a cave man.

In the latter part of 1915 Mr. O'Brien made a reel of prehistoric animals entitled "The Dinasaurus" and "The Missing Link," and then made two novelty pictures entitled "Morphorus Mike" and the "Birth of a Flivver" respectively. He then made a number of pictures for Edison.

"When the Edison Company sold out to Lincoln & Parker, the plan to make educational pictures a chapter of the weekly was abandoned. It was about at that time that Mr. O'Brien met Herbert Dawley who had been working along some special experimental lines and had, as a result, a small book in which he had pasted a large number of exposures of the plastic dinasaur. Mr. O'Brien entered into some arrangement with Mr. Dawley and "The Ghost of Slumber Mountain" was started.

"When this picture was presented at the Strand, Mr. O'Brien was given full credit for its production, but since then an attempt has been made to create the impression that the work was not done by Mr. O'Brien, which, of course, is contrary to the facts in the case.

"We have already finished with Mr. O'Brien three or four novelty subjects far superior to anything he has ever produced and are constantly improving Mr. O'Brien's process which we control.

"I will soon have occasion to make a definite announcement through the trade journals covering our plans for release and giving description of Mr. O'Brien's new productions which are really extraordinary, I believe.

To Withdraw 12 Chaplin-Mutual Prints

The following statement is authorized by H. C. Cornelius, vice president of the Exhibitors Mutual Distributing Corporation:

"It has been a matter of common gossip within the industry for a period of several weeks that the purchase of the negative rights to the twelve Charles Chaplin comedies, known as the Chaplin-Mutual specials, was in negotiation.

"Exhibitors Mutual is negotiating for the Chaplin comedies with the Lone Star Corporation which produced them.

"Exhibitors Mutual as the distributor of the original prints has been served with a notice by Lone Star Corporation exercising an option under its original contract with the Mutual Film Corporation ordering withdrawl of all prints of the Chaplin Mutual specials from our exchanges.

"Notice has been served upon all exhibitors who had made contracts for these pictures with Exhibitors Mutual exercising a four weeks' cancellation clause, and upon the expiration of these notices all prints of the Chaplin Mutual comedies will be withdrawn from circulation in the United States and Canada."

Technical Expert Confers with National Board

John M. Casey, Chief of the Licensing Division of the Mayor's office of Boston, and member of the Advisory Committee of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures has just returned from New York where he has been in conference with the members of the National Board relative to questions of policy which are under consideration.

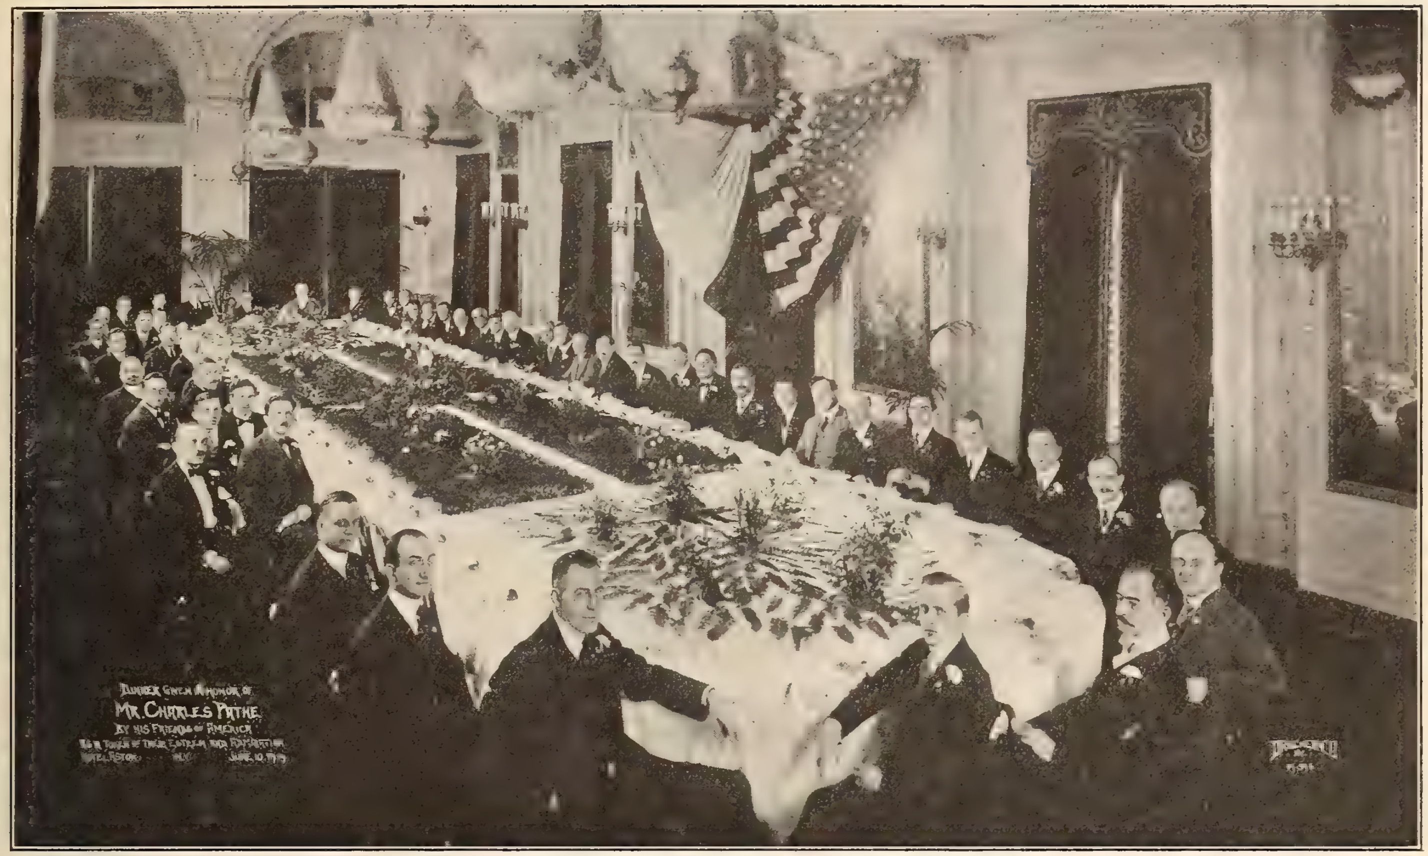
The National Board of Review issues a weekly bulletin to licensing officials in various municipalities throughout the country. Technical questions frequently arise on which expert advice is needed. As the Board of Directors of the National Board consider the conduct of the Licensing Division of the City of Boston one of the most efficient in the country, Mr. Casey is frequently called to New York to pass upon questions from a practical standpoint, which are before the Board of Directors.

North Carolina Exhibitors Convene June 29

The annual convention of the North Carolina Motion Picture Exhibitors Association has been called for June 29-30, at Charlotte, N. C.

In the circular notice sent by H. B. Varner to exhibitors it is stated there are vital questions to be discussed and acted upon, and a full attendance is imperative.

Something of Unusual Interest on Page 4126



DINNER GIVEN IN HONOR OF
MR. CHARLES PATHE
BY HIS FRIENDS OF AMERICA
AS A TOKEN OF THEIR ESTEEM AND ADMIRATION
HOTEL ASTOR N.Y. JUNE 10, 1919

Dinner given in honor of Charles Pathe at the Astor in New York

American Organization Dines Charles Pathe

CLOSE to a hundred members of the home office staff and representatives of the sales organization of the Pathe Exchange, Inc., gathered in the East Ball Room of the Hotel Astor on Tuesday evening at a banquet in honor of Charles Pathe. The dinner served the combined purpose of wishing the film pioneer and Chevalier of the Legion of Honor bon voyage on his return trip to France and expressing the admiration felt for him by every member of the organization.

Announcement was also made at the dinner that Mr. Pathe would return to this country in October. It was hinted by other members of the Pathe staff present that this date would bring a number of important announcements from the house of Pathe.

Louis Innerarity presided as toastmaster at the affair, while addresses were made by Paul Brunet, Fred Quimby, Frank Keenan, Albert Capellani, Leonce Perret, William Raynor, George Ames, and George Blaisdell.

A magnificent desk set bearing the Tiffany stamp was presented to Mr. Pathe on behalf of the exchange managers while the home office bid the guest of honor bon voyage with a beautiful gold cigarette case and match-box. The decorations of the East Ball Room carried the Gold Rooster scheme out in delightful fashion.

Mr. Pathe's speech carried with it the information that profit-sharing plans were being made for the Pathe organization. His address, delivered in French, follows in full:

Gentlemen:

Before leaving America, I have called you all together on this occasion to express to you all the satisfaction I have felt during my stay amongst you.

The success of the business of Pathe Exchange is due in a large degree to its Manager, Mr. Brunet, who has risen with the organization.

He can and ought to serve as an example to you all—who are his immediate colleagues—of what any one who gives himself up entirely to his profession and his work, may aspire to.

To have only one vital preoccupation—that of the work you have to do—is sufficient to obtain success, which means to attain an enviable situation in the profession you follow. Concentration on your work takes the place of genius, if there really exists such a thing.

For my part, I have never known anyone who really succeeded in life without doing more work daily than he was really obliged to by the strict limitation of the duty imposed on him by his engagements.

Sooner or later the man or woman who follows this programme is observed in a business house and the extended knowledge which is thus forcibly acquired is made use of and paid for as it deserves to be.

The business of Pathe Exchange, which has considerably increased during the past year, is still capable of considerable increase. Its future is in your hands and for this reason it is my desire to interest you in a large measure in its welfare.

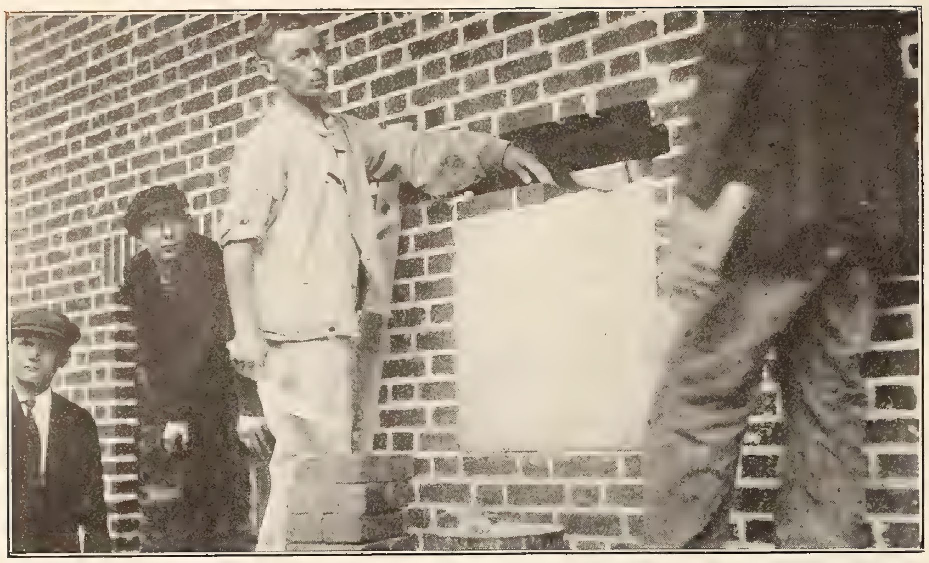
I intend to return to New York next October and purpose studying with Mr. Brunet an arrangement with the intention of making all the immediate colleagues of the Administrative, Industrial and Commercial Management share in the profits of Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Mr. Brunet and myself hope, in this way, to increase the personal activity of each of you, as well as your good will and cohesion of which I have already noticed the satisfactory condition.

I hope that your effective participation in an appreciable portion of the profits of Pathe Exchange, Inc., will have, better than any argument, the result of making you increase your assistance mutually the one to the other in your work, which cooperation is of such enormous benefit to the final results of your work.

Our Exchange Managers, whose cooperation means so much to us, will not be forgotten and I request Mr. Brunet to let them know, at the same time of expressing my regret to them of not having been able to invite them on this occasion, that they may count on our solicitude in the bounds of the efforts they will make to maintain and increase the activity and the good order of their respective Exchanges.

I extend my thanks to all and sincerely wish that I will be in your midst soon again.



Laying the corner stone of the new Fox Building in New York

Dedication of New Fox Building

Impressive Ceremony Attends the Laying of Cornerstone; Film Man's Daughter Assists; Many Are Present

THE cornerstone of the new William Fox building, occupying the block between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth streets, fronting on Tenth avenue, New York City, was laid on Friday afternoon, June 6, in the presence of city officials, prominent motion picture actors, visiting exchange managers of the Fox Film Corporation who had come from all parts of the country and Canada to attend the Fox annual convention, the entire local force of that organization and a crowd of thousands of citizens attracted to the scene by the ceremonies.

A dozen traffic policemen halted vehicular travel on Tenth avenue from Fifty-fourth to Fifty-sixth streets. In front of the building a grand stand was erected for the accommodation of the speakers and other guests. Among these were many persons noted in the motion picture world.

Frank Dowling, president of the Borough of Manhattan, represented the city government and delivered the chief address.

On the grandstand with Mr. Dowling were Winfield R. Sheehan, general manager of the Fox Film Corporation; Reverend Justin Corcoran of the Church of the Madonna at Fort Lee, New Jersey; former Senator Thomas McManus; John C. Eisele, treasurer of the Fox Film Corporation; the Misses Fox, daughters of William Fox; Mrs. J. W. Loeb; William Fried, architect of the building; William Bach, associated with its construction; Samuel F. Kingston and Daniel L. Ryan, assistant to Public Service Commissioner Delaney.

The aims of the Fox Film Corporation and the extent of its activities were ably presented in a brief speech by John C. Eisele, treasurer of the company, who said:

"Because of the illness of Mr. Fox, whom we all hoped would be here today, it is my privilege to appear in his stead at the dedication of this building and the laying of the cornerstone.

"This I do with a lively sense of the responsibility to the public assumed by the Fox Film Corporation in this large enterprise, and I wish to state that, while it has always been the aim of Mr. Fox to produce pictures of the highest class—pictures intended to instruct and educate as well as to entertain—this aim will be intensified, and I do not doubt achieved, by the vast improvement in methods of production made possible by this new building; the first of its kind to be erected in this city or any city. Our purpose is not only to make pictures which will insure substantial profits to the exhibitor, but to make pictures which will be recognized on every hand as the finest films produced, year after year, in the world."

Led by President Dowling, at the conclusion of Mr. Eisele's speech those present marched off to the southwest corner of the building where with a silver trowel on which was engraved "Fox Film Corporation, 1919" Mr. Dowling began the task of laying the stone. Within the cornerstone was laid a box containing records of the Fox Film Corporation together with a motion picture of the crowd and the ceremony filmed by a camera on the speaker's platform. Miss Mona Fox, daughter of William Fox, was accorded the honor of placing the box in the cornerstone.

Change Dates of Players Union Meetings

The regular meetings of the Motion Picture Players' Union have been changed to every Monday night in the month at 7.30, at the headquarters, 515 American Bank Bldg., Los Angeles.

It's Bound to Interest
What?
Why, Page 4126

Ontario Exhibitors Oppose Sunday Opening

Serious abjection was taken by members of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Protective Association of Ontario against a proposal for a campaign to secure the opening of theatres on Sundays in Canada at a general meeting of the association at Toronto on June 3.

Announcement was made that the Great War Veteran's Association would propose and recommend at its coming annual convention in Vancouver that all moving picture theatres throughout Canada be opened on Sundays to help keep returned soldiers and others off the streets. A motion was offered that the exhibitors go on record as opposed to Sunday opening. This motion was seconded. An amendment that the exhibitors' association remain neutral in the matter was offered by Messrs. Hudson and Alexander of Toronto. After a considerable discussion the amendment carried by a large majority.

It was the opinion of several exhibitors that Sunday opening would reduce theatre business during the week.

The exhibitors also decided to ask for legislation to restrict tours throughout the Province of Ontario of circuses and carnival companies.

Branch Managers Tender Banquet to Robbins

Herman Robbins, assistant general manager for Fox Film Corporation, was guest of honor at a shore dinner tendered him by district and branch managers of the Fox organization last week at Sheepshead Bay. The affair was in the nature of a surprise to Mr. Robbins, he being taken to Sheepshead Bay on pretense of selling an exhibitor. After the dinner he was presented with a leather traveling bag.

Mr. Robbins, who has direct supervision of the Fox branch offices and district offices in the United States, has been with the Fox Film Corporation almost since its inception. He has a very wide acquaintance among exhibitors of North America, having met most of them in their own theatres.

His hosts at the affair included George and Sam Dembow, Louis S. Levia, A. S. Moritz, Joseph Kaliski, Harry F. Campbell, William D. Shapiro, Maurice West, Vincent J. McCabe, Lester Sturm, Joseph B. Roden, Ben P. Rogers, I. J. Schmertz, Clayton P. Sheehan, Earl H. Wachter, Clyde W. Eckhardt, Rudolph Knoepfle, Nate Scheinberg and Joseph A. DePisa.

Asks Exhibitors to Lend Aid on Flag Day

The National Security League, recollecting the aid given a year ago by motion picture exhibitors on Flag Day, is asking that this year they lend co-operation to the loyalty demonstration by throwing on the screen the words of the Flag Salute:

"I pledge allegiance to my flag, and to the republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Fox Managers See Prosperity Ahead

Branch and District Heads Convene in New York, and Return to Their Territories with Full Details of Season's Plans; Exhibitor Announcement on June 15

AFTER attending the fifth annual convention of the William Fox organization the past week, district and branch managers of the concern are now homeward bound, after what was considered to be the best "get-together" affair yet held by members of the organization.

The policy of the company for 1919-1920 was mapped out at the convention, and simultaneous announcement of details arranged will be made by the managers on their return home. Exhibitors will have the plans of distribution outlined for them on June 15.

Seasons' Policy Decided

The policy of the company for the season of 1919-20 was decided at the convention and simultaneous announcement of details will be made by the managers soon after their return home. June 15 has been fixed as the date for outlining the plan to exhibitors.

Convention sessions were held this year in the ball room of the Pennsylvania Hotel, beginning with the morning of June 2 and continuing morning and afternoon, through the week. The convention was presided over by Mr. Fox and Winfield R. Sheehan, general manager. At the executive table were John C. Eislee, treasurer; Jack G. Leo, vice president, and Herman Robbins, assistant general manager.

Bright Outlook Seen

In his opening address Mr. Fox spoke of the conclusion of the war as affording wonderful opportunities for motion pictures throughout the world, and contrasted this year's convention with that of 1918 when the Fox organization, the industry and the nation were interested above all things else in doing what they could to bring the world war to a successful end. The speaker referred briefly to his recent trip to Europe and declared that despite newspaper reports there were many evidences abroad of returning prosperity. In America, he said, we have more wealth than we ever had and the outlook for 1919-20 is that the season will be the most prosperous in the history of the motion picture industry.

No convention sessions were held during the evenings, these being given over to the entertainment of the delegates. Tuesday night the managers attended the performance of "Up in Mabel's Room" at the Eltinge theatre. Wednesday night they saw "Monte Cristo Jr." at the Winter Garden and the "Midnight Whirl" at the Century Grove. The annual beefsteak dinner was held Thursday night at Castle Cave. Friday afternoon the managers were guests of honor at the laying of the cornerstone of the new William Fox Building, Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth streets and Tenth avenue, and Saturday was given over to conferences with the general manager at the administration offices in West Forty-sixth street.

The district managers in attendance were Harry F. Campbell, of Boston; Clyde W. Eckhardt, of Chicago; Vincent J. McCabe, of Toronto; Clayton P. Sheehan, of Buffalo, and Earl H. Wachter, of Kansas City.

BILLY GILMORE

The death of "Billy" Gilmore, former exhibitor, and at one time connected with General Film Co., and the distressing circumstances resulting, is called to attention in the following letter:

Mr. Wm. A. Johnston,
Motion Picture News,
729 Seventh Avenue,
New York City.

My dear Mr. Johnston:

I have just learned of the sudden death of Billy Gilmore, one of the boys who has been with the industry for a great many years. It was only a short time ago that he had lost his wife, and has four small children who survive.

Now Mr. Johnston, I want to ask you to publish this news and say something about the conditions I want to create a fund if possible to help the children and have accepted the treasury of same, and can be addressed at the Exhibitors Mutual Distr. Corp., 1600 Broadway, 10th floor, New York City.

Thanking you in advance, I am

Very truly yours,
William Hilkemeier.

Those Who Attended

Branch managers included Tracy Barham, Atlanta; Thomas W. Brady, Buffalo; George F. Dembow, Philadelphia; L. M. Devaney, Toronto; L. E. Harrington, Dallas; Joseph Kaliski, Denver; Joseph Lieberman, St. John; George E. McKean, St. Louis; Sidney Meyer, Omaha; A. S. Moritz, New Orleans; C. E. Penrod, Indianapolis; Joseph B. Roden, Salt Lake City; Ben P. Rogers, Washington; Louis Rosenbluh, New York; William D. Shapiro, Cleveland; Howard J. Sheehan, Pittsburgh; Lester Sturm, Cincinnati; M. J. Weisfeldt, Minneapolis; Maurice West, Montreal.

Others in attendance were Albert C. Wyckoff, controller; Lewis S. Levin, assistant to the general manager; Walter B. Caryn, manager contract department; Carl Downing, advertising manager; Henry R. Heitman, of the general manager's office; Lloyd J. Levy and Sam Denbow, Jr., of the assistant manager's office; Hamilton Thompson, scenario editor; Jay A. Gove, director Exhibitors' Service Bureau; Emanuel P. Preiss, Fenimore P. Hill and Mix Golden, auditing department; Robert C. Buttolph and Jacob Sicholman, contract department; Harry Reinhardt, disbursement department; Fred W. Lange, Frank J. Shea and Acquielo C. Calvo, foreign department; George H. Fleming, Jack Francis, Sam J. Warshawsky, David A. Morrissey, of Los Angeles; Benjamin Garetson, of Chicago, and Joseph A. Depisa, Exhibitors' Service Bureau; Isidore Krotosky, purchasing agent; William E. Sennett, requisition manager.

Harry Revier Returns to New York

Harry Revier, who directed champion Jess Willard in the Continental Pictures Corporation seven-reel reature, "The Challence of Chance," returned to New York from Los Angeles last week accompanied by Arline Pretty, leading woman for Willard; Al Hart, who played the heavy lead and gave the champ a battle that would do credit to a Dempsey, and an augmented technical staff. He brought with him two full negatives and three prints of the picture that is to put the heavyweight champion before the screen fans of the country as a film star.

Reports from the offices of the producers and promoters of the Willard production credit Mr. Revier with having accomplished a titanic task in completing the picture within a very short period of working time, declaring that the director worked night and day.

Since his arrival in New York, however, Mr. Revier is said to have exceeded even the record he established during the taking of the picture. He lost no time in getting to work on the cutting and titling of the production, having been forced to take approximately 40,000 feet of scenes.

The work of cutting, titling and tinting "The Challenge of Chance" is being done at the Crystal Film Co. Laboratories in the Bronx, and Mr. Revier has with him, in addition to the professional cutters, Roy Somerville, author of the story.

Gerson Plans New House

M. J. Gerson, general manager of the Whitestone M. P. Corporation, has purchased from J. Heffner the plot at 3rd avenue, College Point, where he is going to build a 1,500-seat house. This will be the most up-to-date house on the island. Mr. Gerson has the Unique and the Auditorium Theatres in Whitestone, Long Island, also the Lyceum Theatre, College Point, and is one of the old pioneers in the business.

Don't Miss Page 4126
It Tells Something Interesting

Famous Players-Lasky District Convention, in Chicago

F. P. Lasky District Convention

Big Attendance at Three-Day Session in Chicago at Which President Adolph Zukor Reveals Plans for Season

THE Famous Players-Lasky Corporation District Convention held in the Sherman House, Chicago, June 2, 3 and 4, was a big success. The district managers of the Fifth and Sixth Districts, Mr. J. W. Allen of Chicago and Mr. M. H. Lewis of Kansas City, respectively, presided.

The meeting was called at 10:00 A. M. June 2 and shortly after the convention had settled down to a review of the plans for the coming year's work and productions (starting with the September releases), those present had a very pleasant surprise sprung on them in the unexpected appearance of Mr. Adolph Zukor, the President of the company. Mr. Zukor gave a talk, which was well received.

The general plan for the changed policy of the company were reviewed and the list of productions, twenty-six of which are now completed, was presented; the great opportunity for exploitation of each subject and the selective policy for sales of the new year's product carefully explained.

One of the most ambitious schemes for aids to the exhibitors in their development of theatre patrons yet conceived is now being perfected and will do much to increase the great drawing power of the product of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in the future and make easier many of the theatre managers' problems.

The high production quality of the new product was carefully explained by Messrs. Allen and Lewis. The purpose to have all future advertising and publicity aids prepared after the product was finished and ready for service was carefully explained. The arrangement for pre-sale review of the product made possible through the earlier completion of pictures will permit of a more satisfactory buying arrangement for the exhibitor than he has heretofore experienced.

The coming of the new year has, in the plans for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, as brought out during the conference, many agreeable surprises for the exhibitor, in a new selling policy, which should prove a great boon to the wide-awake theatre manager.

Those in attendance at the conference were:

E. Dawson, salesman, Chicago; J. H. Stakes, salesman, Omaha; R. H. Ramsey, salesman, Detroit; R. J. McManus, salesman, Kansas City; Bruce Burgess, salesman, Minneapolis; C. H. Weeks, salesman, Detroit; C. F. Rose, salesman, Minneapolis; T. H. Gibbs, salesman, Chicago; M. Stahl, salesman, St. Louis; E. O'Neill, salesman, Omaha; R. Allison, salesman, St. Louis.

T. W. Stoddard, accessories manager, St. Louis; George M. Rowell, salesman, Detroit; T. Stover, salesman, Chicago; H. A. Washburn, accessories manager, Chicago; C. Bond, salesman, Chicago; L. Y. Crump, salesman, Chicago; F, E. North, salesman, Detroit; J. H. Gilday, salesman, Kansas City; S. J. Mayer, salesman, Kansas City; A. W. Nicolls, salesman, Des Moines; A. J. Irvine, booking manager, St. Louis; F. R. Traub, salesman, Chicago.

M. M. Hirsch, assistant manager, Chicago; F. W. Weeks, manager, St. Louis; F. F. Creswell, manager, Chicago; G. E. Akers, manager, Kansas City; H. A. Ross, manager, Detroit; J. W. Allen, district manager, Fifth District, Chicago; M. H. Lewis, district manager, Sixth District, Kansas City; J. W. Hicks, Jr., manager, Minneapolis; R. C. Libeau, manager, Des Moines; C. L. Peavey, manager, Omaha; E. J. Eichenlaub, sales manager, Chicago.

E. H. Brient, assistant manager, St. Louis; T. J. Blanch, publicity manager, Detroit; R. C. White, booking manager, Chicago; J. W. Bartlett, booking manager, Kansas City; R. A. Fleischbein, accessories manager, Minneapolis; A. L. Burnstein, booking manager, Minneapolis; E. Grossman, chief accountant, Chicago; J. A. Muchmore, assistant manager, Des Moines; S. B. Rahn, salesman, Minneapolis; A. H. Cole, accessories manager, Kansas City; W. L. Hill, publicity manager, Chicago.

General Electric Gets Cooper-Hewitt Stock

The General Electric Company by the acquisition of all the common stock of the Cooper Hewitt Electric Company has secured control of the latter company.

The Cooper Hewitt Electric Company for the past 16 years has built up a very extensive business in industrial and photographic lighting amongst all the large industrial manufacturers, motion picture studios, photographers and photographic laboratories. The Company will be operated under the regulation and management of the General Electric Company.

Mr. W. A. D. Evans, who has been connected with the Cooper-Hewitt Electric Company since its inception, will be in actual charge of the company as President and Treasurer.

The present policy of the company in its field of industrial and photographic lighting will be continued. Increased facilities will shortly be provided to take care of the rapidly increasing business.

Willard Representative Arranging Showing in New York

When Ray O. Archer, business representative for champion Jess Willard, arrived in New York last week to make arrangements for the showing of the big dramatic feature in which the heavyweight king will be presented next week, he was beseiged by newspapermen. He had slipped quietly out of Toledo, where the champion is training for his coming battle, and boarded the Twentieth Century, on board of which was Fred L. Wilke, president of the Continental Pictures Corporation, producers of "The Challenge of Chance," as the picture is to be known.

Willard's representative, after seeing the major part of the production run off in a projection room at the Crystal Laboratories, said that he thought it was the fastest thing he had ever seen on the screen. This opinion is borne out by others who saw it. Roy Somerville, author of the play, congratulated Mr. Revier on having maintained a swiftness of action and beauty of lighting and photography one of the finest samples of film art he had seen in his career.

Second Big Theatre Projected in Buffalo

Close upon the heels of the announcement by Harold B. Franklin that the Shea Amusement company of Buffalo, N. Y., was about to build a $1,500,000 theatre in the center of the downtown district, comes the flash that the South Park Amusement Company has broken ground for a neighborhood theatre to cost over $85,000. The incorporators of the company are George C. Hall, present owner of the Maxine theatre in Seneca street; George F. Hanny, also interested in the Maxine; William H. Fitzpatrick, Jr. and Joseph A. Schuchert, one of the most prominent theatremen in the state, who is interested financially in several big Buffalo houses. The company expects to open the new house about October 1, this year.

Pathe Employees Share in New Profit System

Paul Brunet, Vice President and General Manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc., announced this week a new distribution of profits to employees in addition to the several bonus propositions which have long been in vogue with this concern.

The new proposition is for the benefit of those employees who do not share in the various bonuses and is so arranged that each of these employees when he has been with the firm one year, will on the anniversary of his coming with Pathe, receive a check for double his weekly compensation for that week.

This arrangement is another indication of the liberal policy towards its employees pursued by Pathe Exchange under Mr. Brunet's management.

F. G. Hall Closes Deal for Screen Letter Box

"Frank G. Hall closed a deal this week," says an official of Independent Sales "where by he controls the exclusive distributing rights for the United States and Canada to the Screen Letter Box, the big-little feature, the idea for which was conceived by Morris Kashin, prominent exhibitor and theatre manager and produced by Jack Cohn. The first release of this subject, one a week, will be placed in the hands of the Film Clearing House, Inc., exchanges, Mr. Hall's distributing medium, July 15th and each week thereafter.

"The Screen Letter Box, according to Messrs, Kashin and Cohn is a distinct idea, the result of a careful study of box-office conditions by Mr. Kashin, produced with the idea of giving to the exhibitor and public an attractive short subject, guaranteed to hold a strong drawing power and at the same time to advertise the theatre in which it is shown. As Mr. Kashin said: "It is my idea of service—to provide the theatre manager with an attraction that will not only get him business but friends and steady patrons. It is the direct result of a careful study of the box-office angle."

Fight Fans Will See Jess Willard in Action

The fight fans throughout the country will be given an opportunity to form an opinion of Jess Willard's condition for the world's championship bout, July 4th, when he defends his title against Jack Dempsey at Toledo, O., when Frank G. Hall, president of Independent Sales Corporation, who has secured the United States and Canada rights to the big fellow's seven-reel picture, "The Challenge of Chance," releases it next week. Mr. Hall is negotiating for a Broadway theatre to give this production an extended New York run, it is said, and Harry P. Diggs, exploitation manager for the Hall interests, is in Chicago arranging for its showing there.

In "The Challenge of Chance," Willard is said to be seen in three big fight scenes.

May Change the Players' Contracts

UNUSUAL interest has been aroused in the ruling handed down by Judge Oscar Trippett, of the United States District Court in Los Angeles in the suit brought by Select Pictures Corporation to prevent the showing of the first independent made subject, "The Better Wife," with Clara Kimball Young.

As reported by wire from the coast and told in the MOTION PICTURE NEWS of last week, the court refused to grant an injunction on the ground that Miss Young's contract was with the C. K. Y. Corporation which in turn had contracted with the Select Pictures Corporation, and she therefore, was not personally obligated to Select. Further details of the case, which is particularly interesting from a motion pic-

(Continued on page 4128)

HOW HE MET THE OPPOSITION

HERE is an interesting letter which came to Select Pictures Corporation from the Gem theatre, Lewistown, Ill. It is a boost for pictures which the public readily appreciates.

IT may interest you to know that we played fairly well against the Tent Theatrical Co., which swooped down on us without a day's notice, skipping dates in order to get in on certain track events which were to come off here.

It seemed rather an injustice on the part of our town officials—due entirely to thoughtlessness—to book them in without giving us a chance to arrange our own booking to meet the opposition.

It was a very rainy week and the daily paper carries numerous one line ads for the Company—"Our Tent Doesn't Leak." My soldier son who has lately returned from France and who is dependent on the Theatre for a living, and was before he volunteered, came back at them with the item which I am enclosing. I have no newspaper clipping at hand and am sending you a typewritten copy. I am sure you will think it effective.

"OUR TENT DOESN'T LEAK."

But our tents on the battle fields of France leaked, our raincoats leaked, our shoes leaked, and the masks of some of our comrades leaked a poison gas, and they never came back. The shell holes in which we sought refuge from raining shrapnel, were full of water, and perhaps some soldier in advance of us had found shelter there while his life blood leaked away. The ambulances coming back as we went down to the trenches leaked the blood of dying men. The hour glass of time leaked away two whole years of our life which might have been given to the companionship and support of a wife and baby "Getting a Start" which money-makers gained while the boys fought their battles Over There. But let us hope the patriotism that gave us a slap on the back and sent us forth has not all leaked away since we made the fight.

Everything, we are told, must be viewed from a selfish standpoint. If this be true, when our business people of Lewistown and surrounding country, realize what an asset the Motion Picture Theatre is to a town, what a spoke in the wheel of progress and education, and that "man does not live by bread alone" then we may at least expect a "square deal."

Ask yourself the question, "What would Lewistown be without a Motion Picture Theatre?"

OUR HOUSE DOESN'T LEAK.

L. A. Blakley,
Proprietor, Gem Theatre.

Repeal of Admission Tax Urged

Country-Wide Crusade by Amusement Interests to Repeal War Measure to Mutually Benefit Public and Theatre

AMUSEMENT interests, under the leadership of the United Managers' Protective Association, have instituted a nation-wide campaign for the repeal of the war tax on admissions.

The amusement interests of the United States, under the leadership of the United Managers' Protective Association, has begun a campaign for a repeal of the war tax on admissions.

The Managers' Association, which embraces the legitimate theatres and producing managers throughout the United States, through its president, Marc Klaw, has filed with Representative Joseph W. Fordney, who has succeeded Claude Kitchin, as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, the following appeal:

"In behalf of the theatres and theatrical enterprises of the United States, we respectfully urge a repeal of the admission tax.

"This tax is on the public and not on the theatres and the theatres are only concerned by reason of the loss of patronage which this tax occasions.

"The theatre has occupied a unique position under war conditions. Its costs have doubled. Its direct federal taxes have doubled. Its indirect federal contributions (in the way of increased railroad fares and railroad ticket taxes) have almost doubled. But the theatre unlike other enterprises, has been unable to increase the price of its product or pass on any of these costs to the public.

"The theatre is not now appealing for a repeal of its direct taxes, such as the federal tax based on seating capacity or indirect taxes, in the way of taxes on the travelling expenses of companies on the road, but asks that the tax on its patrons—on the theatre-going public—be repealed.

"This organization represents the legitimate theatres from Maine to California and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. It asks that the attendance of theatres be not further discouraged and lessened by the tax on the theatre-going public."

This appeal is being backed up by individual appeals from the various legitimate vaudeville and motion picture theatres throughout the United States, the Vaudeville Managers' Association, the Exhibitors' League, and organized labor connected with amusement enterprises including the musicians, stage carpenters, property men, electricians and motion picture operators.

Chairman Fordney, Representative J. Hampton Moore and others have already expressed themselves as favorable to the repeal of the admissions tax.

NEXT WEEK!

¶ A new and enlarged Motion Picture News, in the ideal size—ten inches in width, thirteen inches in depth.

¶ A brilliant new cover, an enlarged page offering in type-size and make-up unusual opportunities for increased editorial value to our readers.

¶ Advertising rates remain the same.

¶ Advertising value is increased tremendously—in the facilities afforded for artistic and striking effectiveness.

¶ Remember—next week—the issue dated June 28th.

¶ The exact figures are: Page size, 10 inches wide, 13 inches deep; Type size, 8½ inches wide, 11¼ inches deep.

NEXT WEEK!

First in Every Test!

¶ Last winter a leading distributor* asked his exchange men in convention in New York which trade paper had the most value in their territories.

¶ The vote was—twenty-six to one in favor of Motion Picture News.

¶ A month ago another large distributor completed an exhaustive questionnaire of his exchange managers on the subject of trade papers. He asked opinions on: Circulation, Reader Interest, Prestige.

¶ Motion Picture News ran so far ahead on every count as to be outside competition.

¶ The largest distributor in the business is conducting a questionnaire of his customers on trade papers.

¶ With the tabulation half done—Motion Picture News is racing far ahead in the field.

¶ We checked our circulation against the Chaplin contracts last winter; we are now checking our subscriptions against the contract list of one of the largest distributors.

¶ The Chaplin poll showed our circulation practically 100%—the other test, not yet completed, has already shown our subscription list reaching over ninety per cent of the distributor's contract customers.

¶ Facts count! Test the field yourself! Learn from your own test that Motion Picture News is the only one hundred per cent buy in the field.

First by Every Test!

---

* Names and figures will be supplied to any interested advertiser on request at Motion Picture News office.

The Reader has His Say

Thinks Screen's Authors Will Differ from Book Writers

Motion Picture News,
New York City.

I read with considerable interest your comment on Mr. Pathe's remarks about the author and his future in the picture business. I have been talking "stories made on the lot" ever since I felt myself competent to judge of the material with which we were forced to work in the construction of screen stories. It has got to come to that if we are to make any progress.

In the writing of continuity we find ourselves constantly struggling with material which is not picture material—and I have come to the conclusion that the picture of the future, when we have developed screen writers, will have about as close a relationship with literary effort in story form as a piece of marble or a painting has with that same product of the human brain. The screen provides a medium of expression that is entirely new. Once in a while I get just a mental glimpse of what we will some day do with stories told in the form of action without any other adjuncts than those found necessary to the legitimate stage in the form of the printed program—and then I find myself forced back into the old grooves again. But some day we will have screen authors and they will be as distinct from the author of printed stories as the man who planned and presented "Sumurum" is distinct from Robert W. Chambers, I tell you, with rare exceptions, the book or play or story is not adaptable to the screen and that is the real reason why we find so much complaint about such works being emasculated when transferred to the screen.

I have been giving this phase of the story situation a lot of thought and I have put some of those thoughts into practice by experimenting both on paper and on the screen. I know my theory is right. I do not go half way with it and say that the pictures are partly plays and partly pictures or that they are part literature and part picture. They are all picture. We are simply up against the presentation of our subject matter through the simplest medium of expression to be found within the scope of human appreciation. That form of medium of expression is action—and action is the only medium of expression which can be grasped and understood by every mind in every station of life in every country.

We all admit that whatever your medium of expression, the simplest form of presentation which you can devise is the most effective. And, also, all admit that the simpler the form the harder to master it becomes until, in the great masterpieces of all mediums of expression, we find the greater the master-artist the simpler is the form through which he works.

Now when we have placed at our disposal the simplest medium of expression of which we have any knowledge, naturally those who master it are going to be greater artists than any who have gone before in the history of all expression. And we have not yet developed any one who comes anywhere near to knowing what or how to write for the screen. We won't find that fellow bobbing up from any other point of the compass than the motion picture studio, either. One great trouble with those having to do with the creation of pictures is that so many of them look on the business as a well paid holiday and do not seriously consider any other motto than: "That will get by."

With these few words off my chest, I will sit down and work on my next script with best wishes and kindly thoughts of you and praises for the day when you convinced me I should stay in the picture business.

JACK CUNNINGHAM,
Robert Bruton Studios.

* * *

Reichenbach to Bat About "Hypocrites" Booking

Anent the Open Market question and W. W. Hodkinson's letter, I think Mr. Hodkinson's mind is a little lax regarding the details of the "Hypocrites" presentation.

The picture laid on the shelf many months and Frank Garbutt approached me with a salary and percentage proposition to handle the picture.

After seeing it, I prevailed upon William L. Sherry to finance the production at the Longacre theatre. Several days before the opening, I received word from Paramount that their name must be kept off the paper, theatre, advertising, etc.

After the film went over and we were doing almost capacity business, Paramount began displaying an interest and attempted to book the picture at program rates with their regular clients. My contract with Garbutt read: "All bookings to be made with mutual sanction of the Sherry office and H. L. Reichenbach."

When I learned that Paramount had booked Kunsky of Detroit at his regular booking amount, I threatened Kunsky with an injunction, raised the rental on him to $1000 for one week and compelled him to charge dollar prices. This state of affairs continued, and New Haven, Boston, Newark and other towns wanted the film and I was forced, as I said in my former statement, to battle for the upholding of my rights in the premises. Throughout the entire deal, Mr. Hodkinson did not enter. Mr. Sherry and myself were solely responsible for any open bookings the picture made, before I sold my percentage interest to Garbutt, which I sold at a ridiculously low figure rather than fight over every independent contract. I have telegrams and letters from Garbutt in which every one of the above statements are verified. Mr. Hodkinson, during his stay at Paramount, never offered one film on the open booking plan. He was the originator of program bookings and maintained his policy throughout his entire regime at Paramount.

H. L. REICHENBACH.

On Slow Moving Broadway in New York City, U. S. A.

The man who has always wondered why meritorious productions are never given more than a week of life at the trio of Broadway photoplay temples would have felt considerably cheered had he passed the Rialto with us last Sunday evening.

A crowd of two hundred at the box-office, a line extending the entire length of the Broadway block—these were the answers to the showing of "A Knickerbocker Buckaboo," with Douglas Fairbanks. The previous week it had been the attraction at the Rialto's sister house, the Rivoli.

The same man—the believer in longer Broadway runs—would probably have received cheer also from the experiment at the Rivoli.

Broadway moves slowly in many things—but there are signs of progress.

Fight On Against Sunday Closing

Adrian, Mich., Up in Arms Over Attempt of Blue Law Element to Close Theatres; Minister Favors Houses

A COUNTER-CAMPAIGN which bids fair to put Blue Law advocates who urge Sunday closing of picture houses, to rout, is being waged in little Adrian, Mich. By pen and speech and pamphlet, the broader minded element is being appealed to. The one newspaper of the city, the Daily Telegram, is giving prominence to the fight, and logical, convincing editorials by its editor, Stuart H. Perry, is tipping the scales against those few who inaugurated the Sunday closing argument.

Petitions were distributed by the anti-picture group praying the City Commission to pass an ordinance to close the theatres on the Sabbath. In retaliation, V. J. Williams of the Crescent Theatre, and other exhibitors have gotten out a counter petition for signature of the many who wish the houses to remain open.

Dr. F. A. Perry, pastor of the local Plymouth Church, publicly defended the pictures, saying in an address:

"The movement to close the movies is pushed by the silk stocking people who own automobiles, "and they do not need the movies for Sunday amusement, but they want to take away the amusement of the poor man who cannot afford an automobile, but who can go to the picture show."

He qualified his position by saying that he was not in the first instance a promoter of Sunday theatres but that he believed there was nothing better at the present time.

"To put out the Sunday movies is to give place to something worse," was the way he characterized the situation.

In the course of a two column editorial the Adrian Daily Telegram said of the closing attempt:

A picture show disturbs the general public as little as a church service, and its audience includes all classes of people. Therefore if we undertake to forbid it, we must do so solely upon the theory that it is evil and that the welfare of the city demands its suppression. In that case we must first be perfectly sure that we are right in pronouncing it an evil, and second, we must be sure that we are right in thinking that there would be a net benefit to the city by suppressing it.

As to the first point—whether motion pictures are intrinsically good or bad—the overwhelming majority of people everywhere have given a favorable verdict.

May Change the Players' Contracts

(Continued from page 4125)

ture standpoint, in that it creates something of a precedent as regards players' responsibility under contract, have been received.

The suit was brought as a result of Miss Young nullifying her contract with the C. K. Y. Corporation and Select Pictures several months ago. At the time of this action on the part of the actress there were numerous statements made by the corporations interested and Miss Young, in trade papers. Following her notice of cancellation of contract Miss Young began the making of a film in Los Angeles titled "The Better Wife" and it was upon this picture that the suit was based. The Kinema theatre began advertising the showing of Miss Young's picture a number of days prior to the date of the premier. An appeal for the injunction was not filed until Saturday morning, May 31, the day before the picture was to become a part of the program at the Kinema theatre. Judge Frank James and Neil McCarthy represented Select Pictures Corporation and Alfred Wright and Alexander McDonald were counsel for the defendants.

Exhibitor Service Bureau

It's Wonderful—Just Think—

THERE are today under construction or all arrangements made to build more motion picture theatres of the highest class than there have been erected in the past five years. If one subtracted the legitimate theatres that have been converted into motion picture houses, one might be able to say that there were now under way or planned more fine houses than the total number in the country today.

And with few exceptions the men who are building these houses are not new in the business. They have not been lured in as they were along in the early days of the business by "get rich quick" ideas. They are men who are in the industry now, men who are able to see ahead and who appreciate how motion picture exhibition has progressed in the last two or three years—and one can see the greatest progress in that period.

These men realize that the drawing power of the motion picture is increasing, but that at the same time the public, at least in the cities, is not going to be content with just any old thing. Every city is demanding its best for its own people and scores of men who now have less pretentious houses see the way clear to make this further investment and to get their profit out of it.

THIS is not written with the intention of boosting the construction of theatres or even suggesting to you that you should have a finer house. But we are citing it as an instance of the wonderful progress that has been made in motion picture EXHIBITION—AND WE FEEL VERY SURE THAT THE PROGRESS IN THAT PORTION OF THE BUSINESS DESERVES THE LION'S SHARE OF THE CREDIT.

That progress does not mean that you need to go out and build a million dollar house to hold or to increase your patronage, but it does mean as sure as the sun is in the sky that you have got to get your standard up to the best and that you have to keep it there if you expect to keep in the running. If you don't you will find some one slipping in and building a house on the next corner who will give that standard.

And better exhibition does not mean that you have to have an orchestra of fifty pieces and mount the costliest stage settings. What it means is that you have to get the most out of each picture that you show in accordance with the local limitations, and it means that you have to keep figuring how you can arrange things to do just a little better and to widen the limitations just a little with each week that passes.

We cite you proof: Turn through the pages of the Exhibitors Service Bureau and read them carefully. There are in this issue EIGHTEEN PAGES OF MATTER ABOUT BETTER EXHIBITION OF PICTURES.

This is matter OF AND BY EXHIBITORS. It is the sort of material with dollars in every line of it for you.

There's not a line of THEORY stuff in it. It is not a lot of bunk about what some press agent who may never have been away from Broadway, thinks ought to be done with some production.

It is ACCOMPLISHMENT.

AS we have told you before, the wiseacres said two years ago when we started the Exhibitors Service Bureau that "it couldn't be done." It has been done and you have the evidence of it with every issue of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS.

We are not attempting even by inference to take the credit of it. All that we claim for ourselves is that this paper has the vision to see the growth of the exhibitor, that more and more of them were really doing things—and BIG things in their own way. All that we did was to offer them here a forum.

And then we were fortunate as to be able to enlist at the very start the minds of some of the greatest men in the exhibiting field and they have helped here week after week and are helping still to give you the benefit of their ideas.

What a wonderful thing it is when the exhibitors have come to realize that co-operation in this line is worth money to themselves and to their fellows—that it is building the business stronger and stronger every day and widening the appeal of motion pictures to an extent that was not dreamed of a few years ago.

And while we are on this subject we want to tell you that ADVERTISING is one of the great incentives in the progress of exhibition and that the encouragement to the exhibitor to do better advertising, to tell him sincerely and constructively what is the matter with his exploitation—instead of merely satisfying his vanity with praise—as was formerly the trade paper custom—has been a service that we have been proud to have given.

Let's make this splendid issue showing so much about what others are doing an incentive to all of us to try to do more—and to tell others what you yourself are doing—to the end that we may all grow together.

Here's a Stunt That Had a Whole City Worried About a Supposed Kidnapping

EASTON, Pa., was suddenly startled one day recently when there appeared in a local newspaper an advertisement which gave them the impression that a kidnapping had been perpetrated, and that the particular person was the daughter of some wealthy family. The advertisement that caused all the apprehension was:

WANTED!

Information of the whereabouts of Marie Alexander. Disappeared from a party of refugees landed on the American Coast. Medium height, dark hair, brown eyes, figure slender, has soft hands, with long tapering fingers. Speaks four languages fluently.

EASTON POLICE DEPARTMENT

There was hardly a woman in Easton who tallied in the least bit with the description of the hunted one that did not get the closest scrutiny from passersby. Women were closely eyeing one another. Then, on the following day, there appeared in the news columns of the paper an advertisement which read like this:

WARNING TO LOCAL LADIES' CLOTHIERS

Please communicate at once with undersigned if Marie Alexander reveals herself in your stores. She will seek expensive wardrobe to replace present apparel. Most urgent necessity for her immediate apprehension.

Address B X Y, care Express.

This only served to make everyone a self-appointed detective, and the various stores in Easton, where ladies' clothing was sold, had considerable trouble in keeping the crowds moving on the inside, while the outside presented a scene that looked like a circus. With the day over the lost one was still at large, and the crowds wended their way to their homes with a determination of taking up the chase the following day. Then came the announcement in the form of a telegram from William Heenan and addressed to Harlan Woehrle, No. 36 South Third street. The telegram read as follows:

EVERY DETAIL OF THE MYSTERY SURROUNDING MARIE ALEXANDER WILL BE PRESENTED AS

"A MIDNIGHT ROMANCE"

—at the—

THIRD STREET THEATRE

ON THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, MAY 22, 23. 24

With ANITA STEWART as the Star, and JACK HOLT as Roger Sloan

SUMPTUOUS SCENES! GORGEOUS GOWNS!

This three-inch four column display "gave away" the secret

"Just advised that Marie Alexander, for whom search is being made in your town, escaped from those seeking her in Philadelphia, after she had been discovered working as a chambermaid in one of the hotels here. Presume she is headed toward Easton. It is known she had only enough funds to pay transportation to Easton. She will probably wear a maid's livery beneath long blue cloak. Roger Sloan, wealthy young society man here, offers any amount to learn her whereabouts and to insure her against privation and discomfort. It is also reported that Blinkey Deal and Blondie Mazie, two notorious society blackmailers, are in pursuit of her to obtain revenge for her successful effort to prevent their scheme to victimize Sloan for thousands of dollars. Suspect she is more than a hotel maid from the fuss that has been started to find her. Two men and a woman, both distinguished looking, are hounding the local authorities here until they are almost frantic, threatening their removal from office if she is not located at once. I am sending only likeness of her I could obtain."

This telegram only served to make the mystery much deeper, and the people were getting on edge when, on May 19, there appeared in the Express a large display advertisement of a letter received by Mr. Woehrle, which ran as follows:

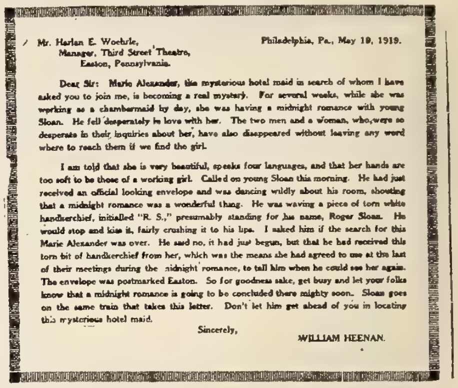
Mr. Harlan E. Woehrle,
Manager Third Street Theatre,
Easton, Pa.

Dear Sir:

Marie Alexander, the mysterious hotel maid in search of whom I have asked you to join me, is becoming a real mystery. For several weeks, while she was working as a chambermaid by day, she was having a midnight romance with young Sloan. He fell desperately in love with her. The two men and a woman, who were so desperate in their inquiries about her have disappeared without leaving any word where to reach them if we find the girl.

I am told that she is very beautiful, speaks four languages, and her hands are too soft to be those of a working girl. Called on Sloan this morning. He had just received an official looking envelope and was dancing wildly about his room, shouting that a midnight romance was a wonderful thing. He was waving a piece of torn white handkerchief, initialed "R. S." presumably standing for his name, Roger Sloan. He would stop and kiss it, fairly crushing it to his lips. I asked him if the search for this Marie Alexander was over. He said no, it had just begun, but that he had received this torn handkerchiet from her, which was the means she had agreed to use at the last of their meetings during the midnight romance to tell him where he could see heer again. The envelope was postmarked Easton, Pa., so for goodness sake, get busy and let your folks know that a midnight romance is going to be concluded there mighty soon. Sloan goes on the same train that takes this letter. Don't let him get ahead of you in locating this mysterious hotel maid.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM HEENAN.



Mr. Harlan E. Woehrle,
Manager, Third Street Theatre,
Easton, Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19, 1919.

Dear Sir: Marie Alexander, the mysterious hotel maid in search of whom I have asked you to join me, is becoming a real mystery. For several weeks, while she was working as a chambermaid by day, she was having a midnight romance with young Sloan. He fell desperately in love with her. The two men and a woman, who were so desperate in their inquiries about her, have also disappeared without leaving any word where to reach them if we find the girl.

I am told that she is very beautiful, speaks four languages, and that her hands are too soft to be those of a working girl. Called on young Sloan this morning. He had just received an official looking envelope and was dancing wildly about his room, shouting that a midnight romance was a wonderful thing. He was waving a piece of torn white handkerchief, initialled "R. S.," presumably standing for his name, Roger Sloan. He would stop and kiss it, fairly crushing it to his lips. I asked him if the search for this Marie Alexander was over. He said no, it had just begun, but that he had received this torn bit of handkerchief from her, which was the means she had agreed to use at the last of their meetings during the midnight romance, to tell him when he could see her again. The envelope was postmarked Easton. So for goodness sake, get busy and let your folks know that a midnight romance is going to be concluded there mighty soon. Sloan goes on the same train that takes this letter. Don't let him get ahead of you in locating this mysterious hotel maid.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM HEENAN.

How a letter was used in six inches, three columns to increase the interest

Many minds were relieved the next day when they were confronted with a large display advertisement in the Express announcing that every detail of the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Marie Alexander would be presented in "A Midnight Romance" at the Third Street theatre for three days.

This clever bit of exploiting on the part of William Heenan and Harlan E. Woehrle, manager of the Third Street theatre, enabled the latter to pack his theatre to the fullest capacity at every performance of "A Midnight Romance," and he was so pleased with the results that he immediately arranged for a return date. The Peerless Feature Film Exchange, of which Mr. Heenan is manager, holds the First National franchise for Phtiladelphia and surrounding territory.

Best part about this campaign is that there was nothing about it to scare anyone or cause needless alarm. The advertisements referred largely to a missing young woman.

ADVISORY BOARD, EXHIBITORS SERVICE BUREAU

Thomas D. Soriero, Park theatre, Boston, and Strand theatres, Lowell
Chas. H. Williams, Strand theatre, Providence, R. I.
Harold B. Franklin, Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo.
Jack Kuhn, Loew's Stillman theatre, Cleveland.
Mrs. Joseph Grossman, Standard theatre, Cleveland.
George J. Schade, Schade theatre, Sandusky.
H. C. Horater, Alhambra theatre, Toledo.
Mark Gates, Dayton theatre, Dayton, O.
S. Barret McCormick, Circle theatre, Indianapolis.
Edward L. Hyman, Liberty theatre, St. Louis.
Theo. L. Hays, New Garrick theatre, St. Paul.
A. J. Moeller, Theatre de Luxe, Detroit.
Sid Laurence, Alhambra theatre, Detroit.
Leo A. Landau, Butterfly theatre, Milwaukee.
C. Edgar Momand, Garden theatre, Flint, Mich.
Charles C. Perry, Strand Theatre, Minneapolis.
W. S. McLaren, Majestic and Colonial theatres, Jackson, Mich.
Willard C. Patterson, Criterion theatre, Atlanta.
Chas. G. Branham, S. A. Lynch Ent., Atlanta.
R. B. Wilby, Strand Theatre, Montgomery, Ala.
E. V. Richards, Jr., General Manager, Saenger Amusement Co., New Orleans.
C. A. Lick, New theatre, Fort Smith, Ark.
F. L. Newman, Royal and Regent theatres, Kansas City, Mo.
Herbert J. Thacher, Strand theatre, Salina, Kan.
H. M. Thomas, Strand theatre, Omaha.
Ralph Ruffner, Rialto theatre, Butte.
A. H. Hilton, Paramount theatre, Lewiston, Idaho.
George E. Carpenter, Paramount-Empress theatre, Salt Lake.
Sam W. B. Cohn, People's Theatre, Portland.
E. J. Myrick, Liberty theatre, Portland, Ore.
A. S. Kolstad, Liberty theatre, Hood River, Ore.
H. L. Percy, Antlers theatre, Roseburg, Ore.
P. E. Noble, Publicity Manager, Liberty and Columbia theatres, Portland.
Eugene H. Roth, California theatre, San Francisco.
J. A. Partington, Imperial theatre, San Francisco.
Sidney Grauman, Grauman's theatre, Los Angeles.
A. C. H. Chamberlin, Opera House, Madera, Cal.

Advertising Leaders and the Way They Look at Film Exploitation

Playing for Longer Run

By Mark Gates

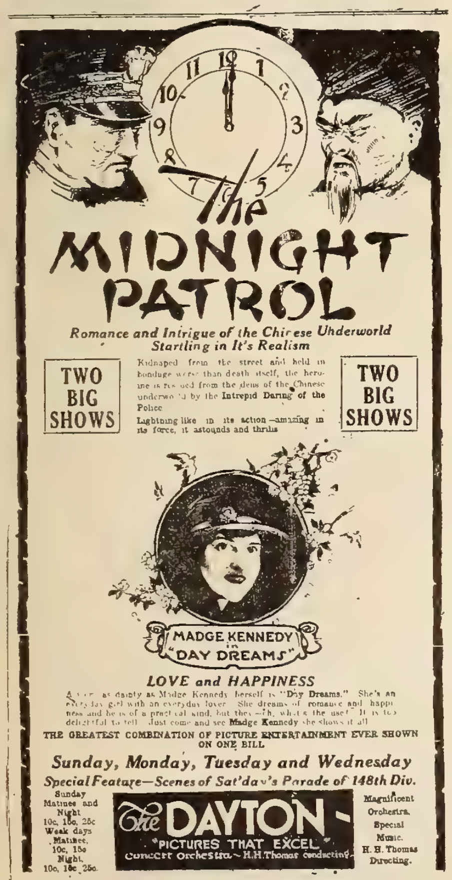
Managing Director, Dayton Theatre, Dayton, O.

THE man, be he merchant or theatrical manager, who does not believe in advertising, or who considers it a necessary evil, had better shut up shop and take a "job" with some one who does, for the public will patronize the shop that tells them about its wares.

The old-time style of "card ads" is of about as much use in this day of strenuous competition as a wooden leg in a foot race. It may help some, but the other fellow is a sure winner.

When I opened the Dayton, of which company I am the promoter, I decided upon a liberal advertising policy and secured an advertising maanger to look after that particular phase of the business; keeping in close touch with him at all times and making suggestions as to methods, space, and matter to be used.

We were at first obliged, because of local conditions, to confine ourselves to the type style of advertising but later we were able to secure the services of an exceptionally clever artist who could execute drawings after our suggestions on very short notice, and since then we have, in most cases, made use of specially prepared drawn ads for our Sunday and Thursday change of bill announcements.



The MIDNIGHT PATROL

Romance and Intrigue of the Chinese Underworld Startling in It's Realism

TWO BIG SHOWS

Kidnaped from the street and held in bondage worse than death itself, the heroine is rescued from the dens of the Chinese underworld by the Intrepid Daring of the Police

Lightning like in its action—amazing in its force, it astounds and thrills

TWO BIG SHOWS

MADGE KENNEDY in "DAY DREAMS"

LOVE and HAPPINESS

A story as dainty as Madge Kennedy herself is "Day Dreams." She's an everyday girl with an everyday lover. She dreams of romance and happiness and he is of a practical kind, but then—oh, what's the use? It is too delightful to tell. Just come and see Madge Kennedy she shows it all

THE GREATEST COMBINATION OF PICTURE ENTERTAINMENT EVER SHOWN ON ONE BILL

Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

Special Feature—Scenes of Sat'day's Parade of 148th Div.

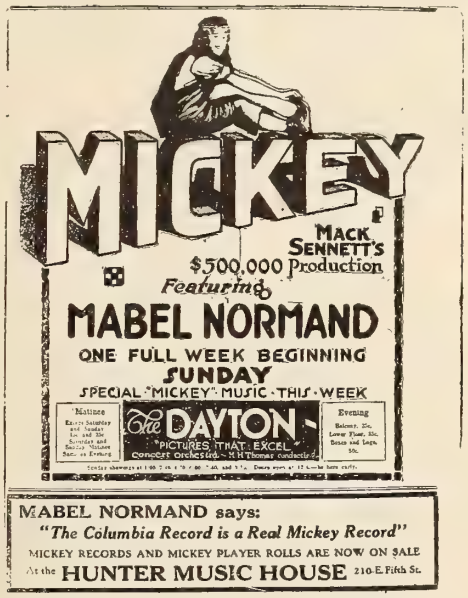
Sunday Matinee and Night 10c, 15c, 25c Week days Matinee, 10c, 15c Night, 10c, 15c, 25c

The DAYTON "PICTURES THAT EXCEL" Concert Orchestra ~ H.H.Thomas conducting

Magnificent Orchestra. Special Music. H. H. Thomas Directing.

Design, though simple, adds to the pulling power of this thirteen inches, three columns

These ads have attracted much favorable attention both in Dayton and in the outside field, and therefore I feel that we have adopted the right policy and are working along the right line, for attention is what is most desired in theatrical advertising.



MICKEY

MACK SENNETT'S $500,000 Production

Featuring MABEL NORMAND

ONE FULL WEEK BEGINNING SUNDAY

SPECIAL "MICKEY" MUSIC THIS WEEK

Matinee Except Saturday and Sunday 15c and 25c Saturday and Sunday Matinee Same as Evening

The DAYTON "PICTURES THAT EXCEL" Concert Orchestra ~ H.H.Thomas conducting

Evening Balcony, 25c, Lower Floor, 35c, Boxes and Loges, 50c.

MABEL NORMAND says:

"The Columbia Record is a Real Mickey Record"

MICKEY RECORDS AND MICKEY PLAYER ROLLS ARE NOW ON SALE

At the HUNTER MUSIC HOUSE 210 E. Fifth St.

Simplicity in design is always sought by Gates

My policy is to use newspaper space liberally; taking into consideration the picture, local conditions and weather if possible, in order to conserve the expenditure whenever it can be done with profit.

We have put over some very unusual campaigns here and for the size of the city (140,000) have played to an exceptional volume of business.

Our house is located just at the edge of the business district and has a seating capacity of 2500; almost twice as many as our nearest competitor. Our location makes it necessary to draw our patrons at least two blocks from the main thoroughfare and this demands exceptional advertising.

We have played many of the big special attractions and many that were not so big, and our advertising has been the most effective assisting factor in making these showings successful.

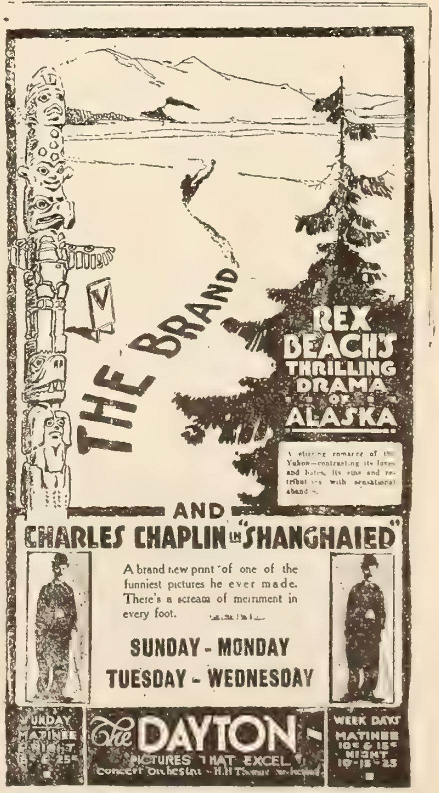
My policy after booking a picture is to call in my ad. man and go over the conditions very carefully; laying out in advance the line I desire to follow and then depend upon him to put it across.

One of the first big hits we made was with a picture that in many places failed to get money, but by putting an exceptional publicity campaign behind it and by giving it all of the effects possible with our big orchestra we cleaned up with a "bang," carrying a three-day picture through the entire week, a thing never before done in this community.

Mark Gates

Another of our big records for attendance was made when we showed "The Heart of Humanity." After booking this

(Continued on page 4142)



THE BRAND

REX BEACH'S THRILLING DRAMA OF ALASKA

A stirring romance of the Yukon—contrasting its loves and hates, its sins and retributions with sensational abandon.

AND

CHARLES CHAPLIN in "SHANGHAIED"

A brand new print of one of the funniest pictures he ever made. There's a scream of merriment in every foot.

SUNDAY - MONDAY

TUESDAY - WEDNESDAY

SUNDAY MATINEE & NIGHT 15c & 25c

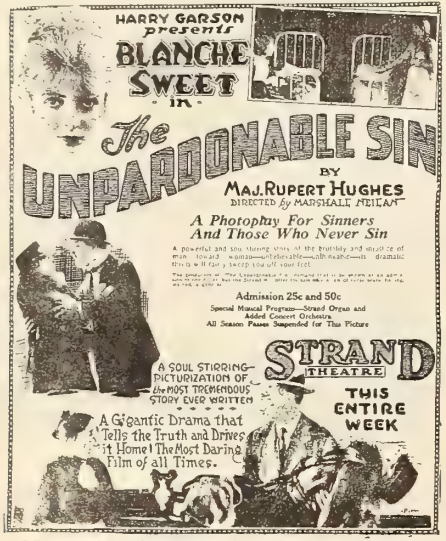
The DAYTON PICTURES THAT EXCEL Concert Orchestra ~ H.H Thomas conducting

WEEK DAYS MATINEE 10c & 15c NIGHT 10-15-25

Ample amount of white was allowed in this twelve inch, three columns

Your Idea and Ours

HERE is a study in contrasting types and an instance where the designer of ad display has made the line that he wanted to sell the picture stand out without at the same time laying himself open to the charge of being too sensational. The line in question is "A Photoplay for Sinners and Those Who Never Sin."



HARRY GARSON presents
BLANCHE SWEET
in
The UNPARDONABLE SIN
BY MAJ. RUPERT HUGHES
DIRECTED by MARSHALL NEILAN

A Photoplay For Sinners And Those Who Never Sin

Admission 25c and 50c
Special Musical Program—Strand Organ and Added Concert Orchestra
All Season Passes Suspended for This Picture

STRAND THEATRE
THIS ENTIRE WEEK

A SOUL STIRRING PICTURIZATION OF the MOST TREMENDOUS STORY EVER WRITTEN

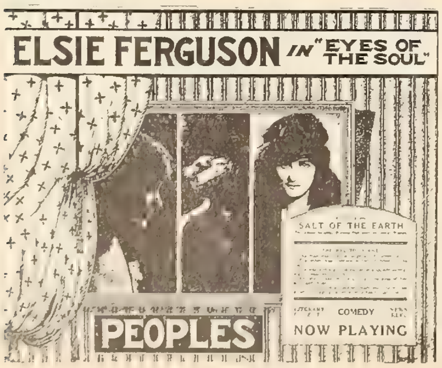
A Gigantic Drama that Tells the Truth and Drives it Home! The Most Daring Film of all Times.

Now the Strand theatre, Birmingham, Ala., used Roman type and hand drawn letters for the main portion of the display and then this line was inserted in 18pt. Black Italic that made it stand out as the first thing that the eye went to after getting the main flash. In this advertisement the Strand has gotten better effect from the use of half tones than in the past, and if the newspapers will continue to go to a little more trouble it will soon have just about a perfect effect.

We are asked what is the matter with this display. Our answer is: Nothing. It's right there as a model. Space occupied is four columns, ten inches.

"Some day" is generally a couple too late.

THIS is another case of using pictures of a beautiful star when you are sure of the results that you are going to get from your newspaper. The Oregonian, out of Portland, does fine press work and therefore the Peoples was able to get a splendid effect in this eleven inch column display.



ELSIE FERGUSON IN "EYES OF THE SOUL"

SALT OF THE EARTH

COMEDY

NOW PLAYING

PEOPLES

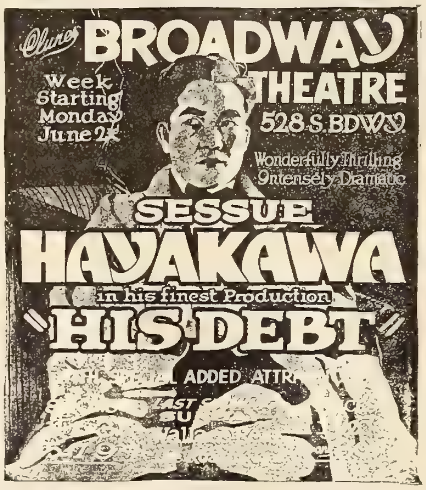
Take notice that the name of the star and the title are used plain black on white and that they are not allowed to run into the halftones and afford a messy effect. Then we have the curtain design and three striking pictures of Miss Furguson. These will appeal to every woman and to most men. Then there is the selling argument to the right, running like this:

> One man was rich—a judge, and he loved her.
> The other man was poor—a soldier blinded in the war.
> She was just a girl—a dancer in a cabaret—longing for ease and luxury.
> Yet she looked on life through the eyes of her soul, and chose.
> And if you live a hundred years you'll never feel a picture tugging harder at your heart than this.

Mighty hard to beat that combination of illustrations and selling talk. But as we have already intimated, don't try for one of these effects unless you get the unusual in printing. And in passing notice the way that regulation box effects are avoided and that the Scotch rules at the top and bottom of the selling argument take its place.

Forget that military order in running your theatre—"As you were"?

WHERE you can get the best in printing from your newspaper this makes an effective display so far as catching the eye is concerned, but then it leaves the appeal of the picture solely to the followers of Hayakawa. The line "His finest production" means nothing because it has been so overlooked as to convince none these days. Perhaps some day an exhibitor will come out with a statement that a certain picture is not the best that a particular star had done and we'll bet the Fourth of July fireworks that it attracts attention. Equally meaningless are the two lines "Wonderful thrilling" and "Intensely dramatic"—mere generalities that



Clune's BROADWAY THEATRE
528 S. BDWY.
Week Starting Monday June 2d
Wonderfully Thrilling Intensely Dramatic SESSUE HAYAKAWA
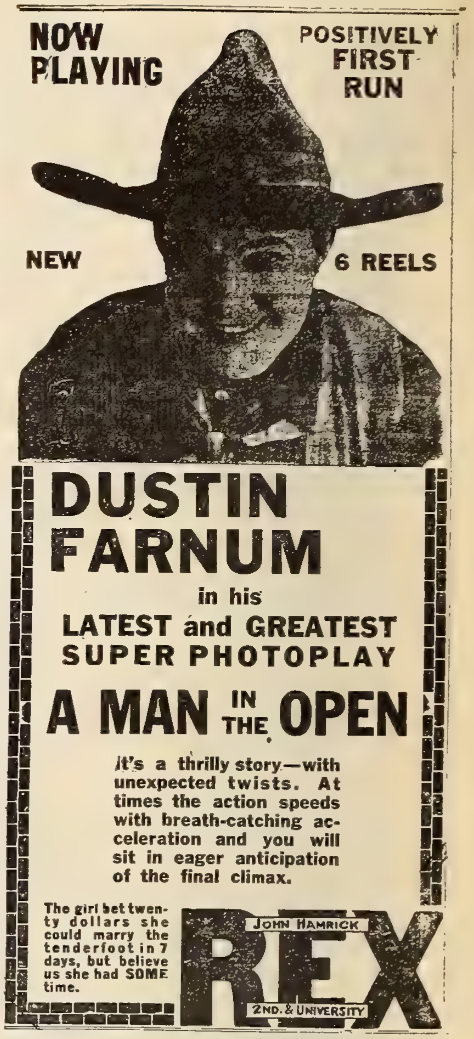
in his finest Production
"HIS DEBT"
ADDED ATTR

And let us repeat here something that we have said often before. There are mighty few instances where the name of the star and the title of the picture are sufficient. And there is no case where a selling argument that needs something and that avoids adjectives and superlatives will not get MORE people into the house.



NOW PLAYING

POSITIVELY FIRST RUN

NEW

6 REELS

DUSTIN FARNUM
in his LATEST and GREATEST SUPER PHOTOPLAY
A MAN IN THE OPEN

It's a thrilly story—with unexpected twists. At times the action speeds with breath-catching acceleration and you will sit in eager anticipation of the final climax.

The girl bet twenty dollars she could marry the tenderfoot in 7 days, but believe us she had SOME time.

JOHN HAMRICK
REX
2ND. & UNIVERSITY

THIS is good stuff in the way of making the star dominate the advertising, but you will note that John Hamrick has not left the selling argument off. We have several times called your attention the fact that the Rex, Seattle, uses the "brick" style of border and heavy black type in all of the display work and though we cannot say that this is particularly artistic it is certainly distinctive and gets the eye mighty quick.

In this case there has been a large picture of Dustin Farnum used with a hat that in itself suggests that his vehicle is a western. Then the first of the selling arguments tells something of the sort of a picture it is and then at the bottom and in line with the name of the theatre we have this:

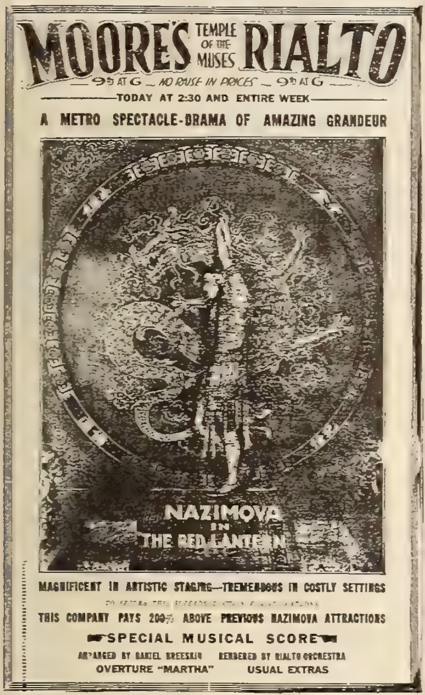
> The girl bet twenty dollars that she could marry the tenderfoot in seven days, but believe us she had SOME time.

We don't like that line calling this Farnum's "greatest" photoplay. What if it is? And don't you think the public has gotten mighty tired of such expressions? We emphatically do.

A fine picture without advertising is like a brilliant light with the switch cut off.

TOM Moore's Rialto theatre, Washington, got a splendid effect in advertising "The Red Lantern" by using the center of one of the attractive stills that car-

What Live Wires are Doing



MOORE'S TEMPLE OF THE MUSES RIALTO

—9th AT G — NO RAISE IN PRICES — 9th AT G—

TODAY AT 2:30 AND ENTIRE WEEK

A METRO SPECTACLE-DRAMA OF AMAZING GRANDEUR

NAZIMOVA
IN
THE RED LANTERN

MAGNIFICENT IN ARTISTIC STAGING—TREMENDOUS IN COSTLY SETTINGS

THIS COMPANY PAYS 200% ABOVE PREVIOUS NAZIMOVA ATTRACTIONS

SPECIAL MUSICAL SCORE

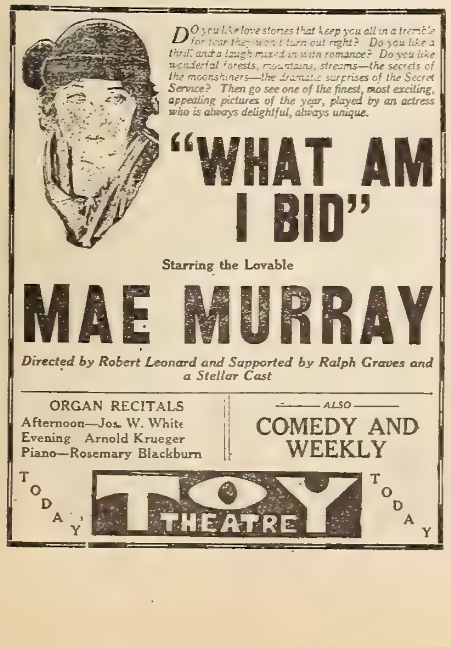
ARRANGED BY DANIEL BREESKIN — RENDERED BY RIALTO ORCHESTRA

OVERTURE "MARTHA" — USUAL EXTRAS

ried the physical as well as the artistic appeal. We believe, however, that it was a mistake to sacrifice the pulling power of Nazimova's name and take the chances all with the cut.

There is a peculiar pschychology to glancing down an advertisement. One's eye gets the flash appeal and it is apt to miss the name of the star and the title and then the other typed matter below is not sufficiently strong to carry the idea that this star has an amazing role in this picture. The selling argument is always necessary, no matter how great the star, and certainly you cannot afford to omit that and then reduce the name of the star to the limit.

TOY theatre, Milwaukee, has been doing some very good advertising and this one passes muster even though it leaves one with the feeling of something missing after one has read it. We would rather have gone directly into the selling argument and by all means we would have used one of the appealing pictures of Miss Murray in boy's attire.



Do you like love stories that keep you all in a tremble for fear they won't turn out right? Do you like a thrill and a laugh mixed in with romance? Do you like wonderful forests, mountains, streams—the secrets of the moonshiners—the dramatic surprises of the Secret Service? Then go see one of the finest, most exciting, appealing pictures of the year, played by an actress who is always delightful, always unique.

"WHAT AM I BID"

Starring the Lovable

MAE MURRAY

Directed by Robert Leonard and Supported by Ralph Graves and a Stellar Cast

ORGAN RECITALS
Afternoon—Jos. W. White
Evening Arnold Krueger
Piano—Rosemary Blackburn

—ALSO—
COMEDY AND WEEKLY

TODAY TOY THEATRE TODAY

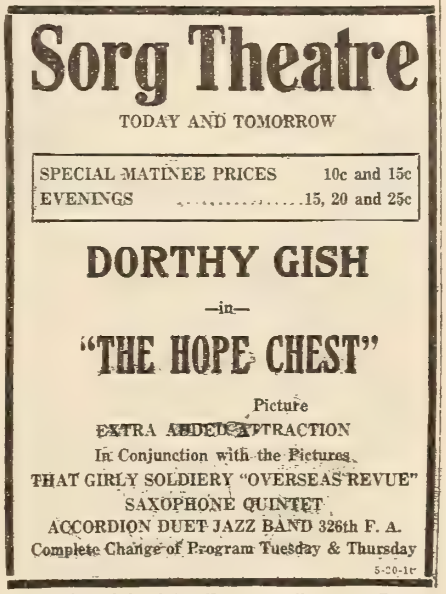
But still the picture of Miss Murray that is used does get a certain amount of attention and the selling argument that is used alongside is not at all bad. This is the way that it runs:

> Do you like love stories that keep you all in a tremble for fear they won't turn out right? Do you like a thrill and a laugh mixed in with romance? Do you like wonderful forests, mountains and streams—the secrets of the moonshiners—the dramatic surprise of the Secret Service? Then go and see one of the finest, most exciting, appealing pictures of the year, played by an actress who is always delightful, always unique.

This has followed out advice in the Special Service Section to play the love element strong. The Toy theatre has avoided the auction block idea altogether in this display and properly.

If not already, let July 4 mark your declaration of advertising.

SORG THEATRE, Middletown, O., is one of those apparently still following the practice of expecting the name of the star and the title of the picture to sell the day's entertainment. Most of the advertising we have seen from that house is along the lines of the one reproduced here. One used a mat furnished by Famous Players-Lasky, but the type was then so jammed in that much of the effect was lost.



Sorg Theatre

TODAY AND TOMORROW

SPECIAL MATINEE PRICES	10c and 15c
EVENINGS	15, 20 and 25c

DORTHY GISH

—in—

"THE HOPE CHEST"

Picture

EXTRA ~~ADDED~~ ATTRACTION

In Conjunction with the Pictures

THAT GIRLY SOLDIERY "OVERSEAS REVUE"

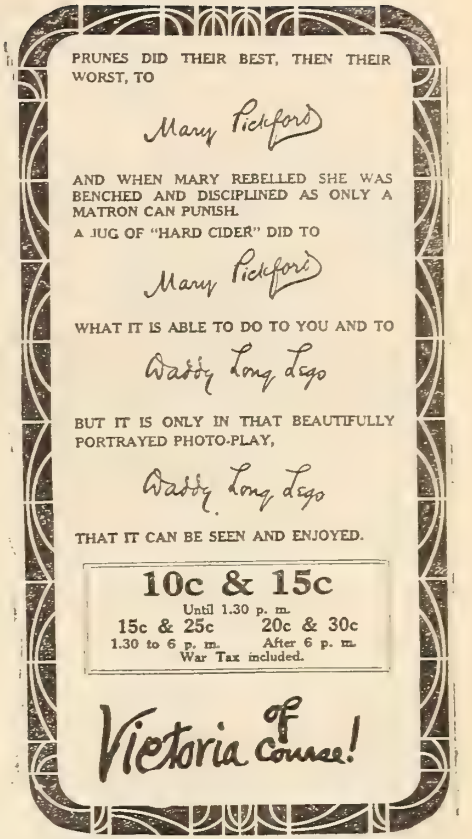
SAXOPHONE QUINTET

ACCORDION DUET JAZZ BAND 326th F. A.

Complete Change of Program Tuesday & Thursday

5-20-1t

Now the Sorg is the only one of the six theatres of Middletown that seems to realize the value of advertising and the Sorg itself doesn't do it well enough to get the fullest returns. The exchanges in that section should see that this theatre is regularly supplied with suitable cuts for illustrating the displays. Certainly here is a case where a theatre that is willing to spend the money in the newspapers could get the bulk of the patronage by doing the best possible display work.



PRUNES DID THEIR BEST, THEN THEIR WORST, TO

Mary Pickford

AND WHEN MARY REBELLED SHE WAS BENCHED AND DISCIPLINED AS ONLY A MATRON CAN PUNISH.

A JUG OF "HARD CIDER" DID TO

Mary Pickford

WHAT IT IS ABLE TO DO TO YOU AND TO

Daddy Long Legs

BUT IT IS ONLY IN THAT BEAUTIFULLY PORTRAYED PHOTO-PLAY,

Daddy Long Legs

THAT IT CAN BE SEEN AND ENJOYED.

10c & 15c
Until 1.30 p. m.

15c & 25c	20c & 30c
1.30 to 6 p. m.	After 6 p. m.

War Tax included.

Victoria of Course!

HERE is one of the distinctly different sort of advertisements that always prove tonics to a theatre's business. And certainly this is different from the average display that you will see day after day in the newspapers. It is 8½ inches double column and the work of the Victoria theatre, Wilmington, Del.

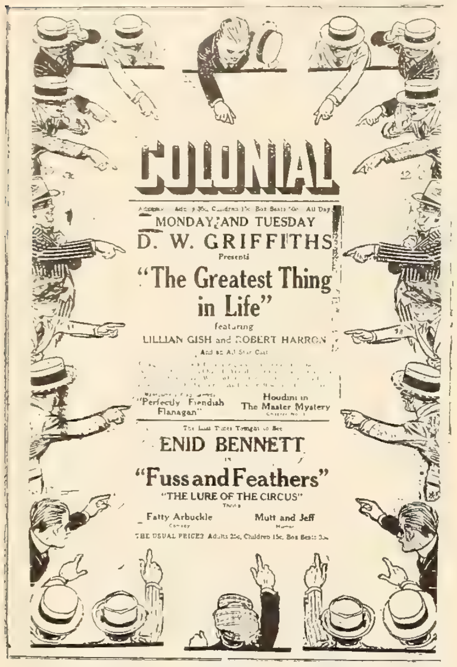
Of course, you will remember that in the S. Barret McCormick campaign we called your attention to the letters of Judy to Daddy Long Legs and the way that they were used in the advertising of the Circle theatre. This display takes on something of that tone and there is the slate effect given in the border used.

There is just one thing wrong with this. The prices stand out far too strong—stronger than any other element. It leaves the impression that the theatre is appealing to the element that is looking for something cheap, rather than for quality. This matter should have been reduced at least one half. It would have been read just as well and wouldn't have interfered with the rest of the display.

Some people are like swivel chairs—their lives are merely spent in turning around.

WE have been preaching against the meaningless cuts for a couple of years now. And if there is anything else worse than meaningless cuts in advertising it is the "jimcrack" effect. You needn't look at Webster's to see what that means. Merely let your eye glance over this advertisement at the old stock border of the pointing figures. It is the sort of stuff that we would expect to find in some country weekly that is still using one of the old Washington hand presses. Yet this is the work of a Port Arthur, Canada, theatre,

Scoring Hits and Errors



COLONIAL

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

D. W. GRIFFITHS

Presents

"The Greatest Thing in Life"

featuring

LILLIAN GISH and ROBERT HARRON

And an All Star Cast

"Perfectly Fiendish Flanagan"

Houdini in The Master Mystery

ENID BENNETT

in

"Fuss and Feathers"

"THE LURE OF THE CIRCUS"

Fatty Arbuckle Comedy

Mutt and Jeff

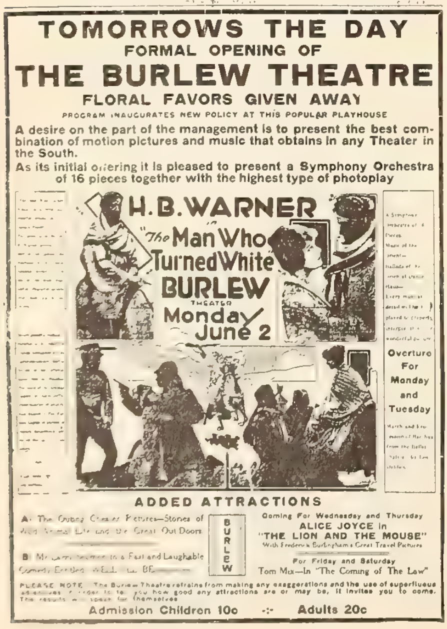
THE USUAL PRICES Adults 25c, Children 15c, Box Seats [illegible]

a town of 12,000. The only excuse that we can imagine is that the theatre did not have any material with which to illustrate it and this excuse is borne out by a cut used in the newspaper columns, a horrible thing in a line design showing a couple of girls and a burning auto.

White space itself and an attractive border would have done much better here. The display occupies top place on the first page, second section of the newspaper and would have gotten attention. And to think of such a display as this on a Griffith production!

Aim for the highest spot. It's a little harder to hit, but worth it.

WHILE an entire page is used for the opening of the Burlew theatre, Charleston, W. Va., the effect is very poor. There is too much black type and a confusion in the cut displays. Our idea of making a formal announcement, or anything of that sort such as the Burlew had to make is to do it in a dignified style. Here is a case, if there ever was one whether the type should have been greatly increased in both size and heavily. Ample white space at the sides was essential here.



TOMORROWS THE DAY

FORMAL OPENING OF

THE BURLEW THEATRE

FLORAL FAVORS GIVEN AWAY

PROGRAM INAUGURATES NEW POLICY AT THIS POPULAR PLAYHOUSE

A desire on the part of the management is to present the best combination of motion pictures and music that obtains in any Theater in the South.

As its initial offering it is pleased to present a Symphony Orchestra of 16 pieces together with the highest type of photoplay

H. B. WARNER

in

"The Man Who Turned White"

BURLEW THEATER

Monday June 2

Overture For Monday and Tuesday

ADDED ATTRACTIONS

A: The Outing Chester Pictures—Stories of Wild Animal Life and the Great Out Doors

B: [illegible] in a Fast and Laughable Comedy Entitled [illegible]

BURLEW

Coming For Wednesday and Thursday

ALICE JOYCE in

"THE LION AND THE MOUSE"

With Frederick Burlingham's Great Travel Pictures

For Friday and Saturday

Tom Mix—In "The Coming of The Law"

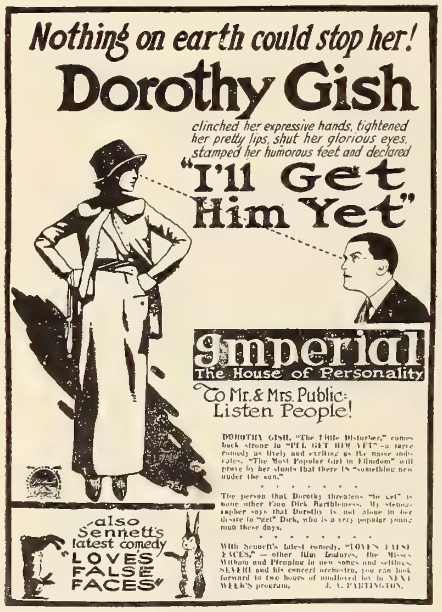
PLEASE NOTE: The Burlew Theatre refrains from making any exaggerations and the use of superfluous [illegible] you how good any attractions are or may be, it invites you to come. The results will speak for themselves

Admission Children 10c -:- Adults 20c

The matter itself used is good and there is not too much had the display not been so heavy. It looks very much to us like a case where it was left to the printer to determine the size of type, spacing, etc.

What is true of the type is equally true of the cuts. There are too many of them and they fail to stand out. The theatre also fails to get the contrast of Henry B. Warner as the desert chieftain and as the white man and we fear that there were a lot of people who judged that this was a costume picture and possibly stayed away.

THIS is another one of the good displays of J. A. Partington, manager of the Imperial theatre, San Francisco and as usual he goes right to "Mr. and Mrs. Public" with his talk about the picture. He has played the name of the story strong and the title secondary and hasn't said a thing about what the picture is about. It is simply a personality advertisement, with the standing of the Imperial to back it up. Then here is a portion of the selling argument that he addresses directly to the patron:



Nothing on earth could stop her!

Dorothy Gish

clinched her expressive hands, tightened her pretty lips, shut her glorious eyes, stamped her humorous feet and declared

"I'll Get Him Yet"

Imperial

The House of Personality

To Mr. & Mrs. Public: Listen People!

DOROTHY GISH, "The Little Disturber," comes back strong in "I'LL GET HIM YET"—a farce comedy as lively and exciting as the name indicates. "The Most Popular Girl in Filmdom" will prove by her stunts that there IS "something new under the sun."

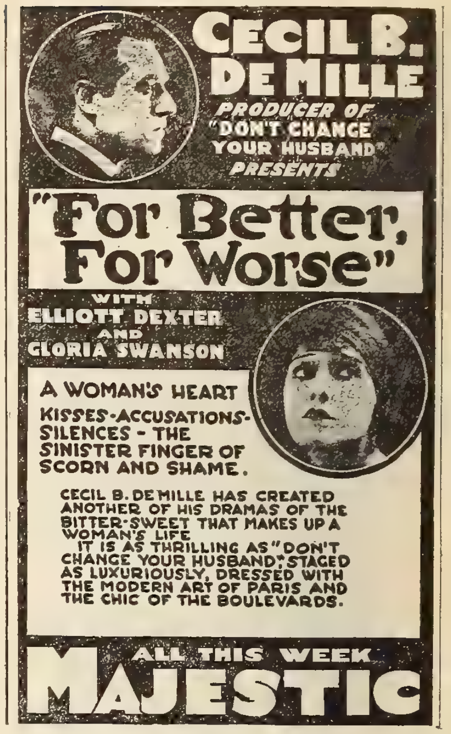
The person that Dorothy threatens "to get" is none other than Dick Barthlemess. My stenographer says that Dorothy is not alone in her desire to "get" Dick, who is a very popular young man these days.

With Sennett's latest comedy, "LOVE'S FALSE FACES," — other film features, the Misses Withom and Pfenning in new songs and settings, SEVERI and his concert orchestra, you can look forward to two hours of unalloyed joy in NEXT WEEK'S program. J. A. PARTINGTON.

also Sennett's latest comedy "LOVES FALSE FACES"

> Dorothy Gish, "The Little Disturber," comes back strong in "I'll Get Him Yet"—a farce comedy as lively and exciting as the name indicates. "The Most Popular Girl in Filmdom" will prove by her stunts that there is "something new under the sun."
>
> The person that Dorothy threatens "to get" is none other than Dick Barthlemess. My stenographer says that Dorothy is not alone in her desire to "get" Dick, who is a very popular young man these days.

That second paragraph is obliged to get the attention of the girl element, and of course that always forms an important part in a theatre's revenue.



CECIL B. DE MILLE

PRODUCER OF "DON'T CHANGE YOUR HUSBAND" PRESENTS

"For Better, For Worse"

WITH ELLIOTT DEXTER AND GLORIA SWANSON

A WOMAN'S HEART

KISSES-ACCUSATIONS-SILENCES-THE SINISTER FINGER OF SCORN AND SHAME.

CECIL B. DE MILLE HAS CREATED ANOTHER OF HIS DRAMAS OF THE BITTER-SWEET THAT MAKES UP A WOMAN'S LIFE

IT IS AS THRILLING AS "DON'T CHANGE YOUR HUSBAND," STAGED AS LUXURIOUSLY, DRESSED WITH THE MODERN ART OF PARIS AND THE CHIC OF THE BOULEVARDS.

ALL THIS WEEK

MAJESTIC

MAJESTIC theatre, Columbus, O., has gotten one of the best possible combinations of black, white and halftone in this display. It has succeeded in making stand out the two chief things, the name of the producer and the title of the picture. Then there are shown very attractively the faces of the two featured players, Elliott Dexter and Gloria Swanson, but had we been preparing this we would have added those of Tom Forman, Theodore Roberts, Wanda Hawley and others in smaller type.

But here the whole idea was to take advantage of the success that the more recent of the Cecil DeMille pictures have scored in Columbus, and there isn't the slightest doubt that it has been well done except for the fact that there might have been a better selling argument than: "A woman's heart—kisses—accusations—silences—the sinister finger of scorn and shame." This is apt to leave in the minds of some that this is one of the ordinary sex pictures, and of course that is something to be carefully avoided. But to those familiar with the work of Mr. DeMille that will not be the case.

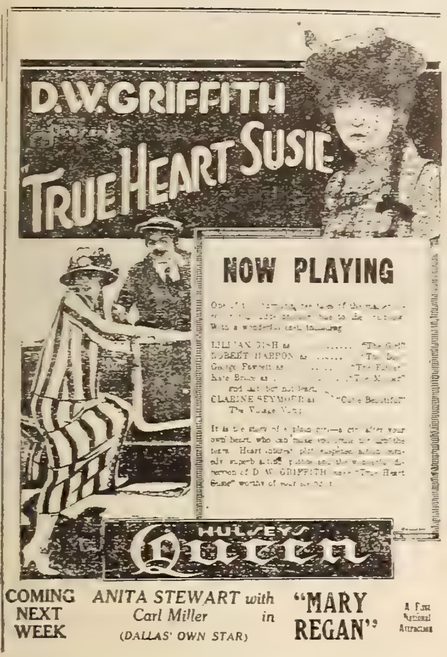
Eleven inches, three columns was the space used.

Grab the mistake on the ground; don't wait till it jumps up and hits you in the face.

GOOD work has been done here with the way that reference has been made to members of the cast in "True Heart Susie." The name of Griffith and the title have been properly played and there has been a most appealing picture of Miss Gish used at the upper right with one of the other girl and Sporty Malone. It's a pity that the printing wasn't better for just that thing prevented this quarter of a page of the Queen theatre, Dallas, Texas, from reaching the 100 per cent mark that we are rarely able to accord.

Now the Queen theatre followed the advice that we gave theatres that had

From 100 Per Cent to Zero



D.W.GRIFFITH

TRUE HEART SUSIE

NOW PLAYING

HULSEY'S Queen

COMING NEXT WEEK ANITA STEWART with Carl Miller (DALLAS' OWN STAR) in "MARY REGAN" A First National Attraction played "The Girl Who Stayed at Home" and called attention to the fact that Clarine Seymour, who appeared in that picture was also in this. It went us one better by calling her "Cutie Beautiful (the name she had in the other picture), the village vamp."

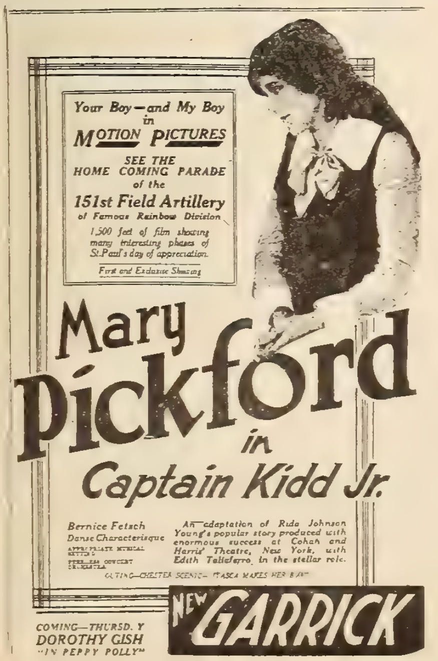
The half tone display was sufficient on this to insure everyone reading the roster of the players and the brief selling argument that follows.

Our boys never let a few worries stop them from chasing the Hun; that's the spirit for your theatre.

NEW GARRICK THEATRE, St. Paul, has combined the display on the Mary Pickford picture with the announcement of



Your Boy—and My Boy in MOTION PICTURES

SEE THE HOME COMING PARADE of the 151st Field Artillery of Famous Rainbow Division

1,500 feet of film showing many interesting phases of St. Paul's day of appreciation.

First and Exclusive Showing

Mary Pickford in Captain Kidd Jr.

Bernice Fetsch Danse Characterisque

An adaptation of Rida Johnson Young's popular story produced with enormous success at Cohan and Harris' Theatre, New York, with Edith Taliaferro in the stellar role.

NEW GARRICK

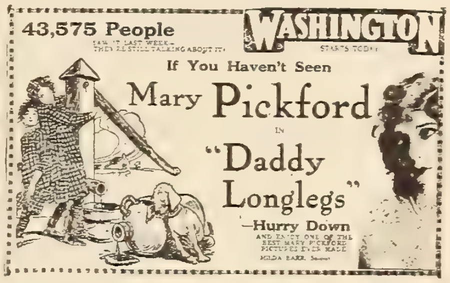
COMING—THURSDAY DOROTHY GISH "IN PEPPY POLLY"

the views of the local home-coming parade. Here the name of the star has been properly played above everything else, but we think that the New Garrick overlooked a bet in not running in a line saying "Her first production in seven months." That not only suggests that it is a new offering, but serves to whet the desire to see Miss Pickford all the more.

There isn't any selling argument used here beside the fact that this is a screen adaptation of Rida Johnston's Young's stage success. As a matter of fact the chief selling point on this bill is based on the views of the 151st Field Artillery parade. We believe very firmly in featuring local events when you have them, especially when the theatre has the first an exclusive showing as was the case here, but at the same time we believe that the New Garrick could have gotten still more people into the theatre if it had sold the Pickford picture, especially with the emphasis on the comedy end of the production. Because you have one good thing there is no reason to overlook another.

Ever think where Jonah would have been if he had tried to swallow the whale? Lots of people are making that handicap for themselves.

THESE two advertisements from the Washington and Madison theatres, Detroit, are good examples of the proper



43,575 People

WASHINGTON

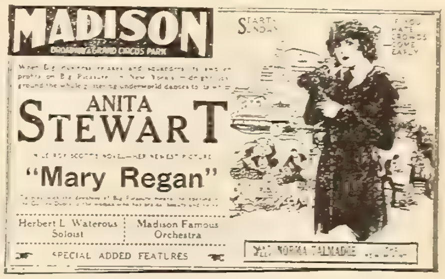
If You Haven't Seen Mary Pickford in "Daddy Longlegs"

—Hurry Down

use of small space. Though both are only five inches, four columns, they get away from the crowded effect and illustrate two different ways of exploiting pictures, under differing conditions.

Now in the case of "Daddy Long Legs" this was the second week of the showing and the designer of the display knew that he did not have to continue the selling argument in any detail, but merely cites the fact that 43,575 people saw the picture during the first weeks of the run and that "they're still talking about it." Then there is the name of the star and the title, with the added admonition "Hurry down and enjoy one of the best Mary Pickford pictures ever made." With the scene of Judy and the kid at the pump and the intoxicated dog at the left and the appealing face of the star at the right there is the proper balance.

In the case of the Anita Stewart picture one of the mats furnished by First National has been employed. This, as we have told you before, gets in both the gay side of the picture with the cabaret scenes



MADISON

ANITA STEWART

"Mary Regan"

Herbert L. Waterous Soloist

Madison Famous Orchestra

SPECIAL ADDED FEATURES

in the background and the suspense element with the larger figure of Miss Stewart at the telephone. And here is the whole of the selling argument:

> When Big Business relaxes and squanders its profits on Big Pleasures in New York's midnight joyground the whole glittering underworld dances to its whim.

Then follows the name of the star, the source of the picture and the title and then:

> To play with the devotees of Big Pleasures means the opening of the Golden Doors to the woman who has brains, beauty and nerve.

Those lines ought to appeal to the curiosity of both sexes.

GETTING your house full of children and acquiring a mailing list at the same time is some stunt, but that is just what Manager J. C. Rickard, of the Strand Theatre, Phoenix, Ariz., did. Mr. Rickard realized the value of an up-to-date mailing list, but he did not have one. So when he had a chance to book Billie Rhodes in "Hoop-La" he saw a chance to acquire said mailing list and make money at the same time.

So he announced that on Saturday he would admit every child at half the usual price who brought the names and addresses of their parents. This picture with a strong circus setting naturally appeals strongly to the young, and with Mr. Rickard's advertising the theatre was thronged—and the theatre had a fine mailing list of about every one in town who has children old enough to go to a theatre.

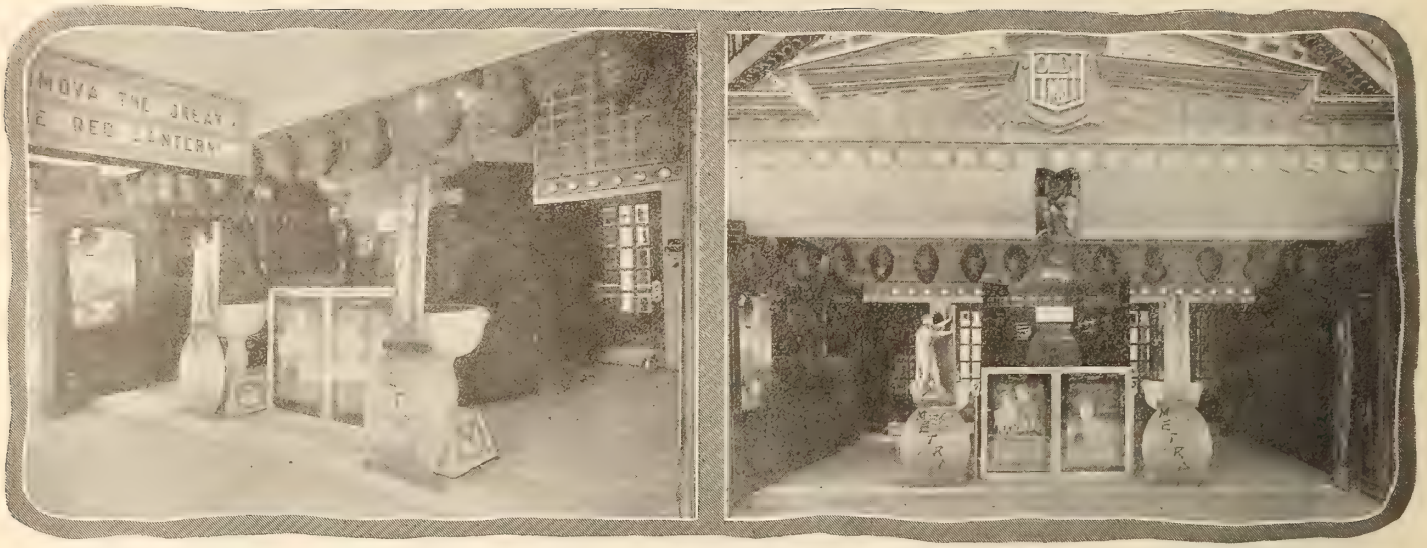
BAD BUSINESS

You Need the Cooperation of All—Not Antagonism

WE have just received the story of an exhibitor in a small town who is said to have put on a special picture show in opposition to the annual entertainment of the graduating class of his local school and to have "cleaned up" with it.

That may be true, but it's bad business. He may have gotten the patronage that night, but we are rather inclined to believe that he made enemies for the future. In a small town we'd a whole lot rather have turned the theatre over to the school for that night. They'd have been loyal friends forever.

Cooperation pays—and especially where civic pride is at stake.



Two views of the lobby display at E. H. Hulsey's Old Mill theatre, Dallas, Texas, carrying out the Oriental idea in every detail

Why All Dallas Saw "Red Lantern"— Hulsey's Campaign Aroused the Whole City

As many of our readers know Dallas is the distributing point for Texas and the Southwest for nearly all film companies. If a film makes good in Dallas you can safely say that it will make good in the Southwest. One of the latest films that has made good in Dallas is "The Red Lantern" that recently finished an eight-day engagement at E. H. Hulsey's Old Mill theatre.

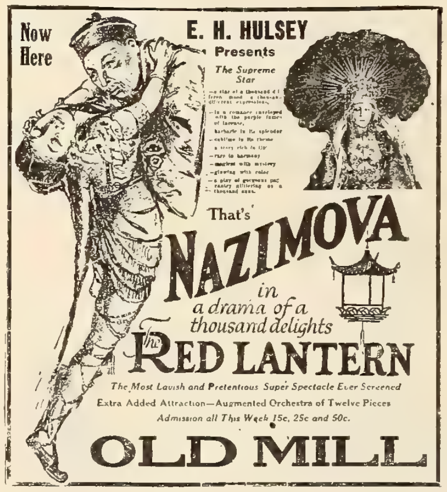
Mr. Hulsey is one of the greatest believers in Nazimova that that star has ever had. When the announcement was made that "The Red Lantern" would be her next special on the Metro program Hulsey advised his staff that the film would have to be played at double the usual admission prices. Along with this unusual demand came another that the firm was to play no less than one week in Dallas and Houston, and that longer runs must be taken in Galveston and Waco, and other towns in which he operated theatres.

Pigs are pigs and orders are orders.

To make the engagement a success the orchestra was augmented to twenty pieces, and the musical score was revised to suit what the house management thought would be a better program.

A lobby display was devised by Assistant General Manager Herschel Stuart, several scenes of which are shown on this page. Readers will note the Chinese effect is carried out in every way. Incense was burned in the theatre to transport the audience to the land of purple romance.

Jean Finley, Director of Publicity for the Hulsey Enterprise, laid out an ad campaign for the Dallas engagement of twenty-five columns of paid advertising, ranging from a two-inch single to a four-column ten display. One of the most striking advertisements was a five-column five-inch ad done in reverse, the letters appearing in white on a black background. While this ad was much smaller than the ads that appeared in the amusement page of the Sunday papers it dominated the rest by its clever get up.



Now Here

E. H. HULSEY
Presents
The Supreme Star

That's NAZIMOVA
in a drama of a thousand delights
The RED LANTERN
The Most Lavish and Pretentious Super Spectacle Ever Screened
Extra Added Attraction—Augmented Orchestra of Twelve Pieces
Admission all This Week 15c, 25c and 50c.
OLD MILL

This quarter page gives idea of the newspaper campaign

The Dallas Times-Herald, an enterprising paper of Dallas, that is noted for its friendliness to the amusement houses of Dallas, used a half-page layout in its feature section on the Sunday following the opening followed by more than a column and a half of story. This was in addition to a favorable criticism written by the amusement editor that appeared on the first page of the section. The advance stories in the Dallas newspapers ran well into twenty columns, this matter being run at no expense to the theatre.

The billboard campaign was a very extensive one. Twenty twenty-four sheets that were up for a week showing in advance, three hundred one sheets, one hundred three sheets, fifty six sheets, five hundred cut outs of a red lantern were used for door hangers, over two hundred and fifty snipes and five hundred window cards were posted in every nook and corner in Dallas.

The water color signs on windows that have proved so effective in the past were again used. These were done in red and yellow with a paper red lantern pasted on the window with the word "now" superimposed.

It is needless to say that after the Dallas engagement "The Red Lantern" will find its way into every town in Texas that has a theatre, and that those theatres will find it profitable to extend their engagements and double their admission prices.

JUST SUGGESTION

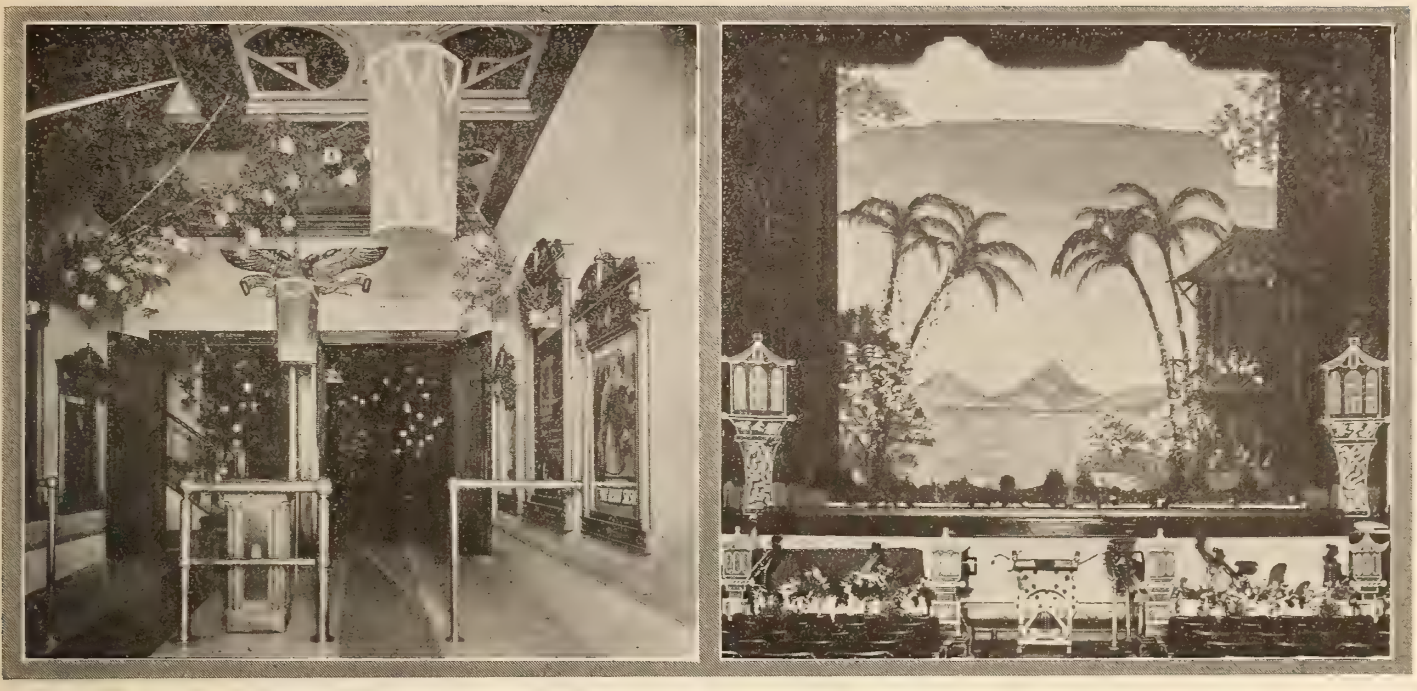
Lot in Making the People Think They Are Cool

There is one exhibitor away down south where it is really hot when it gets hot. He felt business falling off. He installed fans which made the house much cooler and all of that, but the trouble that he had was that he could not convince the people on the outside that it was cooler in his theatre.

He happened to visit an old maid aunt who habitually kept growing flowers on the window sills of the living rooms. He was struck how much cooler it was there than at his own home. He examined the thermometer and it was the same as when he had left his own home. But he quickly grasped the idea. It was the suggestion of coolness in these green, growing things.

So the next day he began to install flowers in his lobby and then through the theatre. "My total expense," he reports, "for the containers and the flowers themselves was $120. My increase in receipts over the past summer, notwithstanding that the war took many of our boys away, was $973. And all that I used was the flowers and the additional line in my advertising 'The Cool Place.'"

He who swings first wins many a battle. Don't worry about the other fellow's smoke, but own bullseyes.



At the left is the splendidly decorated lobby of the Strand theatre, New Orleans, for "The Red Lantern." At the right is a close-up view of the stage setting with the Chinese effects carried out to the slightest detail

Without a Billboard, Strand, New Orleans, Puts "The Red Lantern" Over to Record Business

By Foster Olroyd

Manager, Strand Theatre, New Orleans

ADVANCE criticism of "The Red Lantern" was so uniformly favorable that it challenged the writer's marked attention. When the picture was screened its advertising possibilities were recognized as so great that it was determined to exploit the production to the limit.

More than three weeks in advance we began to insert four to ten line references in the current ads about "The Red Lantern," pounding the idea that it was Nazimova's first super-production and a big picture from the standpoint of costly scenic effects. Teaser slides were used four weeks in advance of the showing. We had a special moving picture trailer made setting forth the pertinent facts of the picture, but always hammering home the thought that it was the first super-production of Nazimova. The descriptive part of the trailer was followed by some of the best scenes of the picture.

Handsome oil paintings were placed in the lobbies of the leading hotels and in several of the downtown stores, and the amount of publicity derived from these sources was no doubt immensely beneficial.

A huge red lantern, more than ten feet in height, was constructed and hung beneath the Strand's big electric sign. It was illuminated by powerful lights from within and permitted to burn until the wee small hours as the Strand is located on a thoroughfare used by auto traffic all hours of the night.

"The Red Lantern" was campaigned, exploited and promoted by the Strand without one sheet of bill-board advertising, outside of the hand-drawn lithos used in the lobby of the theatre. This is recorded through no prejudice to billboards; but in the opinion of the writer the theme, star and production as a whole were one that needed direct newspaper advertising. In this instance we concentrated in the New Orleans Item with splendid results. We engaged an artist to draw a series of layouts that harmonized with the general idea of the picture, and in releasing the ads for publication set the "spreads" for "light days" in order that the "splurge" would be doubly effective—and it was.

For the overture we used "Echoes from China," an original arrangement by Don Philippini, conductor of the Strand orchestra. It comprised quaint Chinese lyrics interpolated by the popular one step, "China We Owe a Lot to You," purposely played as a bid for "balcony" favor. And that idea went over big. Following The Literary Digest Review of Topics of the Day, and the Strand Weekly came the prologue to "The Red Lantern." The curtain closed in on the weekly and every light in the house went out. A cymbal crash, thrice in succession was a signal for two streamers of Chinese lanterns strung from the balcony to the stage to light up. The glow from this bathed the entire auditorium in a deep red that harmonized with the house drop, while the "set" was being struck. The set was merely a native Chinese drop that was struck in 80 seconds, and gave the audience time to get "pepped" for the soloist. As the curtains parted, a soloist seated to the right of the stage and dressed as a mandarin girl, sang "East is West." The "drop" showed the east coast of China, with a thatched house to the left, set amidst a palm grove, and the silhouetted form of towering mountains in the background. A water ripple purred the current of a lazy river, while an Oriental moon peeked its way through the clouds when the singer took her second or encore chorus. The prologue lasted four minutes and at each performance elicited favorable comment and unstinted applause.

Two Pekinese lamps, set right and left of the stage, and replicas of them, atop the orchestra rails, lent themselves admirably to the general color scheme of the

(Continued on Page 4138)

SEE PAGE 6 ITEM MOVING PICTURE SECTION

SAENGER'S STRAND GREATEST SHOW SOUTH.

Announces the first of the great series of super-attractions that will be presented at the Strand, beginning Saturday, May 31st.

AN ENTIRE WEEK

THE INCOMPARABLE

NAZIMOVA

in the stupendous $250,000.00 production

"THE RED LANTERN"

to be presented with the most elaborate scenic effects ever seen in New Orleans.

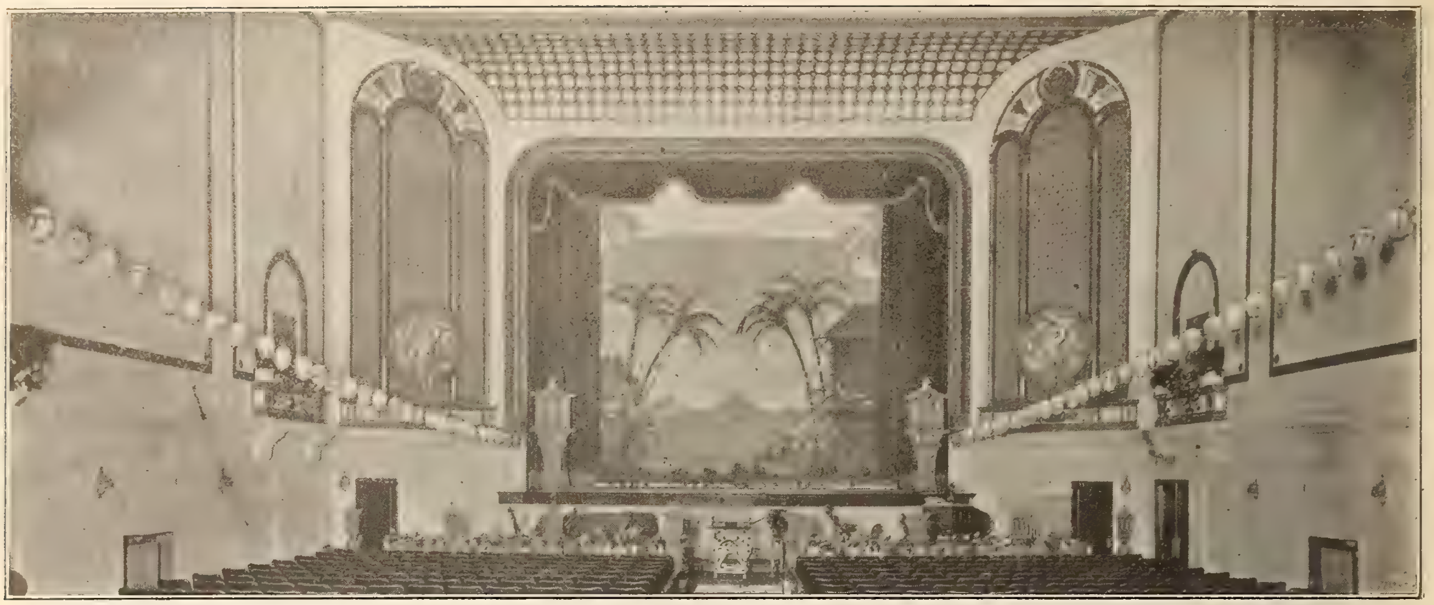
AND ON THE SAME PROGRAMME

—PATHE REVIEW.
—STRAND WEEKLY.
—BURTON HOLMES TRAVELOG.
—LITERARY DIGEST—"Topics of the Day."
—SUNSHINE COMEDY—"Virtuous Husbands."

The Greatest Two and a Half Hour Show Ever Offered in New Orleans.

PRICE SCHEDULE:
MATINEES: Mezzanine, 15c; Orchestra, 25c.
NIGHTS: Mezzanine 25c, Orchestra, 50c.
Children (All Performances), 15c
Saturdays-Sundays, Night Prices Prevail.

One of the advance ads giving an idea of the drawn work used



General view of Strand theatre, New Orleans, showing the details of Chinese decorations

Wonderful Exploitation Is Given "Red Lantern" with Use of a Sheet of Paper

(Continued from Page 4137)

house. Red, of course, was the predominant color of the decorations. From the flood lights for overtures shone a brilliant crimson, from overhead. All aisle cap lights were set in Chinese lanterns, while the lobby, foyer, and exits were similarly dressed. Even in the mezzanine, a Chinese slave girl attended milady's wants as she lounged on a Tokio settee, or admired the Chinese novelties in wood-work, wicker and souvenirs.

Three Chinese stand lamps, with shades made especially for "The Red Lantern" lighted the promenade, where patrons circulated while waiting for seats. The entire usher and floor staff was dressed as Chinese students. The footman outside was attired as a rickshaw boy, as he folded his arms for Mr. Packard or Mr. Ford to alight, when opening the door of his tonneau.

Bamboo trellis facings, with Chinese chrysanthemums decorated the lobby overhead, while an artistic cut-out of Nazimova, illuminated, served as the center-piece for the entrance.

By a happy coincidence we used a Burton Holmes Travalogue, "From Cocoons to Kimonas," a romance of the Chinese silk industry, with startling effect on a splendid bill, and each day's audience voted the Strand presentation as the most lavish motion picture bill seen in New Orleans.

A considerable part of the success of "The Red Lantern" at the Strand was due to the exploitation that was given through the "Saengerette," a house organ published by the Saenger Amusement Company on behalf of its leading New Orleans houses, the Strand and the Globe. Weeks before the appearance of the picture announcements were made in this handsome publication, scene pictures were used and the curiosity of the public in general aroused.

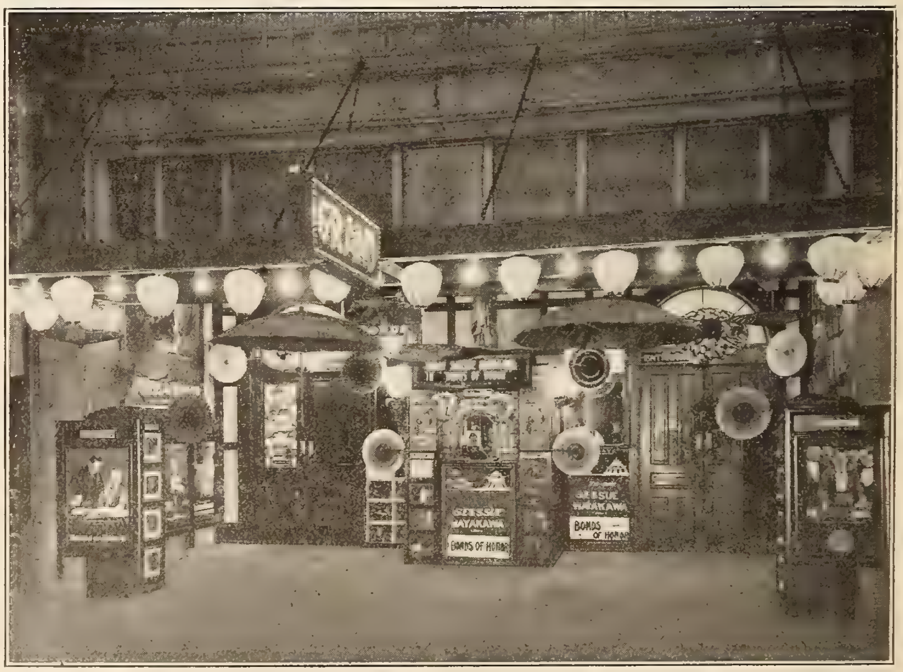
Then three weeks before the showing there was announced in a colored paper insert published in the "Saengerette" a very startling departure from the usual policy of showing two pictures a week, and the showing of five super productions for a full week each in sequence. The first of these was "The Red Lantern," and it is being followed by "The Knickerbocker Bucakaroo," "True Hearted Susie," Mary Pickford in "Daddy Long Legs," and "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," with Charles Chaplin's newest, "Sunnyside," on the same bill.

Although New Orleans is generally credited with being a poor motion picture city, reports say that business at the Strand has been amazing.

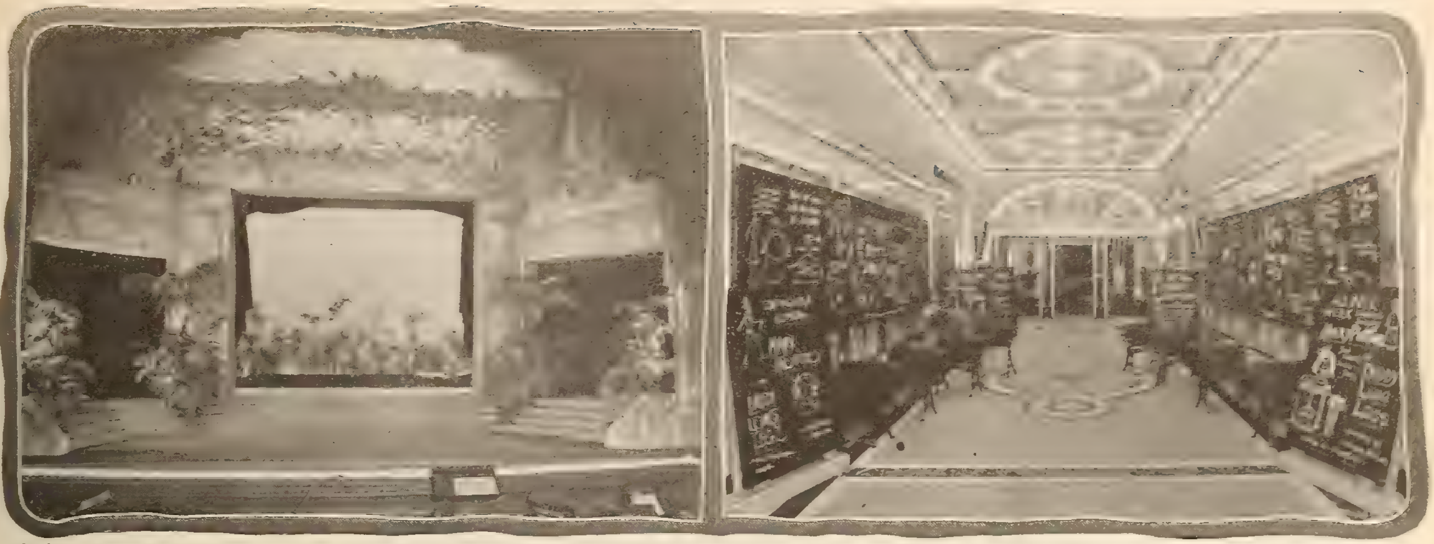
Catalogue Gives Gist of All Past Goldwyn Releases

Probably for the first time in history a motion picture concern has issued a complete calatogue of all of its productions. Goldwyn has done this in an attractively printed twelve-page booklet which lists all of the pictures, shows scenes from them, gives brief outlines, and, in short, puts the pictures before exhibitors who have not shown them or who wish to repeat so that they know exactly what they are getting with the least possible amount of reading.

This booklet is especially valuable to exhibitors who find that they need certain kinds of pictures for certain occasions, for they have ample opportunity here to learn just the character of the offering and make their arrangements accordingly.



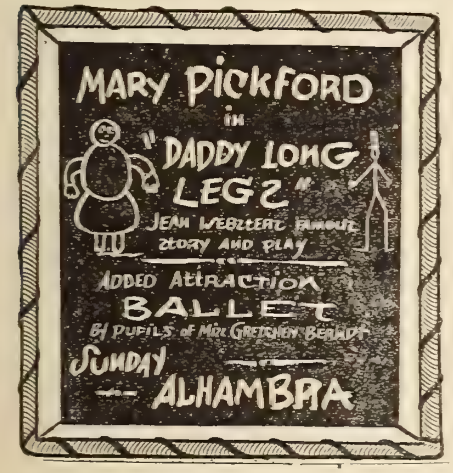
Here is another case of carrying out the Oriental effect. This is the display of the Grand theatre, Mimai, Okla., during the showing of Sessue Hayakawa in "Bonds of Honor." Note the lavish use of lanterns and parasols



At left stage setting for the ballet with "Daddy Long Legs" at the Alhambra theatre, Milwaukee, and at the right the schoolroom scene achieves in the lobby with the clever arrangement of blackboards and desks along the walls

Schoolroom in Lobby Aids Fischer in Breaking Record with "Daddy Long Legs"

If an exhibitor stages a photoplay in the first hot week of the year with the thermometer up around 90 in the shade and breaks all records for his house, there must be something to the way he stages that photoplay.



MARY PICKFORD
in
"DADDY LONG LEGZ"
JEAN WEBZTERZ FAMOUZ ZTORY AND PLAY
ADDED ATTRACTION
BALLET
BY PUPILS OF MISS GRETCHEN BERNDT
SUNDAY
ALHAMBRA

One of the advance ads, 4½ inches, double

Of course, it stands to reason that the production must be a good one, but then even the best of attractions have been known to flivver in hot weather. Because he staged Mary Pickford in "Daddy Long-Legs" as only a real showman could, Manager George Fischer, of the Alhambra theatre, Milwaukee, had the satisfaction of seeing the records of his theatre during the past eight years smashed all to pieces.

As one of the pictures on this page shows he was able to go out in front of the theatre at 6 o'clock on a torrid afternoon and see a line stretching for a half block from his box-office.

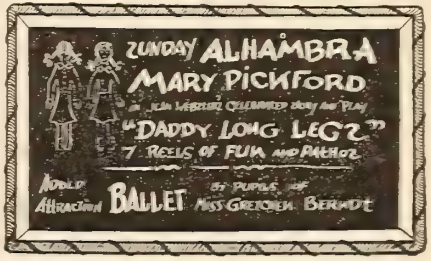
Fischer decided to have a juvenile atmosphere prevail in his advertising, in his lobby display, in his special attraction during the performance, and in the supporting "shorts," which he ran on the same program.

He figured that we are all children no matter what our age and he figured correctly.

First of all he started out to run ads possessing that atmosphere. The ads were of the slate style, with white letters on a black background. The printing was crude but legible.

He fitted up his lobby like a school room with desks borrowed from a city school. The walls were covered with blackboards bearing crazy sketches and announcements of the coming attraction.

The Alhambra has a policy of providing a 15-minute novelty offering between film shows. During the Pickford week Manager Fischer secured the pupils of a Milwaukee ballet school to give several numbers Among the students who danced were the daughters of some of Milwaukee's "first families." The only cost to the theatre was the fee paid to the head of the school, and sundry trifling expenses for the entertainment of the dancers. One day they were taken to a neighboring theatre for the supper show, another day they were treated to ice cream, a third day they were given photographs of Mary Pickford, and each day looked forward to some little remembrance from the management .

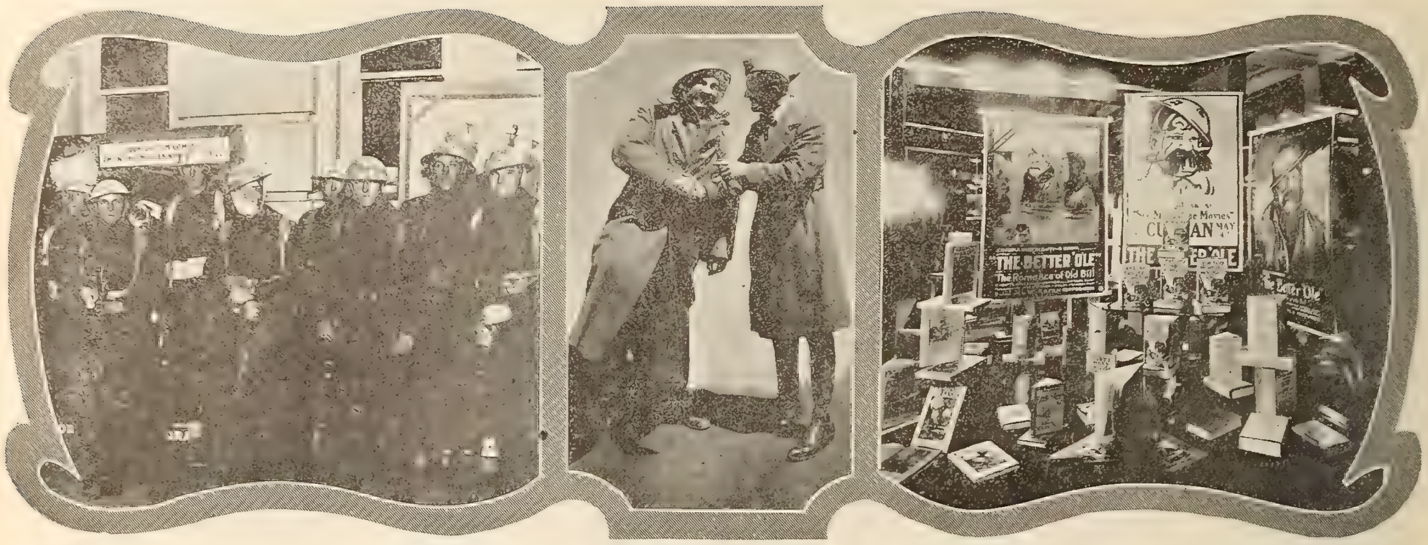


ZUNDAY ALHAMBRA
MARY PICKFORD
IN JEAN WEBZTERZ CELEBRATED ZTORY AND PLAY
"DADDY LONG LEGZ"
7 REELZ OF FUN AND PATHOZ
ADDED ATTRACTION BALLET BY PUPILS OF MISS GRETCHEN BERNDT

Three columns, 4 inches, maintaining the slate effect

(Continued on page 4141)

Pupils of local ballet school used in the prelude



THE BETTER 'OLE
The Romance of Old Bill
CURRAN

Scenes in the hundred per cent exploitation of "The Better 'Ole" in San Francisco. At left soldiers in their tin hats in front of the theatre, center Old Bill himself goes about the streets advertising the picture and aiding in recuiting, and at the right one of the bookstore displays that was obtained while the store advertising books about the great war

San Francisco Theatre Gets Crowds from Series of Stunts with "The Better 'Ole"

IT'S getting to be the habit of more and more theatres these days to study the fullest possibilities of a picture and then go the limit in using every angle to appeal to the public. A splendid example of that has just been supplied by the Curran theatre, San Francisco, and Manager St. John of the World Film branch, with "The Better 'Ole."

While, of course, the picture deals largely with English soldier characters the spirit of the Allied cause is all the way through it and the first opportunity that presented itself was to link up the picture with the big recruiting campaign of the U. S. Navy. This meant unusual publicity because the Navy Department has one hundred poster stands in San Francisco. So Mr. St. John wired to the department at Washington, asking for permission to display on these stands a cartoon of Old Bill advising the young men to join the navy and giving the address of the recruiting station. This permission was granted and the novelty of the posters attracted much attention.

Then arrangement was made with the army recruiting service to have a soldier dressed as Old Bill, moustache and all, to stand in front of the station advising passersby to join the army. This figure was later used all over the city and the wildest curiosity was aroused. This pretty well got a 100 per cent cooperation from Uncle Sam's fighting men.

In addition to this a group of men were garbed as British soldiers, wearing the tin helmet and covered with dust, as if they had just come from the trenches. These attracted great attention in front of the theatre and throughout the city.

Next on the list were the restaurants. Special signs were prepared bearing the figure of Old Bill and then the injunction: "If you know of a better 'ole to eat in, 'op to it." These signs were allotted only to one restaurant in a given territory and it is reported that there were dozens of applications from other eating houses that were not so fortunate as to be included in the list.

A similar sign, based on "smokes," was made up for the cigar stores and stands, and as these had central locations throughout the city they became a valuable publicity channel. Cigar dealers saw the value of the co-operative publicity quickly and were glad to follow the example of the restaurants and of the Government.

The local advertising club was giving a masked ball and Mr. St. John flitted in here, too—with the offer of cash prizes to the character representing Old Bill most accurately. These prizes were awarded at the Curran theatre.

The crowning achievement of Mr. St. John's campaign was his persuading the bakeries to advertise "Better 'Ole" doughnuts. Some of the bakers found the sale of doughnuts so increased that they continued to use the name long after the film's opening.

The publishers of the "Better 'Ole" music gave Mr. St. John and the Curran theatre complete co-operation. The Leo Feist Company put on a special singer at the Curran and arranged for the use of publicity matter in the windows of stores advertising the music.

The business at the Curran theatre was in keeping with the extraordinary efforts put into the exploitation of the feature.

New Record for Exploitation Made with This Issue and You Cannot Afford to Miss Reading a Single Line of It If You Would Be a Hundred Per Cent Exhibitor

---

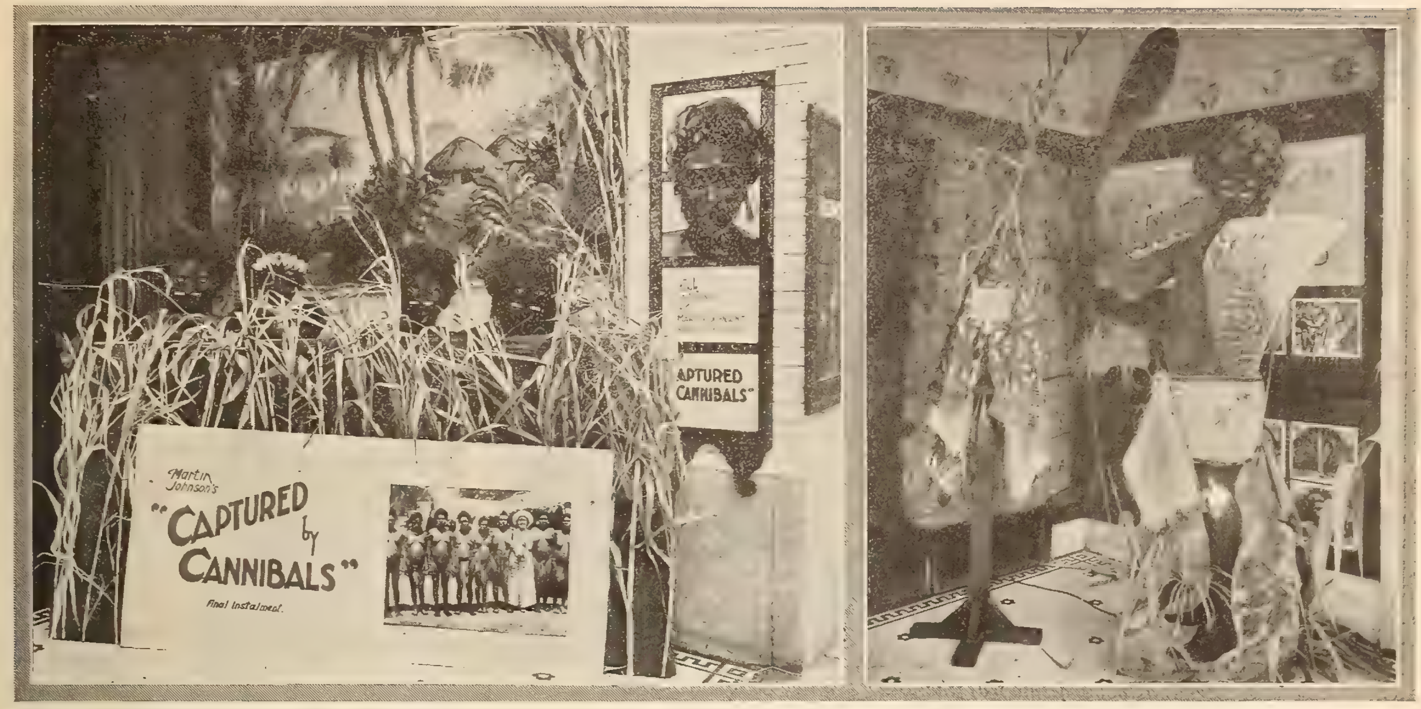
Brooklyn Exhibitor Arranges "See America First," His Own Theatre

MANAGER J. LOEB, of the New Albany theatre, Brooklyn, realizes that with the summer comes the wanderlust to most people—that his patrons want to get out and see things, especially the open and the cool places, the mountains and the rivers. So to counteract the tendency on the part of many to stay away from motion picture houses during the summer he is starting late in June a "see America first campaign"—in the New Albany theatre.

He has booked a series of twenty-two films from Educational Films and has laid out a schedule just as a man taking the actual trips would do, following a definite route through the national parks of the West, the Rocky Mountains from Alaska to Mexico and a side trip to the Hawaiian Islands.

Mr. Loeb was influenced by the extensive advertising of the United States Railroad Administration. Right at the moment, every first class newspaper and magazine in the country is filled with the cleverest sort of advertising, intended to encourage summer travel through the beauty spots of America, Alaska and Hawaii. Mr. Loeb was impressed with the quality and extent of the advertising and he realized also the fact that hardly one in a thousand of the people who read the advertisements could possibly make a trans-continental trip. Therefore he brought the scenery to the 999 who had to stay at home.

Many exhibitors have featured their short subjects, but Mr. Loeb's plan is more than that. It is an orderly method of booking and advertising that enables him to neatly "cash in" on a million-dollar government advertising campaign. He uses a scenic picture regularly twice a week, but he is going beyond the usual policy of treating the senicc reel as a "necessary evil" and makes capital of it in a way that is bound to show real returns.



Views of right and left of the lobby of Plaza theatre, San Diego, for "Cannibals of South Seas"

Mechanical Effects Used in Lobby Attract Great Attention to South Sea Cannibal Film

MECHANICAL contrivances were used well by Manager Bishop, of the Plaza theatre, San Diego, Cal., when he showed Martin Johnson's "Cannibals of the South Seas," and used so effectively that he is reported to have broken the record for a week's run.

This picture lends itself especially well to lobby displays and there have been many good ones printed in these pages. The cut-outs in themselves make attractive material and when there is the addition of motion as there was in the case of the Plaza theatre it became impossible for anyone to pass the theatre without stopping to look. Crowds were reported in front of the house all during the run.

One figure used was that of a gigantic cannibal armed with a huge war club. By connection with an electric motor the arm was made to rise slowly and then it was released with the effect of a quick downward blow at an enemy. On the other side of the lobby there was a tropical effect created and four heads of cannibals were used and so arranged that they would rise slowly and peer over the undergrowth and then disappear suddenly.

Real grass mats, palm leaves, bows and arrows, and spears were used in decorating the several posters and photographs which were placed about the entrance and they gave a touch of realism to the whole layout. The secret of the successful showing is apparently found in the fact that the manager was careful in the details of his display and liberal in its extent.

Two other stars were also showing in the theatre at the same time, but the manager decided that the Cannibal pictures provided the best chance for a unique display, for he announced them in the electric sign above, merely mentioning the names. Nothing was permitted to detract from the big central idea as carried out in the lobby display and it certainly went over with a punch.

HAVE YOU DONE IT?

Phone Your Newspaper About That Data Right Now

RETURNS from the census of the newspapers of the country that we are taking on behalf of better cooperation between newspapers and motion picture theatres is coming along splendidly, but there are some notable instances where the newspapers have failed to return their blanks.

And it is a strange thing that in many of these instances these papers are published in cities where some of the best advertising exhibitors are located. Certainly these men should take the trouble to see that they get the fullest amount of newspaper cooperation.

This work is done purely on behalf of better conditions. The Motion Picture News gets nothing out of it except the expense incurred and the privilege of serving the exhibitors—which it values highly.

Meet us half way. It's your fight.

Telephone the advertising managers today.

The NC-4 showed that a little damage at the start doesn't keep you out of the running.

Fischer Uses Schoolroom in Lobby for "Daddy Long Legs"

(Continued from page 4139)

Manager Fischer selected his "shorts" on the program with equal care. In his news weekly he had a bit of patriotic stuff, and then scenes of Chicago's police force giving milk to the poor children. Plenty of babies in these views added to the juvenile atmosphere.

As regards these "shorts" Manager Fischer holds that they are an important adjunct to the average program and must be selected with care.

"I find that most persons greatly enjoy these shorts," he says. "I usually buy several thousand feet a week, and only use a few hundred with each program. I cull out all of the mediocre, and take only the cream."

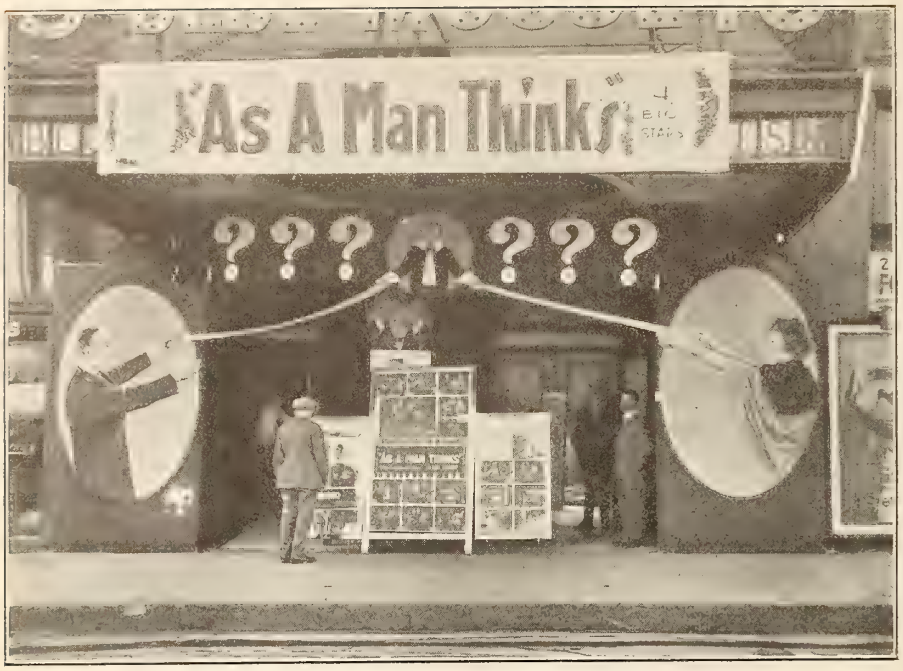
When it came time to arrange a stage setting for the Pickford production the Alhambra property man expected to receive instructions to procure all of the nursery furniture he could secure to help out the juvenile atmosphere.

But Manager Fischer surprised him by ordering a severely plain set decorated with ferns, palms and growing plants.

"The little children dancing will be the proper dressing for this stage, and all we need is a background of simple plants," he said, thereby registering a knockout effect.

As a result he had the pleasure of seeing his previous records shattered, his house packed during hot weather and scores of persons coming to him telling him that they felt younger after seeing the attraction.

Lots of people run their business like a postage stamp—it's cancelled before it gets anywhere.



Striking lobby display of the Blue Mouse, St. Paul

Mark Gates Tells How He Puts Over Pictures at the Dayton, Dayton

(Continued from page 4131)

picture, which was done several weeks in advance of its showing, I decided on a new form of publicity to supplement the regular newspaper and billboard advertising. This was what I called "vocal publicity."

Just after the closing of each program the week before I showed "The Heart of Humanity" I had a man give a talk from the stage on the merits of the picture and tell some of the interesting facts in regard to its making. This created a great deal of talk, and was, in my opinion, exceptionally good and very cheap publicity, though it would lose force if done with great frequency.

Taking advantage of local happenings and local activities has helped in many instances; one in particular being represented by the advertisement for "The Brand" which is here reproduced. Prior to the appearance of this advertisement there was run in the local papers an advertisement of large size showing footprints in a great expanse of white sand, with nothing in the ad. to indicate what was being advertised. Naturally, curiosity was aroused and when this advertisement appeared it was generally considered as a completion of the other series.

Early in our advertising we adopted the signature cut which appears at the bottom of all our displays. We had this made up in one, two, three and four-column widths and keep a supply on hand so that we can make up an advertisement on short notice that will have, at least, a portion of it distinctive. It also helps the reader to recognize at once a Dayton ad. and acts as a sort of trade mark or identification brand.

Every one knows "Mickey" by this time, and every one knows the excellent publicity being given it by Mr. Crandall who was ahead of the show in this section of the country. We co-operated with him in every way possible and on our own initiation had some small cuts made by our artist which he has seen fit to use in many other places. This has been done of course with our permission, and we consider it a privilege to co-operate at any time with our producers or distributors in this way. It puts money in both pockets.

In making our drawn ads it has been our endeavor always to have them illustrate the theme of the picture rather than reproduce some scene. Our selling halk is usually short and to the point, as we feel that the great majority of readers do not care to wade through columns of matter for the information they are seeking regarding the picture to which their attention has been attracted by the nature of the display.

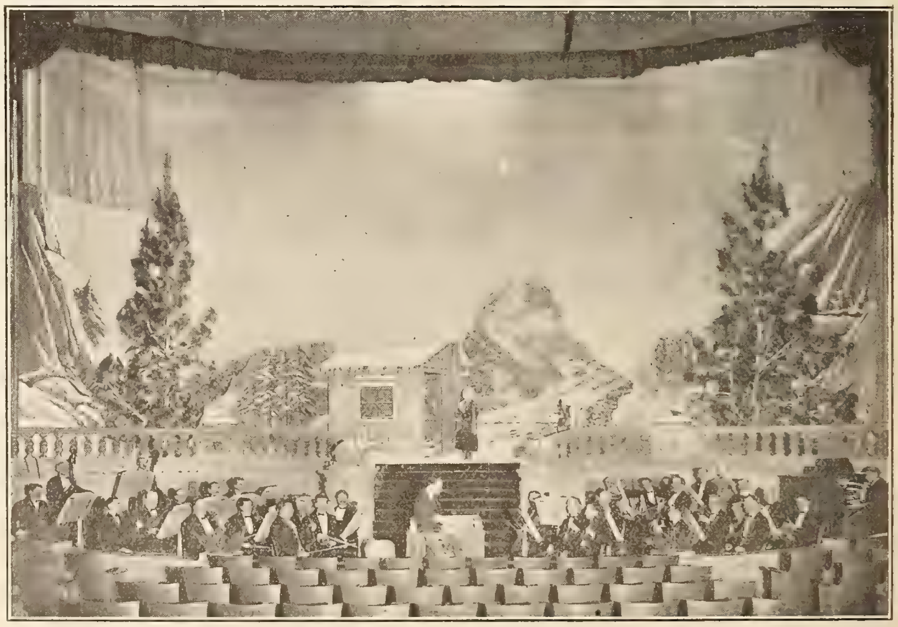
Remembering Stage Success Aids St. Paul Exhibitor in Breaking Record

MANAGER O. A. ROWE, of the Blue Mouse theatre, St. Paul, remembers things, for he has found that it pays. He not only files away in his exploitation cabinets the material that he will have a chance to use later, but he files away the ideas, too. So when he got a chance to book "As a Man Thinks" he didn't hesitate.

Then he proceeded to go the limit in newspaper exploitation and with paper, for he remembered what a success the Augustus Thomas story had been when it was shown at one of the legitimate houses and later played by a local stock company. He set out not only to get the regular motion picture fans, but all those who still think that the picture is a little inferior to the spoken drama. And how well he succeeded is shown by the fact that though he had originally booked the production for a week he was compelled to hold it over for three more days.

Fully a week ahead of the first showing he literally plastered the city with announcements that this Augustus Thomas story was to be shown in motion picture form at the Blue Mouse. He did not fail to inform the public that the picture itself was produced under the personal supervision of the author and he invited the people to come and see what the real production of a story in film form could do that was impossible on the stage itself.

There was a striking effect created in the lobby which is illustrated here. There was a strong central idea that literally stopped the people in their tracks. In addition to this he had a dozen stills enlarged to almost ten times of their regular size and so the large lobby fairly breathed the spirit of the production.



View of orchestra, California theatre, Los Angeles, and effective stage setting used with Rex Beach's "The Brand"

How New York Stages the Show

ALTHOUGH one of the theatres has a tense feature this week, the dominant note at the three leading Broadway houses is comedy. Business is keeping up strong during the warmer weather, but the managers believe that the lighter stuff is generally in demand and where there is a feature of the more gripping sort to be shown the sidelights of comedy is played strong.

Strand might be said to have an all-comedy bill. Olive Thomas is the star in "Upstairs and Down" which is practically a farce, and there is a Mack Sennett comedy on the same bill, together with laughs in the scenic, and in the Strand Topical, a special setting together with an introductory song, which is carried through the picture as the theme, adds to the enjoyment.

At the Rivoli "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" is the feature. This is a dramatic offering, but there is plenty of laughter on the bill with the same comedy as shown at the Strand, "No Mother to Guide Him," and a Jeff and Mutt included in the Pictorial. "Martha," the overture, there takes on the spirit of comedy with the scenes of old England that it interprets.

Douglas Fairbanks has transferred his activities from the Rivoli to the Rialto, the first time the experiment has been tried. The last comedy in which Sydney Drew appeared with his wife, "Squared" is also shown, and there is a Happy Hooligan in the Magazine, while the music is of the happier sort except for the single solo.

Next week the Strand will feature Charlie Chaplin's latest, "Sunnyside" and will fill in the program with selected short subjects. W. S. Hart will be at the Rivoli in "Square Deal Sanderson," while the Rialto will play Rex Beach's new one, "The Crimson Gardenia."

Warm weather has reached New York, but the crowds appear as large as ever, meaning the motion pictures have even a firmer hold on the people of the metropolis than they have ever had before. And that with two other Broadway houses devoted to special motion picture productions.

Rialto Theatre

THERE is a contrasty program at the Rivoli this week, ranging from a tense drama to slapstick comedy, but once more the value of good music is evidenced. The score for the feature is of the highest class including a number of experts from "Thais" and other numbers of the highest class, while in the comedy, of course, there is a reversion to the lighter and popular airs, together with the effects at which the Rivoli orchestra is so good.

"Martha" is the overture this week and it is played with the lights all in gold. This is a lively selection telling of an English lady and her maid who hire out as servants as a prank and the love affairs that result with two young farmers, one of whom turns out to be a nobleman. It is really a comedy and the spirit is well reflected in the music.

An unusually clever effect marks the opening of the Rivoli Pictorial. The first picture is a Pathe illustration of the recent bomb outrages. The house becomes dark and there is a tympany rumble and then a flash of red light from the foots and then a crash of cymbals and organ rumble giving the effect of an explosion and there immediately follows the title "Americans, Beware!" First we are shown the results of the explosion at the home of Attorney General Palmer in Washington, and then we go to Massachusetts and finally the scenes in New York. A mysterioso is used during these.

Kinograms supply some interesting scenes of lumbering in Montagne, on the German border, to supply timber to France to reconstruct the damage of the Germans. "Mountain Music" is played. Pathe presents views of the launching of the first concrete tanker, the Palo Alto, at Government Island, Cal., to the accompaniment of "Yours Truly." Kinograms gets a laugh with "Mrs. Hen's Double Life Exposed." This shows a hen that has hatched out a setting of duck eggs and the ducklings take to the water much to the consternation of the mother who runs along the bank not knowing what is happening. From the same source come pictures of a parade of pet animals at Pasadena, Cal. "Bluette" is used for both of these.

Pathe shows pictures of a "parasol plane" in which a San Francisco inventor plans to fly over the Pacific and the music for this is "Sweet Emalina, My Gal" with the effects of the motor at first very soft and then growing in volume. This music continues through the cartoon, "A hop over the Atlantic forty years from now," with the sound of an alarm clock at the start and then burlesque motor imitations. International shows pictures of American soldiers aiding the French in fighting a fire at Brest, the French using, the old time buckets until the arrival of the doughboys with their modern apparatus. A "hurry" is used here.

Now we have a touch of comedy with Jeff and Mutt in "Sweet Papa." There is a chance to get a laugh reflecting back on the opening of the Magazine with the explosion imitation with the match and there are all sorts of effects used with whistles and cries for the child. "Oh, Papa, Papa" is played at the start with "At the Fountain of Youth" following through and then coming back to "Oh Papa." Gaumont shows us pictures of college oarsmen tuning up at Chicago to the strains of "Some Sweet Day." Kinograms brings us a bit of Japan showing oriental scenes staged by the graduating class at Western College for Women, Oxford, O., with "Mountain Dance" played. International closes the Magazine with scenes of signing the suffrage constitutional amendment. It is notable that all three houses where views of this incident are shown that little applause results. "Oh, Women, Women" is the appropriate music at the Rivoli.

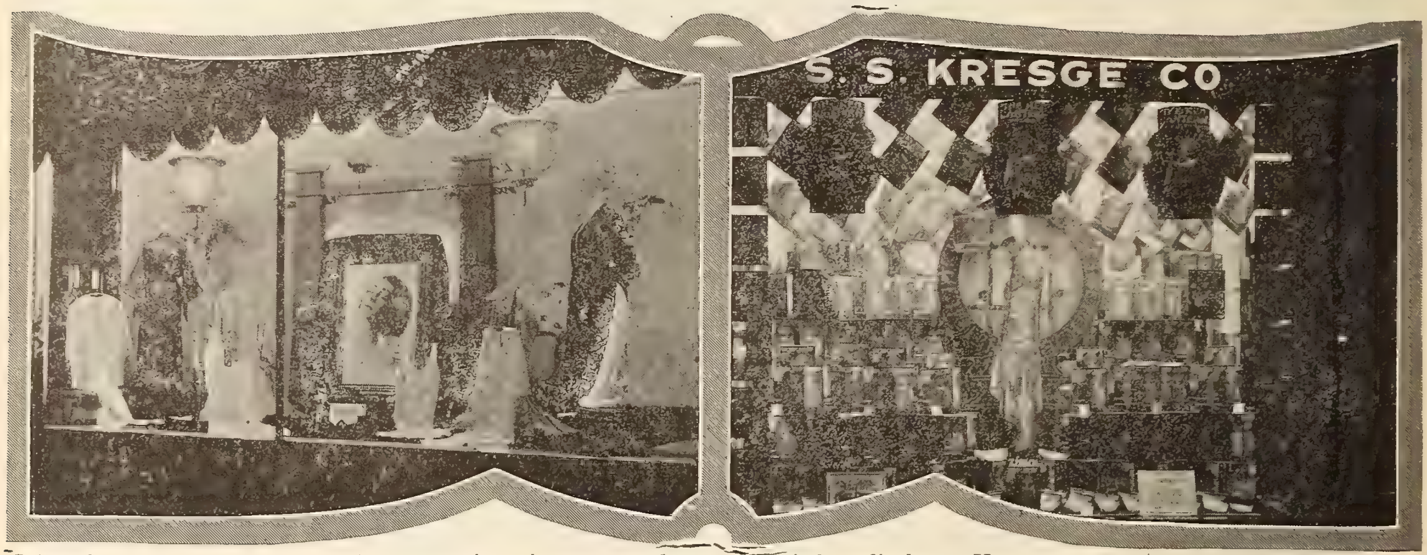
Lights go down to blue and there is an organ introduction for Gree Evan's rendition of "King of the Vikings Am I." There is a special drop showing a blue sea with the clouds slightly tinged in red and the singer in Viking costume. This should be remembered by exhibitors as a striking number that is especially suited for any feature that deals with the sea, or as an incidental number as it is used here. It got one of the biggest receptions that we have seen at the Rivoli.

"Contemplation," the theme, is played at the screening of the feature, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" and with the first scene after the titles "Coronation March" is used. With the scene of the marriage in the church vox humana is used on the organ and then with the minister's words "Those whom God" there is silence and then the organ continues. Extracts from the "Nell Gwynn" suite are used then with the scenes in the antarctic, and then with the change in scene back to London an extract from "Thais" is used, followed with numbered selections until the scene where the ice is breaking up and again "Thais" music is used. With the title "The hour that should be the holiest of a woman's life" "Legend" is played agitato, followed by another agitato and then with the title "Six weeks later" there is more of "Thais." Then when Conrad tells the girl that he read of her marriage "Reverie Arabe" is played, going back to "Thais" with the title "After dinner" and then "La Reine Fiammetti" as he is seen leaving the apartment.

Title, "Sunset in the desert" brings "Thais" again, and then with the title "Then I have the right" the theme is brought back. Here the organ takes up the music and the orchestra comes back as Mary is seen leaving the baby with "Nudine." A numbered selection is taken up with the title "In the fog" and then with the title "And the happy days bring" we have the theme again, played to the end.

"No Mother to Guide Him" is the unusually funny Mack Sennett comedy. Just before the start the lights go up to gold to mark the interval between the feature and the comedy and there are eight bars of "Wizard of Oz," with "Rosary" following through. With the title "I had a lot of luck," "How She Can Sing" is used and then with the appearance of the visit-

Tips From First Showings Here



Columbia theatre, Erie, Pa., got the cooperation of many merchants in window displays. Here are shown those of one of the most exclusive woman's shops and that of the Kresge store on music ing stranger "Trousseau Ball." As the husband tells them to eat, drink and be merry there is a change to "French Luck." There is a clever effect as the stranger is seen reading the poetry and here "Mighty Lak a Rose" is used with burlesque effect with pauses. "Coxsatchogue" is played with the title "I feel like the spirit of the dance," and then when we see the maid starting on her afternoon off "One-Two-Three-Four" is used.

While the hubby is seen hunting "Hunting Scene" is played with effects the hunting horns especially emphasizing the enjoyment and as the stranger and the wife are amusing themselves "Don't Forget the Salvation Army" is the accompaniment. With the appearance of the mesmerist on the stage "Bull-sheviki" is played with a tremulo effect. Then again with the further hunting scenes we have more of the hunting horn and organ effects, and with the title "And still the play went on" "I'll Pray For You" is played burlesque. With the husband's trap shown in the picture there is a numbered selection. Then there is a pause with the announcement from the stage that "there is a gent outside with a gun who says his wife is in here with another man," and then there is the effect of a crowd rushing out of the theatre, with shuffling of feet and the overthrow of chairs from the traps. With the title "A family friend" "Ruspana" is played, and as the stranger tells the husband that he is being deceived a numbered selection is used and then with the scene in the auto "Electric Galop," accompanied by all sorts of effects is played to the end.

Dubois' "Grand March" is the organ selection.

Strand Theatre

COMEDY runs through the greater portion of the bill at the Strand this week, with that element dominating the feature and coming into both the scenic and the news reel. There is also a slightly different arrangement of the musical numbers this week, with both of the vocal selections being placed ahead of the feature instead of using one of them between the feature and the comedy, as is done at the Strand.

"Mignon" is the brilliant overture this week and it is played with the house lights out and the stage in gold. It opens with the flute, a few bars of the violin and harp, the music finely interpreting the story of the girl who was stolen from her noble parents and forced by the chief of the gypsy band to dance in the streets, only to attract the attention of a young student who buys her release and marries her. Happy airs, therefore, run through a considerable portion of the opera.

Strand Topical opens with Pathe pictures of the army athletes leaving Hoboken to compete in the games abroad, and this is followed by the International views of rowing in Chicago. "All America" is used for both of these. Then come the Pathe pictures "Americans, Beware" and "Prelude" is used for these, with the rumble of the organ giving the sinister effect. It makes a most effective musical setting. There is an interesting Pathe-Ditmars showing beavers cutting down small trees and building their dam, and for this "Au Moulin" is played.

Then comes comedy relief, with Topics of the Day. "Prohibition may bring 'The Old Oaken Bucket' into vogue as the national anthem," gets a laugh, but the prize one comes with "Low-cut shoes have made their appearance and lots of fat girls look like they had mumps in their ankles." "Take Me to That Land of Jazz."

News events are resumed with the Pathe pictures of launching the concrete ship, to the music of "Volunteers," and from the same source come pictures of the honors paid in Paris on the anniversary of Joan of Arc. Here we see French girls in their peasant costumes of Alsace and the other provinces marching to the statue, and there is a fine shot of the statue itself that evokes a lot of enthusiasm. "Cleopatra" is used during these. Then we have the International views of Americans aiding the French in fighting fire to the music of "Jeunesse d'Hercule." Final pictures are International views of the C-4 making its final hop off on the flight across the Atlantic. There are some fine views of her flying over the warships and then the Topical closes with the airship cartoon. "Going Up" is the music.

Redferne Hollinshead, tenor, then renders "In the Great Somewhere," and then as an encore "Killarney." The way that the Strand audiences know and appreciate good music is evidenced by the way that, at least when we saw the presentation, they applaud the opening bars of the Irish air. The first selection is rendered with the lights red and then go down to blue for the second.

"In the Tavern" is the music for the Outing-Chester that follows, "Wrangling Dudes." With a comedy setting this pictures some of the wild west as the average stranger from the east expects to find it, with the broncho busting and other stunts. Toward the end there are some fine shots of mountain scenery and some snow stuff that helps to cool things off.

There is a special setting for the prelude to "Upstairs and Down," with the rendition of Donaldson's song of that name. As the curtains open there is revealed a stairway effect, with steps leading down toward the left and right of the stage and a landing, or platform, in the center. There is a blue background with decorative effect. Seated on a bench in the center of the stage are Richard Bold, tenor, and at the other Ethel Newton, soprano, and they begin to sing the song. At the end of the first verse they rise, one going to either side and the final chorus is sung with the man following the girl up and down the stairs. Immediately at the end the screen curtain comes down and the feature starts.

Music Hints For Entire Programs

FIRST SHOWING
ROMANCE OF TARZAN

General view of exterior of lobby, and, left view of interior, and at right another of the interior looking out when "The Romance of Tarzan" was shown at the Superba theatre, San Diego, Cal.

As we have said this is comedy and the title gets lots of laughs, especially one which runs: "Did you ever try to rouse a lady from a faint?" "I don't know about a lady, but you can wake a drunk up with a rap on the nose." "Gloriana" is played at the screening, and this is followed through with "In a Kingdom of Our Own" and then with the title, "Dinner, Theatre and Supper," the organ takes up the music for five minutes, coming back with "The Midnight Frolic," and here we have "Trousseau Ball" played. There is an effective pause at the scene where the spectators applaud and then "Upstairs and Down" is played, this being the theme, and then with the scene where Tom is seen asleep "In a King of Our Own" is repeated. Then with the scene where the butler calls Mrs. Reid to the 'phone "Clematus" is used, and until the scene where Alice arrives in the auto and with this there is a change to "Brides and Butterflies," and when she is seen with the men at the country club there is another change to "In the Garden."

With the arrival of Betty "La Colombe" is played and where we see the chauffeur running to summon Terence "Canzonetta" is played. Then with the scene where Terence is trying to revive the girl "Remembrance" is the music. Then later on in the day and with the title "By Twilight Terry's Heart Was Lost," we get "Bon Vivant," and then when he enters the kitchen and sees Betty "My Wild Irish Rose" is the accompaniment.

Here the organ takes up the music for sixteen minutes and during this time "Upstairs and Down" is played several times. The orchestra comes back as the valet is seen watching Tom in his "cave man" treatment of Alice and then the music becomes "Noveletten," played pp to ff. Then when the girl declares, "Oh, You're Wonderful, Tom! Where Did You Learn to Make Love Like That?" "Flirtation" is used. With the title telling us that the valet needs a system "Long Song" is used and at the scene where Tom and Alice get in the auto for their elopement the chorus of the theme is taken up and played through to the end.

Skating is shown in the Pathe "Analysis of Motion Picture" this week, "Fetes des Papillons" is played at the screening and then the organ takes up the music.

"No Comedy to Guide Her," the same Mack Sennett that is also being shown at the Rivoli, follows. "Maytime" is first played and then when the hypnotist is seen on the stage "Ja Da" is used. There is the whistle effect used for the scene in the theatre with the drunk's hat going up and down, and then when the husband is seen hunting ducks there is a change to "March of the Gnomes," with the "quack-quack" of the ducks and other effects. Where the duck is seen squirting water on the hunter "Frou Frou" is used. Then the organ takes the music until the villain is seen fleeing from the house and then "Hunkatin" is used for the chase stuff and to the end.

Guilmant's "Third Sonata" is the organ solo.

Rialto Theatre

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS in "The Knickerbocker Buckaroo," who played last week at the Rivoli, is being seen at the Rialto this week, and, of course, the same music score is retained. However, all of the rest of the program is entirely different.

"Orpheus in the Lower World" is the overture, and this brilliant number, abounding in flute music at the start, was never more brilliantly rendered, and as we saw the presentation, with Dr. Risenfeld himself leading the orchestra, it brought forth a regular ovation.

There is no scenic this week, the Rialto Magazine following the overture. This opens with International pictures of women war workers being mustered out of service with honors at Philadelphia and the marching girls get a big hand from the audience, with "American Red Cross March" played. Pathe pictures of signing the suffrage act, with "Midsummer," and then there come the Joan of Arc scenes in Paris, for which "March Heroique" is used. Gaumont pictures of launching the concrete ships with her going into the water sideways follows, and here we have the cymbal effects with "Marathon March" used.

First touch of comedy to the bill comes with "Sayinks of Topplitsky." Prohibition gets its innings here with: "When they close the saloons and men have to stay at home nights, it wouldn't be so bad if their wives were as pleasant as the bartenders are." And another scream comes with: "The weather man has a cinch. He gets $10,000 a year to say this is a nice day and then he takes his umbrella and goes for a walk." "Rainy Day Blues" is the accompaniment.

Gaumont then pictures the first birthday party of Tawney Pershing at San Francisco. Tawney is a young lion, and there are some views of him eating his birthday dinner with a cat strolling around unafraid. Then the laughs develop into roars with Happy Hooligan in "The Tale of a Shirt," a cartoon comedy released by Educational Films. "Pizzicato" is played at the screening with effects as the kids shoot at the bees and then when Happy tells them to be kind to animals there is a change to "Whistler and the Dog." Then Happy tells his story of the experience with the Official Cootie Hound and the cooties himself. At the scenes where the cooties remind Happy that he has a wife and five children, "Hearts and Flowers" is played with a burlesque touch, and then with the handshake, "Frenchy, Come to Yankee Land" is played. At the place where night is seen falling in large chunks there is the rumble effect on the organ that aids in the laughs. Where the cooties declare "I will save you," there is a change to "Whispering Flowers," and then when the searchlight plays on Happy, "Frenchy" is repeated. For the scene at the end where the bee is seen stinging Happy there is a tympany and a trill on the violins.

"HEART OF HUMANITY"
CANADIAN PICTURE
NOW PLAYING FOR THE 3RD WEEK
THE HEART OF HUMANITY
FEATURING
DOROTHY PHILLIPS

Bold and distinctive lobby displays of the Holman theatre, Montreal, for "The Heart of Humanity"

New York's Way

International shows scenes at Reading, Pa., where relatives of the dead besiege the mine waiting for news, and here "Gruesome Mysterioso" is used with the tympany rumble, and this continues through Kinogram scenes of the results of the recent bomb outrage. International supplies pictures captioned "In the public eye," and these first show the Polish minister to the United States and then Speaker Gillett to "Guiding Star," and then with the views of Richard Croker on his visit here, "Tammany" is used, and through with pictures of Miss Elizabeth Marbury at home after her work in France. Final punch is added with Gaumont scenes showing President Wilson being awarded another degree in Paris, and here "Guiding Star" is again used to the end.

Miss Rosa Lesca, coloratura soprano, then sings the mad scene from "Lucia di Lammermoor," and for the laughing part toward the end there is a brilliant performance of singer and flute in making the high notes that holds the audience entranced.

After the feature the orchestra plays "The Evolution of Broadway," a selection that develops through the Dance Aboriginal, the Minuet and other songs, the theme taken from the chorus of George M. Cohan's "Give My Regards to Broadway," and then plays it in old-time song and dance style, then a waltz, then grand opera and finally into the full orchestration of the song itself. It makes a big hit.

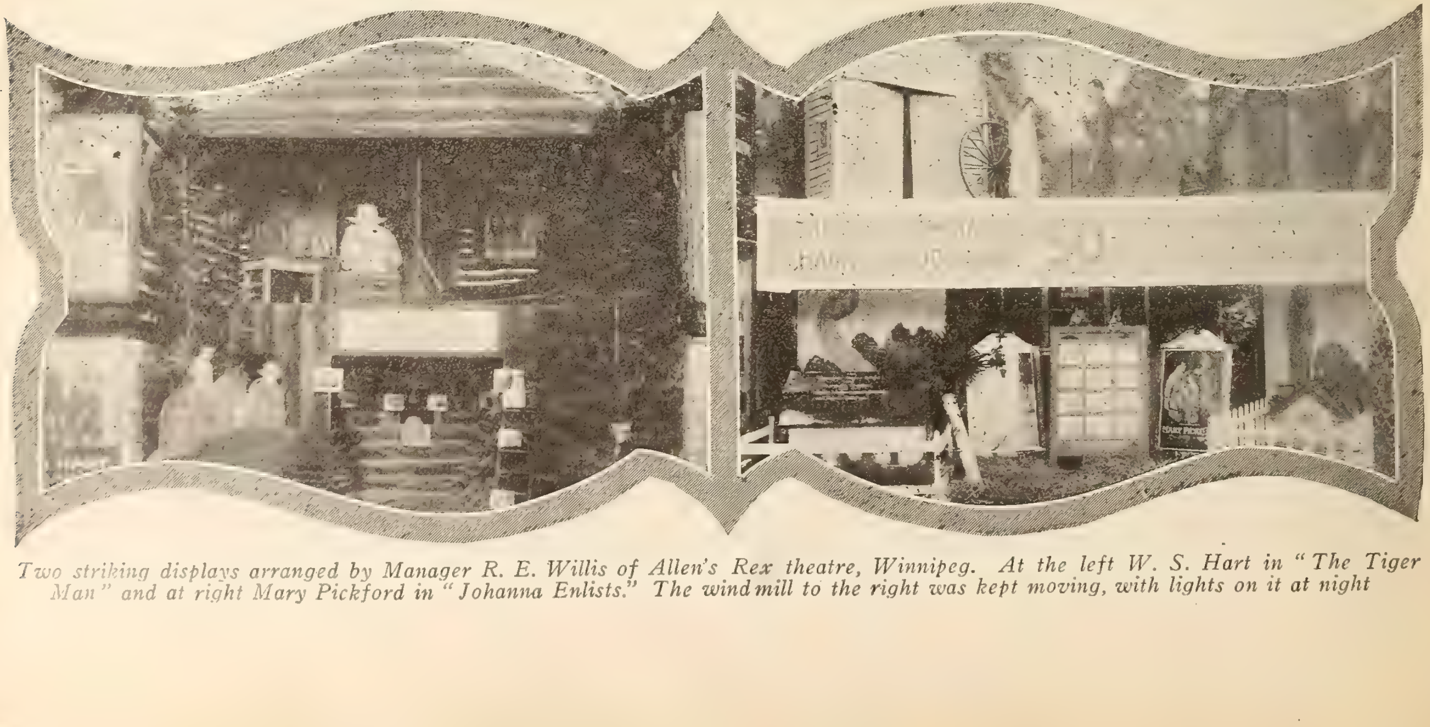
"Squared," the last comedy which Sydney Drew made with his wife, follows. At the screening "Chanson du Printemps" is played following through with "After Glow." Then with the title "Polly's sudden interest" there is a change to "To Thee" and with the scene where they leave the restaurant to "Seranata" followed through with "Lovelight." At the title "The months flew by" "At Sunset" is introduced and with that evening comes "A Vineyard Idyll" while the next day calls out "Cherry Blossoms." When the soldier is seen leaving the change is to "Vineyard Idyll" and then as the boss calls to "Admiration" and then as he goes to her "Vineyard Idyll" a third time with "Here They Come" as she opens the window.

Goldwyn Adopts New Style of Exhibitor Press Book

Goldwyn has just adopted a new style of press book that is bound to attract the attention of exhibitors who give real attention to the exploitation of the pictures that they play. Tom Moore in "The City of Comrades" is the subject of the initial effort.

This booklet consists of sixteen pages and not only illustrates all of the ready made advertising paper, etc., but includes full sets of press notices and suggestions for lobby display and unique lines of exploitations. If the exhibitor will consult such press books as this before he orders his material from the exchange he can be absolutely sure of what he is getting and have planned out in advance the uses that he is going to make of the material.

An effort is being made in these press books to adopt some specific selling line for this picture. For instance, in the case of the Tom Moore production the slogan that was used during the recent Salvation Army campaign was adopted—"A man may be down—but he is never out."



Two striking displays arranged by Manager R. E. Willis of Allen's Rex theatre, Winnipeg. At the left W. S. Hart in "The Tiger Man" and at right Mary Pickford in "Johanna Enlists." The wind mill to the right was kept moving, with lights on it at night

Live News from the Producers

Daring Serial Queen to Produce Own Pictures

Helen Holmes, "railroad" heroine and star in scores of pictures in which she endangered life and limb, has been engaged to film a serial of fifteen episodes of two reels each. The S-L-K Serial Corporation has been formed as an outgrowth of this project.

During the past five years Miss Holmes has acquired a reputation as one of the most daring serial actresses in the field. Beginning her screen career with Keystone more than five years ago, her work attracted the attention of the Kalem organization, then one of the important factors in the field. With this organization Miss Holmes appeared in the first raliroad serial ever filmed, entitled "The Hazards of Helen." The immense popularity achieved by her in this production was responsible for the issuance of two other railroad serials, namely, "The Girl in the Game" and "The Railroad Raiders," in both of which she starred. Her latest appearances have been in "The Lass of the Lumberland" and "The Lost Express."

The S-L-K Serial Company plans to present Miss Holmes in the biggest and most elaborate screen serial yet produced, combined with an exploitation campaign designed to make her the best known star of the serial world. Work will be started on the initial episode within the next two weeks, at which time the name of the story, the author, director and supporting cast will be announced.

Vitagraph Comedy Said to Be Out of Ordinary

There is claimed to be a real plot to "His Home Sweet Home," Larry Semon's latest comedy, which is about to be released by Vitagraph. Usually such a statement carries with it the imputation that the comedy is subordinated to a logical development of the story—and comedies, of course, are not supposed to be logical. This is not the case with "His Home Sweet Home"; it is said to be one of those exceptional offerings which appeal to reason and risibility at the same time. Furthermore, its casting from a caricature standpoint is declared to be perfect.

Select Appoints Whitaker Eastern Representative

Select Pictures Corporation has appointed V. P. Whitaker, formerly manager of Select's Washington exchange, eastern representative.

Manager Whitaker has had charge of Select's Washington Branch continuously from the early days of the Select organization.

Jurist Endorses "Third Degree"

Chicago Judge Declares Vita's Production Is Most Realistic—Big Bookings of Subject on Western Coast

An endorsement from a source that bears weight has been received on "The Third Degree," by Vitagraph, in the form of a letter from Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal Court of Chicago. The jurist, after viewing the Vitagraph picture, wrote:

"Through Mr. Holah I was invited to see the moving picture called 'The Third Degree.' It is a realistic representation of methods sometimes unfortunately employed by police officers to extort confessions from prisoners in their charge. Where the prisoner is put in fear of bodily harm, he is apt to say things against himself which are not true on the theory that he is thereby pleasing his interrogators, who will on that account desist from abusing and persecuting him.

"'The Third Degree' is an interesting exhibit and should be a warning to police officers not to extort confessions."

The endorsement of high court and police officials throughout the country is having a marked effect on the already record-breaking attendance at performances of 'The Third Degree.'

Out on the Pacific Coast, where a full quota of prints has now arrived, 'The Third Degree," is reported to have a vogue second to no recent film of feature proportions. It is being shown for extended runs in such theatres as the Tivoli, the St. Francis and the Portola in San Francisco; at the Kinema and other theatres in Los Angeles and is covering California generally through the medium of the Turner and Dehnken houses. Its western showings have penetrated to Seattle and Portland on the north and San Diego on the south. In Seattle it is on view at the Liberty theatre and in Portland it is seen at the People's theatre.

Other new bookings of the week were the Metropolitan in Washington, D. C., the Victoria in Rochester and the Empire in Portland, Me.

Additional ones are expected.

Jans Enters Ranks of World Rights Buyers

"We are now in the market to buy negatives and entire world rights on any good screen production," declared F. E. Backer, general sales manager for Jans Productions, Inc., 729 Seventh avenue, New York City.

"Mr. Jans determined to take this step some time ago, and our plans were made accordingly. Any completed motion picture of special calibre will be bought outright and we will pay spot cash for the right productions. This brings into the motion picture industry another open door for the ambitious independent producers and directors.

"The former days where a producer had to wait so long for his money while the territories were being slowly disposed of are now dead and gone, forever we believe," continued Mr. Backer. "We encourage the making of real high class film productions by offering spot cash for the entire world's rights and the better the picture the better the price we shall be only too glad to pay.

"H. F. Jans knows his business thoroughly from the ground up. He is at present not only the holder of the franchise which permits him to distribute exclusively for Metro, Nazimova and Rolfe in the entire state of New Jersey, but he has also paid for the New Jersey rights for other big special motion picture productions such as "The Unpardonable Sin," "Stolen Orders," "Hearts of Men," etc.

"The enormous success attending his recent purchases for the United States rights on the Tom Mix single reelers from Selig, and the ninety-two single-reel Ham and Bud comedies from Kalem, finally decided Mr. Jans that he could make just as signal a success as a cash buyer for the entire world's rights on any of the good pictures. And the faster they come, the better H. F. Jans will be pleased.

"There are still a few territories open in the United States for the single-reelers starring Mix, and also several choice territories yet to be sold on the single-reel Ham and Bud comedies."

All Elements for Success in Marion Davies' Play

"April Folly," Marion Davies' latest starring vehicle now in process of filming at the Biograph studio has a scene showing the beautiful star seated in a Pullman car quite surrounded by bags, hat boxes, things in shawl-straps, all the paraphernalia of traveling, and looking not at all like an accident but like something very pleasant going on.

"April Folly," adapted for the screen by Adrian Johnson and Robert Leonard from Cynthia Stockley's popular novel, is said to abound in thrills, surprises and all the elements needed to make a successful film play. Miss Davies has been cast in the role of "April," the young girl who goes forth in search of adventure and finds it in unexpected ways.

Taking Motion Pictures to Our Boys in Germany

Star and Producer Collaborate on Feature

HOBART HENLEY and Mrs. Sidney Drew have collaborated to best advantage in the comedienne's latest picture, "The Gay Old Dog," now nearing completion, and the result is said to present a feature of artistry and thorough entertainment.

The possibilities of the thought and the human expressions of emotion incorporated by Edna Ferber in her story, "The Gay Old Dog," were brought to the attention of Mr. Henley by Mrs. Sidney Drew, who saw in this human interest story not a "movie," not a sensational dramatic exposé, but a story of every-day life of the home, of the people.

Mrs. Drew is one of the five ingredients that stand for Hobart Henley's first production to be released by Frank G. Hall. Mr. Henley is of course another and his record as a director-producer is too well known to the motion picture public to call for special mention here. Edna Ferber, the author of "The Gay Old Dog," who will be remembered for her work, "Our Mrs. McChestney," produced on both stage and screen, with Ethel Barrymore as the star of both productions, is another ingredient. The cast which Mr. Henley has selected, headed by John Cumberland, who was the hit of "Fair and Warmer," and is now one of the principals in "Up in Mabel's Room," and an actor conceded to be in the top-notch class, is another. In his support Mr. Cumberland has Corrine Barker, Inez Marcel, Emily Lorraine, Mary J. Chambers and Gertrude Robinson—all distinct types and artists of ability. Last but not least is the character of the story—its human touches, is naturalness.

In announcing that Mrs. Sidney Drew collaborated with him and made the adaptation for his first production, Mr. Henley said: "Because the story is human and because Mrs. Drew in her work of giving to the screen its most human and refined comedies has proved that she knows a human story and how to bring out the human touches in a way that means most to the picture public."

Filming the Third of Charles Klein's Plays

A CONTINGENT of Vitagraph stock players headed by Harry T. Morey has begun work on "The Gamblers," the third of a cycle of Charles Klein's stage plays to be screened by Vitagraph.

"The Gamblers" was accounted one of Charles Klein's biggest money makers. It opened its original run at the Maxine Elliott theatre on October 31, 1910, and continued there until May 1, 1911, completing a purely New York City engagement of approximately seven months. Runs of almost equal length were scored in Chicago, Boston and other cities of the metropolitan status.

In addition to the handling of the plot, an element in the success scored by "The Gamblers" was its superb casting. Every character role was made to count to the utmost. Paul Scardon, who is directing "The Gamblers," was fully conversant with this factor, and therefore went to especial pains in selecting the cast which is to perpetuate "The Gamblers" on the screens.

Harry T. Morey naturally was chosen for the role interpreted on the stage by George Nash, that of Wilbur Emerson. It is a typical Morey role. The pivotal feminine role, that of Catherine Darwin, which furthered Jane Cowl's claim to stardom, will be interpreted by Helen Ferguson.

Miss Ferguson began her screen career with Essanay in Chicago and more recently was seen in a leading role in J. Stuart "Blackton's "Safe for Democracy," and has created a following.

Cutting of "Challenge of Chance" Is On

Harry Revier, who directed champion Jess Willard in the Continental Pictures Corporation seven-reel feature, "The Challenge of Chance," returned to New York from Los Angeles last week accompanied by Arline Pretty, leading woman for Willard; Al Hart, who played the heavy lead and gave the champ a battle that would do credit to a Dempsey, and an augmented technical staff. He brought with him two full negatives and three prints of the picture that is to put the heavyweight champion before the screen fans of the country as a film star.

Reports from the offices of the producers and promoters of the Willard production credit Mr. Revier with having accomplished a titanic task in completing the picture within a very short period of working time, declaring that the director worked night and day.

Since his arrival in New York, however, Mr. Revier is said to have exceeded even the record he established during the taking of the picture. He lost no time in getting to work on the cutting and titling of the production, hoving been forced to take approximately 40,000 feet of scenes.

The work of cutting, titling and tinting "The Challenge of Chance" is being done at the Crystal Film Co. Laboratories in the Bronx, and Mr. Revier has with him, in addition to the professional cutters. Roy Somerville, author of the story.

Old Metro Favorite Back Supporting Hamilton

Marguerite Snow, who occupies a place peculiar to herself in the list of Metro players, and who has not appeared under that corporation's banner for some time, is found again in support of Hale Hamilton.

Altogether, Mr. Hamilton will have a supporting cast of unusual strength in producing "In His Brother's Place," which he intends to make the best picture of his Metro career, having written the original story himself while completing his last picture called "Full of Pep."

Who will direct this production has not yet been announced, but Maxwell Karger, Metro's director general, is at the present time deciding this point and will without any great doubt turn the script over to Harry L. Franklin.

"The Perfect Lover" Thought an Ideal Title

If exhibitors are any judge of the box office value of a title, then "The Perfect Lover," Eugene O'Brien's first Selznick production, is one of the best titled films presented in many a day. Letters from exhibitors throughout the country in praise of the title given Eugene O'Brien's first vehicle have been pouring into the Selznick offices ever since the name of the production was first announced.

A tremendous advance interest in the production has been shown by many exhibitors who report that patrons who have been attracted by the title of "The Perfect Lover" have already begun to inquire.

Arthur S. Kane Heads New Corporation

Pioneer Film Man Announces Formation of Realart Pictures Corporation; Sensation Promised When Names of Players to Be Identified with Concern Are Announced

WITH Arthur S. Kane, one of the best known picture men in the business, at the helm, the newest producing and distributing company in the field, "Realart Pictures Corporation," opened for business the past week.

When Mr. Kane retired from the general management of Select five weeks ago, it was to perfect his plans for the new organization. No hint of the new move had been given the public, but to his friends Mr. Kane intimated an announcement of unusual interest would be made soon.

Big Stars to Be Announced

Realart Pictures Corporation, as may be gathered from talking with its sponsors, starts out with high ideals and ample capital. On the authority of its president it is being fortified with the best acting talent, photoplay material and producing direction that can be obtained at any price.

The new concern starts full-fledged as far as stars and attractions are concerned. It is stated that negotiations have proceeded so far with several of the largest artists of the screen that the formal signing, within the next few days, of contracts now being drawn on terms which have been fully agreed to will enable the announcement of their names. Various large special productions have been arranged for, but the time has been so short since the return of Mr. Kane from his vacation on Connecticut golf links that the necessary newspapers have not as yet been signed. When the names are given out it is promised they will create somewhat of a sensation.

Producers who have something unusual to offer exhibitors and the public will find in the Realart offices ready listeners, according to a statement issued by the new concern. It is the purpose and aim of the new company to offer an open avenue for the marketing of productions of merit. At all times it will be an open market for screen offerings from all sources. .

Exchanges in Principal Cities

Realart's selling plans include opening twenty exchanges in the principal cities of the United States. These exchanges will be started at once and are to be located in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Atlanta, Dallas, Kansas City, Omaha, Minneapolis, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle.

Mr. J. S. Woody and Mr. Ben F. Simpson left New York headquarters separately the last of this week to visit all of the above cities, engage managers, secure offices and open exchanges. One or the other will establish the office in each city named. It is planned to have most if not all of the exchanges going by the middle of July. Fast work will be staged to be all ready for the releases starting in September.

Capable Men at Helm

The new corporation begins business with an exceptionally strong staff. Practically every man in the profession knows the President, Arthur S. Kane, who organized it and whose ideas of production and distribution will dominate its policy. Mr. Kane was a pioneer in the moving picture business. It is worthy of note that he has always been identified with successful ventures, his own genius for organization work having been a major contributory factor in most of them.

Arthur Kane, Who This Week Makes an Important Announcement to the Industry

Mr. J. S. Woody will be General Sales Manager for Realart Pictures Corporation. He has a record for salesmanship of which he may well be proud. Back in 1912 Mr. Woody became associated with the General Film Company in a special capacity covering all territory west of Denver. He stayed with this concern until 1914 when the Mutual Film Corporation signed him to handle their Pacific Northwest District with general headquarters in Seattle. Two years later Woody was induced to come East and join forces with Triangle.

Ben F. Simpson, who has just resigned as San Francisco manager for Triangle Distributing Corporation for three and a half years to become Field Manager for Realart, will share the work of opening exchanges and installing managers with Mr. Woody.

John Pond Fritts is Director of Publicity for the new organization. Mr. Fritts was for many years associated with Mr Kane in newspaper work in the West.

A publicity campaign of magnitude has been decided upon and will be inaugurated at once. This campaign has for its objects the intrdouction of the company, its star and feature attraction to the exhibitor: and further, to co-operate with the theatres in bringing the company's productions to the attention of the public.

War Veterans Approve of "Secret Service"

Being particularly desirous that the Paramount-Artcraft Special, "Secret Service," should be perfect in historical detail before allowing it to be released as scheduled June 15, the executives of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation invited a number of Civil War veterans, officers of the Grand Army of the Republic, to see the picture at a private showing and offer criticisms. Accordingly, Matthew B. Brennan, commander Dahlgren-Powell Post, of New York City; H. J. Kearney, commander of the Veterans of Farragut's Fleet; William F. Kirchner, chairman of the Memorial Committee of the G. A. R.; James R. Silliman, president of the New York State Home for Soldiers and Sailors, and Captain Fritsch, who had acted as the committee's organizer, sat in the Famous Players-Lasky projection room one afternoon recently and watched with critical eyes the presentation of Hugh Ford's version of William Gillette's play, with Major Robert Warwick in the stellar role.

. Unanimous approval of the production was given by the war veterans.

Far East Is Sold for "Virtuous Men"

Sidney Garrett, president of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., reported during the past week additional sales in foreign countries for "Virtuous Men," the S-L production controlled by his organization in all territories exclusive of the United States and Canada. Mr. Garrett announced the disposition of the entire Far East for "Virtuous Men" to the International Photoplays Distributors, Inc. This sale embraces many different countries, among which are included Burma, India Burma, Ceylon, China, Dutch East Indies, Malay Straits, Philippine Islands and South Africa.

Five Principals in Bert Lytell's Latest

In his newest Metro vehicle, "Easy to Make Money," Bert Lytell has the smallest cast of principals ever engaged to support him since he has been starring in the Parrot Brand productions.

There are only six important roles in the entire original story written by Mr. John H. Blackwood, and one of them is Lytell's starring role of Jimmy Slocum, Jr., speedking and spendthrift, leaving but five leading characters in support.

A new leading woman is announced in the person of Gertrude Selby.

United Pictures' Prospectus Is Issued to Trade

THE prospectus of United Pictures Productions Corporation, organization of which company was announced lately, has now been issued. The corporation has been organized, the prospectus reads, for the purpose of supplying negative motion pictures to the United Picture Theatres of America. Its officers and directors are: J. A. Berst, president; Lee A. Ochs, vice-president; Milton M. Goldsmith, treasurer; C. R. Seelye, secretary; Herman Hertz, assistant treasurer; Mark M. Dintenfass, director; David P. Howells, director, with main offices at 1660 Broadway, New York City. The Corporation Trust Company, 37 Wall street, New York City, is the transfer agent of the new corporation.

The prospectus sets forth a specification of the organization and field of operation of United Picture Theatres of America, Inc., for which body United Picture Productions Corporation is to form a new and extensive source of picture product. The publication lists the stars of the old organization, which has enrolled, it points out, most of the big exhibitors of the country and which forms what is stated to be the biggest circuit of theatres in the country and constitutes one of the greatest power in the film industry.

Referring to the year's activity of United Picture Theatres of America, the prospectus states: "The total of the contracts which have been signed with the 2,573 theatres mentioned therein covers the cost of any picture to be released by the company, and consequently all new contracts which shall be signed from now on constitute a profit, and it is expected that the company will contract with a total of more than 4,000 theatres in the near future."

The contract between United Picture Productions Corporation and United Picture Theatres Co. is for a period of 25 years.

Return Dates Advocated by World Official

ONE of the biggest problems that confront the exhibitor is whether or not it would be profitable to repeat a booking on a picture that has pulled the crowds and made good or where a picture has been shown and did not get business, but made a big hit, says George R. Meeker, general sales manager of World pictures.

"There are hundreds of exhibitors who failed to realize the worth of a picture when they booked it and failed to apply the proper method of exploitation. The consequence was a good picture, in every sense of the word, did not measure up to a box office winner.

"This same exhibitor after the day was over, while totaling his box office takings gave a minute or two to retrospection and decided that it was not the fault of the picture if it did not pull the crowds. That a dozen different things could have been done to boost it. The patrons who did see it were pleased. As they passed out through the lobby they had taken the time to stop and tell him how good it was. Afterwards, while sitting in his office, his day's work finished, he began to think what John Smith said and Mrs. Brown's comments on the feature, then the thought struck him that he had not played fair with his merchandise. He showed a lack of salesmanship in selling his offering. This line of reasoning led to serious thought on what he should have done.

"He reviewed the appeal of the picture, its subject matter, the star, the supporting company, the author and a hundred different things about the film that would lend to exploitation. His eyes began to open as he realized that he had missed a good bet. Then and there he resolved to play it again. The next time he showed it he cashed in. He knew what he had and made the most of it. There is not enough return bookings. Many exhibitors are like small children—they want new toys."

Virginia Pearson at Work on New Feature

WORK on the next Virginia Pearson production, "Impossible Catherine," to be presented by Louis Meyer, is in full swing in the Yonkers Studio. John B. O'Brien, the director general, and Frank S. Beresford, the author, have just returned from a location-seeking trip in the vicinity of Lake George, having covered the entire distance by automobile, so that no point of interest or beauty could escape their scrutiny. Many sites were secured as locations for the forthcoming production which is scheduled to show Miss Pearson at her best.

In the latter part of the story the action takes place in a logging camp and it was these locations Mr. O'Brien was principally concerned in procuring. Upon his arrival at the logging camp situated on the Schroon river, he learned that the last drive of the season was to take place on the two days following. He had counted on a drive of this sort as one of the scenic features of his story and was determined to obtain it in spite of all obstacles. He telephoned William B. Davidson and John H. Gilmour, the actors who were to play in these scenes, and they, together with Larry Williams and his camera staff, left immediately for the camp. Many excellent "shots" of the interesting event were obtained, as well as other unusual scenes.

Miss Pearson and other members of her supporting cast are now at Lake George, Monday. All the remaining exterior scenes will be taken there.

Virginia Pearson is cast in a role that gives full scope to her versatile personality, and as "Impossible Catherine," carries off highest honors. In every way the production promises to repeat the success won by its predecessor, "The Bishop's Emeralds."

June 8 was definitely decided on by Goldwyn as the release date of the next Pauline Frederick picture, "The Fear Woman."

Wyndham Standing, playing opposite Norma Talmadge in "By Right of Conquest"

Priceless India Set Is Used in "Sun-Up"

Gerald F. Bacon, Gerald F. Bacon Productions, now in the second week of production on the first of a series of eighteen specials for release by Frank G. Hall, has used as one of the "props" for a triple interior set, showing the library, drawing and reception room of an English home of wealth, a library set consisting of two candlesticks, inkstand, flower vase and two fruit jars, that was originally made for the Rajah of India by a religious fanatic who was put to death immediately after the completion of the work, which is said to have taken more than two years to do. The work is in platinum and gold and according to a prominent New York jeweler is of priceless value.

June Elvidge Picture Directed by Hamilton

Gilbert P. Hamilton has been engaged by World Pictures to direct June Elvidge in "The Tangled Romance," a five-reel feature adapted by Mr. Will C. Murphey and Philip Lonergan of this company's scenario department. A biographical sketch of Mr. Hamilton runs current with the history of the motion picture industry.

He has been employed by half dozen of the most prominent producing companies of this country. It is his hope and also that of the World company that his productions with the latter will have the merit that entitles him to a permanent position.

Expect to "Cash" on Fox Sunshine Comedies

The Exhibitors' Service Bureau of the Fox Film Corporation states that several exchange managers have written that exhibitors who are booking "The Lucky Thirteen" Fox Sunshine Comedies, declare they are going to cash in on the steady flow of comedy films into their theatres by advising the public of the attractions as a whole.

In line with these statements, Fox exchange managers have been in consultation with a large number of exhibitors and have urged them to devote more time and effort in their promotion of comedies such as "The Lucky Thirteen."

Bray Studio, Incorporated, Branches Out

Enlarged to a Million Dollar Corporation; Release from War Work Allows Processes to Be Turned to Use for Amusement Purposes; Bigger Releases

ENLARGEMENT of Bray Studios, Inc., to a million dollar corporation, is announced, together with the fact that a large program of activity is laid out, and that educational and industrial production will be entered on a large scale. Improved Greater Bray Pictographs will be issued.

The past year has found the Bray Studios largely given up to war activities, especially producing pictures for training military recruits. The patents of the corporation were placed at the disposal of the government, but may now be turned to entertainment purposes.

Better Productions

New and improved animated and big popular science subjects produced by the war time process, are announced. For this purpose the Bray organization is to have an enlarged staff. The Greater Bray Pictographs will be released to the trade in September under a new distribution arrangement.

Credit is given the Bray Studios for their share in helping win the war in an article in the Educational Film Magazine, written by Charles Frederick Carter. He wrote:

"Mr. Bray took at West Point a series of motion pictures as substitutes for text-books for the school of the soldier, the school of the squad, and the school of the company, the latter as large an assemblage as could be satisfactorily handled for educational purposes. It seemed a simple thing to put a soldier through the manual of arms or a squad through the evolutions of the organization on the screen, but it was not. Officers assigned to supervise the production soon found that mere photography would not suffice.

"Bray had to insert in the very heart of the more intricate evolutions a series of animated diagrams to elucidate the schemes. The military experts themselves could not do this, for it required a special branch of expert knowledge possessed only by the Bray organization. J. F. Leventhal, head of the Bray technical department, was commissioned a lieutenant, and, taking Mr. Max Fleischer, also of the Bray staff, with him, went to Fort Sill to take charge of this work.

"On the surface this series of educational films seemed to be of paramount importance for quick training, but events proved otherwise. At Fort Sill the really vital things in military science were reduced to animated drawings combined with some photographs of living models in a way to make plain points that were obscure. But why, it may be asked, if only technical engineering diagrams were required, could not military engineers do the work better than mere amateurs? Why call in the Bray Studios at all?

Marion Davies, star of "Getting Mary Married." Distributed by Select

"Military engineers had been drawing diagrams which had been printed in text-books for generations; but such diagrams have not been 100 per cent. effective. Students have puzzled over these highly technical text-books, so dull and so complicated that the compiler could scarcely understand them, and then have "flunked" on their examinations. But an animated drawing on the screen represents a vast advance over still, dead diagrams, for it is a shrewd application of psychology developed in the half-dozen years pictographs have been undergoing evolution. The making of animated drawings for educational purposes is as distinct and highly developed an art as modern military engineering is a science.

"Take so simple a thing as map-reading. Under military sharps, long on science but short on psychology, map-reading is far from simple. The great majority of recruits, suddenly transplanted from civil life, spent many hours in the classroom trying to learn map-reading and emerged at last with ideas more or less nebulous. Some can not read maps at all. But every man taught map-reading by the pictograph method mastered the subject thoroughly in a few minutes—mastered it so thoroughly that he could go right out in the field and apply his knowledge in actual practise.

"Results i nthe Army were so extraordinarily successful that the new method was demonstrated upon students at Columbia University in the presence of a number of prominent educators; and it worked as perfectly as it had in the Army. The students grasped the subject fully and at once.

"Here is the way it was done. To teach the reading of contour lines, the hardest lesson of all for the average man, Mr. Fleischer, with the aid of a sculptor, built a miniature clay mountain seven inches high, around which cords were laid to represent contour lines ten feet apart. A vertical semicircular arch on which a camera was mounted spanned the mountain. The first picture showed the mountain as seen from its base level, making clear the fact that the contour lines were parallel and equidistant, vertically. Then the camera slowly traversed the arch, showing the progressive changes in the appearance of the contour lines until it was vertical, looking straight down on the top of the mountain, which showed the contour lines as the eye sees them on the map. By the time the camera had completed its journey the students had learned that contour lines were far apart when the slope was gradual and close together where it was steep. No one who saw that animated diagram ever had any difficulties with contour lines thereafter."

Kraft Joins Universal's Publicity Staff

William Kraft, at one time associated with the staff of the New York Evening Mail, and who has had a wide newspaper experience, as well as magazine work, has joined the staff of the Universal home office publicity department. For some time Mr. Kraft has been writing the daily Anniversary Bulletin, which is being sent to the Universal salesmen during the anniversary month. Among his duties on the publicity staff Mr. Kraft will have charge of the publicity for the motion picture "fan" magazines.

New Select Manager

Select Pictures Corporation announces the appointment of Mr. J. U. McCormick to the executive control of Select's Washington branch, which position had been made vacant by the appointment of former Branch Manager V. P. Whitaker to the office of Eastern Representative in the Select organization. Branch Manager McCormick took charge Monday, June 9.

Trio of Stage Stars in Fischer's Production

Three artists of legitimate as well as screen renown head the cast in David G. Fischer's production, "Where Bonds Are Loosed." They are David G. Fischer, Dixie Lee and Arthur Behrans. "Where Bonds Are Loosed" is a big seven-reel production. Notwithstanding the fact that "Where Bonds Are Loosed" is said to be an unusually big special-production, it will be distributed through the state right market.

In this story from the novel by Grant Watson, the director, David G. Fisher, was given a chance to show his ability as a real artist. The photography is about the average and the locations were well chosen. Mr. Fisher is Director-Geenral.

That love is a thorny path with patches of real sunshine and velvet greensward along the route, is the big idea one derives from the new Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy, "When Love Is Blind," which was released May 11.

Depiction of Armenian Tortures Impresses

WITH every opportunity to pass judgment at first hand, members of the Detroit branch of the Armenian General Benevolent Union, an organization reaching practically every spot on the globe, has put its seal of approval on the First National Exhibitors' Circuit release, "Auction of Souls," featuring Aurora Mardiganian.

So eager are the Armenian residents of Detroit to view this production, which was shown for charity under the title of "Ravished Armenia" to $10 seats, that they have adopted resolutions expressing gratitude to the First National Exhibitors' Circuit for making its public screening possible. They have also planned an Armenian night at the Detroit theatre which will show "Auction of Souls" and seek to stir further interest in their native land.

Dr. G. K. Boyajian, of 41 Sibley street, Detroit, president of the Detroit branch of the vast Armenian organization, which is headed by H. E. Boghos Nubar Pasha, with headquarters at Cairo, Egypt, declares himself as feeling especially indebted to the First National Exhibitors' Circuit for the release of the picture.

"When the picture was shown in New York for charity," the physcian said, "we held a special meeting to discuss the possibility of subscribing sufficient funds to make its showing in the Middle West possible. In my opinion 'Auction of Souls,' from all reports I have received from those of my people who have seen it upon the screen, will do more to bring before the people of the United States the actual conditions in the Near East and the lethal yoke under which our people have struggled for centuries than years of propaganda, lectures and even a visit to the valleys of death and the deserts of frightfulness.

Director Geo. D. Baker Severs Metro Bonds

THE expected announcement that George D. Baker had severed his connection with Metro and embarked on a career as "free lance" director, was made public during the past week.

Mr. Baker made his decision to quit Metro after coming on to New York from Hollywood, Cal., recently. Broaching the subject to some of his friends, the news quickly spread along Film Row, and very soon the director was besieged with offers for his services, with very flattering financial inducements. Some of the largest producers sought to engage him. He finally affixed his signature to a contract to direct two famous stars of the stage and screen in a series of big picture productions. He will start work on these productions in the early fall.

George D. Baker has won an enviable reputation in the film industry. Several years ago he directed John Bunny, the Vitagraph comedian, since deceased. He also directed Edith Storey in his own drama, "Tarantula," and other pictures. Then he joined Metro, and his work with Nazimova in "Revelation," her first screen success, placed him at a bound in the front rank of American wielders of the megaphone.

Subsequently he directed Nazimova in "Toys of Fate," after which he went to Metro's West Coast studios in the capacity of chief of productions. While there such stars as Bert Lytell, Edith Storey, Viola Dana and May Allison came under his direct supervision, and one of them, Bert Lytell, achieved extraordinary recognition in two pictures, "The Spender" and "Faith," both of them personally supervised, from continuity to cutting, by Mr. Baker.

First Miller Special Released by F. G. Hall

CHARLES MILLER, Charles Miller Productions, Inc., announces as the title for the first of the series of four special productions to be released by Frank G. Hall, vice-president of the Miller company, "A Dangerous Affair," with Herbert Rawlinson, supported by Florence Billings, Stuart Holmes, Warren Cooke, Charles Stevenson, Vinton Friedley, Reginna Quinn and Ernest Torrence, in the leading role.

"A Dangerous Affair" is in six reels and Frank G. Hall announces that it will open at the Broadway theatre, Sunday, June 15, for an indefinite run. The release date for the country will follow. This is the first of the series of the Miller production coming under the banner of the Charles Miller Productions, Inc., Mr. Miller's own independent company, and it is the first to be released by Mr. Hall through his distributing branches, the Film Clearing House, Inc. It was personally directed by Mr. Miller, assisted by Albert Cowles, with Edward Earl as cameraman.

In this production, Mr. Miller believes that he has given to the screen a picture containing a full quota of entertaining value and an all-star cast.

The production presents four distinct features in the fight scenes which occur between the hero and the arch-villain and they are said to be carried out in all the realism of a hand-to-hand encounter in fistic battle. In one scene, Mr. Rawlinson shows his prowess in defending himself against a Japanese whose aggressive work presents the famed Japanese art of self-defense, Jiu-Jitsu, in all its Oriental cleverness.

Thrills in Second Episode of "Elmo the Mighty"

"Buried Alive" is the title of the second episode of Universal's serial, "Elmo, the Mighty." Elmo Lincoln, famous for his display of strength and courage as "Tarzan" in "Tarzan of the Apes" as well as other giant roles, such as in Griffith's "Intolerance" and the "Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin," exhibits in this serial feats that surpass all his former ones.

Frank Mayo, Kathryn Adams and J. Barney Sherry Form the Pleasant Trio in Universal's Offering, "A Little Brother of the Rich"

Fox Western Subject Is Highly Thought Of

Announcing completion of the filming of "Rough Riding Romance," the Tom Mix play which bore the working title, "The Romance of Cow Hollow," the Exhibitors Service Bureau of the Fox Film Corporation says:

"If real entertainment, humor, heart interest, lightning-like speed, terrific stunts and a most romantic story such as this cannot make money for exhibitors, no story can. Of course, western stories for the screen have contained all kinds of humor and dramatic episodes, but no other western picture has had such a happy combination of broad comedy, light humor, stunts, romance and heart interest as this latest Mix picture possesses."

How Do They Do It? See Screen Letter Box

Among the several novelties to be introduced in the Screen Letter Box, the new idea in short reels conceived by Morris Kashin and being produced by Jack Cohn, will be a series of scenes showing how a motion picture actress expresses the various emotions as well as the way in which different kinds of scenes are taken.

In the first release, in reply to a letter received from a theatre patron asking how actresses cry in the movies, a scene will be shown with director, player and cameraman depicting just how the whole thing is done.

The first release of The Screen Letter Box will be made within a few days.

Frudenfeld in New York

N. N. Frudenfeld, who recently quit theatrical ventures to form a company to handle feature photoplays, is in New York for the purpose of making purchases in the State rights market.

Mr. Frudenfeld's company will act as jobber between producer and exhibitor for Iowa and Nebraska.

Unrest of Times Shown in "The Volcano"

Two big events have reared their heads in the news of the nation within a fortnight to give added point and timeliness to the newly complete Harry Raver-Augustus Thomas four-star drama, "The Volcano," starring Leah Baird and directed by George Irving, for W. W. Hodkinson distribution.

Frank A. Vanderlip, one of the nation's greatest bankers, made a speech giving the gloomy but truthful conditions of the European nations with a forecast of the dangers that lay ahead of the American nation through the introduction of unrest.

A few days later the eastern half of the country rocked under bomb explosions simultaneously timed in a dozen of the larger cities and designed primarily to create a reign of terror in the nation.

"The Volcano" depicts scores of incidents paralleling actual happenings in this stirring period of social unrest.

Hall's Special Breaks Theatre Record

"The Other Man's Wife," Frank G. Hall's six-reel special, opened at the Park theatre, Columbus Circle, to a packed house. "The Other Man's Wife" features Stuart Holmes, supported by Ellen Cassidy.

Harry P. Diggs, manager of the Park, reports of the largest Sunday business ever recorded at the Park for a program of pictures. "The Other Man's Wife" will remain for an indefinite run.

Nazimova Film Purchases

In connection with the purchase by Sidney Garrett of the rights to all Nazimova films for France, Holland, Belgium, Spain, Portugal and Italy, it is announced that purchase was made from the Export and Import Film Company. Mr. Garrett acted for the Mundus Film Company in the territorial purchases recorded.

Montagu Love with Ellen Cassidy in "Through the Toils," a World Picture

"A Woman There Was" is Theda Bara's most recent William Fox production

Current Kinograms Show Interesting Topics

The current issue of Kinograms, although it contains nine features, includes one that should arouse interest among those who book this news weekly. It is designated in this issue as "The Sweetest Place in Ohio." It picturizes a bee farm at Medina, Ohio, known as the biggest honey plant in the world. This statement in itself does scant justice to the picture. What gives it unusual interest is the photographing of bees from this farm; the method of cultivation and the fact that these wonderful little insects command in the market as high as one hundred dollars each.

Another feature has to do with Lieutenant Locklear, the acrobatic aviator, who jumps while thousands of feet in the air from one plane to another and does other stunts of a combination of reckless bravery and athletic ability.

Pathe Not to Discontinue Billboard "Ads"

"Pathe does not intend to discontinue the use of billboards in advertising its pictures; on the contrary our projected advertising campaign on 'The Great Gamble,' our next serial, includes a larger billboard appropriation than any we have had in the past." This statement was given out by Paul Brunet, Vice-President and General Manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc. when an article published in a theatrical magazine on June 10th was called to his attention, purporting to inform that Pathe found billboard advertising too expensive.

"There is not an iota of truth in the entire story as printed," said Mr. Brunet. "If the publication in question had taken the trouble to ask for information concerning our attitude toward billboard advertising, that information would have been glady given them.

Territorial Sale of Special Frohman Release

The Frohman Amusement Corporation midst its many production activities is steadily closing out the few remaining territories on its latest six part special release, "Once to Every Man," and reports the disposition of the territory of Missouri and Kansas to Richards and Flynn, the First National franchise holders for Eastern Missouri, and the territory of Iowa and Nebraska to Messrs. Sheridan and Garland of Des Moines. Messrs. Richards and Flynn immediately played the production for a week at their Wonderland theatre in Kansas City, and report that it did more business than the special attractions that they played the preceding three weeks.

Messrs. Garland and Sheridan intend taking advantage of the rising interest in the world's championship fistic encounter to be staged at Toledo, Ohio, July 4th, with a special advertising campaign, this because of the fact that "Once To Every Man" contains what the critics have pronounced to be the most sensational prize fight ever screened, with every detail photographed with absolute fidelity to the real.

Think Hughes' Work Will Conquer Screen World

"The Cup of Fury," first picture to be made by the Eminent Authors for Goldwyn release, will, it is confidently expected, place Rupert Hughes, the author, in the same commanding position in the motion picture literary world, as he has heretofore held in the realm of letters.

The story has recently been published serially by the Red Book Magazine, and is now in book form. Anthony Paul Kelly is assisting in the adaptation.

Washington scenes will be taken where essential to the story of "The Cup of Fury," and then the cast and production will be completed at the Goldwyn studios at Culver City.

Scene from "The Little Boss," Vitagraph picture

Riley Clubs Stimulate Interest in Pictures

World Pictures, who are distributing "Little Orphant Annie," a five-reel feature from the poem of the same name by James Whitcomb Riley, is in receipt of a large number of letters from Riley Clubs throughout the country asking for information as to when this picture will be seen in their home towns and at what theatre. These letters in themselves indicate a splendid means of exploiting the local production of this picture and gives to the exhibitor a tie-up with his box office.

The fact that the Riley Clubs are composed of adults dissipates the impression that some exhibitors have that this is a picture whose greatest appeal is among children.

Great "Ad" Campaign for Pathe's New Serial

Pathe is planning one of the biggest billboard and newspaper advertising drives yet launched, on "The Great Gamble," the serial produced by Western Photoplays, Inc.

Officials of the producing company call the serial the "greatest stunt serial ever produced," and Miss Luther and Mr. Hutchinson, the leads, are said to imperil themselves many times in the taking.

Twenty-four sheet stands will be prominently displayed in and about every prominent city; slides and lobby displays which will attract attention will be other aids.

A preliminary showing of the serial will be given June 20, on the New York theatre Roof.

Triangle Announces Next

Ernest C. Joy, formerly Manager of Productions for Harry Warner at the Biograph studio, has just been engaged by Triangle as Production Manager for the next Taylor Holmes Special. C. T. Horan, the author of the comedy,

Wanda Hawley, in a Pioneer Production

Victor Kremer

Loaned Star Has Rejoined American Cast

J. Barney Sherry, the character actor, has returned to the American studios, following a flying trip to Los Angeles to appear in some scenes with Dustin Farnum. The latter was being delayed in pushing through one of his productions, pending Sherry's arrival to continue a performance he had begun. Through courtesy of the "Flying A," the Beau Brummel of character men had leave of absence to finish the job. Now he is once more appearing as "Philip Remington" in support of Margarita Fisher in "The Tiger Lily." This is a new American picture from a Joseph Franklin Poland story which George L. Cox is directing.

Successful Play with Alice Brady Closes

Alice Brady, stage celebrity, screen star and recent bride, closed her successful engagement in "Forever After" at the Playhouse, New York, on June 7.

Opening in Owen Davis' romance at the Central theatre on September 9th last Miss Brady played there for fifteen weeks and on December 23d moved to the Playhouse, where she has continued with substantial success one of the longest runs enjoyed by any attraction in a season remarkable for lengthy engagements.

Next season Miss Brady will appear in "Forever After" on tour. She will be seen in the Owen Davis play in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, and possibly others of the larger cities.

"Goldwynner" Converted

The De Luxe Catalogue Edition of the Goldwyn Goldwynner, the exhibitor house organ published semi-monthly by Goldwyn, is presented as an example of the art of "giving exhibitors what they want and need."

S-L President Makes a Wide Exploitation Tour

Arthur H. Sawyer of S-L Pictures has left on another special sales trip in behalf of "Virtuous Men," the initial production sponsored by himself and Herbert Lubin. Mr. Sawyer will cover the entire Southern territory during this trip, stopping at Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Richmond, Atlanta, New Orleans, reaching his furthest point south at Dallas, Texas. During his sales drive in behalf of "Virtuous Men" Mr. Sawyer will arrange for special openings of the E. K. Lincoln starring vehicle in the best first-run theatres in the various territories. This will be done in accordance with a prearranged plan of S-L Pictures, in order to prove through the box office the drawing power and entertainment value of "Virtuous Men" as a first-run production. The various state rights buyers will be specially invited to attend these openings in each city.

Pickford Draws Capacity Without Advertising

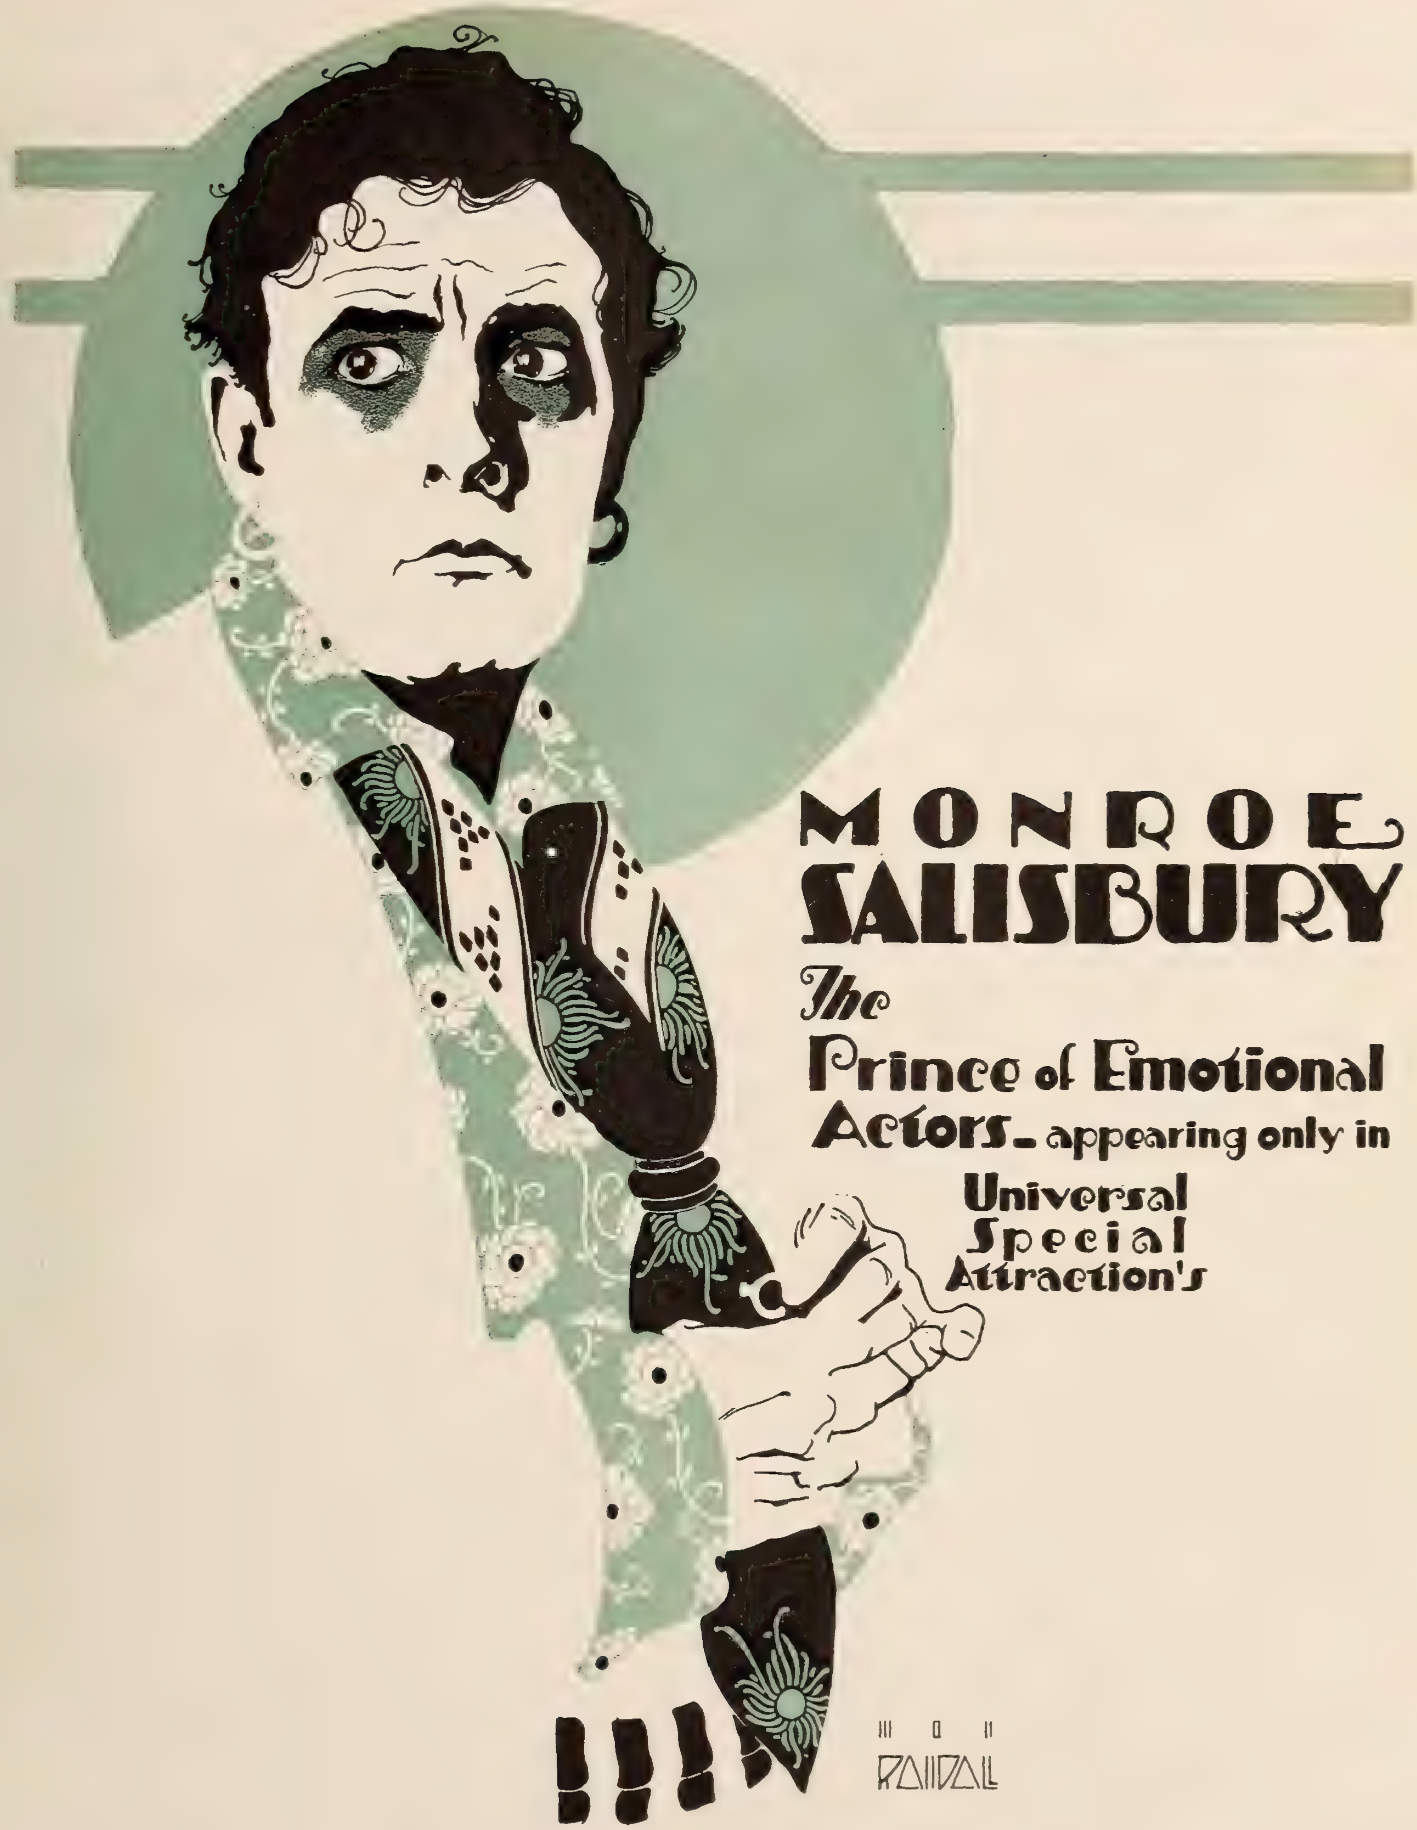
Minus even the semblance of a press sheet or any prepared advertising, Ray Andrews, manager of the Home Motion Picture Company of Muncie, Indiana, put over "Daddy Long Legs," latest Mary Pickford subject released by First National to capacity audiences for a week.

The advertising and press matter for the picture was tied up in the east because of an express strike at the time Mr. Andrews was scheduled to show it, but that fact apparently did not worry him in the least.

Knowing that with Marshall Neilan as director and Mary Pickford as the star, he was getting a production which was bound to be a winner, he just took life easy after the opening performances.

The result of the whole thing was that the box office records of the Star for a combination program of that kind were shattered all week.

Harry Revier, director of Jess Willard in his first motion picture



MONROE
SALISBURY
The Prince of Emotional
Actors – appearing only in Universal
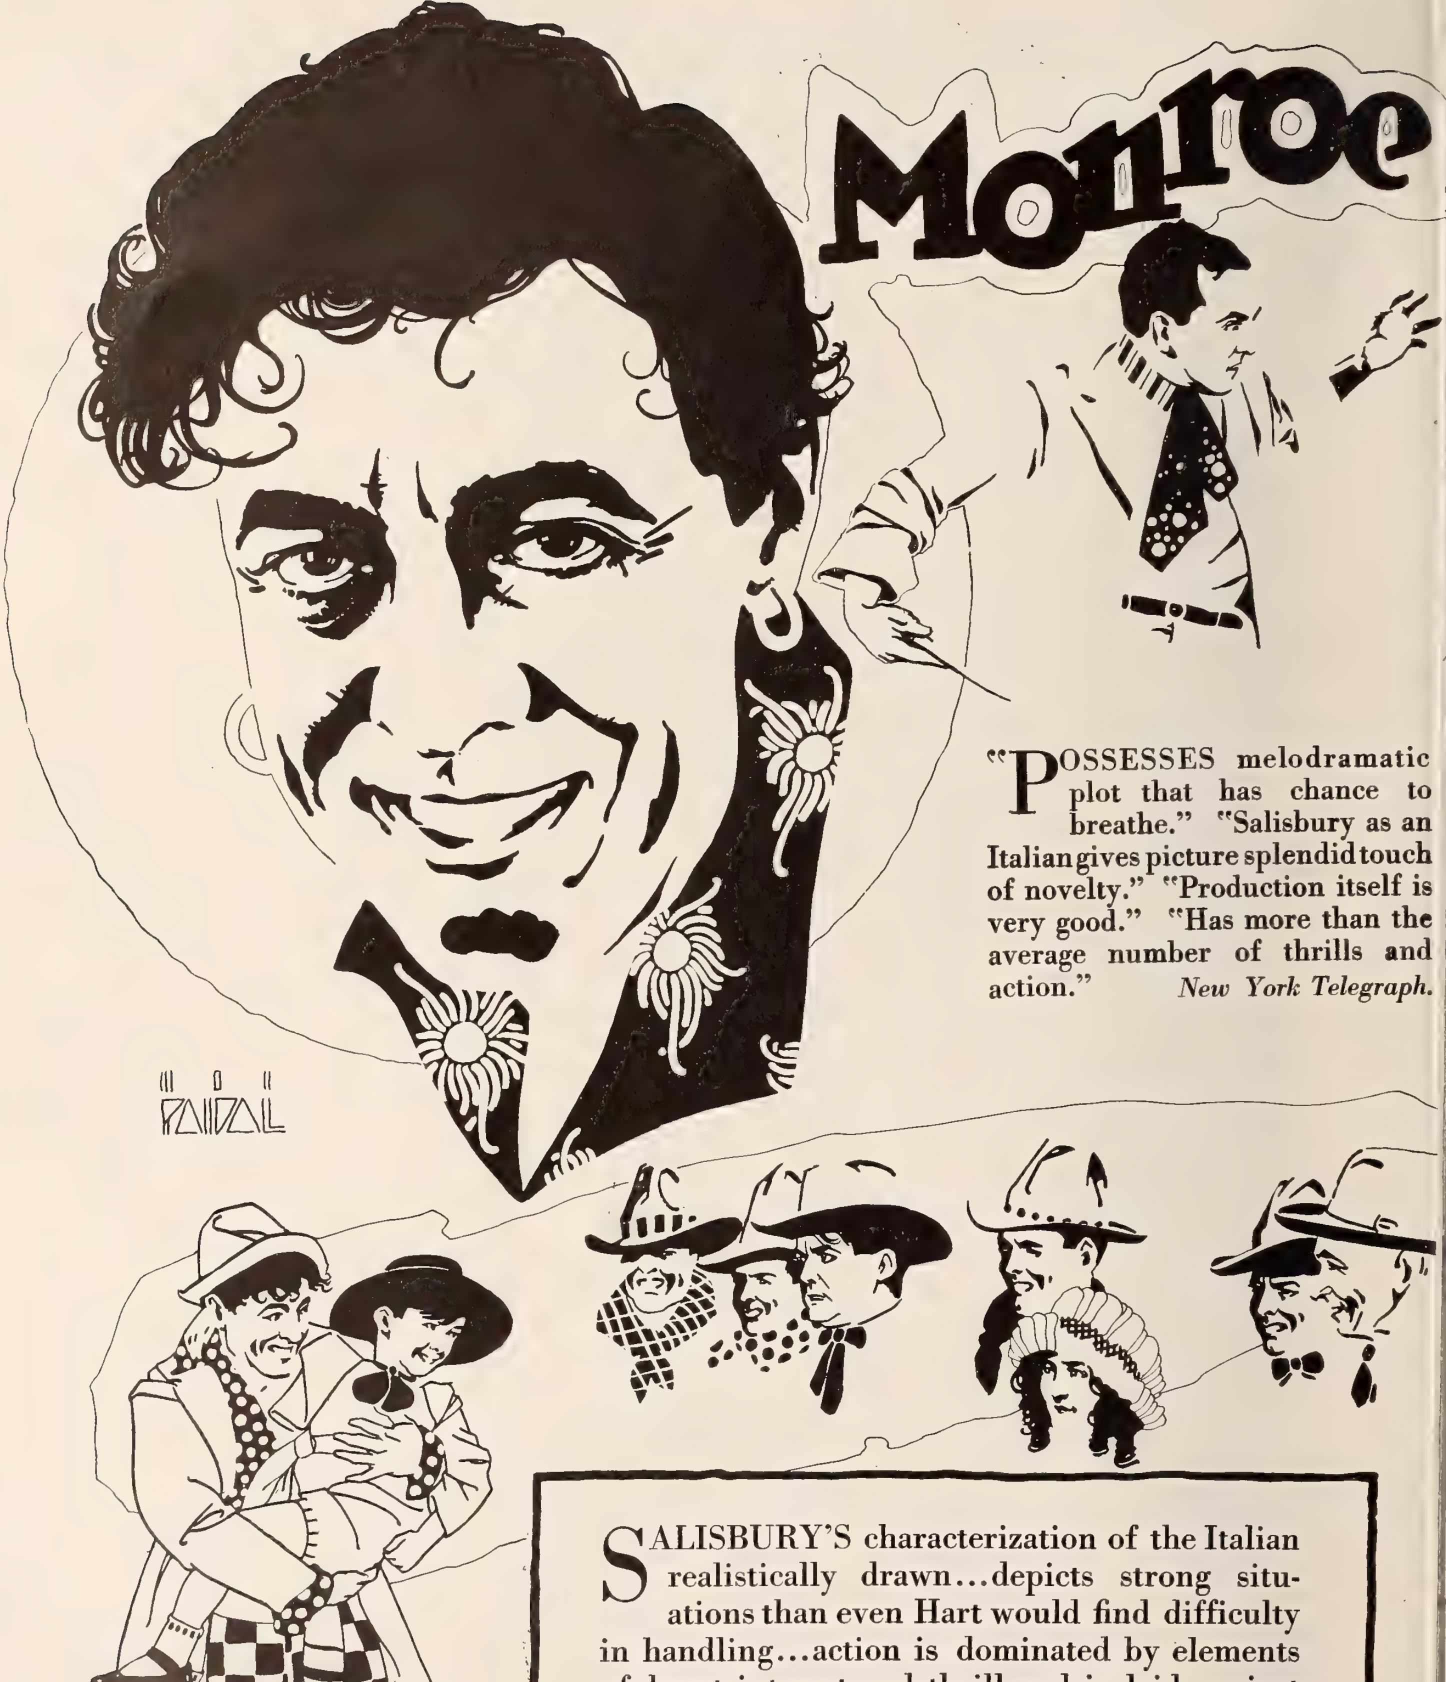
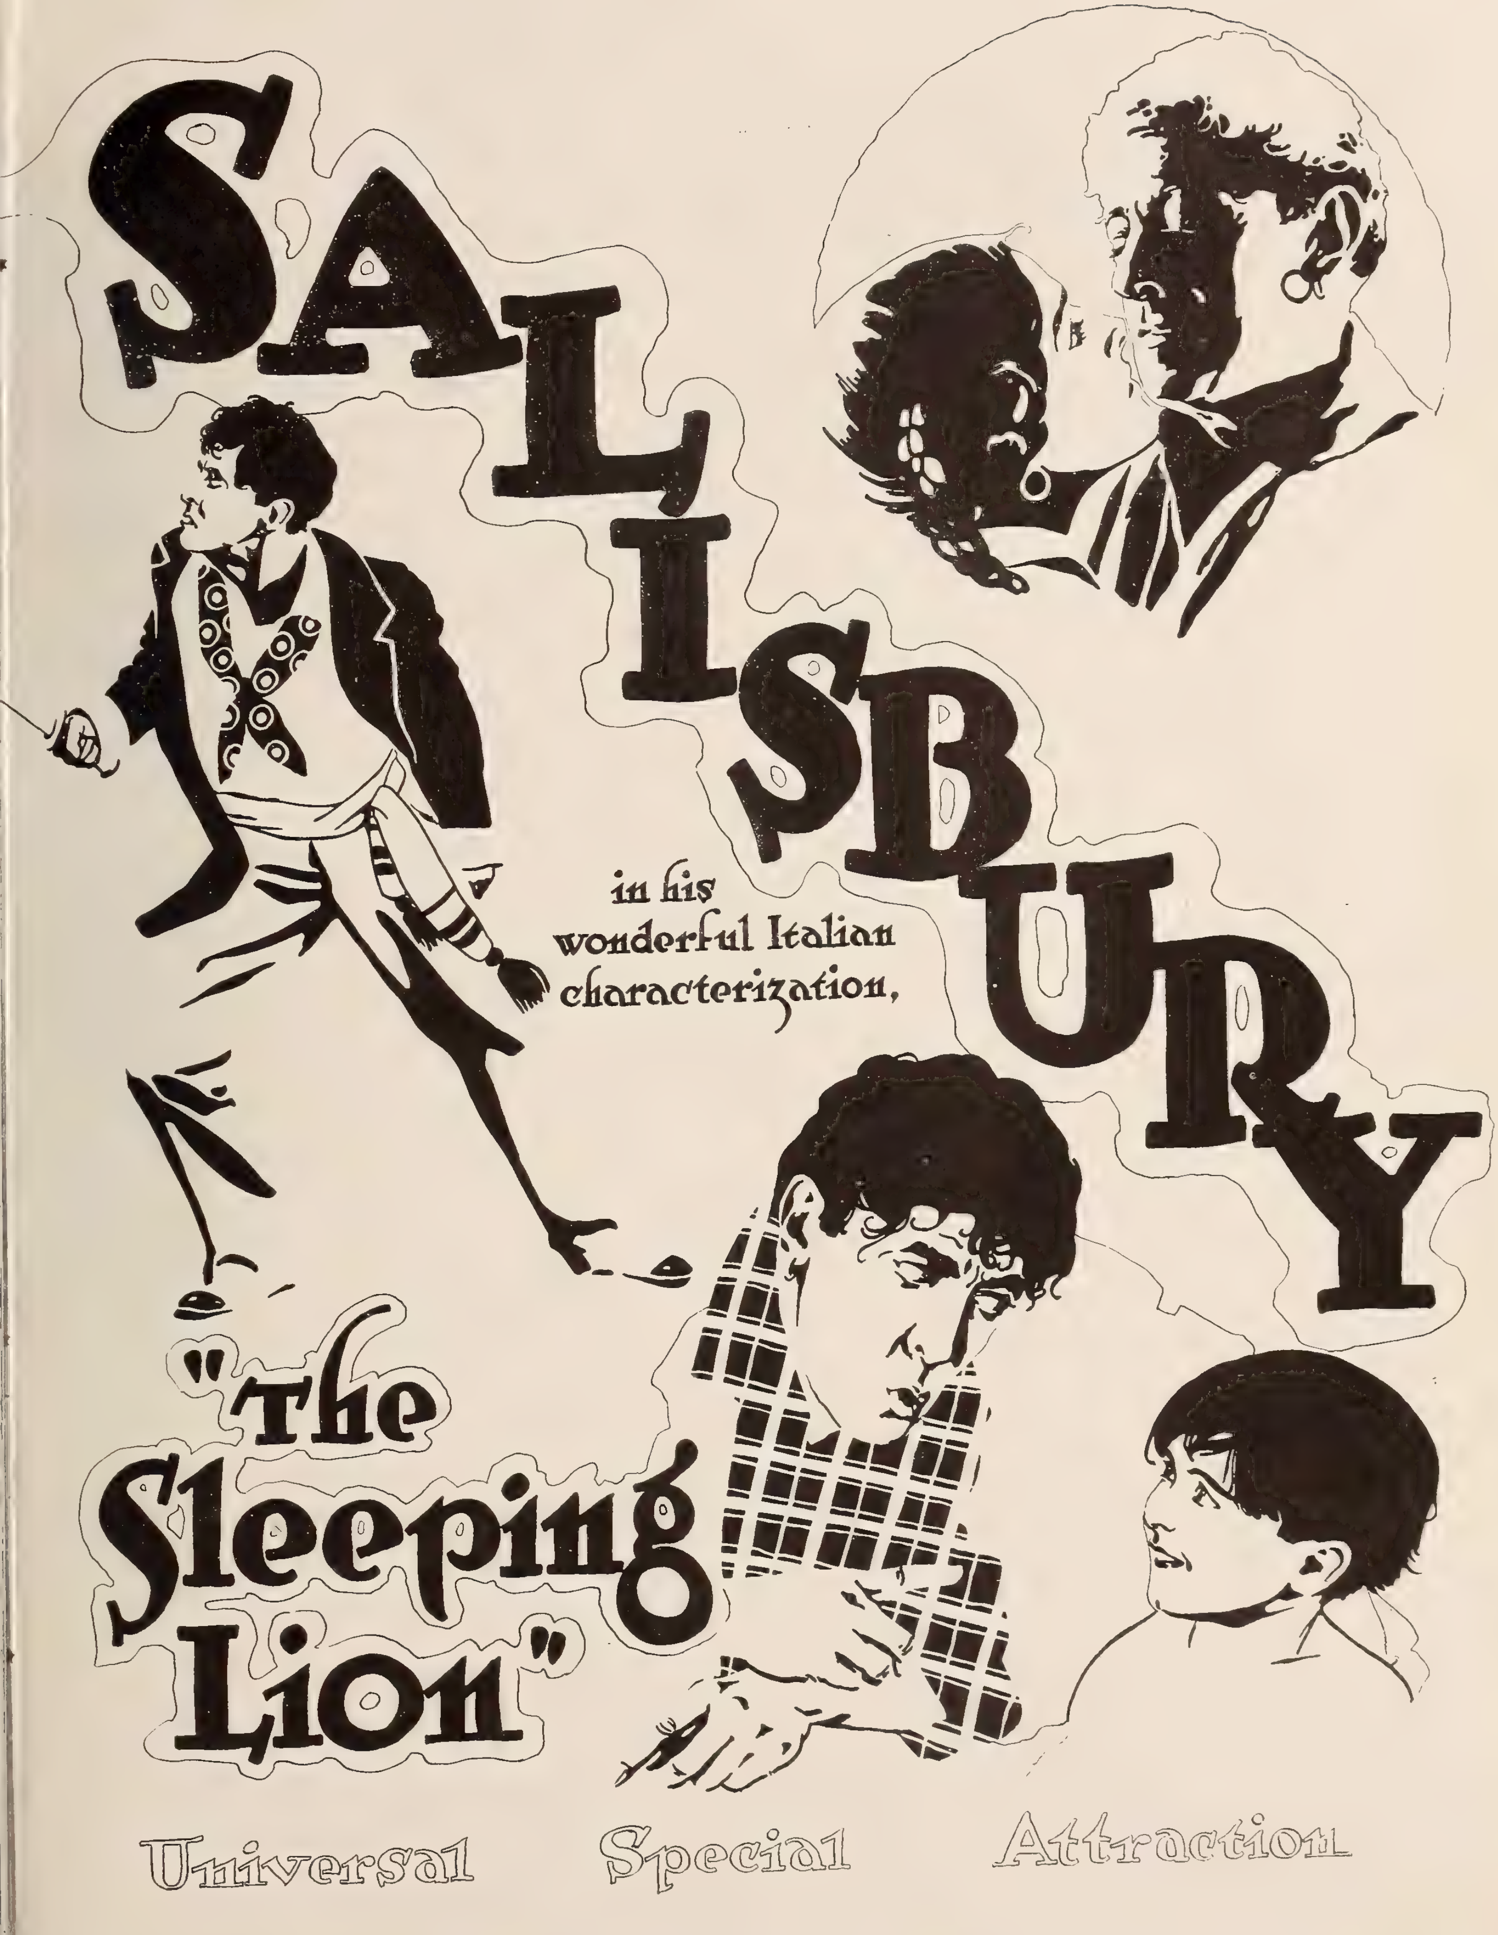
Special
Attraction's
RANDALL



"POSSESSES melodramatic plot that has chance to breathe." "Salisbury as an Italian gives picture splendid touch of novelty." "Production itself is very good." "Has more than the average number of thrills and action." New York Telegraph.

"SALISBURY'S characterization of the Italian realistically drawn...depicts strong situations than even Hart would find difficulty in handling...action is dominated by elements of heart interest and thrill and is laid against superb backgrounds that have not appeared in twenty other pictures."
Harrison in Motion Picture News.



SALISBURY
in his wonderful Italian characterization,
"The Sleeping Lion"
Universal Special Attraction

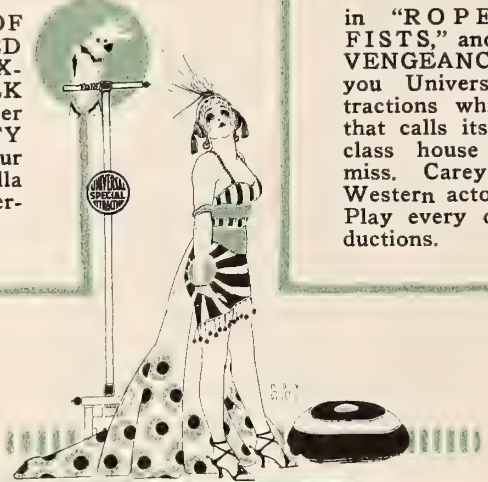
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

Priscilla Dean

in "THE WILDCAT OF PARIS," "THE WICKED DARLING," "THE EXQUISITE THIEF," "A SILK LINED BURGLAR" and her latest sensation, "PRETTY SMOOTH." Identify your house by announcing Priscilla Dean Productions, all Universal Special Attractions.

Harry Carey

in "ROPED," "BARE FISTS," and "RIDERS OF VENGEANCE" will give you Universal Special Attractions which no Theatre that calls itself a truly high class house can afford to miss. Carey is the greatest Western actor on the screen. Play every one of his productions.

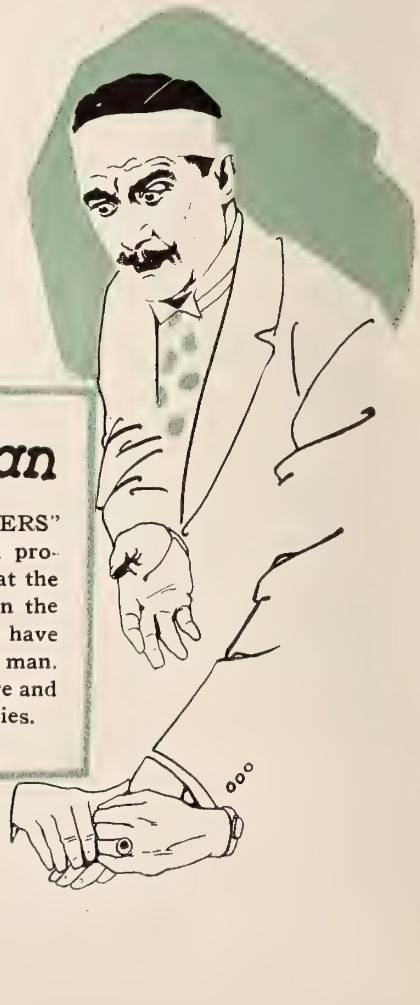


Mae Murray

in "WHAT AM I BID," "THE BIG LITTLE PERSON" and particularly in her greatest sensation, "THE DELICIOUS LITTLE DEVIL," will send your audiences away glowing with joy and satisfaction. You won't show a production that surpasses this latter Murray picture if you're in business for the next twenty years. Go see it, then play them all.

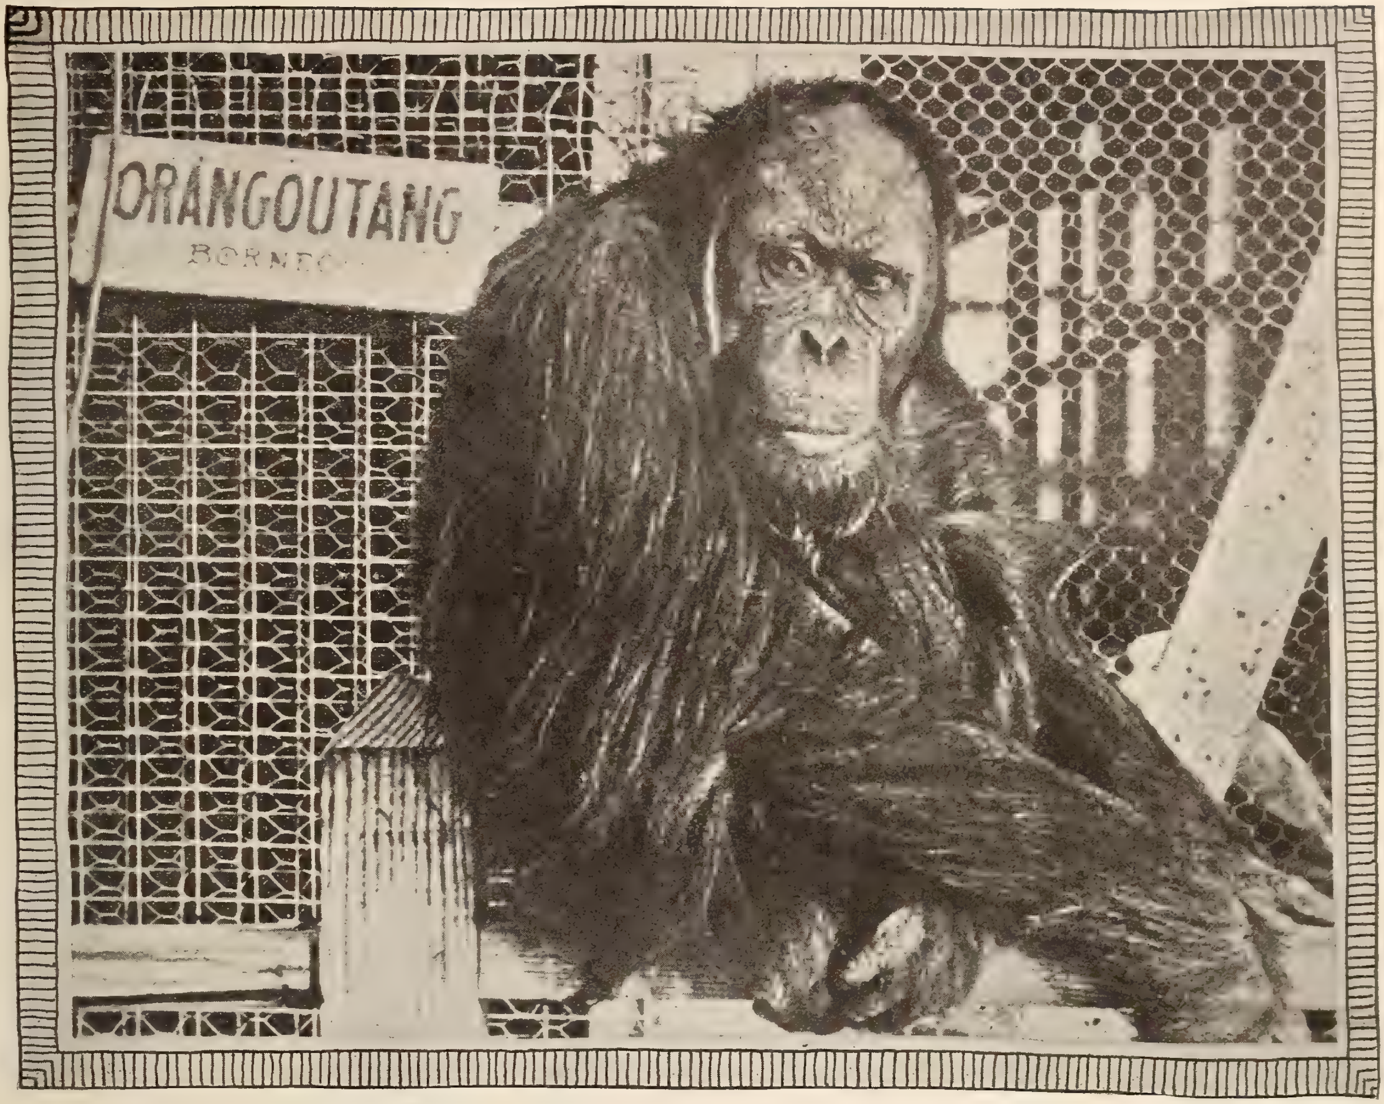
Mary MacLaren

in "THE AMAZING WIFE" (supported by that finished star Frank Mayo) and her big new picture success, "THE UNPAINTED WOMAN," will simply double her host of followers and friends. These are Universal Special Attractions that are truly SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS in every sense of the word.



Rupert Julian

in "THE FIRE FLINGERS" made so instantaneous and pronounced a hit in Chicago that the appreciations of the critics in the five biggest papers might all have been written by the same man. See this striking Julian picture and you'll see its great possibilities.



JOE MARTIN SOLILOQUIZES

Sore?

Of course I am.

Other actors are getting anywhere from a thousand to a million a week for a few minutes work a few days a few weeks a month.

They have secretaries and private dressing rooms. They get mash notes. They live on the fat of the land.

And here am I, a better actor, making millions of people laugh like fools. I work any time I'm wanted. I have no secretary. Nobody ever wrote me a mash note.

And what do I get for it? A hunk of meat and a piece of cheese if I'm lucky.

I have to sleep in a zoo with a lot of damn animals.

I'm the greatest screen star in the world but I'm treated like a regular dog.

Men who own moving picture theatres are getting rich by showing my stuff on the screens. But not one of them ever said a kind word to me. They write to the boss of the Universal and ask for more of my pictures, but what in hell good does that do me?

I'm neglected. I'm not half appreciated.

Sore?

You bet your head I'm sore. I've got a darned good notion to go out and kill a few helpless old women and then eat a whole plateful of worms.

Might.... Mystery perfectly de Takacs
UNIVE

. . . . Suspense blended in

"ELMO THE MIGHTY"

the UNIVERSAL Challenge Serial

featuring

ELMO LINCOLN

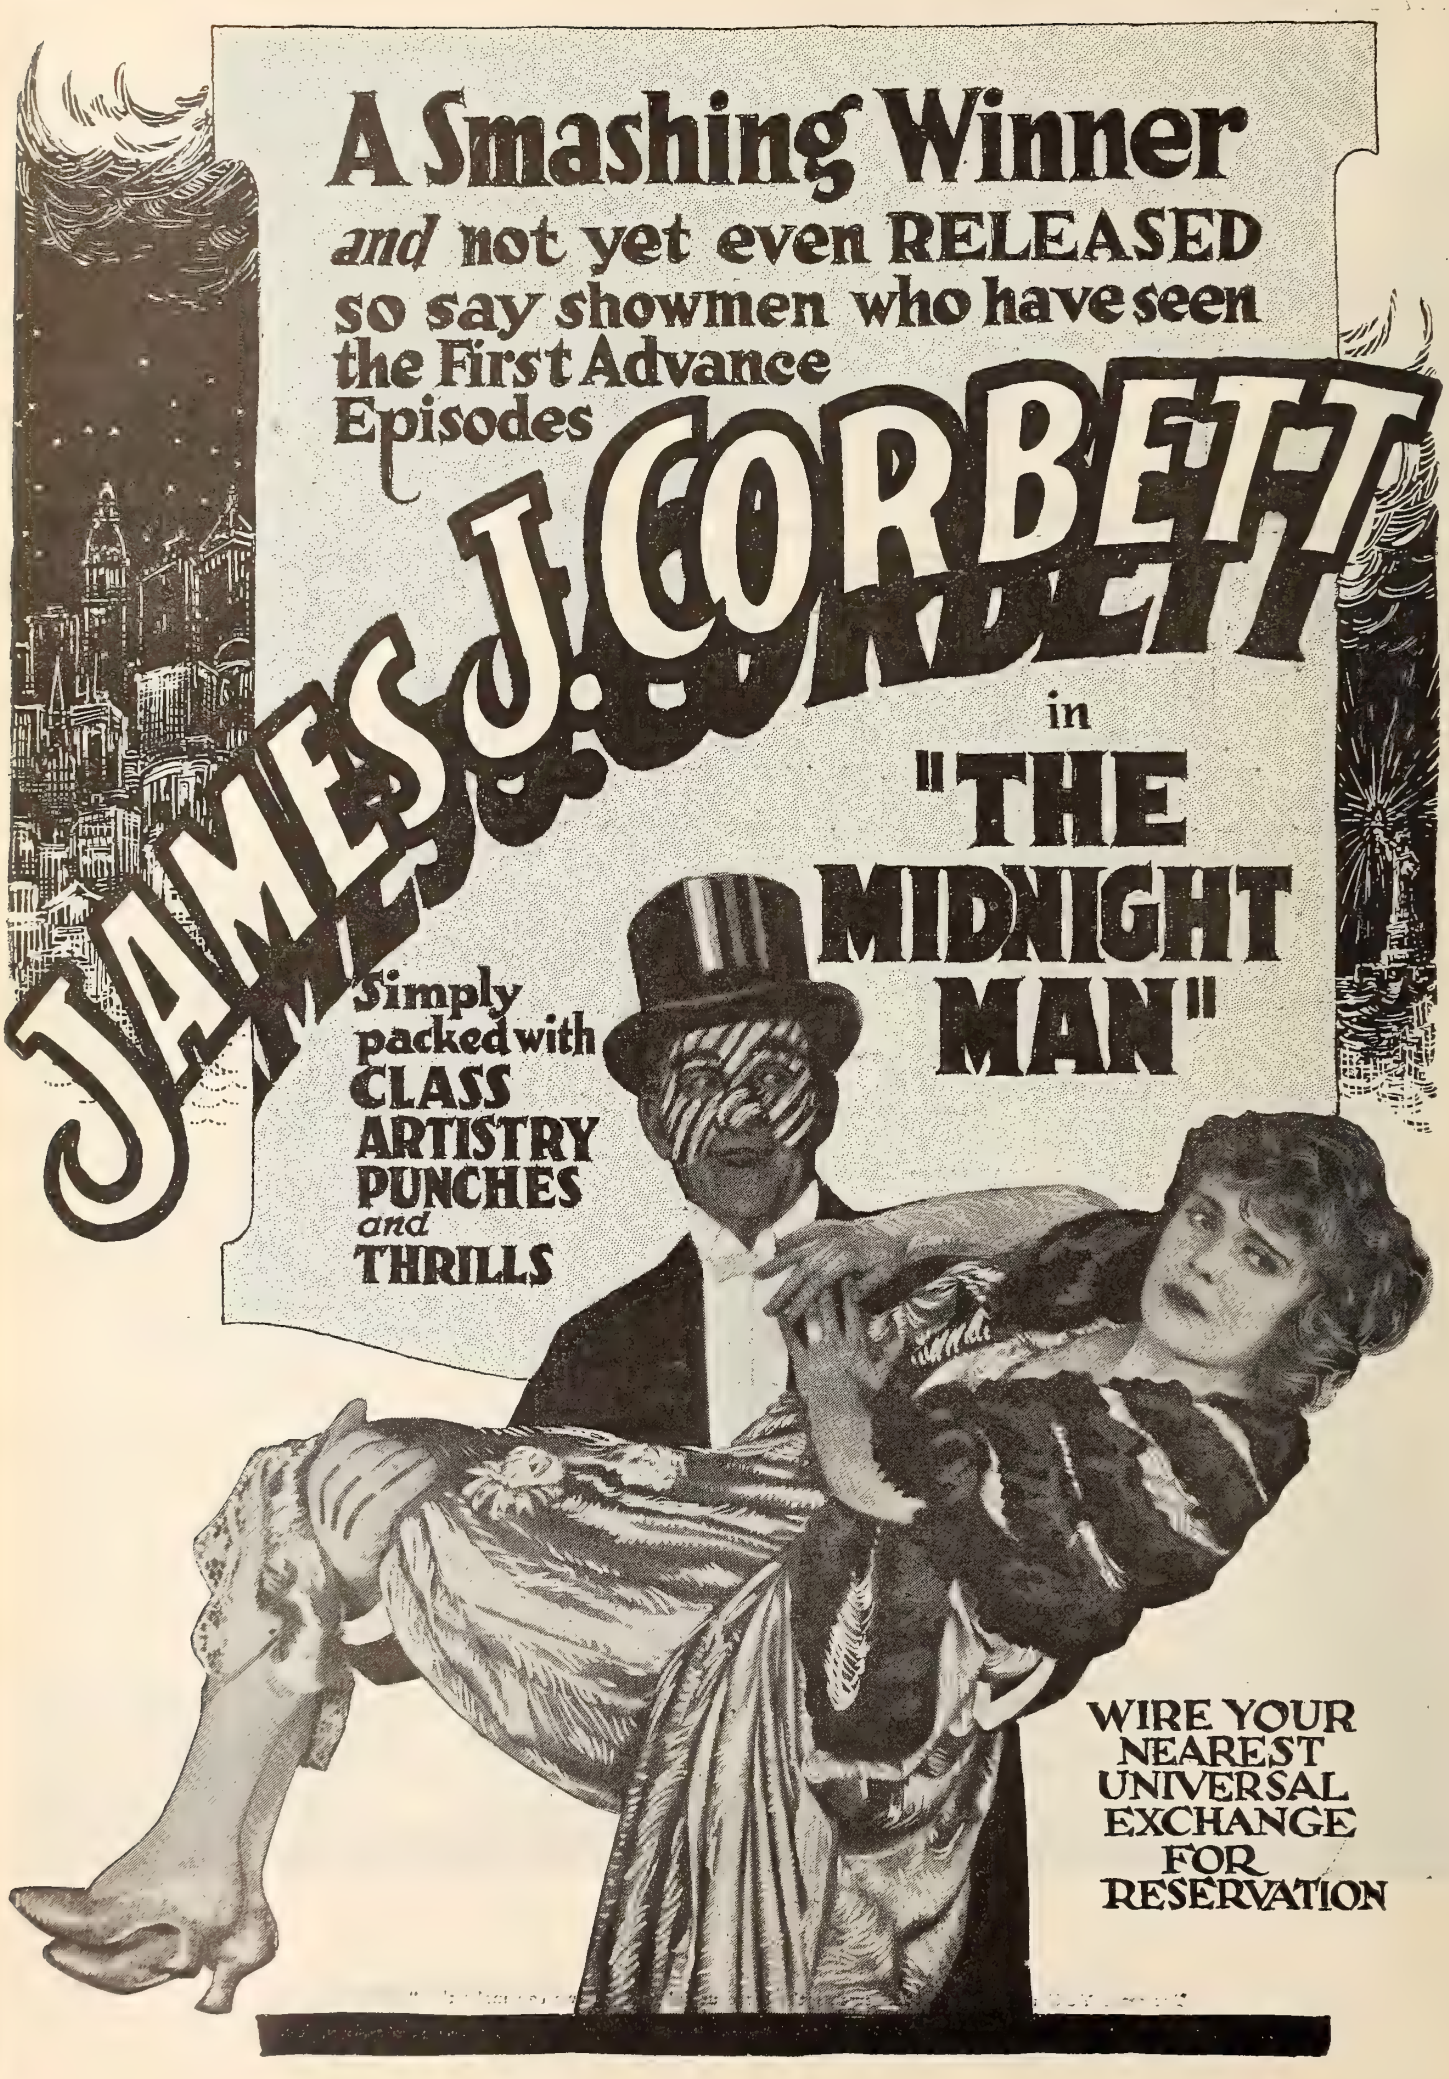
and Grace Cunard—

"ELMO THE MIGHTY," the latest Universal serial, comes to you packed with those pulling features that bring the public to every episode as regular as clockwork. It's just one punch after another, and that's the big point that gets the money for exhibitors in serials.

IF possible for you to review in person the first episodes of "ELMO THE MIGHTY," do so at your nearest Universal exchange—then you will know exactly how big a drawing card "ELMO THE MIGHTY" will be for you for 18 weeks. Also—get a copy of the big new Adv. campaign book. DO IT NOW.

UNIVERSAL FILM MN'FG. CO.
Largest Film Mn'fg. Co. in the Universe
CARL LAEMMLE, President
1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

RSAL



A Smashing Winner
and not yet even RELEASED
so say showmen who have seen
the First Advance
Episodes
JAMES J. CORBETT
in
"THE MIDNIGHT MAN"
Simply packed with CLASS
ARTISTRY PUNCHES
and
THRILLS
WIRE YOUR NEAREST UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE FOR RESERVATION

Special Service Section on

Priscilla Dean in “Pretty Smooth”

HERE you have a crook picture plus Priscilla Dean and exhibitors who have showed her offerings before know what that means? If you are going to show this one, you should by all means take the fullest advantage of the success that she has had in her last five offerings. In other words, the name of the star should be played to the limit.

In “Pretty Smooth” you have a title that is sure to attract attention in itself and which is suggestive of crooks and at the same time has a feminine flavor. We would advise that this also be played strong and that you get the larger part of the attention to the display either with half tones or large drawings, being sure that the personality of the star is very prominently brought out in the one that you use.

This is a story with a happy ending, resulting in the marriage of a burglar and a girl thief, but they both reform when they see the destiny to which their roads are leading them. However, do not worry your patrons by getting too strong on the reform element. There are a lot of people who shy at the “regeneration” stuff, thinking that they are going to have to burden their minds with problems. The emphasis should rather be put on the quick moving action and the thrills.

Here you have the name of an author that really means something. The story is by Bayard Veiler, noted playwright, who wrote “Within the Law” and “The Thirteenth Chair.” This should be mentioned incidentally in your advertising and you can get up a special newspaper story about the screen now attracting the most successful authors of the spoken drama.

By-the-way, there is a new line suggested for use with Miss Dean that is a very good one:

THESE Special Service Sections are written with the purpose of suggesting to exhibitors how to get the most out of pictures that they have booked. They are prepared after studying the pictures and the best way of exploiting them. Won’t you let us know any use that you made of suggestions printed here and the original ideas that you have used in putting over this picture?

“The dazzling meteor of the screen.”

THIS is the action: Gertie Jones, posing as a French maid is really a thief, known to the police as “The Chatterbox,” because of her habit of talking to herself. Her object is to steal the $40,000 necklace of the rich Mrs. Harper with whom she secures employment. She tries the trick of breaking the clasp as she pretends to fit the necklace on Mrs. Harper, who then orders it put in the safe. Susie does without locking it, but the dowager is careful and sees to it that the safe is locked. And then Gertie is “on the outside looking in at $40,000 worth of cracked ice,” as she tells herself. She tries in vain the trick of opening the safe by listening to the falling tumblers and then tries to drill it, only leaving marks on the safe.

This evidence, she fears, will trap her and so she proceeds to cover up, by first cutting a panel out of the glass door and then turning over furniture and finally calling the police. It is just after this has been done and we have the flash of the desk sergeant getting the message that a real burglar, Jimmy Hartigan, enters. Revolver in hand she watches him open the safe and then holds him up, forcing him to give up the jewels.

But here romance enters the game and it is a case of love at first sight. The girl quickly repents her act and wants Jimmy to flee, but he insists that she make her escape. When she refuses, he binds her and when the police come Jimmy is taken and the girl left behind. With Jimmy in the police hands she asks:

“For what did you do diz wiz me?” and he replies “Darned if I know, Frenchy.”

Jimmy gets a twenty-year term in San Quentin, but Gertie helps arrange his escape and after a year he is free and joins th girl. “We’re square now,” he tells her, but she answers: “Square nothing, I havn’t begun to pay you yet.” And so they go to New York where they are not known, to continue their careers in partnership.

But here they meet the Mansons who occupy an adjoining flat and the outgrowth of their friendship is that Jimmy invests the $30,000 yield of the necklace in a land deal. Then the appearance of Gertie’s sister suffering from tuberculosis which she has contracted in the penitentiary and the news of the death of her father in prison and a little later the discovery of a former king of burglars in their flat, now reduced to a common sneak thief argue eloquently with them for “going straight.” And so they decide to marry and go to a Jersey

Illustration at right is a striking one for newspaper advertising; at left, she has found happiness, and in center, the “staged” fight

Left, Gertie is foiled by her mistress; center, with her sister, and at right, one of the comedy scenes country place to live.

Then their troubles really start. The Mansons call with the news that the land deal has failed and that the money is lost. But the suspicions of Nellie, the sister are aroused and she follows them and hears the man say to the woman, "They ate it up." She quickly tells the sister and Gertie overtakes them in her auto and holds up the pair and gets the money back.

EVEN then all is not happiness. Two former friends of Jimmy fresh from the state prison and broke come seeking funds. It is while they are there that Kersey, the crack San Francisco detective, who has traced them come seeking the Hartigans, now living under the name of Hart. When he reaches the department these fellows frame up a deal of the detective in which they appear to try to kill him and Jimmy knocks one out while Gertie stops the other with a revolver, thus "saving Kersey's life."

Then when he learns that they are really "going straight" his gratitude for their act causes him to declare that he is looking for a couple named Hartigans and that he doesn't want the Harts.

And later down on the farm chickens are hatching, little piglets are appearing and as Susie observes significantly: "Everything is getting born around here."

WE would confine any of the crime element in the illustration of the advertising to scenes which show Prescilla Dean with a gun in her hand. Her magnetic appearance and the fact that the public generally knows the kind of pictures in which she appears will get more people to the theatre than if you left the impression that there was crime all through the film.

There is one of the stills that is especially suitable for those who design their own advertising. It shows Gertie as the maid with gun in her hand holding up Jimmy after he has opened the safe. There can be cut outs made of these two figures and arranged to suit the taste of the designer. As we have suggested we would use the name of the star in the largest type, followed by the line "the dazzling meteor of the screen" only incidentally played and then the title, following this in small type with the statement that this is by Bayard Veiler, author of "Within the Law" and "The Thirteenth Chair." And then go along with the selling argument.

WHILE these should not tell the story should leave the curiosity strong, they at the same time ought to convey the idea that there is a happy ending and that Priscilla Dean is not just an ordinary sort of a crook. This one about gets it:

"She was just about the smoothest little thing in the whole West. She pulled the jewel robberies and the police hadn't even seen her. And now here she was as a rich woman's maid and $40,000 worth of diamonds before her in the safe.

"Her fingers were clever, but she wasn't a burglar and she made such a mess of the job that she called the police and framed a story about a safe-cracker to tell them. But just at that moment there appeared a real burglar who got the gems—for just a moment.

"Pretty smooth of Gertie. She made him hand over the jewels, but then he surprised her by binding her just before the police entered. Then things began to happen—and all the more interesting for you because there entered an element that neither of the smooth crooks had dreamed of—love.

"And you won't blame anyone for falling in love with Gertie. You won't, because you'll be completely fascinated with her. It's Priscilla Dean at her very best and you know what that means."

WITH such a selling argument your patrons won't think that Gertie is such a bad sort of a girl. There is something in the psychology of picture exploitation that suggests living the straight life and happens in the end with the mere mention of the word "love." So let's go a little stronger with this one:

"Gertie wanted the diamond necklace in that safe. She had tried every way in the world to guess it, but the only result she achieved were marks of suspicion on the safe. Then a perfectly good burglar happened to come along and open the safe for her. He didn't know he was doing it for her, until he looked into the barrel of her trim gun and responded to the command to 'hand them over.'

"He wasn't especially afraid of the pistol, for he didn't think it would go off. It didn't, but he got a grievous wound. Yes, he was in love and between the thrilling experiences that he and she had you'll see some of it. But you'll never get that sigh that comes with the fulfillment of lovers' dreams until the end of the picture, though you'll be the gladder for it then."

IF you display the picture of Miss Dean prominently enough you don't need a very long selling argument here, though we would prefer one that gave the fuller idea of the film. Here are some of the shorter ones:

"Jimmy laughed at both love and locksmiths, but love got him in the end. It was a cinch for him to open safes and get away with the loot, but when little Gertie opened his heart, he didn't try to get away. She kept his love—just like Priscilla Dean will keep your eyes glued to the screen in this picture."

"There she stood before him, a pistol in her hands. He had just robbed the safe that held the $40,000 Harper necklace and she wanted it more than anything else. He didn't look at the pistol, but he looked into her eyes—and handed over the necklace. Then she looked again and saw something that she wanted more than the necklace. But the police were at the door—demanding one of them. Which did he get? And how did they find happiness?"

"Lot's of them are clever enough to swipe a watch from your pocket while you are admiring their beautiful smiles. But Gertie swiped the heart right away from the king of all the burglars right at the moment that he was on the biggest job. He went to prison for her—that's how much she cared. Then he came out to steal for her again—but he didn't. Why? Mainly the amazing Priscilla Dean, but be sure to see for yourself and enjoy her wonderful charm."

Left, the sneak thief is discovered; right, sister tells of plot, and center, the happy ending

Title Gives Chance for Some Unique "Teaser" Ads

THERE is an unusual chance for a teaser campaign with this picture by using small space in the newspapers before you have made any announcement of the picture, or on a series of slides for your screen. In this we would tend toward the humorous, and if you can introduce any local events without getting too personal the interest will be kept all the keener.

Inch and a half of space in the newspapers will be sufficient to put this over, using expressions along this line:

> Mr. A. M. simply refused to buy his wife a new gown. But Mrs. A. M. knew a few things herself, so she invited her mother to come and visit them until she got her check.
>
> PRETTY SMOOTH

Then try others along this line:

"Mr. B. knew that his wife was waiting for him with a rolling pin after the poker party last night, but he brought the dough home with him—"

"Old man Jones didn't know how to get his daughters married off until he fixed the gas jet so that when it was turned off the phonograph would begin to play 'When We Are Married'"—

"Bill Smith didn't know what to do with those hats he had left from last year's stock until he put them in the window with the 'nnouncements 'Suitable only for girls un- er twenty,' and now he hasn't one left—"

Dozens of these various "foolishments" will appeal to you and if the line "Pretty Smooth" is used after each of them they will make a good program feature for the week preceding the showing of the picture. "Topics of the Day," the "Sayings of Topplitsky" and others of the sort being shown on the New York theatre series get lots of laughs with similar stuff, but you can improve the effect here by making them advertise the coming show.

TO HER FRIENDS

Here's a Chance to Make the Appeal All the Closer

WE are distinctly opposed to faking where there is anything fraudulent or improper done and against appealing to the sensational, but here is a case where you can stretch the circumstances, though not the facts a little, and make the friends of Miss Dean all the stronger.

It is a fact that this wonderful star was recently so very ill from double pneumonia that her life was despaired of. But she has fully recovered and is back at work again. You doubtless have a lot of fans who are ardent admirers of this actress so why not direct a little note to them telling that this girl has recovered from her serious illness and inviting them to see her latest picture. As a matter of fact this production was finished before she became ill, but that need not be told.

WE would advise that the lobby display be made distinctly a Priscilla Dean one. If you have followed the advice that we have given you time after time in these Special Service Sections, and have preserved the pictures of Miss Dean as she has appeared in her various offerings you have as fine a display as you could well desire and almost everyone will stop to look them over. These should be arranged as cutouts with hand-drawn lines describing the scene and giving the name of the production. But if you have not started saving these, start now.

There can be striking cut-outs made from the six sheet and a couple of these are certain to attract attention. There is also a one sheet that shows her peering around a portiere and holding a necklace in her hand. These will be sufficient with the title of the picture properly displayed and we would stay away from the unusual stunt stuff in the lobby.

If you are able to get hold of a bunch of huge glass crystals there could be a good effect used by striking these across the lobby and then having the lights play on them so as to bring out the glitter.

Still another thing that will attract attention will be the placing of a number of large mirrors in the lobby and then a small slip of paper, say with letters about two inches high and the words "Pretty Smooth" pasted across them about the height of a woman's eye. These would be more effective before the showing of the picture.

"WHEN You Look Into Her Eyes" is suggested as the theme for this picture and we would use this or one of the old standard love songs, rendered by a woman where the subject will fit as the prologue to the picture. If you use the suggested theme employ a male voice and carry a few bars of this into the screening. The theme should be really first introduced for the picture at the scene where Jimmy tells the police that he believes the girl wants to speak to him, then again after he sees her after his escape from prison, then when they make the resolution to go straight, then with the title "Jimmy what you done for me" and finally at the end. Lighter music needs to be used all through the program.

There should be a background of comedy for this picture. There is nothing of the tragic in the feature, but after the tenseness of the story, relief such as is afforded by slap-stick will go well. Be careful of getting any dramatic short subjects on the same bill with this, or it is apt to take some of the edge off the feature.

Just one final warning with this:

The temptation will be strong to pull some crook stunt, and probably some exhibitors may be able to get the co-operation of the local police department, but we would be mighty careful what we used. Anything that tends to create alarm is always bad and the boomerang is pretty sure to hit your theatre.

Anita Stewart Certainly Has a Perfect Right to Salute in Her Latest First National Attraction, "Human Desire"

"Sahara" Bids Swamp Hodkinson

Country's First Run Theatres Request Bookings on Special Feature; Strand, New York, Favors It

EXHIBITOR demand for the J. Parker Read, Jr., special production, "Sahara," starring Louise Glaum in a C. Gardner Sullivan drama personally supervised by Allan Dwan, has kept the W. W. Hodkinson organization busy nationally during the past week.

Joseph L. Plunkett, managing director, has booked "Sahara" for an immediate playing date at The Strand Theatre, New York, admitting that this booking of the production meant laying another picture on the shelf.

Tom Moore's big Rialto, Washington, not only booked "Sahara" but gave it an immediate playing date, beginning Sunday, June 8, and opening to remarkable business despite hot weather. Mr. Moore's contract calls for two weeks at the Rialto and a second run to follow at Tom Moore's Strand Theatre Washington.

The Chicago office of W. W. Hodkinson Corporation through Division Manager E. C. Fielder and Manager E. S. Rowley have booked "Sahara" for the entire Lubliner & Trinz circuit of theatres with a first run to precede this circuit showing.

Exhibitor competition for big productions is claimed to be keener in Chicago at the present time than ever before in that city, and the arrival of the prints is said to have found not only every big first run and circuit account in the city demanding the first opportunity to book "Sahara" but found Milwaukee exhibitors telephoning for first options.

In New York, one of the largest circuits in America had "Sahara" previewed at a private showing at the home of its general manager, and contracts are being drawn for runs throughout July and August following The Strand first run for a greater number of days than has been given any production in the past twelve months.

Under instruction of the Hodkinson home office organization only such exhibitors as will guarantee unusual advertising and exploitation are being permitted to book "Sahara" at this time. No exhibitor whose showmanship plans involve treating "Sahara" just as a routine picture is being granted bookings.

Three thousand exhibitors, owners of the largest theatres in the country, have been supplied directly from New York with the music-theme prepard for "Sahara" by Dr. Hugo Reisenfeld, managing director of the Rivoli and Rialto theatres, New York, and the use of this theme will, it is thought, be general.

Vivian Martin's new Paramount picture, released June 8, is the first work of a new writer for the screen, Clara G. Kennedy, and is said to promise a bright career for her as a screen author

Matt Moore to Play Opposite Olive Thomas

Matt Moore, brother of Tom and Owen Moore, has been engaged to play opposite Olive Thomas in her third Selznick starring production, which is being made up at the Biograph studio. Matt, who has always been most popular on the screen and is now forging rapidly to the front headed in the direction of stardom. In the Olive Thomas production, the title of which has not yet been announced, Mr. Moore is said to have one of the finest parts he has ever had. It was in the earliest days of the picture business that Matt Moore entered upon his screen career and since that time he has played opposite many of the best known stars. His last part prior to joining the Selznick company was in support of Blanche Sweet in "The Unpardonable Sin."

Trade Show of New Pathe Serial on June 20

The Western Photoplays serial, "The Great Gamble," to be released by Pathe on August 3, will be given a trade showing on Friday, June 20, at 11:30 A. M., at the New York Theatre Roof, at which time exhibitors will have an opportunity to view the first three episodes of what is termed "the greatest stunt serial ever produced."

"The Great Gamble" was written and directed by Joseph A. Golden, and has as its co-stars Anne Luther and Charles Hutchison.

Lasky's New Offices

When Jesse L. Lasky returns to Hollywood he will find a suite of three new offices awaiting his occupancy at the Famous Players-Lasky studio. The First Vice-President's desk and office furnishings have been removed to a spacious new apartment, panelled throughout, with art glass windows and skylight. Next to this is a waiting room and desk for his secretary, while adjoining is the office of Milton E. Hoffman, Studio General Manager, which also is handsomely finished in dark wood.

Robert McKim and Mildred Manning, in "The Westerners," through Hodkinson

The two panels to the left show moments in " The Open Road " (tentative tile). Universal Production in which Monroe Salisbury is the principal player. At the right is a moment in " Destiny," in which Dorothy Phillips is starred

Ship Fire Scene in Norma Talmadge's Latest

Norma Talmadge, accompanied by her husband, Joseph M. Schenck, Director Edward Jose, Natalie Talmadge, Wynham Standing, Garreth Hughes and Cameraman David Abel, returned from Florida this week, where they have been making scenes on a deserted island near Miami for " By Right of Conquest." This photoplay from Arthur Hornblow's novel by the same name, is to be released following " The Way of a Woman." It is said to have many thrilling scenes, such as a yacht catching fire at midocean, while the guests are in the midst of their merrymaking at a costume ball on deck. Miss Talmadge has an opportunity to prove in this picture her unusual ability as a swimmer, for she jumps overboard and swims from the burning yacht to a deserted island, where an interesting love story unfolds.

Now that Norma Talmadge has returned to New York, she will finish up " By Right of Conquest " within the next week, and, owing to the fact that she is two pictures ahead, will take a three months' vacation.

William Farnum is presented by William Fox in " The Lone Star Ranger "

Universal Rushing Productions

All Companies Are Working at Top Speed, and a Number of Exceptional Productions Are Nearing Completion

COMPLETION of three " better pictures," and finishing touches put to a number of shorter subjects, marked a week's work at Universal City. All producing companies are working at top speed, and visitors to the big studios have commented on the enormity of the work being done.

The three bigger features which were stamped " finis " were Allen J. Holubar's " The Right to Happiness " in which Dorothy Phillips is starred, " A Man of Peace " with Harry Carey, and " The Spitfire of Seville " which is starring the new Universal actress Hedda Nova.

Pete Morrison, the likable young Western actor completed " A Fortune at Stake " last week. Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran, Universal's laugh manufacturers, completed a 1,000 burlesque on prohibition entitled " Ten Nights in a Tea Room." Neal Burns and Josephine Hill finished " Babies Is Babies," a one-reel comedy.

Eric Von Stroheim is taking the final scenes on " The Pinnacle," the Alpine drama in which Francelia Billington and Sam DeGrasse divide honors with the director. Monroe Salisbury is half through his latest vehicle " Devil's Have Their Friends " which is being directed by Paul Powell. William Stowell, a Jewel star, and Colleen Moore head the supporting cast of this drama.

Mary MacLaren is in San Francisco with her supporting cast working on the " Petal on the Current " story, which was written by Fannie Hurst. Tod Browning is directing the cast in this production. Robert Anderson, David Butler, Vic Potel, Fritzie Ridgway and Gertrude Claire made the trip to San Francisco with Miss MacLaren.

Marie Walcamp, Universal's serial star, is at work at Sonora California filming the exteriors of the two reel " Tempest Cody " series. This series of two-reel Western pictures are being made while the script for the next Marie Walcamp serial is being prepared.

James J. Corbett, the ex-champion prizefighter, stage and screen star, is struggling through the fourteenth episode of " The Midnight Man," a serial to be released in the near-future. Mr. Corbett is seen in some daring shots in this serial and reports are the serial is perhaps the most acceptable from the standpoint of entertainment yet made by Universals. Kathleen O'Connor is the leading woman.

Much interest centers around the production of the Universal Animal Comedies being produced under the direction of William Campbell.

Summer Comedy Series Given by Goldwyn

At two week intervals, commencing June 1, Goldwyn will release six Capitol Comedies, three of which will be " Smiling Bill " Parsons subjects, and three Carter De Haven farces. The pictures so far named are: " In a Pinch," " Their Day of Rest," " After the Bawl " and " Some Honeymoon," all Carter De Haven pictures, and " A Wonderful Night," " Chasing Rainbows " and an untitled picture with " Smiling Bill " Parsons.

Lillian Gish and Robert Harron Are in " True Heart Susie." Griffith Production Distributed As an Artcraft Picture

Dustin Farnum Is Featured in "A Man's Fight," United Picture Theatres of America, Inc.

Big Metro Productions for July

Four All-Star Pictures Announced for Release — August Will Initiate Weekly Release System Inaugurated

THE last of the Bushman-Bayne pictures made under the Metro contract will be released by that corporation during July.

The name of this drama is "God's Outlaw" and it is said that in this picture the screen star team has accomplished its best work, with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in the best fitting roles yet offered them. "God's Outlaw" is the last picture made by these two players, and the release date set for it is July 7th.

Following "God's Outlaw" Metro will release on July 14th Hale Hamilton's first screen authorship entitled "In His Brother's Place," written especially by the Metro star under the inspiration of a new idea in regard to the church and the possibilities of attracting a congregation by the last word in modernism.

A Moment in "Some Bride," Metro Film

July 21st releases "The Microbe," a powerful drama of the underworld and high society, with Viola Dana in the title role. The story is from a short story of the same name by Henry Altimus, published in Ainslee's Magazine, and converted to the screen by June Mathis of the Metro staff.

"The Microbe" is announced as the most gripping dramatic plot that Metro has ever released as a program picture, and positively the strongest part ever enacted by Miss Dana in her career on the screen. It is a theme somewhat like George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," or like Maude Fulton's "The Brat," picturized by Nazimova and Charles Bryant.

Bringing up the rear of this stellar procession is the fascinating Emmy Wehlen in "The Belle of the Season," scheduled for July 28th.

The story deals with the trials and tribulations of "the richest girl in the world," who finds that money isn't everything, and often interferes with the great happiness.

The release of these four all-star series pictures marks the beginning of the end of the Metro program offerings, and leaves the month of August for the reign of the weekly release. Beginning with September the "bigger and better" features will be the vogue with Metro as pioneers of the "special features" plan.

Fairbanks Opens New Studio in Hollywood

Word comes out of the West that Douglas Fairbanks is going at the making of his first Independent production like a whirlwind. He has opened his big new studio and from all the signs about the place, more real money is being spent for the new picture than has ever before gone into the making of a Fairbanks release.

Simplex Notes

Soon Naming Cigars After Simplex

The saying "that one must be famous before a well-known article of trade is named after him" was never more truly illustrated than a paragraph in a recent trade paper and also a paragraph contained in a factory report received at the Simplex plant this week, which is to the effect:

So pleased was Mr. Conover of St. Petersburg, Pa., with the screen results obtained through the use of his two new Simplex Projectors that he decided to name his new three hundred and fifty (350) seat theatre after the projections in question, the "Simplex."

It seems that owing to the press of business attending the building and opening of his theatre Mr. Conover neglected to choose a fitting name for same, but after seeing the smiling faces on his audience and the pleasant expressions of appreciation of the splendid performance on his opening night brought about by the projector results he decided upon the name of "Simplex" as a fitting one.

The Hollis-Smith-Morton Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., who made the installation at the Simplex theatre are authority for the statement that during the past two months the number of Simplexes installed have far exceeded any similar two months in the past.

Places Nine Mazda Machines at Once

From the Erker Bros. Optical Company, St. Louis distributors for Simplex, comes word of the receipt of nine different orders in one day for the newly marketed Simplex Mazda equipment which are pleasing the trade in schools, churches, institutions and 85-foot A. C. throw theatres throughout the country.

At the Simplex factory it is learned that a large Eastern manufacturing city has already placed an order for twenty-seven (27) of these equipments to be used in as many public schools; this number to be followed up with an equal number in the very near future.

Owing to the construction of the Simplex Mazda Equipment it makes this machine especially adaptable for institutions and places of like nature where the thought of operating the arc lamp has always deterred them from making projector installations, but with the advent of the newly created Simplex Mazda Equipment these same institutions have immediately placed their orders upon learning of the benefits to be derived through the use of this new apparatus.

Millionaire Uses Two Simplex Projectors

Charles Phillips, clubman of Phillips Beach, Swampscott, Mass., has not only a fully equipped and up-to-date projection room and theatre installed at his home, but also has as a member of his household a Chinese projectionist answering to the name of Chin.

Mr. Phillips has been an ardent movie advocate for years and in his home has fitted up a private theatre which for furnishings and elegance is hard to equal.

Commandants' Truth Is Shown in "Other Men's Wives" Picture

In a new Thomas H. Ince production, "Other Men's Wives," which was written especially for Dorothy Dalton by C. Gardner Sullivan and is released on the Paramount schedule June 15, the fallacy of one man's coveting the wife of another is said to be powerfully and dramatically shown.

The story is said to be one of Mr. Sullivan's best and makes a splendid vehicle for Dorothy Dalton, the star. In as much as most of the scenes are taken in an atmosphere of wealthy society people and their functions, Miss Dalton is given an opportunity to wear some.

Victor L. Schertzinger directed the production and John Stumar photographed the scenes. The supporting cast includes Forrest Stanley, H. E. Herbert, Dell Boone, Elsie Larimer, Hall Clements. The picture was produced under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince.

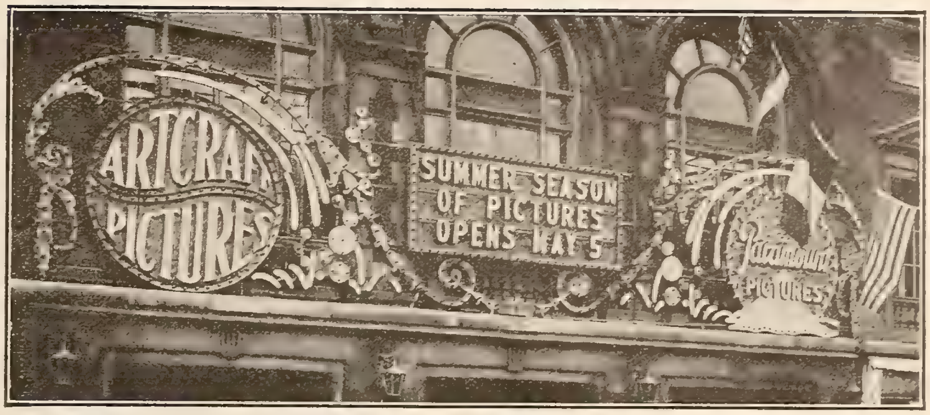
F. P.-Lasky Exchangemen Meet in Six Cities

Following the recent convention of District Managers and Special Representatives of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation held at the home office in New York, meeting of the exchange sales forces have been held during the past week in six cities throughout the United States. These meetings have been for the purpose of disseminating complete information concerning next year's distribution plans to the entire sales organization. Without a single exception the salesmen present voiced the utmost enthusiasm over the outlook.

One of the largest meetings was the one held early in the week at the New York exchange, 739 Seventh avenue. This embraced the organization of the New York and Buffalo offices.

Meetings were also held in Chicago, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles.

Director King W. Vidor of Brentwood Features



An example of the unusual signs advertising Paramount and Artcraft productions at Orchestra Hall, Chicago

Paramount Companies in Action

Production of Many Features in Hollywood Studios Marks Incoming of June, Creating Quite a Record

JUNE has brought an unusual impetus in production work at the Famous Players-Lasky studios in Hollywood, and the second week finds features, simultaneously in course of preparation, to a number establishing something of a record for a single studio.

Monday, June 2, marked the beginning of three big productions. On that day Cecil B. DeMille took up the megaphone to direct for Artcraft the celebrated J. M. Barrie play, "The Admirable Crichton," which Jeanie Macpherson had adapted for the screen. Miss Macpherson has had in her work the assistance and advice of Major Ian Hay Beith, who recently joined Mr. DeMille's scenario staff. A strong cast has been chosen for the picture, headed by Thomas Meighan and Gloria Swanson in the leading roles. Lila Lee, who, as a Paramount star, "is well ahead of the release schedule, will have an important part, as will Theodore Roberts.

On the same day Bryant Washburn, having just completed "Love Insurance," started work on his next Paramount picture, an adaptation of the George Broadhurst farce, "Why Smith Left Home." Donald Crisp is again directing.

The third picture started Monday is "Huckleberry Finn," the Mark Twain classic, which Julia Crawford Ivers put into scenario form. William D. Taylor, is in charge of the new production. "Huckleberry Finn" must not be confused with "Huck and Tom," which was virtually a continuation of the "Tom Sawyer" picture.

On June 9, William C. DeMille, who has just finished the production of "Peg o' My Heart," with Wanda Hawley in the title role, will take up the direction of Ethel Clayton, who is scheduled to return to Hollywood this week after a vacation trip to Japan, to begin work on her second year's contract as a Paramount star. The picture to be started Monday is "Miss Hobbs," Jerome K. Jerome's play.

Wallace Reid, Paramount star will also start Monday under the direction of James Cruze in "The Lottery Man," adapted from Rida Johnson Young's play in which Cyril Scott scored on Broadway several seasons ago.

Immediately following the completion of "Told in the Hills," which will be within a few days, Major Robert Warwick, under direction of Hugh Ford, will start work in "In Missouri," one of Augustus Thomas' greatest dramas.

Meanwhile, Margueret Clark is well along in "Widow By Proxy," under the direction of Walter Edwards at the Morosco studio, and Houdini has a good start on his big mystery picture written by A. B. Reeve and John Grey.

Vidor Pursues "Different" Directing Method

TO the casual reader of motion picture magazines, who observes photos of directors old and young, good and bad, always armed with a megaphone, and usually snapped in a tense "loud" position, it will come as a shock to learn there is one director who as the slang saying goes, "plays without a make-up."

King W. Vidor, the youthful Brentwood Pictures director is the man. Vidor works quietly, smiles while he is working, and rarely talks above the conversational tone. "Better Times" has just been completed by him. His production of "The Turn in the Road" met with favor. Robertson-Cole control all the Brentwood pictures for the next year and will release them through Exhibitors Mutual.

If you happened to go over to see Vidor after watching some of the clyonic directors in the vicinity, you would hardly realize a picture was in the making, so quiet and smooth does the action proceed. Is production needed? The boyish director holds up his hand as a signal to the camera man, quietly talks the situation over with the actors, the camera clicks on, and the day passes with little strain on the nerves of actors or director.

"I don't think it is necessary to shout or run around," Vidor explains, "I don't try to get people to act without knowing exactly what they are doing. Every one in the cast gets the story and the script, I expect every one to know and feel his part, and working smoothly, I believe we bring out the full strength of the actor or actress.

MacManus Film Doubly Original

Original Cast Playing in Battle Scenes Duplicating Those in Argonne Victory Said to Mark Step Forward

A LONG step forward in the way of originality is said to be apparent in the technique of the production, "The Lost Battalion," by the MacManus Corporation. The distinction lies in the fact that reality of cast is combined with reality of action, the picture being played by men of the "Lost Battalion" of the 77th U. S. Army Division.

E. A. MacManus and those associated with him in the promotion and creation of "The Lost Battalion," have asserted since the conception of the idea that the picture would be epochal in form. Since the film's completion others have come forward in support of their statements.

General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff of the United States Army; Theodore Roosevelt and other public men of high prominence outside the industry as well as notables within it, declare high faith in the production, merely from the facts already disclosed. What they will say after the film is actually shown is expected to be even a stronger commendation, as the fidelity to history is as correct as it is humanly possible to make it.

Taking notice of the technical discussion that has grown around the subject, the writer called on Mr. MacManus for an analytical study of this new technique.

"Our method and achievement," said Mr. MacManus, "is as definite a step forward into a higher realm of production, as was the first making of close-up scene. The combination of historic cast and historic fact is vastly more important, really, than any detail of film science of which I know.

"I believe that the feat is on a par with the very invention of motion photography. Why shouldn't it be? The thing is in fact an opening up of a new empire of films—the empire of fact films.

"But we happened to be the first to attempt and achieve the new form. We succeeded in lifting from the rapidly moving and tremendously packed record of recent events the very finest episode in the great war. Grasping the material of this story, we succeeded in gathering together the actual performers of that story."

It is understood that "The Lost Battalion" is completed and that next week will see an announcement of the date of its initial showing to the trade press, leading military officials and men prominent in the public life of the nation.

Olive Thomas Feature Gets Big Exploitation

THE showing at the Strand theatre in New York the week of June 9 to June 14 of the first of Olive Thomas' Selznick Pictures, "Upstairs and Down," was accompanied by various phases of local publicity, says an official of the company, which were planned to keep this much-advertised attraction prominently in the attention of the amusement-seeking public. Lewis J. Selznick's promise that the presentation of his Selznick Pictures would be backed up by a forceful advertising and publicity campaign was realized in the manner "Upstairs and Down" was sent over at the Strand. All of the Sunday papers in New York City carried large advertisements of the attraction. One of the biggest publicity coups was the arrangement for full window displays in one hundred Five and Ten Cent Stores, in Manhattan and the other borough, of the song, "Upstairs and Down," which was inspired by and dedicated to Miss Thomas in this production.

In each of the 5 and 10 cent stores where the "Upstairs and Down" display was held, a full-size front window was used. The showing consisted of a large framed portrait of Miss Thomas with the words: "Olive Thomas-Selznick Pictures—Upstairs and Down" underneath. This was surrounded by hundreds of copies of the sheet music, which also bears a large photograph of Miss Thomas on the front cover. On the back cover of the song are reproduced several scenes from the production.

Another stunt which gained wide popularity was the "Upstairs and Down" sundae which was sold at the soda fountains in sixty-nine of the Liggett Drug Stores in Greater New York. In each of the Liggett stores where "Upstairs and Down" sundaes were sold a large streamer was stretched across the mirror at the back of the fountain, advertising the sundae, Olive Thomas and the photoplay, "Upstairs and Down."

Director Edward Jose and Norma and Natalie Talmadge, of Miss Talmadge's Company

In "The Pagan God," H. B. Warner, Jesse D. Hampton star, declares he has the best role he has yet undertaken in motion pictures.

Edward Jose, back from Florida with Norma Talmadge where exteriors were being taken, is preparing for the formation of his own company.

George Walsh, Fox star, has almost completed "Putting One Over," his latest comedy subject, in which it is said the athletic player has "outstunted" himself.

Rubye de Remer, World Picture star

Ruth Roland Forms Her Own Company

Following in the footsteps of a score of stars, Ruth Roland has become her own producer, formed the Ruth Roland Serials Inc., and will make two serials a year for Pathe to distribute.

Miss Roland has scored with picture-goers in a long series of serials including "Who Pays," "The Red Circle," "The Price of Folly" "The Neglected Wife," "Hands Up," and "The Tiger's Trail," all of which have been distributed by Pathe. She will leave for Los Angeles shortly to commence production of the first venture 'on her own,' of which she is also the author.

Magazine Serial to Be Made by Capellani

The motion picture right to "A Damsel in Distress," a story by P. G. Wodehouse now running serially in the Saturday Evening Post, have been acquired by the Albert Capellani Productions, Inc.

June Caprice and Creighton Hale who have just completed work in "The Unknown Dancer," their second subject for the Albert Capellani Productions, Inc., will co-star in the film version of "A Damsel in Distress" under the direction of George Achainbaud, while the production will be personally supervised by Albert Capellani.

Elliott Dexter Better

Suffering from a nervous breakdown and under the constant care of a special nurse in a diet sanitarium, Elliot Dexter, Famous Players-Laskey screen star, is now reported to be considerably improved but still far from a return to work.

While he was a stage and film actor for years, Mr. Dexter has been known lately for his performance in "Don't Change Your Husband," "Old Wives for New," and "For Better, For Worse," Cecil B. DeMille Artcraft productions.

Olive Thomas Is Presented in the Triangle Picture, "Love's Prisoner"

More Big Theatres Take United Artists Film

Though the release date of the first United Artists Corporation offering, a Douglas Fairbanks production, is still almost three months off, the pre-release business being written is said to be something of a record.

In commenting on the business already written, Hiram Abrams, General Manager of the company, laid stress on the quality of the houses that have signed up the Fairbanks' picture.

"It is not only the volume that is gratifying," said Mr. Abrams. "More than that, the most representative showmen of the country are on our books and this demonstration of confidence in our methods, backed by their own knowledge of the box-office value of our product and by their faith in the even higher type of picture that may now be expected from the artists of our organization, has spread a spirit of optimism through our company's ranks that spells success in giant letters."

Rothacker Men Investigate Film Conditions

Pursuant to the plan of making a comprehensive, first-hand survey of exchange and releasing conditions throughout the country, W. R. Rothacker of the Rothacker Film Mfg. Co. has left for a tou of the Pacific Coast.

G. S. Anderson is completing a trip which covered Canada, Buffalo, New York, Philadelphia and other Eastern points, and S. Calvert is taking in Kentucky, Indiana and Wisconsin. C. P. Tobin is covering Michigan; E. O. Blackburn is touring Memphis, New Orleans, Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri, and Stanley Twist has a central west route.

After the information gleaned by these observers is compiled and analyzed, the Rothacker corporation will announce plans for releasing several single reels, among which will be a novelty reel, a scenic and the Rothacker Review.

Hall Acquires Jess Willard Picture

Feature Starring Heavyweight Champion Bought for United States and Canada—First Showing Soon

CANADIAN and country-wide rights to "The Challenge of Chance," which features Jess Willard, world's heavyweight champion fighter, have been acquired by Frank G. Hall, president of the Independent Sales Corporation.

The first print of the special has reached New York and the select few who saw it predict that the picture, augmented as it is by the biggest publicity and advertising campaign ever launched in the interest of a production, will be the greatest drawing card screened since "The Birth of a Nation." And as Fred L. Wilke, president of the Continental Pitcures Corporation, producers of the picture, said: "With Jess Willard, the most advertised figure ever shown in a theatre, now at the height of his fame and preparing to defend his title against the world, on July 4th, in a role that radiates strength in physique and personality and in a picture crowded with power, strength, size and quality, there is not a chance for the exhibitor to keep the S. R. O. down during a performance. It's of sure box office value, with everything in its favor, and I believe Frank Hall has a powerful magnet for any theatre."

The deal which was closed Monday with Mr. Wilke, acting for Continental Pictures, and Mr. Hall for the Hall interests, involves more than a half million dollars and gives Mr. Hall the exclusive rights of distribution for the Willard picture.

Prior to the release of "The Challenge of Chance" a national billboard campaign will be launched covering every centre of importance from coast to coast, and this campaign will be supplemented by a newspaper campaign which has been carried on for the past several weeks in the news columns and sport pages of the dailies.

The production of "The Challenge of Chance" is said to have cost more than $178,000, every penny of which is said to show on the screen. The features of the production—the big punches that stand out with all the force of a blow from the champion's right—are two fight scenes in which the champ displays the prowess that has won for him the world's title in the prize ring and a racing scene which is a true picture of the famed Kentucky Derby.

Mr. Hall will announce the Broadway opening within the next few days and says that he expects to place in the theatres of the country and with the exhibitors the biggest screen attraction of the year.

"Virtuous Men" Breaks New England Mark

FIRST presentation in New England of "Virtuous Men," the S-L production starring E. K. Lincoln, given at Poli's Palace theatre, New Haven, was marked by a capacity house for three days, following a most talked-about exploitation campaign. The picture played to 7,800 people during the afternoon and evening of the first day. The Poli management immediately booked the production over the entire Poli circuit.

Manager Edwards carried out a most unusual advertising campaign in the four daily newspapers of New Haven, using in one week of advance advertising more than 500 inches of space. His ads consisted of teasers of large size, followed by big displays on the last three days preceding the showing.

The Palace took particular pains to impress upon its patrons the importance of "Virtuous Men" as a feature of the first magnitude, using more than five thousand black-and-gold four-page folders, which were given away at each show before the presentation. A rapid-fire publicity campaign of stories was carried on in the newspapers every day. Particular attention was given to the lobby display of "Virtuous Men." The lobby of the Palace was festooned with a series of large cut-out letters spelling the title, "Virtuous Men," which met the eye of the patron from all angles. Beneath these were placed the various original oil paintings of E. K. Lincoln and scenes from the production. This art display was tastefully arranged in shadow boxes, curtained off with velvet, upon which baby spot lights were trained.

The success of "Virtuous Men" at the Palace in New Haven has been duplicated elsewhere.

Alice Mann Is the Heroine in "The Yellow Eel," a Three-part Serial Being Produced by McClure Productions, Inc.

Will Rogers Goes West for Goldwyn Filming

Leaving behind him Mr. Ziegfeld's and Father Knickerbocker's equally famous Follies, Will Rogers has departed for Culver City, California, where he will create the character of "Billie Fortune" in a series of Goldwyn pictures. "Billy" originally appeared in the columns of the Saturday Evening Post. W. R. Lighton was responsible for his introduction to fame.

"Billy Fortune" has the unhappy happy faculty of successfully building up for others romance he is unable to build up for himself. He has what is termed a 'hard time of it' in this disillusioning world."

"Program Price-Cutting Hurts"

Survey of Conditions Throughout Country Reveals Danger of "Cut-Throat" Tactics, Says Victor Kremer

PRICE-CUTTING on the part of program producers, forcing the independent dealer in turn to lower the return for his wares, has disturbed the picture industry, forced producing organizations to the wall, and made the exhibitor wealthy, according to Victor Kremer, who after purchasing 2,000,000 feet of negative of Essanay pictures, has returned from a country-wide tour.

Kremer's purchase included the Essanay releases of Jack Gardner, Sallie Fisher, Bryant Washburn, Richard Travis, "Alkali Ike," "Broncho Billy" Anderson and Taylor Holmes. The pictures in which these players starred are to be released first, in series of ten, commencing August 1. An advertising campaign of wide scope will precede the release, on state right basis, of the features. Sales have been rapid, and there are but two territories open. Even for these tentative contracts have been drawn up.

Mr. Kremer on his trip found the industrial conditions good, the only dissatisfaction expressed being of the low rental at which pictures are now going. He said:

"There never was better business throughout the country. The exhibitor is coining money. The producers and independent dealers are, however, on the short end of the horn. This is due entirely to the price-cutting which has been going on among the big corporations which produce programs. The only salvation is a raise in rentals. A $10 minimum for a feature would be a good start.

"The re-issues have been the salvation of many. The independent man was forced to these in order to live. The producers apparently have been spineless so far as saying 'no' to the exhibitor when a low price was demanded—a price which could not jibe with the merit of the production.

"An intensive and country-wide advertising campaign on behalf of their wares, by the big producers, will command the respect of the exhibitor, would make his wares talked of and sought for, and if, backing this up, the producers will give an emphatic negative to those exhibitors who demand ridiculously small prices for the rental of good pictures, this condition will cease to obtain."

Mr. Kremer is temporarily in New York where he has established an office. His permanent and main office however, is in Chicago. In a short time, after completing arrangements for the exploitation of his pictures, he will start out on another trip throughout the Middle West.

World-Wide Mart for Robertson-Cole Film

THE world-wide activities of the Robertson-Cole Company took another spurt during the past week, when a considerable amount of valuable territory on many of its productions was disposed of. The string of motion pictures with which Robertson-Cole has girdled the earth was further lengthened when J. Barnstyn, representing the British and Continental Trading Company of the Hague, Holland, purchased the rights for "Cannibals of the South Seas" for France, Holland, Switzerland and Belgium. This sale is one of the most important consummated by the Robertson-Cole foreign department in some weeks. The series of pictures depicting the life and customs of the strangest people on the face of the earth, has been an attraction wherever shown. Recent trade showings in England of the Martin Johnson feature, indicated the pictures will receive the same favor they have attained in the United States, where they are reputed to be the most unusual and entertaining films of their type ever seen on the screen.

Another important contract was closed when U. Ono, representing the Nippon Katsudo Shasin Kaisha, Tokio, Japan, took over the features produced in 1919 by the following stars: H. B. Warner, William Desmond, Bessie Barriscale, H. B. Walthall, Alma Rubens, Sessue Hayakawa, and the Brentwood features. Among the prominent productions which Mr. Ono obtains under his arrangements with Robertson-Cole are "The Turn in the Road," "What Every Woman Wants," "The Man Who Turned White," "Better Times," "The Man Beneath," one of Hayakawa's most pretentious works.

Five Billie Rhodes features were purchased for Japan by the Eskay Harris Feature Films Co., represented by Samuel Kantrowitz.

As an example of the merit of Robertson-Cole productions as appreciated in foreign countries comes the announcement that the North American Motion Pictures, Inc., of Argentine, Uraguay and Paraguay has renewed its contract with Robertson-Cole for the coming year and has doubled the number of productions taken last year.

Helen Keller in Film Soon Seen in New York

"Deliverance," the screen production in which Helen Keller known the world over for the remarkable manner in which she has overcome the handicap of being without sight, hearing, and speech, will shortly be shown in a Shubert theatre in New York.

The picture is said to be remarkable in that in the thousands of persons whose services were enlisted by director George Foster Platt, are included many notable men and women of the day.

Most of the scenes were made in California, and it is said that Miss Keller was a most apt screen star, taking many of her directions by means of sound vibration and without the ordinary method of communication, such as the code employed by him and her almost equally famous teacher, Anne Sullivan Macy.

Universal's Russian Star, Hedda Nova

Look for Locations for "Huckleberry Finn"

William D. Taylor, who is to direct the Paramount-Artcraft special written by Julia Crawford Ivers from Mark Twain's story of boy life, "Huckleberry Finn," having completed his cast, practically, is now scouting for locations with the location director.

Hannibal, Mo., is the locale of a lot of the story and the big river scenes are of course highly important. Just where he will find what he needs is as yet unannounced. The company may go considerable distance to get the scenes, for the atmosphere must be correct in every detail.

From all indications this will be even a more elaborate production than either of the preceding Twain stories, "Tom Sawyer" or "Huck and Tom," both of which were written by Julia Crawford Ivers and based on "Tom Sawyer."

Accuracy Aimed at in "A Man's Fight"

Advices from the Brunton Studios, Los Angeles, where Dustin Farnum's forthcoming United feature, "A Man's Fight," has been completed under the direction of Thomas N. Heffron and the technical supervision of Mr. Brunton himself, lay emphasis on the particular care which has been exercised to insure accuracy and to substantiate the correctness of "business" in the whole production and particularly in such special scenes as those of the San Juan Capistrano Mission now filmed for the first time.

Supporting Mr. Farnum are Lois Wilson in the leading feminine role, Dorothy Wallace, "the poster-girl," Aggie Herring, Betty Bouton, Harry Van Meter, Wedgwood Nowell, Miles McCarthy, Dick La Reno and Bert Appling.

The "Bathing Beauties," Mack Sennett's strong arguments, will be presented shortly at the Broadway theatre, New York, in an elaborate picture, "Yankee Doodle in Berlin."

Doris Lee Plays Opposite Charles Ray

Doris Lee, who as Doris May, according to a recent announcement, is henceforth to be co-starred with Douglas MacLean in Thomas H. Ince productions for Paramount, appears in support of Charles Ray, in his latest Paramount picture, "Hay Foot, Straw Foot," which is released June 22. Miss Lee, or Miss May, as she is now, is one of the most pleasing of the younger film players, and is possessed of that charming naivete that makes her appealing and convincing in youthful roles.

Charles Ray is said to score in his next Paramount picture as a long-shanked lad from the rural districts who goes into the game a little green but comes out at the finish with flying colors, this time the atmosphere being that of a government war training camp.

Julien Josephesen wrote the story and Jerome Storm directed. Wm. Conklin, Spottiswoode Aitken, J. P. Lockney and others are in the supporting cast.

Billie Rhodes Supporter of Salvation Army

Completing the scenes for which an entire company of fifty persons were brought from California to New York, Billie Rhodes, her director, Louis William Chaudet, and her technical staff have returned to Los Angeles where this young star's big Salvation Army story, "The Blue Bonnet," will be completed within the next two weeks.

Says Billie Rhodes concerning the Salvation Army:

"The Salvation Army will go down into the depths, where the social and industrial scale tips the lowest, and put itself at the service of the men, women and children, who need quick and practical help. We know of no greater service than can be rendered to our government, or indeed, to humanity, at this moment than to confront and struggle with the great unrest.

Ships Fifty-six Prints of Talmadge Feature

Anticipating a record-breaking demand for early play dates on Constance Talmadge's forthcoming Select Picture, "Happiness a la Mode," in which she is presented by Lewis J. Selznick, Select this week shipped an advance order of fifty-six prints to the various exchanges in the country.

"Happiness a la Mode" was seen for the first time in any house at the Ziegfeld theatre in Chicago, commencing a week's engagement in that playhouse on June 15. On June 22 it will begin another pre-release showing at Sig Fuller's Bijou Dream in Chicago. Still other pre-release dates have been booked in Boston and Indianapolis.

William Dudley Pelley's short story "One-Thing-at-a-Time O'Day," as published in the Saturday Evening Post, and produced by Metro with Bert Lytell as its star, is announced for release on June 23.

Introducing Peggy O'Dare, the New Leading Woman "Discovered" by Eddie Polo Who Is Himself "Discovered" on the Left. They Are Going to Europe for Some of the Scenes in the Forthcoming Universal Serial, "Broken Idols"

Eminent Authors to Set Fast Pace

Great Authors Productions to Set Mark in Producing Line As Have Writers in the World of Fiction

DOMINATION of American-made films throughout the world, just as American literature, science, warfare, etc., succeeds the efforts of other countries, is in opinion of Rex Beach and Samuel Goldwyn, who organized Eminent Authors' Pictures.

Exhibitors are watching with interest for the details of the new methods of production, the subject matter of the first pictures and the stories of the authors who have united in the ambitious undertaking. So great are the audiences these authors command that their names are household words, but there are facts about each one that are not yet generally known.

Perhaps the question of the position of the director in Eminent Authors' Pictures has created the most immediate comment among exhibitors. Where does he stand, when the adaptation of each narrative is under the supervision of the author?

To this query, Rex Beach answers: "The best directors today recognize that the story is the dominant thing, and that the author who has achieved popularity by striking a timely note in fiction must be encouraged to sound the same note of interest and personality in pictures.

"And let me say that our new organization is not a boastful one. We do not expect to revolutionize the industry. We do not expect to produce only the most wonderful pictures in the world, than which there is none such. What we can be sure of is that none of the pictures will be badly conceived and poorly done. Each picture will be a special picture, and we are prepared to spend all the time and money necessary to ensure its quality.

"Ours is a get-together proposition for the mutual benefit of the producer and author and for the tremendous audiences these authors have won by their gift for telling the most vivid and vital stories of life as they see it.

"Two things will determine the success of the enterprise, and I believe they are both established facts. One is that the motion picture industry can no longer be divorced from its source of supply—the stories. And the second is that the industry and the art of motion pictures together depend upon the brains and intelligence of creative writers. That is what Eminent Authors are—creative writers very much alive to what is going on in America and the world today."

Earl J. Dennison, the Paramount Projection Expert

Exporter Goes Abroad

Lucien C. Wheeler, head of the Film Dept. of Bech, Van Siclen & Co., Inc., has sailed for Europe on the Aquatania to take up matters of importance in connection with the future plans of this exporting company.

Mr. Wheeler is taking with him a number of feature productions which are to be sold in England and the Continent.

Bech, Van Siclen & Co., Inc., announces they are purchasing the foreign rights to only the best independent features. Arrangements for the distribution of these features throughout the world are to be made by Mr. Wheeler, whose itinerary will include England, France, Italy, Spain and Scandinavia.

During Mr. Wheeler's absence A. Wortham is acting head of the film department.

Hayakawa Films Famous Novel

Robertson-Cole Will Present Japanese Star in Spectacular Version of a Story Set in East Indies

FOR pretentiousness and general excellence, Robertson-Cole believe that "The Man Beneath," the recently completed picture by Sessue Hayakawa, overshadows the six previous productions of this star. The story was adapted from a novel by Edmund Mitchell, and the Japanese actor is said to be given full scope in characterization in the piece.

"The Man Beneath" will take Hayakawa virtually around the world on the screen, for the scenes are laid in India, Scotland and Italy, and the expense incurred in the erection of the various sets for this production will make it the costliest of the costly Hayakawa pictures.

Four months were devoted to the making of this photodrama, and according to William Worthington, who directs all Hayakawa's pictures, no more effective five reel feature has been shown than "The Man Beneath." The success which has attended "His Debt," "The Courageous Coward," "Bonds of Honor," "A Heart in Pawn" "The Temple of Dusk" and "His Birthright" will be outdone by the newest Haworth play, if predictions are fulfilled.

Frank D. Ormstrom was engaged by Haworth especially for this picture, to design and supervise the interior and exterior settings. Especially worthy of notice is the Anglo-Indian furniture used in the production.

When the Haworth management decided to make this picture Hayakawa cabled to friends in Calcutta asking them to send him all the photographs they could find of scenes in India during the great plague and famine. They sent him several hundred and the best of these have been reproduced with detailed accuracy in "The Man Beneath."

Mr. Hayakawa is said to have the most sympathetic role in this production that he has had for some time.

As the Hindu surgeon who rescues so many people when India is suffering from the plague, Hayakawa is said to look and act every inch a Hindu.

Coming Capital Series Have "Mystery Star"

A "TEASING" campaign, with the object a mystery, is in evidence around the Capital Film Company, and inquiries reveal only the information that the company has entered the production field and intend shortly to spring an innovation in the way of something exceptional in short features.

One series of the new productions will be of a distinct Western brand, featuring—who is known only at the present time as —"the Miracle Man of the Movies." A second series evidently portraying banditry and thrilling stories of crime versus law will feature—and here again the name is still a mystery—"the Bandit King of the Screen."

Announcement number three, which undoubtedly will not reach the trade for another two weeks, will be in a form of Capital Film Company news to the trade of a new realistic Indian series. The only advice forthcoming on this series is that the star will be "the only living White Chief in America." This star—whoever he is—is reported to have been born and raised with the Red Skins, and yet is a true Western white man, the son of one of the most prominent millionaire cattle men of America.

Frank L. Smith, sales manager of the Capital Film Company, is making a hurried trip over the entire circuit of Capital exchanges inaugurating a new system for the handling of the "Super Short Features."

"If all goes well," says S. L. Barnhard, general manager of the Capital Film Company, "and if I do not interfere with any of the publicity propaganda for the new pictures now being arranged by our Mr. C. Eddy Eckels, I am sure that I will be at liberty within the next two weeks to disclose to the trade, what we honestly believe to be one of the most startling announcements of film news given out this season."

Frank Keenan, presented by Pathe

Marmont, New Leading Man for Alice Joyce

A contract has just been signed whereby Percy Marmont, now appearing in his first picture for Vitagraph, will remain with that company and be leading man for Alice Joyce.

The tentative title of the picture Marmont and Miss Joyce are at work on is "Vengeance." Tom Terriss is directing, and it is said this trio, star, leading man, and director will continue together in many future Vita productions.

W. E. Atkinson, Newly Appointed General Manager of Metro

Rogers Reports Record Sales for Select

Charles R. Rogers, director of sales of Select Pictures Corporation, returned to the home office on Tuesday, June 3, after a two-weeks' tour of Select exchanges and on Thursday started on another trip which will complete his survey of the Eastern branches.

The Select exchanges which Mr. Rogers visited on his first trip included Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Buffalo, with short trips to the high spots in those territories in company with the branch managers of the respective exchanges.

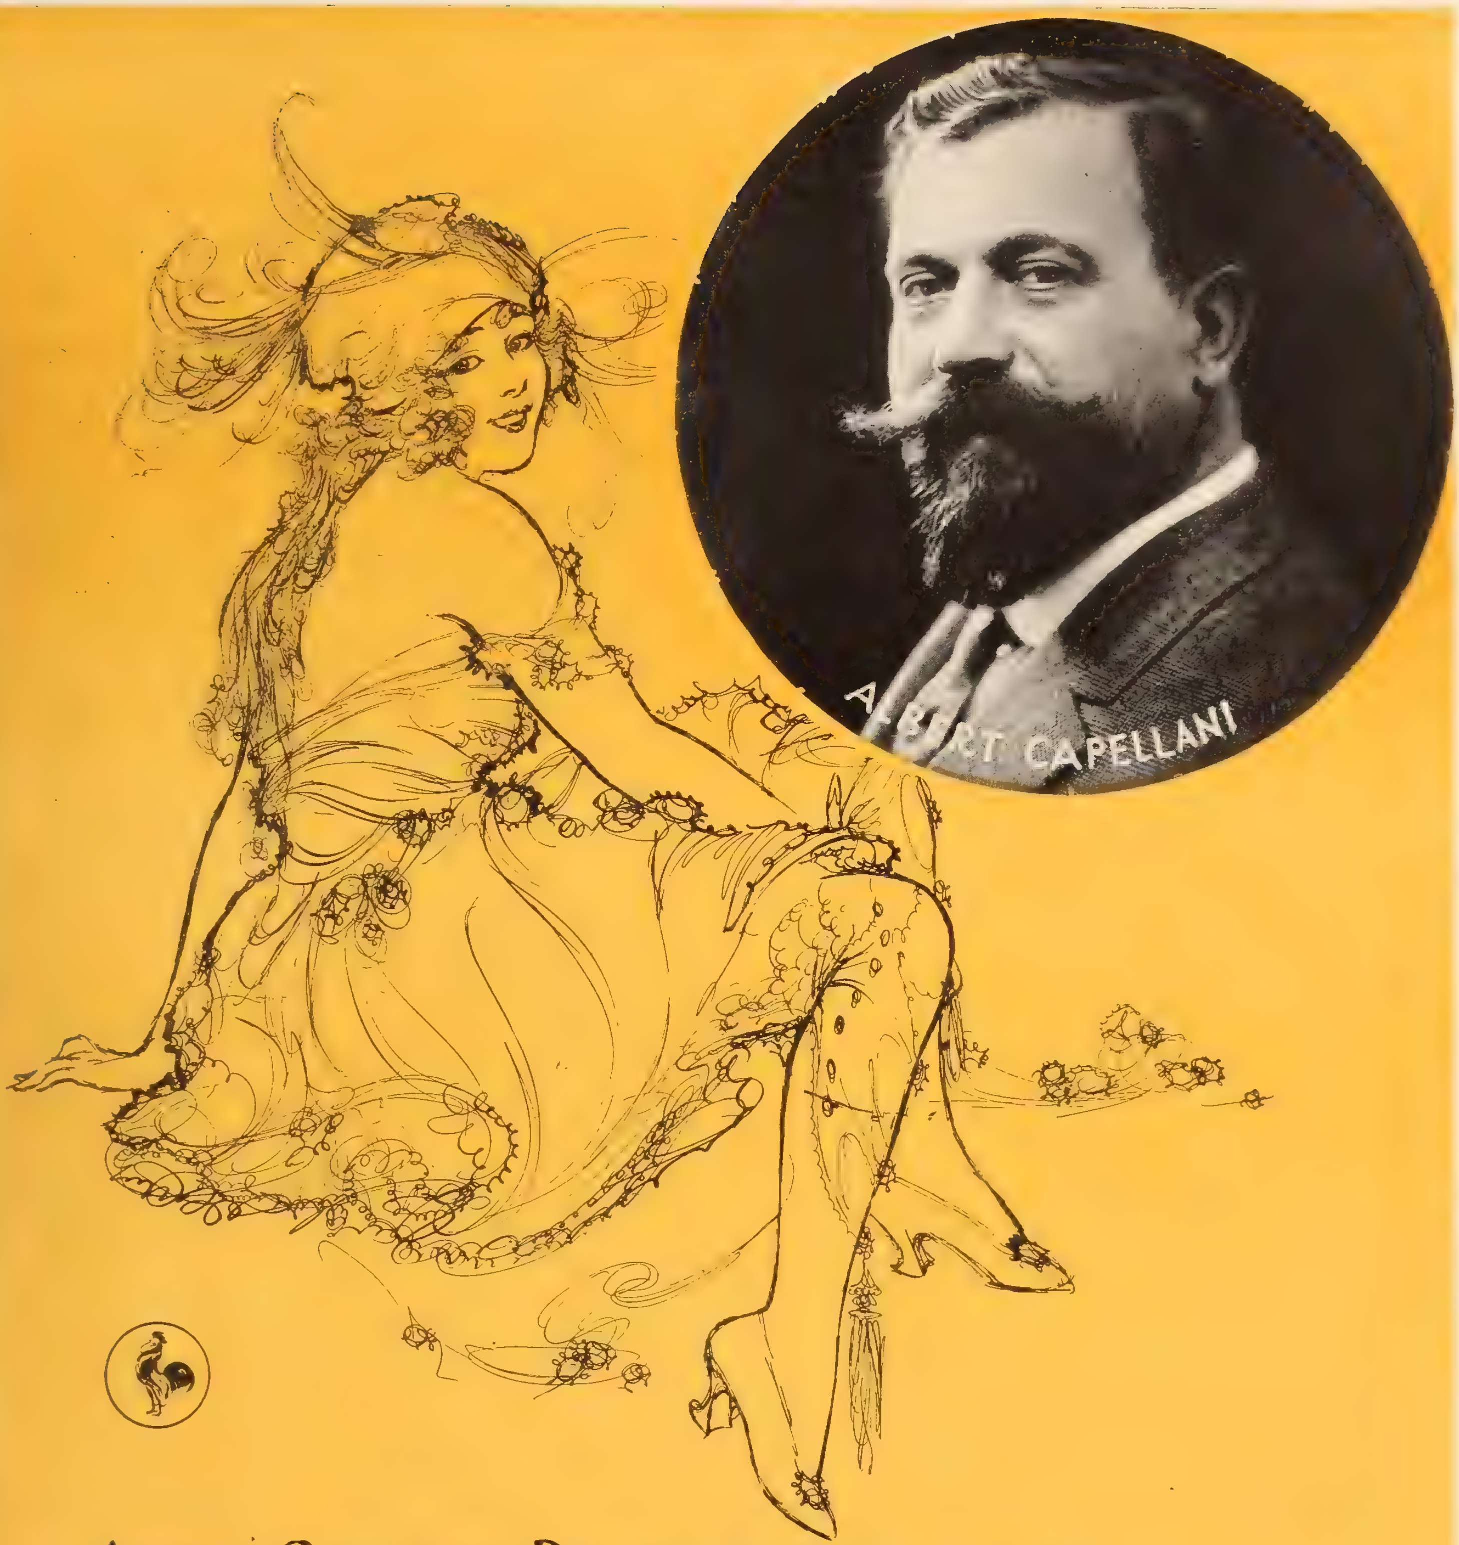
Mr. Rogers reports that business is exceptionally good in the districts he has visited, especially in Cleveland and Buffalo, where the director of sales was greeted, it is stated, with record-breaking business. Several big contracts were signed, it is said, in each territory and there are prospects of other big ones coming through within the next few days.

Mr. Rogers' present tour will take in the Select exchanges at Washington, Philadelphia and Boston.

Improvements in Adolf Philipp Studios Made

Alterations of the Adolf Philipp Film Coroporation studios in New York city being made under direction of the technical director, Robert Nicholls, are nearing completion.

An entirely new electric light has been installed, the studios of the Adolf Philipp Film Corporation are equipped with the new automatic Excelsior Photo Lamp, In this newly invented lamp Adolf Philipp is personally interested and claims it is a most wonderful lamp. Mr. Philipp who will direct all the productions is now busily engaged selecting the cast for the first picture. The Adolf Philipp Film Corporation will produce five reel features and two reel comedies.



ALBERT CAPELLANI PRODUCTIONS, INC. PRESENTS

JUNE CAPRICE AND CREIGHTON HALE

in the Filmusical Comedy

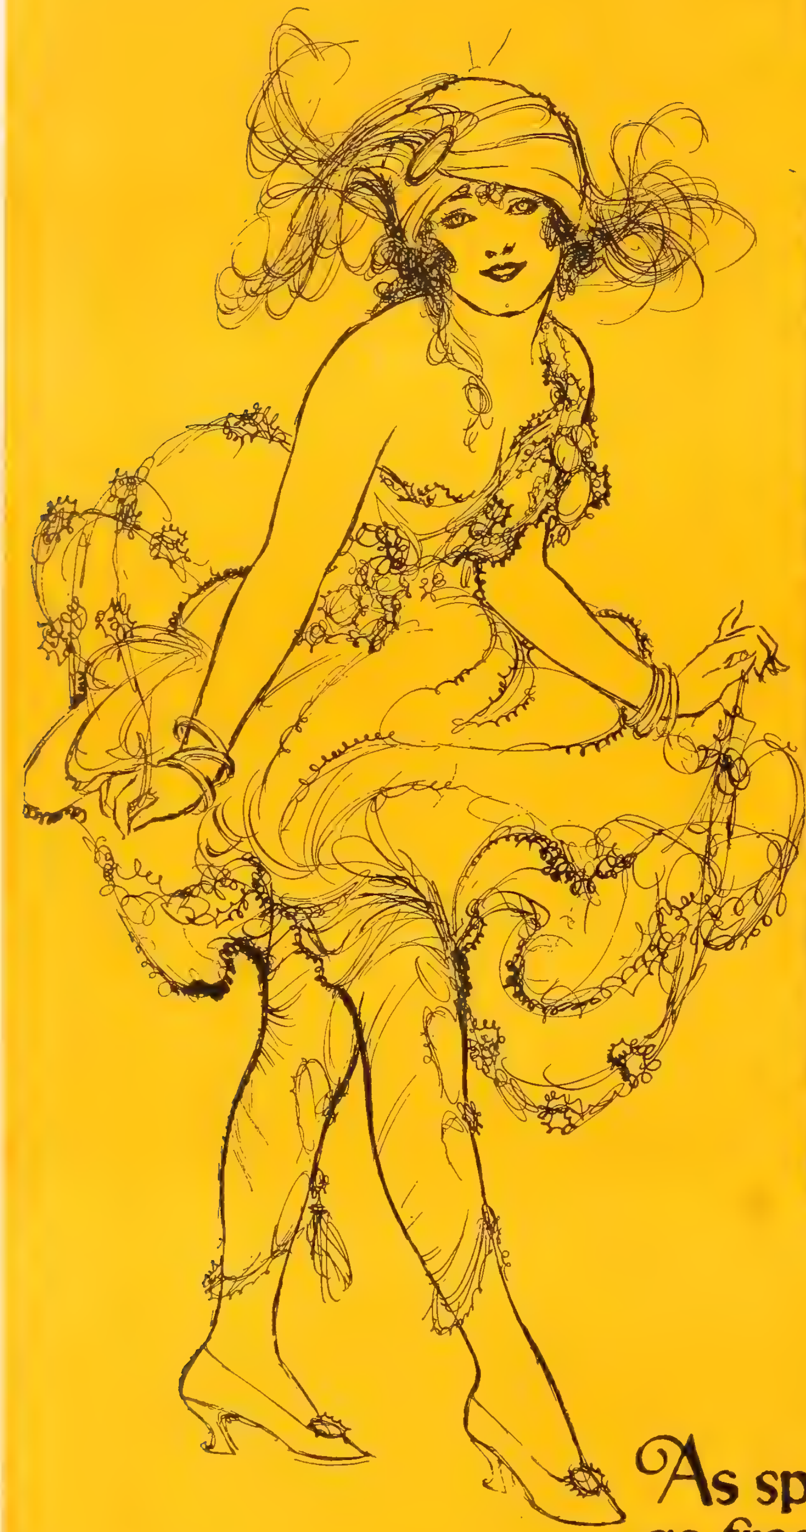
"OH, BOY!"

Adapted to the Screen and directed by ALBERT CAPELLANI From the Musical Success of Elliot, Comstock & Gest

Written by P. J. Wodehouse, Guy Bolton and Jerome Kern

PATHÉ DISTRIBUTORS

"Oh,

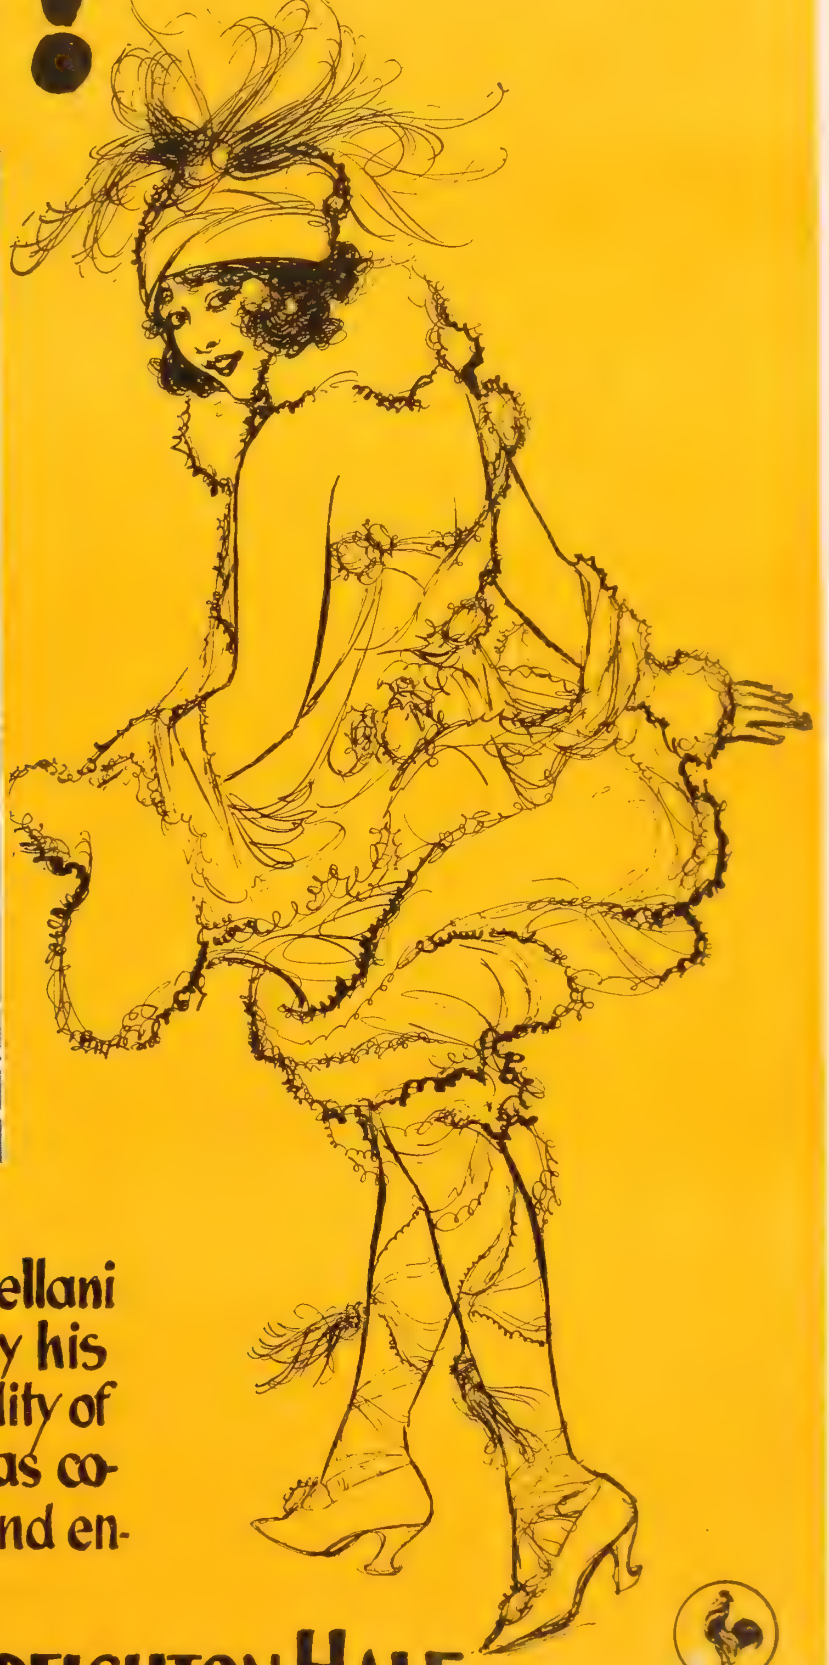


JUNE CAPRICE

As sparkling and as fresh as the dew of a June morning; as spicy as the breezes of far Cathay. The creation of Mr. Capellani himself, the creator of great features.

Boy!"

CREIGHTON HALE



The first of the Albert Capellani productions produced by his own company; of first quality of course. Introducing as co-stars the two youthful and engaging personalities.

JUNE CAPRICE and CREIGHTON HALE

"Oh, Boy!"

On the stage it had 'em coming for two solid years on old Broadway— first at the Princess then at the Casino. It got Chicago and turned em away there for about the same length of time. It has played every city worth a whoop since then because it's a great show!

Now it's a picture, a Capellani picture, a box office picture, with a title, a producer, production and stars that all mean dough!

Friend, you just simply can't afford to pass up this one!

A Six Part Special

PATHÉ DISTRIBUTORS

ALBERT CAPELLANI

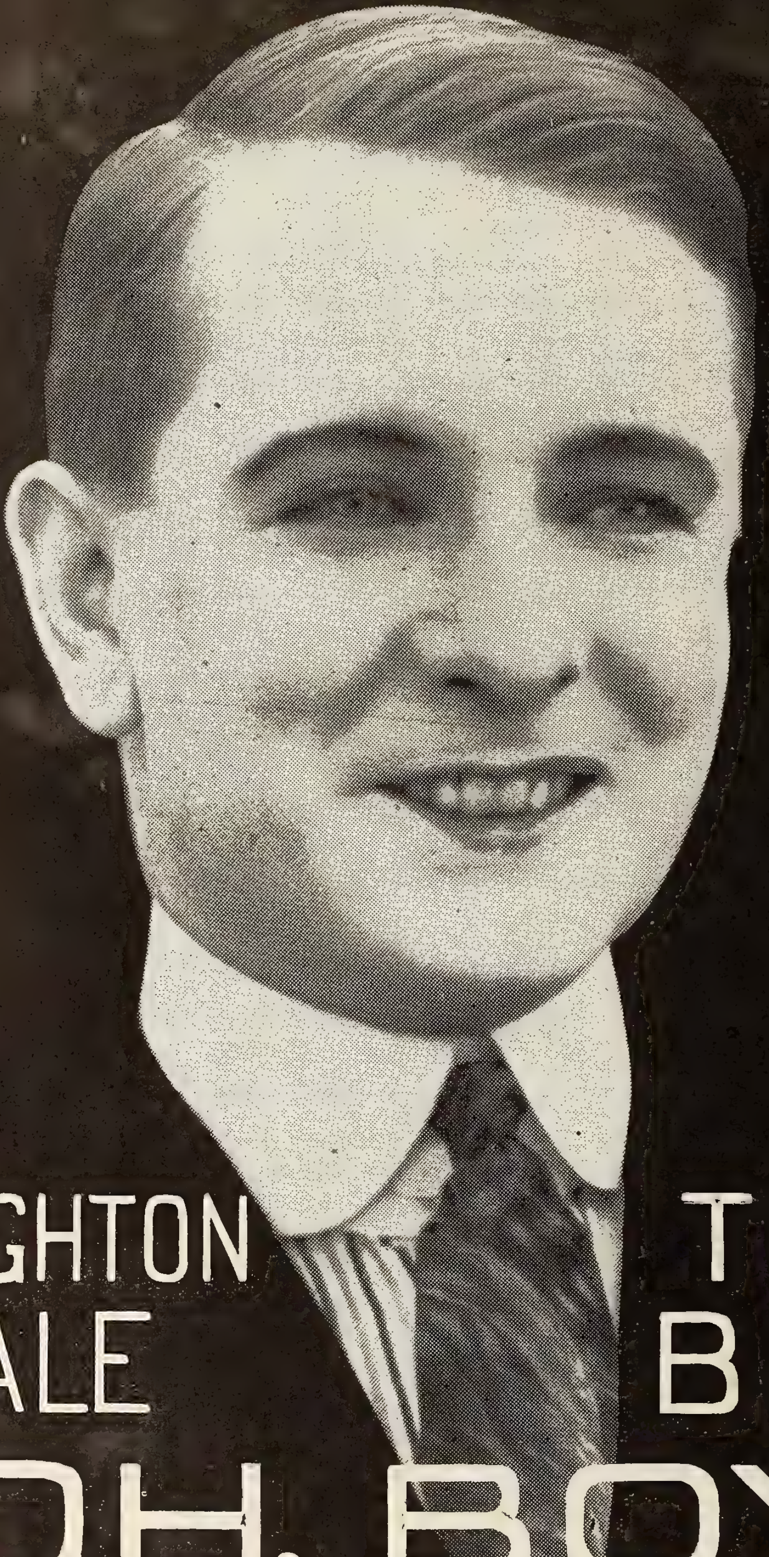
WHO PRODUCED

"OH, BOY!"

FOR

ALBERT CAPELLANI PRODUCTIONS INC.

ADOLF OSSO—VICE PRES. AND GENERAL MANAGER.



CREIGHTON
HALE

THE
BOY

IN

"OH, BOY!"

PRODUCED BY

ALBERT CAPELLANI PRODUCTIONS INC.

ADOLF OSSO—VICE PRES. AND GENERAL MANAGER.

THE GIRL

JUNE CAPRICE

IN

"OH, BOY!"

PRODUCED BY

ALBERT CAPELLANI PRODUCTIONS INC.

ADOLF OSSO—VICE PRES. AND GENERAL MANAGER.

Big Promise for Fox "Checkers"

William Fox's Big Production Is Said to Contain Many Exciting and Picturesque Scenes, Which Press Book Will Help to Exploit

IN connection with forthcoming releases, the Fox Film Corporation makes an interesting statement concerning "Checkers," the screen adaptation of the late Henry Blossom, Jr.'s, play of that name, which, for more than fifteen years, held sway on the speaking stage. "Checkers" has been in course of preparation for four months by Richard Stanton, who has directed a number of leading productions for William Fox, including "The Caillaux Case," "Why I Would Not Marry" and "The Land of the Free."

"In listing this production," says the Exhibitors Service Bureau, "the Fox Film Corporation recognized the tremendous publicity value inherent in a story which had been before the public in spoken form so many years and which had received volumes of laudatory newspaper reviews. This was one of the influences in determining the selection of this drama.

"The press book that is to be issued on 'Checkers' for the benefit of exhibitors will receive unusual attention. It will contain, pictorially, such great scenes as the train wreck, innermost Chinatown, the thrilling horse races at Belmont Park and the inspiring aeroplane scene, besides an extraordinary amount of helpful reading matter."

Exhibitors, it is said, are to be advised to go the limit on the spectacular train wreck. This is a bona-fide wreck, filmed recently on a road crossing Kill von Kull, between Staten Island and New Jersey.

The Raritan River Railroad was prevailed upon to turn over the use of the entire system for one day, Sunday, to the Fox Film Corporation. Two runaway cars, ablaze, were speeded down grade to an open drawbridge, through which they plunged into South River.

"No exhibitor need put brakes on his statement concerning the racing scenes in 'Checkers'—for they were filmed at the famous Belmont Park, Long Island, and on a New Jersey course. Twelve thoroughbreds were entered in the race which figures in the play. Jean Acker, leading woman in 'Checkers,' rode Remorse to victory. All the excitement and thrills which attend big racing meets are registered in this Fox special.

Peggy Hyland is the William Fox star in "Cowardice Court," from the Novel

"Sensational aeroplane scenes also constitute a basis for valuable advertising publicity, while the Chinatown episodes are unprecedentedly accurate in every detail.

"A complete Chinatown district was built at Fort Lee, including even the pavement of the street. Scores of Chinamen were engaged for the scenes to give the exact local color and atmosphere. Sightseeing automobiles and parties pass through the district, while drug addicts, opium fiends and hangers-on loll about the doorways. A celebrated saloon and dance hall, which once was the resort of desperadoes, is pictured in this massive set.

Viola Dana, New Member of "We've Been Up" Club, Tells Thrill

Get together two persons who have had the same experience,—whether it is having the 'flu, or having flew—and an animated exchage of confidences will take place.

Among those at the Metro studio who have been for aerial joyrides are Director-General Maxwell Karger, Director Edwin Carewe and John Ince, and Robert Kurrle, Bert Lytell's cameraman.

When Mr. Karger returned from the East he learned that Viola Dana, Metro star, had been up in the air, too. He went out on the luxurious set where the piquant star was appearing in a scene of "The Microbe," the Henry Altimus story being directed by Henry Otto, and plumped himself down on a sofa beside Miss Dana.

"So you've joined the 'We've Been Up' club? What do you think of the air?"

"I'll tell you what, Mr. Karger—I'm never scared as long as the engine is running—are you? But when they shut it off—whoof!—that awful feeling—"

"It didn't bother me. I thought I would be afraid at first but I soon got over that. He did a figure eight with me, starting over the studio and going away over the Hollywood foothills."

"But the sideslip!" said Miss Dana, punching a pillow into comfortable shape. "Did he do that with you? I love the sideslip. You don't have to lean out to see the earth. The pilot just tips the plane, you glance out, and—there it is!"

Just then Director Otto said "all right, Miss Dana," and the reminiscences were over.

Sidney Drew's Farewell

The last picture in which Sidney Drew appeared, "Squared," is announced for release by Paramount on June 15. This V. B. K. Film Corporation picture was produced by the Drews at the Essanay studios in Chicago while they were playing in a stage success.

Goldwyn Plans for Year Announced July 1

AN exchange of correspondence between Jules E. Mastbaum of the Stanley theatre, Philadelphia, and Samuel Goldwyn, president of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, gives light on the Goldwyn "booking" policy for the new year.

Mr. Mastbaum wrote, asking for information regarding the policy of distribution to be followed next season. To this Mr. Goldwyn replied:

"Frankly, as long ago as last December we saw this coming. We foresaw then the questions that you and hundreds of exhibitors are now asking. We knew that this fall would bring vast changes in the industry which no company wishing to hold leadership could afford to ignore. And we backed our belief by preparing half a year in advance.

"Have therefore spent four of the past five months on the Coast co-operating with our production forces in the task of creating, far in advance of release, the powerful pictures needed to meet the new demands.

"Since my return to New York, we have been going over the distributing proposition with a fine-tooth comb. Aided by the presence and advice of our branch managers, we are working out a sales and exploitation plan flexible enough to meet the manifold needs and conditions of the exhibitors of America.

"Naturally, no exhibitor can make his bookings safely until he learns just what our policy is to be. We expect to issue a definite and concrete announcement the first week of July, and I shall be very glad then to run over to Philadelphia and go over the whole proposition personally with you."

Marion Davies, Who Is Starring in "April Folly," for Select

Demure Peggy Wood, who will be Will Rogers' Leading woman in Goldwyn pictures

Leading Man for Elaine Hammerstein Signed

Myron Selznick announces that he has signed Robert Ellis on a long term contract to appear as leading man in Selznick productions. Mr. Ellis has already appeared in two Selznick productions, "Upstairs and Down" and "The Spite Bride," in support of Olive Thomas, and made such a favorable impression that it was decided to engage him exclusively for Selznick pictures.

Robert Ellis is well known to screen fans having appeared in the silent drama at numerous times during the past few years. He left the screen several months ago to resume stage work and became leading man for the Morosco Stock Company in Los Angeles.

His first part will probably be as leading man for Elaine Hammerstein in "Love or Fame."

Christie Looking for Comedy Material

Al E. Christie, who has recently launched the production of feature comedies in two reels, has called attention to the fact that he is depending very largely on outside writers for the furnishing of scenario ideas for his new Special Comedies. Both Al E. and C. H. Christie declare that they cannot over emphasize the fact that in producing feature comedies in two reels, the story material should nearly always be of the type which has frequently been considered as typical five reel comedy-drama material, in other words, it is the idea of the Christies to produce two reel comedies from stories of five reel calibre.

Illustrative of the manner in which material is selected for Christie Specials and Christie Comedies is the fact that stories have already been secured from many well-known writers such as Joseph Franklin Poland, Epes Winthro Sargent, Margaret Tarelton Brady, Hal Reid, William E. Wing and many others.

Screen Plays To Bind Friendship

Robertson-Cole Representative Finds South American Feeling for United States Enhanced Through Medium of Screen

THE American motion picture is doing its part in cementing the bonds of friendship between the United States and other nations, particularly those of Latin America, according to a representative of Robertson-Cole who has just completed a trip through South America.

Predjudices are being brushed aside by the knowledge others gain of American people and American ways through the medium of the screen, according to the Robertson-Cole representative. As an aid to reprocity, the cinematograph is in a class by itself.

American motion pictures have obtained such a strong foothold in South America, that they are shown there now virtually to the exclusion of European pictures which once controlled the field. Take for instance, Brazil where the Robertson-Cole representative made his longest observation. The boys and girls in that country have learned more about the United States in the last few years by frequenting American Cinematograph shows recently popularized there than for whole generations previously. The answer is that it is easier to fix in the memory what pleases the eye and appeals to the sense. It is one thing to learn in this way and quite another to reason out an abstract problem.

"Dramas or comedies which at all convey the true life in the United States have a most unusual appeal to the South Americans," said the Robertson-Cole traveller.

The thinking South American parents who frequent motion picture shows accompanied by their children begin to realize how much their knowledge of the practical and useful in every day objects has been increased. In fact these children know more of the outside world today than the young men of twenty years ago.

It is interesting and almost uncanny to the older men of South America to hear them discuss among themselves some of the wonders of today. They begin very early to have a mind of their own, desirous of learning tangible things that they can appreciate.

"South American authorities are encouraging the exploitation of American films in their country. They are well aware of the vast benefits to be gained by their people from these pictures.

"As soon as American manufacturers get away from their belief that the best is not appreciated in other countries the sooner will they gain absolute control of the export motion picture field.

Fairbanks Picture to Duplicate N. Y. Run

FOR the first time in the history of the Rialto and the Rivoli theatres of New York City, the same production has been scheduled for a week's engagement at each house. The picture to which Managing Director Hugo Riesenfeld is according this signal honor is the Paramount-Artcraft special, "The Knickerbocker Buckaroo," starring Douglas Fairbanks, and the choice was made by public demand.

"The Knickerbocker Buckaroo" has played one week at the Rivoli. Despite the warm weather it packed that big house throughout the week and thousands who could not gain admission were disappointed. Public demand for an immediate return date of the Fairbanks film became so insistent that Dostor Riesenfeld had no choice but to rebook it and it is scheduled for the Rialto theatre next week.

The policy of playing a successful picture one week at the Rialto and one week at the Rivoli was instituted by Doctor Riesenfeld with "The Knickerbocker Buckaroo" because he felt that here at last was a production that merited this deviation from the established weekly change policy. The big business that it brought to the Rivoli and the large crowds that were turned away nightly assured him of the picture's drawing power.

"The Knickerbocker Buckaroo" met with instant favor in New York City. It was received enthusiastically by the Rivoli's patrons and was geenrously commented upon in the daily newspapers. Following are a few of the criticisms:

Exhibitors who have not yet shown "The Knickerbocker Buckaroo" to their patrons may therefore begin to plan for repeat bookings, the distributors point out. If New York opinion can be counted on in this instance, it would seem that the picture were destined to repeat in the majority of first-run houses throughout the country.

Record Ten-Day Run of Hodkinson Release

Packed houses during a ten-day run is the record at the Blue Mouse theatre, St. Paul, Minn., for "As a Man Thinks," Augustus Thomas' Four Star production starring Leah Baird, W. W. Hodkinson release. Originally booked for a week, the public interest necessitated a three-day extension Fully a week before the opening of "As a Man Thinks" at the Blue Mouse, Manager Rowe plastered the town with announcements heralding the Augustus Thomas feature. Recalling that "As a Man Thinks" in its stage version proved one of the successes of the year in St. Paul several years ago, Mr. Rowe made much capital of its hit in the spoken drama.

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

Plaint of the Authors Is Riddled

EXCEPTION to the recently published plaints of authors that their works are given no chance when produced on the screen, is taken by Harry Rapf, general manager of the Selznick studios.

"Nearly every piece of fiction written has to be considered altered when adapted to the screen," says Mr. Rapf, "for the simple reason that it is fiction, and not real. Authors who write fiction are able by their clever style, working, and pen personality to cover up glaring inconsistencies and disguise illogical situations. When a story is presented in film form, however, it is stripped bare of all unreality and every situation must be logical and lifelike or else it will not be accepted by the picture going public.

"The trouble with most novels and fiction is that they consist mostly of words, clever dialogue, descriptions, etc. What we want for the screen are situations, not works. When the big authors can give us these they will find that their stories are not being 'hacked to pieces.' Evidence of this is in the fact that when an expert continuity writer creates a story, it reaches the screen in practically its original form.

"Some novels that take up over 300 pages of reading matter have not enough real story matter and situation to make a two-reel film. Yet look at Leila Burton Well's short story, 'The Naked Truth,' from which the Eugene O'Brien production, 'The Perfect Lover,' is being made. This story consumed only a little over half a dozen pages as it was originally published, yet it is so rich in real human situations, dramatic moments, so full of story matter and plot, that it simply crams a five reel picture to the brim with action.

"When authors say that producers will not pay them in accordance with the value of the time and effort they put on an original scenario, I disagree with them. I know that there is no limit to the amount that Myron Selznick will pay for a good scenario and I believe that the same holds true with many of the other big producing companies. Facts show that the producers have been paying way up into the thousands to get the proper material.

"The trouble with the contrary authors is that they will not give the time to study photoplay construction and the demands of the producers. When they do write an original story for the screen it is not a photoplay but mere fiction in scenario form. There is all the difference in the world between the two. Fiction in scenario form is no good to film producers because it has not enough substance to make a five reel photoplay."

Critic Commends Two Universal Productions

COMMENDATION from Julian Johnson, editor of "Photoplay" and well known picture critic, is offered by Universal in support of the claims that two productions "Pretty Smooth" and "The Weaker Vessel" were somewhat ahead of the ordinary production.

After viewing both pictures Mr. Johnson wrote to Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, as follows:

"I think 'Pretty Smooth' is one of the best crook stories ever put on the screen, for the reason that it is written by a man who knew his medium. It is not the old hokum, but real characters and the real argot of the underworld, as Mr. Veiller reproduced them in his stage play "Within the Law." It is a delight to the intelligence Priscilla Dean makes a real person out of Gertie.

"Paul Powell has a true-to-life, positive uproar in 'The Weaker Vessel.' In this fellow John Cooke, who plays Hanks, he has sprung a comedian of the first water, and not a comedian of antics or acrobats, but an oddity right out of the book of small-town life. Both Thurston Hall and Mary MacLaren do exceptionally good work, but Hanks is so confoundedly, everlastingly funny that I am going to advise all my friends not to see this photoplay on any warm night—you get so hot when you have to laugh that way, you know."

Universal made public this letter because it is considered proof that Universal is producing better and bigger pictures than it ever made before.

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

Named Kansas City Head for United Artists

That Hiram Abrams, general manager of United Artists Corporation, is seeking out a group of specialists to head the distributing depots of the company is further shown this week by the appointment of Harry D. Buckley of St. Louis to the post of sales manager of the Kansas City office of the "Big Four."

For the last six years Mr. Buckley has managed the Columbia and Strand theatres of St. Louis, operated by the Cella and Tate interests. Prior to that, he managed the Garrick in St. Louis for the Shuberts. In connection with his appointment to the Kansas City office, it was stated on behalf of United Artists Corporation that mere ability to sell film was not the gauge by which its sales organization is to be measured. It is felt that Mr. Buckley will bring to his new work an understanding of exhibitor problems, their limitations and their possibilities, that will be of immense value in rendering genuine constructive aid to the theatres in the territory.

A dramatic moment for June Elvidge in "Love and the Woman"

Metro Resigns Nazimova for Two Years

Before leaving for the Pacific Coast Mme. Nazimova renewed her contract with Metro Pictures Corporation, thus setting at rest many rumors which have been prevalent as to the future activities of the great star. President Richard A. Rowland had affixed his signature to the contract on behalf of the Metro Pictures Corporation prior to his sailing for Europe, and only the matter of Mme. Nazimova's signature was necessary to complete an arrangement by which Metro is assured of Nazimova's services for two more years.

General Manager William E. Atkinson announced that the Nazimova productions will be even more pretentious than those which have gone before. An announcement concerning the productions will be made with the detailed announcement of Metro's "fewer and better pictures" policy which will be made public before July first.

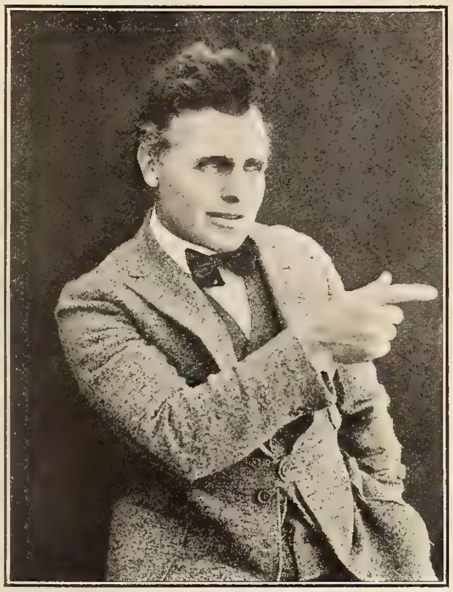
Pearl White's Serial Is Near Completion

"In Secret," Pearl White's latest Pathe serial based on stories by Robert W. Chambers, America's foremost novelist, is now in the last stages of completion at the studio of the George B. Seitz Productions, Inc. Director Seitz is now working on the fifteenth and last episode.

Miss White has as her leading man in the new serial Walter McGrail. Prominent in the cast also is Major Wallace McCutcheon, formerly of the Canadian Army and a veteran of the first two years of the great war.

As Evelyn Erith, the heroine of Mr. Chambers' story, Miss White is said to have a great dramatic role. The part demands much both in the way of action and emotional acting.

Dorothy Dalton in "Other Men's Wives" and William S. Hart and Ann Little in "Square Deal Sanderson" are features of the Paramount program released June 15.



Judge Willis Brown, of Juvenile Court fame, collaborating with World on a picture series

Universal Serial Titled After Three Attempts

The permanent title of the new Universal international serial has been selected. It is "The Thirteenth Hour." This serial, which according to plans will cover more territory than any ever produced, will be released several months from now and according to Universal's officials will receive the greatest amount of exploitation and advertising of any of its former serials.

Eddie Polo, star in "The Lure of the Circus" and many other serials is in the leading role.

The story of the serial was originally written as "The Broken Idol," later changed to "Trailed Around the World" and finally named "The Thirteenth Hour."

"Man Who Turned White" Is Heavily Booked

The success of the first Superior picture, "The Man Who Turned White," starring H. B. Warner, which Robertson-Cole will release through Exhibitors Mutual, is already assured by the large number of bookings will have poured into Exhibitors Mutual headquarters following the Broadway showing of the production.

Poli's Circuit of Connecticut has the distinction of being the first big chain of theatres to obtain bookings on "The Man Who Turned White."

Starts Work on Next

Mitchell Lewis, star in Select Pictures, whose current attraction, "Jacques of the Silver North," is now being shown in the first-run theatres throughout the country, has already commenced work on the fourth of his Star Series productions for Select.

Mr. Lewis and his company, with Robert Bradbury, the new director general of the Mitchell Lewis Producing Company, are now located on the banks of the Columbia River in the State of Washington.

Baseball Depicted "As It Is Today"

Novagraph Takes Remarkable Pictures of Giant Players, New York, in Action, for Pathe Review Release

CHARLES WATSON, president of the Novagraph Company, has just completed making, for the Pathe Review, a series of slow motion baseball studies. All of the star players of the Giants, New York, are shown and so thorough was the work accomplished during five days with the team on the Polo Grounds, New York, that the analysis may be said to go almost as a course of complete instruction.

This achievement, though it had been planned in the very beginning of the exploitation of the slow motion pictures by Pathe, was the result of a mass of suggestions from sporting departments of newspapers all over the country and in thousands of letters both to Pathe Exchange and John J. McGraw.

The early baseball pictures, shown in the Pathe Review, were of non-professionals, and, as open to technical criticisms as they were, Mr. McGraw at once realized their tremendous value as an aid to rapid, intensive training. Baseball enthusiasts wished to behold their favorites make contribution as to "how to play ball." It was only recently that arrangements could be completed to have the pictures made.

During the five days before the normal and the high-speed cameras, the Giants worked on an average of about two and one-half hours in the forenoon, usually from ten o'clock to twelve-thirty, and, knowing how the inside revelation of their different plays were awaited by a great baseball-loving public, put into their work all of the pep, snap and enthusiasm of real championship play. Manager McGraw was tremendously gratified with the results, and when he saw the first projections of the "takes," remarked:

"These are really marvelous pictures and their value as an aid to training is well nigh invaluable. The emphasis and purport of what the ear receives is frequently incompletely carried by the man. But here are demonstrations, appealing to the eye, which cannot be forgotten."

The Novagraph also has pictured George Bothner, the fifty-two-year-old light-weight champion wrestler, in a series of interesting pictures.

One Censor Bans Fox Play, Another Praises

THE differing views and methods of censors are evidenced by the contradictory instances reported on William Fox pictures shown in Springfield, Mo., and Buffalo, N. Y.

What happened in these two cities is contrasted in local newspaper articles of the Buffalo Evening Times account of the censorship imposed on Mr. Carver:

"Captain John Marnon, of the Third Police Precinct, walked to the front of the Family theatre yesterday afternoon and ripped from the lobby display frames three pictures of Miss Annette Kellerman, who shows at the Family next week in 'Queen of the Sea,' the film which has made a tremendous sensation in Boston, New York and Chicago.

"'These pictures are not fit to be exhibited,' said the captain to the care-taker. 'Tell the manager I want to see him.'"

A strong contrast to the Buffalo city attitude is shown in an article in the Springfield, Mo., Leader, which reports the showing of the Fox production, "Salome" in the following words:

"The first day's presentation at the Landers theatre of 'Salome,' a Fox production with Theda Bara in the leading role, compelled that kind of admiration for which the superb star is said to draw a fabulous salary. Sleek, sinuous, seductive—and all the sibilent adjectives used by the press agent to describe the incomparable Bara—did not overdo the subject, for Bara was all of that, and more."

"The film was witnessed last night by city officials, who said that it would not be interfered with. There were few members in the audience who would have recommended any changes. Salome's veil dance was sufficiently veiled to pass the censor."

Adolf Philipp, President and General Manager of Adolf Philipp Film Corporation

Bonns Leaves Fox Film Corporation

Eddie Bonns, who has been acting as special representative for the Fox Film Corporation with headquarters at the Indianapolis exchange for the past ten months, handed in his resignation, effective June 14. He will take a short vacation before making any future affiliation.

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

"Co-operation is Watchword of United"

Day When Exhibitor and Producer Would Get Together with Mutual Benefit Really Dawned on Formation of United Artists' Corporation, Says Hiarm Abrams, General Manager

THAT the hope and desire to bring about co-operation between producer and exhibitor, upon which idea the United Artists' Association was formed by Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith, is certain of fulfillment, is the impression made on Hiram Abrams, General Manager of the corporation, through his many trips throughout the country of late. The record-breaking business already written on the first release of the company, the Fairbanks picture which is to be put out in September, is given as another proof that there was firm basis for the belief that such an end could be accomplished, when the United Artists was formed.

Mr. Abrams, speaking on the topic during the past week, said:

No Jumping Intended

"When Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith formed their association they had in mind not merely the seeking of a different channel of distribution for their products. It was not their intention to go from one distributing company to another. They intended to depart from all the plans and traditions of then existing distributors, for they felt that nowhere in the industry was there an outlet for their product that would assure to exhbitors the freedom of action that was essential for the proper exploitation of their pictures. Likewise, they felt that their own freedom of action was not assured under contracts that they would be obliged to enter into if their pictures were to be released through outside distributors.

"Only one way seemed open to them: the formation of their own distributing organization, leaving them free to deal direct with the showmen of America, and enabling them to work hand in hand with the men who exhibited their pictures to the public.

"On this was built United Artists Corporation, the first and only organization of its kind, in which the master-artists of the screen were to sell their product direct to the exhibitors.

"And what has been the result so far. In the first place, exhibitors for a long time had demanded genuine open booking, single picture rental that would leave them free to handle pictures as individual units on a basis of pure merit. In answer to this exhibitor demand the United Artists committed themselves to single picture booking, a move that would have been impossible if they had not had their own distributing organization over which they could exercise full and complete control.

"And we are already seeing the fruits of producing with genuine exhibitor co-operation in mind. Mr. Fairbanks is well along in the production of his first release, and by wire and correspondence he has been in constant touch with the home office here, so that when his picture is ready for exhibitors there will be ready with it the finest exploitation aids that can be devised. And the production itself will reflect much that we have gained from the suggestions of the leading showmen of the country, for which Mr. Fairbanks is grateful.

"And the net results of it all are the truly remarkable bookings already secured on the September release. A representative first run of extraordinary length and magniture is assured all over the country, indicating clearly that the direct-with-the-star method of doing business is what the exhibitor wants.

"Every booking contract has been made through the home office of United Artists Corporation, pending the opening of our own distributing depots. The sales managers of two of our fifteen depots have already been announced, and others will follow as quickly as men of the calibre we want for our organization take hold.

"At no time, and under no circumstances, will any productions of United Artists Corporation be handled in any other way than through our own organization. Every exhibitor in the country will at all times know that full and complete control of their productions remain with the United Artists so that in renting the pictures of Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith, the exhibitor, in dealing with United Artists Corporation, is working with the producer-artists themselves.

"Despite innumerable rumors from sources that seek to enhance their own prestige by appearing to have some interest in the operations of United Artists Corporation, I want to state as plainly and emphatically as I can, that no distributing organization, or theatre circuit of any kind or any locality, will have any control or interest whatsoever in the productions of this company. At no time will even the remotest control over our releases pass from our hands. Once and for all, we want to urge exhibitors to ignore absolutely any rumors of this short, and to remember at all times that this company will deal direct with the exhibitors themselves, either through our home office or through our local distributing depots.

"The four artists who have had the courage to break away from the traditions and antiquated methods of the past would be defeating their purposes if at any time taken out of the open market or tied up in any way by interests seeking something other than the preservation of the freedom that the United Artists have won for the exhibitors of the country.

"It is well for the entire industry to be reminded of the foundations on which United Artists Corporation has been reared, and to be assured that those foundations are unchangeable."

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

British Rights to "Topics of the Day" Sold

Timely Films, Inc., producers of "Topics of the Day," announce that they have sold to B. Nichols, managing director of the Motion Picture Sales Agency, of London, England, the entire British rights to this reel. Immediately following the showing of sample prints in London, before leading theatre managers, Mr. Nichols closed the deal by cable. It is understood that these rights were sold at a large figure.

Mr. Nichols reports that British exhibitors have been quick to see the value of "Topics of the Day" as a screen attraction and the reel will be shown in the leading theatres of the British Isles.

Universal Production Is Playing to S. R. O.

"Destiny," the Universal Jewel production starring Dorothy Phillips, who was cast in the principal role in "The Heart of Humanity," with such stupendous success, bids fair to rival the latter production in popularity, according to the stream of reports coming into the Universal contract department daily. Although but lately released, the bookings that pour into the home office for this Jewel feature show that it is possible that all previous records for this actress' pictures will be broken.

Frankie Lee, young player in Stewart Edward White's "The Westerner," released by Hodkinson

Ruth Roland, Pathe Star, Who Has Been Visiting the East

National Board Approves Oscar Wilde Subject

Stating that the screen production of Oscar Wilde's "Lady Windermere's Fan" is "an unusually well done portrayal of Wilde's classical drama, the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures not only gives this subject an absolutely clean bill of health but under the heading "general comment" in its report on the picture says "intensely dramatic scenes are transferred to the screen from the spoken drama with added tenseness. It is a photoplay well acted and well worth seeing."

"Lady Windermere's Fan" is the first of four special classics in pictures released by the Triangle Film Corporation. Charles Dickens "Dombey and Son," H. B. Irving in "The Lyons Mail" and an Ellen Terry subject make up the complete set.

Keenan Is Author of Two Feature Stories

Frank Keenan, after having completed four pictures for the Pathe program, beginning with "The Master Man," is in New York to meet Mr. Charles Pathe before the latter's return to Europe and to consult with Mr. Paul Brunet, Vice-President and General Manager, regarding his coming pnctures. Mr. Keenan declares that his theory of good pictures has been vindicated by the manner in which the plays of the Frank Keenan Productions, Inc., have been received by both exhibitor and public.

It is now learned that under the name of F. X. James, Mr. Keenan was author of "The Master Man," and also of his fourth picture "The World Aflame."

"A beautiful play, told with delicacy and power" is the description the Exhibitors Service Bureau of Fox gives to the Evelyn Nesbit picture, "My Little Sister," just completed.

The second of Madge Kennedy's adventures with the West is "The Wrong Door," a Goldwyn picture which will be released on July 6, it is announced. Tom Bowers is Miss Kennedy's leading man.

"Undercurrent" Features Empey

Permanent Title Given to Special Attraction Which Was Previously Announced Under the Temporary Title of "Hell on Earth"

SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION announces this week that a definite title has been decided upon for the forthcoming Guy Empey special attraction which has been previously announced under the temporary working title of "Hell on Earth." The permanent title will be "The Undercurrent," which more adequately fits the nature of this drama. "The Undercurrent" is a forceful story of life as it is today.

Guy Empey, the soldier hero, author and lecturer, whose first screen appearance was in the picturization of his gripping war story, "Over the Top," will be seen in the principal male part of "The Undercurrent," while the leading opposite role will be filled by Sergeant Empey's co-star, Evelyn Martin. Three other feminine parts of almost equal importance will be played by Marguerite Courtot, Betty Blythe and Sallie Crute.

The story of "The Undercurrent" was conceived and written by Guy Empey himself, while the adaptation for the screen is the work of William Addison Lathrop. It is being directed by Wilfrid North, who directed Sergeant Empey in "Over the Top."

The dominant note in "The Undercurrent" is one which carries a special appeal to the public of today. It is a story of love with the contrasting elements of pathos and happiness, intrigue and design. No truer story of modern life, it is said, could have been written. The filming of "The Undercurrent" was completed this week and work is now progressing on the cutting and titling.

United Picture Hinges on "Mixed Jury"

ONE of the chief arguments used by opponents of the movement for the inclusion of women upon juries is based upon the objection to women being compelled, in the event of the jurors being locked up for the night, to remain secluded with the male jurors. Advocates of women jury service, however, come forward with plans and suggestions that would obviate this difficulty.

Dealing as it does in its story with a lone woman juror, impaneled with eleven male jurors in a criminal court trial, "The Woman Under Oath," the latest super-picture in which Florence Reed plays the star role, embodies the case in point. This United Picture Theatres, Inc., offering, however, deals with the woman juror subject wholly from the angle of dramatic entertainment and strength of story. It favors neither the advocates nor the opponents of woman's legislation and aims only to present a vivid and intense drama that shall stand out as one of the strongest examples of screen art.

decision of a western judge who ruled that this provision of jury law is observed when jurors are kept singly under guard of an officer of the court as well as when they are kept collectively under guard.

Miss Reed, star of "The Woman Under Oath," is credited with having made a careful study of juror procedure at first hand in the Tombs Court, New York City, her investigation and observation extending over a period of days. The effectiveness of this study was borne testimony to by Miss Helen McCormick, Assistant District Attorney of Kings County, New York, who made a special point of the excellence and trueness to life of the jury scene and who complimented Miss Reed on the technical and dramatic verity of her work in these court scenes.

"The Woman Under Oath" will be released June 29.

Mary Miles Minter Is the Parisian Dancer when Starring in "Yvonne from Paris," Her Latest American Offering Distributed by Pathe. This Moment Shows Her Paying Her "Orchestra"

Goldwyn is still carefully guarding the secret of what Geraldine Farrar's next picture will be, counting on surprising the exhibitors when the title and nature of the subject is announced.

Stephen Fox has commenced another William Russell subject for the American. It is to be a drama of the Tennessee mountains, and has for its tentative title "The Other Side of Eden."

Albert Ray and Elinor Fair, the William Fox team, are at work on a new story by George Washburn Child. The working title is "Live Is Love."

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

The Independent Field

Trade Awaits Red Cross Films

Educational Will Shortly Release Pictures, Taken All Over the World, First of Which Is "Doughboys on the Rhine"

FIRST release of the new single-reel productions of the American Red Cross will be made through the seventeen exchanges of the Educational Films Corporation in the immediate future. New negative is constantly accumulating at the Paris headquarters and is being received at the Educational offices in quantities sufficient to insure a regular weekly release that will shortly replace the fortnightly schedule that is to be maintained at the beginning.

The initial subject is to be titled "Doughboys on the Rhine" and will offer a fair sample of the subjects that are to follow.

American audiences are waiting for just this sort of picture, the first to come out of Germany with any comprehensive study of the German people in defeat. Throughout the reel, the American military and Red Cross forces ore kept discreetly in the background, utilizing every foot of film to give a thorough depiction of the Rhine country and its inhabitants. In brief, it is taken for granted that the audiences at home want to see the country and people that the doughboys are seeing, rather than pictures in which the troops are made the primary interest.

Inasmuch as the activities of the Bureau of Pictures began in war time, its productions merit and possess an enviable position in the short subject field. The ovation accorded the original group of ten pictures shown in the Keith vaudeville houses last fall is accounted proof positive of the merit of the subject matter. The new negative, however, must not be confused with that shown before, it being entirely recent "takes."

It is through the maintenance of a staff of high-class cameramen in Red Cross units throughout the world that the Bureau is enabled to present matter, the best of which is selected to make up the new Educational releases.

Emphasis is laid on the fact that these subjects were compiled not with the idea of showing "war stuff" or "news weekly" material, but to present a high type of scenic pictures. The policy behind the production of the new release is intended to produce single-reel attractions that will stand on their own merits, either as scenic pictures, historical subjects, timely features or short-subject novelties.

One of the men engaged in the production of these subjects is Captain Hamish McLauren, formerly press representative for S. L. Rothapfel, of the Rialto and Rivoli theatres. Capt. McLauren has just returned from Paris, bringing a large amount of new negative, and will be engaged for some time in cutting and titling it. His wide experience with theatre audiences and knowledge of what the public likes on the motion picture screen will go a long way towards insuring the quality of the releases.

Michelena "Come-Back" is Reported Success

THE return of Beatriz Michelena to the screen in "Just Squaw," which Robertson-Cole is releasing through Exhibitors' Mutual has been most successful. Whenever Miss Michelena was known before she retired temporarily from screen work, she is reported to have immediately regained her popularity with the premiere showing of "Just Squaw." Where she was unknown, 'tis said, she gathered a new clientele.

"Just Squaw" is selling especially well, according to information from Exhibitors' Mutual. People are still fond of Western melodrama, with a real thrill, and "Just Squaw" has all the elements that constitute a real Western.

Miss Michelena's personal charm and appeal has been recognized even by all the critics in her first vehicle for Robertson-Cole. There is no denying that the personality of this popular favarite suffered nothing whatever by her lay-off from motion picture activities.

With the marked success recorded by "Just Squaw," Robertson-Cole is looking forward to even bigger returns from "The Deadline," which is now receiving its finishing touches in the laboratory, but which will not be released until later in the summer.

"The Deadline" contains ever more action than the stage and screen star's first offering.

An official of Robertson-Cole, in commenting upon the big sale which "Just Squaw" is enjoying, said:

"We expected Miss Michelena would meet with wide favor, but we hardly anticipated the heavy returns "Just Squaw" has already produced. This picture is so full of intense action and human interest that we saw no reason why it should not be a success, but our fondest expectations have been shattered, which gives us courage to look for even more munificent appreciation on "The Deadline."

THE MYSTERY OF 13

A Moment in the Maurice Tourneur Production, "Broken Butterfly"

"Price of Innocence" Meriting Approval

Successor to "Shore Acres and "Way Down East," in the classical character of theme and story, the Buffalo Motion Picture Corporation's production of "The Price of Innocence" with Stella Talbot, is reported playing to exceptional business throughout the United States.

Like the two plays of the dramatic stage, this screen story is based on the lives of "just home folks." Its locale is "Goose Island," a "squatter" settlement off the coast of Maine. Here, as in "Shore Acres" and "Way Down East," in the midst of a quiet and peaceful community of quaint characters, stalks drama and tragedy, tempered with the humor that springs from the reflex of their cynicism and narrowness.

Stella Talbot in the role of Mary Aldron, gives herself in an unselfish attempt to save "Squatter" kin from homelessness and privation. When she returns again to the island, after ten days as the "guest" of Edward Greyson, its owner, she finds its population united in its horror over her action. Tense moments then developed for her.

The production is being distributed by the individual First National exchanges. catch independent

"Boomerang" Road Show

S. Aronowitz of the Quality Attractions Co., of Des Moines, has notified the Pioneer officials that he intends to exploit "The Boomerang" in his territory as a complete road show.

This step was decided upon after mature deliberations. "The Boomerang," in addition to having Henry B. Walthall as its star, due to the big theme, is considered to equal the calibre of many of the pictures that have successfully been handled as road attractions.

Arrangements are now being made to present this Pioneer special first at one of the leading theatres in Des Moines, and shortly after to send out the road organization.

Three scenes from "The Sins of the Children," Pioneer production, the duo in the center being Stuart Holmes and Alma Hanlon, featured players

Continental Tour in Interest of Pioneer

Jerry Abrams, who has been appointed special represntative by the Pioneer Film Corporation, is now on his way across the country with all the latest Pioneer Features. The reception which has been given him at all the exchange centers from Philadelphia to Atlanta is looked upon as an indication that his trip will be a complete success.

He is offering the state right buyers of the country several big Pioneer productions, among them being "The Boomerang," "The Sins of the Children," "The Girl from Nowhere," "Virtuous Sinners" and "Suspicion."

Mr. Abrams' itinerary includes visits to Washington, Baltimore, Charlotte, N. C., New Orleans, Dallas, Oklahoma City, St. Louis, Kansas City, Des Moines, Omaha, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

Exploits Film Via Petitions

Harry L. Reichenbach, special representative of C. R. Macauley Photoplays, 516 Fifth avenue, New York, has added another novelty to his string used in exploiting "When Bearcat Went Dry." The well known film man has had petitions circulated for signatures throughout the United States. These have been adopted by a number of Anti-Dry Associations, and after they are filled with names will be sent to Washington as a plea against prohibition. The petitions offer unusual exploitation possibilities for "When Bearcat Went Dry."

In addition to the petitions, it is announced that 7,000 book stores, 4,900 drug stores and 5,000 stationery stores have been placarded by Grosset & Dunlap, publishers of the book, from which the motion picture was produced.

In Justice to J. A. Golden

An announcement of the serial, "The Great Gamble," erroniously gave credit to a Sydney Golden as the director. In reality it was Joseph A. Golden who was at the helm of the production, and is to be credited with the success of the picture.

Blackton Organizes New Company

Blackton Productions Superseded by J. Stuart Blackton Feature Pictures; First Release Is Announced

A NEW company to be known as the J. Stuart Blackton Feature Pictures, Inc., with the producer as President and Director-General, has been formed. This corporation will take over the interests of Blackton Productions, Inc., the independent company organized by the producer two years ago.

The J. Stuart Blackton Feature Pictures, Inc., is capitalized at $1,000,000 and though the names of those associated with the producer in the new organization have not been given, it is announced that the new company has the sound backing of several of New York's most influential and financially responsible commercial representatives.

In discussing the details of his new company which is in line with recent announcements concerning his production expansion plans, Commodore Blackton said, "The J. Stuart Blackton Feature Pictures, Inc., is naturally a source of gratification to me since it realizes many film production ideas of long standing. It is my plan to make from six to ten special pictures annually, supervising all the productions made and continuing to personally direct the super-features we shall release.

"We have acquired valuable property adjoining my present studios in Brooklyn, which will enable us to greatly increase our working space along plans already drawn up.

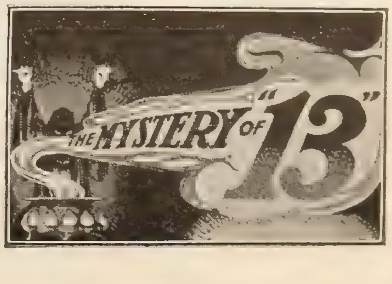
"Associated with me in the work of the new organization will be: Martin Justice, the artist, whom I have engaged to direct some of our new productions and to collaborate with me as art director on all of our features; Jack Martin, my right hand man, who will continue in charge of our studio and technical staff; my son, J. Stuart Blackton, Jr., who will work in the executive offices; and Stanley Olmstead, who will be the chief of our scenario department.

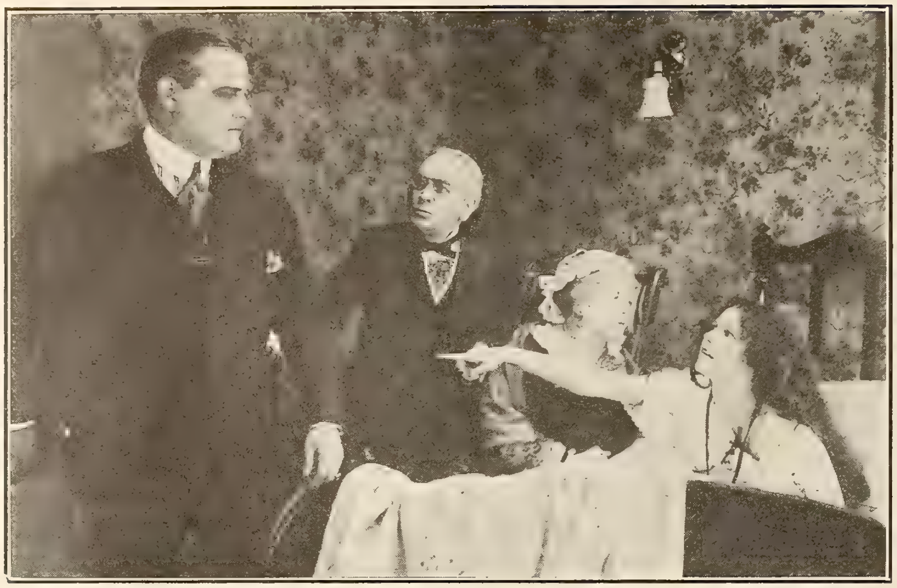
"Sylvia Breamer and Robert Gordon will play the leads in the special features, the comedy roles will be handled by Eddie Dunn and "Lefty" Alexander, Charles and Violet Blackton will appear in juvenile roles from time to time and it is probable that I shall put several other members of by present company under contract.

"O'Brien, Malevinsky and Driscoll, my attorneys, who engineered the commercial details of the new organization for me, have the placing of distribution for our entire product in hand and are now negotiating with representative interests for these rights."

With this news of the new organization, Commodore Blackton also announced that its first release will be "Moonshine," which the producer now has well under way.

Sponsor for "The Lost Battalion," played by original cast, E. A. MacManus, president of MacManus Corporation





Scene from "Reclaimed," featuring Mabel Julienne Scott and Niles Welch. (Alpha Pictures, Inc.)

Mack Sennett to Produce Drama

"Comedy King" to Enter Serious Field and Stake Reputation on One Big Feature Made Regardless of Expense

BRINGING word of the impending production of what is hoped will prove the most ambitious feature ever seen on the American screen, E. M. Asher, personal representative of Mack Sennett, arrived in New York last week. The picture planned is to be a big drama, filled with laughs as well as tears—and more than anything else, with "heart interest." According to Mr. Asher, Mr. Sennett, who has made a fortune with his comedies, is prepared to spend any amount of money on the new picture.

Mr. Asher also announced that Mr. Sennett will set no time limit whatever on the taking of the picture. He will personally direct the taking of every foot of it. When it is done, it will be done; that is all the release date that has been set. Neither has it been decided whether the production will be released through a distributing organization, sold on a state right basis or played as a road attraction at advance admission prices.

Mr. Sennett intends this picture to stand for his future reputation in the screen world.

The big Sennett Studios, covering thirty acres in the heart of Los Angeles, with every known equipment, will be a tremendous asset to the Comedy King in the staging of this big production.

It is to be literally a Sennett picture throughout, directed personally by the "Comedy King." He is ready to do the biggest thing of his life and the coming photo drama is likely to be the biggest thing in his life.

Even in his comedies, Sennett is a lavish spender of money on his productions. In this, his first super-picture, it is assured that his only concern will be to put forth a play that he can be proud of.

Part of the cast has already been selected. Assurance is given that it will be a notable collection of names that will auorn the program. Even the comedy bits of the play will be in the hands of comedians of world-wide reputation. The dramatic parts will have quite as adequate a presentation.

It is a well known axiom of literature and drama that no one can write convincingly of pathos and tenderness except he who has mastered comedy.

This is undoubtedly true of Mack Sennett. No one on terms of intimate familiarity with his work can have come to any other conclusion. The "Comedy King" is capable of a lot bigger and better and more ambitious things than has ever been sent out of his studio.

THE MYSTERY OF "13"

Next Christie Comedy Made on Big Scale

Having begun the production of the third of the Christie Specials, Al. E. Christie is carrying out plans for a two-reel comedy on a much larger scale than employed in either "Sally's Blighted Career" or "Rowdy Ann," the first Specials which have been released.

Having introduced Fay Tincher in two widely different types of roles in these Specials, Mr. Christie announces the third as still another variety for the comedienne. Farce in a city flat—or rather flats—in which several carloads of disappearing furniture furnish the crux of the plot, is the type of comedy to be employed. With Miss Tincher are four principals in a special cast.

Outing-Chester Film on Timely "Water" Subject

"Mr. Outing Climbs Aboard," which is the latest Outing-Chester release, tells a particularly timely story in Outing-Chester fashion. It is the tale of a "dry" expedition colletincg data for the days to come.

First of all the brilliant thought of bottling bath water for posterity is conceived. It is feared that with the coming of prohibition the use of water for drinking purposes will deplete the supply to such an extent that none will be available for bathing purposes.

So we see Victoria Falls—the majestic drop of the Main Falls, the beautiful tissue of the Rainbow Falls, the swirling Eastern Cataract and Devil's Cataract.

Having concluded that the supply is ample, the question of the effect of water on the nervous system arises, and to study this fully what subject like the camel? So a trek to the edge of the vast Kalahari Desert is made, and at a British Remount Depot a great herd of camels is found. They are being broken to ride, and their remarkable gyrations and the eerie attitudes into which they tie themselves suggests to the student that water has a strangely exhilarating effect upon the system.

"Red" Outrages Depicted in Gaumont Graphic

Realization of the seriousness of the Bolsheviki menace may be gathered from the pictures in the current issue of Gaumont Graphic No. 63, showing the destruction the Reds have wrought in blowing up the homes of the Attorney General and other prominent people. It is thought the pictures will bring home this atrocity better than any written word.

Other news subjects shown include the delivery of newspapers in England by airplane; launching of a concrete ship; collision of two steamers near Boston; and arrival in the United States of the first wounded Czecho-Slovak soldiers.

Rivington M. Bisland, House Manager of the Rivoli Theatre, New York

Here are moments in three D. W. Griffith Productions to be shown on Broadway this summer. At the left is one from "The Mother and the Law." In the center is an example of the elaborateness of "The Fall of Babylon" and at the right is a dramatic moment in "Broken Blossoms," the tragedy with which Griffith opened in New York May 13

Henley to Use New York Studio for Production

A studio in New York has been leased by Frank G. Hall for the use of Hobart Henley Productions, Inc.

Mr. Henley, who recently formed his own producing company, has begun work on the first of a series of four special productions to be released by Mr. Hall, and expects to have it completed and ready for showing in six weeks. John Cumberland and Corrinne Barker have been signed to play two of the principal leads.

"Everybody's Business" Is McGovern's Business

Complaint is made by H. J. Shepard of W. H. Productions that Elmer J. McGovern is now buisily at work butting in on "Everybody's Buisness." This of course is literally speaking, as it happens that at the present moment Elmer is busy editing the photoplay of that title, which will shortly be released by W. H. Productions Company on a state right basis.

New Klutho Product Is "Sunbeam Comedies"

Owing to a regrettable error in the issue of June 7, the trade name of "Sunshine Comedies" was given the forthcoming series made by H. J. Klutho, president of the Florida Film Corporation, rather than "Sunbeam Comedies" as they are to be titled.

These comedies will depend on a real story, rather than slap stick, knock-about antics, for their effect.

Australian Rights Sold

Australasian Films, Ltd., have purchased Outing-Chester Pictures rights for Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania. The deal was negotiated by Harry G. Musgrove, managing director of the company, on his recent visit to New York, assisted by Wynn Jones, manager in the company's offices in New York.

First Great Authors' Picture Ready June 15

INITIAL presentation of the first of the widely announced Great Authors' Pictures Inc. productions, Stewart Edward White's "The Westerners," will be given at the Kinema theatre, Los Angeles, on June 15. The picture is booked for a two weeks' run.

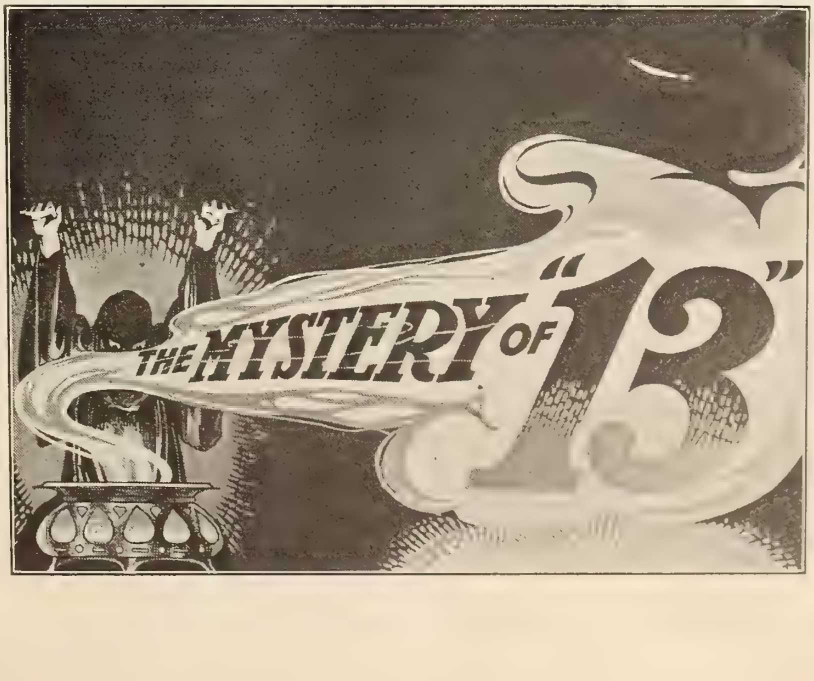
This pre-release showing of Benjamin B. Hampton's first contribution through his own company to what is hoped to be a new standard of motion picture production, a standard shaped and participated in by a group of America's best-known authors, was closed by Harry H. Hicks, manager of the W. W. Hodkinson organization in Los Angeles. This booking marks Mr. Hicks' entry once more as a sales organization factor in the exchange life in Los Angeles.

"The Westerners" presentation at the Kinema is reported to be one of the most advertised and talked-of events in picture circles on the Coast.

Stewart Edward White has not been out of sight or hearing of the Hampton studios during the past ninety days, while "The Westerners" was in the making. He has sat in judgment with Mr. Hampton and Edward Sloman, the director, upon all scenes taken, has aided in the cutting and editing of his picture, and has personally titled it into one of the most vivid of stories.

"The Westerners," instead of further emphasizing the single-star standards of the past, emphasizes the all-star principle of giving every important role to some notable player who has been starred, featured or co-starred elsewhere. The all-star cast of this production comprises Roy Stewart, Mildred Manning, Robert McKim, Graham Pettie, Wilfred Lucas, Mary Jane Irving, and a boy, Frankie Lee.

It is understood that the Hodkinson Corporation considers this production one of the best it has ever handled.



Clara Kimball Young Arrives in New York

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG has arrived in town to meet her manager, Harry Garson, and to talk over her plans for the future," says W. H. Rudolph, Mr. Garson's Eastern representative. "While here she will purchase several beautiful gowns to be used in 'Eyes of Youth,' which will be produced on the coast and will be the first of her pictures to be released independently.

"The Selig studio which Mr. Garson recently purchased in Los Angeles, and which he has modernized in a thoroughly up-to-date manner, making it one of the finest in the country will be ready for Miss Young's occupancy upon her return to the coast.

"Mr. Garson postively refuses to state at present how Miss Young's pictures will be released," says Mr. Rudolph, "but will announce his policy within the next ten days or so, but he did say that she will make only four big features a year, each one of which will be a special.

As regards Miss Young's lawsuit pending in the courts, Mr. Rudolph says that there is a rumor to the effect that everything has been settled amicably with Mr. Selznick.

"Mr. Garson has been in town for the past few days winding up his business on 'The Unpardonable Sin' for which all territory has been sold and reports that his second Blanche Sweet production, 'The Hushed Hour,' is selling very rapidly, nearly half of the United States being sold up to the present time, and that nearly all of the buyers who purchased 'The Unpardonable Sin" are scrambling to buy this one.

"Amongst the prominent buyers are: Jones, Linich and Schaefer, of Illinois; Friedman Corporation of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin and Iowa; Pioneer Film Corporation of New York State; H. F. Jans of New Jersey; Merit Film Company of the Mountain States and many others."

Presenting Dolores Cassinelli in Her First Albert Capellani Production, Inc., Picture, "The Gutter," for Pathe Distribution

Best Bennison Picture Is for Release July 1

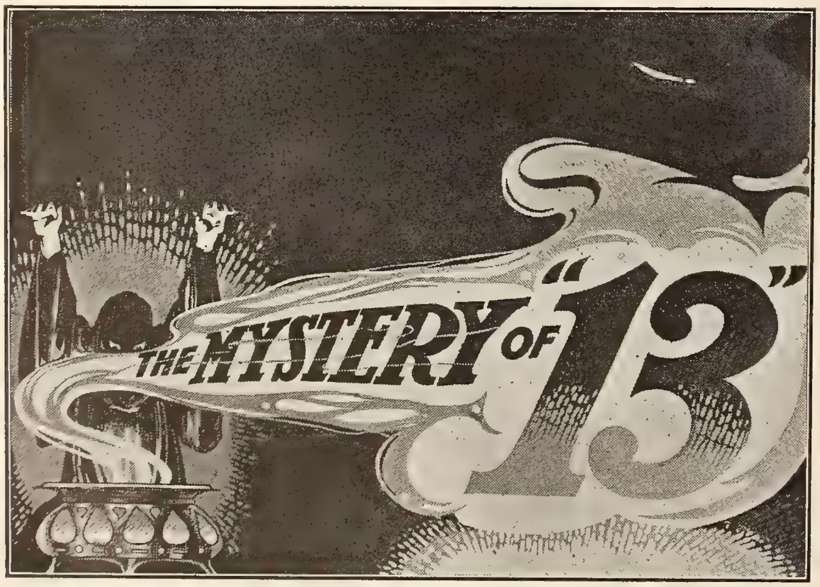
A BIG increase in bookings for the Louis Bennison Star Series productions, produced by the Betzwood Film Company and released through Goldwyn, has been noted following the player's latest release, "The Road Called Straight," now being played in the more important second and third run theatres throughout the United States and Canada. Goldwyn reports a gratifying number of contracts for every picture of Bennison's first series, from "Oh, Johnny," his first screen vehicle, to "Lord Jim," the last of the initial series, still several weeks from release date.

Goldwyn promises an unusual exploitation and showmanship campaign for the next production, "High Pockets," in which the star is supported by Katherine McDonald. This production will be released July 1, and for it the releasing company's publicity and service departments have prepared distinctive aids for exhibitors. Special paper and other advertising accessories have been prepared and the service department is ready to advise personally with any exhibitor on a campaign suited especially to his particular needs.

Officials of Betzwood and of Goldwyn regard "High Pockets" as the best picture in the present Bennison series. The play is a romance of the West in which Bennison, as the hero, is given excellent opportunities hitherto unexcelled to show the screen stuff that is in him. It was produced under the personal direction of Ira M. Lowry.

Mrs. Corbaley Joins Palmer Company

The Palmer Photoplay Corporation of Los Angeles announces the appointment of Mrs. Kate Corbaley, photoplay author, as manager of its manuscript sales department, succeeding Miss Ruth S. Allen. Mrs. Corbaley has for several months been in charge of the reading department of the Palmer Corporation.



Several Shifts Made in Jensen & Von Herberg Chain of Houses

Several changes in the management of theatres of the Jensen & Von Herberg circuit have been made, following the announcement that Ralph Ruffner has resigned from the management of the Rialto, Butte, Montana, to take charge of the Rialto in San Francisco—not a Jensen & Von Herberg house.

E. J. Myrick, for nearly two years manager of the Liberty, Portland, Ore., goes to Butte to take charge of the Rialto there, and his place at the Liberty is taken by P. E. Noble, who has been in charge of the Columbia, Portland. A. C. Raleigh, who has been advertising manager of the American, Butte, becomes manager of the Columbia in Portland.

It is rather unusual that both of the Portland men are now from the American, Butte, a competing house. Mr. Noble was manager of the American up to about a year ago.

Comedies Are Bought for Dutch East Indies

Leon Schlesinger, for years connected with the Inter-Ocean Film Corporation, and who has opened permanent offices in the Candler Building, New York, has closed a deal for the Black Diamond comedies for the Dutch East Indies and the Strait Settlements.

He is the sole American buying representative of the Oriental Trading Company of Java, and states he is always in the market for pictures likely to be suitable to his market.

"Little Sambo," the pickaninny who makes such an excellent foil to Baby Marie Osborne, will be seen in the little player's next picture, "The Little Diplomat," released June 15.

"Oh, Boy," Albert Capellani's rendition for Pathe of the musical comedy success, will be introduced to the public in a pre-lease showing of two weeks at the Ziegfeld theatre, Chicago, beginning June 7.

In and Out of West Coast Studios

By J. C. Jessen

Vitagraph News Bits

Antonio Moreno and Carol Holoway are at work on the tenth episode of their serial, "The Perils of Slumber Mountain," which is being staged under the direction of William J. Bauman.

The William Duncan Serial Company which left Los Angeles recently for Huntington Lake, there to stage the exterior scenes for the first few episodes of their latest chapter play, has found working conditions and locations so well suited to their needs that they now plan to erect all necessary sets there and stage both interior and exterior for the first five installments at the resort.

Under the direction of David Smith, the Bessie Love company this week completed the production of "Hurrying Fate and Geraldine," adapted from the story of the same name by Florence Morse Kingsley. Wallace McDonald appears opposite Miss Love with a supporting cast, including Aggie Herring, Dorothea Wolbert, Frank Hayes and Jake Abram.

Larry Semon this week completed the fifth of his Special Unit comedies, "Simple Life," and left for a short vacation in the mountains.

Universal Newsettes

Harry Klein, recently sent to the coast from New York by the Universal Film company, was this week formally installed as production manager of the company's western plant, Universal City. Whether he is to be made general manager of Universal City will not be announced until after a conference of the company heads following the arrival of President Carl Laemmle, who is scheduled to reach Los Angeles, Friday, June 6.

Work on four new feature productions was this week begun at the U studios.

Harry Carey is at work on the early scenes of another five reel western melodrama entitled, "Jim of the Rangers." The story was written by G. D. Lancaster and will be staged under the direction of Jack Ford, with Gloria Hope and Claire Anderson in the leading feminine roles.

Lynn Reynolds who recently completed the production of Joseph Medill Patterson's novel, "A Little Brother of the Rich," has started work on another six reel feature, "Brute Breaker," a story of the Canadian logging camps written by Johnson McCulley. Katherine Adams and Frank Mayo have the leading roles.

George Seigmann has started to work on a screen version of Sada Cowan's play "Playing the Game," which was produced on Broadway by Henry B. Harris. The story will be done in six reels with a special cast in which no one will be featured.

Paul Powell this week returned to the U studios from Mount Baldy, where he had gone to make the concluding scenes in the Monroe Salisbury production "Devils Have Their Friends." Upon his return to the studio, he turned his star over to Rolin Sturgeon who immediately began work on "Sundown Trail," a story of the West written especially for Salisbury. Alice Elliot, Clyde Sillmore, Clyde Stockdale and Griffith Elminguez appear prominently in the supporting cast.

About Metro Players

After a month's vacation in New York, Nazimova and her husband George Bryant, arrived in Los Angeles Saturday, June 7. Nazimova is to start production at once upon another Metro picture, title for which has not yet been announced. Inasmuch as George D. Baker has left the coast for New York, where he is expected to remain for the summer, it is thought that Herbert Blache will direct the forthcoming production.

June Mathis, head of the Metro scenario staff, left Los Angeles this week for San Diego, where she is to spend the first vacation she has had during her four years with this company. Although no official announcement of the purchase has been made, the fact that she remarked before leaving, that she was going down where it is "Fair and Warmer" and that she would hang her hat on a "Willow Limb" and take a well-earned rest may be a hint that the Metro people are contemplating buying those two plays for future production.

Edward Sarewe, having completed his contract with Metro, this week left Los Angeles for New York, where he is expected to establish permanent headquarters.

Fox Studio Doings

After a week spent in San Francisco making ferry-boat scenes, the Tom Mix company has returned to the Los Angeles studio where they are making the final scenes for the H. H. VanLoan story, "High Speed," under the direction of Edward J. Le Saint. Upon its completion both star and director are to leave on a vacation, Le Saint to visit his home town, Cincinnati, Mix to take a run out into the mountains. Upon their return they are to start work at once upon the production of an original story written by Mix under the title, "A Hard-Boiled Tenderfoot."

Under the direction of Harry Millarde, Madlaine Traverse is at Huntington Lake.

At the Ince Plant

Charles Ray is next to be seen in a crook's story being made at the Thos. H. Ince Studio by Director Jerry Storm under the working title of "The Crooked Straight." This story was written for Ray by Julian Josephson and has to do with the innocent youth being made the tool of crooks for a time. The entire cast for the production has been selected.

Announcement is made from the Ince Studio that Dorothy Dalton subject being filmed in New York has been given the final title of "La Apache."

Henry King who for the past eighteen months has been director of William Russell American Studio at Santa Barbara, has been engaged by Thos. H. Ince and began his directorial duties this week in the filming of the screen version of Mary Roberts Rinehart's story, "Twenty Three and One Half Hours' Leave," which will offer Douglas MacLean and Doris May. These co-stars have finished "What's Your Husband Doing" and it was originally intended that "Mary's Ankle" should be filmed next but this program has been changed.

J. Parker Reed, Jr. has returned from New York, where he disposed of his initial production starring Louise Glaum and he has now completed arrangements for the filming of additional stories. Ida May Parke is to be the directoress of Miss Glaum and filming of an un-named story has been commenced.

Here and There

To celebrate the official opening of the new Francis Ford studio, an informal "stage-warming" was held at the new plant at 6040 Sunset Boulevard on the evening of Saturday, May 31. The guests included many of the best known members of the local film colony, the officers of the company and the members of "The Mystery of 13" company. Dancing and a buffet lunch occupied the guests until after midnight when the party broke up.

Things are unusually quiet at the Brunton studios this week.

Dustin Farnum, Frank Keenan and the Mary Pickford company are between pictures. Alan Dwan is busy with his production of Richard Harding Davis' story of Latin-America, "Soldiers of Fortune." Bessie Barriscale, under the direction of Henry Kolker, is still at work on the production of "The Woman Michael Married," Kerrigan has not yet completed his picturization of "A White Man's Chance" and Hayakawa is busy with a new production, "The Illustrious Prince."

The Mitchell Lewis company, produc-

Hollywood Hokum

JUNE 21, 1919 NEWS MORE NEWS

Very warm.

John Flynn is in town.

Fred Stone is in town.

Carl Laemmle is with us.

Will Rogers is coming to our town.

Maurice Tourneur is back from New York.

Sam Rork is back from New York.

Sunshine Comedy girls are organizing an Art Club.

King Baggott is coming west for a serial.

May Allison did housework this week at the Metro Studio.

Doug Fairbanks is thirty-six years old, but who would believe it.

Eddie Cline is now on the Fox Comedy lot, yes, directing.

Claire Du Brey bought a $2,000 gown the other day for $28.

Clothes are getting scarce at some of the studios since the weather became warm.

Mary Anderson is wearing boys' clothes. We hope she won't go to smoking cigarettes.

That Winton machine recently purchased by H. H. Van Loan, we now learn, is of a Marne blue.

Bessie Barriscale broke up a scene the other day because an army of ants marched up her left arm.

That six acre ranch A. S. LeVino has owned for the past year has been sold to an eastern millionaire.

Roy Carpenter, Fox cameraman cranking on Evangeline, is a proud father and threatens to name the girl Evangeline.

Vic Schertzinger was chased off the Goldwyn lawn the other day by the garedener, who carried a pitchfork. There was no argument.

National has a scenario writer named Hoppie Hopkins. Nothing is said about whether he uses the festive needle.

Lieut. I. H. Morgan is back from the photographic department of the A. E. F. and is now shooting at Brentwood Studio.

Two dozen bucking bronchos have been purchased by Goldwyn for Will Roger's picture and all have been named after the stars.

Smiling Bill Parsons and friend wife, Billie Rhodes, are soon to cruise about in the Pacific. First stop, Honolulu.

May Allison has been made an honorary life member of the I. A. T. E. M. P. M. O. of United States and Canada, Fresno local, No. 599.

Mabel Normand has adopted a baby burro. Nancy, the mother, a member of the Goldwyn forces, has made no objection to her child having a foster mother.

Jack Mulhall has been married five years and he celebrated the day in a rakish way. Took his wife a few friends and went out to Vernon Country Club.

"A Sporting Chance," starring Gladys Brockwell, is said to be the most sensational story she has ever appeared in. We'll stay.

Bernie Bernstein is at it again. He has collected twenty-five lions to appear in one set which will be named the million dollar scene.

We have a surprising bit of news this week to announce. Roual Walsh after completing "Evangeline" will start on another big book play."

Bert Lytell has refused to play a dual role prescribed by a submitted scenario. One characterization is that of a monkey.

Directors of the future are to discard puttees and wear leather coats instead. We know this to be a fact because the assistant directors have started the vogue.

Bill Duncan has been at Huntington Lake for a week and up to the minute of going to press we have not received any fish stories.

C. Gardner Sullivan and Bert Lennon have each organized a baseball team composed of Venice kiddies and are on the fair road to becoming diamond magnates.

From Charley Giegerich's carbon copies we learn that the "Simple Life" has been completed. In this instance it is a comedy and will be labeled such.

Viola Dana has a beautifully embroidered Chinese kimona which she purchased just after some shoplifter touched her for $400.

Madge Kennedy was to be treed by a bear but the bear didn't know they were just in fun and insisted upon going right up the tree after Madge and thus ended a beautiful day.

With the warm weather upon us Henry Walthall and Bert Bracken find a trip to Truckee snow county exceptionally desirable for "The Confession."

Will Ritchie called up the Lasky Studio the other morning at two o'clock to report that he was still working although he hadn't been to the plant for a week.

When asked how she liked her new leading man, Roy Stewart, Katherine MacDonald just bubbled over with originality and said he was different—"He's so unhammy".

Tom Geraghty is working every day, even though he was given a $1,000 bonus by Louis B. Mayer for writing a script for "In Old Kentucky" by the date the company wished to begin production.

Just when everything settles down peacefully after our municipal election, Bob Brunton comes out with a statement he has to have a chief elected for his studio fire department. We hops for less mud slinging.

Now that the federal judge has told Select they can sue Clara Kimball Young for damages, there are many speculations as to what amount they shall ask for when they bring such a suit.

Darrell Foss is a candidate for a Carnegie medal. He jumped into the frigid waters of the Merced river and landed on a floating log, which was so cold it made his teeth ache—speaking of the water.

"Mother" Anderson has introduced a knitting of rugs, using strips of worn out silk hosiery as yarn, all of which is said to afford desirable pastime while waiting for a scene. Never having tried it, we do not recommend it.

Mitchell Lewis wired from the mountain wilds, "rush another Bell and Howell. Jones fell five hundred feet with ours. Is ruined, send another cameraman if you can." Suspense building we say.

"A big uproar of laughter from Coast to Coast" is predicted for Doug MacLean and Doris May when their first picture, "What's Your Husband Doing," is released, meaning of course that the people will laugh with them and at them.

Bill Conklin the Ince heavy is in bad. He introduced that game in which a fly decides who is the winner by alighting on a coin. Bill had all the boys playing with him until they found he had molasses on his coin. Isn't that just like a heavy.

Enid Bennett has put one over Mohammet. She loves to climb the mountains but being unable to bring the mountain to her she moved to the mountains, which is logical if nothing. Now we may expect to learn that she hikes to the top of some peak every morning just to whet up an appetite.

Charley Ray has gotten into bad company. His next picture has him playing around with a band of thieves but from what we know of Charley we believe he will be able to look old man temptation right in the eye and tell him to—go jump in the ocean.

Now that the straw hat season is well upon us Al Christie threatens to take up his former pastime of crushing hats. Al has not been tempermental since the war begun but is ready and willing to prove his ability in this line if the dealers will only put on a bargain sale.

Director Frank Lloyd is going to try to save a life every time he has a chance. The other day a little girl fell from a tree for a scene but a naughty limb caused her to miss the rug in which she was supposed to fall, Frank caught her in his arms and—she hugged him for five minutes.

Frank Woods has completed a study in black and white entitled "Concentration" and now that the editorial staff of Hokum practiced on the entire page we believe we are entitled to a diploma as being a graduate "Concentrationist." We never thought much of the correspondence courses before.

Dave Butler who has engagements ahead for the next several weeks was sought by another company, but being told he was very busy they urged him just to come down for a little while, "We want you for just one expression," whereupon Dave replied, "I never appear in any pictures with less than two expressions," all of which is said to be very witty.

Tony Moreno, Carroll Holloway, Bill Bauman and Vitagraph Co. are hooverizing on time and incidentally slipping one over on the weather man who sends the fogs every morning. After considerable research they decided to work under the lights at the studio in the morning and do the ocean shore scenes in the afternoon after the fog settles, which is another way of keeping in out of the rain.

CURLEY'S CHATTER

Being the Mutterings of Our Honest Elevator Man Boiled Down

"Some day some bright fellow is going to have a live hunch and organize the Honest Pay All Your Debts Film Company, just to be different and he'll make a barrel of money. What I mean is all film companies are honest now but some times you have to sue them to keep them so."

A press agent we know is up in arms against a fellow what outlied him. According to this fellow's application, in writing, he has done everything but kill the Kaiser and the adventures of Robinson Crusoe or Captain Kidd are child's play in comparison to what he has achieved. But it is just like a press agent to get sore when somebody else pulls a wild one. But what Hokum is sore about is that the press agent won't give the name of the applicant.

---

ing for Select, has returned from Lake Memet high up in the California mountains, where they have been making exterior scenes in the production of "Jacques of the Silver North" and are at work on the Brunton lot, making interiors for the same production.

Robert M. Bradbury is directing the production with a cast including Gloria Payton, Patricia Palmer, Joseph Swickard and Frank Wilson. The story was written by Ethel Hill.

Under the direction of Joseph Franz, the William Desmond company is busy at work on the production of a new Jesse D. Hampton story written by George Elwood Jenks under the title, "A Sage-brush Hamlet." This is a western melodrama. Desmond is supported by a cast including Marguerite Del La Motte, Tom O'Brien, Bill Patton, Florence Gibson, Frank Lanning, Ed. Piel and George Field. Harry Gorsted and Billy Foster are the photographers.

King Baggot, former Universal star and later independent producer, has left New York for Los Angeles, where he is soon to begin work in the stellar role of a serial to be produced by a new company organized by Louis Burston, organizer of the Francis Ford and company and the man who arranged the sale of that organization's first and present chapter productions.

In his new picture, Baggot will appear in the role of scientific detective, a character created by the author of the story, John B. Climber, author of a number of successful scripts recently produced on the coast. No title has thus far been assigned by the new production.

Work is to start at once on the construction of studios for the new company on a site recently purchased on Sunset Boulevard near the Ford studio. The company will not wait until their plant is completed, however, to start production but immediately upon Baggot's arrival will lease stage space from one of the other companies and begin work.

Bertram Bracken is at work selecting a supporting cast for Henry B. Walthall for his next National production, a screen version of the stage success, "The Confession." Jack Laver, Bracken's assistant, has left for Truckee in search of exterior locations for this production.

William Seiter has started production on a new De Haven picture at the National studios. The story was written by Seiter in collaboration with Robert McGowan.

Under the direction of Colin Campbell, the Katherine MacDonald company has nearly finished work on their second production, a screen version of the novelette by Margery Land May entitled, "The Bleeders," scenarioized by J. Grubb Alexander. Roy Stewart appears opposite Miss MacDonald with Kathleen Kirkham, Clarissa Selwynne, Winter Hall, Wedgewood Nowell and Lillian Clark in the supporting cast. Bob Brotherton is photographer.

The Mary McLaren company this week returned from San Francisco, where they had gone to make night scenes under the direction of Tod Browning for "The Petal on the Current."

Equipment Service

NOW IS THE TIME

There are more Motion Picture Theatres being erected to-day than at any other time in the history of the industry.

There is hardly a city of any size where a house costing up to half a million dollars is not going up or being planned.

This does not include the innumerable smaller houses seating from 500 to 900.

These houses are worth advertising to.

They are buying thousands of dollars worth of equipment, organs, chairs, screens, vacuum cleaners, curtains, heaters, interior telephones, etc., every day.

Advertised goods are the ones which should be bought. They have a reputation to be upheld

ADVERTISE NOW

Rates on Application

Projection
Music
Laboratory
Studio
Theatre

MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE

A GUARANTEE OF PERFECT PROJECTION

LET YOUR NEXT PROJECTOR
BE A MOTIOGRAPH

QUALITY GOES
ALL THE WAY
THROUGH

Write for Literature

The Enterprise Optical
Mfg. Company

564 W. Randolph Street
Chicago, Ill.

Equipment Service,

Devoted to the technical branches of the motion picture industry, containing records of the latest accomplishments in the mechanical and scientific field; projection helps, inventions and suggestions; camera devices analyzed and commented upon; musical cue sheets for important feature pictures; improvements and innovations in the building and furnishing field.

No charge is made in these departments for answering questions of any nature. Correspondence is invited.

E. L. Bragdon..Technical Editor

Eliminating Projection Room Hazards

IN carrying on the general discussion of safety in motion picture projection we come to a question which is of considerable interest at the present time due to the great number of theatres which are being built or which are being planned.

This question involves the care and handling of the film while it is in the theatre and is not being actually run in the projectors. In the construction of a new house or in the alteration of an old one, the man who is doing the building should see to it that one of two plans is followed.

First: That a projection room is constructed which is so large that the film which is not being used may be stored in metal receptacles far enough away from the projector as to be inaccessible to the man who is operating the machines. Further that the projection room be equipped with a rewind outfit which shall be of the enclosed type, so that the film which is run through it may be absolutely protected from contact with anything in the way of electric lights, steam pipes, etc., which may be exposed or which might be in any way a remote cause for danger. We are taking it for granted that the projectionist is not given to smoking in the projection room. In this case there is no protection other than the police force.

Second: The best method of protection is the construction of an absolutely separate and independent room, connected by a fireproof door with the projection room proper, in which films may be stored and rewound while not in actual use in the machines.

The reason for constructing this second room is obvious. It allows the projectionist the opportunity of rewinding and handling the film without the necessity of an enclosed rewinder, so that patches and other defects may be the more easily detected and remedied.

During the projection of a picture the assistant projectionist can be rewinding the used films without interfering or in any way distracting the attention of the chief projectionist whose entire attention should be centered on the work of putting the best possible picture on the screen. It also gives a safe and proper storage place for films. It can be illuminated as desired and otherwise equipped so as to bring about the greatest possible efficiency without interfering with the illuminating conditions necessary in the projection room, in order that the projectionist may be in a position to handle his machines with the maximum efficiency.

Whichever of these forms of construction is used a theatre man should make sure that every heat-carrying object, whether it be a rheostat, steam pipe, electric light, radiator or other device, is surrounded with a wire protector having sufficiently small mesh, so that it is absolutely impossible for film to come in contact with these devices, which when unprotected are a decided menace.

The use of the enclosed rewind is most strongly advocated in the case of a single projection room in which the projection machine as well as the rewind table is located. There is no doubt of the inconvenience of using this type of rewinder, and the danger that the inspection of the film will not be sufficiently detailed to insure its coming through the projector without a break, but as long as we have smoking projectionists and those who care absolutely nothing for their profession other than their pay check and have no respect whatever for the public welfare, advantage must be taken of all possible devices to eliminate what small danger there is to the audience and to protect as far as possible those class of men from their own lack of respect for their personal well-being.

Our attention was recently called to one of the most inexcusable and unthinkable forms of gross neglect which we have ever heard of. There must be other houses in which the same thing is being done, but we sincerely hope not.

The location of the rewind table was in the rear of the balcony, outside of the fireproof projection room. This is a condition which is inconceivable and which we hope is not being

(Continued on page 4213)

Equipment Operating Projection Questions Answered

A Signal System

By J. C. Maguire, Macomb, Ill.

First Prize—$10—Class 4

WE have a set of buzzers. One located in the ticket office is controlled by the operator in the booth. One in the booth is controlled by a button from the ticket office and a button from the keyboard of the piano. One near the piano is controlled from the ticket office and the booth.

The buttons in the ticket office are in a position where they can be reached by the ticket seller, ticket taker or by the ushers. This puts the whole force in touch with each other, the ticket office, operator, musicians and ushers.

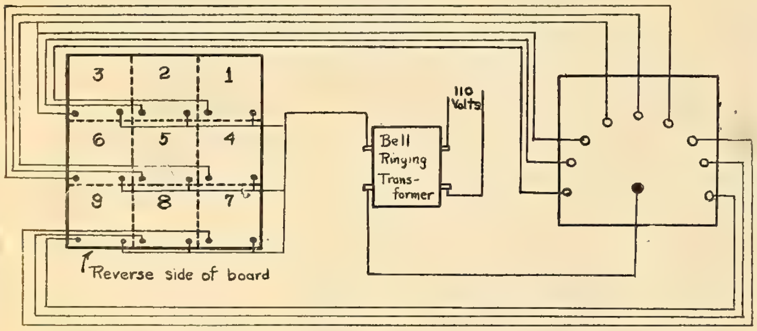
This card hangs on the button in the ticket office and on the piano which signals the operator:

1 ring—frame picture up
2 rings—frame picture down
3 rings—clear up light
4 rings—speed up
4 rings—pause-1 ring;—slow down
1 long ring—shut down house lights.

This card might indicate at first that the operator needs to be told how to operate but this is not the purpose. The operator does his own rewinding and if the film breaks he must do the patching and also put the picture over. We have a 93 ft. throw and our picture is 12½ ft. wide. Sometimes a misframe of one inch or a slight brown spot in the picture will be noticed by the piano player that is unnoticeable from the booth.

As long as we have plenty of seats the speed of the picture is under the operator's control but if the crowd is waiting the speed is controlled by the manager from any button he can reach.

We have only one machine and the operator always rings the ticket office and piano if he is going to recarbon between reels so they can be prepared for an intermission.



This system consists of five push buttons and three buzzers, and in the place of batteries we use a little bell ringer transformer which is connected to our lighting system of 110 volts and delivers six volts on the wires running to the buzzers.

We also have a nine point switch in the booth that lights nine little six-volt lamps in the ticket office. The nine lamps are three in a row, three rows deep, covered with glass with numbers one to nine on them. When the show starts the operator turns the nine point switch to point number one and the ticket seller knows we are on the first reel. This switch is turned to point number two when the second reel starts and so on through the last reel. This gives the ticket office and ushers a chance to know at a glance where the show is; if it is reel number 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8 or 9. The card in the ticket office is fixed before the show by the operator, for example: reel one, Ford Weekly; two, three, four, five, six, feature; seven and eight, comedy.

These six-volt lamps are also run from the bell transformer, and as the ticket office is under the booth the cost of wiring was very little.

Just one more device and I am finished. I always keep on hand a good supply of fine sand paper, and when I make a splice in the film I trim both pieces so that by lapping one sprocket hole they will match. Then I take the emulsion side of one and rub briskly with sand paper until I remove all the emulsion on the back of the first sprocket hole, then take the other piece on the reverse side and rub with sand paper just enough to remove all grease. This gives film a rough surface that will make a patch which will not break and you do not have to wet the film to remove the emulsion or use a razor blade.

Two Thousand Miles of Movies for the Biggest Cantonment

SOME time ago we asked W. A. Bemis, Film Supervisor at Camp Lee, Va., to tell us what he had done down there in the way of projection. Bemis himself was evidently too busy to say much, but in some way or other he intimidated the Social Director of the Camp into writing a few lines for the NEWS.

JUST as I was going to knock on the Y. M. C. A. dormitory door, lettered "M. P. Room. Always on the Move," I bumped into a strapping big guy coming out in "Y" uniform, and when I tried to apologize, the six footer (and then some) exclaimed: "Come on in old pal. What's on your mind?"

It was W. A. Bemis, the veteran motion picture man, who began the work away back in the days when they had "Living Pictures" in Huber's Museum, and who has been "Always on the Movie" ever since, and more than ever on the move since he came to Camp Lee, Va., the biggest army cantonment in the country, to take charge of the Y. M. C. A. program of motion pictures in its score and more of buildings.

"Tell me about the motion picture business in an army camp," I commanded.

"Why, there's nothing to tell about it. You just give 'em the pictures and that is all. The boys like 'em better than any other kind of show. They like all kinds, but they like lots of action. That's why the big western dramas go so well. Nix on the pink tea stuff for the soldiers. And I don't mean by that either that they want anything rough. One of the pictures they liked best of any recently was one that was nothing but a story of a little girl who went to a country town with her dog and made everybody like her, and all the love in it was about a hundred feet at the end and that was where her uncle made up with his best girl."

"How many shows have you run since you came to Camp Lee?"

"Oh, I guess a couple of thousand. We've averaged about 15 buildings running shows with three shows a week in each. That makes quite a lot of film, doesn't it? Maybe close to two thousand miles. It is Community Motion Picture Bureau service, of course, and besides all these shows we have run scores of educational movies.

"During the 'flu' here we couldn't have shows in the buildings, so we gave 'em the same service outdoors. We've got eleven Powers' machines, one Motiograph and eight Graphoscopes, besides eight or ten Balopticans for showing slides. In the Big Hut, which seats 3,000 men, we have two Powers electrically operated machines, and every show goes right through without a stop; and say, it's going on four months since we've had a break there.

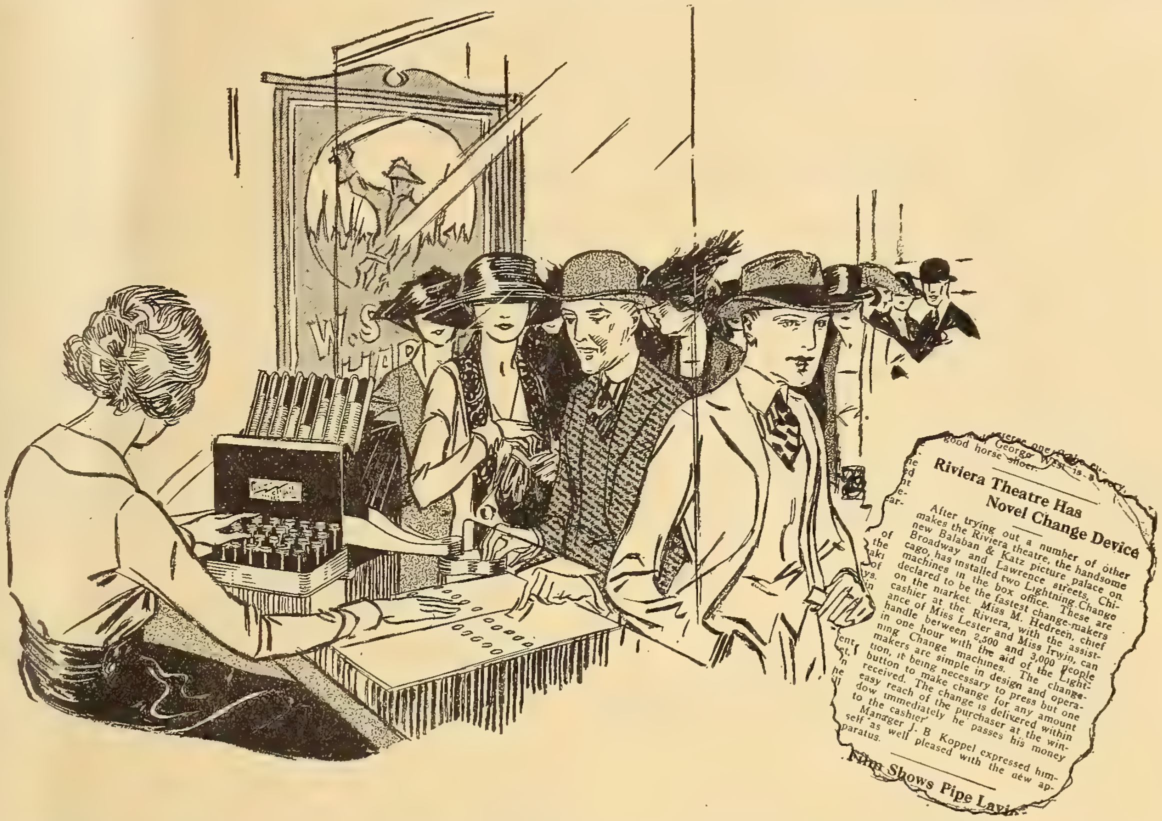
"How do you get operators?"

"Oh, we find a good many experienced operators among the soldiers and 'Y' men, and I suppose I've taken a couple of score of perfectly green hands and trained them into good operators, and this includes a couple of the Y. M. C. A. lady secretaries. I'll say these 'Y' girls are game for anything that comes in the line of duty."

"It's no job for a chap with the hook-worm," I suggested.

(Continued on page 4200)

Speed in Money Changing



Riviera Theatre Has Novel Change Device

After trying out a number of other makes the Riviera theatre, the handsome new Balaban & Katz picture palace on Broadway and Lawrence streets, Chicago, has installed two Lightning Change machines in the box office. These are declared to be the fastest change-makers on the market. Miss M. Hedreen, chief cashier at the Riviera, with the assistance of Miss Lester and Miss Irwin, can handle between 2,500 and 3,000 people in one hour with the aid of the Lightning Change machines. The change-makers are simple in design and operation, it being necessary to press but one button to make change for any amount received. The change is delivered within easy reach of the purchaser at the window immediately he passes his money to the cashier.

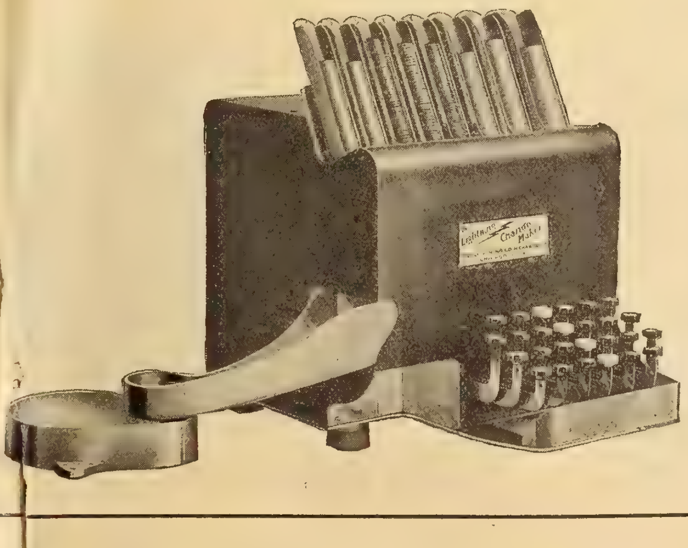
Manager J. B Koppel expressed himself as well pleased with the new apparatus.

Read What the LIGHTNING CHANGER does

SIMPLY press a button and—Presto—the change comes jingling out into the metal cup, where it is easily scooped up by the patron.

Compare that with the old way—digging several coins out of a drawer—counting, handling them—pushing them across the counter to be scraped up by the purchaser with the risk of dropping them, keeping the line waiting—to say nothing of delays caused by mistakes which must happen when change is not counted mechanically.

The Lightning Changer counts and delivers change mechanically, at the touch of a button—saving brain work, mistakes from fatigue, arguments and delays.



It will make change for 1,500 patrons an hour, without error.

It takes no skill to operate; takes less experience than the old way. Takes little space—9½ x 12 x 13 inches—and weighs only 20 pounds—easily carried.

The magnificent new State-Lake Theatre, Chicago, recently opened to crowded houses, has installed two Lightning Changers after careful comparison with other machines.

Write for descriptive circular No. 25 to Theatrical Division. You need a Lightning Changer right away if you want to keep in the front rank.

Write Today

LIGHTNING COIN CHANGER CO.

34-36 Lake Street Chicago

(Continued from page 4198)

"I'll tell the world it isn't," said Bemis. "When you keep twenty machines in working order and rewind and mend from six to ten cases of film every day beside all the rest of the job, you don't have to wonder what to do with your spare time. But it sure is worth while. A fellow don't get rich at the pay you draw down here, but it's something to show movies to the soldiers and keep them feeling good. We've run an attendance at motion pictures here in camp as high as 150,000 a month.

"Come on out and get into the side car and go around to some of the huts with me and I'll show you what our outfits are like. The war is over, but we're going to give the boys movies till they lock the place up and I suppose I'll stay till it's all finished."

Letter from McIncrow

F. J. McINCROW, of Marion, Ohio, says:

What I believe to be the most novel thing of the times is for a fellow who is running in an up-to-date theatre to say, "Why should I join the N. A. M. L.? It is not of any benefit to me. I cut out misframes and don't punch holes anyway." That fellow has a lack of knowledge or is ignorant. If he would read, he would learn to his own benefit that the N. A. M. L. is on a solid foundation and becoming stronger every day as more projectionists join.

It is the same way with the fellow who can't see the Union. Now, my advice (and I believe I am backed by the majority) is "join the N. A. M. L. anyway." Then if you are not a member of the I. A. T. S. E., investigate it, and then join.

Writes from Arkansas

C. A. WRIGHT, of Paragould, Ark., writes as follows:

Am writing you in regard to the N. A. M. L. and can say I would like very much to join. I am a projectionist and have had about six years' experience. During that time I have found out the difference between projectionists helping one another instead of "passing the buck."

I think the N. A. M. L. is a wonderful thing and have thought of writing you several times, but just lately found out where to apply for admittance.

Hoping and trusting that you will send me further particulars regarding the N. A. M. L., I am

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) C. A. WRIGHT.

Reply: All you have to do is to read the pledge and sign the blank which appears in the Projection Department. After we receive the blank properly and LEGIBLY filled out we will place your name on the Honor Roll and send you a button, a membership card and a supply of labels to stick on returning film cans.

A Cameraman Wants Work

G. A. TAYLOR, Lebanon, Pa., is after business:—

I have a Universal Camera and have been getting excellent results. I do not feel that I am getting as much work as I should with it during the epoch making times. I guarantee all my work in every way and charge from 20 to 25c per ft. complete. Could you suggest a way by which I might be able to procure more engagements. Is there any association or club that I might join in order to advance in this work. Do you think that my prices are too high? The sum of this letter is this: I want to do more work with my outfit, can you suggest a way by which this might be done? Thanking you in advance for any suggestions you may make for my interest, I am.

I read your entire "Equipment Service" and it sure has been a big help to me in many ways. It's worth many times the price of the magazine itself.

Reply: Wish you had given us a better idea of the kind of work you are now doing. Are you turning the crank as a "free lance news cameraman" or are you working only on special assignments?

The former employment is, of course, uncertain. Success depends on the cameraman's nose for news just as in the case of a "star reporter." Yet "news" photography pays by far the best for available material. We have heard that the leading "Weeklies" and "Telegrams" sometimes pay as high as a dollar a foot for accepted negative, which sum is considerably in advance of your charges.

There is an organization here in New York City called the Cinema Camera Club which might be of assistance to you. Their address is 220 West 42nd Street.

If you have not already done so, write to all the screen weeklies for rates and instructions. If they are not able to offer you anything, we would suggest that you try to connect with one of numerous producing companies in the vicinity of New York and New Jersey.

We appreciate that last paragraph. The "Equipment Service" section will be of even greater value during coming issues.

EDITOR MOTION PICTURE NEWS:

In the past I have been an interested reader of the NEWS and wish you to put my name on the mailing list for this splendic trade journal.

I have been employed on war material production since Jun 7th, 1918, and am at present still working. I have not had th time to study the Motion Picture industry in general as much as would had I not been acting to the best of my capacity in th position in which I was placed.

I hope some time this spring or summer to do a little exper menting in the picture game as an amateur photographer and ar help along this line I will appreciate very much.

I belong to the Anti-Misframe League, and only last night witnessed a very good picture starring Norma Talmadge at th New Frontenac Theatre, corner Harper and Frontenac Avenues, Detroit. This particular print was in awfully bad condition and

The New York Strand Quintette

John Richardson — Allen Lee — Frank Hammond, Chief Projectionist — Walter Pichert, Supervisor of Film — Lou Hammond

The men behind the machines at the Broadway Strand tainly was not doing the cast credit who made this photoplay a ess. The projectionist is an A1 man, but when the sprocket s or perforations are only about half there on both sides and or twelve out of frames, he cannot expect to do justice to the ic, not saying anything about number of patches he made.

Earl F. Hess, Ex-Pres. Local 188

Who is at fault? That's the old story. Can you help him out?

I just read W. B. Allen's letter, President Local 360, M. P. M. O. I belonged to Local 188 and was acting president when I resigned same.

Yours for cooperation,
(Signed) Earl F. Hess,
18 Longyear Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.

Reply: As we have said many times the Projection and Camera Departments are always at the service of our readers and if we can help you out in any way in your attempts at amateur photography we will be glad to do it.

Sorry, but we don't believe we can help the man out any more than we are doing at the present time. We believe managers could be of more assistance in correcting conditions if they would only object more strenuously when a film is received in such poor conditions as you describe, instead of depending on the pride which their projectionists take in their work to go over the film and remove bad patches and mis-frames.

FROM Roy Simmons, Kozy theatre, Paducah, Ky.: Please place my name on the list of the National Anti-Misframe League and send membership card, button and a supply of labels. I have always inspected my films upon arriving and again before shipping them away. I think the League will be a great help to the life of the film if practised by all projectionists.

I noticed in a late issue a report blank. Enclosed please find a sample of the ones I have used for some time. The inspection reports are sent in to the exchange before the show date, as we get the films at least 24 hours in advance of showing. The Daily Reports are kept on file here in the office and the manager knows just what happened and how the shows have been running in case he is out of town.

Here's hoping you will reach your goal before the time expected and more success to the Projection Department.

Reply: We are sorry that we cannot place your name on the list of members of the National Anti-Misframe League unless you fill out one of the blanks which are printed in the Projection Department.

When you fill out this blank and return it to us we will send you the membership card and button, and a supply of the labels.

The "Inspection Report" is an excellent idea, and the fact that you return it to the exchange before showing the pictures certainly provides you with an alibi if the exchanges attempt to blame poor condition on you. The "Daily Report" with its space for "condition of film on arrival," "condition after showing," "length of show, number of shows, quality of photography, quality of projection, amount of electricity used," etc., should prove of wonderful assistance to a manager who is interested in projection, as all managers should be.

There was a time when system was rarely used in conducting the business of a motion picture theatre. But now with automatic change-makers, ticket venders, ticket choppers, all up-to-date houses are run on system—except the projection end—and there is plenty of evidence to show that even projection rooms will soon e same class with the box office.

SWAAB'S SUPERLITE SCREEN

Is a perfect Silver Screen and will not oxidize; remains bright and Silvery and can be cleaned easily and quickly. Swaab's Superlite Silver Screen now in use in the Stanley and other large representative theatres in this and other cities. Price is 75¢ per square foot. An additional charge is made for the Special Stretcher Frame, according to size, the average extra cost is $30.00. You are not obliged to buy the frame.

NEW SPEER CARBONS

now ready and far superior in quality and screen results to any carbons thus far produced.

SWAAB'S MOTORS

for Power 6A and 6B are pleasing their users—not a single one has fallen down or been returned. They are sold for $37.50 and $40.00 respectively and are complete absolutely. Dealers do not recommend our Motor Equipments because they cannot make anything on them. We have priced them so that the Exhibitor gets the best price regardless of the Dealer. WE ARE EXCLUSIVE DISTRIBUTORS OF THE SIMPLEX MACHINE. We repair all makes of machines and sell all supplies. Your old machines taken in trade for SIMPLEX.

LEWIS M. SWAAB
1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Personal Word to My Brother Projectionists --

I have been through the mill and know all about the operating room troubles due to uneven and excessive film tension. You know this too, and now I want you to know that you can cut out all this trouble by using my Even Tension Reel which I have successfully used in my own operating room for nearly two years before offering it to you. Tell the Boss it will pay for itself two or three times a year in the saving in lower sprockets, besides reducing other wear and tear. I give you my word as a Brother Projectionist that this is true. You will be amazed at the light, even tension. Just try a couple. They're guaranteed.

Fraternally yours,
Gove S. Boylan.

AUTOMATIC REEL CO.

203 Evans Building . Washington, D. C.

EAGLE ROCK
FILM

"The Quality Raw Stock"

Right photographically. Will not go to pieces in the projector.

Made by

THE EAGLE ROCK
MANUFACTURING CO.

VERONA, NEW JERSEY

EAGLE ROCK

The Essential Requirements
for Improved Projection
are
SPEER CARBONS

SPEER Alterno Combinations
for A.C. Work
and
SPEER Hold-Ark Combinations
for D.C. Work

Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders. Read the unbiased opinions of operators

Place an order now with your Supply House

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"

Manufactured by
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

National Anti-Misframe League

Pledge

AS a motion picture operator who has the interest of hi fession at heart and is willing to assist in eliminating of the evils practised in the operating-room, I promise t will to the best of my ability return films to the exchang first-class condition. Furthermore, I will when it becomes n sary remedy all misframes, bad patches, etc., that may be i film which I receive and in this way co-operate with my br operators and give greater pleasure to those who make u motion picture audience by showing films that are free such defects. I also promise that I will not make punch r in film, and when film is received by me, with punch holes, I notify the exchange to that effect so that they may use their efforts to correct this evil.

Roll of Honor

Joseph Newman	Stillwater, Okla.
Melvin Shollenberger	Pine Grove, Penn.
Lee C. Fultz	Paris, Ill.
Clifton H. Hall	Elma, Wash.
G. D. Smith	Haskill, Okla.
Willis Scott	Popular Bluff, Mo.
Albert Van Wormer	Fort Wayne, Ind.
John Suell	Muncie, Ind.
Glenn W. Hall	Beaumont, Texas
Harry Chenault	Chillicothe, Ohio
Ward Van Hock	Eldorado, Ark.

Members Previously Recorded	1024
Members Recorded This Week	11
Total Membership to date	1035

Notice! Anti-Misframe League Members

Membership cards are now ready and are being sent out as fast as possible. There are a number of operators, however, who have neglected to send in the desired information. If you will fill out the blank and mail to this office, button and membership card will be forwarded.

Blank for New League Members

Member's name..

Home address..

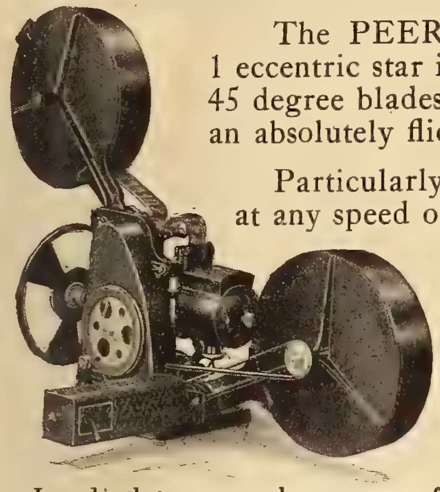
Name of theatre where employed..................................

Address of theatre and name of manager..........................

This notice does not apply to those who have already sent in this information, but it is for those who have neglected doing so, many having merely given their names and name of city, without any street address, making it impossible for the post office to deliver the letters addressed to them.

PEERLESS STANDARD PROJECTOR

Ideal for Editing and Examining Film in Theatres, Studios and Laboratories



The PEERLESS STANDARD PROJECTOR has the wonderful 5 to 1 eccentric star intermittent movement and a balanced shutter of three equal 45 degree blades that passes 62½% of the light from the objective and gives an absolutely flickerless picture at less than normal speed.

Particularly adapted to film inspection and editing, as it can be operated at any speed or stopped for cutting and patching.

Takes one-thousand feet standard reels. Uses 2¾ amperes with motor drive, or less with crank. Projects pictures up to 10 feet wide at any distance up to 75 feet.

In order that every purchaser or user of ANY STANDARD PROJECTOR may understand the hazardous nature of the celluloid film, either in storage or use, the name-plate of the Peerless Standard Projector bears the following:

> "CAUTION"
> Any Projector using inflammable celluloid films is subject to State, Municipal and Insurance restrictions provided to reduce fire hazard.

Send for Circular

Peerless Projector Co.
Dept. N.
32 West 43rd Street
New York

The most simple and practical Locking Device made.

Beginning July 1st, You Must Use U. S. Government Regulation Film Shipping Cases

Nu-Code

Film Shipping Cases

are built to meet every requirement of the new law—and even better

TESTED AND APPROVED BY THE BUREAU OF EXPLOSIVES—

The Best Made at Any Price

You can pay more but get no better, because "NU-CODES" are the maximum in quality

IMMEDIATE DELIVERY

USED EXTENSIVELY BY THE BIG LEADERS, SUCH AS: Mutual, Fox, Universal, World, Famous Players, Triangle, Metro, Goldwyn, First National Exhibitors, U. S. Government, American Red Cross, Ford Motor Company, International Harvester, numerous Universities, and many other organizations.

We Also Make Round Tin and Galvanized Iron Film Cans—Prices on Request

Write for Quotations on the Sizes and Quantities You Need.

RUSSAKOV CAN COMPANY

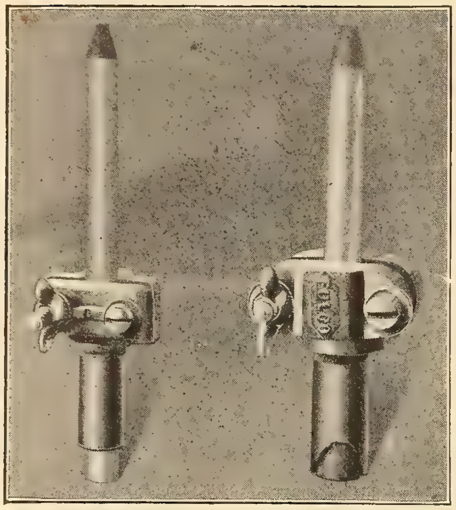
936-946
West Chicago Ave.

CHICAGO

Film Case
Department

An Adapter for Large Sized Negative Carbons

SINCE the "Hold-Arc" and "Silver Tip" Carbons have been developed for D. C. work there has been a need for an adapter to accommodate these carbons of smaller diameter. The small negative carbons having proved so efficient in their combined use with the ⅝-inch positive or upper carbon, the manufacturers are now supplying them in sizes as large as 1-inch and 9-16 inches to be used with a ¾-inch, ⅞-inch and 1-inch cored carbon. Carbon adapters for both the small size and larger size lower carbons are being manufactured by the E. E. Fulton Co.



The "Fulton Super" which is illustrated is made of a heavy bronze or copper casting and has the greater mass of metal where it will absorb heat without burning out.

The "Super" holds a ⅝-inch carbon but will take only ½-inch or smaller through the shank, which is ¾-inches in diameter.

Mechanically, the Fulton adapter is well designed. A slight pressure with the clamping nuts holds the carbon in a vise-like grip, and the method of clamping insures an ample area of contact to carry heavy current without trouble.

"The Tale of a Ray of Light"

WE recently witnessed the first showing of a remarkable film titled "Through Life's Windows: The Tale of a Ray of Light." Ordinarily films are not reviewed in the Projection Department but in this case the subject matter proved to be of such great interest to projectionists that we believe you will be interested in a short description.

The film tells the story of how light rays are received through the crystalline lens in the eye and are brought to a focus so that the image is seen in its true proportion. What happens when the eye is out of focus and how such faults are corrected were also parts of the story. The human eye was carefully dissected on the screen but in a manner which was not at all distasteful. The crystalline lens was shown in actuality. In demonstrating these various points the author of the film, Mr. P. D. Hugon, employed methods which were by far the clearest and most instructive we have ever witnessed. He showed several beams of light in which one after the other were placed lenses of various kinds. Imaginary and real images were shown in a marvelously clear way and much more satisfactorily than a thousand words could have done it.

The film also showed how corrected lenses when placed before an imperfectly focused camera lens correct the image making it sharp in detail at all points in its field.

Projectionists and managers who allow flicker and imperfect focus on the screen should see this picture and note what they are doing to the eyes of their audience. The film is being released by the Worcester Film Co., and we advise everyone who has a chance to see it. It's a worth while addition to educational films.

H. Campe of Westinghouse pennsylvaniaed into town from Pittsburg to attend a conference of S. M. P. E. directors.

WHITE A.C. SPECIAL

MOTION PICTURE CARBONS

For Alternating Current Projection

"Only the Best Projection Is Good Enough." Motion picture exhibitors and projectionists are rapidly adopting this slogan and are buying carbons made by the National Carbon Company, Inc.

The White A. C. Special Carbons give perfect projection on alternating current. No matter what your current requirement may be or whether your house has a long throw or a short throw, these carbons fill the bill.

The light is powerful, pure white, steady and absolutely noiseless.

If you are using alternating current and want good pictures—pictures that make for a pleased audience—use our White A. C. Special Carbons.

SILVERTIPS FOR DIRECT CURRENT

THE SILVERTIP NEGATIVE LOWER LEADS IN THE FIELD OF DIRECT CURRENT PROJECTION. USED WITH THE COLUMBIA UPPER IT GIVES A STEADY, PURE WHITE LIGHT.

WRITE FOR CIRCULARS.

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, INC., Cleveland, Ohio

A Progressive Musician in a Small Town

I HAVE always been under the impression that big things were only possible in big towns where big crowds bring in big money, but I am learning every day, and to my greatest surprise I found that the above theory is not applicable in every instance.

Several days ago, I received a letter from Mr. Minckler of the Majestic Theatre, Centerville, Iowa, revealing unprecedented feats of musical aggressiveness.

The plain and convincing language of this progressive musician, has taught me a great lesson, and I consider it my duty, as musical editor of these pages, to reproduce part of his letter for the benefit of those who are interested in this particular phase of the musical profession.

Music Editor,
Motion Picture News,

I have been playing pictures since 1912, and will say that I have had quite a bit of success. As you know, in those days the two-reel features were just coming out, and cue sheets were unheard of. Also, there was no incidental music to help me out. It seems to me, that I have played thousands of K. B.—Broncho's-Kalems—etc., all civil-war and Indian pictures, full of battles, fights, etc., and nothing to use but marches, intermezzos, and overtures. What a pleasure it would have been to use Belwin, Cinema, Berg Fischer, Schirmer and other series of Picture music—what a nightmare then. However, I have always tried to fit music to the picture, using what I had to the best of my knowledge.

In 1914 I thought of the idea of timing my music and have kept at it ever since. It has been a great help to me although a great deal of trouble. I have a library of over 2,000 numbers and with the exception of marches, rags, galops, hurries, etc., they are all timed.

I have my library cataloged, and can find any number I need in less than a minute. I have a loose-leaf catalog with the numbers classified and followed by descripition and time. Will give you a list of the way I classify them, and any advise that you can give me on doing it to better advantage will certainly be appreciated.

My catalog is divided into two parts, the first is arranged alphabetically which takes care of all national music, and the following: Antique, Berceuse, College, Eccentric, Comedy, Funeral, Gavottes, Ghost, Hunting scenes, Mazurkas, Love Themes, Standard songs, popular songs, Minuetts, Military, Nautical, Processionals, Rustic or Rural, Religious, Western etc. The second part is divided as follows:

1. LIGHT NUMBERS, Novelettes—Intermezzos—Ballets—Caprices—Light Waltz.
2. SERIOUS, Neutral Numbers, such as Andantes—Moderatos—Serious Songs—and Serious Waltzes.
3. PATHETIC, Light Pathetic or Plaintive—Valse Lentos—Light Pathetic songs—Heavy Pathetic—Death scenes—Sob Stuff, etc.
4. DRAMATIC, Light Dramatic—Heavy Dramatics—Minor Waltzes.
5. AGITATOS, Light Agitatos — Dramatic Agitatos — Heavy Agitatos.
6. HURRIES, Light Hurries—Heavy Hurries—Battle Hurries—Storm Furiosos.
7. MYSTERIOSO, Light Mysterioso—Dramatic Mysterioso—Mysterioso Agitatos.
8. SELECTIONS, Musical Comedies — Comic Opera — Grand Opera.
9. OVERTURES, Dramatic—Hurry—Neutral.
10. MARCHES, 6/8, 2/4 Military, etc.

I have never had any help in working this out, have always had to dig for myself, and always being in a small town, have not had many chances of hearing and seeing what others are doing. I read all the papers, Jacobs, Metronome, Dominant, Exhibitors Trade Review, Dramatic Mirror, Motion Picture News, etc. I use all the cue sheets, and they are a wonderful help but I think that I sometimes improve on them. Of course, everyone has a different view of playing pictures and different scenes, and believe me I get stuck once in a while.

I have most of the Incidental Music published and also a series of my own compositions and arrangements—17 numbers so far.

Of all the cue sheets put out, I find the most reliable are,—S. M. Berg's M. Winkler's and the Film Music Co. I have a criticism to make in regard to some cue sheets—why not have the cues to the left on all cue sheets? Why is it that picture companies issuing weeklies, and current events, etc., do not put out cue sheets? It certainly would help a lot. I always have to plan them right off the "bat" so to speak, and marches don't always fit. Why not use more of the popular songs for love themes? I have used the following successfully I think,—Mary, Till we Meet Again, Little Birch Canoe, Smiles, Beautiful Girl of Somewhere, After All, Chasing Rainbows, I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles, Kisses, Kentucky Dreams, I Found You, Have a Smile—and many others. I can't remember seeing a cue sheet call for any of the above numbers as love themes. Why not? Of course they have to be chosen to fit the picture and the words have to be taken into consideration but I think that they are more pleasing than some of the dry, uninteresting themes suggested. But popular music can not be used on all pictures. It would be a musical suicide to play a sentimental popular song for some of the modern dramas for instance.

Why don't the companies putting out Comedies (I mean the two and three reel kind, like Fatty Arbuckle, Chaplin, Sennet etc.) issue cue sheets? It is a pretty hard problem to fit music properly to some of the comedies unless as sometimes happens the film arrives early enough to run it off. Now about cue sheets: How would it be to describe the various scenes in a few words, instead of describing the tempo of the music? Such terms as 4/4 Andante, 3/4 Allegretto, etc., are vague. Also the term moderato or Allegretto (as the case may be) tempo being Characteristic as some cue sheets put it. Characteristic of what? Such a term is a Chinese puzzle to me.

Now, I don't want you to think that I have a grouch against cue sheets and cue sheet composers, nor do I have any degree of swelled-head. I have merely written my ideas and suggestions from the standpoint of my experience. These cue sheets have certainly been a God-send to me and I can truthfully say that without them I would not be as far advanced in the picture game as I am.

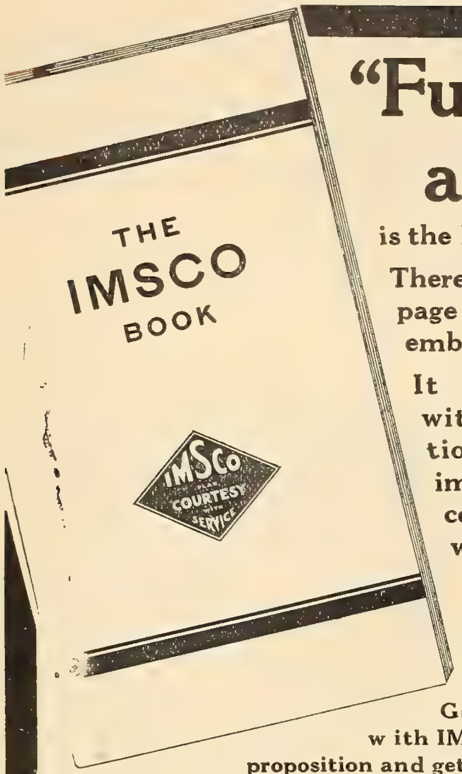
I am a violinist, and as I stated before, have played only in the smaller cities, mostly in Wisconsin, my home state. Have filled position successfully in Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Racine, Kenosha and Beloit, all in Wisconsin. Am located at present in Centerville, Iowa, a small town but a live one from the picture standpoint, as well as otherwise. I have the orchestra at the Majestic theatre, Mr. Leo Moore, the manager takes pride in showing the best pictures with appropriate music.

Any suggestions, criticisms or help of any kind that you can give me will be most thankfully received.

Very truly yours,
Frank T. R. Minckler,
Centerville,
Iowa.

Note: As the editor of these columns, I perfectly agree with Mr. Minckler in every point, and I respectfully invite criticisms and suggestions from the readers of this page.

M. Winkler.



"Full as a Nut"

is the IMSCO Book.

There isn't a blank page between its embossed covers.

It is crammed with information that will impel you to become intimate with

IMSCO

Getting intimate with IMSCO is a paying proposition and getting the IMSCO Book is only a start, more than worth the two cents for a postal. The Book comes free and prepaid.

INDEPENDENT MOVIE SUPPLY CO.
729 SEVENTH AVENUE NEW YORK

If Exchanges do not safe-guard their New Film by Treating and Curing it of its "Greenness," Prevent film from becoming Oil-Soaked and Renovation of Film from time to time, Removing all Corrosion, Dirt and Grime, Films are not in proper condition to Operate. There is no reason why Operators should be accused of Scratching, Ripping and Tearing Sprocket Holes when Films are not properly cared for by Exchanges.

Exchanges who neglect the life of Film trying to save a mere expense are really at fault for destruction of Film Stock.

REX FILM RENOVATOR MFG. CO.
R. D. Hanish, Mgr. Columbus, Ohio

Phone Bryant 6808

BAY STATE FILM SALES CO., INC.
220 West 42nd Street New York City

A. G. STEEN, Special Representative

MADE IN AMERICA
FILM RAW STOCK

EQUAL TO THE BEST

Used Successfully by the Foremost Producers and Laboratories

Review of Latest Musical Compositions

1—T. B. Harms of New York have again published a number, entitled "Western Land," an Intermezzo one-step, which is not only of a standard character, but also reveals musical quality of indispensable value to the Motion Picture musician.

—"Sweet Hawaiian Moonlight," a Waltz Pathetique by Henry Klickmann, a composition of international reputation. (McKinley Music Co.)

3—Belwin, Inc., of New York, are offering two of their greatest musical hits free of charge to the profession. Details will be furnished upon request.

4—"The Golden Star," a memorial march just being published by Chappell & Co., of New York. The composer of this march is no less a man than John Phillip Sousa, and it is beyond doubt that this name attached to a march guarantees standard quality and originality, making it indespensable to the professional musician.

5—"My Cairo Love" is a melodious Oriental concert number, composed by Zamecnik, also arranged as a Fox trot. (Sam Fox.)

6—"Scintillations" is a delightful concert piece composed by Lucius Hosmer. Its title fully signifies the purpose. (Oliver Ditson.)

7—"Tokio," a new Fox trot composed by Kerry Mills, the man who wrote the famous Kerry Mills "Barn Dance," "Red Wing," and the everlasting "Georgia Camp Meeting." (Kerry Mills, Inc.)

8—"Western Rodeo," by Berge, is a new Western cowboy characteristic, just being prepared for publication. (Belwin, Inc., N. Y.)

Writes Song in Connection with Special Picture

IN addition to the usual line of advertising, publicity, and exploitation helps, exhibitors playing "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," the Paramount-Artcraft Special picturized by Hugh Ford from Hall Caine's novel of the same name, will have a specially written song based on the production and carrying the same title to aid them in establishing a box office "draw" and making the engagement a winner.

This song, a ballad, written by Al. Piantadosi, well known as a successful writer of popular music, is one of the best things he has done, according to his own statement, and he prophesies for it quick and lasting popularity. The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, quick to recognize its value to the exhibitor as a tie-up, has issued a special folder of four pages addressed to the exhibitor giving him valuable advice and tips on how to profit by it.

The fact that the song shows so much promise is enough in itself to make the live-wire exhibitor realize it is an exploitation help of great value. Its publishers are indicating their faith in it by arranging a far-reaching advertising campaign, and this will have a rare effect upon the picture itself. It is the publishers' plans to make the song known wherever music is in favor, which means that the title "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," will be on everybody's lips, even more than it has been through the popularity of the book.

The four-page folder issued by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation aims to aid the on-the-job exhibitor in putting the production over for maximum results. It tells him how to go about tying up with the song in his town and how to get the most out of it for himself.

Give your patrons the music they want. Instal an Estey Theatre Organ.

THE ESTEY ORGAN CO.
Brattleboro, Vt.

See our page ad in the July 12th issue of the MOTION PICTURE NEWS

TransVerteR

Automatically supplies only such voltage as arc requires. No waste of current in ballast.

HERTNER ELECTRIC & MFG. CO.
W. 114th St., Cleveland, Ohio, US.A

LE FILM
The Greatest Weekly Trade Paper of
MOTION PICTURES AND THE STAGE PRINTED IN PARIS
1457 Broadway New York
Telephone Bryant 5602
26 RUE DU DELTA, PARIS
878 TALCAHUANO,
BUENOS AIRES
Subscription, One Year, $6.00

"WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE"

(Mabel Normand-Goldwyn)

Specially selected and compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: "Hunkatin" (A Half Tone Craze), by Sol P. Levy

Note: Watch for railroad effects throughout reels 2 and 3.

1—"Hot Time in the Old Town," by Metz (3 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "Fellow Townspeople."

2—"Comedy Allegro," by Berg (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—T: "Come up here."

3—"Children's Games," by Ascher (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "David Martin, her father."

4—"Fairy Phantoms" (Allegretto), by Friedman (4 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "This ain't makin' you short."

5—Theme (2 minutes and 55 seconds), until—S: Interior of store.

6—"Scherzetto" (Symphonette Suite), by Berge (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "We'll be there all right."

7—"A La Mode" (2/4 Allegretto), by Rosey (1 minute and 50 seconds), until—T: "Long after curfew."

8—"Dramatic Tension," by Levy (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: Interior of Millie's room.

9—"Hurry No. 33," by Minot (1 minute and 35 seconds), until—S: After the fight.

Note: Begin pp.

10—"Serio Comique" (A Trombone Characteristic), by Sorensen (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Eight A. M."

11—"Canhanibalmo" (Rag), by Pryor (4 minutes and 5 seconds), until—T: "That'll just cost ya."

12—Theme (4 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "Do you mean that young man?"

13—"Evening Breeze" (Allegretto), by Langey (4 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "There's a Doctor on the train."

14—"Comic Hurry," by O'Hare (4 minutes and 50 seconds), until—S: Interior of sanitarium.

15—Theme (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "Yes, yes dearie."

16—"Pizzicato Ballet," by Berge (4 minutes and 20 seconds), until—S: Millie in baby's room.

17—"Baby Sweetheart" (6/8 Allegretto), by Corri (2 minutes and 10 seconds), until—T: "The conductor's to blame for all."

18—Theme (3 minutes and 40 seconds), until—T: "I was trying to get away."

19—"Intermezzo" (Allegretto), by Pierne (3 minutes and 20 seconds), until—T: "Here comes one of them."

20—"The Chase" (Galop), by Koelling (5 minutes and 35 seconds), until—T: "Dr. Turner learns the reason."

21—Finale from "Allegro" (Allegro), by Bach (4 minutes), until—T: "Maybe he's back."

22—"Hurry No. 2," by Simon (1 minute and 25 seconds), until—T: "Doctor Turner, what."

23—Theme (3 minutes), until * * * * * END.

"THE LION'S DEN"

(Bert Lytell-Metro)

Specially selected and compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: "Sleeping Rose" (Valse Lenton), by Borch

1—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), at screening.

2—Organ Solo (Church scene) (6 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "His heart sickened."

3—Theme (3 minutes), until—S: When Sam and Dorothy leave church.

4—"Prudence" (Capricious Moderato), by Luz (4 minutes and 30 seconds), until— T: "Discovering how the youth."

5—"At Twilight" (Andante Romance), by Golden (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until —T: "You've grown wealthy here."

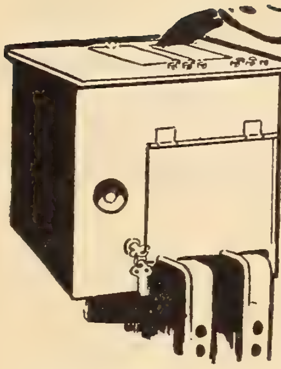
6—Theme (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Maybe I will."

7—"Reverie" (From Pathetic Suite) (4 minutes), until—T: "The last gasp of a dismal."

8—"Eligie" (From Pathetic Suite) (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until— T: "Fixtures $730.00."

9—"Comedy Allegro," by Berg (2 minutes), until—T: "Grand opening Monday."

(Continued on next page)



The Highest Possible Endorsement

The most enthusiastic endorsement that man or device can have is the enthusiastic endorsement of "friends."

The New Perfected AUTOMATICKET Register is "enthusiastically endorsed" by every exhibitor who has it in operation.

It costs you money every day you are without this rapid ticket selling and cash protection service the AUTOMATICKET Register will give you.

Send for literature giving the full facts on the New, Perfected AUTOMATICKET Register today—sure.

AUTOMATICKET SELLING & CASH REGISTER CO.
1733 Broadway, N. Y.
FACTORY: 540 W. 58th Street

USED WHEREVER TICKETS ARE SOLD
AUTOMATICKET SYSTEM

Theatre and Exchange Mailing List Service

We rent lists of or address contemplated or existing theatres, exchanges, state rights owners, publicity mediums and producers, selected as to territory, class, etc. Twenty thousand changes were recorded in our list last year. Its use means a saving to you of from 30 to 50% in postage, etc.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY CO. N^{217}
80 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK Phone 3227 Chelsea
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

USE Reco Color Hoods

instead of dipped lamps

Infinitely Better, More Lasting and Cheape in the Long Run

Made of Natural Colored Blown Glass

Do Not Fade or Wear Out

For 5-10 W. and 25-40 W. Lamps

REYNOLDS ELECTRIC CO.
422 S. TALMAN AVE. CHICAGO, ILL.

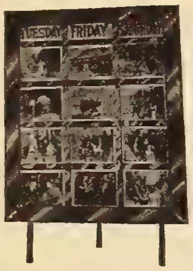
Write for our list of Guaranteed Rebuilt Machines

AMUSEMENT SUPPLY COMPANY
Largest Exclusive Dealers to the
MOTION PICTURE TRADE
300-302 Mallers Building
5 So. Wabash Avenue
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Dealers in Motiograph, Standard and Simplex Moving Picture Machines, National Carbons, Minusa Screens and Everything for the Theatre.

WE SELL ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILS



MR. EXHIBITOR:—
Don't you realize that not alone doe "NEWMAN" stand for QUALITY, but als ORIGINALITY?
We are Originators of every conceivable style of frame in which to properly display POSTERS AND PHOTOS.
YOU will eventually use brass frames. WHY not now?

Get our Latest Catalogue. It is yours for the asking.

The Newman Mfg. Co.
717-19 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, Ohio
68 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois
Established 1882

Canadian Representative—J. T. Malone, Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal, Canada
Pacific Coast—G. A. Metcalfe, San Francisco, Cal.
Corner Unit Hinged Frames

Frames, Easels, Rails, Grills, Signs, Choppers, Kick Plates, Door Bars

We manufacture the frames in various finishes which do not require polishing.

THE BARTOLA

You need Bartola music in your theatre. Easy monthly payments. Send for catalogue.

BARTOLA MUSICAL INSTRUMENT CO., Room 314 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Factory, Oshkosh, Wis.

As pioneers in the manufacture of motion picture film—for it was Eastman Film that first made motion pictures practical—the Eastman Kodak Company has from the beginning been identified with the success of the motion picture industry. One could hardly have advanced to its present stage of development without the other.

Identifiable by the words "Eastman" and "Kodak" in the film margin

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

A New Book

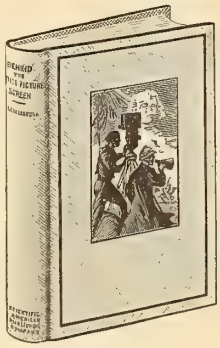
Behind the Motion Picture Screen

By Austin C. Lescarboura

A complete story of the industry from property room to screen, consisting of 300 pages and 150 illustrations.

For the Exhibitor

The book gives a clear idea of the methods used in preparing all classes of film and discusses the wonderful future of motion pictures as a business.



BEHIND THE MOTION PICTURE SCREEN
LESCARBOURA
SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN PUBLISHING COMPANY

For the Projectionist

As an addition to his library of books, "Behind the Motion Picture Screen" will place at his disposal a true account of the making and showing of motion pictures. Questions which arise as to means used to secure certain effects or as to the treatment given film in laboratories can be answered by consulting this book. Unusual and heretofore unknown applications are clearly described.

For the General Public

"Behind the Motion Picture Screen" tells in an interesting and non-technical manner how the motion picture is conceived, produced in the studio and thrown on the screen. Subtle tricks of the camera man and director are explained both by text and photographs for the first time.

Sold by

Motion Picture News

Price, $3.50 net. Postage extra; in the East 15c, in Chicago District 20c and in Los Angeles 26c

(Continued from preceding page)

10—" A La Mode " (Popular One-step), by Rosey (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: " The salary your minister."

11—Organ Solo (Church Scene) (1 minute), until—T: " It pays to advertise."

12—" Flirting Butterflies " (Characteristic Allegretto), by Aletter (2 minutes), until—T: " The challenge."

13—Theme (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: " Prayer meeting night."

14—" Dramatic Agitato No. 38," by Minot (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: When Sam kisses Dorothy.

15—" Hunkatin " (Half tone one-step), by Levy (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: " Boys, look, look, look."

16—Piano improvising (2 minutes), until—T: " Pictorial Weekly " (Piano only according to action).

17—" Dancing Leaves " (Allegretto Caprice), by Miles (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: " Fellows, I want to build a."

18—Piano improvising (2 minutes), until—T: " The 'ayes' have it " (piano only according to action).

19—" Savannah " (Popular one-step), by Rosey (3 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: " An early bird."

20—" Serenade " (Characteristic Moderato), by Pierne (2 minutes), until—T: " We'll try Webster."

21—" Dramatic Suspense," by Winkler (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—S: When Sam reads letter."

22—" Dramatic Reproach " (Andante Expressivo), by Berge (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: " Nothing is so useless."

23—" Impish Elves " (Winsome Intermezzo), by Borch (1 minute), until—T: " Organizing the club."

24—" Half Reel Hurry," by Levy (5 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: When scene fades to Stedman (fire effects) (glass crash).

25—Theme (1 minute), until—T: " It's a little mussy inside," until * * * * * END.

" GINGER "

(Violet Palmer-World)

Specially selected and compiled by M. Winkler.

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: " Golden Youth " (Valse Moderato), by Rosey

1—" Fairy Phantoms " (Characteristic Grazioso), by Friedman (3 minutes), until—At Screening.

2—" Comedy Allegro," by Berge (2 minutes), until—D: When boy whistles (whistle).

3—" Canterbury Bells " (Capricious Allegretto), (from Boutonniere Suite), by Tonning (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: " Gee, I bet John L. Sullivan."

4—Theme (2 minutes), until—T: Evelyn Violet Pansy Carson (whistle).

5—" Heavy Mysterioso " (No. 10 A. B. C. Dramatic Series) 1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: In the dead of night.

7—" Plaintive " (No. 10 A. B. C. Dramatic Series) (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: " Nix on de cannon."

8—Theme (1 minute), until—T: " The state will take care of."

9—" Rose Leaves " (Idyll Andantino), by Ashleigh (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: Bobby Trowbridge.

10—Theme (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: The little walk and a happy.

11—" May Dreams " (Andantino Moderato), by Borch (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: " I want you boys to be friends."

12—" Adagietto " (From Symphonette Suite), by Berge (2 minutes), until—T: " She's going to stay right here."

13—" Clematis " (Moderato Pocco Agitato), (From Boutonniere Suite), by Toning (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—S: When Ginger sees frogs.

14—Theme (3 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: Later events called for a hurried.

15—" Scherzetto ' (From Symphonette Suite), by Berge (4 minutes), until—T: " I'll be back before long."

16—Theme (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: " Is Ginger in love with Tim."

17—" Dramatic Narrative," by Pement (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: Meantime the gray.

18—Theme (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until T: " And so there came the beginning."

19—" The Blushing Rose " (Andantino Serenade), by Johnson (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: Mr. Timothy Mooney.

20—" Sinister Theme," by Vely (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: " The whole town's talkin'."

21—" Adagio Cantabile '(Excerpts Beethoven Sonata Pathetique), by Berge (2 minutes), until—T: Her sacrifice.

22—" Military Tactics " (American Characteristic), by Rosey (4 minutes), until—T: In stricken France, July 12th, 1918.

23—" Pathetic Andante," by Vely (1 minute and 45 seconds), until—T: " I'd like to talk wid."

24—" Military Battle Hurry," by Levy (4 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: The zero hour and the pride of (battle effects).

25—" Lamentoso No. 68," by Borch (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—S: When boys reach first aid station.

26—Over the Top Boys " (American Patriotic), by Berge (2 minutes), until—T: When the Marne was reclaimed.

27—Organ only (1 minute), until—T: And at the end of the rainbow (military wedding scene).

28—Theme (30 seconds), until—T: Westward, ho.

THE END.

" AN AMATEUR WIDOW "

(Zena Keefe-World)

Specially selected and compiled by M. Winkler

The timing is based on a speed limit of 14 minutes per reel (1,000 ft.)

Theme: " Kathleen " (Valse Lento), by Berg

1—Theme (2 minutes and 15 seconds), at screening.

2—" Eccentric Comedy Theme," by Roberts (1 minute), until—T: " This is Cousin Hepzibah."

(Continued on page 4210)

Stage Equipment

Theatres Worth While

Auditorium Lobby

Theatre Illumination

By M. J. Levy

THE following article is reprinted from Architecture and Building in the belief that so excellent a paper on the general subject of "Theatre Illumination" should be given wide distribution.

The author, in his connection with the Edwards Electrical Construction Co., has supervised the installation of electrical equipment in many of the largest and best known motion picture theatres in the country. His knowledge of theatre illumination, therefore, has been gained by years of actual experience.

THE particular use to which the theatre is to be put is the first consideration in determining what system of lighting must be employed. A house for the production of grand opera differs widely from one in which simple moving pictures are shown and it is apparent that each type must be considered by itself. However, all theatres have a great deal in common and, with the exception of the small moving picture house, all are provided with a stage, all have auditoriums, either large or small, and all have some kind of lobby, and a facade which require lighting.

As far as the facade is concerned, it is unfortunately in most instances used for advertising purposes. For advertising electrical display lighting is required to announce a particular play or actor appearing in a current production. This usually takes the form of a display sign across the front of the building. After the architect has designed a good front and the owner has spent much money on its ornamentation, along comes the sign man to destroy the harmony with an ugly sign over the entire face of the building. Why this expenditure of time and money on art for a sign man to hide, is something the writer cannot quite understand. It should be the object of the architect to design the face of a building so that a sign could be installed without hiding all of the architecture, or the architect should take it upon himself to design the building and sign at the same time, so that architectural unity may result.

The marquise is a very important element in the exterior design. This not only serves its original purpose as a shelter but when properly lighted has an indirect advertising value. It is not unusual to outline the marquise in panels with as many as four or five hundred lamps. The particular object of this style of lighting is to make a bright spot in what might otherwise be a dark street. Where theatre entrances join each other closely the marquise often spread a bright and attractive lane of light. In addition to performing its utilitarian purpose and that of light attraction, the marquise has been impressed into service for direct advertising. Attraction signs are attached to the sides and front, and projectors to illuminate the facade may also be hidden on it.

In the latest house to be erected in New York, the classic facade, on which there are no signs whatever, is lighted by flood lighting which emphasizes the architecture. The only signs on this particular building are small ones (the name of the theatre) at either end of the marquise. Underneath the marquise and against the building is a changeable attraction sign giving the attraction for the week.

The lobbies, halls and anterooms require very little comment, as their problems are simple. As a rule these portions of the house constitute just so many rooms, each of which must have its lighting equipment designed to meet the views of the architect. Considerable cove lighting is done at present, and, where the height is sufficient to erect a dome, this style is particularly to be recommended. Panel lighting is also used. This consists of diffusive glass panels set in the ceiling behind which the lamps when properly spaced give a skylight effect without revealing the source of light. Considerable care must be exercised in the design of panel lighting because as a rule the light is only projected directly down from the panels and wall surfaces cannot be depended on for diffusion to attain general illumination of the interior. When it is used, it is frequently supplemented with wall sconces or cove lighting.

For the auditorium, there are quite a number of lighting systems and combination systems to select from. Direct fixtures, cove lighting or panel lighting combinations of any two or all three may be used.

In cove lighting, the shape of the cove is important. If the cove and dome are too flat, the light will not be projected far enough to the center and in this system of lighting the entire dome surface should be evenly flooded. The cove and reflectors should be properly designed for the purpose. There are domes of such great extent that it is practically impossible to entirely illuminate them from the cove. In such cases, it is necessary to use a fixture to illuminate the surface that cannot be reached by the lights in the cove. Preferably, the fixture should be one of indirect type; if semi-indirect is used, care should be taken that not too much light is thrown through the bowl as most of it should be reflected against the surface of the dome. In this particular style of lighting color of the dome and cove surface is a matter of importance. As a rule, light non-absorptive colors are best. Enamel or glazed paint should not be used. A flat paint is absolutely necessary to successful cove lighting. In a great many houses aluminum leaf in various color tints has been used, but not with very much success. It seems almost impossible to do away with direct reflection of metallic surfaces, and the light, instead of being diffused as it would be over a flat paint surface, is practically mirrored, and each lamp may be seen reflected.

Panel lighting alone should never be used in an auditorium, as this style of illumination does not permit enough light to reach the wall and ceiling surfaces to properly illuminate the decorations. In a number of houses that are exclusively so equipped, it has been found that the effect of the plaster detail on which a great deal of thought and money was expended is entirely lost. Therefore in planning this style of lighting sufficient wall brackets or other light sources should be provided about the auditorium to accentuate the architectural details. Lighting an auditorium with direct fixtures is a familiar method, and requires no comment.

The combination of cove, panel and fixture lighting usually produces a very happy effect. The main ceiling dome may be lighted with coves, some illuminated panels installed in the ceiling, and some also introduced into the soffit of the balcony, with brackets installed throughout the house to help in the general effect. This combination more than any other gives the auditorium a pleasing effect. The quantity of light to be used in both the coves and panels requires very careful study, and should be properly worked out to get good results.

In all of the above descriptions I have assumed that the lighting is that known as "one color lighting." In multi-colored lighting, we have a little different problem. The amount of white light introduced in color lighting should be the same as though white lights only were to be used, and where colors are introduced they should be used in sufficient quantity to blend with the white lights. With the use of dimmers on the stage, effects can be obtained in color lighting by means of various combinations which add materially to the effect of the dome and panels.

The question as to whether color lighting shall be used in a house is one which should receive considerable thought. In a moving picture concert house these effects are used in conjunction with the orchestration, and more or less with tableau on the stage, but it is a question just how much this style may be used in a house giving dramatic productions. They have been used in vaudeville houses which also show pictures, and in that case work out to an extent. The main trouble with color lighting lies with the operator. If there is a good director who will see

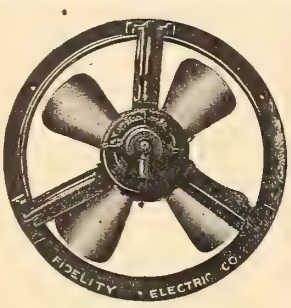
Business Offerings

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

FOR SALE—A used Photo-Player. Reason for sale, is being replaced with large Kimball Pipe Organ. Communicate with W. B. Milner, Room 601, 507 Fifth Ave., New York City.

WANTED—Some one with at least $10,000 capital to take charge of and manage old established film exchange and theatre supply house. Bonafide high grade proposition to the right party. Answer Box 150, care of Motion Picture News.

EXPORT FILM MANAGER WANTED—An A-1 film man possessing executive talent to take charge of and develop a branch film office in South America. Must be able to speak Spanish and must have a thorough knowledge of the film business. One who knows how to take hold of an established business and get the highest possible results out of it, reorganizing it if necessary. Good salary to begin with and a big opportunity for the right man. References necessary. Address Box 155, Motion Picture News.



Ventilating Fans

10", 12" and 16" Sizes

Put pure air in your theatre with little expense. We have prices so low they will surprise you. We manufacture all types of fans.

FIDELITY ELECTRIC COMPANY
Lancaster, Pa.

that the various color combinations are used in conjunction with the music or tableau or for some purpose aside from mere pyrotechnics, color lighting will be successful, but left in the hands of an ordinary stage electrician, who just puts on color here and there at any time that it pleases him without any particular object except a change of color in view, the lighting does not mean anything so far as the production is concerned.

There is one important thing about the auditorium lighting that the architect must bear in mind, and that is emergency lighting. This usually consists of lights on double circuits which are placed on the walls in brackets.

(To be concluded)

(Continued from page 4208)

3—"Vivo Finale" (From Symphonette Suite), by Berge (45 seconds), until—S: When flies torment uncle.

4—"Butterflies" (Caprice), by Johnson (4 minutes), until—T: "Now look who's here."

5—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—S: When boys leave house.

6—"Babilage" (Intermezzo Allegretto), by Castillo (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Now meet Irving Mason."

7—"Hunkatin" (Half tone one-step), by Levy (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—T: "Know how to run it?" (automobile effects).

8—Theme (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: When Aunt Chloe sees car.

9—"Summer Showers" (Intermezzo Novelette), by Logan (3 minutes), until—T: As spring advances a flivver.

10—"Flirty Flirts" (Intermezzo Novelette), by Levy (4 minutes), until—T: "Comes a time when relations."

11—Comedy Allegro," by Berg (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Hurry now Mammy as fast" (automobile effects).

12—"Spider Dance" (Characteristic Tarrantella), by Grunewald (1 minute), until—S: When Aunt Chloe takes tickets (automobile effects).

13—"Kisses" (Valse Intermezzo), by Zamecnik (2 minutes, 45 seconds), until—S: When scene fades to Rhoda.

14—"A Leaflet" (Characteristic Novelette), by Grunewald (4 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "James and Stanley Potter."

15—Theme (1 minute and 15 seconds), until—T: "Gol darn it, I ain't."

16—"Birds and Butterflies" (Intermezzo Allegretto), by Vely (3 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Thus it is the two women."

17—"—Capricious Annette" (Moderato Caprice), by Borch (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "No wonder you have indigestion."

18—Theme (4 minutes), until—T: "A double surprise" (Train effects).

19—"Hurry No. 33," by Minot (3 minutes), until—T: "Jes' like de quality" (gong strokes).

20—"Agitato No. 37," by Andino (2 minutes and 30 seconds), until—T: "All the new stock I got you" (fire effects).

21—"Dramatic Reproach" (Andante Expressivo), by Berge (4 minutes and 15 seconds), until—S: When scene fades to Rhoda on bed.

22—"Romance D'Amour" (Moderato Romance), by Schoenfeld (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "Don't get excited my dear."

23—Theme (2 minutes and 15 seconds), until—T: "Good night and pleasant dreams."

24—"Scherzetto" (From Symphonette Suite), by Berge (2 minutes and 45 seconds), until—T: "At breakfast."

25—Theme (1 minute and 30 seconds), until—S: When Rhoda joins Irving—until * * * * * END

A FACTORY devoted exclusively to making of MOVING PICTURE ACCESSORIES. PRICES are RIGHT—GOODS, the BEST.

FULCO is the BRAND

Sold the world over. Ask for them. INSIST on getting them. If your dealer does not supply them, write

E. E. FULTON CO.
3204 Carroll Ave.
CHICAGO

Here's the list. Watch it for new additions—

BENCH REWINDS (2 styles)
One Piece Traversers Rewind
Fire Proof Enclosed Rewinds (Underwriters Approved)
Carbon Savers (2 kinds)
CARBON ADAPTERS (2 kinds)
Pastil Adapters
Ticket Holders (Single Coupon)
Projectionists Tool Set
ASSEMBLED ALL METAL REEL (5" Hub, Solid Steel Core)
Brass Lug, or Terminal
Copper Terminal (Coming)
Stereopticon Color Wheel
Slide Writer (Stencil)
Slide Compound, Slide Inks
FILM CEMENT, Perfumes
Perfume Disseminators
Oils (4 Grades), Exit Signs
Fire Proof Film Boxes
Humidor Film Cabinets
Safety Waste Cans
Film Carying Cases (2 styles, 5 sizes)
FILM SHIPPING CASES (I. C. C. Approved)
Stripping Flanges, or Negative Rewinds
Mechanism Carrying Cases (Metal, Fibre lined)

THE ARGUS LAMP & APPLIANCE CO.
Manufacturers of
Argus-Sheck Universal Adapters
for Mazda Lamp Projection
and
Argus Crystal Bead Screens
Write for catalog. CLEVELAND, Ohio

VENTILATE & COOL BY TYPHOONS
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK 281 LEXINGTON AVE.

FILM DEVELOPING CORPORATION
Phone: Union 4800, 4801, 4802
LABORATORIES
216-222 WEEHAWKEN ST. WEST HOBOKEN, N. J.
HARRY HOUDINI, Pres. ALFRED DAVIDSON, Sec. & Treas. THEO. W. HARDEEN, Vice-Pres.

For Better Music
The Fotoplayer
62 West 45th Street AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO. New York City

Everything the Showman Needs on Every Picture Released

The Complete Plan Book

Compiled by Tom Hamlin

Pictures Reviewed in Advance

[In addition to Advance Reviews—covering pictures shown too early to be included in The Complete Plan Book—readers will also find under this heading each week the reviews of short features and serial episodes.]

" Their Day of Rest "

(Capitol—Two Reels)

"THEIR Day of Rest" is an amusing comedy. In it the DeHavens are seen in many funny situations which will keep an audience in good humor. It is one of those lively farces with plenty of real action which is developed rapidly, the stars "playing up" and getting the worth out of all the big scenes. The story is good and is written well. It gives the actors plenty to do and there is not a let-up throughout the two reels. The DeHavens know the comedy value of the lighter and bigger scenes and play them accordingly. And there is a dog actor in the comedy who plays his part well and understands what he has to do. The piece does not drag in any of its action, the climaxes being strong and well handled.

The plot is that of a newly married couple who decide to spend their first Sunday at home. Mr. Newlywed boasts to his office associates of his wife's cooking and they immediately invite themselves for a Sunday dinner. Some friends of his wife decide to make their first Sunday at home anything but a quiet one. They advertise in the papers for a cook, giving the Newlyweds address, with the result that many applicants call for the position. Their "nigger mammy" cook thinking that she is to be "fired" packs her grip and in a huff leaves them.

Nothing is left for the newlyweds now but to cook their own dinner. The antics in the kitchen and the resulting dinner which is served to their guests are very funny. In the end they all proceed to a lunch counter where they eat a hearty meal. Released June 29.—Frank Leonard.

" The Only Way "

(Ford Educational Weekly—153-One Reel)

VARIOUS ways of preventing accidents are shown in this film. A picture of this kind is instructive and ought to appeal to an audience.

In this feature the action is much too crowded, one scene hardly being completed before the next is started and at the finish the audience has a conglomeration of events in its head, not one of which has had time to make an impression.

For instance, the causes and effects of accidents such as, a girl slipping on a banana peel, a boy riding a bicycle which is run into by a trolley car, an automobile running into a car, etc., are shown. You see someone drop the banana peel and the girl immediately rushing to it and falling and before you have time to think, the next scene is on. The scenes are too short. More time should be taken in showing the causes and the same in showing the effects, in order to "plant" them in the minds of the public. Released June 15.—Frank Leonard.

" Pure Havana "

(Ford Educational Weekly—154-One Reel)

THIS picture shows many scenes of Havana and its surroundings, Moro Castle, the Senale Building, President's Palace, Opera House, fruit sellers bringing wares to market, etc. Pictures of this kind could be improved by introducing a story which would connect the scenes.

On the whole this is a fair picture for its kind, being interesting and instructive. Released June 22.—Frank Leonard.

STUDIO
For Rent

Twenty Minutes from 42nd
Street and Broadway

FULLY EQUIPPED

Twenty-Four Dressing Rooms and largest stage in the East

Address :

CREATION FILMS
CLIFFSIDE NEW JERSEY

Phone: Cliffside 789

HARRISON'S EXHIBITOR REVIEWS

"Tangled Threads"—with Bessie Barriscale

"TANGLED Threads" is as good a picture as Howard Hickman ever directed, with Miss Bessie Barriscale in the leading role. The story is strongly dramatic, and its mood extremely sympathetic; while from a plausibility point, it is not unbelievable. In other words, it contains not a discordant situation that would jar the discerning sense of the critical spectator. The production end, on the other hand, is highly artistic; it compares most favorably with the best pictures that are being offered to the trade.

While the role given the star is that of the much abused, suffering in silence wife, the picture is altogether different in theme than either "The Heart of Rachel," or "Joselyn's Wife." In this case, she also is married and the mother of a boy, her husband neglecting her for other women, but she adopts different methods in her attempt to win back his affections. Knowing that, what men can hold without any effort they do not appreciate, determines to pretend she is in love with another man, a friend of the family. But her calculations prove wrong, and her husband secures a divorce, being granted also the custody of the child. The loss of her husband, and especially her little son, whom she loves devotedly, drives her almost to distraction. In order to sooth her torn feelings, she becomes a nurse to a children's hospital.

The former husband marries again, an adventuress, but he soon finds out that she is far from being what he thought her to be, as, when an epidemic breaks out, and his son is stricken, she flatly refuses to care for the boy; so the mother is sent for.

The former friend of the family, who, by a trick, had caused the separation, is now conscience stricken. Inviting the second wife of his friend out for a ride, he runs the machine down an embankment; they are both killed.

The child pulls through, and the husband, recognizing the injustice he has done to his former wife, asks to be forgiven. A happy reunion takes place.

The picture could unhesitatingly be classed as 100 per cent, but for one feature, which nevertheless can be remedied. During the supposed breaking out of the epidemic, the ghost of the pestilence is shown in several of the scenes walking and spreading the plague. After the ghost has passed, people are shown as reeling sideways, to indicate that they have been stricken. Later a hospital is shown, and one or two children in agony, as having been also stricken. Upon a few of the subtitles, also, the form of death is shown, with the eyes in the skull fearfully bright. Such scenes, especially after the sad memories influenza, has left in many of us, by the loss either of a relative or of a friend, can hardly be said to be cheer producing. All these scenes can be removed, their removal not only not hurting the continuity of the picture, but also increasing its entertaining power at least by 25 per cent. Those of you who expect to play the picture first-run could, with the cooperation of your exchange, have these scenes removed without much trouble, while those of you who are situated far away from the center of your distribution, could insist upon these scenes being left out after their first removal. Thus you will have a perfect picture, both as a production and as an entertainment. A Robertson-Coles feature. Released by Exhibitor's Mutual in June. Length, 5 reels,—P. S. H.

"The Weaker Vessel"—with Mary MacLaren

HERE is a picture that will not make you hang your head in shame, in a desire to avoid the piercing glance of your outgoing patrons. Upon a simple plot, director Paul Powell and author Elmer Ellsworth, have built one of the most entertaining pictures in which Miss McLaren has even appeared. Unlike the majority of pictures released which appeal only to the feelings, this one appeals also to the spectator's intelligence. It is really a clever medium whereby character is revealed. For instance, Thurston Hall's delineation of the once successful and famous, but now down and out from drink, actor, who at a glass or two is suddenly transformed into an extremely imaginative poet and a highly effusive sentimentalist, never forgetting, though, his gentlemanly conduct toward the fair sex, is simply a scream.

J. B. Hank's portrayal of the role of saint in appearance but devil at heart husband, now in his third marriage, is also matchless.

Some of you recoil at the mention of drink in a picture: There is no necessity for that in this instance, as the situations are handled in an extremely delicate manner, precluding any possibility for offense.

It is a good picture for any audience. Released by Universal July 7. Length, 6 reels. P. S. H.

"Modern Husbands"—with Henry B. Walthal

TO non-critical audiences, "Modern Husbands" may give average satisfaction. It is an ordinary story, with the triangle as a theme.

The chief trouble with it is, however, the fact that the hero does not live up to the traditions of such a title. If the characteristic of a hero is, not to talk, but to act, then the hero, in this instance, is not entitled to such honors, because he does more talking than acting. For instance, when he finds the villain in his house, and his unwilling wife in his arms, he orders him to get out of the house, stating that he would throw him out, if he didn't. The same words are uttered when he later again finds the same villain in the rooms of the wife of his friend. In either instance, what a man that deserves to be respected by an audience as a hero would have done is, either to bore a hole in the body of the villain, with the pistol he is holding, or else to extract two or more teeth from his jaw.

Another bad feature about the picture is the fact that the acting of Mr. Walthall is rather artificial. He rolls his eyes and puts on an angry appearance, in a forced, mechanical manner. This unnaturalness of his acting is much more apparent in Mr. Walthall than it would be in any other player, because picture-goers have been taught to expect better things from him. The title is catchy and should help draw the crowds. A Robertson-Cole feature, released by Exhibitor's Mutual. Length, 5 reels. P. S. H.

"Trixie from Broadway"—with Margarita Fisher

IN the old days, the dream gag was quite handy; it was the greatest help in hiding the most daring sins against logic. Under its cloak, pictures which were not fit to show, were freely placed upon the market. If a picture was so tragic, or so repulsive, or so illogical, that it was not presentable, the dream idea was always ready at hand. The majority of such pictures, then, got by, because the idea was a novelty: It always caught the spectator by surprise; so it gave him pleasure. But the dream gag, like the dual role theme, has already been exploded; it has been done to death.

The biggest part of this picture is presented as a dream. The mood of that part of the story is very unsympathetic. It depicts nothing but quarreling between husband and wife, a feature which is hardly entertaining, when one takes into consideration that those who go to a picture theatre go there to be entertained, not to see people quarreling. Produced by Americans, released through Pathe June 15. Length, 5 reels. P. S. H.

"Upstairs and Down"—with Olive Thomas

"UPSTAIRS AND DOWN" is a picture good for women and children that attend mostly the matinees. It is very artistic, pretty to look at. The characters keep active all the time, hardly ever remaining idle. But whatever they do, and however they act, it does not seem to influence any of the large variety of a spectactor's emotions. The intent or the action of such characters seems to give neither pleasure or pain to the mind, nor joy or sorrow to the feelings. The spectator simply appears to be indifferent to their thoughts and actions.

The picture is based on the stage play by Frederic and Fanny Hatton. Its success on the stage was due chiefly to its "boldness," put over in a clever manner; also to the element of light comedy. None of these characteristics seem to have been transferred to the screen. The story, as presented by the picture, is more of a romance than of a comedy drama. Released by Select. Length — reels. P. S. H.

"In Search of Arcady"—with Billie Rodes

THE chief occupation of the heroine of this story is travelling in a gypsy wagon, thus trying to avoid broken-down titled suitors. She is told by a gypsy that she is going to marry a travelling man, so, in her travels through the country, she comes upon a strong man; they fall in love. Later, he also proves to be a titled nobleman, in disguise, trying to avoid titled women fortune-hunters. In the end, a union results between the two.

The story is rather dry, it is barren of the element that appeals to the spectator's sympathies. Beautiful outdoor scenery seems to be its only qualification.

The picture may be placed in the "Matinee" class, the kind that appeal chiefly to women and children. A Roberston-Coles feature. Released by Exhibitor's Mutual. Length, 5 reels. P. S. H.

HARRISON'S EXHIBITOR REVIEWS

"The Woman Thou Gavest Me"—Artcraft Special

THAT this picture is going to prove a good drawing card to the great majority of theatres, there can hardly be any doubt; it should also give satisfaction, especially to those who are familiar with Hall Cain's novel. But, however, dramatic the picture is, however appealing you can hardly take the stand that it is the best one you have ever offered to your patrons, because there is much room for improvement. To begin with, the motive of the father's desire to marry his daughter to a man he knows she does not love, thus ruining her life, while excellent for a book, can hardly be considered strong enough in a picture to be presented to an American audience for the sacrifice—the heroine's father, when a boy, was, along with his mother, whipped by the young man's grandfather, a lord, because they had unintentionally caused his fall from his horse; the boy is now a grown man and wealthy, while the lord's family, impoverished; in order to bring his family to teh level of the lord's, and thus satisfy his lifelong feelings for revenge, he forces upon his daughter this union.

On the other hand, quite a few opportunities for dramatic effect have been lost, the one in particular being the accidental meeting of the two lovers in an underworld street in London, during a fogy night, when the heroine is trying to sell herself to a starnger, the man proves to be her lover and father of her child, whom she thought dead in the arctics. As it is, the meeting is too tame; in real life, much deeper emotion would have been expressed by both, owing to the peculiarity of the circumstances under which they met.

Accident, also, plays an important part into different occasions; it is contrary to picture logic. Besides, it has been handled rather delicately. Released by Paramount May 25. Length, 6 reels. P. S. H.

"The Haunted Bedroom"—with Enid Bennett

FOR a ghost story, "The Haunted Bedroom" is the most realistic the writer has ever seen put in pictures. It differs from similar ones released in the past by this much, that it maintains the atmosphere of mystery and awe to a very high degree; also that it does not give away the conclusion prematurely, thus maintaining the suspense evenly from first to last. Another good feature about it is the fact that it has been built upon original lines. Gardner Sullivan, the author, whose thinking capacities, judging from the number of stories he is contributing to the screen, are taxed to the limit of human endurance, deserves good credit for it.

The story presents the heroine as a reporter, sent to investigate a house which is said to be haunted. She succeeds in unravelling the mystery, by proving that the ghost is none other than a real human being, and the husband of the lady owner of the house, who are both notorious London crooks. In the course of the story, she meets a young man. They both fall in love in the end, becoming engaged.

Adults will undobtedly enjoy this picture well. As far as children are concerned, not all of the like ghost pictures. Quite a number of them are afraid of stories of this nature.

The word "Haunted," or anything pertaining to ghosts, has in the past, when included in the title of a picture, proved rather a detriment to their drawing powers; so it is evident that it will require a little extra advertising to make the people know this is a good attraction. Released by Paramount May 25. Length, 5 reels. P. S. H.

"Too Many Crooks"—with Gladys Leslie

A RICH girl, (not the heroine), wants to write a novel about crooks. But in order that her novel be realistic, she must study them closely. So she makes arrangements to come in contact with some of them. The leader of these crooks happens to be the heroine.

Neither the theme is interesting, nor the mood of the story sympathetic. The characters seem to be doing nothing but walking around; and when they undertake to do something, the result of their acts is comical, instead of serious, as it was intended.

Another bad fault is the construction of the story, which gives the heroine only a minor part, while a secondary character gets the most important part. This will undoubtedly cause dissatisfaction to the star's fans, who may be attracted by the advertising.

The best thing to do is to say as little as you can about it, so that the drawing power of other worthy Vitagraph pictures may not be impaired. Released June 16. Length, 5 reels. P. S. H.

"The Sneak"—with Gladys Brockwell

PICTURE patrons that like gypsy stories may enjoy this offering fairly well, but it is going to disappoint, I believe, those who look for pictures with modern themes. To such as the latter, "The Sneak" contains no feature that is particularly interesting. In fact, it is almost barren of sympathetic appeal, the spectator remaining indifferent to the joys and the sorrows of the screen characters. The picture also lacks suspense.

It is the old old theme of the daughter of a king of a gypsy tribe, who is cursed by the father and banished forever, for an apparent infraction of the tribal law. The father feels deeply the loss of his daughter, his grief impairing his health. By consulting ose of their women fortune tellers, however, he finds out that his daughter is innocent, the charges brought against her by the villain, a member of the tribe and a rejected suitor, being false; so he sends the lover of the girl to find her and bring her back, that he may bless her before he dies. After a search, the lover finds and brings her back. While they are both at the tent, the villain stabs the lover in the back with a dagger, and then attempts to escape, but he is caught. As the hero is dangerously wounded, the heroine fights with the villain a dagger duel, coming out the winner. In the end, a union takes place between the lovers, under the blessings of the father. Released by Fox July 20. Length, 5 reels. D. S. H.

Eliminating Projection Room Hazards

(Continued from page 4197)

duplicated, but it meretly goes to show the disregard on the part of the theatre man for public safety and the extreme laxity and criminal negligence on the part of the local fire and police authorities.

There are certain fundamental and obvious rules which should be followed at all times in handling inflammable motion picture film in the theatre.

First: Film should at all times, when not being rewound or projected, be kept in metal containers.

Second: All sources of heat should be enclosed in a fine wire casing.

Third: Under no circumstances should the film be taken from the rewind or projection room while the audience is in the theatre.

Fourth: Fire laws prohibiting smoking in the projection room and other violations should be enfrced to the letter.

These rules are easy to comply with and it is the duty of every theatre man and projectionist to see that they are carried out.

If any of our subscribers have any ideas or have had any experiences in the handling of film which would help to make for greater safety, we would appreciate receiving them, in order that the campaign for a safer projection room may be carried on more actively.

E. K. GILLETT.

"THE HAUNTED BEDROOM"—PARAMOUNT

Enid Bennett Has a Winner in Mystery Picture

C. GARDNER SULLIVAN has surely connected a good old fashioned mystery story in "The Haunted Bedroom" which serves Enid Bennett for her latest attraction. So well has he tapped his imagination that the picture seems as if it might have been fashioned by Poe himself. And he has deftly constructed his major theme and embroidered it with the most remarkable atmosphere that has come to our notice in some time.

It is a ghost story, to be candid, and all the familiar accoutrements that accompany such a thing are present in all their atmospheric glory. There is the ghost himself, the graveyard in which he walks, and the haunted bedroom from which strange musical sounds emanate. And if these material things are not enough to give you that creepy feeling there are the noises and the forces of nature which will make your pulse beat faster.

It is positively uncanny at times, which fact contributes in piling on the mystery. The climax cannot be anticipated for the solution simply defies analysis. You think you can place your finger on the mystery and presto, you soon discover that you have been entirely wrong. It is all about a girl reporter who is sent to investigate a haunted house and the disappearance of a man. Before she puts things in their proper places you have suspected nearly every character. The action is tense and exciting all the way and is derived from well constructed continuity.

A note of distinction about the piece is found in the absence of any ridiculous feature. The situations seem real and the ghost looks like the genuine thing. Praise must be given Fred Niblo for the manner in which he has maintained the suspense and incorporated the atmosphere. The photography is exceptionally good.

Enid Bennett has a winner here and she knows it judging from her capable performance. Her support is entirely adequate. Exhibitors will do well to play this picture big; it is one of the best things of the season.—Length, 5 reels.—Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

Betsy Thorne, a Reporter	Enid Bennett
Dolores Arnold	Dorcas Mathews
Daniel Arnold	Jack Nelson
Roland Dunwoody	Lloyd Hughes
Dr. James Dunwoody	Wm. Conklin
John Wells	Harry Archer
Managing Editor	Otto Hoffman
Uncle Moseby Adams	Joe Anthony

By C. Gardner Sullivan.
Directed by Fred Niblo.
Photographed by George Barnes.

PRESS NOTICE

Enid Bennett in a mystery picture concerning a ghost and a missing man will be seen at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. "The Haunted Bedroom" is the name of it and it bears the Ince-Paramount brand. Miss Bennett has been seen in a number of good things at the ———, but the management is of the opinion that her latest offering eclipses anything in which she has ever appeared. "The Haunted Bedroom" was written by C. Gardner Sullivan, which is sufficient proof of its excellence. Indeed, he is considered the leading author on the screen and his latest contribution is good testimony of his ability. Fred Niblo was the director in charge and his work deserves the highest praise. He has kept the mystery note dominant and has brought out the atmosphere splendidly.

Miss Bennett is seen as a reporter on a metropolitan daily, who is sent to an estate in the South to investigate a certain ghost story and a man's disappearance. Is she afraid to tackle her assignment? Well not so you can notice it. She assumes the identity of a maid and finds no trouble in getting into the house of mystery. How she encounters the ghost and accounts for the missing man at the same time; how she goes about her task unafraid, even when night has descended with its weird sounds and sights; how she develops a wonderful romance in which there is no mystery attached are events that build a fascinating story and one that is charged with the greatest suspense. One cannot anticipate the action, so crowded is it with the mystery element.

Miss Bennett gives a sincere and pleasing performance and she is surrounded by a cast of exceptional ability that includes Dorcas Mathews, Jack Nelson, Lloyd Hughes, and Wm. Conklin.

THE STORY

Betsy Thorne is a special writer on the New York Intelligence and when a mysterious ghost story comes into the office she is sent to cover it. Whispering Oaks, an estate in the South, is the abode of the alleged ghost and the report is that it was seen walking in the graveyard of the place, and that a brother of the woman who recently took possession of the Oaks had disappeared. The estate once belonged to a man who killed his wife during a jealous moment and then slew himself. Hence the house is supposed to be haunted. Well, Betsy goes to the Oaks where she discovers that a detective has been employed to solve the mystery of the ghost and the man who has disappeared. She finds no trouble in getting into the place since she is disguised as a maid. There Betsy meets Dr. Dunwoody, who is planning to marry Dolores Arnold as soon as her brother, Donald, is located.

The Doctor has a son, Roland, with whom Betsy falls in love and the young man is suspected by everyone, but the fair reporter, of being implicated in the mystery of the lost brother. The Oaks is quiet enough in the daytime but at night it takes on a mysterious glamour due to strange noises and thunder storms and the perigrinations of the ghost. The shadow figure uses a haunted bedroom mostly and when Betsy sees it she tells Dolores. The latter is quite upset about it and she orders Betsy to be locked in her room. The following night, the resourceful girl climbs out of the window and corners the ghost who she discovers to be the missing man and very much alive. He and his sister are international swindlers. Naturally, Roland is exonerated and there is no mystery about the fact that he will be very happy with Betsy in the future.

PROGRAM READER

Don't you like a ghost story? Even though you have outgrown childhood, don't you like to renew your youthful days when mother or nurse told you a ghost story and you listened and drank it all in? You enjoyed it, didn't you? Perhaps it was raining outside and the black curtain of night ushered in all of its strange phenomena. Well, you will like "The Haunted Bedroom" when it comes to the ——— theatre on ———. It will thrill you and hold you in a tight grip, because it is an old-fashioned ghost story. And you like such a story, don't you? A picture hasn't been shown at the ——— in a long time that has carried more mystery and suspense. You will follow Enid Bennett breathlessly as she investigates the reason for the ghost and the strange disappearance of a man. And when the rain comes down and the lightning flashes and the weird happenings of the night are visualized you will forget that you are in a theatre and looking at a picture. You will be with the characters of the story and going through their experiences. Such is the perfection of Miss Bennett's new offering. C. Gardner Sullivan, one of the screen's greatest authors, is responsible for the story. Make no mistake about it, he has fashioned a genuine entertainment. You will like the star—she is a great favorite, and she has an excellent company for support. "The Haunted Bedroom!" Doesn't it excite your curiosity? Don't miss it.

CATCH LINES

She was a special writer on a New York daily and the "boss" sent her to investigate a ghost story and the mysterious disappearance of a man at an estate in the South. Was she afraid and did she clear the mystery? See "The Haunted Bedroom."

Do you like one of those old-fashioned ghost stories where the air is full of mystery, and the hoot owls screech and the thunder storms bring strange sights and noises? If you do then you will like "The Haunted Bedroom." The picture carries more suspense to the square inch than any thing you have ever seen.

Shivers will run up your spine—shivers of delight—shivers of suspense—when you see Enid Bennett's new picture, "The Haunted Bedroom." Enid Bennett appears on the ——— screen on ——— in her latest and best photoplay, "The Haunted Bedroom." It is a mystery picture and one that is well calculated to grip you with suspense. Don't miss it.

C. Gardner Sullivan, one of the very best picture writers, is responsible for Enid Bennett's new picture, "The Haunted Bedroom." It is a mystery story all about a ghost and a missing man. We defy you to solve it, so cleverly is the mystery hidden.

(Continued on page 4218)

Enid Bennett in "The Haunted Bedroom," an Ince-Paramount production

"THE OTHER MAN'S WIFE"—FRANK HALL

Looks Like a Winner of Unusual Interest

IN this production are combined three essentials in the making of good pictures. They are good direction, good acting and an excellent story. "The Other Man's Wife," with Stuart Holmes and Ellen Cassidy, has all of these, with the result that Frank G. Hall has a sure winner.

The reviewer saw this picture at a regular "fan" showing at the Park theatre, where he and the audience sat "spellbound" with interest throughout the presentation—and that means sub-titles as well as the action.

Too much credit cannot be given Carl Harbaugh for the splendid manner in which he handled the story. He told it in a quiet, interesting way, taking plenty of time to bring out each point, not allowing any scene to be rushed. In the more dramatic moments he led up to his climaxes admirably, using suppressed emotion to bring them out instead of the "wild action" which some directors think should be employed. The comedy is good and is cleverly handled, and attention to small details has not been overlooked. The cast has been well chosen, especially the featured players.

The story is that of a society woman and mother, whose husband joins the army and goes to France. During his absence a society fop gains her confidence and by means of a forged cablegram stating that the husband has been killed, proposes marriage. The husband arrives in time to save her. The story has a surprise comedy finish and should appeal to any audience.—Length, 6 reels.—Released June 29.—Frank Leonard.

THE CAST

Fred Hartley	Ned Hay
Mrs. Fred Hartley	Ellen Cassidy
Elsie Drummond, her sister	Olive Trevor
J. Douglas Kerr	Stuart Holmes
Bruce Drummond	Halbert Brown
Mrs. Bruce Drummond	Mrs. Garrison
Wilbur Drummond	Lesley Casey
Jimmy Moore	Danny Sullivan
Betty Moore	Regina Quinn
Mrs. Moore	Laura Newman
Davy Simon	George Jessel
Becky Simon	Evelyn Brent

By Mary Murillo.
Directed by Carl Harbaugh.

PRESS NOTICE

Frank G. Hall will present at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week his latest drama entitled "The Other Man's Wife." It is a picture of domestic life—of the eternal triangle, and of all the stories that have been screened upon this vital theme, Mr. Hall's essay is said to be comparable with the best. And that is saying a good deal when it is taken into consideration that close to 500 stories have been based upon the triangle idea.

The author of "The Other Man's Wife" is Mary Murillo and she is considered one of the leading scenarists of the day. She has taken a man and wife here who are presented at odd's ends because his business detains him at the office. His wife wants every little attention and she even goes out of her way to crave the love that he is unable to give her. This is done despite the fact that she has children for company. When her husband upbraids her for carrying on an affair with a certain social vulture, she calmly tells him that she has been neglected long enough. How the husband proceeds, how the vulture is encouraged to keep up his intrigue, how the mother love is awakened in the wife are events that are depicted in a thoroughly absorbing way.

Carl Harbaugh directed the picture and his work calls for the highest praise. In the cast are Stuart Holmes and Ellen Cassidy, who are featured. Both contribute excellent performances. Their support includes Olive Trevor, Halbert Brown, Lesley Casey, Regina Quinn and Evelyn Brent.

THE STORY

A measure of unhappiness has existed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hartley despite the fact that they are extremely wealthy. The wife might be called a social butterfly since she cares more for vain pleasures than in comforting her children. The husband on the other hand is attentive to business and when his work is through for the day he delights in being with his family. It happens that he is occasionally detained at the office, which of course offers his wife a good opportunity to encourage J. Douglass Kerr in his advances. The latter is a social parasite but so smoothly does he hide his character that Mrs. Hartley thinks that he is an apostle of virtue.

Comes the war and Hartley believes that his place is with the colors despite the fact that he has a family to support. So he enlists and leaves for France. Kerr, in the meantime, practises his wiles before Mrs. Hartley and even goes so far as to broach the subject of marriage, arguing that her husband will not return. To clinch the matter he has a fake telegram sent to Mrs. Hartley, purporting to be from France, announcing Hartley's death. She is about to accede to his wishes when her husband returns. The vulture had previously started a strike at Hartley's factory in order to ruin him. However, the parasite escapes. Thus Mrs. Hartley realizes her past folly and finds retribution in her husband's arms.

PROGRAM READER

The management takes great pleasure in announcing that Frank G. Hall's big special picture entitled, "The Other Man's Wife," will come to the ——— in the near future. Our patrons should not miss this stirring drama of the eternal triangle. It is one of the biggest things of its kind ever screened and before its six reels have been brought to a close you will appreciate the fact that you have been genuinely entertained. Mary Murillo, who wrote the story, is one of the leading fiction writers of today and she has fashioned a tale of domestic life that will earn her a lot of encomiums. The Hartleys are a happy married couple until the wife realizes that her husband is detained too often at the office. Naturally she seeks the company of others. And before you know it, J. Douglass Kerr, a social parasite, is hovering about to encourage her in all her foolish whims. How Hartley enlists for the great cause, how Kerr finds the field clear for him to practise his villainous scheme, how—

But you must see the picture for yourself. We have only told enough to give you an inkling of its character. Suffice to state that it unfolds a big dramatic climax and one that interests you to the final scene. Stuart Holmes and Ellen Cassidy are the featured players.

CATCH LINES

She was a social butterfly and despite the fact that her husband gave her every attention she often found an excuse to be seen in the company of other men. What came of their home? Was it broken? See "The Other Man's Wife."

She fell in love with a social parasite, even though she was a wife and mother. The war came and her husband enlisted for the cause. And during his absence she learned to appreciate his fine character. What happened when he came back? See "The Other Man's Wife."

He came back from France just in time to prevent his wife from eloping with a social parasite. And when she realized her folly she became a splendid wife.

Don't fail to see "The Other Man's Wife." It is a picture of the eternal triangle. The husband sails for France and during his absence his wife encourages the attentions of a social vulture. How did it end? See "The Other Man's Wife."

Come to the ——— theatre ——— and see Stuart Holmes and Ellen Cassidy in a modern photoplay entitled "The Other Man's Wife." It is a thrilling and absorbing drama. Don't miss it.

SUGGESTIONS

In advertising this picture lay stress on the fact that it is a powerful indictment of the other man who is ever lurking in the background like a vulture to break up the home of the woman he professes to love. Bring out that it is one of

(Continued on page 4223)

Stuart Holmes, star of "The Other Man's Wife," an Independent Sales Special

"THE SPARK DIVINE"—VITAGRAPH

Alice Joyce's Character Study Supports a Frail Picture

WERE it not for Alice Joyce's sterling performance in a character study which is not altogether congenial, her latest picture, "The Spark Divine," would not leave a very favorable impression as entertainment. But the sincerity and understanding which characterize her work plus her individuality and charm will suffice to carry it by as a weekday offering.

Her present feature will not linger long in the mind of the average spectator, because it is rather frail of plot and the characterization does not always ring true. In fact there is not a single line of action which is dominated by the star and her leading man. Naturally they are unable to keep the onlooker at strict attention since the denouement is anticipated from the start. It is simply a character study of a girl whose spirit has been so crushed in her youth that she is indifferent to any heart emotion. The insincerities ring out when this same indifference is manifested at the time of motherhood.

The tiny germ of the drama is found when her husband awakens the divine spark of love in her bosom by kidnapping their child. When she is punished enough the youngster is returned to the mother. The picture is well constructed in every detail, the editing calling for considerable praise. But its anaemic body gives evidence that the padding expert has been called in since it drags at times and reveals a repetition of scenes. Tom Terriss has given the picture an artistic frame.—Length, 5 reels.—Released June 30.

—Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

Marcia Ardale	Alice Joyce
Robert Jardine	William Carlton, Jr.
Mrs. Ardale	Eulalie Jensen
Mr. Ardale	Frank Norcross
Mrs. Jardine	Mary Carr

By Alicia Ramsey.
Scenario by George Proctor.
Directed by Tom Terriss.

PRESS NOTICE

Alice Joyce, the talented Vitagraph star, will come to the ——— theatre next ——— in her latest picture, "The Spark Divine." This is considered one of the most human and absorbing stories in which this favorite actress has ever appeared. Under Tom Terriss' direction the feature has been given an elaborate production and his dramatic values have been finely realized. He has brought out the human touches realistically. As for Miss Joyce she has contributed another noteworthy performance—one that is marked for its charm and sincerity. A well rounded cast is seen in support and it includes William Carleton, Jr., Eulalie Jensen, Frank Norcross, and Mary Carr.

The story is written by Alicia Ramsey. She has based her idea upon the divine spark of mother love. But before it is awakened in the heart of the heroine, one is introduced to her disillusionment with mankind. Marcia Ardale's spirit has been crushed ever since she was a little girl, with the result that embalms her feelings with a cold indifference. She marries for convenience when the opportunity presents itself and straightway her husband sets about to awaken her inward beauty. Eventually a baby girl is born to them and Marcia still remains indifferent.

How her husband concocted a ruse to kindle a feeling of love in her heart is told in an absorbing and well developed climax. Suffice to say that she found the spark divine at last. The picture will hold you at strict attention throughout as it embodies a wealth of human interest and sentiment.

THE STORY

Marcia Ardale has grown to womanhood with her spirit completely crushed. As a little girl her parents had brought her up as an ornament. They loved her after a cold heartless fashion so that she had to find companionship with her inanimate dolls. Naturally her plastic and tender nature received a terrific shock and the impression remained when she became a young woman. She is indifferent to everyone, though when her father becomes financially embarrassed she accepts Robert Jardine's offer of marriage in order to recoup the family fortune. Her husband is known as the "Copper King" and his magnanimity is shown when he enters willingly into matrimony with knowledge of his wife's mercenary motive. Marcia is willing to take his name but when he inquires if she will be a wife and mother she consents reluctantly.

Eventually a baby girl is born to them but Marcia remains indifferent. Then it happens that the child is kidnapped and the event nearly prostrates the mother. Jardine calmly sets about to recover him. And when Marcia fulfills the demands of the kidnappers she is further crushed to see that she has been duped. The distracted woman attempts to relieve the ache in her heart by entertaining the neighborhood children, although she hopes that a kind fate will restore her own child to her. Jardine is astonished at the change in his wife and when he sees she is punished enough, the little girl is brought to her. The child blurts out the truth. It was a ruse of Jardine's, but it succeeded in awakening the divine spark in the heart of Marcia.

PROGRAM READER

Manager ——— of the ——— theatre takes great pleasure in announcing that Alice Joyce will appear shortly in "The Spark Divine," a picture which is said to be a worthy successor to her last previous triumph, "The Third Degree." Her performances in that artistic offering and the preceding one, "The Lion and the Mouse," are still fresh in the minds of everyone who saw her at the ——— theatre. However, her acting in "The Spark Divine" cannot fail to win even greater popular favor. It is a different kind of a role that she has here. She is not the warm-hearted Annie Sands of "The Third Degree" who sacrificed her good name and left no stone unturned to free her husband from a murder charge. As Marcia Ardale she becomes embittered against the world because her socially ambitious parents have crushed her spirit ever since she was a child. A day comes when she meets a certain man who holds the impression that beneath her cold exterior her heart is warm and responsive. And though she marries him for convenience he resolves to awaken her inward beauty. How he accomplishes his purpose is dramatically told in a series of absorbing and suspensive situations. Miss Joyce is surrounded by such competent players as William Carleton, Jr., Eulalie Jensen, Frank Norcross, and Mary Carr.

CATCH LINES

Manager ——— has booked Alice Joyce in "The Spark Divine" for the ——— theatre next ———. Don't fail to see this highly talented star in one of her greatest roles—a role that is comparable with anything she has ever done.

She was a poor little rich girl and never knew what it was to be loved. Naturally when she blossoms into womanhood her spirit was crushed and she looked upon the world with a cold indifference. What awakened her? See "The Spark Divine."

She told him: "I want to go into this thing with a clear conscience. As you are willing to pay the price I'm prepared to take your name, run your house and look after you." "And be a wife and mother?"—he rejoined. What did this situation develop? You will find out when you see "The Spark Divine."

SUGGESTIONS

It is a pretty big role that Alice Joyce has in this picture, but then she is used to these highly emotional parts. Mention the fact that she appears again in another highly dramatic role—this time that of a young woman who is disillusioned with mankind and resolves to go her way alone. Bring out that it is a tense romantic drama—a character study to be exact, of a woman who married for convenience with the full knowledge of her husband. And concentrate upon the theme where her inward beauty is awakened—the divine spark of mother love. These are rich situations and they should be brought to your patrons' notice. Tell your audiences that it is a heart interest story and splendidly human. Some excellent copy can be written around the mother love angle and be assured it has never been known to fail. Also play up the star. She is one of the greatest favorites on the screen. The catch lines could be used advantageously in a teaser campaign or for lobby display. But bring out the character of the story and try at the same time to incorporate its human touches. Obtain stills of the star and play. Miss Joyce takes an excellent photograph and a few of them distributed in a dignified manner are bound to draw attention. Link up with your paper.

Alice Joyce is the star in the Vitagraph production, "The Spark Divine"

"THE DEVIL'S TRAIL"—WORLD

Melodrama of Canadian Northwest; Fair Production

THIS is a fast moving melodramatic picture of the strenuous days when the Royal Northwest Mounted Police of Canada were in constant battle with whiskey runners and all 'round bad men.

There is a neat little love story interwoven that adhers faithfully to plot, and the continuity runs smoothly under capable direction. About one-third of the scenes show the picturesque great out-doors, and although nearly half of the action takes place in one of the "Honky Tonks," once familiar in the Far Northwest, there is nothing vulgar.

While the consistent and persistent villain, is responsible for murder, kidnapping, and gang-fighting, which is shown very realistically in many of the scenes, the hero is there to provide the happy ending.

Of course this will draw biggest and appeal more strongly to the auidence that enthuses over serials and undiluted melodrama. It should have an average pull with the popular or family audience and satisfy very nicely. To the elite audience it will not draw nor will it enthuse.—Length, 5 reels.—Released June 16.—Tom Hanlin.

THE CAST

Julie Delisle	Betty Compson
Sergeant MacNair	George Larkin
"Dutch" Vogel	William Quinn
Dubec	Fred M. Malatesta
Dubec's Wife	Claire DuBrey

Story by Frank Beresford.
Directed by Stuart Paton.
Photographed by William Thornley.

PRESS NOTICE

Betty Compson and George Larkin are the stars of the World Picture, "The Devil's Trail," to be shown at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

This is a thrilling story by Frank Beresford, portraying the activities of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police of Canada during the mad gold rush days near the Arctic wastes.

All of Betty Compson's winsomeness and George Larkin's athletic abilities are called into play during this fast moving photoplay. Miss Compson is "Julie," the youngest daughter of the Post Commandant. George Larkin is "Sergeant Mac Nair," who arrives from headquarters with orders to depose her father and take his place as commander of the Post.

You couldn't expect Julie to fall right away into the arms of the handsome and dashing young sergeant even if it was a case of love at first sight. In fact, she openly scorned him because he took her father's place as head of the Post.

But after the bold young Sergeant had restored to her the sister that had been kidnapped twelve years before and had brought the scoundrel to justice who had strangled her mother, and had rescued her own little self when she was also abducted by the same villain who had kidnapped her sister—well, Julie just couldn't help loving Sergeant Mac Nair.

A tough dance hall is the scene of many thrilling fights and excitement runs high all through the five reels. Fast riding, daring rescues, all set to high speed will grip you. Many of the scenes in "The Devil's Trail" were filmed in the very section of the Canadian Northwest country where the scene of this picture is laid. And during all the thrills the love interest will hold you to the end. Besides Betty Compson and George Larkin, a number of other well known players are seen in important roles in the cast.

THE STORY

Amid Arctic surroundings is a post of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police of Canada in charge of Sergeant Delisle. Dubec, a whiskey runner who trades with the Indians, causes the post much trouble and retaliates on the post commander by strangling the Sergeant's wife and kidnapping his eighteen-year-old-daughter.

The mounted police search for many years in vain for some trace of Dubec and the abducted girl. In the meantime the Sergeant's youngest child, who was but a baby at the time of her mother's death and her sister's abduction, had developed into a winsome young Miss of eighteen, and the occasion of her birthday was marked by a celebration at the post.

It is at this festive moment that young Sergeant MacNair arrives from headquarters with orders deposing the old Sergeant Delisle. The young sergeant is captivated by the young daughter, but she scorns him for taking her father's place in command of the post.

When she rides into the small town near the post, the manager of a troupe of girls who are performing in the low dance hall, presents her with a little dog which she had taken a fancy to. Julie's father, the old sergeant, resents this gift and rushes to the town, ordering the proprietor of the dance hall and also the manager of the dancing girls to close up and leave Chino Landing within forty-eight hours.

He does not recognize in the manager of the dancing girls, Dubec, the same man who had kidnapped his other daughter, Nonette, twelve years before. But it was Nonette who overhears Dubec's threat of murder and who manages to escape the dance hall and warn her father. In the meantime Dubec has had Julie seized as well as young Sergeant Mac Nair, and forces the young girl to appear as a dancer with his troup in the low dance hall at Chino Landing.

The arrival of the old Sergeant with his mounted police, the escape of young Sergeant Mac Nair, the downfall of the lawless element after a series of furious fights, the re-union of the Old Sergeant with his long lost daughter, is replete with thrills and form a rapid succession of fast moving events with a very pleasing ending showing young Sergeant Mac Nair and Julie Delisle in each other's arms.

PROGRAM READER

He dragged her to the top of a table, garbed in the costume worn by the most hardened dancer in this tough dance hall, and offered her to the highest bidder among the gang of ruffians assembled.

She was pure, and young, and sweet, and pretty—

This was surely a great anti-climax to a series of fast moving events which started when her mother was strangled by a scoundrel and the eldest daughter kidnapped twelve years before.

Julie was now in the hands of the same ruffian. Her father, the Commander of the Post, Royal Northwest Mounted Police of Canada, was near at hand—but not near enough.

The role of Julie in "The Devil's Trail" is portrayed by the piquant Betty Compson. In this World Picture, her co-star is the dashing and athletic George Larkin.

And when Julie finds herself in the terrible predicament just pictured as the great anti-climax, it is the wonderful Sergeant Mac Nair, portrayed by Mr. Larkin, who furnishes the grand

And it will bring you to your feet when you witness "The Devil's Trail" in this theatre ——— of next week.

SUGGESTIONS

After this picture is booked the fact that two well known stars of the calibre of Betty Compson and George Larkin, should be emphasized. For lobby display (if you generally like to take advantage of lobby opportunities) a few trappings Devil's Trail," starring Betty Compson and such as guns, saddles, etc. Anything typifying the surroundings of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police of Canada in the far North, will be appropriate, such as the heavy blankets, trappings, etc.

The names of the two stars, after all, is your strongest selling point to the public. Especially as both of them have always been identified with lively fast moving pictures that thrill and naturally will draw the class of patrons that enthuse over gripping melodrama.

Also keep before your public the fact that this is a photoplay unfolding a pretty love story amid the strenuous activities of the mad gold rush, with the scenes laid in farthest Northwest Canada.

CATCH LINES

Action fast and furious always abounds when Sergeant Mac Nair of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police appears—and he appears often.

She was to be given to the highest bidder in the low dance hall but a dashing young officer proved valiently that he had a better right to her.

Chino-Landing in far Northwest Canada was wild but its women were wilder.

The Whiskey Smuggler of the Gold Rush days is the Bootlegger of Today—only in those days he always "packed" a gun.

Primeval Passions amid primitive surroundings peopled by fighting men, form a combination through which a pure young girl passes unscathed.

A moment in the latest World Picture, "The Devil's Trail," starring Betty Compson and George Larkin

"WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME"—P-A. SPECIAL

An Absorbing Picture with Perfect Cast and Direction

A DRAMATIC society picture, based on the double and single standard theme and divorce, with scenes laid in Scotland, Egypt and India. This absorbing picture is interpreted by a perfect cast of well-known players, and Hall Caine's story is quite faithfully followed by an even and consistent continuity and exceptionally capable direction.

This should draw very strongly at all first run theatres in the larger cities and will please mightily. It should pull heavily and entertain immensely in the high class neighborhood houses and the family and popular audiences may attend in force and enjoy this picture also. Of course the audience that is so quick to enthuse on fast melodramatic action or rip snortin' Westerns will not care for this picture, nor will it suitably entertain the working class patronage desirous of red blooded stuff.—Length, 0 reels. —Released June 15.—Tom Hanlin.

THE CAST

Mary MacNeill	Katherine MacDonald
Lord Raa	Jack Holt
Martin Conrad	Milton Sills
Daniel Mac Neill	Theodore Roberts
Alma Lier	Fritzi Brunette
Aunt Bridget	Katherine Griffith

Book by Hall Caine.
Scenario by Beulah Marie Dix.
Directed by Hugh Ford.
Photographed by William Marshall.

PRESS NOTICE

Hall Caine's famous novel, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," has been picturized and appears as a Paramount-Artcraft Special at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

Directed by Hugh Ford, and interpreted by a wonderful cast of players, the story has lost nothing and gained everything in the screening.

Katherine MacDonald, Jack Holt, Milton Sills, Theodore Roberts and Fritzi Brunette sound like an all-star cast, and that is just what is claimed for this production.

As a novel, this is said to have outsold all the other novels of Mr. Caine. As a stage success it was produced in 1917 by Derwent Hall Caine at Boston. As a picture it is expected to prove one of the screen's greatest triumphs.

The tremendous story of Mary MacNeill's troubles after being sacrificed by her unyielding father into a forced marriage with a profligate nobleman, is compelling, especially as the story covers scenes in India, Egypt, England, and the South Polar regions.

When the unhappy wife makes her great decision, disturbing the single standard of morals, your sympathy will be with her. And she wins her happiness finally after a terrific struggle against immense odds. Regardless of one's opinions on the single and double standard of morals, and regardless of one's ideas on divorce and the sacredness of the marriage vow, Mary MacNeill had to fight it all out herself, and then she registered her decision and stood by this momentous decision, fearlessly and frankly.

"The Woman Thou Gavest Me" is described as an intensely human and absorbing film document.

THE STORY

When Mary MacNeill, the beautiful daughter of a Daniel MacNeill, a fiery commoner, is married in the great Norman church in an old world city to Lord Raa, a profligate member of the nobility, she is but the sacrifice to her father's desire to pay off an old insult he had received from the bridegroom's grandfather.

In deference to the old English laws the husband may do many things which are denied the wife and the marriage settlement made by Mary's father upon Lord Raa stipulated that regardless of the supposed single standard freedom allowed the husband he would lose all if he did not remain true to his marriage vows.

Lord Raa is rebuffed by his wife the night of the wedding and made to understand that she hated him and that she was his wife in name only. He thereupon takes his paramour, Alma Lier, to India and introduces her as his wife while Mary secretly settles down in a quiet French village after writing to her father that she was going to disappear and had left her husband.

For Mary had an old playmate whom she loved dearly, Martin Conrad, an explorer who arrived from his last expedition too late to speak the words that would have won his girl sweetheart, Mary MacNeill. Before Lord Raa left for India he witnessed several love scenes between them and Martin pleaded his own case so earnestly that Mary was won over.

It was in the little French village that her father finally discovers her and when she declares that her little baby's father is not Lord Raa but Martin Conrad, she is disowned and cursed by the old gentleman. In the meantime Lord Raa has been banished from India as it is discovered that his paramour is not the real Lady Raa. When his income is stopped, his companion deserts him.

Mary is finally driven from pillar to post in striving to earn a living for herself and little one and is finally determined to take to the streets rather than let her baby starve. Fate brings the returned explorer to the same city in his frantic search for her and he was the first man she approached. This intense scene re-united the lovers and as her divorce had been secured they were quick to find happiness.

PROGRAM READER

Sacrificing herself at the altar to satisfy a grudge whim of her father, she finally revolted on her wedding night and declared that she would be the libertine's wife in name only.

So her new husband, Lord Raa, blithely sailed away to India with his paramour and left her alone to face her future. And her future looked none too bright.

For Mary MacNeill loved a childhood sweetheart—and loved too wisely. When her old father finally found her with a new born child in a small French village, he promptly disowned her.

And one cold rainy night, driven to desperation in the effort to secure food for her child, she wanders forth in search of a man—and she found him. This is unfolded in the Paramount-Artcraft Special coming to this theatre ——— week, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me."

CATCH LINES

She did not believe that a wife should become the slave and chattel of her husband.

If she could be called unfaithful to her marriage vows she could not be declared unfaithful to her own heart.

According to law she was a wife but according to her own determination she was a wife in name only. Her choice of a road led to another man.

Her husband journeyed elsewhere for feminine companionship. She searched elsewhere for real love.

The single and double standards of morals as between husband and wife, and the divorce question. These are fearlessly decided by Mary MacNeill in her own way.

SUGGESTIONS

If you book this picture, it is possible to obtain free, a beautiful Art Display in four colors for your lobby. This shows eleven scenes. Emphasize the fact in all your advertising that it is a Paramount-Artcraft Special. It might be wise to mention the other Paramount-Artcraft Specials to give them some idea of the calibre of "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," such as "The False Faces," "The Silver King," "Little Women," "Sporting Life," etc.

The book store tie-in can be worked even if it has already been worked to death, as Hall Caine's novel has been widely read and was one of his best sellers. Another good thing to remember is that you have all well known names in the cast, each of whom has a following.

"THE HAUNTED BEDROOM"

(Continued from page 4214)

SUGGESTIONS

This picture carries a special appeal for your patrons in the fact that it is a genuine old-fashioned ghost story. We don't get many like it on the screen and this is an important item because it, at least, is DIFFERENT. Everyone revels in a ghost story, particularly, when it unfolds the mystery like this Enid Bennett offering. So feature the mystery note and tell your crowd that they will have a chance to see a fascinating ghost story. It is human nature for people to be curious about something which they can't detect—like crime, for instance. While "The Haunted Bedroom" is not a crime picture, still it suggests that a crime has been committed in the disappearance of a man.

Your advertising should suggest the character of the story and its atmosphere of mystery. Don't give the plot away. This would be violating all ethics in regard to this type of subject. Make your copy bring out the spirit of the picture. Play it up for all it's worth. Feature the haunted house and that it has been a mysterious place for many years. What of the author? Surely your fan crown will recognize Gardner Sullivan as one of the very best writers for the screen. Then feature the star. She has a good number here and she makes an attractive heroine. But the best plan is to concentrate upon the mystery argument. Picturegoers like something that keeps them guessing. Build your ad copy around the mystery element and defy them to solve the story.

Jack Holt and Katherine MacDonald in the Paramount-Artcraft special, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me"

"THE SNEAK"—FOX

Gladys Brockwell's Latest Is an Average Program Offering

IN " The Sneak " Gladys Brockwell has bid goodby, temporarily at least, to stories framed against the domestic hearth and has journeyed to the open country, where she may be found in the characterization of a gypsy girl. It is quite a departure for her after one has been accustomed to seeing her in roles of a " homey " character. Yet she manages to sound enough emotional notes in her new picture to maintain her reputation as a genuine dramatic figure on the screen.

She has put her heart and soul into her work here, so that the offering seems like a better thing than it really is. The star is ably supported by a well rounded cast that includes William Scott (her leading man these days), John Oaker, Harry Hilliard and John Ardizoni.

" The Sneak " isn't overburdened with dramatic moments and the denouement is easily anticipated. The picture seems like a thing of labor, so much so that one could label it " vehicle " and not go wrong. The love interest is its strongest element and it generates a bit of thrill and suspense when the gypsy girl defends her good name with a knife.

The title is not appropriate for the picture inasmuch as it has nothing to do with the star's characterization. Otherwise it is likely to please if one forgets some of the big plays she has had. The atmosphere is suggestive and the details are thoroughly harmonious. Edward Le Saint directed.—Length, 5 reels.—Released July 20.—Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

Rhona	Gladys Brockwell
Wester Churen	William Scott
King Panuel	Alfred Hollingsworth
Francisco Buckley	John Oaker
Roger Barrington	Harry Hilliard
Enid Granley	Irene Rich
Her mother	Gerrard Grassby

By J. Grubb Alexander.
Scenario by Ruth Ann Baldwin.
Directed by Edward J. LeSaint.
Photographed by Friend F. Baker.

PRESS NOTICE

Gladys Brockwell, the Fox emotional star, will appear at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week, in her latest picture entitled " The Sneak." She has set a rapid pace for herself of late in the high character of her subjects, but her new offering is said to be comparable with any picture in which she has appeared in regard to the appealing quality of the role.

Miss Brockwell is seen as a gypsy girl who is pledged by her father, the chief, to Wester Churen, one of the members of the tribe. Inasmuch as the latter is a daring gypsy and an excellent lover, Rhona, as the girl is called, is entirely satisfied. Not so, Francisco Buckley, whose love for her takes on a jealous character. When an artist from a summer colony nearby wins Rhona's consent to pose for him, Francisco makes out to the tribe that she is compromised. So the girl is cast out as unclean. How she clears her good name, how she discovers that the artist is not sincere and slashes the canvass out of hatred for him, how her father and Wester learn that Francisco is at the bottom of the treachery are events that compose a dramatic conclusion. It is a picturesque play and it offers the star a colorful role in which she makes the most of her opportunities.

The realities are conveyed so splendidly that one forgets his environment for the hour and lives the life of a gypsy. Edward LeSaint, the director, has brought out some human touches and his atmosphere is commendable. Miss Brockwell has the support of an excellent cast that includes William Scott, Alfred Hollingsworth, John Oaker, Harry Hilliard, and Irene Rich. Patrons know that they are always dependable. " The Sneak " was written by J. Grubb Alexander, while the adaptation was made by Ruth Ann Baldwin.

THE STORY

Rhona is a gypsy girl who is destined to be the tribe's next ruler upon the death of her father, King Panuel. Inasmuch as she is pretty and vivacious she has no trouble in having many suitors, the principal ones being Wester Churen and Francisco Buckley. Finally the day comes when she must choose her future husband and when she favors Wester, her selection makes Francisco decidedly jealous. Near where the gypsy camp is pitched is a summer colony and when Roger Barrington, an artist, sees Rhona, he induces her to pose for a picture. One day Francisco discovers her with Barrington and he imparts his information to her father and Wester with the result that the girl is cast out of the camp as unclean.

However, Rhona is unmindful of the taunts of the other gypsies, and she returns to the artist's studio to continue her work. In the meantime, the King is taken ill, and through his incantations, comes to believe his daughter innocent. So he orders Wester to bring her back. When he reaches the studio he discovers Barrington's fiancee upbraiding Rhona. Furious over the insults, the warm-blooded gypsy girl slashes the canvas. And so Wester takes her back to the camp where they learn that Francisco is responsible for the plottings which made her an outcast. In a spirit of revenge, Rhona takes a knife and springs at the vicious schemer. But Francisco runs away, stumbles and falls on his own knife. And so the gypsy caravan travels on and Rhona and Wester are happy.

PROGRAM READER

" The Sneak," the latest Fox picture to appear at the ——— theatre, presents that emotional star, Gladys Brockwell, as a gypsy girl. She has had many excellent roles in the past—roles which have made her name synonymous with popularity, but " The Sneak " offers her something new in characterization, and when ——— patrons see her next ——— they will say that her versatility has grown with her emotional power. The star has lately appeared in pictures based upon the domestic triangle, so " The Sneak " is sort of a departure for her. She rises to the occasion, however, and makes the gypsy girl a very human character. In fact, Miss Brockwell suggests the gypsy to the life. Her coloring, her mannerisms, her vitality, are characteristic of the nomadic will-of-the-wisp. " The Sneak " is a romantic drama which employs excellent conflict and contrast. It is the nature of gypsies to be at odds with the world. They do not care for ceremony nor the ways of civilization and this conception is adequately realized. As Rhona, Miss Brockwell is betrothed to a member of the tribe. A jealous admirer furnishes the dramatic conflict. We are not going to detail the story. It would be spoiling it for you. But we will say that it is a thoroughly engrossing picture and one that by no means should be missed.

CATCH LINES

Gladys Brockwell, the Fox emotional star, will appear at the ——— next ——— in a picture of gypsy life entitled " The Sneak." She has made a big reputation as a dramatic actress—and that reputation is upheld in her new offering. Don't miss it!

She was a gypsy girl and she was pledged to marry one of her tribe. But a jealous admirer connived with a certain artist to make her appear unfaithful. So she was cast out by her father, the chief of the gypsies. What happened? See " The Sneak."

In which a gypsy girl falls in love with one of her own people and a jealous admirer finds an opportunity to discredit her good name.

Did you ever have a desire to live the roving, adventurous life of a gypsy? Gladys Brockwell does in her newest picture, " The Sneak." She will fascinate you so strongly that you'll feel like joining her tribe and living a life in the open.

SUGGESTIONS

You know pretty well by this time what to feature in a Gladys Brockwell picture. It is the drawing power of her name. No star, in our opinion, is endowed with greater dramatic capabilities—and this opinion is shared by most exhibitors. She has been featured of late in domestic dramas, but in this picture she shows her versatility by appearing as a gypsy girl. Feature the role and mention that it is different from anything she has ever done. Don't play up the title because it does not bear out the character which she portrays. Just concentrate upon the idea that it is a romantic drama in which the love passion burns more intensely than in the usual thing. The characters are gypsies and naturally they are warm blooded people. Bring out that she is betrothed to one of her tribe and that the event arouses the jealousy of a vicious admirer. Feature the latter's attempt to discredit her with her lover. And mention the fact that she is cast out by the gypsies owing to the admirer's machinations. You might tell your patrons that she is eventually restored in the camp and that her marriage is consummated when the villain meets his death in a fight with her. Play up the picture as a big romantic drama which is picturesque and absorbing. You can arouse interest if you run a column or two about gypsies and their adventurous life. But the star is the biggest asset in the picture. So put most of your effort on her name.

Gladys Brockwell in " The Sneak," a William Fox production

"SOME BRIDE"—METRO

Viola Dana Scores a Knockout in Lively Farce-Comedy

EXHIBITORS and picturegoers who have been watching Viola Dana and who have rated her as the most promising comedienne on the film horizon, are going to be genuinely surprised at the remarkable advance she has made as a laugh provoker in her new frolicsome satire, "Some Bride." Heretofore she has always skimmed the surface in characterization, probably because her electric personality was subordinated for the story. But here she emerges as an actress of a thousand moods—and moods incidentally which generate a thousand laughs.

A mischievous, capricious hoyden seems like a good definition of her. And to see the vital and vibrant star carrying out the playful task of teasing her newly wedded husband is a sight which will chase the glooms from the most cantankerous spectator.

The picture is a breeze—a joyful breeze all the way, since it visualizes an irrespressible bride who has too lively a disposition for her unimaginative husband. The fun is derived from the naive pranks that she conjures up to tease him. And she continues to send out electric sparks of humor even when hubby threatens her with divorce proceedings.

There is not much plot substance to the piece, but then such an element isn't needed, for the spectator is too busy watching Viola Dana cut up capers. Henry Otto, the director, has developed the picture adroitly, and, furthermore, has dug up a series of highly amusing incidents from the ancient patters.

But when all is said and done, it is the star who makes the picture so joyfully appealing. One has only to see her in a bathing suit and disguised as a white leghorn chicken to appreciate her appeal to the eye. Her appeal to your funny side keeps pace with the other. The picture is beautifully mounted and remarkably well photographed. Irving Cummings is adequate as the husband.—Length, 5 reels.—Released June 9.—Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

Patricia Morley	Viola Dana
Henry Morley	Irving Cummings
Victoria French	Ruth Sinclair
Geoffrey Patten	Billy Mason
Jane Greyson	Florence Carpenter

By Anne and Alice Duffy.
Scenario by June Mathis and Luther A. Reed.
Directed by Henry Otto.
Photographed by John Arnold.

PRESS NOTICE

"Some Bride," which comes to the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week, is a picture which is based on a matrimonial mix-up—a mix-up that is started during the honeymoon. You see the bride in this case considers marriage just like a game of dominoes—that is something to be taken lightly. She is vivacious and she longs for adventure just like the days when she was single. So on the beach she cuts up capers and her jealous husband takes her back to the hotel and locks her in her room. But the resourceful and rebellious bride uses her wits and turns up later at a barn dance disguised as a chicken. And hubby is more provoked than ever. When things go on this way without end, he packs up and returns to the city to institute divorce proceedings.

Little wife, in the meantime, can't make her eyes behave, and she cuts up a few more didoes before she learns that her husband is serious. So she makes out that she is desperately ill and before you know it hubby is repentant of his conduct.

The rich situations must simply be seen to be appreciated, but suffice to say that the picture unfolds an unusually clever story and one that puts you in a happy frame of mind. You haven't learned the half of it—not the half of it from the details mentioned above. But when Viola Dana in "Some Bride" appears at the ——— next ——— you will say that she is the best comedienne on the screen. Indeed the star has made rapid strides during the past year. She is radiant and captivating—just the ideal type to play the rebellious bride. Miss Dana is surrounded by an excellent company. The picture was directed by Henry Otto.

THE STORY

Patricia Morley, a bride of but a few weeks, isn't able to control her eyes, even though Henry, her husband, believes that the marriage ceremony should have put a stop to her flirtations. At the summer hotel where they are stopping Patricia intrigues all the young men by her glances and gets Henry very much peeved. Tom Ruggles, a handsome young athlete, goes swimming with Patricia and on the raft they attract the attention of all eyes—they and Patricia's bathing suit. Later at a costume barn dance Henry discovers Patricia receiving a kiss from Ruggles. His ire is great and he decides to end his agony by instituting proceedings for a divorce.

This news Patricia receives calmly inasmuch as she believes her husband is only trying to scare her. But the next morning she is dismayed to find that his threat to leave her has become a reality. Victoria French, Patricia's friend, comes to her assistance and, after placing the bride in a hospital, sends word to Henry that she is very ill. He returns to her at once but what is his surprise to discover Patricia (her flirtatious ways having mastered her again) in the garb of a nurse and tending his (Henry's) own lawyer with smiles and caresses. But Patricia confesses the whole trick and Henry is ready to forgive her this time.

Once more happy in their home they invite Victoria and the lawyer, who are supposedly interested in each other, to visit them. But Henry's jealousy again plays havoc with the peaceful household. He hires a woman detective (really the nurse Patricia met) to play housekeeper and watch his wife. The nurse sides with Patricia in the family row and after many more complications Patricia finally explains to Henry their plan to cure him of his jealousy.

PROGRAM READER

Viola Dana, the piquant and vivacious star of Metro, will appear at the ——— shortly in what is considered her greatest farce-comedy, "Some Bride." The star ingratiates her buoyant personality so strongly in this picture that she will be adopted as your favorite actress. She has an ideal role as the little bride who is determined to take marriage lightly. . You will follow her adventures with the keenest interest and be thoroughly entertained in the bargain. The honeymooners are no more than settled nicely at the summer hotel before she begins to cut up capers. He applies strong arm methods in rescuing her from an adventure on the beach. But does that stop her? Well, not so you can notice it. When a masquerade dance is given later in the day she arouses his anger in the daring costume in which she is attired. She is a chicken. A white leghorn. And he promptly sends her to bed and makes himself the laughing stock of the summer visitors. When his patience is exhausted over her antics he returns to town to get a divorce. How the young bride stops the proceedings and keeps her husband's love, how she proves to his complete satisfaction that she adores him, how she cuts up more capers in bringing him around to his senses are situations that sparkle with humorous high lights. The spirit of the piece is ever in the foreground and it makes one of the most delightful comedies that has ever played the ———.

CATCH LINES

She thoroughly delighted in teasing her husband and she had him in hot water all the time. He couldn't understand her playful attitude and threatened to get a divorce. So she made out she was ill and needed his attention. Did he respond? See "Some Bride."

The honeymooners were at a summer resort and she believed in taking her marriage lightly. At a masquerade dance she was attired as a chicken and her costume so shocked her husband that he told her he would get a divorce. How did she make him appreciate her?. See Viola Dana in "Some Bride."

Come and be entertained with "Some Bride"—it is a picture—a joyful picture of a matrimonial mix-up.

SUGGESTIONS

This is a light comedy drama which soars to a farcical point at times. So feature it in this manner. Play up the fact that the heroine is a young bride who, on her honeymoon, is so full of the joy of living and loving that she doesn't realize that she is married. Concentrate upon the idea that it is a matrimonial mix-up and that hubby simply cannot appreciate his wife's conduct. She loves him, but she also loves to seek adventure. Which of course makes him decidedly jealous. Feature the fact that this young couple can't agree until the husband learns that his wife is entirely innocent. You might mention that she is daring in her search for excitement and attires herself as a chicken at the hotel masquerade. Then follow this up with the husband's announcement that he will get a divorce. His patience is exhausted and he is simply tired of keeping track of his wife.

Use the plot of the story in your ad copy. The star gives her finest performance and simply bubbles over with enthusiasm and fun. She is delightfully vivacious. And she has a great following. When your patrons see her they will become her devotees if they haven't previously. Bring out some of the comedy situations—such as the hospital incident where the bride has gone to play that she is ill in order to stop her husband's divorce proceedings. Play up the spirit of the piece and draw your arguments so that they will appeal to the sense of humor of your patrons.

Viola Dana in "Some Bride," a Metro production

"OH BOY"—CAPELLANI-PATHE

Musical Play Looks Rather Heavy as a Picture

THE first of the Albert Capellani productions, "Oh, Boy," does not offer the entertainment in its screen adaptation as its success upon the stage promised. Musical comedies, at best, are frothy affairs if one considers the subject matter and they thrive principally upon the music, cast and ensemble. Which leads us to register surprise how Mr. Capellani ever elaborated the libretto of "Oh, Boy!" into a thing of six reels.

Really the thin plot could be condensed to half the length and it would have gained in spontaneity and humor. Perhaps the director is not entirely at home in these frolicsome pieces since he has sacrificed its bubbling spirit to employ dramatic details. Yet viewed as a production it passes muster. It is artistically mounted and the Capellani atmosphere is appropriately in place.

The picture will attract attention not because it had a particularly big run on the stage, but because it bears the Capellani trademark. Besides it offers June Caprice and Creighton Hale as a co-starring team. They strive hard to score their points but the impression is gained that their personalities are more adaptable to serious things. The ablest pantomimist in the company is W. H. Thompson, whose long experience upon the stage has enabled him to sense the comedy values and realize on them. Indeed he carries the piece upon his shoulders and gives it nourishment in every one of his scenes. Flora Finch is back in a grotesque role and gives evidence that she hasn't forgotten her bag of tricks.

The story offers a college town romance and the action is derived from the sweethearts' attempt to overcome the objections of parents and guardians. There is a lot of running about but very little humor. Plenty of gravy but very little paprika.—Length, 5 reels.—Released June 22.—Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

Lou Ellen Carter	June Caprice
George Budd	Creighton Hale
Jackie Sampson	Zena Keefe
Miss Penelope Budd	Flora Finch
Judge Daniel Carter	W. H. Thompson
Mrs. Carter, his wife	Grace Reals
Constable Simms	Joseph Conyers
Dean of Richguys College	J. K. Murray
"Lefty" Flynn	Maurice Bennett Flynn

By P. G. Wodehouse and Guy Bolton.
Scenario by Albert Capellani.
Directed by Albert Capellani.

PRESS NOTICE

The first of the Albert Capellani productions, "Oh Boy!" will appear at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week. Besides introducing Mr. Capellani as an independent producer, the picture marks a new star combination on the film horizon in the names of June Caprice and Creighton Hale. These players will be remembered by ——— patrons for the successes in which they appeared under the Fox and Pathe banners respectively. Their first co-starring venture should start them on the road to popularity since "Oh Boy!" is a recognized stage success. The picture is an adaptation of the musical comedy of that same name which was written by P. G. Wodehouse and Guy Bolton, and which had a year's run on Broadway and throughout the country.

Miss Caprice and Mr. Hale appear as undergraduates who are secretly married. The former is at a seminary while the latter is at college, but they are forced to keep their marriage a secret because of the objections raised by stern parents and a guardian. How the older people are compromised so that they have to acknowledge the marriage of the sweethearts forms the crux of the idea behind this thoroughly amusing and entertaining picture. It abounds in a number of delightful situations and the school and college atmosphere is excellently conveyed by the director. The adaptation follows the play with splendid fidelity. In fact, nothing is missing but the score by Jerome Kern.

The stars are supported by a capable cast that includes such well known players as Zena Keefe, who is occasionally a star in her own right, Flora Finch, who will be remembered from the John Bunny days; W. H. Thompson, who has served the speaking stage faithfully these many years, and Grace Reals. Mr. Capellani scenarioized and produced the picture.

THE STORY

George Budd and Lou Ellen Carter are undergraduates and since they love one another they decide to marry before their educational activities are completed. Inasmuch as the boy's guardian, Aunt Penelope, and the girl's father, Judge Carter, do not approve of the courtship, the marriage is consummated in secret. The young people had fully intended to elope but were glad that they forgot their railroad tickets since a telegram has arrived from Aunt Penelope stating that she will disinherit George if he commits any rash deed. The result is Lou returns to school and George continues his bachelor existence. However, the young man has an unexpected interruption to his solitude when Jackie Sampson, a chorus girl, enters his bungalow and calmly makes herself at home. During the evening she had succeeded in getting Judge Carter intoxicated though the lovers do not learn of the affair until later.

In the morning Lou brings her parents to George's home and when the Judge sees Jackie he refuses to listen to the young fellow's explanation. Indeed the "fat is in the fire." In the meantime Aunt Penelope is locked in her bungalow so she won't interrupt her nephew in his chase of Lou. But the spinster makes her escape and proceeds to the college clubhouse where she gets intoxicated with "tea." In another room Jackie is having an argument with the Judge over the prohibition speech she has stolen from him the previous evening. She refuses to give it up until he consents to his daughter's marriage. Naturally the chorus girl has her way, and George wins his aunt's consent to the marriage under the threat that he would tell the world that she has fallen off the water wagon. With consent gained on all sides, George and Lou calmly inform their relatives that they were married the previous evening.

PROGRAM READER

A big musical comedy success has found its way to the screen. It is "Oh Boy!" and as a picture it will come to the ——— in the near future. Special interest is attached to the production as it marks the first of the Albert Capellani offerings to be distributed under the Pathe banner. And interest is also found in the names of the stars, June Caprice and Creighton Hale, who will appear together hereafter in Mr. Capellani's productions. As a stage play, "Oh Boy!" met with phenomenal success from the start and before it came to a close it had a record of a year's run on Broadway. It also appeared on the road and duplicated its New York success, being acclaimed everywhere as one of the best musical comedy hits of recent years. The authors, P. G. Wodehouse and Guy Bolton, are well known in the theatrical world, and since they collaborated in their work they have turned out one hit after another. Mr. Bolton has written a number of winners for the screen. Their "Oh Boy!" is a romance of college life which sparkles with fun and vitality. Mr. Capellani is responsible for the adaptation and direction and his work is further testimony of his extraordinary screen ability. The picture is excellently staged and a remarkable cast has been assembled to support the stars. Don't miss it when it comes to the ——— theatre. Manager ——— assures you of a happy hour.

CATCH LINES

The first Albert Capellani production to be distributed by Pathe will be shown at the ——— theatre on ———. It is entitled "Oh Boy!" and is an adaptation of the big musical comedy success of the same name. June Caprice and Creighton Hale, two stars familiar to our patrons, are the leading players.

June Caprice and Creighton Hale, Albert Capellani's new stars, will appear at the ——— theatre next ——— in their first co-starring venture entitled, "Oh Boy!" It is adapted from the musical comedy of that name which ran for over a year on Broadway.

He was a student in the college, while the girl attended school in a nearby seminary. They were about to graduate and so they married on the quiet. Why the secrecy? Well, his aunt and her father did not approve of their love affair. But the gods were kind and put thorns in the path of the conscientious objectors. Oh boy. It was SOME time the lovers had before they could register complete happiness.

SUGGESTIONS

The first of the Albert Capellani productions should excite interest on the part of your patrons since it not only introduces him as the head of his own organization, but marks the appearance of June Caprice and Creighton Hale in a co-starring venture. Both of these players have been absent from the screen for some time and the fact that they have returned as partners should interest the picturegoers. Bring out their names. Doubtless you have played the June Caprice pictures when she appeared with Fox and if you have run Pathe serials your crowd will remember Creighton Hale. Play up their names. They are young and are possessed of considerable talent, and both are in there working with an enthusiasm which will brook no criticism. They are the latest stars

(Continued on page 4224)

Creighton Hale and June Caprice in the Pathe release, "Oh, Boy."

"THE SHE-WOLF"—FROHMAN AMUSEMENT

Texas Guinan Contributes a Unique Characterization in Western Melodrama

IT isn't every actress who is courageous enough to attempt a characterization which obliterates every vestige of feminine grace and charm, but Texas Guinan doesn't mind it the least. Ever since she appeared as a good-bad two gun woman in a picture called " The Gun Woman," she created a character that was truly unique. And now she returns to the screen as the She Wolf in the picture of that name.

It looks as if she is trespassing on Bill Hart's territory, but then isn't she called the female Bill Hart? " What he can do I can do," Miss Guinan might be heard to say. The result is her characterization leaves a favorable impression. In fact she is speaking a new screen language in this sort of picture—a language which ushers in something new in feminine types.

" The She Wolf," otherwise, is regulation Western melodrama, with all its customary trimmings and trappings. Naturally the primitive touch is dominant, which means that the dramatic elements are mighty close to nature. Cliff Smith has kept the action alive and also the atmosphere. And these ingredients are embroidered with Harvey Thew's picturesque titles.

" The She Wolf " should interest picturegoers because of the star's unique characterization. The picture was reviewed at length on page 4023 of last week's issue.—Length, 5 reels.—Laurence Reid.

THE CAST

The She Wolf	Texas Guinan
The Stranger	George Chesboro
Mui Fing, owner of Lost Hope	Ah Wing
Dud Bigby, a low-down white	Charles Robertson
Sallie, his fear-cowed daughter	Anna Wilf
Sheriff	Jack Richardson
The Belle of the Dance Hall	Josie Sedgwick

By John Colton.
Scenario by Raymond L. Schrock.
Directed by Cliff Smith.
Photographed by Steve Rounds.

PRESS NOTICE

Texas Guinan, who has been called the female Bill Hart, will appear at the ——— theatre on ———, in her newest photoplay entitled, " The She Wolf." It has been some time since the star graced the screen, and patrons of the ——— will be surprised with her unique characterization. Miss Guinan is the only delineator of the good-bad woman in pictures. And this fact would make her conspicuous regardless of her performance. It happens, however, that she contributes a splendid bit of acting—a bit of acting which will remind you of Mr. Hart.

The star is seen in the role of the She Wolf who holds the bad men of the camp in the hollow of her hand. Her trigger fingers are sure and steady and woe to the man who attempts to cross her. Her particular enemies are Ah Wing, the Chinese proprietor of the saloon, and the sheriff, one of the former's henchmen. The Chinaman intends to marry Dud Bigby's daughter, Sallie, and the latter lives in constant dread of the approaching ceremony, and the Oriental also sees a victim in the Stranger when this unknown prospector wanders into the saloon.

How the She Wolf frustrates the Chinaman's wicked schemes, how she rescues the Stranger, whom she has grown to love, and how she exhibits her wonderful resourcefulness are events that make " The She Wolf " one of the most thrilling and absorbing pictures that has ever come to the ——— theatre. It abounds in good old-fashioned Western incidents and carries a full quota of action and suspense. The story was written by John Colton, scenarioized by Raymond L. Schrock, and put into picture shape by Director Cliff Smith.

THE STORY

In a lonely cabin not far from the mining camp of Mad Dog, lives a woman known as the She Wolf. She is on her way from nowhere to God knows whence, merely drifting. Now it happens that the saloon in the camp is owned by a Chinaman, Ah Wing, who, incidentally, has staked the sheriff whenever he is in need of money. The latter is secretly the head of a band of outlaws and when the Stranger wanders into the saloon, the sheriff and his men look on him as another victim. Accordingly Ah Wing signals his leading charmer and his other cohorts to fleece the unknown prospector of his money. But they haven't reckoned with the She Wolf, who recognizes the Stranger as a man who had once befriended her.

At the psychological moment she covers the desperadoes with her two guns, and, in the melee, the Stranger is wounded. She takes him to her cabin and nurses him back to health and pays her respects to the sheriff in her customary fashion when he comes to arrest the wounded man. Ah Wing in the meantime has Dud Bigby, a drunken ne'er-do-well, in his power and has exacted a promise from him for his daughter's hand. Sallie Bigby is secretly engaged to John Williams, a young miner, but as he is up in the mountains the girl lives in dread of her approaching marriage to the Chinaman. The She Wolf has knowledge of the girl's plight and when the nuptials are about to take place, she kidnaps the minister and locks him in her cabin. Then mounting her horse, and with both guns loaded, the She Wolf drives right through the windows of the saloon and rescues Sallie just as the sheriff is about to perform the ceremony. Thus the young girl and Williams are united and the She Wolf rides away with the Stranger because she has become his pardner for life.

PROGRAM READER

The management will introduce something unique in " The She Wolf " which comes to the ——— theatre shortly. It is quite a novelty to find a woman playing a role which is principally identified with masculine characterization, but Texas Guinan assumes the difficult part with all the abandon of Bill Hart. Indeed, she is known as the female Bill Hart, for she does the same things which have established his popularity. Miss Guinan might be his sister, so identically like him is she in personality. So when the star comes to the ——— in " The She Wolf," our advice is, " DON'T MISS HER "—if you want to see something new in characterization. She may be a good-bad woman and know how to handle a gun and to suppress the evil element in the camp, but beneath the surface she is as gentle as a lamb. When the Stranger rides into camp and stands to lose his pay dirt in a game of cards, it is the She Wolf who comes to his rescue, and shows her gratitude for a kindness he once bestowed upon her, by putting the vicious desperadoes where they belong. It is a typical Western picture and aside from the tense drama that is unfolded you will have a chance to revel in some picturesque scenery. Miss Guinan is supported by an excellent company. Be sure of the date, ——— the ———.

CATCH LINES

Texas Guinan has returned to the screen in " The She Wolf." She has been called the female Bill Hart, and when you see her in this picture which comes to the ——— on ——— you will say that Bill had better look to his laurels.

You've seen a two-gun man many times in pictures. But did you ever see a two-gun woman? We doubt it. You will have an opportunity to see how a woman of the West is successful in a regular Bill Hart sort of a role.

She didn't take any back talk from the unruly element of the camp. They were all afraid of her steady trigger fingers. They called her the She Wolf. But she fell in love and became a She Lamb.

She could be a wolf when the occasion demanded it. But she could also be a lamb. She could fight and she could love—love with the utmost tenderness. See Texas Guinan in " The She Wolf."

SUGGESTIONS

Exhibitors who feature this picture should lay special stress that here is something new in character drawing. It is seldom that an actress attempts to assume a man's role and it is quite a feat when one can completely hide her identity. So play up this fact for all it is worth. Texas Guinan may have appeared at your houses in " The Gun Woman." If so, you will remember her as the female Bill Hart. That name has stuck to her ever since, and she is more like the above mentioned star than ever. It isn't often that a woman is desirous of eliminating her feminine graces, but Miss Guinan has sufficient courage to explore new fields. Feature her big as the female Bill Hart, and that she can handle two guns with all of his abandon. She is a typical daughter of the pioneer days of the West and your patrons will remark about the characterization and the fact that it is different.

Bring out that it is an absorbing and thrilling drama of a mining camp—the sort of a picture that has made the reputation of more than one Western star. The title is attractive and will cause comment among your patrons. Play it up big and the name of the star. Write your arguments around the fact that here is something new in character drawing. Certain features in the story and catch lines may appeal to you for your ad copy. Get some stills of the star in her Western regalia. You can't go wrong with the picture if you concentrate upon the character that is played by Miss Guinan.

Texas Guinan in " The She Wolf," a Frohman production

"UPSTAIRS AND DOWN"—SELZNICK

Light and Airy Comedy with the Happy Ending

A VERY light and airy comedy showing a small group of society people trying to idle away a week or two at a house party. The story attempts to compare the lives of those upstairs and those down stairs and point out that "they're all alike under the skin." But the intent of the story was evidently lost in the great triangular struggle between author, director, and continuity writer. And all that remained were several very pleasant high spots and the happy ending.

This should draw fairly well in the first run houses in the larger cities and please the audience generally. It should do better as a puller in the very high class neighborhood theatres, and afford the elite audiences good entertainment. In the family or popular theatres it should also draw fairly well and at regular admission prices will satisfy. It will have no pull and no entertainment in houses that cater to a labor audience, nor will it get anywhere with an audience that loves thrills.—Length, 5 reels.—Released June 8.—Tom Hamlin.

THE CAST

Alice Chesterton	Olive Thomas
Betty Chesterton	Rosemary Theby
Rosalie	Mary Charleson
Tom Carey	David Butler
Terence O'Keefe	Robert Ellis
Sprang	Andrew Robson

By Frederic and Fanny Hatton.
Directed by Charles Giblyn.

PRESS NOTICE

"Upstairs and Down" is the Selznick photoplay starring Olive Thomas, scheduled to appear at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week.

This is the little star's first production under the Selznick banner and she is supported by an excellent cast of well known screen players. Charles Giblyn directed the production, which is from the story by Frederic and Fanny Hatton.

She was a little thing and a born flirt. There are said to be plenty of opportunities offered for flirtations at a house party and little Alice, portrayed by Olive Thomas, never missed a bet.

Luckily her older sister arrived in time to save the hostess from utter despair. But Alice had been having too good a time to let her sister spoil it and she had already made one trip to New York City, where in company with an irresistible young Irish guest of the same house party, she witnessed a midnight show.

But the older sister was some planner herself and managed to cut Alice out by winning over the young Irishman herself. Then Alice acted just like the deep-dyed villain generally acts in the melodramas. She told lies about the man she loved in order that her older sister might lose him.

And she almost succeeded—but not quite. Cave man methods are then introduced in the story and is carried throughout the house party, both "Upstairs" and "Down."

Which all goes to show that "weak heart never won fair lady." And also that "the Colonel's Lady and Judy O'Grady are just alike under the skin." An entertaining comedy-drama filled with amusing situations is what patrons can expect in "Upstairs and Down."

THE STORY

Little Alice Chesterton is carrying on a desperate flirtation with Terry O'Keefe, a gay young Irishman, who is visiting the fashionable Ives country home on Long Island.

Mrs. Ives, the hostess, is wishing that Alice's older sister would only come down to relieve her of the responsibility of chaperoning the young girl. Alice plans an excursion into New York and persuades young O'Keefe to meet her there and they attend a performance of the "Midnight Frolic."

Two men of the house party see the young couple there and report it to the hostess. Then the older sister arrives and determines to remove her young sister from the young Irishman's influence by winning him over to herself.

The older sister, Betty, utilizes an overturned automobile and after disarranging her hair and clothes sends her chauffeur in haste to bring young O'Keefe to her rescue. The young man carries her to the house and she is "revived" by a kiss from the young flirt. But it is a case of true love with him this time, and as the older sister is also smitten the proposal is accepted.

But they had not reckoned on the younger sister, Alice. She wins her sister's ear while young O'Keefe is going for the engagement ring and tells her that he has ruined her. This complicates affairs and causes several headaches and heartaches until the truth finally comes out.

Then the bashful sweetheart of Alice who had always kept in the background, decided to adopt the same cave-man-like tactics of O'Keefe, and thereupon Alice promptly falls into his arms. To show that the same tactics may or may not be effective "Upstairs" as well as "Down," the servants try to emulate the flirting mannerisms lately discovered by their masters.

PROGRAM READER

"He ruined my young life and took advantage of my innocence," she murmured to her sister when this same sister had told her of being engaged to him. But she lied. She did it very prettily, but—she lied. She separated her older sister from the lover that she wanted for herself.

You couldn't really condemn her, because, as we have stated, she did it very prettily. But—she lied just the same. If "Upstairs and Down" was a heavy dramatic production instead of a comedy-drama, the authors could never have brought the two right lovers together again. Not by the wildest streak of imagination.

But it is light and airy comedy drama, although for a while it looked as if an otherwise lovely young girl had ruined the lives of two forever and anon.

Cave man tactics finally overcome all the barriers erected by modern and formal courtship. And what was right for the upper ten proved about right for the lower twenty. And although she did lie, she did it so prettily that she finally receives the reward that prettiness brings without forfeiting.

To see just how prettily Olive Thomas can lie, and get away with it, you must see her in "Upstairs and Down" at this theatre next week. It is the youthful star's first Selznick production.

CATCH LINES

Did you ever see a "Baby Vamp" at work? See Olive Thomas in "Upstairs and Down."

She told a lie, but she did it, oh so prettily.

What is good for "Upstairs" is not always good for "Down," and vice-versa.

The safety deck of a polo horse offered a safe refuge for Terry after he had been both "Upstairs and Down."

A country house party is no place to take a perfectly respectable heart.

After you see little Olive Thomas in her Polo costume; right away you'll quit playing checkers and rummie and want to become a reckless polo player.

SUGGESTIONS

When you book this picture your first duty should be to play up Olive Thomas as the captivating little screen star in her first Selznick production. It is a light and airy comedy-drama and it would be well to herald it as a screen attraction for real amusing entertainment rather than a heavy problem play or exciting melodrama. You can make capital of this fact and then you will find how your offer of the light amusing stuff acts as a drawing card.

With Rosemary Theby and Robert Ellis in the cast you can safely mention their names quite prominently also, as they both have some following. Also emphasize in all your advertising that "Upstairs and Down" was counted one of the biggest stage success of its time and ran a full season on Broadway.

The suggestion that you induce some large local furniture store to link the title of the play with their wares in their daily newspaper advertising is a good one. For instance: Furniture for your home "Upstairs and Down." Here are a few of our "Upstairs and Down" values, etc.

"THE OTHER MAN'S WIFE"

(Continued from page 4215)

the biggest subjects that was ever written around the eternal triangle. Use the idea of the theme of how the husband went to war because he considered it his patriotic duty, and that his wife considered the time ripe to encourage a lady's man. The title is a good one and could be used in a teaser campaign. And you might mention that Carl Harbaugh is the director. He has done some big things for Fox. Then there are the names of the featured players. Most of your crowd must be familiar with Stuart Holmes by this time. He is one of the few good villains on the screen. Play him up and also Ellen Cassidy, the other star. In detailing any part of the plot you might concentrate upon the faked cablegram that the villain offers the wife which imparts that her husband is dead. Bring out that it is a drama of every day life—a big throbbing, pulsating, stirring drama.

Olive Thomas stars in her first Selznick production, "Upstairs and Down"

"BETTER TIMES"—ROBERTSON-COLE

A "Sunshine" Picture That Should Please Any Audience

A LIGHT and easy moving comedy-drama picturing life in a run-down health resort, and revealing through light comedy, occasional pathos and one bereavement, the struggles of an ambitious country girl toward the desired climax which she finally reaches when re-united with her lover.

Nothing intense anywhere, but generally entertaining with many good comedy spots. Animals, both house and farmyard, contribute. Well directed, and an easily followed continuity.

This will afford very pleasing entertainment to practically any sort of an audience as it is a "sunshine" picture throughout, and just the sort of picture that will register particularly strong after a long run of the so-called heavier stuff. The Christian Science "business" injected will absorb and interest more people than some exhibitors generally imagine.—Length, 5 reels.—Released June 22.—Tom Hamlin.

THE CAST

Nancy Scroggs	Zazu Pitts
Peter	David Butler
Ezra Scroggs	Jack McDonald
Si Whittaker	Wm. Devaull
Jack Ransom	Hugh Fay
Tony	George Hackathorne

Produced by Brentwood Film Corp.

Written and Directed by King Vidor.

PRESS NOTICE

What everybody is hoping and living for will arrive at the ——— theatre on ——— of ——— week: "Better Times."

This is the newest photoplay written and directed by King Vidor, the author and director of "The Turn in the Road."

When Robertson-Cole selected this production from the Brentwood list for Exhibitors-Mutual distribution, the ——— theatre, remembering King Vidor's past screen successes, quickly booked it and reports have it that "Better Times" is another perfect gem.

Picture an ambitious young girl with a shiftless father who is proprietor of a dilapidated hotel in a run-down health resort. No guests, no servants, no cook, no driver for the bus or the "car" to meet the incoming trains. And a rival hotel, more up-to-date, gathering in all the few arriving guests.

But Nancy drags out the old Ford (1902 Model) and fairly kidnaps a young man who carelessly allowed the other bus to get away from the depot. She gives him the roughest riding he ever had. And she makes him like it. She becomes clerk, bellhop and maid in turn and he boosts the cooking of the old colored cook that Nancy secured, so that in time the guests of the other hotel come over to Nancy's hotel enmasse.

When the young man leaves hurriedly and Nancy's father dies after gambling away the now paying hotel, she finds herself with six thousand dollars life insurance and attends a young ladies seminary to polish up. But how about her sweetheart? Well, she attends a ball game and then—well, then someone makes a three-base hit with two men on bases, and Nancy—well, you will find out when you see "Better Times."

The cast is heralded as a particularly strong and well balanced one in support of Zazu Pitts as Nancy. Much interest has been aroused among Christian Scientists after Nancy successfully demonstrates to her young guest that the doctor's order for a thin diet was all bunk and that he should eat all he desired.

THE STORY

Nancy Scroggs helped her shiftless father take care of a dilapidated hotel in the run-down health resort. As she began to get ambitious the old Ford car was brought out and she determined to make the trains as of yore.

But all of the very few arrivals preferred to go to the other rival hotel and the "Lakeview" was without a single paying guest until Nancy fairly kidnapped a young man who stepped off the train after the team from the rival hotel had left.

She promptly becomes bell-hop, maid and clerk. An old colored woman is installed as cook for the single guest. He has to refuse the offerings of "the best cook in the country" until Nancy quotes a little "Christian Science" phrase which he promptly heeds and thereafter eats to his heart's content, scorning the advice of the doctor who had prescribed a certain abstaining but not sustaining diet.

He spreads the news of the great eats around among the guests of the other hotel and they all finally swarm over to the "Lakeview." But daddy is too busy playing horseshoes and Nancy has to take full charge of the now crowded hotel. Her father finally gambles the hotel away and disappears. When his hat is discovered on the lake shore it develops that he has drowned and Nancy gets $6,000 worth of his life insurance.

Previous to this event, young Peter, her first guest, had fallen in love with Nancy and she thought that he was just about the only man in the world for her. But he was called away suddenly and his letters to her were destroyed by her father. A young lady's school was Nancy's next step, as she was ambitious to become a polished young lady. When all the other girls received letters from sweethearts she wrote letters to herself and signed them with the name of a famous ball player.

The denouement came when the team that "Spike Macauley" was playing on, appeared in a nearby city and Nancy was a member of the box party that attended from the school. An envious and suspicious girl had found out that Nancy was writing the letters signed "Macauley" to herself and wanted to humiliate Nancy. But when Spike comes over it developed that he was her first paying guest, her long lost sweetheart, and was there not a flying leap made over the rail by Nancy? and didn't she just throw both arms around him? She did. And he did likewise.

And "Better Times" had arrived for both.

PROGRAM READER

Nancy Scroggs derives her quaint philosophy anent the cure for human ills from the words of wisdom printed on a calendar. She upsets all traditions and declares that the doctor's prescription of a very weak, slim diet for the only paying guest in her father's hotel is all bunk. And she proves it by developing a very athletic sweetheart whom she afterwards wins for a husband.

And all this was of course contrary to the average landlord's code of ethics. The very idea of encouraging a young man to eat more heartily when he was paying for eating practically nothing had he heeded his doctor's advice.

But Nancy was grooming a future husband with the assistance of a very wise calendar. And the cat and the goat and the chickens, real farmyard chickens, were willing assistants in Nancy's campaign. A young lady's boarding school taxed Nancy's ingenuity finally, but she was victorious. She plunged over the rail and clasped her arms around the neck of the star ball player at the base ball game and won her man.

All this and more in "Better Times," to be seen at this theatre next week.

SUGGESTIONS

Try and secure a list of the members of the Christian Science churches and mail them a special invitation to see their beliefs demonstrated in a photoplay.

Then emphasize in all your advertising that "Better Times" is here at the ——— theatre. The title is very elastic and provides many opportunities for catch phrases.

Give Zazu Pitts credit as a discovery of a new star who appeared in mediocre parts in Mary Pickford productions. She is alive, virile, active, natural and unaffected.

CATCH LINES

She treated his stomach humanely against the doctor's orders, and thus won the way to his heart.

Nancy had to get milk quickly for the only paying guest and got the goat of the farmyard favorite.

She was not a regular baseball rooter, but supplied the only sensation of the game when she threw herself in the arms of the pinch hitter.

After she collected the insurance she attended a girls' seminary to polish up—and she did.

A calendar supplied her with food for thought and she embraced it in direct contradiction to established theories.

"OH, BOY!"

(Continued from page 4221)

to appear together, a fact which you might mention.

Another point about their first offering which should make money for you is the fact that it is an adaptation of the big New York musical comedy success. The piece had a phenomenal run on the stage. If you write your arguments around the story just mention it briefly. Tell your crowd that it is a youthful romance of two undergraduates who get themselves and their elders in all kinds of trouble before Cupid leaves them in isolated happiness. Use the catch line idea. The title will suggest good copy. It is a popular expression nowadays. Bring out that it is a highly amusing comedy. And mention the fact that it was adapted and directed by Capellani, the man responsible for the Nazimova picture, "The Red Lantern." Mention members of the cast. They are well known.

Zazu Pitts and David Butler in the Brentwood production, "Better Times," which Robertson-Cole is releasing through Exhibitors Mutual

Enid Bennett Becomes a Boy Scout

It is announced from the Ince publicity department on the West Coast that when announcement was made of the drive of Boy Scouts for membership and financial betterment and the date fixed for the week of June 8, Enid Bennett, the Thos. H. Ince star, immediately wired Oscar Price and other officials tendering her services to aid in the boys' campaign, and she has received the honorary appointment of Little Sister to the Los Angeels Scouts.

Miss Bennett planned and gave a Boy Scout matinee at the California theatre on the morning of Saturday, May 31, to which all Los Angeles scouts marched headed by Miss Bennett. After a parade through the principal streets of Los Angeles they went to the California theatre, where they were the guests of the Ince star and witnessed the showing of her most recent release, "Partners Three."

Woman Casting Director with New Concern

Leila Knapp Wyre, first of the women casting directors, has assumed the duties of casting director with the firm of Evangeline Weed, Inc. She was for some years with Metro in the same capacity.

Evangeline Weed, Inc. has been formed to manage, direct and produce high class productions with offices at 1400 Broadway, New York.

Program Glances

"The Avalanche," adapted from Gertrude Atherton's novel by the same title, recently produced by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation with Elsie Ferguson in the leading role, will be released June 22.

Baby Marie Osborne will be seen June 15, in her latest Pathe production, "The Little Diplomat," described as a picture of laughter and pathos.

Emmy Wehlen, star comedienne, is said to be at her best in Metro's release of June 16, called "Fools and Their Money," adapted from the original story by E. Forst.

"Too Many Crooks," starring Gladys Leslie, is announced as Vitagraph's impending star release. It will reach the screen June 16.

"Off the Trolley," a Harold Lloyd comedy, is released by Pathe June 22.

Frank Keenan has completed "The Trap," third of a series of eight features to be distributed by Pathe, and also the fourth which has the working title of "A Nameless Story."

House Peters, the star, Frank Powell, the director, and the company of players have returned to New York from San Antonio, Tex., to complete "You Never Know Your Luck," which will be distributed by W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

Ruth Roland, who now heads her own producing company, Ruth Roland Serials, Inc., is now on her way back to the Pacific Coast, where she will begin work at once.

Mrs. Sidney Drew has just purchased for screen production through Mrs. Julia R. Tutwiler Edna Ferber's story, "The Gay Old Dog," which appeared some time ago in the Metropolitan Magazine.

Bigger Houses Booking "Elmo the Mighty"

According to a Universal report "Elmo the Mighty," the new serial which was released ten days ago continues to be booked at some of the largest houses in the country. This serial which has for its star "Elmo Lincoln" of "Tarzan" fame, has enjoyed a wider booking than any previous Universal serial.

One of the most recent bookings among the larger houses in the country was that of the Columbia theatre at Portland, Oregon. This, according to a report is the first time in five years that any of the larger first run houses in Portland used a serial picture.

Parker Writes New Robertson-Cole Play

William Parker, author of "What Every Woman Wants," also wrote "Bare-Fisted Gallagher," in which William Desmond is featured in his next Robertson-Cole release through Exhibitors Mutual. "What Every Woman Wants" in which Grace Darmond had the featured role, was produced by Jesse D. Hampton as is "Bare Fisted Gallagher."

The newest Desmond feature, which follows his greatest triumph, "The Mints of Hell," is a most unusual production in that it has a cast of only three players prominent in the action. Agnes (Brownie) Vernon is chief in support of Desmond.

R INC
EXPERTS TO THE FILM INDUSTRY

Practical Wisdom

The chief functions of the commercial film Laboratory are to make "Quality Prints" and render "Prompt Service." Any Laboratory which cannot supply both is not functioning.

The Republic policy is for Quality, our physical and financial resources are for Service. The use of modern machinery—the finest raw material and chemicals obtainable plus our expert human element insure Quality. Our desire and willingness to please insure Service.

If you are not now getting "Quality Prints" plus "Prompt Service" you had better let us know and we will immediately transform these words into deeds.

REPUBLIC LABORATORIES, INC.

Phone
Bryant 7190

729 Seventh Avenue, New York

REPUBLIC LABORATORIES, INC.
729 SEVENTH AVENUE NEW YORK, N.Y.

Index to Complete Plan Book and EXHIBITORS' BOX OFFICE REPORTS

EDITOR'S NOTE—Exhibitors will find here a complete list of all feature pictures for the current quarter arranged alphabetically as an index to The Complete Plan Book for this period, naming the picture, the producer, the star, the release date, and designating the issue of MOTION PICTURE NEWS which contained the original review.

The following also contains our reviewer's opinion encompassed in a brief single line and gives the comments of exhibitors who have shown the picture and forwarded their opinions. And we also publish a final line fairly summarizing a consensus of all opinions received on each picture. As many of the exhibitors do not comment on every picture (merely checking it Big, Average or Poor), we arrive at the consensus not only by the actual comments made and published, but are also guided by the reports from exhibitors who have made no actual comments but have merely checked the box office value of the picture.

All the pictures mentioned are five-reel features, unless marked otherwise. Serials are reviewed also. At the conclusion of this department will be found the "Flash-Backs," being comments on films released prior to March 30, 1919.

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

AFTER HIS OWN HEART (METRO) HALE HAMILTON (APR. 28) ....MAY 10
"Good farce idea is basis of star's latest picture."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Average business."

ALL WRONG (PATHE) BRYANT WASHBURN (JUNE 1)...MAY 24
"Star in a picture of platonic love."—M. P. News.

ALMOST MARRIED (METRO) MAY ALLISON (JUNE 2)....JUNE 14
"May Allison in pleasing comedy-drama with good farcical windup."—M. P. News.

AMATEUR ADVENTURESS, THE (METRO) EMMY WEHLEN (MAY 5) ....MAY 17
"Excellent comedy marks star's return to screen."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Great picture. Average business."

AMAZING WIFE, THE (UNIVERSAL) MARY MACLAREN (APR. 7) ....(Six Parts)....MAR. 29
"Here's one on which you can go the limit."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Picture A1 but hard to get star over in this town. Not liked. Poor business three days." "Average business." Didn't draw. Average picture."
Consensus—"Good picture, average puller."

AN AMATEUR WIDOW (WORLD) ZENA KEEFE (MAY 26).MAY 24
"World offers an exceedingly pleasant comedy."—M. P. News.

AS A MAN THINKS (RAVER-HODKINSON) LEAH BAIRD (APR. 27) ....MAY 3
"New four-star combination steps over the line with a winner."—M. P. News.

BACHELOR'S WIFE, A (AMERICAN) MARY MILES MINTER (MAY 11) ....MAY 24
"Star assumes an Irish role in her latest picture."—M. P. News.

BARE FISTS (UNIVERSAL) HARRY CAREY (MAY 4) .... APR. 26
(Six Parts)
"As satisfactory as all the Harry Carey pictures."—M. P. News.

BEATING THE ODDS (VITAGRAPH) HARRY T. MOREY...MAY 10
"Star continues his forceful way in a romantic drama."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Good story but poor puller."

BEAUTY PROOF (VITAGRAPH) H. T. MOREY....JUNE 7
"Old-fashioned melodrama of the far north."—M. P. News.

BEST MAN, THE (HAMPTON-HODKINSON) J. WARREN KERRIGAN (MAY 4) ....MAY 10
"Star appears in mystery story flavored with romance."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Good picture and enjoyed by everyone. Average business three days." "Kerrigan pleased but he is one of the few who stands still regardless of how you push him. Average business."
Consensus—"Good picture, average puller."

BISHOP'S EMERALDS, THE (PATHE) PEARSON (JUNE 8) JUNE 7
"Star presents herself in good melodrama."—M. P. News.

BLACKIE'S REDEMPTION (METRO) BERT LYTELL (APR. 14) .... APR. 26
"Melodrama with power and pathos, and Bert Lytell."—M. P. News.
Exhibitors Comment—"Very good crook play to average business." "Excellent preduction to big business."
Consensus—"Fine picture, good puller."

BLINDING TRAIL, THE (UNIVERSAL) MONROE SALISBURY (MAY 19) ....(Six Parts)....MAY 3
"Predominant element is suspense; a trifle uncheery."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Average business."

BOLSHEVISM ON TRIAL (SELECT SPECIAL) SPECIAL CAST (APR. 20)....(Six Parts)....APR. 19
"Picture as good as its title; square deal."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Five day run, all came. Big and little, blind and armless. I removed most the rudeness from the film. Picture pleased."

BOOMERANG, THE (PIONEER) HENRY B. WALTHALL (MAY 26) ....(Seven Parts)....MAY 17
"Star and competent players in capital versus labor picture."—M. P. News.

BRASS BUTTONS (AMERICAN) WM. RUSSELL (MAR. 30) MAR. 22
"A lot of snap and zest to this comedy drama."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"The Greatest Russell picture yet. Big business." "Big business two days."
Consensus—"Fine picture, big puller."

BREAK THE NEWS TO MOTHER (SELECT) SPECIAL CAST (JUNE 8) ....JUNE 7
"Rather poorly done picture with mother love theme."—M. P. News.

BUSHER, THE (PARAMOUNT) CHARLES RAY (MAY 18)...JUNE 7
"The star excels all his past works."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Oh Boy! And on the holiday too. Great. Made a big hit with everyone. One of the most satisfactory we've played. Another success for Ray. Hope we get another like it. Big and average business."

CALEB PIPER'S GIRL (PATHE) HELENE CHADWICK (MAY 18) ....MAY 24
"Nothing big but will appeal to the tender emotions."—M. P. News.

CALIBRE 38 (EDGAR LEWIS-SHERRY) MITCHELL LEWIS (APR. 13) ....(Six Parts)....APR. 5
"Melodrama based on murder mystery; story well constructed."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Average business."

CAMBRIC MASK, THE (VITAGRAPH) ALICE JOYCE....APR. 5
"Star in version of unusual Chambers story."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Fair picture, average business."

CAPTAIN KIDD, JR. (ARTCRAFT) MARY PICKFORD (APR. 6) ....MAY 3
"Mary Pickford in brittle comedy drama, fairly diverting."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Average business seven days." "Picture below Pickford standard. Average business." "Here's your hat Mary. What's your hurry." "Average, poor to average businness."
Consensus—"Good picture, average puller."

CASTLES IN THE AIR (METRO) MAY ALLISON (MAY 12).MAY 24
"Star in a pleasing sentimental picture."— M. P. News.

CHARGE IT TO ME (AMERICAN) MARGARITA FISHER (MAY 5) ....MAY 3
"Star continues her frolicsome career in slender comedy."—M. P. News.

COME OUT OF THE KITCHEN (PARAMOUNT) MARGUERITE CLARK (MAY 11) ....MAY 24
"Beranger continuity good; Acting high class."—M. P. News.

COMING OF THE LAW, THE (FOX) TOM MIX (MAY 11)..MAY 24
"Unusually satisfying Western with Tom Mix starred."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Good. Regular type for this star. Average business." "Not as good as previous Mix offerings. Big and average business." "Good snappy Western. Tom is coming along fine and if he gets the right stories should be a big winner very soon. Big and average business."
Consensus—"Fine picture, good puller."

COURAGEOUS COWARD, THE (ROBERTSON-COLE) SESSUE HAYAKAWA (APR. 14) .... APR. 26
"Story of great interest; Japanese lovers united."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Not quite up to standard by reason of the story. American people don't like to see a 'Jap' as District Attorney, and then 'Anti-Jap' sentiment weakened same considerably."

CRY OF THE WEAK, THE (PATHE) FANNIE WARD (MAY 4) .... APR. 26
"Fannie Ward in an absorbing play of crime and punishment."—M. P. News.

DADDY LONG LEGS (FIRST NATIONAL) MARY PICKFORD (MAY 11) ....MAY 24
"Star's initial First National has much comedy and sentiment."—M. P. News.

DAUGHTER OF MINE (GOLDWYN) MADGE KENNEDY (MAR. 30) ....MAY 17
"Human interest story that hits the mark."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Ordinary feature. Nearly as bad as 'Day Dreams.' With the same star. They like Madge Kennedy here but not in the kind of stuff Goldwyn is handing out lately. Poor business." "A good picture if audience is in the right mood to enjoy it. Opened big business but fell down second day." "Not up to Goldwyn standard. Very ordinary." "My, but this was awful! Our patrons said so and we say so." "This picture did not draw well and it's no wonder. Madge Kennedy deserves a better fate."
and it's no wonder. Madge Kennedy deserves a better fate." "Very bad. Poor business."
Consensus—"Good picture, average puller."

DELICIOUS LITTLE DEVIL, THE (UNIVERSAL) MAE MURRAY (MAY 11)....MAY 3
"A highly pleasing comedy with Mae Murray starred."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Average business."

DESTINY (JEWEL-UNIVERSAL) DOROTHY PHILLIPS (MAY 25) ....MAY 24
"Big in every sense of the word; Frenzied finance the theme."—M. P. News.

DIVORCE TRAP (FOX) GLADYS BROCKWELL (MAY 25)..JUNE 7
"Dramatic exposition of the divorce problem."—M. P. News.

Exhibitors' Own Box Office Reports

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

ETERNAL MAGDALENE, THE (GOLDWYN) SPECIAL CAST (APR. 20) .... MAY 3

" Long heralded picture largely an allegory."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" Opened to big business in spite of heavy rair early in afternoon. People satisfied."

EXQUISITE THIEF, THE (UNIVERSAL) PRISCILLA DEAN (APR. 28) .... (Six Parts) .... APR. 19

" Star shows unusual talent; highly artistic."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" Average business."

EYES OF THE SOUL (ARTCRAFT) ELSIE FERGUSON (APR. 20) .... MAY 3

" A beautiful story presented in a beautiful way."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" The public does like a happy ending. However, this would not be a good picture if it ended any other way. Elsie Ferguson is well liked here." " People didn't like it at all. Story weak. Poor business." " Ferguson getting better here." " Fair picture, no drawing power to star. Poor business."

Consensus—" Fair picture, average puller."

FALLEN IDOL, A (FOX) EVELYN NESBIT (MAY 18) ...... MAY 31

" Star appears in a new version of East versus West theme."—M. P. News."

FALSE EVIDENCE (METRO) VIOLA DANA (APR. 21) ...... MAY 3

" Rebellious heroine finds expression in the woods."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" Average picture, average business."

FIGHTING DESTINY (VITAGRAPH) HARRY T. MOREY ... MAR. 29

" Star in another fine fighting picture with mystery touch."—M. P. News.

FIGHTING FOR GOLD (FOX), TOM MIX (MAR. 30) .... APR. 12

" Clean picture with star unusually entertaining."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" A good picture but opposition pulled the business away." " Tom Mix draws 100 per cent. in my city." " Mix always there. Big business." " Very good. Mix sure is climbing fast as a money getter. Extra big business." " Not liked in this feature. Fox will have to do better or Mix will lose out. Average to poor business." " Big business two days."

Consensus—" Fine picture, big puller."

FINAL CLOSE-UP, THE (PARAMOUNT) SHIRLEY MASON (MAY 18) .... JUNE 14

" Working girl beats debutante to the altar in sparkling comedy."—M. P. News.

FIRE FLINGERS, THE (UNIVERSAL) RUPERT JULIAN (APR. 21) (Seven Parts) .... APR. 12

" Hold interest from first to last; dual role story."—M. P. News.

FIRES OF FAITH (FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY) SPECIAL CAST (MAY 18) .... (Six Parts) .... MAY 17

" Salvation Army picture should prove profitable."—M. P. News.

FOLLIES GIRL, THE (TRIANGLE) OLIVE THOMAS (APR. 27) .... APR. 26

"Sweet and homely tale of the chorus girl."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" Fair picture to poor business."

FOOLS' GOLD (ARROW) MITCHELL LEWIS (MAY 26) MAY 17 (Six Parts)

" Mitchell Lewis the star in a disconnected story. Locations good."—M. P. News.

FOR BETTER, FOR WORSE (ARTCRAFT) DE MILLE'S APR. 27) .... (Six Parts) .... MAY 10

" De Mille scores with a tremendous heart theme."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" The title of this picture helped put it over big and also the fact that it followed right after 'Don't Change Your Husband' which gave exhibitors some very good advertising business. Big and extra big business. " Big business seven days." " An elegantly enacted superior attraction in every manner. Big business." " Rained but went big and pleased all. A masterpiece, big business." " Rained again, but they came out, we doubled our run on this picture at advanced admissions and it went big." " Big business."

Consensus—" Excellent picture, big puller."

FULL OF PEP (METRO) HALE HAMILTON (MAY 26) ..... JUNE 7

"Breezy American cuts down rebellion in lively farce comedy."—M.P.News.

GETTING MARY MARRIED (SELECT) MARION DAVIES (APR. 13) .... APR. 19

" Marion Davies gets good story; excellent picture."—M. P. News.

GINGER (WORLD) VIOLET PALMER (MAY 5) .... MAY 3

" Story of boy and girl love excellently performed."—M. P. News.

GREASED LIGHTNING (PARAMOUNT) CHARLES RAY (APR. 20) .... MAY 10

"Star in a comedy with abundant small town atmosphere."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" He is one star that men and women both like. Extra big and big business four days and average three days." A typical Ray story with the star in just the sort of role to suit him. Certainly pleased our patrons. Big business." " Went big just like the title. Big business."

Consensus—" Excellent picture, big puller."

HEARTS ASLEEP (ROBERTSON-COLE) BESSIE BARRISCALE (MAR. 31) .... APR. 5

" Joy for Barriscale fans; many find fault with story."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" A splendid picture. One that pleased our patrons. Business big and average."

HEARTS OF MEN (HIRAM ABRAMS) GEORGE BEBAN (APR. 27). (5½ Reels) .... APR. 19

" Beban wins your sympathy; good film results."—M. P. News.

HELP! HELP! POLICE! (FOX) GEORGE WALSH (APR. 27) MAY 10

" Rollicking story with George Walsh cutting up capers."—M. P. News.

Exhibitors Comment—" Well liked. Extra big business on double bill." " Walsh losing ground. A good picture of his type. Average business." " Good, fast and furious to big business."

Consensus—" Fine picture, good puller."

HIS DEBT (ROBERTSON-COLE) SESSUE HAYAKAWA (MAY 25) .... MAY 31

" Japanese star in a picture of real dramatic worth."—M. P. News.

HOME BREAKER, THE (PARAMOUNT) DOROTHY DALTON (APR. 20) .... MAY 17

" Highly satisfying comedy drama starring Dorothy Dalton.—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" Fellers, they ate this one up, you bet. Big business."

HOME TOWN GIRL (PARAMOUNT) V. MARTIN (MAY 11) . JUNE 7

" Star's latest sparkles with charm and sentiment."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" Average business two days."

HOUSE DIVIDED, A (BLACKTON-IND. SALES) SYLVIA BREAMER (APR. 27) .... (Six Parts) .... MAY 3

" Entertaining with pronounced love interest capitally played."—M. P. News.

I'LL GET HIM YET (PARAMOUNT) DOROTHY GISH (MAY 25) .... MAY 31

" A splendid farce comedy from every angle."—M. P. News.

INTRUSION OF ISABEL (AMERICAN-PATHE) MARY MILES MINTER (APR. 13) .... APR. 12

" Should satisfy all; clean romance well produced."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" Very good picture to big business." " Miss Minter creates no impression here. Average business."

Consensus—" Good picture, good puller."

ISLAND OF INTRIGUE, THE (METRO) MAY ALLISON (APR. 7) .... APR. 19

" May Allison's latest is a good mystery picture."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—"Not as good as other Allison Pictures. Didn't draw."

JACQUES OF THE SILVER NORTH (SELECT) MITCHELL LEWIS (JUNE 9) .... JUNE 14

" Mitchell Lewis is his virile self in picture of the Northwest."—M. P. News.

JOSSELYN'S WIFE (ROBERTSON-COLE) BESSIE BARRISCALE (MAY 5) .... MAY 17

" Drama of love quadrangle made effective through surprise finish."—M. P. News.

JUNGLE TRAIL, THE (FOX) WILLIAM FARNUM (APR. 20) APR. 26

" William Farnum traverses the jungle wilds."—M. P. News.

JUST SQUAW (ROBERTSON-COLE) BEATRIZ MICHELENA (MAY 11) .... MAY 10

" Star returns to the screen in Western melodrama."—M. P. News.

KHAVAH (ZION FILMS) ALICE HASTINGS (MAY 26) ...... MAY 24

(Seven Parts.)

" Too long and poorly titled but may find appeal before Jews."—M. P. News.

KNICKERBOCKER BUCKAROO, THE (ARTCRAFT) DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS (MAY 18) .... JUNE 7

" Pleasant but somewhat disappointing for Fairbanks."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" While this is not the worst one he has made, he had better get some real live stories. Opened to extra big and big business first two days, last four poor business."

LADY OF RED BUTTE, THE (PARAMOUNT) DOROTHY DALTON (MAY 11) .... JUNE 7

" Western melodrama gets tangled up in a tissue of absurdities."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" Heaven help us if we get any more like this. Average business. Ran a borrowed picture second day."

LAW OF MEN, THE (PARAMOUNT) ENID BENNETT (APR. 27) .... MAY 24

" Star in ordinary melodrama of love and law."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" Title killed it. Poor business."

LEAVE IT TO SUSAN (GOLDWYN) M. KENNEDY (MAY 11) JUNE 7

" Star's indomitable and undeniable humor scores again."—M. P. News.

LION'S DEN, THE (METRO) BERT LYTELL (MAY 19) ...... MAY 31

" Star is in a faithful picture of small town life."—M. P. News.

LITTLE COMRADE (PARAMOUNT) VIVIAN MARTIN (MAR. 30) .... APR. 26

" Pleases without showing anything sensational."—M. P. News.

Exihibitor Comment—" Little in name, little in star, and little in value. Poor business."

LITTLE DIPLOMAT, THE (PATHE) BABY MARIE OSBORNE (JUNE 15) .... MAY 31

" Little star's pranks are subordinated for Crook melodrama."—M. P. News.

LITTLE INTRUDER, THE (WORLD) LOUISE HUFF (APR. 7) .... APR. 5

"A most satisfactory comedy drama."—M. P. News.

LOVE CALL, THE (ROBERTSON-COLE) BILLIE RHODES (APR. 20) .... MAY

" Simple Western story colored with star's personality."—M. P. News.

LOVE DEFENDER, THE (WORLD) JUNE ELVIDGE (MAR. 31) .... MAR. 29

" Eternal Triangle told in simplest form."—M. P. News.

LOVE'S PRISONER (TRIANGLE) OLIVE THOMAS (JUNE 8) JUNE 7

" Star appears in a society-crook picture."—M. P. News.

LOVE THAT DARES, THE (FOX) MADLAINE TRAVERSE (APR. 20) .... MAY 3

" Star in new version of eternal triangle, effectively produced."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" Well liked. Extra big business on double bill." " Good program picture to big business." " A good picture, well received. Star like. Average business."

Consensus—" Good icture, good puller."

MAN OF HONOR, A. (SCREEN CLASSICS) HAROLD LOCKWOOD (MAY 3) .... APR. 26

" Star in characteristic role; a colorful picture."—M. P. News.

MAN WHO TURNED WHITE, THE (ROBERTSON-COLE) H. B. WARNER (MAY 4) .... MAY 24

" Star returns to screen in a colorful melodrama."—M. P. News.

MARRIED IN HASTE (FOX) ALBERT RAY-ELINOR FAIR (APR. 6) .... APR. 19

" Subtitles boost entertaining qualities; easy to see."—M. P. News.

Exhibitor Comment—" New stars, fair picture, just fair business." " Picture made in the same way—Haste! Poor business two days." " Good average picture to average business." " Star is unknown and failed to make our representations good. Poor business."

Consensus—" Ordinary picture, ordinary puller."

The Index to The Complete Plan Book

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

MARY REGAN (FIRST NATIONAL) ANITA STEWART (MAY 18) ....MAY 17
"Third Anita Stewart picture should prove another success."—M. P. News."

MASTER MAN, THE (PATHE) FRANK KEENAN (MAY 25)..MAY 17
"Star in a forceful play of love and politics."—M. P. News.

MAYOR OF FILBERT, THE (TRIANGLE) JACK RICHARDSON (MAY 25)..................(Seven Parts)..................MAY 24
"Plea for prohibition offered in fast and furious melodrama."—M. P. News.

MINTS OF HELL, THE (HAMPTON-ROBERTSON-COLE) WILLIAM DESMOND (MAY 5)........................MAY 31
"Star is splendid in vivid picture of the Yukon."—M. P. News.

MISS ADVENTURE (FOX) PEGGY HYLAND (MAY 4).....MAY 10
"Highly adventurous tale of the sea and fisher folk."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Big business on double bill." "Average business."
Consensus—"Good picture, good puller."

MODERN HUSBAND'S (ROBERTSON-COLE) HENRY B. WALTHALL (APRIL 28)..JUNE 7
"Star in plausible story of busy husband and neglected wife."—M.P.News.

MONEY CORRAL, THE (ARTCRAFT) WM. S. HART (APR. 20) ....MAY 3
"Wm. S. Hart in moving story with Eastern setting."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"A good Hart picture. They are waiting for a real whole-length Western picture. Photography and acting good. Hart surely does play up the hero stuff in this one. Big and average business." "This is a pretty good picture but did no extra business."
Consensus—"Good picture, good puller."

NEW MOON, THE (SELECT) NORMA TALMADGE (MAY 11) ....MAY 24
"Russian Soviet meet a courageous enemy in star."—M. P. News.

OH YOU WOMEN (PARAMOUNT) EMERSON-LOOS (MAY 4) ....MAY 24
"An artistic production as well as entertainment."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Took off. Had booked for four days but too many kicks. Poor business."

ONE OF THE FINEST (GOLDWYN) TOM MOORE (MAY 4) JUNE 14
Tom Moore pleases in a romance that is quite obvious.

ONE WEEK OF LIFE (GOLDWYN) PAULINE FREDERICK (APR. 13) ....MAY 31
"Star in a tyical Cosmo Hamilton story."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Big business for two days. Gave excellent satisfaction." "Fans do not like dual roles. Poor business." "Did not draw here. Average picture. Pleased her fants. Good average business." "They liked and came to see it."
Consensus—"Good picture, average puller."

PARISIAN TIGRESS, THE (METRO) VIOLA DANA (MAR. 31) ....APR. 12
"Viola Dana's personality wins again."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Very good. Dana better all the time. Big business." "Viola Dana always pleases." "A very good picture. Dana always does business for us. Business big first day, average other two."
Consensus—"Fine picture, big puller."

PEPPY POLLY (PARAMOUNT) DOROTHY GISH (MAR. 30).APR. 19
"Tears and laughs and under it all, good propaganda."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"They like Gish here but didn't like the story. It is all right to reform reform schools but not as entertainment in pictures." "Opened big and then average business." "Dorothy Gish coming by leaps and bounds, they like her and say so. Average business."
Consensus—"Good picture, average puller."

PEST, THE (GOLDWYN) MABEL NORMAND (APR. 20)......MAY 3
"The eccentric Mabel of olden days in a good comedy."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Typical Mabel Normand type of picture. Not overstrong as to plot. Pleased. Good story would help a lot. Average business." "One of Normand's best. Pleased. Good business for hot weather." "Rotten star and rotten picture. Poor business."
Consensus—"Average picture, average puller."

PHIL FOR SHORT (WORLD) EVELYN GREELEY (JUNE 2) JUNE 7
"Star in her first starring vehicle."—M. P. News.

PITFALLS OF A BIG CITY (FOX) GLADYS BROCKWELL (APR. 13)..APR. 19
"If you're looking for big melodrama, here it is."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Extra big business with this and other feature. People like William Scott, the leading man for Brockwell." "Some 'meller.' First day poor business, second day average and third day big business." "Splendid picture that holds all through. Well received and spoken of for days after. Big and average business." "Good ordinary crook picture, no more pitfalls than in dozens of others. Average business." "Fine, interesting picture. One of Brockwell's best. Big business."
Consensus—"Splendid picture, big puller."

PLACE IN THE SUN, A (TRIANGLE) MARGARET BLANCHE (MAY 4) ....MAY 10
"Cyril Harcourt's comedy drama screened as a melodrama."—M. P. News.

PLAYTHINGS OF PASSION (UNITED) GORDON (JUNE 8) JUNE 7
"Star is in a rather artificial society picture."—M. P. News.

PRETTY SMOOTH (UNIV.) PRISCILLA DEAN (JUNE 2) JUNE 7
"Bayard Veiller writes another crook story for Miss Dean."—M.P.News.

PRICE OF INNOCENCE, THE (BUFFALO M. P. CORP.) STELLA K. TALBOT (MAY 11)........................MAY 3
"Story of a woman's supreme sacrifice. Artificial but picturesque.—M. P. News.

QUICKENING FLAME, THE (WORLD) MONTAGU LOVE (APR. 21) ....APR. 26
"Vivid story of marital unhappiness in melodrama."—M. P. News.

REDHEAD (SELECT) ALICE BRADY (APR. 27)............MAY 31
"Star appears in a thoroughly human picture."—M. P. News.

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

RED LANTERN, THE (METRO) (SEVEN PARTS) NAZIMOVA (MAY 4) ....(Seven Parts)..................MAY 10
"Star superb in impressive and spectacular play of the far east."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Broke record at advanced prices all week. Opposition was Norma Talmadge, Constance Talmadge, Marguerite Clark, at all first-run down-town houses. Crowds waiting at 9:15 a. m. to get in show starting at 9:30. Rain several times during week but crowds held up. All attendance records broken for seven straight days. Regular stampede. "Four days. Wonderfully beautiful, but no business to mention after first day." "A bad story, but the star pulled big business."
Consensus—Excellent picture, big puller."

REGULAR FELLOW, A (TRIANGLE) TAYLOR HOLMES (APR. 13)..APR. 19
"Clean and delightful comedy; thrills toward the end."—M. P. News.

RESCUING ANGEL, THE (PARAMOUNT) SHIRLEY MASON (APR. 6.) ....MAY 3
"Light and airy; should capture any audience."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Average business." "Fair only to average business."
Consensus—"Fair picture, average puller."

RIDERS OF VENGEANCE (UNIVERSAL) HARRY CAREY (JUNE 9) ....MAY 31
"Star in a fine 'Good-Bad' man Western."—M. P. News.

ROAD CALLED STRAIGHT, THE (BETZWOOD-GOLDWYN) LOUIS BENNISON (APR. 20)........................MAY 10
"Bennison's tricks and personality show to good advantage."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Good picture and good star coming fine here. Average business."

ROARING ROAD, THE (PARAMOUNT) WALLACE REID (APR. 27) .... APR. 26
"Fast and exciting picture with hair-raising climax."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Had special page in newspaper paid for by Hudson Auto concern. Extra big and bigger than average business."

ROGUE'S ROMANCE, A (VITAGRAPH) EARLE WILLIAMS..MAY 31
"This Earle William's picture below his regular average."—M. P. News.

RUSTLING A BRIDE (PARAMOUNT) LILA LEE (APR. 27)..MAY 24
"Star has a suitable subject in Western photoplay."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Star not popular here, picture only fair. Poor business."

SAWDUST DOLL, THE (PATHE) BABY MARY OSBORNE (APR. 20)..APR. 5
"One of best Marie Osborne pictures; heart appeal."—M. P. News.

SHERIFF'S SON, THE (PARAMOUNT) CHARLES RAY (MAR. 30) ....APR. 12
"Best picture of type in which Ray appears."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Drew big on double bill and they liked it."

SILK LINED BURGLAR, THE (UNIVERSAL) PRISCILLA DEAN (MAR. 31)..................(Six Parts)..................APR. 5
"Entertaining version of 'Boston Blackie' story."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Picture only fair. Big business."

SILVER GIRL, THE (PATHE) FRANK KEENAN (APR. 6)..MAR. 22
"Frank Keenan in a dominating characterization."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Average business."

SIREN'S SONG, THE (FOX) THEDA BARA (MAY 4).......MAY 17
"Star in story of love and intolerance; fairly convincing."—M. P. News.

SLEEPING LION, THE (UNIVERSAL) MONROE SALISBURY (JUNE 23) ....JUNE 14
"Monroe Salisbury contributes Italian characterization."—M. P. News.

SOME LIAR (AMERICAN) WILLIAM RUSSELL (MAY 19)..MAY 17
"Star breezes through in extravagant farce comedy."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"The best yet. Big business."

SOMETHING TO DO (PARAMOUNT) BRYANT WASHBURN (APR. 13) ....MAY 10
"Entertaining comedy drama starring Bryant Washburn."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Dandy picture to extra big business." "Not up to Washburn standard. Average business."
Consensus—"Good picture, good puller."

SPEEDY MEADE (GOLDWYN) LOUIS BENNISON (MAR. 23)..APR. 19
"Story of pleasing sort; player's personality helps."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Star not known here but coming fast. Splendid new type of Western picture. Opened average business first day and last day to big business." "Our patrons are not so strong for Westerns but they like Bennison. Average business." "They like Bennison here. Business gets bigger with each feature released and played with this star. Extra big business."
Consensus—"Excellent picture, big puller."

SPOTLIGHT SADIE (GOLDWYN) MAE MARSH (APR. 6)..MAY 3
"Star shines in role of a pious chorus girl."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Average business two days." "As good as the usual Mae Marsh picture. Average business." "Just fair only. Poor business." "Big business two days."
Consensus—"Pleasing picture, average puller."

STITCH IN TIME, A (VITAGRAPH) GLADYS LESLIE.......MAY 3
"Star simulates gladness in an appealing story."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"A very nice little story to average business."

STRONGER VOW, THE (GOLDWYN) GERALDINE FARRAR (APR. 27) ....MAY 10
"Star in picture with Spanish background."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—"Big business on double bill." "Good picture. Big business." "Personally don't think there is any excuse for Farrar being in pictures. Believe she has made more exhibitors lose money than any other five stars. Poor business." "Well produced picture but did not go over as well as other Goldwyn pictures. Average business." "Holds up with Farrar's other Goldwyn pictures. Big business."
Consensus—"Good picture, good business."

Index and Reports Concluded and "Flashbacks"

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

TANGLED THREADS (ROBERTSON-COLE) BESSIE BARRISCALE (JUNE 21)........................JUNE 14
" Bessie Barriscale appears again in domestic Triangle play."—M. P. News.

TAXI (TRIANGLE) TAYLOR HOLMES (MAY 11).........MAY 17
" Starts slowly but gathers speed towards the middle."—M. P. News.

TEST OF HONOR, THE (PARAMOUNT) JOHN BARRYMORE (APR. 6)..APR. 19
" John Barrymore—enough said, even in dramatic role."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Fine picture to poor business." " Good picture, good business."
Consensus—" Good picture, average fuller."

THAT'S GOOD (METRO) HALE HAMILTON (MAR. 24)......APR. 5
" This comedy drama a trifle slow, but mildly amusing."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Just fair. Average business." " That's good to average business." " Not as good as his other pictures. Didn't draw."
Consensus —" Good picture, average puller."

THIN ICE (VITAGRAPH) CORINNE GRIFFITH............MAY 24
" Star in splendid sustaining melodrams."—M. P. News.

THIRD DEGREE, THE (VITAGRAPH) ALICE JOYCE (Seven Parts) ....MAY 17
" Star in a fine screen version of stage success."—M. P. News.

THOU SHALT NOT (FOX) EVELYN NESBIT (MAR. 23)....APR. 5
(Six Parts)
" Should satisfy fans who patronize this type."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" The best picture Nesbit has made. Good business puller." " Nesbit is a goner." " Her best picture, but failed to get normal trade." " Average business." " Average business two days in downtown house."
Consensus—" Good picture, good puller."

THREE GREEN EYES (WORLD) CARLYLE BLACKWELL (APR. 28) .... APR. 26
" All-star cast in best World release in six months."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" All star. Blackwell, Eldridge and Greeley, a very pleasing picture. Excellent. The best the World has done for many months. Extra big to big and average business third day."

THUNDERBOLTS OF FATE (EDWARD WARREN-HODKINSON) HOUSE PETERS (APR. 6)..............................APR. 19
" Strong melodrama with political setting."—M. P. News.

TOO MANY CROOKS (VITAGRAPH) GLADYS LESLIE....JUNE 14
" Comedy and mystery unite to make enjoyable picture."—M. P. News.

TOTON (TRIANGLE) OLIVE THOMAS (MAR. 30)..........MAR. 29
" Looks like star's best bet on Triangle program."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Average business." " Has fair comedy appeal. Star's work good. Average business."
Consensus—" Satisfactory picture, average puller."

TRIXIE FROM BROADWAY (AMERICAN) MARGARET FISHER (JUNE 15)..JUNE 14
" Margarita Fisher stars in fairly interesting picture of a chorus girl."—M. P. News.

TRUE HEART SUSIE (GRIFFITH-ARTCRAFT) SPECIAL CAST (MAY 25)..JUNE 14
" Griffith's latest is real, but suffers from padding."—M. P. News.

UNKNOWN LOVE, THE (PATHE) DOLORES CASSINELLI (APR. 27)................(Six Parts)......................APR. 19
" War and Love twined in Perret's production."—M. P. News.

UNKNOWN QUANTITY, THE (VITAGRAPH) CORINNE GRIFFITH ....APR. 12
" Exceedingly pleasant O. Henry story with Corinne Griffith."—M. P. News.

UNPAINTED WOMAN, THE (UNIVERSAL) MARY MAC LAREN (MAY 11) ....(Six Parts)...................MAY 17
" Faithful study of rural life that is rich in characterization."—M. P. News."

UNPARDONABLE SIN, THE (GARSON-NEILAN) BLANCHE SWEET (APR. 6)...........(Eight Parts)................MAY 17
" Particularly fine combination of talent produces wonderful results."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" A splendid picture. Miss Sweet at her best. Perfectly directed, good photography, action intense, and a picture that every 'Honest to God' American should see. Extra big business seven days."

UNWRITTEN CODE, THE (WORLD) SHIRLEY MASON (MAY 19) ....MAY 17
" In which Kidu-San and Dick Tower meet, marry and part."—M. P. News.

USURPER, THE (VITAGRAPH) EARLE WILLIAMS........APR. 26
" Earle Williams in adaptation of Nat Goodwin's play."—M. P. News.

VIRTUOUS SINNERS (PIONEER) NORMAN KERRY-WANDE HAWLEY (MAY 25) ....MAY 24
" Story of the slums marred by poor photography."—M. P. News.

VEILED ADVENTURE, THE (SELECT) CONSTANCE TALMADGE (MAY 11) ....MAY 24
" A reasonably good comedy with Constance Talmadge."—M. P. News.

WHAT AM I BID? (UNIVERSAL) MAE MURRAY (APR. 14)..APR. 5
(Six Parts)
" Holds interest all the way; discriminating fans may find fault."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Murray well liked. Picture plot impossible. Settings excellent. Average business." " Pleased all. Big business."
Consensus—" Good picture, good puller."

PICTURE BRAND STAR RELEASED PLAN BOOK

WHEN FATE DECIDES (FOX) M. TRAVERSE (JUNE 1)....JUNE 7
" Butterfly husband has innings again in domestic melodrama."—M. P. News.

WHEN MY SHIP COMES IN (INDEPENDENT SALES) JANE GREY (APR. 7)...APR. 5
"A melodrama of the stage with Jane Grey featured.'—M. P. News.

WHITE HEATHER, THE (MAURICE TOURNEUR) SPECIAL CAST (MAY 18)...MAY 17
" Another artistic and unusual melodrama from Tourneur."—M. P. News.

WHITEWASHED WALLS (ROBERTSON-COLE) WILLIAM DESMOND (APR. 14) ....APR. 12
" Of the light, pleasant variety; should please all."—M. P. News.
Exhibitor Comment—" Desmond deserves better than this slow-moving picture, lacks interest, routine, weak, serio-comic thing."

WOMAN NEXT DOOR, THE (PARAMOUNT) ETHEL CLAYTON (May 4) ....MAY 31
" Star has an excellent number in this picture."—M. P. News.

WOMAN THERE WAS, A (FOX) THEDA BARA (JUNE 1)...JUNE 14
" The only asset in Theda Bara's latest is the title."—M. P. News.

WORDS AND MUSIC BY (FOX) ALBERT RAY (MAY 18)...MAY 31
" Good representation of small town ambition and talent."—M. P. News.

YANKEE PRINCESS, A (VITAGRAPH) BESSIE LOVE.......APR. 19
" Bessie Love in Irish play of simple charm."—M. P. News.

"FLASHBACKS" ON EARLIER RELEASES

" Rebellious Bride " (Fox)—" Hayland becoming popular. Picture pleased. Average business."

" Man Hunter " (Fox)—" Not up to Farnum standard. Average business."

" Salome " (Fox)—" This picture cannot be compared with ' Cleopatra.' Big business."

" Secret Garden " (Paramount)—" Poor picture, poor business."

" Two Brides " (Paramount)—" Poor picture, poor business."

" Heart of Wetona " (Select)—" Poorest picture Select has given this star. Average business."

" Who Will Marry Me? " (Universal)—" Had fair entertainment value. Average business."

" Eye for an Eye " (Metro)—" This star is liked here and patrons liked this picture."

" Lend Me Your Name " (Metro)—" Patrons went out happy after seeing this one."

" Out of the Fog " (Metro)—" Nazimova always a good drawing card, but this picture not up to her standard."

" Vicky Van " (Paramount)—" Nearly alawys good for big business."

" When Love is Blind " (Paramount)—" Nearly always good for big business."

" The Silver King " (Paramount)—" The play well known among older patrons, but caused no particular stir among the younger and larger class of patrons. Average business."

" For Better, For Worse " (Artcraft)—" An elegantly enacted superior attraction in every way. Gloria Swanson becoming a big favorite. Extended run to advanced prices. Big business."

" Yankee Doodle in Berlin " (Paramount)—" Good picture, big business."

" When Doctors Disagree " (Goldwyn)—" Went over fairly but story was weak. Average business."

Vicky Van " (Paramount)—" Pleased fairly well. Average business."

" Shadows of Suspicion " (Metro)—" Spy or detective stories very unpopular here and this one disappointed Lockwood admirers. Big business."

" Let's Elope " (Paramount)—" Fair picture to fair business."

" Final Close-Up " (Paramount)—" Star not popular here, good picture. poor business."

" When a Girl Loves " (Jewell)—" A very disappointing Western that does not star Mildred Harris. Big business."

" Intrusion of Isabel " (Pathe)—" Miss Minter creates no enthusiasm. Average business."

" Common Clay " (Pathe)—" Very good, a fireat production and a great story. Big business."

" Bound in Morocco " (Artcraft)—" Drew big for hot weather on first night fell off on second night."

" Code of the Yukon " (Select)—" Lewis best picture. Big business both days."

" Out of the Fog " (Metro)—" Fair, does not compare with any of her previous productions. Action slow. Average business."

" The Great Romance " (Metro)—" Very pleasing picture. Big business."

" Paid in Full " (Artcraft)—" Good picture, average business."

" Maggie Pepper " (Paramount)—" Average business. Ordinary picture."

" Winning Girl " (Paramount)—" Poor picture, poor business."

" When Men Desire " (Fox)—" Ordinary picture, average business."

" Luck and Pluck " (Fox)—" Ordinary picture, average business."

" Regeneration " (Fox)—" Ordinary picture, poor business."

Danger, Go Slow " (Universal)—" Average business, average picture."

" When a Girl Loves " (Universal)—" A Western picture with a real Western touch."

" Indestructible Wite " (Select)—" Not as good as most Brady's. Extra big business.

" Danger, Go Slow " (Universal)—" Average business, average picture."

" Social Secretary " (Select)—" Norma Talmadge repeat. Fair business."

" Poor Rich Man " (Metro)—" Good picture for Bushman. Average business."

" In for Thirty Days " (Metro)—" Average picture, average business."

New Theatres Building Throughout Country

NEW YORK

Whitestone—J. M. Hertel is to build a theatre on his property on Fifteenth street between Seventh and Eighth avenues. It will cost about $30,000.

Niagara Falls—The Arcade Theatre company plans to erect a new theatre on Falls street on the present site of the Cataract Theatre and the property which includes the old Prospect Park Hotel. It will seat 3,000.

Brooklyn—A moving picture theatre will be erected on 1393, 1395 and 1397 Flatbush avenue, it is said. It will have a seating capacity of about 3,000.

Saratoga Springs—The new Congress theatre is being erected at the corner of Spring and Broadway.

Binghamton—The new Majestic will be erected on the site of the Ely property in Henry street. Construction will start within the near future.

Buffalo—A new theatre to be known as the Metropolitan will be built by the Shea interests. It will have a seating capacity of 3,500 and will be devoted to the presentation of moving pictures.

Brooklyn—The Avondale Building Corporation have arranged details for the construction of a $250,000 theatre to be erected in the block bounded by Kings Highway, Avenue Q, Coney Island avenue and East 12th street.

Werbe Realty Company are to build a brick theatre and stores to cost $200,000 on the south side of St. John's Place north of Kingston avenue.

On Bedford avenue which bisects the Midwood Colony near its certer it is planned to locate a colony playhouse.

Buffalo—A new theatre which will cost, it is said, probably $1,500,000 will be erected in the downtown district and will front in Main street. The building will have a seating capacity of 4,000 and is to play vaudeville and motion pictures. It will be erected by the Modern Amusement Company of which James Wallingford is president.

OHIO

Portsmouth—A new picture house will be erected on the present site of the Gilgen, Balmert and Hatton properties. It will have a seating capacity of 600.

Miamisburg—A new theatre is being erected on Main street by Weaver Brothers. It will cost about $30,000.

Middletown—According to reports local capital is interested in the erection of a new picture theatre. It is said that an option has been taken on the Methodist Protestant church property.

Ironton—A four-story store and picture show building is to be erected for Col. H. A. Martin.

OREGON

Grants Pass—The Globe Company has purchased property here and is planning the construction of a new theatre.

PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia—A one-story moving picture theatre is to be built at 2311-19 Germantown avenue.

SOUTH DAKOTA

Aberdeen—Reports state that the McCarthy Brothers are to build a new theatre on Main street. It will cost about $100,000 and seat 1,200.

TENNESSEE

Dresden—Plans are maturing for the erection of a new moving picture theatre for colored people.

WASHINGTON

Seattle—Construction on a motion picture theatre building to cost $25,000 on the west side of California avenue north of West Waite street, West Seattle, is announced by W. T. Campbell of the West Seattle Bank. It will have a seating capacity of 550.

WEST VIRGINIA

Parkersburg—A new theatre will be erected on the corner of Market and Eighth streets by the Smoot Amusement company. It will have a seating capacity of 1,000 and cost about $90,000 and will be called the "Lincoln."

ILLINOIS

Quincy—Preparations for the new moving picture theatre to be erected on the present site of the Gem and Savoy houses, 252-523 Hamshire street, were begun recently. Messrs. Pinkelmann and Corey are proprietors.

Raymond—A new Opera House will be built here in the near future.

La Salle—The new Majestic theatre is being erected at the corner of Second and Gooding streets.

Murphysboro—Marlo Brothers are to build a new Hippodrome theatre on South Thirteenth street. It will have a seating capacity of about 1800.

Mt. Vernon—Work has been started on the construction of an open air theatre on North Tenth street.

INDIANA

Greenfield—Work has commenced on the new theatre building just east of the court house. The "Why Not Realty Company" owns the property.

Huntington—T. G. Perfect is to erect a new theatre at Washington and Jefferson streets.

Decatur—B. M. Miller opened a new picture theatre here on June 1.

Seymour—Work on the new theatre on South Chestnut street is progressing rapidly.

KENTUCKY

Elizabethtown—The New Liberty theatre is now in process of construction and will rival any Louisville theatre in its magnificence, it is said.

Kutawa—Messrs. Springs and O. Herring are erecting an airdome theatre. It has been named the Orion.

MAINE

Lewiston—The new Priscilla theatre opened here recently.

Saco—A report is in circulation that theatrical people from another city are after the property at the corner of Storer and Maine streets with a view to building a picture house.

Lewiston—It is said that a vaudeville theatre will be constructed on the present site of Ridgely Hall, Main street.

MASSACHUSETTS

Westfield—P. J. Mahoney and Edward McCarthy are to erect a new theatre, it is said.

MICHIGAN

Detroit—Preparations are being made to start construction of a large theatre, store and office building, to be erected on the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Fifty-second street, for the Victory Theatre, Inc. It will have a seating capacity of about 1,750.

Flint—Construction has started on the theatre building which will be erected at 302-304 So. Saginaw street for the L. F. Sunlin interests.

MINNESOTA

Minneapolis—Architects are said to be preparing plans for Joseph W. Cohen of this city for what is reported to be one of the finest moving-picture theatres in the Northwest. The site selected is the corner of 14th street and Nicollet avenue. It will seat about 2,000.

NEW JERSEY

New Brunswick—A new theatre will be erected on the present site of the Leupp dwelling and Mansion House in Albany street. It will cost $300,000 it is said and seat 2,500.

Lakewood—A new theatre will be built on the present site of the Lakewood theatre. Work will begin shortly.

WASHINGTON

Spokane—A new Hippodrome theatre will be erected in the near future on one of two locations on Riverside avenue, according to Irving Ackerman, head of the Hippodrome circuit. It will seat about 2,000.

WISCONSIN

La Crosse—The La Crosse Theatre Company and the Burford-Rosenstein Realty Company are said to have joined forces to build a new motion picture house and business block in North Fourth street.

Advance Information on All Film Releases

All forthcoming film, also current and earlier releases, made by both the independent and the regular producers, in short subjects as well as features, are arranged alphabetically with all the later releases at the top of each respective list instead of at the bottom.

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC.

(See Pathe Exchanges)

BEAR STATE FILM COMPANY

(At State Right Exchanges)

The Vigilantes

CHRISTIE FILM COMPANY COMEDIES

(At State Right Exchange)

CHRISTIE TWO REELERS

May 12—Rowdy Ann	2
April 28—Sally's Blighted Career	2

SINGLE REEL COMEDIES

June 30—Anybody's Widow	1
June 23—Oh! My Dear	1
June 16—A Full House	1
June 9—Can Wives be Trusted	1
June 2—Tell Your Wife Everything	1
May 26—Kiss the Bride	1
May 19—Oh Susie, Be Careful	1
May 12—A Rustic Romeo	1
May 5—Too Many Wives	1
Apr. 28—Sea Sirens	1
Apr. 21—Stop-Look-Listen	1
Apr. 14—Lost—A Bridegroom	1
Apr. 7—Apartment 23	1
Mar. 31—Marrying Molly	1
Mar. 24—Brides for Two	1

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORP. OF AMERICA

(Through State Right and Educational Exchanges)

Photoplay Magazine Screen Supplement Released Once Every Month Showing Leading Stars at work and play	1
Mar. 24—The Passing of the Crow	1
Mar. 17—The Eagle and the Fawn	1
Mar. 3—The Washington Air Patrol	1
Feb. 24—What Is a Mexican?	1
Feb. 17—A Day with Carranza	1

BLACK AND WHITE COMEDIES (International)

May 5—Rubbing It In	1
Apr. 28—Knocking the H— Out of Heinie	1
Apr. 21—A Sweet Pickle	1
Apr. 14—Twinkle, Twinkle	1
Apr. 7—It Beats the Dutch	1
Mar. 31—Where Are the Papers?	1
Mar. 24—Snappy Cheese	1

BRUCE SCENICS

18—Scenic Succotash	1
17—The Lonesome Pup	1
16—Frozen Thrills	1
15—Men Met in the Mountains	1
14—Nature—Hot and Cold	1
13—Horizon Hunters	1
12—Sundown	1
11—The Pale Pack Train	1
10—The Tides of Yesterday	1

EXHIBITORS MUTUAL EXCHANGES

ROBERTSON-COLE PRODUCTIONS

June —Bare Fisted Gallagher (William Desmond)	5
June —Broken Threads (Bessie Barriscale)	5
June —The Man Who Turned White (H. B. Warner)	5
June —In Search of Arcady (Billie Rhodes)	5
May —His Debt (Sessue Hayakawa)	5
May —Just Squaw (Beatriz Michelena)	5
May —The Mint of Hell (William Desmond)	5
May —Josselyn's Wife (Bessie Barriscale)	5
Apr. —Modern Husbands (Henry B. Walthall)	5
Apr. —The Love Call (Billie Rhodes)	5
Apr. —The Courageous Coward (Sessue Hayakawa)	5
Apr. —Diane of the Green Van (Alma Rubens)	5
Mar. —Hearts Asleep (Bessie Barriscale)	5
Mar. —The Turn in the Road (Special Cast)	5
Mar. —A Heart in Pawn (Sessue Hayakawa)	5
Mar. —The Lamb and the Lion (Billie Rhodes)	5

STRAND COMEDIES

June 1—Hearts and Hats (Elinor Field)	1
May 25—For Love of Betty (Elinor Field)	1
May 18—Three in a Row (Elinor Field)	1
May 11—Nobody's Baby (Elinor Field)	1
May 4—His Scarlet Past (Elinor Field)	1
Mar. 23—The Way of a Maid	1
Mar. 16—His Wife's Birthday	1
Mar. 9—The Door Between	1
Mar. 2—The Wig-Wag System (Elinor Field)	1

ROTHACKER OUTDOORS

Apr. 6—A Palestine Pilgrimage	1
Mar. 30—Glimpsing the Gondolas	1
Mar. 23—'Mid Sahara's Sands	1
Mar. 16—In Pyramid Land	1
Mar. 9—An Eyeful of Egypt	1
Mar. 2—Columbia Highway	1
Feb. 23—A Peek at Paradise	1
Feb. 16—Out Wyoming Way	1
Feb. 9—A Bit of God's Country	1
Feb. 2—Doing the Dells	1

FAMOUS PLAYERS—LASKY EXCHANGES

ARTCRAFT

June 22—The Avalanche (Elsie Ferguson)	5
June 15—Square Deal Sanderson (Wm. S. Hart)	5
June 1—The Splendid Romance (Enrico Caruso)	5
June 1—True Heart Susie (D. W. Griffith's)	5

PARAMOUNT

June 29—The Rose of Granada (Lina Cavalieri)	5
June 29—Girls (Marguerite Clark)	5
June 22—A Daughter of the Wolf (Lila Lee)	5
June 22—Hay Foot Straw Foot (Charles Ray)	5
June 15—Other Men's Wives (Dorothy Dalton)	5
June 8—An Innocent Adventuress (Vivian Martin)	5
June 8—Men, Women and Money (Ethel Clayton)	5
June 8—You're Fired (Wallace Reid)	5
June 1—Putting It Over (Bryant Washburn)	5

PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT SPECIALS

June 29—The White Heather (Maurice Tourneur's)	5
June 15—Secret Service (Robert Warwick)	5

SUCCESS SERIES (Re-Issues)

June 29—Warrens of Virginia (Special Cast)	5
June 22—Redemption of David Carson (Wm. Farnum)	5
June 15—Behind the Scenes (Mary Pickford)	5
June 8—Still Waters (Marguerite Clark)	5
June 1—Great Expectations (Louise Huff-Jack Pickford)	5

TWO REEL COMEDIES

June 29—The "Con" in Economy (Jas. Mont. Flagg)	2
June 22—Hearts and Flowers (Mack Sennett's)	2
June 15—A Desert Hero ("Fatty" Arbuckle)	2
June 8—No Mother To Guide Him (Mack Sennett's)	2
June 1—Squared (Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew)	2

SINGLE REELS

June 29—Plant Growth (Bray Pictograph)	1
June 29—Chateau Thierry and Beyond (Burton Holmes)	1
June 22—Mysteries of Snow (Bray Pictograph)	1
June 22—Frocks and Frills of the Filipinos (Burton Holmes)	1
June 15—Beans (Bray Pictographs)	1
June 15—From the Timber of the Piave (Burton Holmes)	1
June 8—Bird of Commerce (Bray Pictograph)	1
June 8—The Silken Cities of Suwa-ko (Burton Holmes)	1
June 1—American in the Making (Bray Pictographs)	1
June 1—With Uncle Sam's Sumbarine Chasers (Burton Holmes)	1

FILM CLEARING HOUSE EXCHANGES

INDEPENDENT SALES CORPORATION

Mar. —The Littlest Scout (Blackton Production)	5
Dec. —Wanted for Murder (Elaine Hammerstein)	6
Dec. —A Romance in the Air (Bert Hall-Edith Day)	6

TEN-TWENTY-THIRTY SERIES

Apr. —When a Woman Strikes (Ben Wilson-Rosemary Theby)	5
Apr. —When My Ship Comes In (aJne Grey)	5
Mar. —Suspense (Mollie King)	5
Dec. —Her Mistake (Julius Steger Production)	6
Dec. —Life's Greatest Problem (Blackton Production)	6
Dec. —A Woman's Experience (Bacon-Backer Production)	6

SHERRY SERVICE, WILLIAM L.

Mar. 9—Marriage for Convenience (Catherine Calvert)	6
Mar. 2—Love and the Law (Edgar Lewis Production)	6
Feb. 23—Twilight (Doris Kenyon)	6
Feb. 16—Calibre 38 (Edgar Lewis Production)	6
Feb. 2—The Son of a Gun (G. M. Anderson)	5
Jan. 5—Wild Honey (Doris Kenyon)	6

BURLINGHAM TRAVEL PICTURES (Sherry Service)

The Gornergrat Railway	1
Lovely Lucerne	1
The Riviera of Lake Leman	1
Scrambles in the High Alps	1
Allied War Heroes Arrive in Switzerland	1
The Pilatus Railway	1
Unknown Switzerland (The Lotschenthal)	1
Facing Death on the Blumlisalp	1

FIRST NATIONAL EXCHANGES

June 22—Bill Apperson's Boy (Jack Pickford)	6
June 21—Sunnyside (Charles Chaplin)	3
Auction of Souls	8
Daddy Long Legs (Mary Pickford)	7
Mary Regan (Anita Stewart)	6
Whom the Gods Would Destroy	7
Mar. 10—A Midnight Romance (Anita Stewart)	5
Feb. 3—Our Teddy (Roosevelt Pictures)	5
Jan. 5—Virtuous Wives (Anita Stewart)
The Romance of Tarzan (Elmo Lincoln)
Shoulder Arms (Charlie Chaplin)	3
Italy's Flaming Front (Italian Official War Pictures)
Pershing's Crusaders (Official Government Feature)
My Four Years in Germany (Ambassador Gerard's)

Advance Information on All Film Releases

(Continued from preceding page)

FLORIDA FILM CORPORATION

(At State Right Exchanges)

June —Hot Sands and Cold Feet	2
June —His Muzzled Career	2
May —With the Moonshine on the Wabash	2
May —His Concrete Dome	2
Apr. —Fred's Fictitious Foundling	2
Apr. —Fabulous Fortune Fumblers	2

FOX FILM EXCHANGES

STANDARD PICTURES

June 29—The Lone Star Ranger (William Farnum)	5
June 15—My Little Sister (Evelyn Nesbit)	5
June 1—A Woman There Was (Theda Bara)	5
May 18—A Fallen Idol (Evelyn Nesbit)	5
May 4—The Siren's Song (Theda Bara)	5
Apr. 20—The Jungle Trail (William Farnum)	5
Mar. 23—Thou Shalt Not (Evelyn Nesbit)	5
Mar. 9—When Men Desire (Theda Bara)	5

VICTORY PICTURES

Aug. 3—The Seventh Person (George Walsh)	5
July 20—The Sneak (Gladys Brockwell)	5
July 6—The Wilderness Trail (Tom Mix)	5
June 22—Putting One Over (George Walsh)	5
May 25—The Divorce Trap (Gladys Brockwell)	5
May 11—The Coming of the Law (Tom Mix)	5
Apr. 27—Help! Help! Police! (George Walsh)	5
Apr. 13—Pitfalls of a Big City (Gladys Brockwell)	5
Mar. 30—Fighting for Gold (Tom Mix)	5
Mch. 16—Never Say Quit (George Walsh)	5
Mch. 2—The Forbidden Room (Gladys Brockwell)	5

EXCEL PICTURES

June 29—Be a Little Sport (Albert Ray)	5
June 15—Cowardice Court (Peggy Hyland)	5
June 6—When Fate Decides (Madlaine Traverse)	5
May 18—Words and Music By—(Albert Ray)	5
May 4—Miss Adventure (Peggy Hyland)	5
Apr. 20—The Love that Dares (Madlaine Traverse)	5
Apr. 6—Married in Haste (Albert Ray)	5
Mar. 23—The Rebellious Bride (Peggy Hyland)	5
Mar. 9—Gambling in Souls (Madlaine Traverse)	5

PRODUCTIONS EXTRAORDINARY

Salome (Theda Bara)	8
Cleopatra (Theda Bara)	8
Les Miserables (William Farnum)	8

SUNSHINE AND TOM MIX COMEDIES

July 6—The Merry Jailbirds	2
June 15—Dabbling in Society	2
May 25—Virtuous Husbands	2
May 11—A Soft Tenderfoot (Tom Mix)	2
Apr. 20—The House of Terrible Scandals	2
Apr. 6—Tom and Jerry Mix	2
Mch. 23—Money Talks	2
Mch. 9—Six-Cylinder Love (Tom Mix)	2

MUTT AND JEFF CARTOONS

July 13—Down Stairs and Up	½
July 6—Look Pleasant, Please	½
June 29—A Prize Fight	½
June 22—Pets and Pests	½
June 15—Sweet Papa	½
June 8—Hands Up	½
June 1—Oh Teacher	½
May 25—The Shell Game	½
May 18—Left at the Post	½
May 11—Sir Sidney	½
May 4—The Cave Man's Bride	½
Apr. 27—Seeing Things	½
Apr. 20—Pigtails and Peaches	½

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

(At State Right Exchanges)

Once to Every Man (Jack Sherrill)
My Own United States (Special Cast)	Through Metro
God's Man (H. B. Warner)	9

GARSON-NEILAN PRODUCTIONS

(Producing for Open Market)

The Unpardonable Sin (Blanche Sweet)	9
The Hushed Hour (Blanche Sweet)

GAUMONT COMPANY

(At State Right Exchanges)

Tuesdays—Gaumont News	1
Fridays—Gaumont Graphic	1
The Real Roosevelt	2
Satan on Earth	2
The Hand of Vengeance (Serial of ten two-reel episodes)	2

GOLDWYN EXCHANGES

STAR SERIES

June 22—The City of Comrades (Tom Moore)	5
June 8—The Fear Woman (Pauline Frederick)	5
May 25—When Doctors Disagree (Mabel Normand)	5
May 18—The Crimson Gardenia (Rex Beach's)	6
May 11—Leave It to Suson (Madge Kennedy)	5
May 4—One of the Finest (Tom Moore)	5
Apr. 27—The Stronger Vow (Geraldine Farrar)	6
Apr. 20—The Pest (Mabel Normand)	5
Apr. 13—One Week of Life (Pauline Frederick)	5
Apr. 6—Spotlight Sadie (Mae Marsh)	5

BENNISON SERIES

May 11—The Road Called Straight (Louis Bennison)	5
Mar. 23—Speedy Meade (Louis Bennison)	5
Jan. 5—Oh, Johnny (Louis Bennison)	5

SPECIALS

The Eternal Magdalene	6
The Border Legion (Blanche Bates-Hobart Bosworth)	6
For the Freedom of the World	7
The Manx-Man	7
Social Ambition	7
Honor's Cross	7

CAPITOL COMEDIES

June 15—A Wonderful Night ("Smiling Bill" Parsons)	2
June 1—In a Pinch (Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven)	2
May 18—Circumstantial Evidence ("Smiling Bill" Parsons)	2
May 4—The Sea Wolf ("Smiling Bill" Parsons)	2
Apr. 20—Wanted—A Baby ("Smiling Bill" Parsons)	2

FORD EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY

June 8—The Only Way	1
June 1—The Land of the Ukulele	1
May 25—From Mud Dog	1
May 18—A Wild Goose Chase	1
May 11—Can the Poor Fish	1
May 4—Going Up	1
Apr. 27—A Visit to New Orleans	1
Apr. 20—Good Roads	1
Apr. 13—Northern Sports Under Southern Skies	1

HILLER AND WILK, INC.

(Pictures Handled in the Open Market)'

The Silent Mystery (Francis Ford Serial)

Twenty-eight Triangle re-issues starring William S. Hart, Norma Talmadge, Douglas Fairbanks and Frank Keenan to state right buyers.

The Wrath of the Gods
The Battle of Gettysburg
Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman

MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS

Sporting Life (Paramount-Artcraft Special)
Woman
The White Heather
My Lady's Garter
Broken Butterfly
Romany Rye

HODKINSON CORPORATION, W. W.

(See Pathe Exchanges)

May 4—The Best Man (J. Warren Kerrigan)	5
Apr. 20—As a Man Thinks (Leah Baird)	5
Apr. 6—Thunderbolts of Fate (House Peters-Anna Lehr)	5
Mar. 24—The End of the Game (J. Warren Kerrigan)	5
Mar. 10—The Forfeit (House Peters)	5

INDEPENDENT SALES CORPORATION

(See Film Clearing House Exchanges)

IVAN FEATURE PRODUCTIONS

(At State Right Exchanges)

Life or Honor (Leah Baird-James Morrison)	7
Human Clay (Mollie King)	5

KLEINE SYSTEM, GEORGE

(See World Film Exchanges)

KREMER FILM FEATURES, VICTOR

(Released on States Rights Basis)

Denny From Ireland (Shorty Hamilton)	5
The Snail (Shorty Hamilton)	5
The Ranger (Shorty Hamilton)	7
The Pen Vultur (Shorty Hamilton)	5

METRO EXCHANGES

June 23—One Thing at a Time O'Day (Bert Lytell)	5
June 16—Fools and Their Money (Emmy Wehlen)	5
June 9—Some Bride (Viola Dana)	5
June 2—Almost Married (May Allison)	5
May 26—Full of Pep (Hale Hamilton)	5
May 19—The Lion's Den (Bert Lytell)	5
May 12—Castles in the Air (May Allison)	5
May 5—The Amateur Adventuress (Emmy Wehlen)	5
Apr. 28—After His Own Heart (Hale Hamilton)	5
Apr. 21—False Evidence (Viola Dana)	5
Apr. 14—Blackie's Redemption (Bert Lytell)	5
Apr. 7—The Island of Intrigue (May Allison)	5
Mar. 31—The Parisian Tigress (Viola Dana)	5
Mar. 24—That's Good (Hale Hamilton)	5

NAZIMOVA PRODUCTIONS

The Red Lantern (Nazimova)	7
Out of the Fog (Nazimova)	7
Eye for Eye (Nazimova)	7
Toys of Fate (Nazimova)	7
Revelation (Nazimova)	7

SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS

A Man of Honor (Harold Lockwood)	5
Shadow's of Suspicion (Harold Lockwood)	5
The Great Romance (Harold Lockwood)	6
Why Germany Must Pay (Special Cast)	6
The Great Victory (Special Cast)	6
Pals First (Harold Lockwood)	6

Advance Information on All Film Releases

(Continued from preceding page)

OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES

(At State Right Exchanges)

18—Mr. Outing Climbs Aboard	1
17—Picking After Pizarro	1
16—Here Comes the Groom	1
15—Wrangling Dudes	1
14—Where the Screen Tree Grows	1
13—Getting Gay with Neptune	1
12—Out-Columbusing Columbus	1
11—Itasca Makes Her Bow	1
10—Cameraring Through Africa (Thrill 2)	1
9—Cameraring Through Africa (Thrill 1)	1
8—Mr. Outing Floats a Dream	1
7—Up in the Air After Alligators	1

PATHE EXCHANGES

June 29—The Profiteers (Fannie Ward)	5
June 22—Oh Boy (Creighton Hale-June Caprice)	6
June 15—The Little Diplomat (Baby Marie Osborne)	5
June 8—The Bishop's Emeralds (Virginia Pearson)	6
June 1—All Wrong (Bryant Washburn)	5
May 25—The Master Man (Frank Keenan)	5
May 18—Caleb Piper's Girl (Helene Chadwick)	5
May 4—The Cry of the Weak (Fannie Ward-Frank Elliott)	5
Apr. 27—The Unknown Love (Dolores Cassinelli-E. K. Lincoln)	6
Apr. 20—The Sawdust Doll (Baby Marie Osborne)	5
Apr. 6—The Silver Girl (Frank Keenan)	5

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC.

June 15—Trixie from Broadway (Margarita Fisher)	5
June 1—A Bachelor's Wife (Mary Miles Minter)	5
May 18—Some Liar (William Russell)	5
May 4—Charge It to Me (Margarita Fisher)	5
Apr. 13—The Intrusion of Isabel (Mary Miles Minter)	5
Mar. 30—Brass Buttons (William Russell)	5
Mar. 16—Put Up Your Hands (Margarita Fisher)	5
Mar. 2—Where the West Begins (William Russell)	5

ROLIN COMEDIES

June 29—Spring Fever (Lloyd, Pollard, Daniels)	1
June 22—Off the Trolley (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)	1
June 15—Swat, the Crook (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)	1
June 8—Pistols for Breakfast (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)	1
June 1—Back to the Woods (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)	1
May 25—The Marathon (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)	1
May 18—Before Breakfast (Lloyd, Pollard, Daniels)	1
May 11—Si, Senor (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)	1
May 4—Young Mr. Jazz (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)	1
Apr. 27—Ring up the Curtain (Lloyd-Daniels-Polard)	1
Apr. 20—Crack Your Heels (Lloyd-Pollard-Daniels)	1
Apr. 13—Just Dropped In (Harold Lloyd)	1
Apr. 6—A Sammy in Siberia (Harold Lloyd)	1

TWO-REEL SPECIALS

May 11—His Vampy Ways (Walter Hall Comedy)	2
Jan. 19—Corinne, Come Here (Gloria Joy)	2

THE TIGER'S TRAIL (Serial)

(Starring Ruth Roland and George Larkin; Astra)

June 29—Eleventh, In the Breakers	2
June 22—Tenth, Bringing in the Law	2
June 15—Ninth, the Missing Heir	2
June 8—Eighth, Danger Ahead	2
June 1—Seventh, The Flaming Waters	2
May 25—Sixth, The Secret Assassin	2
May 18—Fifth, The Tiger Trap	2
May 11—Fourth, Danger Signals	2
May 4—Third, The Human Chain	2
Apr. 27—Second, The Glowing Eyes	2
Apr. 20—First, The Tiger Worshippers	3

THE LIGHTNING RAIDER (Serial)

(Fifteen Two-Reel Episodes Astra Serial Starring Pearl White, Warner Oland, Henry Gsell)

Apr. 13—Fifteenth, Wu Fang Atones	2
Apr. 6—Fourteenth, Cleared of Guilt	2
Mar. 30—Thirteenth, the White Roses	2
Mar. 23—Twelfth, Hurled Into Space	2
Mar. 16—Eleventh, The Bars of Death	2
Mar. 9—Tenth, The Baited Trap	2
Mar. 2—Ninth, Falsely Accused	2

THE TERROR OF THE RANGE (Serial)

(Seven Two-Reel Episodes Starring George Larkin and Bessie Compson; Produced by Diando)

Mch. 16—Seventh, Run to Earth	2
Mch. 9—Sixth, Tangled Tales	2
Mch. 2—Fifth, A Threat from the Past	2
Feb. 23—Fourth, The Midnight Raid	2
Feb. 16—Third, The Chasm of Fear	2
Feb. 9—Second, The Hidden Chart	2
Feb. 2—First, Prowlers of the Night	2

NEWS REELS

Sundays—Topics of the Day
Wednesdays—Pathe News	1
Saturdays—Pathe News	1

PIONEER FILM CORPORATION

(At State Right Exchanges)

The Boomerang (Henry B. Walthall)
Virtuous Sinners (Wanda Hawley & Norman Kerry)
Sins of the Children (Alma Hanlon and Stuart Holmes)
Wives of Men (Florence Reed)

RAVER PRODUCTIONS, HARRY

(At State Right Exchanges)

—The Liberator (Maciste Serial)

SELECT EXCHANGES

June —His Bridal Night (Alice Brady)	5
June —Happiness a la Mode (Constance Talmadge)	5
June —Upstairs and Down (Olive Thomas)	5
May —Jacques of the Silver North (Mitchell Lewis)	5
May —The New Moon (Norma Talmadge)	6
Apr. —Red Head (Alice Brady)	5
Apr. —The Veiled Adventure (Constance Talmadge)	5
Apr. —Marrying Mary (Marion Davies)	5
Mar. —The Probation Wife (Norma Talmadge)
Mar. —Marie Ltd. (Alice Brady)	5
Mar. —Experimental Marriage (Constance Talmadge)	5
Feb. —The World to Live In (Alice Brady)	5
Feb. —Children of Banishment (Mitchell Lewis)	5

SPECIALS

Break the News to Mother (Special Cast)	6
The Hidden Truth (Anna Case)	5
Ruling Passions (Julia Dean-Edwin Arden)	5
The Midnight Patrol (Ince Production)	5
The Cavell Case (Julia Arthur)	5
The One Woman (Special Cast)	6

S-L PICTURES

(At State Right Exchanges)

Virtuous Men (E. K. Lincoln) Ralph Ince Attraction

SHERRY SERVICE, WILLIAM L.

(See Film Clearing House Exchanges)

SOUTHERN FEATURE FILM COMPANY

(At State Rights Exchanges)

Beyond the Law (Emmett Dalton)	6

STATE RIGHT EXCHANGES

DOLL VAN FILM CORPORATION (CHICAGO)

(In Illinois, Indiana and Southern Wisconsin)

The Mad Lover
Public Defender
Carmen of the Klondike
The Grain of Dust
Hearts of the World
The Crucible of Life
Nine-tenths of the Law
The Belgian
The Zeppelin's Last Raid
Those Who Pay
Just a Woman

DOO LEE FILM COMPANY, INC. (NEW YORK STATE)

May 1—The Window Opposite (Leah Baird)	7
Apr. 15—His Daughter Pays (Gertrude McCoy)	6
The Woman Who Dared	7
The Libertine	6
Babbling Tongues	7
Married in Name Only	6
Her Bargain	6
A Man's Law	5
Human Clay	5
One Law for Both	8
Sins of Ambition	7
A Slacker's Heart	7
Cleopatra	5
The Lonesome Trail	5
Mothers of Liberty	6
Jester Comedies (Twede Dan), one a week	2
The Silent Mystery (Serial in Fifteen Two-Reel Episodes (Francis Ford, Mae Gaston and Rosemary Theby
Two-Reel Western Dramas (Ann Little-Jack Richardson), one a week
June 8—The Winning Loser	2
June 1—The Recognition	2
May 25—The Law of Hate	2
May 18—The Range Rider	2
May 11—The Fatal Return	2
May 4—A Canyon Romance	2
Apr. 27—Western Honor	2
Apr. 20—Prodigal Love	2
Apr. 13—Luxury's Lure	2

TRIANGLE EXCHANGES

June 29—Dombey and Son (Special Cast)	6
June 22—Upside Down (Taylor Holmes Special)	5
June 15—Lady Windemere's Fan (Oscar Wilde Play)	5
June 8—Love's Prisoner (Olive Thomas Special)	6
June 1—The Root of Evil (Frances Mann-Philip Yale Drew)	5
May 25—Mayor of Filbert (Belle Bennett-Special)	8
May 18—The Water Lily (Alice Mann)	5
May 11—Taxi (Taylor Holmes Special)	5
May 4—A Place in the Sun (Margaret Blanche and English Cast)	5
Apr. 27—The Follies Girl (Olive Thomas Special)	5
Apr. 20—Devil M'Care (Crane Wilbur)	5
Apr. 13—A Regular Fellow (Taylor Holmes Special)	5
Apr. 6—Democracy (Jack Conway-Marguerite Marsh)	5

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES

(See World Film Exchanges)

Advance Information on All Film Releases

(Continued from preceding page)

UNIVERSAL EXCHANGES

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

The Weaker Vessel (Mary MacLaren)	6
The Sleeping Lion (Monroe Salisbury)	6
Pretty Smooth (Priscilla Dean)	6
Riders of Vengeance (Harry Carey)	6
The Big Little Person (Mae Murray)	6
The Unpainted Woman (Mary McLaren)	6
The Blinding Trail (Monroe Salisbury)	6
The Delicious Little Devil (Mae Murray)	6
Bare Fists (Harry Carey)	6
The Exquisite Thief (Priscilla Dean)	6
Fire Flingers (Rupert Julian)	6
What Am I Bid (Mae Murray)	6

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.

June 16—A Star Over Night (David Belasco-S. W. W. R.)	2
June 2—Destiny (Dorothy Phillips)	6
Feb. 10—The Heart of Humanity (Dorothy Phillips)	9

I-KO COMEDIES

June 30—The Spotted Nag (Lois Neilson-Harry Keston)	2
June 18—Beauty and the Boob (Alice Howell)	2
June 11—Nellie's Naughty Border (Dot Farley)	2
May 21—His Wicked Eyes (Dan Russell)	2
May 14—In Bad All Around (Eva Novak-Hughie Mack)	2
May 7—Good Night Turk (Charlie of the Orient)	2
Apr. 30—Sambo's Wedding Day	2
Apr. 16—Let Fido Do It	2
Apr. 9—A Movie Riot (Charlie of the Orient)	2
Apr. 2—A Skate at Sea (Dorety-Novak-Reynolds)	2

CENTURY COMEDIES

June 25—Howling Lions and Circus Queens (Dot Farley)	2
May 28—Frisky Lions and Wicked Husbands	2
Apr. 23—Looney Lions and Monkey Business (Animal Comedy)	2

STAR COMEDIES

June 30—Happy Returns (Neal Burns)	1
June 23—A Model Husband (Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran)	1
June 16—Stop, Cease, Hesitate (Neal Burns)	1
June 9—All in the Swim	1
June 2—Miss Wives	1
May 26—Taking Things Easy	1
May 19—Three in a Closet	1
May 12—The Bullshiviks	1
May 5—Fun in a Flat	1
Apr. 28—The Expert Eloper	1
Apr. 21—Scared Stiff	1
Apr. 14—Skidding Thrones	1
Apr. 7—State Room Secrets	1

EDDIE POLO SERIES

June 30—Down But Not Out	2
June 23—The Missing Bullet	2
June 16—Cyclone Smith Plays Trump	2
June 9—A Pistol Point Proposal	2
June 2—Cyclone Smith's Come-back	2
May 26—The Wild Rider	2
May 19—A Phantom Fugitive	2
May 12—A Prisoner For Life	2

WESTERN AND RAILROAD DRAMAS

June 30—The Four Gun Bandit (Pete Morrison)	2
June 28—The Captive Bride (Pete Morrison)	2
June 21—Kingdom Come (Morrison-Sedgewick)	2
June. 14—The Last Outlaw (Ed. Jones-Billie Hutton)	2
June 7—Ace High (Pete Morrison)	2
May 31—Two Men of Tinted Butte (Walt Whitman)	2
May 24—The Gun Packer (Pete Morrison)	2
May 17—Lone Larry (Benedict Sedgwick)	2
May 10—Gun Law (Pete Morrison)	2
May 3—The Raid (Neal Hart)	2
Apr. 26—The Rustlers (Pete Morrison)	2
Apr. 19—The Honor of Men (Neal Hart)	2
Apr. 12—By Indian Post (Pete Morrison)	2
Apr 5—Bill Brennan's Claim (Neal Hart)	2

ELMO THE MIGHTY (Serial)

(Fifteen Two-Reel Episodes Starring Elmo Lincoln)

June 30—Third, Flames of Hate	2
June 23—Second, Buried Alive	2
June 16—First, The Mystery of Mad Mountain	2

THE RED GLOVE (Serial)

(Eighteen Two-Reel Episodes Starring Marie Walcamp)

June 30—Sixteenth, In Deadly Peril	2
June 23—Fifteenth, A Mysterious Message	2
June 16—Fourteenth, The Lost Millions	2
June 9—Thirteenth, Trapped	2
June 2—Twelfth, In Death's Grip	2
May 26—Eleventh, Through Fire and Water	2
May 19—Tenth, Out of Death's Shadow	2
May 12—Ninth, A Leap for Life	2
May 5—Eighth, Facing Death	2
Apr. 28—Seventh, A Desperate Chance	2
Apr. 21—Sixth, The Flames of Death	2
Apr. 14—Fifth, At the Mercy of the Monster	2
Apr. 7—Fourth, The Passing of Gentleman Yeoff	2
Mar. 31—Third, The Vulture's Vengeance	2
Mar. 24—Second, The Claws of the Vulture	2
Mch. 17—First. The Pool of Mystery	2

NEWS AND MAGAZINE REELS

Mondays —Hearst News (International)	1
Wednesdays—International News	1
Fridays —Current Events (International)	1
Fridays —New Screen Magazine (Universal)	1

VITAGRAPH EXCHANGES

The Hornet's Nest (Earle Williams)	5
Cupid Forecloses (Bessie Love)	5
A Girl at Bay (Corinne Griffith)	5
The Spark Divine (Alice Joyce)	5
Beauty Proof (Harry T. Morey)	5
Too Many Crooks (Gladys Leslie)	5
A Rogue's Romance (Earle Williams)	5
The Little Boss (Bessie Love)	5
Thin Ice (Corinne Griffith)	5
Beating the Odds (Harry Morey)	5
A Stitch in Time (Gladys Leslie)	5
The Usurper (Earle Williams)	5
A Yankee Princess (Bessie Love)	5

VITAGRAPH SPECIALS

The Painted World (Anita Stewart)	5
The Third Degree (Alice Joyce)	7
Two Women (Anita Stewart)	5
From Headquarters (Special-Anita Stewart)	5
The Lion and the Mouse (Special-Alice Joyce)	6
The Common Cause (Rawlinson-Breamer)	7

BIG V SPECIAL COMEDIES

Harems and Hokum (Montgomery and Rock)	2
Healthy and Happy (James Aubrey)	2
Tootsies and Tamales (James Aubrey)	2
Fares and Fair Ones (Montgomery and Rock)	2

LARRY SEMON COMEDIES

His Home, Sweet Home	2
The Star Boarder	2
Passing the Buck	2

PERILS OF THUNDER MOUNTAIN

(Fifteen Two-Reel Episodes Starring Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway)

Fifteenth, Fate's Verdict	2
Fourteenth, The Hut of Disaster	2
Thirteenth, The River of Dread	2
Twelfth, The Rushing Horror	2
Eleventh, In the Ocean's Grip	2
Tenth, The Flaming Sacrifice	2
Ninth, Prisoner of the Deep	2
Eighth, The Iron Clutch	2
Seventh, The Lightning Lure	2
Sixth, The Tree of Tortune	2
Fifth, The Cliff of Treachery	2
Fourth, Cave of Terror	2
Third, The Teeth of Steel	2
Second, The Bridge Trap	2

WARREN, EDWARD, PRODUCTIONS, INC.

(At State Right Exchanges)

Weavers of Life
Souls Redeemed

WESTERN IMPORT COMPANY

(At State Right Exchanges)

Mickey (Mabel Normand)

WORLD FILM EXCHANGES

July 7—The American Way (Arthur Ashley-Dorothy Green)	5
June 30—Home Wanted (Madge Evans)	5
June 23—Love and the Woman (June Elvidge)	5
June 16—The Devil's Trail (Betty Compson-George Larkin)	5
June 9—Through the Toils (Montagu Love)	5
June 2—Phil for Short (Evelyn Greeley)	5
May 26—The Amateur Widow (Zena Keefe)	5
May 19—The Unwritten Code (Shirley Mason)	5
May 12—The Social Pirate (June Elvidge)	5
May 5—Ginger (Violet Palmer)	5
Apr. 28—Three Green Eyes (All Star Cast)	5
Apr. 21—The Quickening Flame (Montagu Love-June Elvidge)	5
Apr. 14—The Scar (Kitty Gordon-Irving Cummings)	5
Apr. 7—The Little Intruder (Louise Huff-Johnny Hines)	5

SPECIALS

Mar. 16—The Better 'Ole	7
Feb. 10—What Shall We Do With Him?	5
Jan. 6—Under Four Flags (Official Government Picture)	5

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES

—The Woman Under Oath (Florence Reed)	5
—A Man's Fight (Dustin Farnum)	5
June 8—Playthings of Passion (Kitty Gordon)	5
Apr. 13—Her Code of Honor (Florence Reed)	5
Feb. 23—A Man in the Open (Dustin Farnum)	6
Jan. 26—Adele (Kitty Gordon)	6
Jan. 5—The Light of Western Stars (Dustin Farnum)	6

NEW REELS

Tuesdays—Kinograms	1
Saturdays—Kinograms	1

KLEINE SYSTEM, GEORGE

Triple Trouble (Charley Chaplin)
Behind the Lines in Italy
Conquered Hearts

THE WILLIAMS PRINTING COMPANY, NEW YORK

Simplex

AN OPEN STATEMENT
TO
EXHIBITORS AND PROJECTIONISTS

NOT EGOTISM—
BUT CONFIDENCE IN OUR PRODUCT PROMPTS US TO WRITE THE FOLLOWING ADVERTISEMENT

If you are undecided in the choice of your next Projector why not solve the question through a source entirely apart from the Manufacturer or Distributor—

Why not do the following—?

FIRST Select the best mechanical engineer in your community; take him wherever a Simplex is available, ask him to examine its material, construction and principle.

AND THEN Go to any Theatre using Simplex (it don't matter whether it's the finest on Broadway or the little village opera house). Find out why Simplex was selected—how it works—the cost of its maintenance.

AND THEN Find out why Griffith, DeMille, Ince and other producers choose only Simplex for their stellar productions.

AND THEN Inquire throughout your neighborhood how many Simplexes have ever been replaced.

AND THEN

WE'RE QUITE CONFIDENT THAT THE RESULTS OF YOUR PRIVATE INVESTIGATIONS WILL PROVE TO YOU THAT THE SIMPLEX IS THE BEST PROJECTION ROOM INVESTMENT.

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th: St— New York

HARRY CAREY

in

"Riders of Vengeance"

Harry Carey is coming fast—perhaps faster than you have any idea.

The evidence is complete and convincing, proven by the applause Carey received in "BARE FISTS" in every city, town, village and hamlet throughout the country. Carey's quiet, easy going mannerisms have registered with every type of audience, and his pictures are growing in popularity every minute.

If you haven't played "BARE FISTS" see it at your nearest Universal Exchange and you'll book it . . . then follow it up with "RIDERS OF VENGEANCE" and make a double clean up.

It's a typical Harry Carey story, cast, action and high character photoplay entertainment.

That's precisely what you're selling.

Book Thru Your Nearest Universal Exchange

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
0 007 551 513 3